

Order of November 7

I realize that whoever is elected

I realize that whoever is elected Grand Master of a Jurisdiction assumes the most exacting position in all Masonry. In that office is involved the cares, the duties and the difficulties of the whole craft. Many things, therefore, doubtless will and do come up that cause a Grand Master to be subject to much criticism--some to such extent that it is not of good taste. However, I have tried to meet all such circumstances with grace and affability.

Nov. 7 A.L. 5942, A.D. 1942

Mr. C. T. Culberson, R.W. Grand Sec'y,
Iowa City, Iowa.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Please furnish me with information required by inclosed letter as soon as possible.

You will please endorse all checks in your usual manner and under which write Payable to Dr. H. A. Martin, Grand Treasurer, and forward them to him. This will do away with your bank account and cashing of checks. Therefore you will draw out what moneys you have in the bank in Iowa City and send all but $25.00 to him, which you will retain as your contingent fund. This I expect to be complied with at an early date. Not only will this plan mean a saving to us in banking fees, but we can more readily ascertain how much money we have on hand at all times.

With best wishes to you and yours, I remain

Fraternally and sincerely yours,

(SEAL)

CARL M. MAYS, Grand Master

p.s. Don't forget to return inclosed letter to me when you send the information please.
