PALACE BILLIARD AND POOL HALL

220 WEST THIRD STREET

(Successors to Andy Fulton.)

We desire to call the attention of the sporting class of young colored men that we have the best equipped Billiard and Pool Hall of any Negroes in the city. We have four brand new pool tables and one full size Wellington billiard table of the best quality. We have a full line of cigars and tobaccos, also cold pop, chewing gum and candies. We are running a clean, respectable place where even those who do not play, can come and watch those of superior ability, contest with each other. We, expect, in the near future, to put on one of the best Tournaments ever pulled off by Negroes in Iowa. Watch for special announcement in the next issue of this paper. We are going to open an information bureau for the benefit of Negroes, visiting the city so that they may be able to locate any person or place by simply coming to our place of business and making inquiry—there will be no charge for this service.

We also wish every secret society man in Iowa to make this his retreat, as nothing but the best of order will be preserved at all times. We are going to add a shining parlor to our business in the next few weeks.

We earnestly solicit your patronage and favor.

Very Sincerely yours,

Editors Observations

These observations should have been printed three weeks ago. They were written and manuscripted last week, but I will endeavor to re-write them once more.

St. Paul is a large city of fine buildings. While not founded by the Apostle Paul, yet named after him. We have about 6,000 colored people. Many are transient and railroad men; some making big money, but we fear are saving very little of it. Rev. H. P. Jones, one of the ablest ministers in the A. M. E. conference has charge of the church.

He is having crowded houses, as he is earnest, eloquent divine; able to grace any pulpit.

Rev. McDonald, a new man, is pastor of the Baptist church, while Father Lealed is rector of the Episcopal church. Mrs. Blanch Charleston, the Grand Matron of the court owns a beautiful home; so does Mr. Crawford. He has a beautiful home on Rondo street.

Mrs. K. C. Coleman, formerly Mrs. A. O. Smith of Des Moines is doing well. Mrs. Mattie Hick, the old Minneapolis Budgetarian writer will chronicle the St. Paul news this year. Lawyer F. L. McGee is doing well.

We next stopped in Dubuque and found Ed. Martin working at the Julian hotel. Mr. C. C. McGregor has bought a new home and moved from the boat house. Jim Martin is still at the Elk's club, Wm. Bolder is still with him. Uncle B. Johnson is working at the barber shop. He entertained my editor at dinner. Rev. B. F. Hubbard has charge of the A. M. E. church. He is a hardworking minister. J. M. Logan is still running a barber shop on Julian avenue. John C. Wells is working for the Electric Co. John Cockrane is still at the same place, Dr. Rose is at his post of duty. We next stop in Clinton for only a few hours, not long enough to give our readers any facts so as there is a good correspondent that keeps you in touch with Clinton. We observe nothing here. Passing down to the Parlor City, Cedar Rapids. Here we found W. H. Milligan in the midst of his cherry and berry picking season. All of his fruit was very good, as also all of his honey. Mr. Ed Marshall was busy in his line, carpet cleaning; as was also A. Perkins. Thos. Jackson is still in the tonsorship business. Wm. Robinson, a former Des Moines man, has bought a nice home at 1010 N. Eighth street. He is doing well. C. H. Searcy is still in the hack line business. Rev. A. Ford and Rev. R. Holly, both retired from the ministerial work from the A. M. E. church, are each living nicely and enjoying health. The former is an old soldier. The latter owns a thoroughbred colt. Rev. Farabee has charge of the A. M. E. church. Mrs. Brooks owns valuable property. She is a sister to the late Hon. John L. Waller. Mr. R. Hicks has been sick, but is up at work again. He owns several lots and is a hustler. Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle owns a nice home. Our old friend E. C. Thomas is still working as a machinist for the railroad shops in the Northwestern. He owns a nice home, and is building another house on his lot. Mrs. Lowry has just lost her husband. Her son is the only colored mail carrier in this city. He is a fine young man. They own a nice home. Marshall Perkins is still running a first-class restaurant with success.

On to Iowa City. We found Mrs. Ella Moore still in the hairdressing business doing well. She formerly lived in Des Moines. J. W. Thompson, formally a student at the State University has charge of one of the large flats, and is doing nicely. He is a model young man. W. T. Patterson is truck farming. Miss Elizabeth Bell is quite sick—she owns property. Mr. T. Davis is head chef at the hotel. His home is in Cedar Rapids. The Iowa State University is adding more new buildings and looks fine and is a credit to proud Iowa.

Beginning our journey at Oskaloosa we found this Quaker town quiet as usual. There are only a few colored people here now, in fact very few in the whole county. At one time the county had more colored people than any other Iowa county; now several are ahead of that county. Rev. M. G. Newman has the A. M. E. church doing well, as also is Rev. W. L. Lee, who is the pastor of M. E. church. He has been here four years. Mr. A. Hardy is one of the old successful pioneers; he is still hustling. His daughter keeps house for him. Robt. Franklin is still working in the mines. His daughter Lulu is the Bystander agent. Mr. H. J. Hockedy is still running his barber shop, also Alex Clark and G. J. Jones. The latter is Vivian's father, our popular undertaker. E. E. Jones is still working at the bank. The widow Ringo family is doing well.

We next spent the night in quiet Washington, with Mr. W. H. Roades, formerly a farmer, Mr. Geo. W. Black, Frank Walker and Fred Mott; all own and run separate barber shops, and doing nicely. The former is one of the first colored men to come to Iowa, the latter is a brother to Robert Mott of Chicago, who recently died, the founder of the Pekin theater. M. L. Black is still manager of the printing office of the Evening Journal. His wife runs the only hair dressing parlor in the city. J. D. Daniels is a successful business man. He has the contract of sprinkling the streets. He owns a beautiful and valuable home on Marion avenue. The twins, Hoace and Harold Spencer are the cement contractors. They do most of the city work and are very busy men, employing all colored help. They are brothers to John of Grinnell, who also is a cement contractor. Dan Haynes is an old soldier and an interesting character. He is an invalid, but a race man. Rev. W. W. Williams is the pastor of the M. E. church. A. L. Hall is still hustling. Robt. Greaver and Theo. Turner are coming young men.

On to Muscatine. We rambled to find the people about the same as usual. The Greenway boys, Wm. and Lee are successful business men. They are men of this age. They run a first class tansorial shop, which their father started nearly half century ago, and is still with the boys. They own a beautiful home, also a business block, recently purchased, costing them $10,000. I. P. Johnson still lives on his beautiful country home in the out edge of the city. His wife has been very sick for more than a year, with but little hopes of improvement. A. O. Manly owns a nice farm just out of the city limits. He is farming it, it's like Mr. Johnson's farm, covered with fruit. Mr. Wm. Thompson is still assistant baggage man at the Rock Island depot. Miss Fannie Grooms has been appointed matron of the ladies' room at the court house—a responsible place. She is a hustling lady, owns some valuable property. Rev. A. C. Payton is the pastor of the A. M. E. church, a nice man. Their annual picnic was the day we was there we attended in the evening and enjoyed several games of croquet—of course my editor and his partner won. It was only amateurs playing by the old rules. Next week will observe Davenport.

DAVENPORT NOTES.
Work on the A. M. E. church is progressing nicely. The outside cement work is all finished except the finishing of the foundation. On the first Sunday in August all the colored churches of the Tri-Cities will come together at Bethel church and rally to raise the $500 to pay for the work that is being done. There will be important services August 6th as follows: 10:45 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. At 2:30 p. m. there will be union singing by the six colored choirs of the Tri-Cities. For the convenience of the out of town people and all who may desire the accommodation the A. M. E. stewaresses will serve lunch and refreshments from 12 m. to 1:30 p. m. in the dining hall of the church.

The Tri-City Union picnic was by far the best in the history of the Union this year. The day was an ideal one. Quite a number of out of town people were seen in the park, having a delightful time with the Tri-Cities folks.

As we go to press there are quite a number of Davenporters picnicking at the South Island in honor of Mrs. Martha Burley of Washington, Iowa, and Mrs. Perkins of Quincy, Ill.

The Third Baptist church is arranging for a Dollar Rally on the second Sunday in August.

Mrs. Frances Baker entertained a party of friends from Moline, Ill., Tuesday for dinner.

Attorney W. G. Mott is quite busy nowadays, since the colored people have decided that he can attend to their business as well as the other attorneys. It is indeed a fine thing to consider our own people. The other fellow does it, why not we? One of the leading business men of the city said to a colored gentleman the other day that he was ready to help the colored people when he saw them helping themselves. Well, we ought to stop doing some things and commence doing other things. We talk too much about what we are and do too little with what we have.

Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a most certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships. For sale by all dealers.

MISS SELINA LUE

and the Soapbox Babies

by MARIA THOMPSON DAVIES

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kettner

COPYRIGHT 1909, THE BOBBY-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Selina Lue, spinster guardian angel of River Bluff, presides over an impromptu day nursery for the babies of the neighborhood in the rear of her grocery. Her charges are known as "Soapbox Babies." The fact that she is a spinster makes her an object of sympathy to the mothers. One of her friends is Miss Cynthia, a young girl who wishes to establish a studio in her barn. Blossom, Miss Lue's adopted baby, and one Cynthia is very fond of, shows an evident preference for Alan. When Cynthia leaves, Alan hears that her mother is in danger of losing the old homestead. A near ruckus, Alan admires Cynthia. She tells him how she came to locate in the place and start the haven for little ones. She suggests that Cynthia be responsible for Alan's neglect of herself. Sale of the mortgaged place considered. Alan's portrait of Cynthia is discovered. Evelyn Branch, Cynthia's close friend, shows interest in Alan Kent. Cynthia relieves Selina for a day to cook dinner for Mr. Kent and makes a sorry mess of it. Alan declared a favorite with all the Bluff folk. Cynthia overheard his conversation in love. An afternoon tea is arranged. It proves a grand affair and Alan escorts Cynthia home.

Looks, his art lent wings to his feet. The hour the four of them spent in the studio with the pictures was delightful, for Evelyn looked into Miss Cynthia's eyes for a moment, then kissed her on both cheeks and—was merciful and charming.

The pictures so absorbed all three—nay, all four, for from the first time Blossom had been transported to the studio she had gazed at them with wide-eyed wonder that had overjoyed the artist—that when Miss Selina Lue's beaming face appeared above the ladder they could scarcely realize how the time had flown.

"Well, well, what a nice time you all do seem to be having! Such a day as never was on the Bluff before, and everybody so happy! I declare, Mr. Alan have smiled so much since morning that he's giving fat. They ain't nobody said a cutting word or slapped a child since sunup. But come down everybody, for the crowd has sung ain't so well; and stop in and ask Miss Kinney to come and sell the suppers for me, 'cause I don't want to leave the baby."

"Oh, Miss Selina Lue, is she much sick?" Bessie's freckled face drew up into a knot with anxiety, for Blossom was the core of the green apple that at his age passes for a heart.

"Yes, honey, she's pretty bad, and I feel I must see Miss Cynthia a bit. Now run along; and if you see Mr. Alan, send him to me, too." Miss Selina Lue's strong face was grave and sweet, but had none of the disfiguring marks with which anxiety raged many countenances. As she turned Mr. Alan entered the back door.

"How's the Blossom?" he asked anxiously as he deposited his kit in the corner.

"Looks like I can't even want a thing in my heart without when I open my eyes there it is," said Miss Selina Lue softly. "The baby ain't so well, I am afeared, and I was jest mean and selfish enough to send for Miss Cynthia to come down and worry with me. I never did hold with sharing worries, but I didn't expect you back till dark, and it jest seemed like I had to have one or 't'other of you a while."

"What did the doctor say?" asked Mr. Alan as he came and stood by her in the door.

"There was strength and comfort in the very sight of him, and Miss Selina Lue brightened visibly as she answered.

"Well, Mr. Alan, it do best everything to me to see a man—doctor

NEGRO'S STATUS EXACT AND SURE

In Eloquent Address to Washington High School Congressman Taylor Takes High Position.

RACE PRIDE NEEDED

READING THE STIRRING RECORDS OF ADVANCEMENT, STATESMAN BIDS THE YOUNG TO TAKE COURAGE—DO NOT SPURN THE SOIL.

Washington, D. C.—A class of 85 was graduated this afternoon from the four-year academic course offered at the M Street High school, the exercises taking place at the Howard theater before an overflow audience which had gathered in large numbers, not only because of the inspiring spectacle, but also because the commencement address was delivered by the Hon. E. L. Taylor, at present a member of the house of representatives from Ohio, and recognized as one of the greatest friends of education effort in behalf of the negro in the country.

It had recently been made known that it was very largely through the efforts of Mr. Taylor in congress that the sum of $60,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site for a new M Street High school for colored students, and that the congressman had exerted himself to such good purpose for two years that appropriations had been made on more than one occasion based on the ratio of colored population in Washington as compared with the white population which is nearly one-third.

The congressman was given an ovation when he stepped upon the platform and another when he had concluded his eloquent remarks. The exercises were presided over by Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, and the diploma awarded the graduates by Rev. W. V. Tunnell, both members of the Washington board of education. Congressman Taylor's address is still the chief talk among the people.

Mr. Taylor said in part:

"I consider it a distinguished honor to have been invited here today by the officers of this school, to meet with and address for a few short minutes the graduating class and so many of the representative colored citizens of the District of Columbia. An audience like this is an inspiration to any one, and particularly one who, unlike myself, may be inclined to be pessimistic as to the progress and future of the American citizen of negro persuasion. I am further honored by being permitted to speak to a class graduating as it does today, from the oldest high school in the city of Washington. The M Street High school has compelled my interest from the time I took up my duties as a congressman, representing as I do a district in which a large and intelligent negro population reside. I was gratified to learn that there are now more than 15,000 young colored people enrolled into the various grade schools of the District of Columbia, and more than 1,600 enrolled into the high and normal schools.

SCHOOL TYPICAL OF RACE.

"The growth of the M Street school typifies the development of the race. Starting as it did with but one teacher and forty-five pupils, today it is represented by thirty-five teachers and an enrollment of seven hundred and forty young American citizens, determined to prepare themselves properly to take up life's duties according to the bent of their individual ambitions, and this not including that splendid institution, the Armstrong Manual Training school, the outgrowth of the old business course of the M Street High school. The effects of a high school education upon your pupils seem to have been to inculcate courage, ambition and a desire to rise as educators, ministers, business men, lawyers and every other avocation to which you are individually suited. For I find that out of the class of 1910, at which time eighty young men and women graduated, 25 per cent are now pursuing a higher education in colleges or professional schools, and about 55 per cent are furthering their usefulness by a course in the normal school.

PURSUING HIGHER THINGS.

"This total of 80 per cent, who are not content with the education resulting from a course in the high schools, proposes to still further fit themselves for useful lives in an effort, not only toward self-protection, but a more laudable desire to help better the conditions of others who will follow them. It has been my good fortune to have kept in close touch with the negro citizenship of my native state in particular, and having from boyhood known many of the race, both in school and in business, I have been at all times, even when others, both colored and white, were discouraged and inclined to pessimism, ardently optimistic as to the future of that portion of our citizenship, whose ancestors came to this country under the unfortunate circumstances of servitude.

EXAMPLE OF GOOD FAITH.

"One has but to look back a very short cycle of time, less than half a century, to see that the negro has accepted his duties of citizenship in good faith, with true courage, and rising above more obstacles than any other nationality, has cheerfully and patiently progressed in education, business and other honorable pursuits as rapidly as any other race was ever known to do. When we consider the evolution of the negro from a bondsman to a citizen, we have a chapter in history which should stand as a beacon of encouragement to every one of us.

EDUCATION THE GREAT SOLUTION.

"You have realized as a race that education is the great solution, the basis essential, of good citizenship. Education and Christianity go hand in hand. To carry to the less fortunate the light of wisdom more than 30,000 of your people, men and women, have earnestly striven through secondary schools and colleges, to obtain a certificate which would entitle them to do their share in the splendid work of a people's uplift. I understand that practically all of the teachers in the district schools, training the minds and morals of more than 15,000 school children, are graduates of this splendid M Street High school. I have said that education leads to good citizenship. Education is the very keystone to individual success and racial advancement. You as a people, as soon as the opportunity was given you, eagerly sought the advantages of an education. The colored schools rapidly advanced from the old Freedman's Bureau to include in their number such splendid schools as Hampton and Tuskegee, Howard university, Fisk university, and other great parts of the educational machine which today throw open the door of opportunity to every colored child to receive an education fitting it to cope in every walk of life with their white neighbor.

MUST GO INTO BUSINESS.

"These are only necessary incidents to successful racial progress and development. While you have more than a thousand able lawyers practicing throughout the United States, two thousand or more physicians, and hundreds of bankers, brokers, architects, musicians and other professional men, do not for a single minute think that it is not equally as honorable to go into business, into farming, into mechanics, into any honorable labor, and do it well.

THE SOIL IMPORTANT.

"I hardly need admonish the negro of the great importance of tilling the soil. It is an acknowledged fact that the real future of this country, its very backbone, depends upon agriculture. You as a people have recognized this as readily as have the whites, and today more than 2,000,000 negroes are engaged in agricultural pursuits, and ten years ago owned over $200,000,000 worth of farms. And in the great state of Virginia, looking at a report from the auditor of the state for 1904, the negroes of the state increased the value of their property more than $1,000,000 in nine years, thus making their total property holdings in that state alone $19,500,000.

ALL SIDES NEED ATTENTION.

"I fear that I weary you with these statistics, but I am trying to impress upon you the fact that I am as proud of the fact that millions are engaged as farmers, as I am that thousands are engaged in professional pursuits. Both classes of citizens are needed to properly solve the future of your race. I am proud of the fact that over 275,000 negroes are engaged in mechanical and manufacturing pursuits. Too many are prone to the mistake that education is not necessary for manual labor, agriculture, and occupations other than professional. Let me say at this point that the best teacher is the one best educated. The best lawyer, doctor, professional man or woman is the one who has the best trained mind, and this rule applies with equal force, for wherever you find an educated farmer, mechanic or laborer, there will you find the best equipped of his class.

HANDS AND BRAIN.

The hands are but the instruments of the brain, and a well developed brain will produce the more skillful manual labor. One cannot pursue any vocation successfully with his brain dormant. One can reach a high degree of proficiency in his chosen line only by a high degree of development of his mental processes. We cannot all be teachers, we cannot all be lawyers. If such were the case it would be a great calamity.

COURAGE AND FAITH.

And now the one thing that I believe we must remember most of all. It is naturally customary with young people, going out into the world as you are today, no longer as guided, instructed and aided by your preceptors, entirely dependent upon your own abilities, courage and resources, to feel that the world is at your feet, when in fact unless you clothe yourself in an abiding faith, an undying courage, and an ambition that will not falter when face to face with difficulties and discouragement, you are at the feet of the world, and will be trodden upon unless there is in you the stamina which will force recognition of your merits, be those the merits of a teacher, doctor, lawyer, minister, business man, mechanic, farmer, nurse, laborer, or domestic servant. I place no one of these occupations above the other.

ALL LABOR HONORABLE.

They are each equally honorable and an honest ambition to be the best of your kind will make your life a success, for success is not measured by the greatness of the individual, but if a man or woman can say that he or she is the best, or equal to the best, in their chosen life's work, their ambition is as well rounded out as is the ambition of the greatest man or woman of your race. You cannot all be leaders. One must excel the other.

The same standard applies to the colored people that applies to the white, that all work is honorable and necessary. There must be manufacturers as well as senators. There must be good business men as well as politicians. There must be fine artisans as well as literateurs. There must be good laborers in the field as well as millionaires. And I wish to impress upon you that the success of your race, the future of your race, does not lie in the success of a chosen few, but in the success of all. Work with the hands just as honorable as work with the brains, and the best workman is the man who has his hands and brain both trained.

"EXCELSIOR."

A good rule to follow is to foster an undying ambition to excel all in so far as your abilities will permit, and while the men or women who constantly endeavor to excel in all things will find others who by natural ability and adaptability, pass them in the race, yet the one who strives to excel the others is certain of excelling the great majority. We are too prone to measure success by wealth. As a rule, the wealthy man is termed the successful man, and yet this is absolutely sophistry. A man whose entire success is an accumulation of money, and who has given nothing to posterity, has paid small tribute for the privilege of having existed. I do not mean that the accumulation of wealth is not a thing to be proud of. But there are other things which spell success in more brilliant letters. I believe in all persons being thrifty, but do not lose your better self in a wild race for wealth alone. We must have producers of wealth. We must have scholars, divines and thinkers.

GOLD IS NOT ALL.

The man who with his brain and the skill of hand and muscle, can contemplate a beautiful structure of which he took part in the building; the woman who can look upon hundreds of the youth of the nation, and realize that their minds and their morals have been under her control, that she has taken part in their training for a future life of usefulness, even though both draw a mere day's wage, and live in comparative obscurity, can be just as proud of their achievements as can the millionaire who gazes gloatingly upon his accumulated millions in stocks, bonds and gold. Each has been a producer. Each has contributed to the development of his country and to the betterment of his people. It is wrong for a person to willingly live in poverty simply through lack of ambition to rise above it. But a man or woman who devotes his or her life to the betterment of the people and falls to accumulate a fortune, yet industriously labors throughout his life need feel no pang if he should be counted among those who lack in wealth. On the other hand, the man or woman with talent, either undeveloped or latent, who slugs away sits by and lets opportunity take wings, and fails to lift a hand or use his or her intellect to benefit the people, or produce something of value, is a sluggard and should be treated with utter contempt.

KNOW THYSELF.

First let me urge that you commune with yourselves. Do not foster an ambition to be that which you cannot be. Be brave enough to map out your life within the scope of your abilities. I urge an unflinching ambition to succeed and progress, but misplaced ambition to attempt that in which you cannot succeed, is not an ambition, but a delusion. Follow the admonition of Shakespeare, "Tis vaulting ambition which oft o'erleaps itself and falls on the other side." And another old philosopher says that "He who knows above his height may have chips in his eyes." I do not say this by way of discouragement, but I have seen too many good men and women fall through misplaced effort, through thoroughly misunderstanding their own limitations, and the man and woman is assured of success who is courageous enough to analyze himself and frankly acknowledge his shortcomings. You will find much of discouragement, but that only gives zest to the great delight of living a successful, upright, future life.

BE PROUD OF YOUR RACE.

Let me admonish you, and I speak from the bottom of my heart, never be ashamed that you were born of colored blood. Go out into the world full of pride of race, and take not with you race prejudice and race hatred. Pride of race is proper, but one of the greatest obstructions to the progress of your race has been race hatred and prejudice, both among the whites and the negroes. You are here by right. You are entitled to equal rights under the law. This is guaranteed you by the Constitution.

You cannot unmake in a day sectional prejudice, but you can by patiently striving toward good citizenship, by industriously working to create something of the brain or the hand that the people want, bring about more rapidly than by any other means, a proper understanding with the people of other races and nationalities, living under the same flag. You have no cause to be ashamed of the past history of your race. The record of the last fifty years should send you forth full of encouragement and enthusiasm of the future. When you take up your life's work, do so as American citizens.

OUR EXACT STATUS.

This is your exact political and economical status in this country. Every man, woman and child born under the flag of our country, is an American citizen, and it should be your ambition, and will if I read your faces right today, to be American citizens that other American citizens, regardless of race or color, will be compelled to take pride in.

HIT REAPER TRUST

CHARGE IS MADE THAT MORGAN AND HARVESTER INTERESTS UNITED.

REBATE IS PAID ON STEEL

Townsend Report on Which Former Attorney General Bonaparte Failed to Act Goss Before Investigator—Wickersham Is a Witness.

Washington.—That charges were made to Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte during his term of office that the United States Steel corporation gave refund of three dollars a ton to the harvester combine companies was revealed to the house "steel trust" investigating committee. Representative Stanley of Kentucky, chairman of the committee, introduced into the proceedings a voluminous report on the harvester trust made to Mr. Bonaparte in 1908 by Burdette C. Townsend, a special investigator of the department, now assistant district attorney of Oregon.

In describing the organization of the group of larger companies in the Harvester combine the McCormicks, Deering, Plano, Wardner, Bushnell, Glessner and the Milwaukee Harvester companies, Mr. Townsend reported to Mr. Bonaparte:

"It appears that there was an unusual concentration of the capital stock of these five companies. It was all owned and controlled by four families, the McCormicks, the Deering, the Joneses and the Glessners. The pooling of their holdings was all that was necessary to create a trust. All these people lived in Chicago.

"Another fact is interesting. Harold McCormick (one of the heaviest stockholders of the McCormick company) is a son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller. The McCormick company was therefore already distantly related by marriage to the great American family of trusts. J. Pierpont Morgan is the trust architect usually employed by the Rockefeller interests.

"He is a good builder and receives fabulous fees for his work. George W. Perkins is his associate."

Attorney General Wickersham, summoned as a witness, testified that he had never seen the Townsend report before. He promised that Townsend would testify later. He did not know why the harvester case was not pressed in 1908-09. "I surmised," he added, "that the case was held up pending the Supreme court decisions in the tobacco and Standard Oil cases involving the same points."

Mr. Stanley announced that a subpoena had been issued for Mr. Bonaparte, who is now in Canada, and that an effort would be made to ascertain from him and from other government officials why there had not been a prosecution of the International Harvester company upon Townsend's charges. Mr. Stanley also announced his intention of endeavoring to show a close connection between the United States Steel corporation and the International Harvester company.

Mr. Townsend in his report particularly referred to the price paid to J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. in the harvester deal, declaring that "$5,000,000 is a very high price for the simple service of suggesting to persons how they can agree in a legitimate transaction. It is not unusual," he said, "in illegal transactions, such as creating a trust, which can evade the laws. Doubtless, if proceedings were instituted against the International Harvester company, the manner of its defense will demonstrate that the fee was earned."

FIVE NEW CHOLERA SUSPECTS

Two Ships From Italian Ports and One From Mexico Are Detained at Quarantine.

New York.—The steamerhip Oceania arrived from Genoa, Palermo and Naples with three cases of suspected cholera on board. It was detained with its 129 cabin and 468 steerage passengers.

The steamship San Giorgio, from Naples, got in without any passengers, but it had a stowaway who was a cholera suspect, and so that ship, too, with its crew, was detained at quarantine.

Another cholera suspect was found on the steamship Kfir Bank, which docked at Perth Amboy after arriving from a Mexican port.

Chicago.—A man wearing a soldier's uniform and carrying a modern Springfield rifle went suddenly insane in front of the Chicago opera house, Washington and Clark streets, and shot eight persons, none fatally. After a terrific struggle the man was arrested and said he was M. Husian, a Hindu. He said he had determined to kill 40,000 persons and had just started. Husian gave the police a terrific fight before he was subdued.

Butte, Mont.—The convention of the Western Federation of Miners adopted a report which characterized as impracticable the suggestion of President Meyer in favor of ownership of mines and smelters by labor organizations.

Says She Is Widow of Five.

Atlanta, Ga.—Claiming that she is the widow of five men, all of whom fought in the Civil war, a woman of Walton county has filed a petition for five pensions of $40.

Washington.—In lieu of formal answers to the contempt charges against them, Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor entered oral pleas of "not guilty" before Justice Wright of the District Supreme court.

Indianian Slain; Rival Accused.

Evansville, Ind.—Noah Russell, aged twenty-nine, was shot and killed, and Elbert Meridith, aged thirty, is accused of the crime. He is missing. The men were rivals.

And So the Honored Guest Found Them.

"Miss Selina Lue," said Mr. Alan, his eyes dancing with delight; "I think you asked me a question first; I claim first answer. I do—I do feel hungry when I look at her. I feel that I could without provocation call her a baby."

"Miss Selina Lue," broke in Miss Cynthia hastily, "I am really getting alarmed; and though Mr. Kent looks cool and afternoon-tea—and grand, I begin to think he may be more ferocious than he looks. Lions—are—"

"Run, run! Mr. Alan, for that's the car to catch Miss Evelyn on the switch—she ought to be here now in five minutes. Come on, Bessie, and get all the children in line! Tell everybody to come here to the grocery steps and listen to the speech first thing—there's Mr. Bradford now. My, my, Miss Cynthia, don't everybody look fine? Miss Kinney's plink cotton crape goes so nice with Miss Dobbs' purple, and if Miss 'Tyme ain't fixed up to beat the band." Miss Selina Lue met her guests at the foot of the steps and welcomed them with enthusiasm. Miss Cynthia helped to do the honors and shared in the general excitement.

"Howdy everybody!" said Miss Selina Lue. "We sure make a fine show. She is going to make hands right here with us all and then go and see the pictures before it gets dark, and then come the refreshments, Miss Cynthia, you hadn't oughter hold Blossom, but you jest will do it and muss your dress. Now, Ethel Maud, hold Clemmie careful till her mother gets here, and I will carry the twins as we go down to meet her. I feel like the babies oughter see it all—you can't begin on manners for entertainments too young."

And so the honored guest found them, an exotic-colored aggregation of palpitating excitement in gala attire and more gala humor. It often happens in the world that the coin of human intercourse stamped entertainment does not buy for tenderer or barterer much in the way of real pleasure, but on the Bluff it was otherwise. Joy, real, effervescent, sparkling joy filled every cup to the brim and ran over.

The Bluff took Miss Evelyn to its arms and caressed and admired and flattered over her to its heart's content. She was greeted in flowery phrases by Mr. St. Bradford, whose oratorical acrobatic feats were as astonishing as the triple handkerchiefs that Bessie Dobbs turned in his path at every possible opportunity. It was well that her fund of enthusiasm was adequate to supply long drafts. Miss Cynthia stood by and watched her with awed pride and delight. She enthused over young Jim Peters in his stiff and uncomfortable attire, and his rosy, blushing young mother in soft blue muslin. She admired all six Tyneses and was especially interested in Ethel Maud's little barked nose. She expressed starvation at the aroma of Mrs. Kinney's pies and listened with rapt attention to Luella recite a choice piece in nine verses, nor did she fail to handle the heirloom teapot with becoming reverence when it was transported into her presence wrapped in an old flannel petticoat.

"My, my!" said Miss Selina Lue in an aside to Mr. Alan, who had taken his stand by her at the grocery door just one step below that on which stood Miss Cynthia with Blossom in her arms. "Ain't they having a good time? I do hate to break it up by asking her to look at pictures, but Mr. Leeks is a-going to play her a tune on his megaphone, and as soon as it's over I am going to send her right up to the barn and keep the crowd down here to help me set out the refreshments. 'Sposen, Miss Cynthia, you run on up there now so as to be there when Mr. Alan gets her up. I am sorry you won't let me take Blossom away from you, though I know if I try there will be a hollering, and it do seem a pity to mix any tears in this party." At the mention of her name Blossom gurgled and clung to Miss Cynthia as if she understood that the suggestion of her possible dislodgment was being negated strenuously by the lady of her adoration.

"Well, Mr. Alan, you'd better go 'long with 'em and hand her up to the ladder to Miss Cynthia. Then hurry back so you will be here when the piece is finished. Now he's tuning up!"

And obedient to instructions and the exigencies of the case, Mr. Alan did hurry—only one minute—was long. Miss Cynthia knelt on the loft floor and reached down for the Blossom he held to her from the ladder and her face was the hue of the roses and her eyes were twin stars—and tender. A moment she held the rapturous baby to her breast and smiled down at him over the golden head—and as Mr. Alan ran for the grocery to the last strains of "Won't You Come Home, Bill Baller" as executed by Mr.

And so the honored guest found them, an exotic-colored aggregation of palpitating excitement in gala attire and more gala humor. It often happens in the world that the coin of human intercourse stamped entertainment does not buy for tenderer or barterer much in the way of real pleasure, but on the Bluff it was otherwise. Joy, real, effervescent, sparkling joy filled every cup to the brim and ran over.

The Bluff took Miss Evelyn to its arms and caressed and admired and flattered over her to its heart's content. She was greeted in flowery phrases by Mr. St. Bradford, whose oratorical acrobatic feats were as astonishing as the triple handkerchiefs that Bessie Dobbs turned in his path at every possible opportunity. It was well that her fund of enthusiasm was adequate to supply long drafts. Miss Cynthia stood by and watched her with awed pride and delight. She enthused over young Jim Peters in his stiff and uncomfortable attire, and his rosy, blushing young mother in soft blue muslin. She admired all six Tyneses and was especially interested in Ethel Maud's little barked nose. She expressed starvation at the aroma of Mrs. Kinney's pies and listened with rapt attention to Luella recite a choice piece in nine verses, nor did she fail to handle the heirloom teapot with becoming reverence when it was transported into her presence wrapped in an old flannel petticoat.

The winding serves as one plate of the condenser, the frame of the receiver as the dielectric and the person who is holding the receiver to his ear as the other plate of the condenser. In order to prevent the condenser from discharging through the person, a German inventor provides a grounded metallic cover to the receiver, the capacity of which is only a small fraction of that of the condenser.

THE ORIGINAL HAIR GROWER We Grew Our Hair Now Let Us Grow Yours with PORO TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

When we first began our wonderful work of growing all kinds, all qualities, all lengths, and all conditions of hair, even to the growing of hair on bald places of the head, many persons scorned the idea that such a thing was possible; but we have grown the hair for hundreds; rapidly achieving success. The proof of the value of our work is that we are being imitated and largely by persons whose own hair we have actually grown and the further fact that they have very frequently mentioned us when trying to sell their goods (saying that theirs is the same or "just as good") or referred to PORO. We advise you to use only PORO Hair Grower, (the oldest and best of its kind.) See that the name PORO is on every box, not genuine without it. Prepared only by M. A. M. POPE.

Washingon Portraits. A rare and curious mezzotint portrait of George Washington in the library of the late Lafayette S. Richardson of Lowell, Mass., was auctioned off last year in Boston. It is entitled "George Washington, late president of the United States of America, etc." and was published March 14, 1801, by I. Hinton Lincoln. It is a small folio and is colored by hand. It looks as much like George III. as it does the father of His Country. Baker, who wrote the "Engraved Portraits of Washington," says that only one impression of this mezzotint has come under the notice of the writer. It was in the hands of the Clarkson nor the Carson sale of Washington portraits.

Inset on Yellow Flair. Charles Christal, an expert on flour and grains, sounds the keynote of the new situation brought about by the bleached flour decision when he says in a communication to the editor commenting on the bleached flour decision: "The housewife will now insist on yellow tinted or creamy flour and will learn to realize that a natural flour very white can in no manner compare with the creamy or yellow flour in so far as gluten and muscle building values are concerned. "As from 85 to 90 per cent. of the large flour mills of the country were using this bleaching process, the decision is far-reaching."—National Food Magazine

When we first began our wonderful work of growing all kinds, all qualities, all lengths, and all conditions of hair, even to the growing of hair on bald places of the head, many persons scorned the idea that such a thing was possible; but we have grown the hair for hundreds; rapidly achieving success. The proof of the value of our work is that we are being imitated and largely by persons whose own hair we have actually grown and the further fact that they have very frequently mentioned us when trying to sell their goods (saying that theirs is the same or "just as good") or referred to PORO. We advise you to use only PORO Hair Grower, (the oldest and best of its kind.) See that the name PORO is on every box, not genuine without it. Prepared only by M. A. M. POPE.

Beware of imitations. Call, or address mail to MRS. A. M. POPE-TURNBO, St. Louis, Mo., 3110 Pine Street. MRS. MOLLIE WHITNEY, 726 WEST 10TH, Des Moines, Ia., AGENT FOR PORO

Washingon Portraits. A rare and curious mezzotint portrait of George Washington in the library of the late Lafayette S. Richardson of Lowell, Mass., was auctioned off last year in Boston. It is entitled "George Washington, late president of the United States of America, etc." and was published March 14, 1801, by I. Hinton Lincoln. It is a small folio and is colored by hand. It looks as much like George III. as it does the father of His Country. Baker, who wrote the "Engraved Portraits of Washington," says that only one impression of this mezzotint has come under the notice of the writer. It was in the hands of the Clarkson nor the Carson sale of Washington portraits.

Inset on Yellow Flair. Charles Christal, an expert on flour and grains, sounds the keynote of the new situation brought about by the bleached flour decision when he says in a communication to the editor commenting on the bleached flour decision: "The housewife will now insist on yellow tinted or creamy flour and will learn to realize that a natural flour very white can in no manner compare with the creamy or yellow flour in so far as gluten and muscle building values are concerned. "As from 85 to 90 per cent. of the large flour mills of the country were using this bleaching process, the decision is far-reaching."—National Food Magazine
