HAMPTON PRESIDENT LAID TO REST

Hampton, Inst., Va., Oct. 10.—Many anxious to pay reverent tribute to a departed leader and friend were unable to find room in the Hampton Institute Memorial church on the afternoon of Wednesday, October 8, at the funeral services of the school's late president, Dr. George Perley Phenix, who had died suddenly of heart attack.

The body of the late president had lain in state from 10 o'clock in the morning. People from all walks of life had come to pay their last tribute to the dead president who had done so much for Hampton. A student guard of honor was composed of Enoch Hayward, Henry Jackson, Randall Parker and Thomas Sawyer, had stood in reverent watch during the day.

FT. DODGE, IOWA

By Wm. Brown

The sick among us formerly mentioned all seem slowly improving. Mother Benning seems to remain about the same. Her son, Walter and family of 1145 Enos Ave., Des Moines, notwithstanding the chilly weather drove over Sunday. There can be but one and that should not be forgotten. We learn Slater Chambers is doing much better than when we last reported. Miss L. Burdeau is spending a short visit in Chicago with her sister. The reporter was some what indisposed Sunday and was not at his post of duty all day, but at present is feeling much better. At last report Mrs. West was getting along fairly well at Iowa City. Her family and friends are hoping soon to see her safely return. It has been too warm to go to church, now it is too cold, they say.

INFLUENZA

At this time of the year it is important that the nose, throat, sinuses, teeth, tonsils and bronchial tubes be in a healthy condition. Generally speaking this should be the case at all times but at this particular season owing to the preference of the germ of influenza for the respiratory membranes it is of the greatest importance that this healthy condition prevail. If these are in a healthy state it is quite probable that contact with the germ will not result in a disease which is so prostrating and sometimes so serious in its consequences. A stuffiness in the nose, aside from its disagreeableness may be a sign of a disease in the sinus or one of the bony cavities of the face or head which renders the mucous membrane of the nose liable to infection from this germ and may be the means of carrying the infection down into the bronchial tubes, lungs or stomach or due to its close proximity to the nervous centers may allow entrance therein. A tooth that aches needs care; one that has ached and has not been cared for needs attention as the resistance may be lowered from absorption of the infective material from its roots. This lowered resistance may be the condition which allows the influenza germ to take hold of the system. The tonsils if enlarged or infected as evidenced by sore throat of frequent or infrequent occurrence, ought to have the necessary treatment to put them in a healthy condition. A cough is indeed indicative of an unhealthy condition of the bronchial mucous membrane and the infection under consideration has no easier access to the system than through this lining when irritated. A lagging appetite or loss of weight to any moderate extent needs investigating and if all these are cared for it is quite unlikely that influenza will have a chance to invade the system in spite of its great contagiousness.

FIRE INGWERSON

The University of Iowa has had several very good Negro athletes. It has prior to this time dealt reasonably fair with those athletes, but it seems that the present coach, one Bert Ingwerson, does not subscribe to the policy of his predecessors, and Negro athletes of Iowa are not treated with the same courtesies that the other athletes receive. It is conceded that Benjamin, Iowa's Negro tackle, is what is known as a regular and would play in all games that the regular team played unless removed for injuries or substituted for, for the same reason that any other regular would be substituted for. This is Benjamin's third year on the team. Two weeks ago the University of Iowa played Centenary, a college from Shreveport, La. Incidentally the school from Louisiana beat Iowa. Benjamin was not permitted to play in that game. It is reliably reported that Ingwerson acquiesced to the wish of the southerners that they not be required to play against a Negro. Ingwerson ought to deny this if it is not true. If it is true he ought to be fired from Iowa at once. Such conduct is inexcusable in any American University and any time a Negro player is denied the right to play in any regular game scheduled by his school his coach is the person directly responsible, and the alumni of Iowa ought not to go asleep until Ingwerson is fired.

There can be no excuse for such conduct on the part of either team. If these southern teams come up here and don't want to play under the legitimate rules they should be sent back without playing. At the time this game was scheduled it appeared that Benjamin would be on hand as a player. If the Centenary team objected to playing against a Negro, they should have selected a southern opponent, but coming up into Iowa they should be required to play such players of the University of Iowa team as qualify under all the rules as did Benjamin.

Ingwerson has not been a howling success at Iowa anyway, and if his backbone is as weak on other matters as it was on this one, it is easily understood why Iowa's failures on the gridiron have been as numerous as they have. It apparently is not the University spirit to bar Negro players. The University from the Missouri Valley Conference several years ago, because of an attempt to bar a Negro, Archie Alexander from playing. Iowa has never played Ames, since Duke Slater, a Negro player for Iowa, found it necessary to defend himself against one of the Ames' players. Big ten rules don't justify Iowa's conduct and we are hoping that nothing of this kind will happen in the future, and that Ingwerson be made to pay the penalty for keeping Benjamin out of this game.

HAM LEWIS, — LL NO

Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, announces his support of J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat nominee for United States Senator from Illinois, who is running against Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican nominee. Thompson normally is a Republican and has long had a very strong colored following. He advised these colored followers to support Lewis for the reason "That Ruth Hanna McCormick is the widow and was the advisor of Medill McCormick, the senator who said there was justification for race rioting in 1919. Her election will mean that a seat in the United States sen-ly bring about the more desired result, security in peace. Through the ages it has been war succeeded by a greater war. It is time now, if ever, to profit by the experiences of the past, and tread the oad of universal peace. It would be used against you." That all may be true, but J. Hamilton Lewis is the same J. Hamilton Lewis, who, several years ago, made the very illuminating remark, THAT THIS IS A WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY. There may be some debate about what a fellow means when he says that there was justification for a certain race riot, but when a gentleman announces that this is a white man's country there is not much debate about what he means. He may be right, but 75,000 Negroes in Chicago will hardly agree with him, Mayor Thompson or no Mayor Thompson.

My Trip Abroad

By Mrs. S. Joe Brown

Here we are this week in the Eternal City of Rome and when we arrived we felt that we should take off our shoes for we were about to tread on holy ground.

In the very heart of this city is the Italian Capitol Building with a majestic flight of steps crowned at the summit of this staircase is the place Roman Gods found in the baths of Diocletian. It was down the steps that these have replaced that Reinal fled to fall at their base bleeding from twenty wounds. In the square at the summit of this staircase is the place where Brutus, harranged the populace after the murder of Cæsar. There stands today the bronze statue of Emperor Marcus Aurelius and many other celebrated statues of antiquity.

Among the other buildings of interest in Rome are the churches of St. John, said to be the mother church, containing the burial places of the heads of St. Peter and St. Paul; St. Paul's Cathedral, containing the burial place of the body of St. Paul; the Church of Santa Santa, containing a staircase, said to have been that originally erected in the Palace in Jerusalem, over which the Savior ascended from Pilate's Judgment Hall; and the Cathedral of St. Peter which is said to be the grandest temple of Christianity in the world.

The Basilica contains three naves. At the end of the central nave on the right is the famous bronze statue of St. Peter, whose headless body rests here and in the center beneath the dome is the High Altar Bernini. The two columns are prophetic with bronze ornaments. The dome is one hundred sixty meters in height, measuring from the floor to the abscissa; and is richly adorned with magnificent polychrome mosaics, which render it truly majestic. This also contains numerous monuments by the greatest artists of mediæval and modern times.

This Cathedral of St. Peter is approached through a piazza, ennobled by imposing colonades of Doric Architecture, constructed in 1656.

The majestic columns are two hundred sixty-four in number, with one hundred sixty-six statues in travertine on the balustrade. Crowning the center of the piazza is a stately obelisk transported from Egypt.

It was in St. Peter's Cathedral that we had the unusual opportunity of witnessing what is called a canonization service conducted by His Holiness Pope Pius XI, and which none of us will ever forget; as it was the most gorgeous ceremony imaginable, for which representatives had gathered from every section of the globe.

Among the many other interesting places visited while in Rome, were the Vatican, which is the residence of the Pope and the Cistine Chapel, one of the celebrated apartments in the Vatican, which was built in the year 1473.

The upper part of its walls are ornamented with frescoes painted by some of the famous artists of the 15th Century and containing many portraits of the Popes, twenty-eight of which are by the celebrated Botticelli.

But the thing which gives to this chapel its greatest artistic value in the works of Michael Angelo, which it contains. These are to be seen first upon the ceiling, which is covered with his magnificent pictorial representations of Old Testament themes, such as the creation of Adam and Eve; the expulsion from Paradise and the deluge.

At the end of the Chapel, opposite the entrance, is Michael Angelo's enormous fresco of the Last Judgment. This was designed by the great artist, when sixty years of age and was completed by him in 1541 after a labor of nearly eight years; and in order to show him his appreciation of the work, the Pope himself, went to Michael Angelo's home accompanied by ten cardinals, which according to court etiquette must rank as a greater honor than that offered to Titian by Charles V, when the latter picked up the artist's pencil, although the real sovereign in both cases, was a man of genius. This Cistine Chapel is used for important papal ceremonies, especially during Holy Week.

Next week we will tell you more about this wonderful city.

Sand of Sahara Desert Carried Far by Winds

It is now well recognized that the falls of colored rain and also of dry dust that occur at rather frequent intervals in southern and central Europe are due, in most cases, to wind-borne material blown up from the Sahara desert.

Several cases in which enormous quantities of solid matter have been carried great distances by the winds have formed the subject of elaborate investigations on the part of meteorologists. Thus during the three days, March 5 to 10, 1901, heavy dust storms occurred in the deserts of southern Algeria, and the sequel of these storms was carefully studied by Hellmann and Molnards. A widespread cyclonic storm, centered over Tunis at the time, sucked up the dust, which was carried northward by the winds at high altitudes.

Deposits from this dust cloud occurred over an area extending as far as 2,500 miles from the place of origin. Reports collected from hundreds of observers indicated that 1,800,000 tons of dust fell over the continent of Europe, and one-third of this fell north of the Alps. As much more is believed to have fallen over the Mediterranean, while on the African coast itself the deposit is supposed to have amounted to 150,000,000 tons.

Maiden's Heart Won by Sutor's Bank Balance

Bill and Jack, living in the same Long Island town, were rivals for the hand of pretty Betty, but, although she remained neutral and showed no preference, each considered himself the favored one. They remained friends, having made a gentleman's agreement that there would be no hard feelings on the part of the unsuccessful sutor. However, there was no curb on the manner of courting her—and that's where fate stepped in. Bill continually sent Betty flowers and candy and took her to theaters and the opera. Jack, on the other hand, was decidedly stingy. But one night, after a pleasant visit, he managed to leave his bank book behind him in a chair, as if it had fallen out of his pocket. Betty, being human and feminine, could not resist her curiosity—and that is why she married Jack. Flowers and candy can be forgotten, but real money in a bank speaks volumes.—New York Sun.

Franklin's God

Benjamin Franklin's god resembled a Jehovah, surrounded by his cherubim, a deity that might have been dreamed of by a disciple of Plato. The supreme being of Franklin is separated from us by a series of beings, superior to us, inferior to him, and ruling over the satellites which belong to it. As an inhabitant of the earth, Franklin thought himself obliged to worship the god who lived in the sun, and he made a liturgy for him—a kind of abbreviation of the Anglican prayers—to which he remained faithful. Like a good Platonian, he demanded of this god virtue, knowledge, an after life.—Baltimore Sun.

Pressure of Water

Iron vessels and other heavy vessels sink to the ocean bed, and the water pressure has nothing to do with holding them up. Water is practically incompressible, so that even at the greatest depths the water of the ocean is very little heavier than the water near the surface. The volume of the ship is therefore much heavier than the same volume of water at any depth, and the ship will sink. The pressure of a fluid is exerted equally from all directions and not simply upward on the vessel. For a ship to remain suspended halfway between the surface and the bottom, it would have to be constructed of some light material and have a very light cargo.

Rewarded

Russell Gordon Carter, famous as a writer of stories for boys, said it was his experience that boys seldom remember the names of the authors, but never forget the stories that they like. "One of my neighbor's boys once read a story of mine and told me about it. The fact that my name was on the cover had been entirely overlooked and he was much surprised when I told him I had written the story and pointed out my name. "Well," he said with a grin, "don't waste time bragging about this one, but get busy and write some more like it."

Just Like a Man

Little Johnny is just picking up slang expressions. The other day the three-year-old was playing with his sister. He came to her side and put his arms around her, and in a cooling way said to her: "I love you 'titter dear, I love you," and then quite suddenly he burst out "holoogy."

Musical Trees

One of the curiosities of the West Indies is the musical tree. This species is a member of the great pea family. On ripening the great pods split open at the edges and the wind, passing through the openings, creates the sound which gives the tree its name. In Barbados there is a large valley of these trees, and the natives, naturally enough, believe the place to be haunted.—St. Nicholas Magazine.

LYNCHING PICTURES TAKEN OFF MARKET BY PROTEST

New York, Oct. 10.—Protest by the Terre Haute, Indiana branch of the N. A. A. C. P. has stopped the sale of pictures of the Marion lynching, where two colored boys were done to death. Mrs. Grace Evans said the N. A. A. C. P. had objected to the public sale of the picture because they were stirring ill feeling between the races. Negatives of the pictures have been turned over to Mrs. Evans by the maker and seller of the pictures.

SEGREGATED "NEGRO WELFARE GUILD" DEFEATED IN GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

New York, Oct. 10.—Effort to establish a segregated "Negro Welfare Guild" in Grand Rapids, Michigan, has been defeated by the N. A. A. C. P. and cooperating bodies, according to information received from Floyd H. Skinner, president of the Grand Rapids N. A. A. C. P.

Among the groups lined up in opposition to the segregated institution were three churches, both Elk lodges, Crispus Attucks American Legion post, Pierian Club, and Business and Professional Men's Luncheon Club. The plan for a separate welfare guild was opposed by the N. A. A. C. P. because it would have introduced segregation where it had not previously existed.

Anamosa, Iowa, Oct. 16.—Special:

"The problem of keeping our young people on the farm is not a psychological problem but an economic one and will be solved only when we can give the young folks assurance that on the farm they will receive fair remuneration for their work so that they can live in some degree of comfort and educate their children with the hope that eventually they may achieve financial independence and own the land they till as the result of their labors," Dan W. Turner, Republican candidate for governor, declared before a Republican rally meeting here today.

"The greatest single contribution which our state government can make toward the solution of this problem at this time is to take immediate and positive steps to reduce taxes on farms, homes, merchandise and other visible property. This can be done first, I think, by eliminating all unnecessary and wasteful expenditures in state and local government; and second, by equalizing taxes so that each individual shall carry his fair share and only his fair share of the tax burden.

This is the most important question confronting us as a State; and Chambers of Commerce, and business men, generally, are deeply interested in having a fair revision of our taxes brought about, as they are coming more and more to realize that there can be no substantial prosperity for business unless the farmers are doing well."

The outcome of the vote for Mrs. McCormick in the Negro controlled wards in Chicago will determine whether Mayor Thompson carries the vote of the Chicago Negro in his vest pocket.

Des Moines is listed as one of the leading towns in the country for the employment of its citizens. We who are here don't believe it is, but try some other town and be convinced.

It is easy to see how so many people fail to vote when they do not realize the importance of their suffrage nor make any effort to learn what campaigns are about. Voters should realize that every campaign is important and that they themselves are partly responsible for the candidates who are chosen.

THE LEGION FALLS DOWN AGAIN

The American Legion at its annual meeting in Boston, refused to consider a resolution condemning lynching which was presented by the department of California. It is reported that the past national commander lobbied against the resolution after it had been presented before the committee.

Among other things the preamble of the constitution of the American Legion states: ". . . To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States; to maintain law and order; . . . to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; . . . to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth . . ."

No more beautiful high sounding phrases could have been written, yet nothing that could happen tends to run counter to these principles more than mob violence and still this organization refuses to recognize it or is unwilling to do so.

Of course this action of the national organization of the American Legion is not surprising for it has never met squarely and fairly a question which involved the Negro primarily. It has been dominated at all times by those who have insisted on giving the Negro ex-service man a raw deal.

But leaving the Negro question aside, white men as well as black men are being lynched in the United States. The point the Legion makes is that most of the lynched are Negroes, and most of the occurrences are in the South. A resolution attaching lynching is aimed at the South.

It is unfortunate that this situation exists in the Legion for its members are fast coming to the nation today. However, like many other organizations and states, their constitutions mean nothing to them. Their constitutions are farces.

BUT NEVER REACHED FLOOR RESOLUTION PREPARED

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—(ANP)—If anybody had an idea that this year's convention of the American Legion, held in this city with its traditional spirit of fair play, was going to be composed of a majority of delegates who carried such a spirit in their own breasts, the official action of the Legion will convince such a person that the American Legion is the same baby-faced pretender on the rights of man and justice as between citizens today that it was when organized in St. Louis.

A strong effort was made by colored Legionnaires, assisted by some white friends, to have the Legion take a stand on lynching and on the discrimination by the War Department in the treatment of Gold Star mothers.

The celebrated Arkansan, Col. O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the Legion, eagerly lent his influence to a movement which caused the proposed resolution to be tabled without ever reaching the floor of the convention.

Said Commander Bodenhamer of Arkansas when he was interviewed: "We could never allow this to come up on the floor of the convention."

SPECIALIZING IN DISEASES OF WOMEN

The Telephone at which an Emperor marveled was out of date in a few months...

At the centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876, the infant telephone needed a friend badly... indications were that the recent invention of Alexander Graham Bell would be passed by as of no practical value.

Late on a hot Sunday afternoon in June, the group of judges reached Bell's exhibit. They were hot, tired and hungry... not interested enough to watch a demonstration.

Just then another group approached, headed by Dom Pedro, emperor of Brazil, who had met Bell as a teacher of deaf mutes in Boston. Dom Pedro's questions gave the inventor the long-awaited opportunity to demonstrate the telephone. The scientists were astounded and Bell received one of the highest awards of the exposition.

Since that June afternoon more than 90 types of transmitters and 60 types of receivers have been developed. Thousands of engineers, scientists and experts in business management have devoted their energies to extending and improving telephone service... From the two crude instruments and a few hundred feet of wire to more than 20,000,000 telephones and billions of dollars worth of property used in providing telephone service in the United States.

The telephone came to the middle west just a few years after it was invented... this Company* and its predecessors have constantly adapted equipment and methods to best meet the needs of the communities served, striving at all times to improve service and to furnish it at the lowest charges consistent with the financial safety of the business.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

*The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, which operates in the states of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, is an Associated Company of the Bell System. It owns and operates more than 650,000 telephones. Its lines connect with more than 300,000 telephones of other companies in these five states and with nearly 30,000,000 others throughout the United States and in foreign countries. It employs more than 12,000 men and women.

Our Policy: The most telephone service and the best at the least cost to the public.

OSCEOLA, IOWA

Sunday was a day to be long remembered at St. Paul A. M. E. church. Services were well attended. Rev. W. M. Berry, pastor, preached a soul stirring sermon at 11 a. m. He selected his text from Ezekiel 34:26, "There shall be Showers of Blessing". For the evening service we were favored with a musical program after which a sacred drama, "The Challenge of the Cross". Mrs. Estelle Brownfield, of Des Moines was director. Participants, Mrs. Lois Curley, Daney Wilson, Mrs. Andrew Jefferson, Rev. rage and family. Following the drama we were favored with a contrasted song by Mrs. Andrew Jefferson. "Loving Home", also from "Heaven and Family", "Hark the Voice of Jesus Calling". The characters were well trained, therefore the drama was perfect in its presentation by Mrs. Estelle Brownfield, also assisted by Mrs. Lois Curley, Mrs. Daney Wilson, Mrs. Andrew Jefferson, Mrs. Roy Dansey and Rev. Millions of Hours Lost by Disabling Illnesses

On an average, each person in the country has at least one disabling illness every year, the committee on the "cost of medical care" has reported after a survey of various sickness reports compiled by the United States public health service and other organizations.

Men have a disabling sickness about once a year, women about twice and children over twice during the school years. Colds, bronchitis, grippe, influenza and pneumonia are foremost the cause of these disabling illnesses and cause the longest disability. On the same basis of the number of cases and total time lost, digestive disorders and diseases also take a high place.

About 190,000,000 cases of disabling illnesses occur in the United States each year. Adding nondisabling illnesses more than doubles the figure. The 39,000,000 committee reported in the country lose at least 250,000,000 work days a year, and the 24,000,000 school children lose 170,000,000 school days a year. These figures account for only one-half of the total population.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Early Postal Records Destroyed by Flames

The first 60 years of American postal history are almost a complete blank because of the great fire of 1838, which destroyed the Post Office building at Washington and with it almost every vestige of postal records. Years later a postmaster general was forced to admit to congress that he was unable to supply the names of assistant postmasters general who had served from the beginning of the system.

One volume alone was saved from the flames by a youthful messenger in the office of the auditor of the treasury for the Post Office department. This book, still in existence and now under control of the chief clerk of the Post Office department, is a ledger of postal revenues for the years 1776, 1777 and 1778. So far as is known, no other postal records of the early years are in existence.—Detroit News.

Monarch's Neat Rebuttal to Overzealous Priest

King Leopold of Belgium—merry old soul—had a caustic wit. On one occasion when he was at his chateau at Ostend, the parish priest approached him and asked for a private word with him. When the two were alone, the priest began to read Leopold II a long sermon:

"Sire, I am profoundly grieved," he said. "There is a rumor, I am sorry to say, that your majesty's private life is not marked by the austerity suited to the lofty and difficult task which God has laid upon the monarchs of this earth. Remember, sire, that it behooves kings to set an example to their subjects."

For 20 minutes the king listened patiently to the utterances of the good man, until the priest desisted from what of breath, relates Evelyn Graham (in his authorized biography of King Albert, nephew of Leopold).

"What a funny thing, Monsieur le Cure," said the king, fixing him with a cold look and smiling slightly. "Do you know, people have told me exactly the same thing about you! Only I refused to believe it!"—Kansas City Times.

Little Profit Found in Search for Sensation

A time comes to most of us when life means just a little more than playing around. We must not think for a second that there should be no play. That would be unwise. But what is foolish is the attitude that brings us to the belief that, to gain happiness—for that is, after all, what we are trying to get—we must indulge in all sorts and all kinds of fun and frolic.

Sometimes it extends beyond that; we seek every kind of sensation we possibly can in our pursuit of gaiety. Whenever a new idea is mooted we go after it with renewed vigor, in the hope that the boredom of life—as some limited minds regard it—will be changed to a really good time.

We only manage to secure the maximum of contentment by accepting the debts and credits—taking the former at their real valuations, and making the utmost of the credits.—Exchange.

Chateau of Knowledge

The speculative mind of man is like a solenoid chateau set on a hill. It is surrounded by perpetual darkness. The chateaus have countless windows facing in all directions. There is, at first, but one light, a flickering glimmer, in one small window level with the ground.

Agon pass. Another window slowly lights up. Gradually, as time flows away, a thousand windows in the chateau flame with light. Tower windows begin to glimmer. Finally, the whole chateau is a blaze of light. For behind each window a mind labors in a small dark room shaped like a human skull to create a light of its own. From the tower windows the lights gush the dark for a great way. But the most powerful light from the largest window is merely an inch trying to eat the infinite.—The Thinker.

First Uses for Sideboard

The dining room—sideboard—once served a different purpose from that of holding the family silver or glass. The sideboard, known first as a credence table, held all the dishes that were to be served at a dinner. An underling of the house then, in the presence of the guests, tasted each dish of food on the credence table to make sure there was no poison that might be fatal to the guests. But gradually, as people became less vicious and the desire to poison one's enemy, or friend, became less customary, the credence was utilized for the display of silver and table service.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Causes of "Blood Rain"

There are many cases of so-called miraculous showers in which the chateaus found on the ground did not actually fall from aloft. Thus some alleged rains of blood are due to the deposit of red fluid ejected by certain species of leptoptera emerging simultaneously in large numbers from their cocoons, and others to the rapid multiplications in rain pools of algae and rotifers containing red coloring matter. The well-known red snow of polar regions results from the case of similar organisms.
