This is particularly true of colds. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough mucus and aids in its expectoration, allays the cough and aids Nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.

A COLORED BOY WINS FIRST PRIZE.

The above cut shows the pictures of the boys and their houses that won the prizes last week in the Daily Capital bird house contest. The peculiar thing was that in all of the Capital's writeup about these prize winners they have never mentioned the fact that young Sheats was a colored boy. If this same boy had been associated with the same white boys in a crime or stealing the Capital would no doubt mention the fact that it was a colored boy or they would have more than likely said "a big black curly Negro." Now why is this? The good, the true, the generous, the ability to win the first place is not given credit to the Negro race, but anything bad, ludicrous or degrading they credit it to the race. In other words, the good we do is not mentioned. The evil we do is emphasized. This young boy, Stephen Sheats, is only 16 years old and the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sheats, who live at 1503 Capitol avenue. They moved here from Tacoma, Wash., about six years ago and their son is a genius in woodwork. He has already made all the furniture in their home since he has been in the manual training school. He also sent some of his work to the Half Century Negro Exposition held in Chicago, and took first prize. Too much cannot be said about this rising artist. His parents intend to send him to college to take mechanical art. Below we publish exactly what the Daily Capital says:

"Stephen Sheats, pupil in the pre-vocational school, carried off honors this year, as he did last, in the Capital's bird house contest. He entered with a 42-room martin house, patterned after the 16-year-old lad is that the judges could not find a single flaw in it. The house is perfectly made, according to government dimensions, and is a model of neatness. The bird house is constructed so that it can easily be taken to pieces when it is desired to clean it out. Young Sheats and his bird house are shown at the top of the picture. Below him is Edward Baty, another pre-vocational school pupil. He also built a martin house that took third prize in the class of boys under 16. He lost a week's work on the house while work kept him from school and did not have time to finish it as neatly as he wished. Reading from left to right on the bottom row are three other prize winners—Alfred Walker, 1034 Twenty-seventh street, third prize winner; Edward Munzenmaier, 820 Fortieth street, second prize winner, and Harold Swanson, 733 Thirty-sixth street, a second prize winner." We might also state that the first prize was $10 and that all the houses were sold. Mr. Sheats' house sold at $20, the highest price ever paid for a bird house.

Scores of Des Moines Folk Vouch for Tanlac; Tenth St. Couple Relate Experience

Scores of Des Moines folk have told how Tanlac relieved them of stomach, kidney, liver and catarrhal ills. But in all of the stories that have been told none are more interesting than the following: "My husband and I have suffered from stomach trouble for months," says Mrs. B. W. Banks who lives at 923 Tenth street, Des Moines. We had very poor ap etites and what little we did eat didn't agree with us. We were a badly run down pair. "We read so much about Tanlac that I came to McNeerney's and got a bottle. I want to say it sure gave us back our appetites. Food tastes better than ever before. "My husband and I tried many remedies but we never found anything that relieved us like Tanlac. We recommend it to one and all." Get Tanlac at McNeerney's drug store, corner 6th and Grand avenue, Des Moines or from the following druggists in nearby towns: Tanlac may also be obtained in Buxton, at The Thomas Drug Co to her home with inflammatory rheumatism. Miss Jessie Walker of Marshalltown attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Sarah Wright. Mrs. J. P. Hamilton of Des Moines was in attendance also. A wedding that calls forth best wishes is that of Miss Alethae Hopkins and Mr. George Freeman, which occurred at the A. M. E. parsonage Easter at 4:30 p. m. Miss Alethae grew to womanhood in this city and is highly respected. Mr. Freeman has made this city his home about a year and has made many friends. Mr. Floyd Brent passed away last Wednesday. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from the home of his mother. Interment in Oakdale cemetery. The City Federation meets this Wednesday afternoon at the Third Baptist church. Mrs. Munson of Monmouth, Ill., who has been here visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Harris, will return home Thursday. Mrs. Wm. Brooks will leave next week for a visit in Aurora, Chicago and Le Grange, Ill. Don't fail to hear Miss Ruby Pettiford at Bethel A. M. E. church April 17th. Des Moines, Iowa, April 7, 1917. Editor of Bystander: My attention has been called several times to the ending of your editorials in today's issue. While my attitude upon all matters is one of tolerance, I seriously question the statement, "A real patriot is not running around with a petition asking other people to go or seeking to get up a company so that he or they may get some office or cheap notoriety. First go and enlist yourself when the call is issued." Being the only person in Des Moines, to my knowledge, who is circulating a petition, I resent the statement and desire to be known as a fighting patriot. I am not looking for position nor for notoriety and defy anyone to say that I have attempted to use my influence for myself or friends to secure any places. As for my patriotism, I have never changed, but have expressed myself more than usual lately. I am willing to go to war as a private and do not think any man has more rights to carry a gun in line than I have. My reason for taking up this matter is because such utterances cause people to lose confidence in those who are entirely trustworthy. I defy you or any other man to say that I ever misrepresented myself, any cause I was interested in, or any condition to further my own ends. I have proven to the people in this community that selfish ambition was not a part of my make-up. No man has the right to criticize the patriotism nor motives of another unless he is in position to prove that the person is or has not been worthy of confidence. I challenge any man to point to a single instance where any of my motives could be honestly sighted as selfish or "double crossing." Perhaps it is new to you, and to many people in these parts, to see a man working with no material end in view. Yours sincerely, A. J. Booker.

She has quite a large class and it is getting much interested, which goes to prove that if one possesses that which the other fellow wants he will try to get it if he thinks it will benefit him, regardless of who it might be. Are you convinced? If not, follow the Health Hints in The Bystander.

Paul Greenway succeeds B. T. Deatherage at the Greer cafe, who resigned to go to Canada to work.

SPRING TIME.

The spring season is now here, whether the spring weather has come or not. Those of us who live up in the north temperate zone are always looking and gladly welcome the spring season, with its sweet zephyrs, its balmy air, its exhilarating atmosphere, its budding plants, its green foliage adds new life to the dead cold white winter. Then we see the tillers of the soil and all animate objects begin their summer growth. Indeed spring time brings joy to the hearts of all the young and old.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

One of the greatest and most far-reaching problems today is the high cost of living, its effects and how to adjust ourselves to its effects and still live within our income. The already high cost of food, cereals and bread and vegetables makes it so very hard for the common laborer and laboring people to make both ends meet, especially adding the high cost of fuel, the long cold winter and the increased cost of shoes and other clothing make it extremely difficult to live within the daily income. Our advice to every person is to go to raising your own gardens, plant every inch of your idle lots and raise your own chickens, thereby using every available means of supplying your own home with some of the necessities of life and use all the economy and skill in the cooking and serving of meals, for we none know when the end of this high cost of living will come (if ever).

A Distinguished Citizen.

Rev. T. L. Smith, 65, Dies of Pneumonia—Was Prominent in Many Branches of Colored Baptist Church Work in Illinois.

(From Quincy Daily Whig.) Rev. Obituary of W. H. Jamerson.

Bro. W. H. Jamerson, husband of Mrs. Harriet Jamerson, departed this life April 3, 1917. Bro. Jamerson was born in Florida on December 25, 1847. He was 70 years, 6 months and 8 days old at his death. He embraced a hope in Christ some years ago and was a faithful Christian. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, two daughters, Mrs. J. F. Guy, Mrs. W. W. Brooks, a half sister, Mrs. L. B. Wilson, one granddaughter, Mrs. E. M. Benton, and seven stepchildren and a host of friends. Bro. Jamerson was the founder of the Second Baptist church, served as deacon, trustee and was a teacher of the infant class at his death. His greatest joy was expressed in doing the little things and in rendering an unselfish service of love to little children and loving friends. To know Bro. Jamerson was to love him. Rev. S. Bates of Des Moines had charge of the service.

His battle was well fought, and his victory won.

Card of Thanks.

HEALTH HINTS.

A. J. Booker, M. D. There is in every community a set of boys and girls who are not yet fully grown and are too old to be handled like children. This young set is left to itself for amusement as they want it.

We may have honest differences of opinions about amusement; but youth must be served and is independent. It asks only one thing and that is to be let alone. No one is as wise as a boy or girl, between the ages of 16 and 20, feels—they are sufficient unto themselves; they know everything excepting the one fact that they are not as wise as they try to appear.

Reason has never settled about them—there is no occasion to reason, their desires and reasons are sufficient to them. It is not a question of what are we going to do with them, but rather what will they permit us to say to them. Youth is cock-sure.

It is well for the rheumatic or the prudish to say that young people should be quiet and dignified. But a dignified youngster is not normal; there is something lurking behind this front—ill mind or body.

Youth is active and impulsive; animal spirits is in evidence, and wise, as the parent or friend who can safely steer the boy or girl over this period.

Some may argue that the dance is degrading, but young folk will dance, as a rule. It is not a proposition of will we permit it; it is a fact which confronts us. It is not the dance which has caused so much favor, but the supervision of the dance which has been desired.

Young people need to be taught grace and discretion. Much of what appears wantonness is inexperience. Few people want to go to the devil, most of them go because no one stays them.

Boys must be taught to show courtesy and deference to young girls. These things seem foreign to Sunday school, so the chaps miss out entirely in these matters. A great many of their elders do not know much better than those whom they attempt to instruct.

Gentleness and grace are social arts not entirely to be despised. People do not always remain in communities where stiffness and primitiveness are at a premium.

Seclusion and protection to an absurd degree do not always mean that character is formed. Not every dancer is a wanton nor is immodest, nor is every non-dancer the paragon of innocence. It is not opinions, but facts we must face; all young people, no matter how well they appear, ought to have chaperons—not in body alone, but folks as able by character and intelligence to gracefully perform their duties. We cannot shrug our shoulders at this amusement, but must rather elevate it, if it be fallen into ill repute.

It is not the dance which has caused so much favor, but the supervision of the dance which has been desired. Young people need to be taught deportment, in dance, on street, everywhere. It makes all the difference in the world whether a girl dances the minuet or the dog-walk. It makes all the difference for the future whether she knows the proper position in dancing or whether she permits some equally as misinformed person to appear to take liberties. A dance is not a wrestling match, nor is one supposed to imitate those imported from harems. The good people of these parts should be on such terms with the youngsters that they may approach them when indecorous slips are made. In order to do these things effectively there must be a finesse of approach and genuine interest in the welfare of all concerned.

Young people need to be taught grace and discretion. Much of what appears wantonness is inexperience. Few people want to go to the devil, most of them go because no one stays them. Boys must be taught to show courtesy and deference to young girls. These things seem foreign to Sunday school, so the chaps miss out entirely in these matters.
