LYNCH EVIL MORE DANGEROUS THAN COMMUNISM, CONGRESSMAN TELLS SENATE COMMITTEE

Monahan, Costigan, Wagner and Guffey Urge Anti-Lynching Law

Washington, Feb. 22.—"I think the forces which bring about lynching in this country are more dangerous than the activities of the few communists we hear so much about," declared Representative-at-Large Caroline O'Day (D.) of New York, testifying before the senate judiciary sub-committee today in support of the Costigan-Wagner federal anti-lynching bill. The congresswoman, who was born in Georgia, presented the woman's view on lynching, asserting that lynching law is unenforced and is responsible for loss of American prestige abroad.

Another star witness was H. L. Mencken, the celebrated critic, who said: "No government pretending to be civilized can go on condoning such atrocities. Either it must make every possible effort to put them down or it must suffer the scorn and contempt of Christendom."

"Lynching Open Anarchy"—Costigan in addition to Senators Edward P. Costigan and Robert F. Wagner, co-authors of the bill, and Representative Thomas F. Ford of California, who presented it in the house, Senator Joseph Guffey, the new Democratic senator from Pennsylvania, voluntarily declared the bill a wholehearted support.

Wagner, noted author and chairman of the Writer's League Against Lynching, who expressed the belief that anti-lynching sentiment in the south was growing; Vice Dean Charles H. Houston of the Howard university law school; and Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which, with other organizations, is actively sponsoring the bill.

Premier Mussolini's Plans

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE READY TO REPEL INVASION

Rome, Italy, Feb. 22.—With the sailing of another contingent of Italian troops for the Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, bordering Ethiopia, the war clouds that gathered last week when Emperor Haile Selassie answered Italy's ultimatum, appear to have grown more menacing.

Protesting his desire for peace in Africa, and denying that he has any intentions against Ethiopia, Mussolini continues to lead his soldiers on snips and bid them God speed to Africa. In an address before the fascist council Saturday, Mussolini declared that his troops are trained and equipped for "any emergency." He then proceeded to address the soldiers, telling them that they were going on a glorious "adventure" for their country, and that they are not to return until they have accomplished their purpose.

Climate Handicap

New York.—If Mussolini's punitive expedition crosses the border of Abyssinia a few weeks hence, its first greeting will come from the tribes of the Ethiopian province of Danakali, the fiercest fanatics and savages in the whole of Africa, a cannibal people who during the invasion of 1896 actually ate more than 1,800 Italian soldiers, says the New York Herald-Tribune.

Snake Infested

The survivors of this reception will then be compelled to march for 300 miles across an arid plateau, devoid of water during the dry season, which will not end until June 15, infested by deadly insects and snakes and overhung by the unseen evils of tropical fever.

These are the factors which will make Italian conquest less easy than Il Duce believes, in the opinion of G. E. R. Saleh Bey, an Egyptian mining engineer and graduate of Oxford, who has just returned from an eighteen month survey of Abyssinia's mineral resources made at the request of Emperor Haile Selassie.

4,000 Years

Abyssinia, ruled for the last 4,000 years by a dynasty descended directly from Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, is a country as large as France, Italy, Belgium and Holland put together. Into this wilderness, according to the Bey, the defenders will retreat, slowly drawing the Italians ever further and further from civilization, as the Russians did to Napoleon during the march on Moscow. Eventually disease, thirst and hardship will weigh the balance.

Earl Dancer Takes Job In Hollywood

Made Associate of Felix Young of RKO Film Studios

Hollywood, Cal.—A new chapter was written in the pages of Negro film history when Earl Dancer was installed in RKO studios this week as associate to Felix Young, producer.

Long associated with the entertainment world as a producer of lavish musical extravaganzas glorifying the brown skin girl and often discovering and developing unusual talent among Negro performers, Dancer is known from coast to coast for his versatility and resourcefulness in arranging shows for the legitimate stage. He is credited with having started Ethel Waters out on her career and was, himself, one of the first Negroes to appear on Broadway in some of its biggest box office attractions of several years ago.

In his new duties as associate to Mr. Young, producer of the RKO studios, "Hooray For Love," Dancer will cast from 50 to 600 specialty acts and extras in the Jeni LeGon technicolor sequence and is not only responsible for the whole unit but the idea around which the sequence is built as well.

Previous to affiliating with RKO studios, Dancer worked with Mr. Young at Columbia in a like capacity, although unofficially. It was there, while production of "Spring 3100," which later received the title, "Jealousy," was in process, that Young became impressed with his ability and promised that if he ever made another picture, Dancer would be with him.

By E. Clifford Hatcher, Jr., D. D., Chairman, Publicity Committee, Jacksonville, Fla. (Special)

Florida, the land of sunshine and flowers was host this week to the Educational Board of the A. M. E. Church, which met Thursday Morning in the R. P. Lee Seminary Building of Edward Waters College, the pride of the 45,000 African Methodists of the 11th Episcopal District of which Bishop Joseph S. Plimmer, D. D., the parliamentarian of the African Methodist Episcopal Church is the great leader.

President C. S. Long, Jr., A. M., one of the youngest and best trained Negroes in the South had everything ready in a big way for the entertainment of the Board which is presided over by the Rt. Rev. John A. Greer, D. D., one of the brilliant sons of the A. M. E. Church an Executive of the first rank, a pulpiteer, a scholar, the first Negro offered the Presidency of Howard University, but who chose rather to serve his Church.

The members of the Educational Board are leaders in their respective Districts, viz: Rev. J. I. Link, A. D. Avery, H. Truss, C. F. Stewart, L. H. Smith, W. A. Fountain, Jr., P. M. Cary, P. W. Rogers, E. C. Hatcher, L. B. Klinekoff, Prof. W. A. Chapman, A. O. Wilson, P. M. Reid, Prof. C. H. Moore, P. H. Gow, who came from their respective Districts to hear the report of Secretary, Treasurer, Arthur S. Jackson, Ph. D., the most outstanding educator of the race. The great layman among them, whose report gave us to know that the collections of this Department were increasing, and that all of our schools had received a larger appropriation during the past year. Dr. Jackson's report showed that every cent had been properly handled and accounted for and that all led and accounted for, and that all the books are well kept. Every member of the Board is satisfied that Dr. Jackson is the right man in the right place, and that he will be re-elected in May, General Conference, 1935, New York by acclamation.

They may write and preach about the fulfillment of the Educational Department all they please, but the members of this Board will be able to show them at the proper time the work and worth of this Department to the Church. Why not cut out the Educational Department of the whole Church of 900,000? Each State, County and almost every city has its Department of Education. We are on record for the maintenance of all the Connecational support Departments. A man like Dr. Jackson will be given the assistance of the whole Church. LOCAL MINISTERS PROTEST ITALIAN ABYSSINIA DIFFICULTY

The Des Moines (Negro) Ministerial Alliance forwarded resolutions to Washington, D. C., Wednesday protesting the action of the Italian government and Premier Mussolini in forcing war and invasion of troops into Ethiopia and threatened border conflict between two nations, Italy and Africa. The resolutions read as follows:

"We, the committee appointed by the Ministerial Alliance (Negro) of Des Moines to inquire into the situation now existing between Italy and Abyssinia, submit the following findings to our best judgment:

Whereas there now exists a pending crisis that is destined and threatens to disturb and perhaps destroy the peace, the security and even the kingdom of one of the remaining independent governments of Africa, And:

Whereas each side has given to the world its view and opinion of the course of this disturbance or misunderstanding.

Whereas the Emperor of Abyssinia has frankly denied Italy's accusations that Abyssinian troops had maliciously and wantonly fired upon Italian soldiers. And that Abyssinia could not in justice to herself pay the indemnity which Rome demands, nor could it maintain its integrity as a government of long standing should it submit to the five point demand of Italy.

We further note that Abyssinia is situated in perhaps the richest and most productive region of Africa, abounding in natural resources primarily of every kind and character. It also has a civilization that antedates Christ more than 2,000 years and has been a Christian country since the 4th century A. D. It is our consensus of opinion, in view of the foregoing facts, that Italy is assuming this imperialistic attitude as heretofore manifested by her, namely, in 1896.

We therefore look upon this action by Italy with great apprehension and deep concern and fervently hope and pray that a reconciliation will be effected to the end that the friendly and peaceful relationship that has existed between these two countries may not be destroyed.

Respectfully submitted,
Benjamin H. Lucas

The Bystander announces its second cooking school and homemaker's institute to be held March 6, 7, and 8, at the Billiken Hall, Twelfth and Center streets. Luther H. S. Browne, widely known in this section of the country and in the East as a home economics expert and demonstrator of household equipment and kitchen aids, will manage the school.
Mr. Brown will be assisted by Mrs. Clara Johnson, who will be in charge of the demonstrations; she is well versed in the art of domestic science. Delicious meals, prepared and served at an economy of price, energy and time will be the keynote feature of their demonstrations. Questions from the audience will be answered from the model kitchen stage which local manufacturers and dealers will prepare for these ordinary experts.
Des Moines women will have an opportunity—in the three days of the school not only to brush up on the latest in the culinary art but to learn more about housekeeping methods. Clothing, beauty aids in the home, dieting and various auxiliary subjects will also be discussed.
The Bystander's first cooking school sponsored in June of 1933, was attended by capacity crowds at all the three days' sessions. Many girls and young women who were employed in domestic service attended the classes in order to increase their efficiency at their work. Women and men from the east and west sides were there in large numbers and several clubs suspended their meetings to be present.

Viola Has Part All Its Own in Orchestra Work

The viola is exactly like the violin, except that it is one-fifth larger and has heavier strings, notes a writer in the Washington Post. It is tuned a fifth below the violin, its strings thus giving C, G, D and A, the deepest tone being an octave below middle C on the piano.

The viola is played in a manner similar to that used for the violin, except for the greater stretches in fingering, due to the greater length of the strings. The dull, mournful tone of the viola comes from the fact that its strings are thicker. The extra depth is attained by increasing the thickness of the strings, which always makes the tone less brilliant. Thus, the viola gets a tone color of brooding melancholy.

The viola plays the third part in the string quartet, which consists of a first and second violin, a viola, and a violoncello. This does not mean that it is always below the two violins in pitch, for the string quartet depends upon interest and variety in the leading of its four parts, and sometimes the viola may be playing the highest note of a chord.

In orchestral work the viola has much the same duty. It is often called upon for its special tone color, but usually it is found playing in four-part harmony with the first and second violins and violoncellos. In the eighteenth century its role was more humble, and it was often compelled to follow the bass viol.

Poplar Tree Is Beaver's Favorite Along Streams

Beavers are as easy to raise as sheep or pigs. They are more profitable and give less trouble. The beaver flourishes wherever the poplar grows, and was once very much at home all over the continent from the Mexican border north, excepting only the deserts of the south and the sub-arctic barrens. For the native it was an important source of food and warm clothing, and the value of its pelts was responsible for attracting the advance guard of civilization. For a century the beaver skin was the standard of value among the dwellers of the frontier.

As engineers their architectural ingenuity is sufficient to enable them to withstand their natural enemies, the bear, the wolf, the bob-cat, the wolverine and the otter. But they are not nearly so intelligent as it is generally supposed. In fact they are so easily trapped as to be the most difficult animals to protect.
In their wild condition they are friendly and sociable among themselves, but regard other beavers and all other living things as enemies.

Alloys Compete With Steel
Light alloys of non-metallic resins that have a strength comparable with steel are strong competitors of metals. These substances have long been associated with pipe stems, lunch trays, bracelets, and other novelties, but now they are being made into castings for heavy manufacturing equipment with success. Used with asbestos filler, resins can be molded into pieces of almost any size. The resulting "castings" are much lighter than similar ones of iron.

Family Habits Handed Down
Hundreds of family habits are handed down not by physical or mental heredity but by "social heredity," notes a writer in the Detroit News. Ability to swim or play games usually well is largely due to physical heredity but all healthy people play games possibly well entirely from custom. Eating with one's knife or talking loud in depots and on trains or gossiping about neighbors runs in some families but fortunately is not inborn.

Marginal Land Defined
The National Land Use Planning committee defined marginal land as "land where the agricultural output just balances input, including a proper allowance for depreciation and interest on capital other than land and labor of the operator and his family. Sub-marginal land is that where output falls below the balance, and super-marginal land, that where output rises above."

The Granby Takes
The Granby taken (1375) was a private copper coinage issued by John Higley of Granby, Conn., where there were copper mines, afterward used as toy prisons and workshops. The obverse was a deer, with the legend, "Valve Me As You Please"; Roman numerals III and crescent. The reverse was three hammers on a triangular field, each surrounded by a crown, and with the legend, "I Am Good Copper."

Rifles of Civil War Days
In the American Civil War troops of the North and South were armed with rifles, shooting elongated bullets pointed at the nose rather than the old round bullets of the long rifle. Most of the rifles of that period were muzzle-loaders, though as the war progressed breechloading rifles were introduced from time to time.

Copper and Lead
Sheet copper and lead are the metals most commonly used in roofing. Repairs and replacement of roof and chimney flashing can more safely be done with these softer materials which rust out in a few years. The same is true for the gutters and rain spouts.

TRAINING GOOD ANIMALS NOT ENOUGH

MOST parents seriously attempt to be good animals. That is to say, from the standpoint of the physical care of our children we do pretty well in most particulars. Not many children starve; most are at least occasionally bathed and many still "castrated." Mothers do provide reasonably suitable clothes and seek with a positive irritation for the black ringed neck and the finger nails "in mourning."

Most youngsters are fairly well schooled as such schooling goes. They can read and scribble and spell (sometimes). They can sing and dance and find amusement, but when it comes to that much more significant wise training and direction of the emotional self, it almost makes one shudder to realize the unfortunate effects average parents with the best of intentions have upon the emotional unbalance of their children, because they know no better!

Mothers who are scrupulously careful about proper food, sufficient milk and vegetables, who would be horrified to find their precious child in soiled "undies," are often essentially responsible for a type of emotional environment in the home in those early days of youth, which, in spite of excellent physical care, gives society neurotic, irritable, nervous, inadequate boys whose chances at normal adjustment out in a big busy, selfish, thoughtless society, are pretty slim.

Physical care is basic and absolutely necessary. We would not substitute something else for it. Wise and proper feeding and sane and sensible clothing are essential to physical health and well being and custom and command sense provide for them fairly well. Good schooling, plenty of books and wise and proper play are all essential and there is room for much improvement in all these lines; but all of these combined do not take the place of or substitute for a rational emotional training, which is the very greatest need of youth, and of us all today; a fact which is more and more evident as the whole problem of personality adjustment is better understood.

On every hand, many astounding things are being said concerning the obvious short-comings of parents and teachers and workers with youth, and there is as yet such a complete lack of understanding among even the most intelligent folk in regard to the emotional development of young boys, coupled frequently with the idea that we already know it all as if we are doing a good and satisfactory job, that it will take a tremendous campaign of education to open our eyes to the perfectly marvelous unexplored possibilities of youth when once we know better how to train wisely and effectively this hidden self, the emotion. The significant fact after all, is that it is essentially a home job. It must be done before school and work and social contact begins, so that it is essentially a job for parents.

Developing good animals is not enough.

The Palomino Horse

The term palomino is simply one word used to describe the painted horse, that is, a horse showing regular markings of white and black, or white and another color, in some instances of three colors. The painted horse so common in the West is a descendant of the Spanish horse brought to America by the Spanish conquistadores. The striking coloration has not resulted from any careful breeding. On the contrary horses of this type are allowed to run on the range as part of the year as a rule, and their breeding has been rather a matter of chance.

Waterfowl Destroyed

At the completion of a survey made by the United States biological survey and Canada, jointly, covering a period of some twenty years, beginning in 1906 and ending in 1929, it was brought to light that 90 per cent of all species of waterfowl that once existed on the North American continent has been destroyed during the period of construction and destruction since the country was first inhabited by the civilized race.

Where Cold Weather Comes From

Cold weather comes from the north, southward in the form of cold air masses, or highs, which flow out of the Arctic basin, says an authority. The most frequent path into the United States is down the basin of the McKenzie river through western Canada, across Montana and the Dakotas, and gradually turning eastward. The North-west gets the full shock of them and consequently is normally the coldest part of the country.

English Longbow Good Weapon

Old manuscripts spy of the English longbow of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, that its full cast was 200 yards. That was with an arrow with a sharpened steel broadhead point or with a bodkin point, a missile sufficiently strong and heavy to pierce armor at short range, or fell a man, at a distance almost as great as its maximum carry.

Lotteries Paved Streets

Many of the best roads and streets in Philadelphia were paved with money from sanctioned lotteries. The state legislature, to prevent increase of taxes, authorized a lottery in 1761 to raise $200,000 for construction of the Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike now the National Highway.

First Cannon Tubes of Metal or Made of Wood

Early war engines included the catapult, employing twisted fiber or hair for propelling powder; the ballista, a largesized catapult, and the onager, a machine employing the principle of the springboard for projecting missiles. A small catapult had a range of about 400 yards, a larger and heavier one a greater maximum range. Missile engines took various forms as they were developed up to the time of the invention of gunpowder, though it is doubtful whether any of them had a greater range than the 1,000 yards of the supergun invented by Archimedes. The introduction of gunpowder into the business of war in Europe early in the fourteenth century changed completely both weapons and missiles, though the change was not so abrupt as might be supposed. For a long time, for instance, the old missile engines remained almost the equal of early cannon, and the longbow stood as superior to the earliest small arms employing powder. Cannon were invented before muskets and pistols. First cannon were called bombardiers and were nothing more than tubes of metal or tubes of wood bound with metal. These bombardiers, some of which were constructed to great proportions and capable of hurling missiles weighing as much as 1,800 pounds, had a maximum range of not more than 2,000 yards, a majority, however, shooting extreme distances of much less than that.

Palestine Battleground of Countless Opposing Hosts

Standing always at the crossroads of Africa and Asia, it has been Palestine's fate to serve as a battleground of foreign hosts and as a center of turbulent passions, notes a writer in the Washington Post. The succession of hostile forces that have moved across the canvas of the Holy Land, portrayed in the powerful narratives of the Old and New Testaments, have kept this land yet the Land of the Bible. In Palestine there are unforgettable contrasts in attire, speech, habits and manner of life. The Bedouin in flowing garb drives a line of solemn camels in stately caravan side by side with the speeding automobile and within sound of the droning airplane. Four thousand years of history link up the Palestine of today with the Canaan of old. In the Bedouin one sees the wild and free shepherds of the days when Canaan was a pastoral land. The Arab peasant may well be the prototype of the tiller of the soil of yore. In the Christian Arab of Bethlehem and Nazareth one will recall the picturesque epoch of the Crusaders. And in the industrial and agricultural activity of the Jews is the era when Israel was a nation. It is only from the fourteenth century B. C. that Palestine's history becomes more definite. In the ensuing centuries many changes have taken place, yet through the ages, each fresh chapter of its history has been recorded, to remain a part of the mysterious East.

War Considered Imminent as Protest to Geneva Council is Unheeded

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia—Feb 16—The threat of war between Italy and Ethiopia loomed largely on the international horizon, this week as Premier Mussolini of Italy ordered the mobilization of some 250,000 troops and placed naval and air equipments in readiness for action. The move was said to have been made as the result of a series of alleged border attacks by Ethiopians, colonial neighbors of Italy in Africa. No ultimatum from the Italian government to the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa, is reported to have been sent as yet, but the situation is viewed as one with grave potentialities by international statesmen. Advisers from Rome emphasized the fact that no troops had left Italy and added that troop concentrations for the time being would be confined to two divisions amounting to about 30,000 men. An Italian air fleet was reported to have taken off from Cyrenaica for Eritrea and Italian Somalia and thirty more in Eritrea Troop movements on Italian soil were said to be still in progress, at last reports, several units having left Rome for Catania.

The protest against Ethiopia which sort would be attempted by Mussolini's order for mobilization was against a reported clash of Ethiopian and Italian colonial troops on January 29th last. This was the most serious of a number of successive incidents which caused both nations to protest to Geneva. Several soldiers on both sides were reported killed in an official communique of the Italian Government.

In its rewritten form, the Costigan-Wagner bill, which has been revised from its last year's form, has been introduced in the House by Representative Ford. Senator Detrich of Illinois points out a weakness in the bill in that it has a county liability clause that would make it possible that children will be subjected to damages to county "game lands" when a child is taken for a ride. Senator Costigan, one of the authors of the bill, suggested that the clause be modified to make county liable only where they did not "due diligence" to protect a child.

Space does not allow me to give the honor trick table but it is found very easily. I will gladly give one to anyone that wants one.
