EDITOR'S OBSERVATIONS

(By John L. Thompson.)

Sioux City, the progressive, fast growing city in the great northwest, which is the second largest city in Iowa, is a beautifully located city on the Missouri river.

There are two secret societies, the Masonic Lodge and Odd Fellows, and several ladies clubs, two pool halls, five barber shops, no restaurants. Chas. Watkins has just opened up a first class pool room and a barber shop at 812 Maple St.

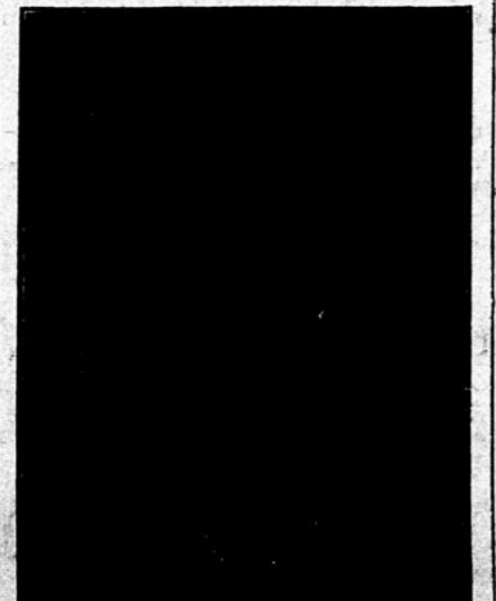

Mr. Paul W. Halyard Violinist Mr. Raymond Dysart has secured Mr. Paul Halyard, violinist, of Harrisburg, Pa., to take the leadership of his orchestra known as "Dysart's Jazz Orchestra."

This orchestra is the most popular orchestra, white or colored, in Des Moines. Indeed, it is a hard matter to get dates with them. They are engaged at the Shops Piazza, Des Moines Club, Army Community Service, and are dated to play at the opening of the new Fort Des Moines Hotel.

NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

The commencement exercises of the National Training School for Women and Girls began with the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. W. H. R. Powell of Alexandria, Virginia, Sunday, June 1st.

The commencement exercises were held on Friday. Rev. J. E. Wood of Kentucky delivered the address and Rev. Charles S. Morris of Virginia presented the diplomas and certificates.

The annual meeting of the Alumnae Association was held on Thursday. A banquet followed the business meeting. "A Drive for a Trades Hall" is their slogan.

ASK PROTECTION FOR COLORED RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

John R. Shillady, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, today made public a letter to the director general of the U. S. Railroad Administration.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is in receipt of a communication stating that the dining car crew doing service on dining car 3846 of the New Orleans Meridian Line, resigned their positions because it was impossible for them to obtain protection, the dining car conductor having failed to protect a colored waiter from an assault by a white flagman which resulted in the waiter's death.

Both the train conductor and the flagman are under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Administration. The resignation of the employees of the United States Railroad Administration, on the ground that they cannot obtain protection because of their color, would seem to merit investigation of those officials of the United States Railroad Administration who decline to afford them protection in the performance of their duty.

NAME MOUNTAIN AS A MEMORIAL TO ROOSEVELT.

Black Hills Pioneers to Honor the Ex-President With Big Ceremony on July 4. Peak Overlooks Scenes of Former Activities of the Colonel.

New York.—Announcement was made today by the Roosevelt Memorial Association that on July 4 the Black Hills Pioneers would honor the memory of the dead ex-president by naming for him the highest peak in the Black Hills.

Peak Overlooks Three States.

The peak which is to be known as Mount Theodore Roosevelt is now known as Sheep Mountain or Round Top. It is a detached eminence with an elevation of 6,000 feet, three miles from Deadwood, fifteen miles from Wyoming and thirty-five miles from the Montana state line.

Memorial Cairn at Summit.

The people of Deadwood are now building at the summit of the mountain a cairn fifty feet high of boulders of native granite. T. A. Brown of Spearfish, one of the colonel's associates of years ago, has obtained the permission of the local committee to place in this monument a stone with the cattle brands of his old friend chiselled thereon.

600 TEACHERS ENROLLED AT 10TH ANNUAL SUMMER SCHOOL OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE.

Tuskegee, Ala., June 14.—539 teachers from 14 states enrolled at Tuskegee Institute Monday morning for the opening of the Tenth Annual Summer School. This enrollment is unprecedented and shows how the teachers in the rural communities in the South are striving to strengthen themselves for the work and the heavier responsibilities which have come to them by reason of reconstruction and the re-adjustment of conditions which grew out of the war.

At eleven o'clock Monday morning, the opening day of the session, Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal, addressed words of welcome to the teachers. Other speakers for the week were: Dr. Geo. D. Goddard, Rural School Agent for the state of Georgia; Mr. C. J. Calloway, Director of the Extension Department, Tuskegee Institute, which directs the work of the Rosenwald Rural School Building; Mr. W. B. Riley, Superintendent of Education, Macon county, Alabama; R. H. O. Sargent of the Federal Board of Vocational Education.

Mr. Ezra C. Roberts, Director of the Academic Department and Summer School, commenting upon the enrollment, said: "Of the 600 teachers now on the grounds, 235 are teachers in Rosenwald schools and they have come for special training which we have arranged for them. Through the generosity of the General Education Board, the teachers in the Rosenwald schools have had their railroad fare paid to Tuskegee in order that they might have this special training which is designed to establish certain definite standards in so far as industrial work is concerned."

In addition to the regular summer school course, special instructions in thrift and Red Cross first aid are being given.

COLORED GIRL APPOINTED TO POSITION IN STATE OFFICE. Appointment May Help Break Down Unjust Barrier Against Colored Peoples.

Miss Alameda Green, colored, of this place, has been appointed stenographer and typist in the office of the curator of the state library at Des Moines. Miss Green is a graduate of Wilberforce university, Wilberforce, Ohio, and is uncommonly well equipped for her work.

The United States is the only country in the world where color prejudice exists. We seemingly are ignorant of the fact that nearly half of the globe in extent is inhabited by people of dark skin, and that two-fifths of the inhabitants of the world are dark skinned, including not only the people of Asia and Africa, but of Mexico and of Central and South America and Cuba as well.

Mr. D. C. Jackson has just returned from a visit to his home in Lexington, Mo.

Mr. W. R. Lowe is making a wonderful record pitching for the colored Sioux City ball team, making home honors by playing Morning Side College.

The Odd Fellows will give a big picnic Thursday the 19th at Woodland Park. Base ball will be one of the main features of the day.

If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as getting.

CECIL H. BREWTON.

We are pleased to run a cut of Iowa's young athletic star.

Started athletics in 1916 as substitute guard of Mason City foot ball squad. Spring of the same year made the high school track team, but was unable to run on account of ineligibility. In 1917 made the varsity foot ball team, which were the "Champions of Iowa, 1917."

The only colored graduate of the class of 1919 (of 90 students).

ROCK ISLAND, ILL. (Special to Bystander.)

Emily Harper and William Morrison were recent graduates of Rock Island high school. Helen Henrietta Reynolds is the first colored student to graduate from grammar school with a perfect attendance record, completing the eight year course in seven years, and being neither absent or tardy during the seven years.

KEOKUK NEWS. (Special to Bystander.)

At Bethel A. M. E. church Sunday two splendid sermons were delivered by the pastor, Rev. C. R. Waters. The people are attending both morning and evening services nicely, considering the hot weather.

The Children's Day exercises were observed in the Sunday school Sunday, June 15th, at 2 p. m. Marjorie Holbert Tooms in charge of program, and it was certainly grand. After the program George Roddy and Mae Retta Ashby lifted the offering, and they did splendidly.

Mrs. C. R. Waters, who has been visiting in Chicago for three weeks, returned to the city again Monday evening on the 9:05 train. She reports having a splendid visit. Also Mrs. Lucas, her mother, and little William Jackson returned with her.

Thursday evening the Carnation Club gave a wonderful surprise on Mrs. Waters. There were about 32 or 34 people gathered at the parsonage about 9:30 and brought all sorts of canned goods and other eatables. They also brought ice cream and home made cakes and the table was spread from one side of the room to the other, and every one had a nice time, returning home at a late hour.

Rev. Waters and Mr. W. H. Green, the delegate to the district conference which meets in Burlington next Tuesday morning, will leave on an early train Tuesday morning. Also a large number from Keokuk expect to attend the convention, Mrs. Marjorie Holbert Tooms being the delegate sent from the Sunday school, Mrs. Lena B. Porter delegate from the Allen C. E. League, Mrs. F. S. Johnson being the treasurer of the Sunday school, and Miss Ruth Johnson being the organist, will arrive on Wednesday morning.

On July 4 a grand picnic will be given on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. George Snoddy. All of Keokuk are invited. Remember what a fine time we had last year! But this year will be better. The Institute Band will furnish the music in the evening.

"TO THE SCHOOL-HOUSE"

Four long years thou hast sheltered us Beneath thy dark expansive roof; That thou hast well deserved thy trust Our daily presence offers proof.

We've sought for knowledge gathered here From early morn till close of day; And tutored by thy learned staff, Our searches have not gone astray.

When first we entered thy broad doors On that occasion in the past, Perhaps we did not then abound In virtues which we claim at last.

While dwelling here within thy halls, True friendships by the score we've made; And thenceforth our ways must part, Thy pleasant memories ne'er shall fade.

Among the volumes score on score, We've spent the pleasant hours of youth In search of knowledge held therein, And from them gained the light of truth.

Both joys and woes we have endured That wisdom to our souls might come; And like the plowman in the lay We soon shall turn our footsteps home.

Off on those dark and irksome days With every proffered text foured o'er, Our hearts in deep resentment rose And bade us wander from thy door.

However, with the goal in sight, We've played the long scholastic game, And knowledge gained within thy walls Perchance may some day bring us fame.

The days have lengthened into years— As students we have gained the light, And hope and truths we've garnered here Will lead our faltering steps aright.

Behind us stretch those four long years Which we have spent within thy rooms; Beyond thy threshold, to our gaze A vision of the future looms.

In future years as we look back Along the pathway of our lives, From out the deep gulf of the past A vision of thy form will rise.

A debt of gratitude we owe To thee, fair emblem of the light, Which leads all men to broader paths And makes the star of life stay bright.

Long shall thy praise be on our lips As forth we launch on life's rough sea, And may thy strong heart receive Our thanks, which we now offer thee.

Time moves apace, the goal lies near, And from that day when we soon must part; But on that day when we go forth We'll hold fond mem'ries in each heart.

R. Irving Johnson, Gravity, Iowa.

Editor's Note:—Young Johnson just graduated with honors from the Clinton High School, therefore his splendid poem is typical of what he has just passed thru.

COLORED GIRL GETS HONORS AT S. U. I.

Booze Is Not a Good Cure.

From the Ames Iowa Intelligencer. When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whiskey, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache.

Getting Worried.

Clarence constantly played with Marguerite, one of twins, until his parents teased him about his "girl." One afternoon Clarence's mother was sitting on the porch. Clarence, Marguerite, and a few other children were playing in the yard. Suddenly he left the group and coming to his mother said: "Mother, when you marry a twin, do you have to marry both of

WILL "MAKE GOOD"

Spirit That Animates the Returning Soldiers.

Men Who Gloriously Finished the Greatest War in History Have Now But One Idea: Their Country's Good.

The American soldier in the great war dedicated his life to the establishment of justice, freedom and democracy in the world. Analytical wise guys have been busy ever since America got into the war, furnishing cynical explanations of the American fighting man's impelling motive.

In spite of the complex arguments of the analytical psychologists who can understand anything but the simple sincerity of an honest man, the American soldier did fight in war for the establishment of those principles, and has every intention of working in peace for the preservation of that for which he fought.

I talked of the purposes of the American Legion with Colonel Roosevelt. In his conversation, as he explained them to me, the word "crystallization" occurred again and again.

"We want," he said, "to crystallize the spirit that made it possible for us to get into this war and to fight it as we did."

Do you realize, you who read this, what that spirit is that this organization wants to crystallize and preserve? I'll give you an example of it that I saw.

A shattered church in the Marne salient during the latter part of July: It was filled with freshly-wounded on stretchers. The shells were whining over and bursting about it. A slim, big-eyed, very boyish boy was brought in all shot to pieces. He was a very ordinary American boy, certainly not more than eighteen. A medical major was passing.

"Hey, doc," the young fellow called weakly.

"What is it, son?" the major asked, bending above him.

"Tell me, doc," the boy begged huskily. "Am I—am I—bad hit?"

The major looked at the descriptive slip with which the wounded boy was tagged and hesitated. He knew the young fellow had less than half an hour of life left in him.

"Well, I'll tell you, son," he said slowly. "You're in a pretty bad way, but we're going to do all we can for you."

The boy—who was a very ordinary young fellow, as I have said—saw the truth under the thin camouflage of kindness.

He knew he was dead. He caught his breath quickly, closed his eyes, and, reaching up, caught hold of the major's hand and held it tight for a little time.

Then he sighed, opened his eyes, and folded his arms contentedly on his breast. He looked up at the major, and there was the calm light of a glad resignation on his face.

"Well, anyhow," he whispered triumphantly, "I guess I made good, didn't I?"

"You sure did, son," the major assured him.

The boy smiled again and died, happy in the knowledge that he had made good in his personal obligation to establish the principles of justice, freedom and democracy.

That's the spirit that the American Legion wants to crystallize, to perpetuate, to preserve and translate into terms of constructive civilian effort that will insure the continuation in force of the principles that the soldier fought to save.—William Slavens McNutt in Collier's Weekly.

The Italian Farmer.

The Italian farmer is evidently nothing if not willing to experiment. No fewer than three classes of collective farms are in successful operation in the country. In one class a co-operative society of farmers acts as landlord for the individual members, each of whom tills his own farm independently of the others. Under the second plan the co-operative society holds the land, decides from year to year how it is to be divided and cultivated, and appoints each member to his part in the program of cultivation. The third plan is more complicated: the co-operative society rents a large farm which is worked by a permanent staff of members receiving a salary for their services, and by other members who divide their time between work on the co-operative farm and on privately owned farms. All three forms of co-operation are highly successful according to recent accounts. They have this point in common, the elimination of middlemen between farmer and consumer.

Ivory "Mines."

Lieutenant Scheutze, who was a member of a United States naval expedition sent into the arctic in search of the exploration ship Jeannette, reports the discovery of Ivory "mines" in a group of islands lying northeast of the Lena river, situated in northeast Siberia. Vast numbers of mammoths, it appears, have been discovered buried in a sea of ice, and it is held that, for a short period each year, probably a few weeks, these mammoths could be "mined" with great profit, owing to the immensity of the tusks, four times the size of those of the elephant of this age, and because of the great value of ivory at present. An Ivory "mining" expedition would doubtless furnish all the "thrill" that the most adventurous could possibly desire.

Beyond Writer's Power.

Coningsby Dawson says, in telling of his disinclination to keep even a note book after he went to the front, though he had been a professional writer:

"One has a strange feeling about books when he is in the immediate presence of death. I remember an anecdote of a great Swedish writer which partly illustrates my mood. The watchers by his bedside thought he was dead. Suddenly he raised himself up.

"Now I could write," he whispered. They were his last words.

"In the light of my experience at the front I know what he meant. The petty personal problems which we cloak in words and call literature seem so ignoble a presentation of men and women who are planned for immortality and live in an infinite world. I went to France fully intending to keep a record of what I felt and saw there. I soon found that what I felt and saw was too grave to put on paper; I cheapened myself in my own eyes in the attempt."

An Expert.

A government press censor was talking about the German press censorship.

"We found on some prisoners, recently," he said, "the German censorship's latest prohibition. Prominent among these was an order to the press not to mention under any circumstance the growing use in Germany of dog flesh for food.

"That prohibition reminds me of a story—a story that may contain a lot of truth.

"A German prisoner," the story runs, was rebuked by a sergeant for the sloppy way he was feeding and looking after some Red Cross dogs.

"I guess you think you know a lot about dogs," the sergeant sneered.

"Yes, sir, that's right," said the prisoner, "for let me tell you, sir, I've been cook in a Berlin restaurant for the last two years."

Mature Enlightenment.

"That great railroad president was once an office boy."

"I venture a guess," observed Miss Cayenne, "that he felt much more secure and important when he was an office boy than he does today."

A Gone Case.

Katherine—I saw him flirting with a girl last month, and he's a married man.

Kidder—Well, that's always the way. If a man gives a girl the least encouragement she'll marry him.

A Cold Night.

"Did you put the cat out, John?" "No," came the resolute answer. "I joined the S. P. C. A. today. It's against my principles to do anything so cruel."

Enough Said.

Earlie—Say, pa. His Pa—Well, Earlie? Earlie—Does a mill race come under the head of aquatic sports?

For Sleeplessness.

Drink a cupful of hot cocoa, without sugar, just before retiring, and you will not be troubled with sleeplessness.

Aviator's Lingo.

The air service, like most special branches, has its own vocabulary. An officer of flying status, but who for some reason does not fly, is called a "penguin." This name is also applied to a type of training machine which does not rise from the ground. An officer in the flying service without flying status is called a "kiwi" after an Australian bird. A pilot is generally called a "quirk." A flight is called a "flip," and if it is a distinguished failure it is called a "washout." An airplane is usually called a "bus." The great hope of the airman is to "spike-bozzle," or bring down a "Zepp," or one of the smaller nonrigid dirigibles they call "blimps." The airman's pest is the "onton," or large flaming anti-aircraft shell which "Archie" sends up as a sort of bouquet—with sometimes an unpleasant smell. "Archie" is the general name for the anti-aircraft gun.—Everybody's.

Vogue of Initials.

That the new vogue of initials is as bewildering as a writer in the New York Statesman suggests is made abundantly clear by reports of committees dealing with the Prince of Wales' fund. Those who have been initiated into the mysteries of its administration and are familiar with the terminology in use may know that W. C. does not indicate the west central district, but means war committee; that N. R. F. signifies national relief fund, and that L. R. C. is meant local representative committee. But even they must be baffled by the problem set by such a procession of initials as G. C. P. R. D., and fall to guess that what is suggested by them is government committee for the prevention and relief of distress.—London Chronicle.

Eagles Historic in the Navy.

When Secretary Daniels christened Henry Ford's submarine chasers "Eagles" he perpetuated a name that is historic in the navy. According to naval records 15 American fighting ships bearing that name have distinguished themselves in the Revolutionary war, the naval war with France, the War of 1812, the Civil war and the Spanish war.

The wax of the candellilla plant is used in making candles, phonograph records, wood and leather polishes, floor wax, certain varnishes, linoleum, rubber compounds and celluloid, and it also enters into use in pharmacy and in the making of electrical insulation. The candellilla plant grows on the poorest quality of soil, and before it was found to have a commercial value for the wax contained it was considered a pest.

Indians Good Orchardists.
The American apple owes much to the care of the Indian farmers, for the Indian was an able pomologist. It was not unusual 150 years ago for Indian orchards to have 1,500 trees, which all had been duly pruned and cultivated by the people we are prone to regard as nomadic savages. The peach and quince were also cultivated by them in later years. To the world the Indian introduced such fruits as the persimmon, the pawpaw, the pineapple and the Virginia strawberry.

PORT DODGE, IOWA.

The Masonic installation was held at the Odd Fellows hall Tuesday night. Little Florence Hill has been very sick for the last few days. Mr. and Mrs. Steppe were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coleman at Sunday dinner. Children's Day at Coppen A. M. E. church Sunday was a feature of great interest. At the morning service Rev. N. B. Jones delivered a special sermon to the children, First Samuel, 3-4 verses. Here am I. Subject: God is still calling. His discourse was quite interesting to all. At night the children rendered a program which was a unique affair. A most helpful contribution to the cause of Christ and a signal of a growing interest in the heart of the children to become a part in the great work of the church. The funeral services of Mr. John Britten was held at the A. M. E. church Monday. Rev. N. B. Jones officiated. His illness was of but three days. Was only a representative of our city about two months. Mrs. C. Coffman, F. Turner, F. Coleman, T. Franklin, Miss B. Wynn were guests in Ames last Tuesday to a 6 o'clock dinner party and dance. While there was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall, and Mrs. Laury. Mrs. L. Raglin was in Marshalltown last week canvassing the black and white goods. DAVENPORT, IOWA.

On last Thursday evening the members of the famous Missouri Club journeyed in trucks to the Moline concert given by a like club over there. There was lots of jolly fun amongst the truckers, who seemed to feel the same. There were two trucks in number owned and driven by colored men of this city. After the concert the members of the club re-entered the trucks and proceeded for home. 'Twas then they had the grand and glorious time. Tuesday night the State Grand Master of the U. B. F. and S. M. S. will appear at the R. M. E. church and will give a lecture. It is expected that there will be many attendants to the same. Details of the concert will be given later. Sunday was stewardess day, but owing to the heat the attendants were not as numerous as past days of the said occasion. Our beloved pastor was called to Clinton, Iowa, to fill the place of our P. E., Rev. N. J. McCracken, who is at present very ill at his home in Chicago. Rev. Moore held the quarterly meeting and the quarterly conference and then returned home. Sunday the streets will once more be warmed under the feet of men when the Masons proceed to the A. M. E. church, where they will have their annual sermon preached. The day will be observed as their annual St. John's day. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. S. B. Moore.

Cut This Out and Take It With You.

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion.
