CHARACTER OF A HAPPY LIFE.

Sir Henry Wooten.

How happy is he born and taught That serveth not anothers will; Whose armour is his honest thought And simple truth his utmost skill!

Whose passions not his masters are, Whose soul is still prepared for death, Not tied unto the world with care Of public fame, or private breath.

Who envies none that chance doth raise Or vice, who never understood How deepest wounds are given by praise; Nor rules of state, but rules of good:

Who hath his life from rumors freed, Whose conscience is his strong retreat; Whose state can neither flatters feed, Nor ruin make oppressors great;

Who God doth love and early pray More of his grace than gifts to lend; And entertains the harmless day With a well-chosen book of friend:

This man is freed from servile bands Of hope to rise, or fear to fall; Lord of himself, though not of lands; And having nothing, yet hath all.

BOOK COLLECTORS' EXCHANGE ORGANIZED AT WASHINGTON

Movement Started to Centralize All Literature Written by Colored People.

So widespread is the interest in Negro books written by members of the Negro race that many persons all over the country are now emulating the example set them by other collectors of rare books and pamphlets.

During the sessions of the American Negro academy at Washington recently a number of gentlemen met at dinner at the residence of Professor J. W. Cromwell, 1439 Swan street, and organized the American Negro Book Collectors' Exchange, one of the objects of which is to get in touch with Negro book collectors throughout this country.

After considerable discussion of the matter John E. Bruce of New York moved to proceed with organizing the Negro Book Collectors' Exchange. The motion was duly seconded, with the result that Henry P. Slaughter of Washington, who owns one of the largest and finest collections of rare books by and about the Negro race in the District of Columbia, was unanimously elected president.

Book collectors among the white people all over the country are buying these old books written by Negro authors, no matter how insignificant they are in size and matter. Some day they will be valuable helps in the writing of the history of the Negro in America.

MEETING FOR ADJUSTMENT.

National Urban League to Hold Conference on Migration.

On Friday, Jan. 26, a conference on Negro migration will be held at the Russell Sage Foundation building, Twenty-second street and Lexington avenue, under the auspices of the National League on Urban Conditions Among Negroes.

The subjects for discussion will be: "Causes and Consequences of the Migration."

"What is to Be Done to Aid in the Negro's Adjustment to His New Environment?" The purpose of the conference is to bring before the leaders of the various communities to which the Negroes are migrating the importance of aiding them to adjust themselves to their new environment, so that when the war ceases and immigration increases the Negroes may be well entrenched in their positions and may be worthy citizens of their adopted homes.

Some of those who are expected to be present and contribute to the success of the meeting are: Dr. R. E. Moton, Professor John Hope, president of Morehouse college; J. E. Moreland, national secretary, Y. M. C. A.; John Mitchell of the state labor commission; Mrs. Mary Talbert, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. George E. Haynes of the National League on Urban Conditions Among Negroes and Mrs. S. W. Layton, secretary of the Philadelphia Association for the Protection of Colored Women. L. Hollingsworth Wood, president of the National Urban League, will preside.

The sessions will be open to the public, and all persons who are interested in this question are invited to attend.

HEALTH HINTS.

A. J. Booker, M. D.

Music and poetry are two refiners and joy givers of life which no one can afford to ignore. They lend life, grace and joyously lengthen life. It is soul food which most of us need.

Ever ought we see that fine thought and beautiful ones have some part of our day, for "life is more than food and the body more than raiment." The cultivation of the purely esthetic is a fine habit and pays in widening one's mental horizon and elevating our sphere of usefulness.

No one can have a grouch on who sings in his soul. To get out of bed humming a few bars of Melody in F is to make friends all day. In certain factories in Spain and France the workers hire readers to read to them; in some others, especially tobacco factories, they have players of music to speed up the work and keep the employes in good humor. It is a well known fact that waiters in this country do very much better work with less fatigue where they have an orchestra. It is true that popular music, so-called, does not stay popular very long and ceases to charm. The so-called "classical" music has a wearing and an appealing quality which appeals to the soul of all classes. Like poetry and other of the fine arts, the attempt to express a soul quality finds response in the effort to decipher the true meaning. As Jessica states: "I am never merry when I hear sweet music." Ragtime is but a reflection of the fast, thoughtless, easy, skimming-along-the-surface trend of our American life at present, while good music lasts so long as the deep abiding emotions are a part of the life of man.

No one should lay them down to sleep without reading some line of poetry. If you are a lover, the poets have sung of your emotions and joys in terms which will make your heart swell to know that others have felt as you. If you are a parent, let Shakespeare, Southwell, Cowper or Wordsworth make you know the delight and despair of a lovely or ungrateful child. All in such a manner as to quicken the heart or the tears, as the case may be. If you be young, either in age or decision about life and what it is, let Pope, Ben Johnson, Sir Walter Raleigh, Dwyer, Surry or Holmes talk to you in such an intimate way that you will understand and the scales will fall from your eyes and you be transported beyond the usual views and live in a realm unswayed by usual practices. If you are lacking in patriotism let Scott, Byron, Longfellow, Whittier or Shakespeare tell you about your duty and the grandeur of sensation in really loving home. "When in disgrace in men and fortune's eyes" turn to the Psalms and Shakespeare. They will lift up your heart and make you know the common fortunes of men and put pride in your efforts if your conscience be clear. These names may sound like one needs be a profound student of literature to enjoy them, but it is all amiss, the thoughts are often so plain, the feeling so mutual that one will feel that they have met an old friend, one who can sympathize and not burden with that which is uninteresting.

"My mind to me my kingdom is; Such present joys therein I find, That it excels all other bliss That earth affords or grows by kind: Though much I want that most would have, Yet still my mind forbids to crave.

Some have too much, yet still do crave; They are but poor, though much they have, And I am rich with little store; They poor, I rich; they beg, I give; They lack, I leave; they pine, I live.

My wealth is health and perfect ease, My conscience clear my chief defense; I neither seek by bribes to please, Nor by deceit to breed offense; Thus do I live; thus will I die; Would all did so well as I!"

"Why so sorrowful, girl?" "We have parted forever. He writes me to send back this ring." "Tell him to call for it," advised the experienced friend.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PEOPLE HONOR FATHER UNCLES

Rich Tributes Paid Zealous Prolate at Baltimore.

EXERTS WIDE INFLUENCE

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Ordination of First Colored Roman Catholic Priest Fittingly Observed—Members of Protestant Churches Take Leading Part—Presented With Purse of $700.

Baltimore.—The recent celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Father Charles R. Uncles' ordination to the Roman Catholic priesthood was an unusually brilliant event in the religious circles among our people in this city. St. Francis Xavier Catholic church was the scene of the most interesting series of services perhaps in its history. The occasion was significant of the growing tendency of the race toward broad mindedness in religious affairs without regard to denominational affiliation. Members of the various Protestant churches mingled with the great throng at the celebration as freely as did members of the Roman Catholic church.

The anniversary sermon was delivered by the Rev. Joseph Waring. Among the noted prelates at this service were Bishop O. B. Corrigan and Mgrs. Foley and Starr. C. M. Dorsey was chairman of the committee having charge of the arrangements for the civic exercises, which were held at St. Peter Claver's hall. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Dorsey, Thomas A. Johnson, W. M. McCard, Dean William Pickens of Morgan college, Hon. Harry S. Cummings, Father James J. Nally of St. Peter Claver's church and others prominent in the civic and religious life of the community.

The presentation address to Father Uncles was made by Frank A. Simmons, treasurer of the local committee. Mr. Simmons said that the token of esteem which he had been requested to present to Father Uncles was from both Catholics and Protestants; that it was a purse containing $700 as a small gift from those whom he had the honor of representing.

In accepting the gift Father Uncles in part said: "I thank you most heartily for your cordial greetings and extraordinary generosity. This testimonial comes as the climax of thousands and thousands of evidences that the friends of my youth are still my friends. For this I thank God, and I thank you.

Blessed is he that has many friends, even if he has no dollars; most unhappy he that has no friends, even if he is a millionaire. How grateful, then, and how happy must I be, now that I have many dollars and friends galore! "Twenty-five years a priest of God! The mere announcement suggests a refrain which, like most good music, has notes of sadness as well as of joy. Though all anniversaries remind one of the rapid march of time, of the gradual approach to "the bourne whence no traveler returns," yet, as I have health and strength, as my salt is still agile and nimble, as my mind is strong and alert, as my heart is as glad and young as ever, I ought and I do give thanks to God for these and other blessings innumerable.

After twenty-five years! The meeting of intimate friends, the congratulations of loving and helpful collaborators, the remembrance of twenty-five years of earnest labor and dutiful service, the hope of living yet longer to help others along the straight and narrow path, these facts, I say, these thoughts and aspirations, cannot but fill my heart with gladness and gratitude.

For all that has been commendable in my life and labors I here and now gratefully give credit to Almighty God, to my parents and to all my teachers in all the schools that I have attended, especially to my teachers in St. Joseph's and St. Mary's seminaries. And I give unstinted praise and unqualified thanks for all the good that I have received from and through those zealous and efficient missionaries, the fathers of the Society of St. Joseph.

Nor am I unmindful of what I owe to you, my dear friends. Gladly, therefore, do I seize this opportunity to assure you of my heartfelt appreciation of all that I owe to your sympathy and friendship and encouragement. Yet I beg one more favor, a frequent remembrance in your prayers. Ask Almighty God to strengthen me, to protect me, to make me so serviceable as to win his favor and deserve your approval. God bless you. God bless all my friends and benefactors.

WAR! What Is It All About? HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour glistening just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia? Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions are being sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by some of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give to you FREE—"Europe at War" A big book and over 300 pages, size 10 x 7 inches, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, containing the dramatic history of the great events leading up to the present time; over 50 important and timely special articles by experts on the different phases of the conflict; hundreds of graphic pictures, portraits, photographs, diagrams, specially drawn war maps, illuminating statistical records, copies of official documents and diplomatic messages exchanged between the powers—a clear, vivid, accurate, permanent, interesting and valuable record which once seen you will not willingly be without. Europe's past and present are here dramatically pictured and presented. Hundreds of illustrations graphically tell their own stories. More fascinating than any romance, here is a history so vivid, so dramatic, so stirring, so fascinating, so realistic, so wonderfully presented, so thrillingly told that it leaves an ineffaceable impression. Your War News Clarified It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events.
