DISTINGUISHED IOWAN DEAD

On last Saturday night the sorry sad shocking news of the death of Hon. Johnathan Prentiss Dolliver, Senior United States Senator from Iowa, died at his beautiful home in Ft. Dodge at 7:30, was flashed over the United States, and a nation paused and wept at the loss of so great and valuable a statesman to the American Nation. He was truly the most eloquent speaker and ready debator that America has yet produced. Coming from the common stock of Old Virginia; he like Lincoln, Garfield and Blaine, surmounted the obstacles of early life and triumph in the heart of his countrymen as a friend of the common people. He twice refused the Vice-Presidency of the United States, and just now he was rising in the zenith of his usefulness to be considered the logical candidate for the common people for the presidency in 1912. For thirty years his eloquent voice rang out in the American congress against the injustice done the colored race by the South. He met them in the clash of debate and was victorious; they feared him more than any one when they dare attempt to assail the equal rights of our race. He was a splendid christian gentleman; stood high in the councils of the Methodist Episcopal church.

This nation has lost her greatest statesman; the common people her greatest benefactor; Iowa her true and beloved son; and the world a truly great man. In this our most solemn hour of sorrow, we can say as the Apostle once said: "He has finished his course; He has fought a good fight; He has kept the faith."

Discrimination Rebuked.

It was indeed a good thing to our great State University that the football team was defeated last Saturday by the Missouri State University, at Columbia, Missouri, because the Missouri team would not allow Iowa to play one of her best men, who was on the regular team, simply because he was a colored man. It was good that those in authority at the Iowa athletics at Iowa City know that if Archie Alexander had been in the game, the result would have been different. A great University of education must be broad and liberal. Iowa ought to have stood out upon her true manhood and told those color prejudiced Missourians that Alexander was a regular member of our team and we will not have him ruled out just because he is colored. He is a man, a student, a citizen, and a gentleman of our state.

Below we publish a clipping from Iowa City admitting that the game was lost because Mr. Alexander was "side tracked."

Iowa City, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Coach Hawley began work today, with the biggest job of the year ahead of him—getting ready to meet Purdue, on October 22, at Iowa City. The Iowan's came out of the Missouri game in fair shape, although the tremendous heat of the southern city prostrated a half dozen of them, and Quarterback Curry was hurt, and carried unconscious for the field. The defeat of Iowa did not surprise the local followers of the game, and that closeness of the score was gratifying here. The team was weakened by the removal of Alexander, the colored tackle, whom the Missourians refused to admit to the gridiron. Alexander will be in the Purdue game, and will add strength to the line, which needed him badly in the game with the Tigers. It is believed the eleven will be in excellent form to meet the Indians eleven. Coach Hawley said today: "My eleven played good ball against Missouri, but they were outplayed at that but they were not disgraced, as at Northwestern, and I look for better things hence forth."

HON. JONATHAN P. DOLLIVER.

STATE AND NATION MOURNS LOSS

IN MIDST OF A MOST ACTIVE POLITICAL LIFE IOWA STATESMAN ANSWERS CALL OF GRIM REAPER.

"Senator Dolliver's death is a very great misfortune to the country, especially at this time. He was one of the public men whose character, ability and loyalty to the interest of the people I especially admired."

Theodore Roosevelt.

"In Mr. Dolliver, the senate has lost one of its ablest, most faithful statesmen, and the country a faithful public servant."

W. H. Taft.

Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver died at his residence at Fort Dodge at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, while one of his attending physicians was examining the distinguished statesman's heart with a stethoscope. His death followed an acute attack of stomach trouble which affected his heart. His physicians announced that his death was directly due to dilatation of the heart. Senator Dolliver had so far recovered his strength as to be able to walk about his lawn. He had been up all day, and Saturday night entered his sitting room for the daily consultation with his physician. The senator was sitting in a large Morris chair when the physician began the examination of his patient's heart.

The suddenness of Death. While making the examination the physician kept up a conversation with Senator Dolliver and asked him how he was feeling. "I am really feeling better than at any time since my recent sickness," he said. "But I suppose the wolves will be set howling about my successor," and the senator laughed. He had frequently expressed in a humorous manner, his opinion of having the people pick his successor while he was yet alive.

The physician continued his work with the stethoscope, counting the beats of the senator's heart out loud. He was frequently interrupted by Senator Dolliver with the declaration that he was unable to hear his own heart. When the physician had counted fourteen beats he informed the senator. "That's good," replied Mr. Dolliver, "the most I have been able to count was seven."

The physician continued the examination, and suddenly noticed that the heart beats had ceased. He shook his stethoscope, believing that it was defective in some way. Again applying his instrument, he discovered that the heart had ceased beating entirely. Upon looking into the senator's face, he discovered that death had overtaken him. He died without a struggle and without pain.

No one, with the exception of the physician, was in the room at the time of his death, Mrs. Dolliver having stepped out before the physician began his examination. Mrs. Dolliver was outside the door and was on the point of entering the room when death overtook her husband. The physician informed her simply that the senator had passed away during the examination. Ill for Over a Year. Senator Dolliver's illness dates back over a year and a half ago. Before going to Washington for the last session of congress, he had been slightly ill, but it was not regarded as especially serious.

Last spring he had trouble with his eye, and submitted to an operation. A few weeks later word was received in Fort Dodge that he was confined to his bed on account of illness, the exact nature of which was not made known. It was given out by his intimate friends that he was threatened with a general physical collapse. At the close of congress, Senator Dolliver announced that he would go to New Mexico to recuperate his health. He spent a few weeks in that state and returned to Iowa, declaring that Iowa climate was good enough for him and that he would remain in this state until congress convened again.

Senator Dolliver believed before the republican state convention in Iowa that he was in the best of health, and that his rest had restored his normal health. He was chosen permanent chairman of the convention.

His Campaign Work. At the beginning of Senator La Follette's campaign in Wisconsin, Senator Dolliver announced his intention of entering that state to assist his candidacy. In the meantime, however, he had some into Ohio and Indiana to investigate some records relative to the international rubber trust. He worked hard gathering his data, and this added work seemed to again affect his health.

Senator Dolliver made several speeches in Wisconsin in the interest of Senator La Follette's candidacy. At Milwaukee he was taken ill and returned to his home at Fort Dodge. His illness was not regarded as serious, however. About two weeks ago he went to Jewell Junction, Ia., on business, and while there he contracted a heavy cold. It was feared for a time that he had contracted pneumonia. He was unable to shake off his illness and a week ago he took to his bed.

Physicians diagnosed his case as stomach trouble, which interfered with his heart action.

Brief Review of His Career. Senator Dolliver was born near Kingwood, Preston county, Virginia (now West Virginia), Feb. 6, 1858. He graduated from the West Virginia university and at twenty was admitted to the bar.

The two brothers, Robert H. and Jonathan P., were graduated from the University of West Virginia in the same class in 1875. That summer J. P. Dolliver went to Sandwich, Ill., where he taught school the following winter in a country school, known as Victor Center. The next spring he returned to his home in West Virginia and spent a year in the study of law in the office of his uncle, John J. Brown, of Morgantown, returning the next fall to Sandwich, Ill., where he was principal of the high school. In the spring of 1878 the Dolliver boys invested all their money in law books and went to Fort Dodge, where they opened a law office. They were not denied that valuable schooling which comes from the struggle of vigorous youth to gain a professional footing with but small financial backing. They had the usual struggles, such as other young men under similar circumstances have had, but it was not long until the people of Fort Dodge

The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. A lace smuggler, who had concealed on his person 350 yards of lace, was detected because the inspectors noticed him perspiring, although it was a cool day. He should have foreseen this natural consequence of excessive excitement and packed a few loaves around him with the lace.

New York subway passengers now have fans, chewing gum and ice water, and are looking forward to the time when they will have seats.

Connecticut is having a "banner crop" of tobacco, and is rejecting over the big profit that will result. New Jersey has more peaches than the market can absorb. There have been big yields of other products. Any one who has entertained the fancy that the agricultural resources of the United States were exhausted is at liberty to guess again.

SENATOR BURIED

Jonathan P. Dolliver Laid to Rest Near Father's Grave

SERVICES HELD AT FT. DODGE

Two Methodist bishops, Governor Carroll, Senator Cummins and a number of others delivered eulogies.

Fort Dodge, Ia., Oct. 20.—Impressive services over the remains of Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver, who died Oct. 15, were held here this afternoon and the remains interred in a grave on the hillside in Oakland cemetery, near "Father" Dolliver's grave.

Committees from the United States Senate, the National House of Representatives, members of the Iowa House and Senate, state and city officials, and thousands of relatives and friends from all parts of the state and country, wended their way through the streets of Fort Dodge, out to Oakland cemetery to the north of the city, where sorrowing friends and fellow citizens of the deceased senator stood with bowed heads while the mortal remains of one of the foremost American citizens were laid away.

Eulogies.

Governor B. F. Carroll paid tribute to Senator Dolliver in behalf of the state of Iowa; Senator A. B. Cummins for the United States Senate; Geo. E. Roberts, of Washington and Fort Dodge, director of the mint, in behalf of the press; Rev. Robert Smylie, of Sioux City, in behalf of the Northwest Iowa Conference of the Methodist church; Rev. W. H. Spencer, of Ft. Dodge, on "The Senator's Relation to the Home Church"; Bishop William Fraser McDowell, of Chicago, on "A Fallen Leader," and Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of Philadelphia, on "The Laymen's Relation to the Church."

The active pallbearers were S. T. Meservy, secretary of the United States Gypsum company, Chicago; Postmaster A. R. Loomis, J. W. Campbell, S. J. Robertson, Edward Thompson, a farmer, who will move onto the Dolliver farm in the spring; Frank Gates, Otto Otosen, and E. M. Williams.

GOVERNOR CARROLL'S EULOGY.

All Iowa Glories in the Record of Achievement of Beloved Statesman.

Governor Carroll spoke as follows: "Nearly thirty years ago there came to our state from the hills of West Virginia a young man full of hope and full of promise. He was a university graduate, had been a school teacher and was admitted to the practice of law. Full of vigor of young manhood he located in Fort Dodge and engaged in the practice of his profession.

"He had not dwelt there long until it became apparent that he possessed more than the ordinary degree of mental activity and capacity. He soon took rank as a public speaker and was in great demand as such. As the years passed by he came to be recognized not only as a young man of unusual gifts and attainments, but was regarded as an orator of splendid ability.

"Public attention was directed to him and he was called upon to enter public life. He first became a member of the lower house of congress from the Tenth congressional district and was later transferred to the United States senate.

"In each of these positions he served his constituency and his country with marked ability and distinction. He grew in popular favor with the people of the lower country until his name became prominently mentioned for the highest office in the gift of the American people.

"An Apparent Giant.
"Strong in intellect, full of courage, apparently a physical giant, marching with steady tread upon his upward public career, it seemed that years of useful service were his.

"Today we come to pay our tribute of respect to this honored citizen of our commonwealth. Senator Dolliver has passed to the Great Beyond. We have come as representatives of our state and of the United States to place upon his bier the tokens of our respect and esteem, and to participate in these last sad rites.

"While we thus pause to mourn the loss of a great man and an able statesman, we can scarcely realize that he who but a few days ago seemed a tower of physical strength has been thus early stricken and removed.
"From the date of his advent into public life Senator Dolliver took easy

BANKRUPT SALE!

$69,000

M. LEVICH & COMPANY have recently purchased two immense stocks of high grade Mdse. and have placed all the stock in Des Moines, Iowa, 510 West Walnut St., one door east of Wabash R. R. office, and are to be sold at 33c on the dollar!

THESE MIGHTY PURCHASES HAVE BEEN MADE FROM THE FOLLOWING BANKRUPT CONCERNS:
One bankrupt stock of H. M. Stone, of 510 West Walnut, and one bankrupt stock of H. D. Wallace, of Chapman St., Denver, Colo. These stocks are all new and up-to-date and consist of Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Children's Ready-to-Wear Garmets of all kinds, and a complete line of Gents' fine Hats, Caps and Suit Cases, all placed in the large store formerly occupied by The All-American, at 510 West Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa.

"ALL AMERICAN" GOES INTO BANKRUPTCY TODAY.
Clothing Company Forced to the Wall by Creditors Though Assignment Was Made Yesterday.
Though an assignment was made yesterday for the benefit of creditors, those having claims against the All-American Clothing company forced it into involuntary bankruptcy this morning by filing a petition with W. C. McArthur, clerk of the federal court. The liabilities are listed at $15,938.80. The heaviest local creditor is F. Brody & Sons, with $1,377. Outside of Des Moines the largest amount owed is $1,552.50 to the Alschuler Dreyer company of Chicago. H. M. Stone is named as proprietor of the All-American Clothing company. Geo. N. Frink is selected as temporary receiver by the creditors.—Capital.

$69,000 WORTH of high grade merchandise of every known description for men, boys and children. A mighty gigantic carnival of Bargains, giving unequalled and unapproached values. A mighty purchase, the entire $69,000.00 of the Bankrupt Stocks at 510 West Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa. All to be placed into the homes of the people of Des Moines and vicinity at 33 cents on the dollar. These stocks are of reputable and reliable merchandise and have been combined and placed together with the enormous stock already at 510 West Walnut St. and merged into one grand offering, launching one of the largest sales we or anyone else ever heard of in the United States.

WARNING! BEWARE!
Do not confound this bonafide sale with other so-called Salvage Bankrupt or Special sale. It's an occasion, an opportunity so different, so extraordinary that even a comparison would be ridiculous. To dispose of the stock on hand quickly there is but one alternative: "Let the goods go for what they will bring."
Remember the place—
510 W. Walnut Street, Des Moines.
