SERIES NO. 6.

One week has passed since I enlisted in the army. There have been sad days and there have been joyous days. Maybe army life will ever be thus. Who knows? This life is the making of some men and the ruination of others.

Today I was talking to a young lad, whom I am afraid has learned too much of the wrong side of the life. It may have been his manly beauty, his open countenance or his natural bashfulness which he tried hard to conceal, I do not know which, but whatever it was, I was attracted to him. I must confess that I was a little too inquisitive for a stranger. He excused this and answered all my questions promptly and good naturedly. He even volunteered some information concerning himself, his former plans for the future—these are all changed now—and his past.

In a small hut, in the rural district of Mississippi, a little Negro mother must be praying for her little curly-haired boy who is away from home for the first time. The cruel war had awakened in his soul a desire for service, and he had answered the call. Well need that little mother pray, for God may hear her prayers and through mercy for her spare her son from that living death which is fast creeping upon him. He is not a bad boy and not wholly at fault.

Environment seduced his innocent soul and is sapping out his life's blood in payment for a few hours of folly. But he is not alone. There are a number of others like this one. I don't know why, but there are some old men in this regiment who delight in doing what they call showing the boys the rounds. These rounds consist of going into a blind pig, getting drunk, and then debauching themselves. They enjoy themselves for a few hours. Is it enjoyment? I know you wonder why I know so much about this. Well, to be frank, I started out to make the round, but at the first stop of the round I became disgusted and did what, in the army, we call about face. That night I was called no sport, but the next morning, when I visited my comrade, who had been put in the guard house for conduct unbecoming a non-commissioned officer, I was called a good scout. Many times since I have wondered how I escaped that death. I don't want anyone to think that the army is all bad. There are good and bad men everywhere. As the older men say, The army is a gamble; if you play high you win, but if you get in the wrong bunch, you play the duce.

Dec. 7th, 9 p. m.—I have just returned from over to the regimental headquarters. I have been transferred to another company. Orders came that our company be in readiness for entraining. As I haven't had my three inoculations, I am to be left here. Really I am a little disappointed, as I had come to like Company E. Going over with them would not be near as bad as staying in Newport News with another company. Well I will go now and prepare my new bunk. But there will not be seven blankets on my bed tonight.

Dec. 8th.—Once more I am an experiment in psychology, having been placed in a new company, which is already thoroughly organized. I must start over and make new friends. The first sergeant in the new company is showing much interest in me. I am certainly happy that I have been placed under a man who understands human nature, and is broad enough to give to every man his just dues, so to speak.

Dec. 9th.—This day has brought a new friend to me. I have just returned from over to the "Y," where I went in search of a new position. I must say that I have met many young men in my life time, but never have I met anyone so gentlemanly as the young secretary of the Army Y. M. C. A. With him it is a pleasure to help the unfortunate ones in camp.

He seeks them out and does everything that he can to make their camp life as happy as possible. For hours he plays the piano, and he is some pianist, not so much for his own enjoyment as for the soul-inspiring effect it has upon the men.

I had a lengthy conversation with him, during the course of which we found that there are many things which we hold in common. I have decided to go over to the Y. M. C. A. and help them in whatever way possible. As the young secretary goes to Washington tonight, I will go over there presently.

I hate to entertain prejudices toward anyone, but I am sure that I will not like one of the secretaries of this camp. There seems to be something repugnant about him. Personally, I do not think that he is qualified for this particular work. His very nature is adverse to filial love and co-operation for a common good. If I understand it correctly, the Y. M. C. A. is a second home for the boys, or as one young man so well expressed it, you may come again.

I wish to personally thank, through your paper, all of my friends who have so faithfully voted for me at the primaries, also at the recent city election. I shall endeavor to faithfully discharge my full duty honestly. Respectfully yours, John Budd.

Abdications of History.

Ever since dynasties have existed there are records of kings having abdicated from one cause and another. Far back in the misty past one monarch gave up his throne because he was "weary with dominion;" another retired out of preference for the freedom of private life; a third laid down his crown because his schemes failed; still another abdicated in a fit of melancholy; and there are two instances in which kings left their thrones because they were unable to cope with national crises.

The Pneumonia Season.

The cold, damp weather of March seems to be the most favorable for the pneumonia germ. Now is the time to be careful. Pneumonia often results from a cold. The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. As to the value of this preparation, ask anyone who has used it.

EASTER.

Easter, along with Palm Sunday and Holy Week, has made its annual occurrence. While the natural world is about the same this year as other years, the plants, the palms, the lilies come forth as usual, but the physical world and the Christian world is completely upset by this world's greatest war in the noontide of Christian civilization. Today the thoughtful Christian world is asking the question: Is Jehovah still living and permitting such terrible destruction of human beings and little children, and what for, no intelligent person can give a sound reason. If Christian civilized nations are shooting, killing and murdering one another, what must be expected of the heathen or half civilized. Can we sincerely say, Holy, holy, Christ has arisen and triumphed over death and the grave when we have caused the death and grave of our brother. Ought not we stop and pray to God to restore peace, sweet peace on earth and love in the hearts for kindred, so that the lilies and flowers may not weep.

IOWA NEGRO MAKING GOOD.

Cornell College Prize Orator Engaged in Educational Work in Southland.

Prof. Henry Coleman, who is now engaged in educational and religious work in Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla., is doing splendid work there, according to a communication just received by John K. Elwell of the Elwell-Field Shoe company from President G. Barto Stone of that school. "Prof. Coleman came to Cookman in September, 1913, and has been in charge of the department of mathematics since," writes President Stone. "He has had much to do with the discipline of the school, with the religious life and its general activities. For some time he has held a local preacher's license, taking Sunday service on numerous occasions, and for several months has been active in supplying the work of Ebenezer since Dr. Hubbard has been helpless from paralysis. Prof. Coleman has had the intention of taking the course at Gammon preparatory to joining the conference, and if the draft does not interfere will take this up this fall. He was drafted last summer, but by application to two exemption boards we secured his release for religious and educational work. The questionnaire system has annulled all exemptions and now he is under the draft again, but we are hoping for exemption on the same grounds. Prof. Coleman has shown himself a man of strong character and sterling qualities, capable and ready for every good work, and I shall regret losing him from our faculty, but think he will accomplish more in the larger work. He sings unusually well, puts much thought in his addresses and is thorough in everything he attempts."

Prof. Coleman is the young Iowa Negro who won great fame as an orator and athlete while attending Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Iowa. In 1910, after winning every prize offered at Cornell for excellence in oratory, young Coleman finished first in the state intercollegiate contest and later in the same year was awarded second place in the interstate contest. Mr. Coleman, the son of a coal miner at Boone, was one of seventeen children. He was enabled to secure his college education through the Mary Ambrose Elwell scholarship, available to students of the Boone high school and is awarded annually for the purpose of providing means to worthy students for higher Christian education and life. It provides for free tuition and all incidental fees and reserves the right for forfeiture if moral and scholarship standards are not upheld. Mr. Coleman is well known in Des Moines, and his numerous friends here will be gratified to learn of his splendid success.

TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE J. H. SHEPARD.

Because of so many letters and telegrams that have been coming here expressing sorrow for the passing of J. H. Shepard and so many beautiful tributes paid him, for which we do most sincerely thank all of these friends of his, and below we are running just a few of them for all our readers:
Keokuk, March 8, 1918.
John L. Thompson, P. G. M., Des Moines, Iowa.

Dear Sir and Brother: During my recent visit to Des Moines on the occasion of the funeral of our dear Brother Shepard, I had no opportunity to tender you my sympathy, thus I do so here and now, expressing at the same time my personal distress at his death and will add what you yourself will appreciate, viz., that by reason of his death, the grand lodge of Iowa sustains a heavy blow, and those of us to whose good fortune it was given to know him intimately must consider his going a personal loss.
W. W. Gross,
Grand Master.

Davenport, Iowa, March 5, 1918.
J. L. Thompson, 1320 W. Twentieth Street, Des Moines, Iowa.
Very sad message to me indeed. Will be impossible to attend funeral of P. G. M. Shepard. Accept my profound sympathy in your hour of bereavement and may we all bow in humble submission to a divine will.
John E. Bradford,
D. Grand Master.

Dubuque, Iowa, March 11, 1918.
John L. Thompson, P. G. M., 1306 Twentieth St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Dear Sir and Brother: It is with deep regret that I learned of the death of Past Grand Master Bro. Joseph Shepard. I received the notice too late to be present at the services. Although my acquaintance with Bro. Shepard was but of a few years, his influence and his zeal for the cause of Masonry will always be remembered. That our beloved brother has received his just reward from the Supreme Grand Master of the universe, a home in that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens, must be the belief of those that knew him.

Also kindly convey to North Star lodge, No. 2, my most earnest regrets for the loss they have suffered through the passing out of so great and good a man as our beloved past grand master, Bro. Joseph H. Shepard. Fraternal yours,
Harry W. Rose,
Grand Secretary.

Marshalltown, Iowa, March 5, 1918.
Mr. John L. Thompson, care Bystander, Des Moines, Iowa.
Please convey to Mrs. J. H. Shepard our deep sympathy in this sad hour of bereavement. (Signed)
Jessie L. Walker,
Al. Walker.

"Brother J. H. Shepard As a Past Worthy Patron."

A tribute on behalf of Deborah Administrative Council of O. E. S., by Atty. S. Joe Brown, past worthy counselor.

Perhaps the most conclusive evidence of Brother Shepard's constant devotion to the order of Freemasonry is the fact that notwithstanding the fact that he had been made a master Mason, a past master and a past grand master more than thirty years previous, and had also received the side degree of Heroine of Jericho, of which branch of the order he was a past Joshua; yet when in his declining years the now very popular adoptive rite of the Order of the Eastern Star was introduced into his community he petitioned for and received the degrees of the branch of the order in Princess Zorah chapter, No. 10, in the year 1915, by which chapter, soon after his initiation, he was honored by being elevated to the highest office within its gift, that of presiding worthy patron, while occupying which position he petitioned for and received the degrees of past worthy patron in Deborah Administrative Council, composed only of present and past presiding officers of the Order of the Eastern Star in this city and by which branch of the order he was elected to the office of treasurer, which position he occupied at the time of his demission from to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Grand Chapter of the universe, and while he was young in the work of the Order of the Eastern Star, his many years of experience, his constant study of the fundamental principles of Freemasonry and his undying devotion thereto made his wise counsel a priceless source of information in our Administrative Council, where he shall be greatly missed; but we are consoled by our faith that having "seen his Star in the East" and "come to worship Him," his demission from our Administrative Council has already been followed by his admission to membership in the Supreme Grand Council above the degrees of which can only be conferred by Him who is "fairest among thousands, altogether lovely."

Oskaloosa, Iowa, March 5, 1918.
Hon. John L. Thompson, Seventh and Mulberry, Des Moines, Iowa.
My Dear Sir and Bro.: It was with surprise and deep regret that I read in this morning's Register of the death of illustrious brother and my esteemed friend, Bro. Joseph H. Shepard. I have learned of Bro. Shepard's illness through the Bystander and also in a card from his wife, and felt that his condition was critical and should come, that I would be notified in time to attend the funeral. But no word has come to me from any source until I seen the notice in this morning's Register, although he passed away Sunday. No one regrets this more than I, as I had fully resolved in my mind to be present to pay the last mark of respect to so worthy a Mason and a man whom I have always loved and respected as a dear friend, because I have at all times found him to be such.

In the death of Bro. Shepard, Iowa Masonry has lost one of its staunchest supporters and brightest lights. A man of good impulses, endowed with high ideals and controlled by Christian principles. He was ever found battling for the right as he was given to see the right. His influence was felt and his advice sought in all the circles of his activities and his death will be most keenly felt in all of them.
A. G. Clark.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite for Colds.

J. L. Easley, Macon, Ill., in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says: "During the past fifteen years it has been my sister's favorite medicine for colds on the lungs. I myself have taken it a number of times when suffering with a cold and it always relieved me promptly."

HOW TO KEEP WELL.
J. Alvin Jefferson, M. D.

To show that alcohol is a poison and exerts an injurious effect upon the tissues of the body is the brief purpose of this article.

Alcohol belongs to the class of drugs known as narcotics poisons and in this class we find chloroform and ether. Alcohol is a universal intoxicant because it affects all animals alike. It is a protoplasmic poison.

The tissues of the body are made up mainly of water about 90 per cent. It is said that a man who weighs 154 pounds has about 100 pounds of water in his system, which is equivalent to 12 gallons, enough if rightly arranged to drown him. Alcohol possesses a strong affinity for water; when taken into the body it robs the tissues of their most vital element, water. Anything that injures the cellular structures of the body through chemical reaction is a poison. By experimental study, alcohol has been found to do this. It is one of the most useful and at the same time one of the most dangerous drugs in the pharmacopeia. Alcohol is not prescribed by the medical profession now as it used to be. The marked reduction in the use of alcohol in hospitals during the last fifty years is prima facie evidence against its baneful effects.

The most useful weapon that we possess against the use of alcohol as a beverage is public education. Here the church can play a very important role. Its position against strong drink should be positive. The taking of little wine for thy stomach's sake is not to be encouraged.

The W. C. T. U. ought to be endorsed and encouraged for its stand against alcohol, and in its splendid effort to put down the greatest foe to the civilization of the world.

Woman is said to be the oldest doctor and alcohol the oldest patent medicine. When Eve ate the apple she was experimenting in therapeutics. This may account for the antipathy existing between woman and alcohol.

While man is expending his strength and wisdom in leveling the forest and planting civilization therein, woman is endeavoring to protect that civilization by keeping out alcohol.

Alcohol affects the muscle, blood, nervous system and in fact every tissue of the body. Briefly we wish to show how alcohol affects the heart.

The normal heart beats about seventy-two times to the minute, or 4,320 times in one hour, or 103,680 times in twenty-four hours. If two ounces of alcohol are taken, the heart will be forced to beat 6,000 extra times in twenty-four hours, making a total of 109,680. This extra work placed upon the heart is equivalent to lifting seven tons one foot high.

Long-continued use of alcohol causes a degeneration of the muscular fibres of the heart. These fibre cells in their normal healthy state enable the heart to pump the blood with sufficient force to equally distribute it to all parts of the body. Alcohol tends to disorganize these cells into unhealthy fat cells. Hence the fatty heart of drinkers. Any agency that affects the integrity of the cells affects the well being of the organ.

Alcohol is a poison, so is strychnine. It should be administered only upon the advice of a physician and not by a bootlegger.

A Bilious Attack.

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter.
