NEWS FLASHES HERE AND THERE

WE SAYS

One fellow gets thirty years for attempted robbery while a drunken driver gets one year in jail for running down and killing three people.

It is rumored that an exclusive dance club has a stag line to pep up the flagging spirits of its heavy-lipped dowagers with duplicate chin lines who wish to trip 'the light fantastic with wasp waisted youth.

And now Emily Post has knocked a lot of that swank out of us, by defining a cocktail as a drink made of real whisky and a mixed. Oh hum, I knew that modern cocktails were misnamed and after years of observation of the effects of alcoholic drinks upon other people of course—I hereby present what I think might be suitable names and more appropriate for such concoctions:

Embalmer's balm, Satan's sap, the Jesters, Rattlesnake Fantasy, Dynamite, Skull pop, Amnesia, Block and Tackle, Rigor Mortis. As the Borgia family in medieval Spain were noted for their poisonous death potions, perhaps we might go historic and call it "The Borgia".

If singing a hard luck story to your friends meant that they would find you a job or hand you a fiver, one could say that it was not in vain. But 'tis usually a fact, that curiosity is the only interest one receives when doling out one's woes. Silence is golden, you know.

I've always been taught that too much of anything for nothing, represented nothing. Yes, and that includes those pests without a dime, willing to give you advice as to the best way of saving money, and those people whose own checkered career presents a cross word puzzle, but are nevertheless, ready to tell you how to lead a model life.

The acute mental agony experienced by the Lindberghs at the kidnaping of their infant son was insupportable. Ransom money will stop the torture. However, how much greater must be the agony experienced by the thousands of black mothers, whose sons are seized by bloodthirsty mobs who are appeased only by the death of the hapless victim.

Again kidnaping is a parallel to the brutal slave trade, when many a mother was ruthlessly separated from her helpless young babies, to perhaps see them no more.

THE CITY CAMPAIGN

The city campaign is gathering considerable strength. Many candidates are in the field, but few are timber worth supporting.

As usual, those candidates with little chance of winning are making all kinds of promises, many of those with a good chance are hiding behind the law which was passed to save politicians this embarrassment.

The Bystander reminds the voters that in spite of all they say, no candidate runs for an office who does not have some understanding with his supporters about what is to happen after election.

Don't be bluffed by these evasive statements. The time to get an understanding is now.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

Last week the N. A. A. C. P. announced its protest to the giving of a play at Nash school celebrating George Washington's birthday in which Negro students were used as slaves.

The Association took the position that historically the play trouble goes deeper than this. It was correct except that it showed the Negro at his worst; at no time at his best. But the late E. T. Meredith speaking at a N. A. A. C. P. meeting—his only appearance before a Negro audience and the last before an open meeting—said if he were a Negro one of the things he would try to forget was slavery; that it continued to suggest to the younger generation black and white the idea of inferiority.

This is very true. Parents with children in the public schools can testify that these unpleasant suggestions are a source of continued embarrassment to the Negro pupils and are the occasion for numerous fights and arguments. Surely the schools ought to be the place where a race is shown off at its points of advantage and not disadvantage.

Some white people think Negroes like the Uncle Tom treatment. They ought to know that the majority of the intelligent Negroes don't and the only way to get that information over is to object whenever and wherever it appears.

WORTH INVESTIGATING

News reports in Negro papers complain that the Negro unemployed are being discriminated against in the American Legion Campaign to get jobs. They further state—and these statements are backed with proof furnished by the Urban League, a most reliable organization—that Negro workers are actually being fired at the instance of Welfare Workers in order to give places to white people.

Upon the suggestion of Lieutenant Oxley, a Negro and former vice commander of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., has wired the committee

HEALTH TALKS

By Dr. H. H. London

THE HEART

The heart is composed of four compartments with communications between two on each side. The passageways between these cavities are composed of valves which open and close allowing no more blood than necessary to pass from one cavity to another in a definite time which consists of one heart beat. Such an arrangement and the activity which makes up action of the heart is ideal in a state of health and keeps the total amount of blood in the body in a condition of balance or equilibrium which is best suited to the perfect functioning of all the parts of the entire body.

When these gateways or passages are the seat of disease processes which have existed over a certain period of time changes occur in them resulting in a roughening or a narrowing allowing some blood to pass in the opposite direction back into the cavity from which it should have been completely expelled or in the incomplete discharge of the blood from the cavity resulting in an insufficient amount being sent out for nourishment to other organs and parts. Such a condition constitutes the most common form of heart disease.

Whether or not these passageways can be restored to their normal condition so there will be no more difficulty in the blood flow through them or any backward flow in the wrong direction will depend much upon what condition is causing damage to them. In most cases it is too much to hope for. A certain amount of restoration is possible and in a majority of cases with no change in these gateways resulting from treatment the other accessories of the circulatory system can be influenced in a way which allows good function of the heart despite its altered character and loss of a certain amount of strength.

Better still is the prevention which checks this process in the beginning and gives the heart the aid and resistance it must have to prevent a chronic and incurable condition.

Urging an investigation of the charges and an equitable policy with regard to Negro workers.

Unfortunately no Negroes are connected with the committee; local groups are hard to control, consequently we are of the opinion that the situation is true.

The practice should be denounced and discontinued at once. On the other hand it pays Negroes to be represented in all movements. It is the only way he can get a fair deal.

TO CELEBRATE ATTUCKS DAY ON MARCH 6

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—Boston is again as seldom before, anticipating the celebration of Attucks day for America's first martyr. The celebration will come as a challenge to the omission of the Boston massacre by the program committee of the George Washington bicentennial commission. Official recognition is to be sought by the National Equal Rights league, a branch and national headquarters, and citizens. Besides exercises held at the death spot, grave and monument, a movement has been started for a law to have March 5 proclaimed annually by the governor for observance of Crispus Attucks' death. A petition has been presented to the legislature.

EX-SLAVE, ONCE COMMANDER OF G. A. R., SUCCUMBS IN EAST

Corning, N. Y., Feb. 26.—William Murrell, former slave, who served in both the Confederate and Union armies during the Civil war and who served as commander of the Louisiana Grand Army of the Republic, died here Feb. 13. He was a colonel in the Louisiana national guard during the reconstruction days and was elected to the Louisiana assembly for four years and the state senate for eight years.

AS JUDGE, WHAT WOULD BE YOUR DECISION?

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S QUESTION—

The Law is that the deceased must die within a year and a day from the time the mortal wound was inflicted before anyone may be tried for murder.

Charles would be TRIED for the MURDER of Joe, both Charles and Sam have a legal RIGHT to have Joe linger a YEAR AND A DAY after the injury was inflicted, although Sam had inflicted a mortal wound to Joe when Charles took up the burden to inflict a like wound he took away Sam's legal right heretofore stated and from then on Joe was lingering for Charles. Joe failed to linger a year and a day thus Charles would be tried.

Each week the Counsellor will submit a statement of facts to the Readers of THE BYSTANDER and will likewise ANSWER the same in the following issue and will answer any legal question in his column sent to him.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—Hoping to be the first long distance flyers, Col. Hubert Julian, once Abyssinian aviator chief, and Lieut. William Powell will leave soon on a nonstop flight to New York. Their manager said that if this flight is successful they will attempt a transatlantic trip.

The local branch of the N. A. A. C. P., through its legal redress committee, protested the historical pageant given at Nash school, celebrating the Washington Bi-Centennial, on February 22, in which the slave characters were to have been taken by Negro students.

In a letter to Mrs. Jessie R. Coons, Nash school teacher who directed the play, the Association based its protest on the grounds that the play had caused considerable resentment on the part of the Negro students and their parents, and that the inclusion of slaves would tend to bring to the minds of the young people of today an idea of slavery and servitude which the Negro as a race is trying to forget. The Association was successful in pledging the Negro students not to appear in the play and received the unanimous support of parents of those involved.

A committee, composed of A. A. Alexander, president of the local N. A. A. C. P.; Miss Anna Mae Manuel, secretary; and Mrs. Margaret Patten, witnessed the play Monday, and reported that white children substituted for the slaves and in some instances the characters were eliminated.

Heads of the N. A. A. C. P. of the city, state that any attempt at radical discrimination in Des Moines, any tendency, direct or otherwise, to stamp out Negro youth with an inferiority complex, will be dealt with firmly by the organization.

The Association urges that attempts at discrimination be reported to its officers.

ANOTHER COMMON ERROR

ABSOLUTE inconsistency in matters of discipline is another great fault of fathers for which the sons pay heavily. Under one set of circumstances when the father himself is emotionally calm and in a good humor because things have gone well for him that day, he is tolerant and forgiving and quiet here to see the funny side of a window breaking episode. He recalls that once as a lad he inadvertently smashed a big "light" himself and was simply scared out of his wits and afraid for weeks lest his dad should find it out, so why punish the kid—so every vital consideration is white-washed. It offered such a normal chance for a friendly chat about respect for property and about owning up when in the wrong and setting things right insofar as it was possible; but in the congenial mood this was not done and the boy felt he had "put one over," that it wasn't so bad to get into a jam if you could just engineer it properly, so he smiled to himself and certain attitudes took shape in his boy's mind, that were to determine future action.

The next week he became entangled with the police for having a hand in the smashing of a hat dozen boulevard rights and for turning in a false fire alarm. Father came home tired, harassed, and everything had gone wrong that day and now his "ornery little devil" had been "raising cane." He'd just show him a thing or two pronto. So in his rage, a rage that had been mounting all day, he took the young adventurer to the bathroom and "winded" him soundly with a belt—so soundly that mother intervened and the neighbors called the police and instead of the young offender being wisely and properly disciplined, he became an abused hero and badly and unjustly treated by an irate father who had allowed his own emotional "burst" help create a many angled emotional problem for the boy, who was of course totally unable to discriminate between situations. Resentment toward father was born which was to grow into open opposition and utter disdain. True effective discipline—in fact the only real discipline—is always from within—conscious self-control. This had not been disciplined at all, but merely severely emotionally harrowed, out of which was to grow uncertainty and unhappiness and worse!

Every home should early determine a plan of training which will be consistent, for all parties concerned, and effective. Discipline in training should never under any circumstances merely reflect the emotional mood of parents at the time, for after wait until the morrow to discuss the matter than to do so in the heat of temper or under the pressure of haste.

Many fine boys are seriously damaged by utter inconsistency in home management.

SENATORSHIP

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 26.—George Cossou, Des Moines attorney, and a former Attorney General of Iowa, has entered the campaign for the senatorial nomination in opposition to Smith W. Brookhart.

Bringing Brookhart as an "obstructionist" and declaring a more constructive type of senator is demanded by these perilous times, Mr. Cossou vigorously attacked the Brookhart record in his opening campaign statement, then outlined a platform substantially in harmony with Republican administration policies.

Mr. Cossou's friends, state that he enters the campaign in response to a widespread call from republicans of all factions who are dissatisfied with Senator Brookhart's achievements in Washington, and who desire a candidate with long years of experience in governmental matters and a wide knowledge of national and international affairs.

MILLARD W. BUCK ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Citizens of Des Moines have inducted me to enter the 1932 city campaign for Superintendent of Public Safety. Knowing Des Moines as I do, I feel that I am fully qualified to perform the duties of the office in a diligent, conscientious, honest and straight forward manner.

I came with my parents to Des Moines from Illinois at the age of two years, fifty-five years ago, and Des Moines has been my headquarters or home almost my entire life. If elected to the public safety post I will do all in my power for a continuation of the development of our police, fire and garbage departments.

If elected I have in mind a plan to obtain a police radio without one dollar of expense to the taxpayers of Des Moines. I will put forth my utmost effort to serve all people alike, I wish to impress upon the minds of my friends in overall that the office door swings open the same, as to my friends adorned in broadcloth without any discrimination. I solicit your support and if elected your earnest cooperation in administering the duties of the office all through my administration.

MILLARD W. BUCK,

Phone 6-4557 2014 Hubbell Blvd.

Evanson, Ill., Feb. 11.—As the result of an intensive political war, led by many of this exclusive suburb's most influential white citizen's the name of Edwin B. Jourdain, 31, a Harvard grad and former Chicago newspaperman, will be first on the aldermanic ballot here next April. Jourdain was unseated by the city council recently on charges of election fraud, but this act was followed by a stormy protest on the part of hundreds of the community's outstanding residents.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 11.—That stark misery trails in the wake of the ruthless discrimination practiced against Negro workers who seek employment on the Hoover Dam project at Las Vegas, Nev., was the assertion of Buster Buford, war veteran, who has lived there for the past six months.

Buford's charges substantiate in every detail those made by the Association sprang up around the Nevada city Housing facilities are pitifully inadequate, Buford revealed, and Negroes are living in a section of the city known as Old Town. Their dwellings are old piano boxes, ragged tents, and many other kind of rickety shelters of the weather.

Chief of these private concerns is the Six Companies, a San Francisco corporation. This company refuses to employ Negroes in any capacity and all efforts to obtain jobs or even a respectful hearing are balked by its superintendent, Mr. Crow. The only Negro on the job is employed by the smaller New Mexico company.

The government link in this outrageous affair is supplied by Mr. Blood, chief of the federal employment office at Las Vegas. All labor hired for the construction work is supplied by this servant of the people. But Blood's office will not hire Negro workers despite the fact that the labor turnover is about 300 per day.

New York, Feb. 18.—The organized buying power of Negro grocers struck a telling blow against economic discrimination last week when the National C. M. A. Stores, Inc., through its president, A. L. Holsley, secured an apology from Francis H. Leggett & Company, 27th street and North River, wholesale grocers, for selling canned tomatoes bearing the legend, "Packed by White Labor Only."

The tomatoes were discovered in the Peoples Model Grocery, a C. M. A. store, 2066 Seventh avenue, and immediately the matter was taken up with Kenneth Murphy, colored salesman for the store, who sold the goods. Mr. Murphy immediately got in touch with Arthur Ehrenfeld, buyer for Leggett, and asked what he must do. He was instructed that the offending goods would be picked up at once by a Leggett truck, and a new brand substituted for the same price.

While the tomatoes were being picked up by the Leggett truck, Mr. Ehrenfeld wrote a sharp letter to the canners in West Virginia, asking what they meant by sending out merchandise with such a label, saying their goods had caused them the greatest embarrassment with one of their best customers, and they wanted an explanation. Mr. Murphy promised that as soon as the reply was received from the West Virginia canners it would be made public. He apologized to the grocers for his company, and so did Mr. Ehrenfeld.
