

MINER KILLED BY FALLING SLATE - SIX HURT AS BUS WRECKS CAR

Clem C. Wilson, 57-year-old miner of Waukegan, was killed in a slate cave-in Wednesday afternoon at the Waukegan coal mine, fourteen miles west of Des Moines on Highway No. 32.

The cave-in occurred while Wilson was on his way out of the mine at 3:30 p. m., after the day's work. His body was not recovered until almost seven hours later. No one else was near him when the accident occurred, it was reported, and no one else was injured. Surviving are his wife, a son and a daughter, all of Waukegan. The body was taken to the Wilson funeral home in Des Moines, where it is being held pending funeral arrangements.

PETITION GOVERNOR TO REPLACE PROSECUTOR IN CHICKASHA LYNCHING CASE

New York, July 11.—Governor W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma has been petitioned by the colored citizens of the Chickasha, through the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P., to take out of the hands of County Attorney B. F. Holding investigation of the lynching of Henry Argo at Chickasha on Memorial Day, and to call a special grand jury for a thorough investigation. It was revealed here today. More than four hundred colored citizens of Chickasha signed the petition, doing so when strong reasons were discovered for believing that if the matter were left in the hands of Holding the lynchings would be whitewashed.

War Mothers Leave For France

Carnea Will Fight Bearcat Wright

On July 17th, Bearcat Wright, Omaha Negro heavyweight, opposes Primo Carnea, giant Italian heavyweight. Wright has been boasting for some time that he can defeat Carnea. He will get his chance when he tackles the mountain man before a capacity house at the Omaha Western League ball park. The outcome of the bout is being watched by the entire world.

On June 23rd, George Godfrey fought Carnea at the Phillips' ball park. In this fight Godfrey deliberately fouled Carnea, after he had just been warned by Referee Tom Reilly that he was to be careful. As a result of this Godfrey lost his license.

The boxing fans are watching to see how Bearcat Wright deals with the Famous Italian.

URBAN LEAGUE EXECUTIVE SCORES SEGREGATION OF GOLD STAR OTHERS

New York, July 11.—James H. Hubert, executive secretary of the New York Urban League, has strongly endorsed the campaign of the N. A. A. C. P. against "Jim Crowing" of the colored gold star mothers, entitled to visit at government expense the graves of their relatives killed in France in the late war. "Perhaps we need some of the spirit of the Boston tea party," Mr. Hubert declares in scolding those Negroes who do not resent the insult to the Negro mothers, fifty-five of whom declined the trip, preferring to "remain at home and retain their honor and self-respect."

Paper Barometer

Helley's Twentieth Century Book of Recipes publishes the following method of making a paper barometer: Saturate white blotting paper with the following liquid and then hang up to dry: Cobalt chloride, 1 ounce; sodium chloride, 1/2 ounce; calcium chloride, 75 grains; acacia, 1/4 ounce; water 8 ounces.

The amount of moisture in the air is roughly indicated by the changing color of the paper, rose red indicating rain; pale red, very moist; bluish red, moist; lavender blue, nearly dry; blue, very dry.

Unfortunate Early Savant

Henry, Marquis of Villena, a Castilian savant in the reign of John II studied astronomy so diligently that he lost all run of his worldly affairs and caused a wit of his day to comment sarcastically: "He knew much of heaven and nothing of earth."

His blind neglect of his financial concerns cost him all his possessions and reduced him to extreme poverty in his last years. He was suspected of necromancy, and at his death in 1884 the king's ecclesiastical agent threw more than a hundred of his precious books into the flames.—Detroit News.

Concerning the Law

The true view, as I submit, is that the law is what the judges declare; that statutes, precedents, the opinions of learned experts, customs, and morality are the sources of the law; that but of everything else the opinion of the ruling spirits of the community; who have the power to close any of these sources; but that as long as they do not interfere, the judges, in establishing law, have recourse to these sources.—John Chipman Gray.

D See Know Beeskeeper

One often hears the statement that bees know their master. This is not true. During the working season a bee lives for only about six weeks, two of which are spent in the hive. It is hardly likely that a beeskeeper would examine a bee frequently enough to become known to such a short-lived creature, even if it had the ability to distinguish between different human beings.

Hard to Grasp Facts of the Stellar System

At first the brain reels a little in the attempt to grasp the facts of the stellar system, even explained with the facility and exactness of which Sir James Jeans is a master. From the vast extensions of the sky he carries us into the remotest recesses of the atom, where the electron whirrs around its perpetual circuit several thousand million times every second. These numbers, says the London Spectator, are but dazzling paint, and it is simpler to say that the electron travels as far in a second as our latest seaplane travels in an hour. Sir James Jeans has a happy fertility in such comparisons, and forcibly strikes the imagination when he tells us that if the carbon atom were magnified to the size of Waterloo station, its electrons would be represented by six wasps flying round in the vast vacuity. All the rest is emptiness; and so in the celestial spaces it is immense odds against any given spot being occupied. "We live in a gossamer universe; pattern, plan and design are there in abundance, but solid substance is rare."

One of Life's Tragedies

They sat gazing into each other's eyes. At last he slipped from the sofa and, kneeling at her feet, gave utterance to the sweeping thoughts that were swelling up his mind. "Darling," he said, "sometimes I think how lucky I was to be born in the same century as you, to have met you. It seems as if Fate had intended us for each other since the beginning of time, and that at last the great design has been completed in our love. It has been Fate, my dearest, Fate."

"Aye," she replied, "I'll wait with you, 'till I'm fated to die. If I hadna tripped over your fate I'd have jumped on the bus."

And they pondered over the tragedy of might have been.—London Tit-Bits.

Prominent Des Moines Woman Dies

Mrs. Luetta Bryson was born July 17, 1888, in Gallatin, Mo., to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Marshall. She departed this life July 7, at the age of forty-three years, 11 months and 10 days. She was married to Howen Peterson in July, 1903, in Gallatin, Mo. To this union was born four children, Mrs. Oia Peterson, Mrs. Roberta Ashby, Monroe Peterson and Mildred Peterson. Mr. Peterson preceded her to the Great Beyond on March 13, 1926. She was later married to Mr. Henry Bryson. To this union one son was born, Marshall Bryson, who departed this life July 13, 1929. She professed a hope in Christ at an early age and united with the Mount Olive Baptist church at Gallatin, Mo. She later moved to Des Moines with her family and became a member of Corinthian Baptist church, of which she was a faithful worker until her death. After the passing of her son, Marshall, sickness seemed to creep upon her, but she bore her affliction patiently. She leaves to mourn her a mother, a husband, four children, four grandchildren, six aunts and seven uncles, and a host of relatives and friends. Our loss is heaven's gain. We loved you, dear Luetta, but Jesus loved you best. Lay down thy weary head upon Jesus' breast.

Out-of-Town Delegates Attend State Republican Meeting

At the state republican convention held in Des Moines this week four Negro delegates were in attendance, James G. Brown and Harry E. Wilson of Des Moines and Mrs. Basie Pertum-Miller and J. O. Winston of Ottumwa.

Mrs. Miller has been a delegate on other occasions. She is particularly active in political circles in Wapello county and is called upon constantly when political matters are being considered. While in the city she stopped at the La Marguerite hotel.

Mr. C. H. Wilson and J. Jordan of Ottumwa also attended the convention.

Minimum of Waste in Sardine-Canning Plant

In a Dowd East sardine canning factory the only thing that is wasted is the odor. That may not be a dead loss, for there are persons who assert they like the smell of a sardine factory. The sardines are sold to the manufacturers of artificial pearls. The fish meal is in demand in Germany and in this country. The waste is used for fertilizer. The production of sardines and sardines. Even the tin cuttings from the cans are baled and shipped to England for reprocessing into new sheets of metal.

Down East sardines are sent to 95 different countries. In Java, when representatives sought a new market, the natives would have nothing to do with the "little fishes boiled in oil." Two hundred free cases were offered if the prospective customers would place a 1,000 case order. At last the deal was made. The sardines were shipped high on trucks, together with a band of native musicians, taken from busanjar to busanjar, and sold. Thus introduced, there was no further difficulty in adding Java to the list of sardine consumers.—New York Times.

Bystander Makes Staff Changes

The Bystander desires to announce that it has made several changes in its staff and has perfected an organization which will undoubtedly make or greater efficiency and give the public better service.

Mr. H. Lyell Williams from Davenport has joined the staff as Advertising Manager. He will also act as Assistant General Manager. Mrs. May Pride, a long resident of the city, is acting as city secretary and secretary in the office. Owen Robinson and Robert Martin are in charge of job printing and also assist in the collection of subscriptions. Atty. James B. Morris continues as Editor and General Manager.

This arrangement is already working very satisfactorily and will, we believe, show itself in the general tone of the business. It will also give Attorney Morris more time to devote to his law practice.

New Excuse to Exhonorate Lyncher

New York, July 11.—An Associated Press dispatch from Wallhalla, South Carolina, which is relayed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, reveals the latest excuse discovered by a southern state for not punishing lynchers.

Judge M. L. Bonham has granted a motion of defense counsel for a continuance of the trial of seventeen men accused of lynching on April 24th Allen Green, a fifty year old Negro, the continuance being granted to next fall because of the "excessive heat" in South Carolina. The trial of Green's murderers was set for July 7th and the expected postponement of the trial "until some indefinite time when the weather is cooler" appears, from the Associated Press dispatch, to have been expected by all parties concerned.

Additional Local News

On Tuesday evening at the Corinthian Baptist church a big "Mystery Party" was presented by a special committee from the Big Brothers and Live Wire classes of the Young People's department of the Sunday school. A short program was rendered, a shadow play was given and amusements and games were enjoyed. All guests seemed pleased. The party was quite different from the usual because of the unusual method of giving the party publicity by not telling anyone the program in advance. The committee were: Miss Clara Webb, chairman; Miss Georgine Mason, Touissant Howard, Lyell Williams and Everette Newcomb.

Lincoln post of the American Legion will be responsible for the expenses of one boy at the Y. M. C. A. camp this summer, according to a statement issued by Sam Walker, commander.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Sims for the past thirty days have been motorizing, stopping to visit Mrs. Sims' sister, Mrs. R. B. Pettiford, in Cleveland and other friends in Chicago, Moline, Ottumwa and Indiana. She is returning home Sunday, July 13th.

War Mothers Leave For France

New York, July 11.—Vigorous protest led by the N. A. A. C. P. over a period of six months against jam-crowding of colored Gold Star mothers to the graves of their sons and husbands in France culminated today in a stirring scene in New York City's historic city hall. Ferdinand Q. Morton, civil service commissioner of the city of New York, voiced the sentiment of Negroes throughout the country when he declared:

"To you dark skinned mothers it (the nation) pays the same measure of homage that it gives to your fair skinned sisters who nobly gave their sons in its defense. Secure in the knowledge of this, you will not allow your hearts to be embittered by the insult offered you by the government at Washington."

Fred R. Moore, city alderman and editor of the New York Age, delivered an impassioned attack upon the segregation of the colored Gold Star mothers, having discovered that the assurances given him by a captain of the United States army and published by Mr. Moore in his newspaper to the effect that the colored mothers would not be segregated or discriminated against had been without foundation.

Acting Mayor Regrets

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee regretted that the note of bitterness had to be uttered at the reception tendered the mothers by the city of New York City welcomed them in the same spirit and with the same admiration it had shown white mothers. Mr. McKee called attention to the "enormous pride" which New York City felt in having sent forth "one of the finest fighting units—the old 15th colored regiment."

Arrival of the mothers in New York City caused resentment against segregation of the mothers by the war department to flame up to a high degree. All of the New York City dailies featured the story in their columns, usually on the front page, and much resentment was expressed by both white and colored citizens against the shabby fashion in which the colored mothers were treated.

Among these organizations co-operating with the N. A. A. C. P. in its fight against this discrimination was Women, who sent a telegram of protest from their annual convention in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

War Secretary Explains

The N. A. A. C. P. received on the eve of the sailing of the colored mothers a two page letter of explanation, dated July 10th, from Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, this letter being written seven weeks late in response to a letter of protest to President Hoover written by Walter White, acting secretary of the N. A. A. C. P., on May 23rd. In his letter to the N. A. A. C. P., Secretary of War Hurley sought to defend and explain the government's attitude in segregating the colored mothers.

The Advancement Association sharply answered the secretary of war's communication. In an air mail, special delivery letter, written immediately on receipt of the communication from the war department, Walter White expressed astonishment at Mr. Hurley's statement that certain steamship lines had refused to carry the colored mothers. All Classes Condemn Action

Rarely has any event so stirred the citizens of New York as has this controversy. White and colored people alike were strong in their denunciation of the treatment of the colored mothers and many expressed warm approval of the position taken by the Advancement Association.

A WRONG IMPRESSION

Hiram Evans, of Atlanta, Ga., head of the Klu Klux Klan, is quoted as stating that his organization had evidence showing that the N. A. A. C. P. was aiding the Communist movement in America. Jealous of the manner in which the N. A. A. C. P. has made its influence felt, Evans is simply attempting to undermine its work.

Doubtless some members of the N. A. A. C. P. belong to the Communist movement and vice versa. So do some members of the Klan belong to the N. A. A. C. P. and vice versa. Some of the things, law enforcement for instance, all these organizations are alleged to favor. In fact by a stretch of imagination taking in all of its members, it's easy to connect up most organizations.

The charge that the N. A. A. C. P. is aiding the Communist party is absurd.

A BIG CONTRAST

The New York Age, edited by Fred R. Moore, one of the leading editorial writers in our group, in its issue of July 12th carries two splendid editorials, "Modern Banking Methods" and "Experiments in Co-Operative Housing," which are well worth reading.

The first deals with the Dunbar National bank in Harlem, a Rockefeller backed institution. This bank was established a few years ago in one of the most thickly populated Negro communities in America. It set out to render service to all. Of those served a great majority are Negroes. All of the officers were white, the clerks and bookkeepers colored. The plan was to have Negroes become officers as they became skilled in banking.

The institution has been an overwhelming success. Negroes are serving on the board of directors. Recently one Negro has been elected a vice president and another an assistant cashier.

The other editorial deals with Mr. Rockefeller's adventure in erecting community apartment houses. One was built in the Bronx and is occupied by white tenants. The experiment has run behind one hundred and thirty-six thousand dollars. It has been difficult to keep the apartment occupied. An effort is being made to remedy the difficulty. Of the other experiment, Age says: "This loss is in striking contrast with the results of the co-operative housing experiment for colored tenants established by Mr. Rockefeller, in the shape of the Paul Laurence Dunbar Garden Apartments, in which the vacancies are reduced to a minimum and are properly filled from a long waiting list. These apartments, which are built around a garden on the block bounded by Seventh and Eighth avenues, 149th and 150th streets, are eagerly sought for by Negro tenants who wish to ensure their ownership of a home. For almost the same sum paid for rent elsewhere they secure an equity in the apartments they occupy, with the advantages of greater light and air, as half the site is devoted to the gardens with blooming plants and shrubbery, including a playground for the children.

The Negro in America

By J. C. Browne

We oftentimes hear people boast of their ability and prowess in never taking chances. In our estimation this is one of the most stupid methods by which anyone may attempt to lay claim to intelligence.

The men and women who stand highest in world progress are those who take the greatest chances and surmount the most difficult hazards. It is an excellent trait in life to avoid and safeguard our efforts against all possible recklessness. It is good to be cautious, for caution is the better part of bravery, but too much caution is as disastrous to our ambitions as too many cooks are to the broth.

If one simply wishes to exist until the undertaker comes to deposit his worthless remains back to earth; if one wishes to depart this life unhonored and unsung; if one wishes to leave this world no better for his having lived in it, the surest way to accomplish this end is to take no chances. Afraid to try for fear of failing causes men to grow old without a purpose of life. "No one ever learns to swim by sitting on the bank shivering."

We have this greatest government of the world today because our forefathers dared to declare this nation free and independent and took a chance on establishing it as such by fighting the most powerful nation on the seven seas. We have Colonel Lindbergh, Rear Admiral Byrd and the Hunter brothers, all American idols because they took chances.

The Negro in America must take his chances and run risks for himself if he wishes to keep abreast of this age of competition. Asking others to do for us what they took chances to do for themselves is a confession of weakness, a self-made badge of inferiority. There is always help for the worthy. When you have done all in your power along any line that is commendable, there is always some method created through providence by which we obtain our desires. "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

We as a group must have faith in ourselves; then having that faith, must come the conviction that "Faith without work is vain." The Negroes of this city have the opportunity to bring here Roland Hayse of international fame, conceded to be the greatest living tenor of the age, if we have courage enough to attempt it. We are going to do it, so lay down your hammer.

We are going to present him as no other artist of our group has ever been presented before. It can be done if we will, and we will.

Reduced Rates to Business League

New York City, July 2.—Reduced rates on all railroads are offered to delegates and visitors who plan to attend the thirty-first annual convention of the National Negro Business League. Round trip tickets on the basis of a fare and a half will be on sale August 16th and will be honored for return until August 26th. In addition to these rates all lines are offering summer tourist tickets, which include stop-overs at Niagara Falls, points in Canada, New York City and other cities.

"The unusually good rates this year," said Jesse O. Thomas, transportation commissioner for the Business League, "offer an exceptional opportunity to combine vacations with attendance at the Business League convention. Persons taking advantage of the special round trip rates are reminded to ask for their certificates when purchasing tickets at the original starting point."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Griffin and son, John Wesley, of Osceola, Iowa, and Mrs. E. N. Warren of Des Moines motored to Chicago a few days ago. Mrs. E. N. Warren will visit with her sister, Mrs. Nesbitt, on Calumet avenue, Chicago.

Mr. Griffin and family will visit in the beautiful home of Mrs. Griffin's mother, Mrs. Fred Berry, of 1730 Groy avenue, Evanston, Ill. She will also visit her sister, Mrs. Raymond Croomes, also of 1730 Gray avenue, Evanston.

After a few days' visit Mr. Griffin will return home. Mrs. Griffin and son will spend most of the summer in the city, where several parties have been planned in her honor.

HEALTH TALKS

By Dr. H. H. London

Perhaps the most severe pain known is that due to gall stones and known as gall stone colic. The word colic suggests its nature, but the severity of the pain can not be known unless it is experienced. It is due to actual stones in that portion of the anatomy known as the gall bladder, which carries bile from this bladder into the intestines. It is evident that its function is to carry bile and not stones, and stones once formed within the bladder are prone to cause extreme pain in the attempted passage through a tube which is always smaller than the stone which attempts to pass. Hence the reason for the severe pain, an additional one being the rich supply of nerves which form a part of the duct.

The reason for the formation of stones in the gall bladder is not quite so clear, even though their composition is known to be of cholesterol (which is the remains of red blood corpuscles) calcium and sometimes other inorganic salts in combination, but the nucleus of whatever nature it happens to be built upon by cholesterol to form sometimes stones of large size.

The prevention of gall stone formation is unknown, there being theoretical preventatives of doubtful value. Medicines advertised to cause passage or solution of these stones are of doubtful value. The actual danger of keeping gall stones in a system is not so great, although once in a while they do cause perforation of the gall bladder, with seepage of bile into the peritoneal cavity and formation of adhesions which may cause obstruction of the intestines and prove fatal, but would in any event always add to the pain and discomfort of the one affected.

French Enjoy Fishing
No fewer than 10,000 fishermen took part in a competition and congress which was held at Vichy, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Sunday Observer. The number is not only sufficient to show what a placid person the Frenchman really is—at least when he reaches a certain age—but also to show the natural disposition for sport. I do not mean sport as he understands the word, for he does not really care about games, but sport in the sense of shooting and fishing. Game shooting is far more a pursuit of the whole people of France than in England, and there is hardly a middle-aged Frenchman who is not a fisherman.

Hands't Changed
He was a stout man, and his feet were big in proportion. He wore stout boots, too, with broad toes. When he went into the boot shop to buy another pair, he found he had some difficulty in getting what he wanted. A dozen pairs were shown him.

"No, no! Square toes—must have square shoes," he insisted.

"Fit, sir, everybody is wearing shoes with pointed toes. They are fashionable this season."

"I'm sorry," said the stout man, as he prepared to leave the shop. "I'm very sorry to have troubled you, I'm sure. But you see, I'm still wearing my last season's feet!"—London Tit-Bits.

Had the Wrong Girl
Telephone tact is a necessary acquirement in these modern days, but its exercise occasionally leads to unexpected results. A recent example follows: Late at night the telephone in a home called the householder to the receiver. An obviously feminine voice was just as obviously that of a stranger.

After ascertaining that the caller had been connected with a wrong number, the householder remarked: "This is exasperating, isn't it?"

To his bewilderment the reply came back: "Oh, no; this is Lillian!"—New York Sun.

Unprofitable Smartness
A farmer's son who had been sometime at the university came home to visit his parents. Two fowls were placed on the table for supper, and the young student said he could prove that there were really three fowls.

"This," said he, "is one, and this is two, and two and one make three."

"Since you have made it out—see weel," said his father, "your mother shall see the first, I'll have the second, and ye may eat the third yourself!"

Paper Money
The use of paper money began about 600 years ago in Italy, when the goldsmiths and silversmiths deposited bullion under supervision and the receipts circulated as currency. All the original states issued paper money in Colonial days. The first federal paper money was issued in 1775, under authority of an act of the Continental congress.

Luxury, It Would Seem, Depends on Viewpoint

Recently the Woman passed through one of the poor sections of New York at 3 o'clock, just when hundreds of school children were being released. Directly ahead of her three little girls strolled. One of them, a pale child who looked as if sunlight and vegetables were not part of her daily regime, was conducting a monologue, in a high pitched, excited voice she was describing a bedspread which had been sent as a gift to the child's mother.

"It's so beautiful, like sunshine. All smooth and golden. It's like that. Look here!"

The children with the Woman—just a step away—stopped before a dingy store. Its window displayed a bedspread, cheap, coarse, glaring yellow. "Isn't it lovely?" the little girl asked.

The woman had visions of a poor back apartment into which the sun never peeped. To its occupants that golden bedspread stood for every luxury of life. The woman looked from the happy face of the child to the spread. Perhaps it was not so glaring if you saw it from the right angle.—New York Sun.

Advices Use of Slogan to Overcome Dejection

Slogans are advocated as an aid to a healthy mental outlook by James D. Weiland, who considers their effect and lists a number in an article in Hygeia Magazine.

A good slogan can brighten our whole horizon, fill us with courage and be an emotional stimulus. It directs and holds the attention to a bracing thought. For instance, when a man is down in the dumps it is comforting to think that "the men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed," or that "there are more chances and opportunities in life than we know."

There are slogans hidden away in the world's literature that fit almost any mood or desire, says Mr. Weiland. Proverbs are rich in them. Poems are jeweled with them. Each person must select the ones that mean most to him. Used at the right time the words can penetrate like a sharp dart into a mood and dissipate it. They act like a bugle call marshaling the forces of our resolution and ordering them into action.

French Enjoy Fishing
No fewer than 10,000 fishermen took part in a competition and congress which was held at Vichy, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Sunday Observer. The number is not only sufficient to show what a placid person the Frenchman really is—at least when he reaches a certain age—but also to show the natural disposition for sport. I do not mean sport as he understands the word, for he does not really care about games, but sport in the sense of shooting and fishing. Game shooting is far more a pursuit of the whole people of France than in England, and there is hardly a middle-aged Frenchman who is not a fisherman.

Hands't Changed
He was a stout man, and his feet were big in proportion. He wore stout boots, too, with broad toes. When he went into the boot shop to buy another pair, he found he had some difficulty in getting what he wanted. A dozen pairs were shown him.

"No, no! Square toes—must have square shoes," he insisted.

"Fit, sir, everybody is wearing shoes with pointed toes. They are fashionable this season."

"I'm sorry," said the stout man, as he prepared to leave the shop. "I'm very sorry to have troubled you, I'm sure. But you see, I'm still wearing my last season's feet!"—London Tit-Bits.

Had the Wrong Girl
Telephone tact is a necessary acquirement in these modern days, but its exercise occasionally leads to unexpected results. A recent example follows: Late at night the telephone in a home called the householder to the receiver. An obviously feminine voice was just as obviously that of a stranger.

After ascertaining that the caller had been connected with a wrong number, the householder remarked: "This is exasperating, isn't it?"

To his bewilderment the reply came back: "Oh, no; this is Lillian!"—New York Sun.

Unprofitable Smartness
A farmer's son who had been sometime at the university came home to visit his parents. Two fowls were placed on the table for supper, and the young student said he could prove that there were really three fowls.

"This," said he, "is one, and this is two, and two and one make three."

"Since you have made it out—see weel," said his father, "your mother shall see the first, I'll have the second, and ye may eat the third yourself!"

Paper Money
The use of paper money began about 600 years ago in Italy, when the goldsmiths and silversmiths deposited bullion under supervision and the receipts circulated as currency. All the original states issued paper money in Colonial days. The first federal paper money was issued in 1775, under authority of an act of the Continental congress.

Employment of Glaze for Ornamentation Old

Among a race as gifted as the Chinese, neither the spirit of inventiveness, which originates new objects and processes of manufacture, nor the love of adventure by means of travel imports them from abroad, were ever wholly absent, and it is often difficult to prove to which of these two agencies any particular novelty owes its introduction. However, as regards glaze, importation from abroad does seem the most likely. For one thing it was a very ancient possession of the West.

Even before the Pyramids rose out of the sands of the desert, a lovely turquoise glaze had been discovered by the Egyptian artisans. And twenty centuries later the dream city of the Pharaoh Akhnaton gleamed like a jewel against a cloudless horizon, the lintel of its gates, the walls of its palaces, the pillars of its temples, the cornices of its roofs blazed with a fairlike mosaic of multi-colored glazes. From Egypt glaze spread over western Asia into the full pride of Babylon, unless invented there independently, which is quite as likely. While the baked clay of China was still innocent of all luster, Assyrian potentates decorated their architecture with lions and griffins, stepping out majestically in friezes of richly colored glazed tiles. This resplendent art was continued by the Persian king of kings, by the Seleucids and the Aracids and beyond into the days of Islam.—From "Porcelain Pagodas and Palaces of Jade" by A. E. Gruntham.

Holstein Cattle Winter in Luxurious Quarters

Speaking of the winter care given the famous Holstein cattle by the dairymen of Friesland, Holland, the National Geographic society says: "Barn and dwelling are under one roof, which rises high into the sky in order to provide loft space for the immense amount of hay needed as cattle feed during the long winter. The whole gives the appearance of a one-story cottage pushed low into the earth by weight of an immense pointed roof, which reaches above the tops of the tall trees lining the roadway."

"A hall separates the living quarters of the farmer's family from space set aside for cows, which as a rule is the larger portion of the house. Visitors testify that these barns are spacious and odorless. Each stall is sanded and has a window of its own, inevitably decorated with a fresh white window curtain. Every cow has a bath daily and many of their tails are tied up with ribbon."

A Fair Cop
For years and years and years—no, let us start again: For weary hours the angler sat watching his float. It never moved, save when a ripple of the river made it tremble and raised false hopes in his heart.

Then, with the snort of an enraged bull and the foot-tread to match, the village constable came to him.

"Fishing ain't allowed in this pond," he snapped. "Beat it!"

The fisherman turned bored eyes to him and jerked the hook out of the water.

"I'm not fishing," he replied, with weary sarcasm in his voice. "I'm teaching this worm to swim."

"A-a-r-h!" snorted the policeman triumphantly. "Then come along with me. Bathing ain't allowed in the pond without costumes, and he ain't got one on!"

Wisdom of Antoninus
For a man can lose neither the past nor the future; for how can one take from him that which is not his? So remember these two points: First, that each thing is of like form from everlasting and comes round again in its cycle and that it signifies not whether a man shall look upon the same things for a hundred years or two hundred, or for an infinity of time; second, that the longest lived and the shortest lived man, when they come to die, lose one and the same thing.—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus (121-180 A. D.). "Meditations."

Craze for Hairdressing
In the early eighteenth century hairdressing in France reached its peak. Literally. Many court ladies wore their hair piled so high that they could not sit in coaches but had to kneel or hold their heads out of the windows. It is said that in Paris in 1780 there were 1,200 hairdressers. They were probably kept busy, since it often took an entire day to dress the hair. However, the women who wore it in the most elaborate fashion had it done only about once a week.—Detroit News.

Cancer of the Skin
Cancer of the skin grows slowly and is not particularly malignant. It is possible to cure practically all individuals suffering from this form of the disease, says the American Public Health association, provided they seek aid at an early stage of the disease.

Two Things to Prize
An old job is like an old friend. We become so accustomed to it that we take its virtues as a matter of fact. We overlook its real value and its possibilities for helpfulness. Treat lightly neither an old friend nor an old job.—Orin.

Mexican Coat of Arms

Traced to Aztec Fable

That the name "Mexico" comes from "mexicalli," the Aztec word for the native maguey or pulque plant, is the conclusion of Enrique Juan Palacios, of the Mexican direction for archeology, who has searched for its origin in native Indian documents, as well as in other sources of information. Every Mexican school child knows that his national coat-of-arms is an adaptation of the ancient Aztec hieroglyph or place-name for "Tenochtitlan," as pre-conquest Mexico City was called. Mexico's shield, therefore, is at least six centuries old. It represents an eagle in mortal struggle with a snake, which he holds with one claw and his beak. With the other claw he is balanced on a spiny nopal cactus growing on a rock in the middle of a lake. This picturization of an extremely difficult position illustrates the Aztec fable of the founding of the ancient city that is now the capital of the Mexican republic.

Possibility That Great

Auk May Still Exist

Does the Great Auk still exist? The last authentic case of one having been seen was in 1843, but "Bird Notes and News" raises the question as to whether a bird which has been seen in the Lofoten Islands (off the coast of northern Norway) is not a Great Auk. A writer tells how a Finnish hunter and naturalist saw a strange bird which he could not recognize. He was shown a picture of the Great Northern Diver, but said it was not the same. He was then shown a Razorbill, but declared that the bird was bigger. The book was opened casually at the Great Auk, and he immediately identified it and persisted in his story, which was corroborated even to the identification by an independent witness who had also seen it. The bird was never seen again, but it is possible that on such a wild coast a few Great Auks may have survived.

Odd "Break" in Sermon

The former pastor of a Tioga church tells a good one on himself which shows the queer breaks a man can make, even in the pulpit.

The pastor was preaching on "Faith" and among his illustrations of the value of faith declared that "it was by faith that Moses discovered America."

He noticed a smile spread over the faces of the congregation, but couldn't imagine what it was about, and repeated that but for his faith Moses would never have crossed the stormy Atlantic to America.

Having observed that his wife was as much amused as anybody, he promptly asked her on reaching his home what the people were smiling at. When she told him, he was forced to wonder at the restraint the congregation had shown.—Philadelphia Record.

ORALABOR, IOWA

By Miss Helen Brown

We had a wonderful time the 4th, as though we had a great family reunion of Southall and rest of the family—some from Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Zookur, etc. We had with us sons and daughters, grandchildren outside of the family, and visitors. We enjoyed ourselves to the highest and everything to eat and drink. The family reunion was at Mrs. Maggie Jones' at Oralabor. We had one of those old time dinners. Mrs. Nina Miller and family from Cedar Rapids are visiting friends and relatives here. Miss Edna Mae Brown of Oralabor is going visiting with her sister, Mrs. Alice Jackson, of Des Moines, Iowa.

To "Turn State's Evidence" State's evidence is the evidence produced by the government in criminal prosecution. The term also applies to a person who gives such evidence. When a person implicated in a crime voluntarily confesses his share and gives testimony that will incriminate his accomplices he is said to "turn state's evidence," namely, he becomes a witness for the state. In such cases there is generally an express or implied promise on the part of the authorities that they will not prosecute the witness who thus testifies, or that he will at least be dealt with leniently. Prosecutors do not usually promise such immunity unless there is insufficient evidence to convict the defendant without the testimony in question. —Fath's Magazine.

Salesmanship Five-year-old Dorothy Rose recently was a very attentive listener while an agent explained to her mother the educational value of a book. "You must leave this book lying here on the library table, so that the children may have free access to it," he said. A few days later Dorothy Rose played selling books to mother, and in imitation of the real agent, said: "Now, missus, you must leave this book lying right on your buffet and the children must have three axes to it."

Famous Early Bishop Francis Asbury was born at Hamstead Bridge, near Birmingham, England, in 1745. He died at Spotylvania, Va., in 1815. He came to America as a missionary in 1771. There were then only 316 Methodists in America. When he died he had traveled more than 270,000 miles, preached more than 16,000 sermons, and ordained more than 4,000 Methodist ministers. He never married. Constant travel, limited resources and his zeal in church service were some of the reasons advanced for his single life.

Enthusiasm The enthusiasm that lifts us as on eagle's wings makes for joyous success. The ability to run, to press forward unwearily in the chosen course, makes it easy. But to walk day after day, only able to trudge along the right road slowly, while the victors with wings sweep above us, and the strong runners dash by us toward the goal, leaving us far behind—is this hard. To keep courage, press forward and not grow faint-hearted may at last be the greatest victory of all.

FORT DODGE NEWS

By Wm. Brown

The sick among our group, so far as we can learn, are doing fairly well. Miss Gladys Brown of 830 Ninth Ave. S. W., is able to be out again, after being indisposed for about two weeks. Mrs. Martin is feeling fairly good during this changeable weather. At last report, Sister Hannah Thompson of 307 First Ave. North was doing fairly well, after undergoing the second operation at Iowa City University hospital. We hope her early and safe return, for she is missed at home and by her many friends. Mr. A. Smith of 1423 South Twenty-fourth street is able to be at his post of duty again, after being laid up for two or three weeks, and was at his usual place in church Sunday. The Second Baptist church feels the loss of two of its most loyal members in the persons of Brother and Mrs. Arthur Crowder, who have moved to Des Moines and took their letters with them to confer with the Corinthian church. We hope for their success in the change of church relationship. Mr. Sam Hays from the southland is visiting his brother, Mr. John Hays, of Eleventh Avenue South. Mr. Hays attended morning service at Cappen Chapel and evening service at the Second Baptist church and was not impressed with either of them. Mother Benning, Miss Nellie Walker is taking her summer about as usual, doing fairly well. Sister A. Smith brought all of her grandchildren to church with her Sunday. Other grandmothers and mothers should do likewise instead of wanting to find lodging, night or taking them to the shows on Sundays. Strangers being in the city day, stop in any place and ring up 3179, or inquire for Arnett hotel. The Second Baptist church Sabbath school will have their annual picnic in Oleson's park August 25th. All invited to attend. Everything free.
