HERNDON LOSES FINAL APPEAL FOR FREEDOM Pastor's Wife Receives Broken Arms and Leg

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS GEORGIA'S SENTENCE OF COMMUNIST

Washington—Sentence of from 18 to 20 years imprisonment imposed by a Georgia court on Angelo Herndon on charges of attempting to incite insurrection was upheld here Monday by the United States supreme court. Herndon's appeal was dismissed in a 6 to 3 decision.

The 22 year old Communist organizer was charged with possession and distribution of Communist literature advocating the social and economic emancipation of Negroes in the south to the point of confiscating land owned by whites in the so-called Black Belt.

He was sentenced on the old slave statute passed in 1861 used by the slave holders to crush uprising, slave insurrections and to punish those found giving aid to the slaves.

The International Labor Defense has had charge of the case and Herndon's counsel insisted that the reference to "revolutions" and "revolutionary" movements did not constitute a threat to overthrow constituted government by force, but to bring about reforms.

Herndon has been out of prison on a $15,000 bond making speeches throughout the country to audiences on his case and that of the Scottsboro boys.

IGNORE FACT LOVEJOY DIED FOR NEGROES Freedom of Press Stressed in Tribute To Fiery Abolitionist

Waterville, Me.—(ANP)—Services commemorative of the life and death of Elijah Lovejoy were held here at Colby college last week, at which distinguished leaders of American life and if journalism paid tribute to the fiery abolitionist who was killed by a mob at Alton, Ill., in 1837.

All those who gathered to pay him tribute were white.

Although Negroes have revered Lovejoy for his outspoken position against slavery, this phase of his life was virtually ignored in the tributes paid him here. Lovejoy was principally praised as a defender of the freedom of the press and it was held that he gave his life for that principle.

Kansas City Monarchs Outclass Chinese Nine in 4th Victory Here

By Everett Wadsworth Staff Writer

The Chinese All-Stars from Honolulu, Hawaii, were let down with five hits, losing to the fast Kansas City Monarchs nine, 7 to 3, at the Western League ball park last Friday night. Roy Kransen, newcomer in the ranks of the Negro champions, struck out fifteen batters after a weak first inning, in which Hans Pung and Walt Schinwaga walked, advancing on a wild pitch. John Kerr's single scored Pung, but Schinwaga was put out at the plate with a nice throw from Leroy Taylor, right fielder, to Catcher Ted Young.

After the first inning, Yamada hit safely in the eighth, the only man who was able to find Kransen. Nafua, Chinese hurler, fanned seven. His curve ball was effective, but his chance of pace was disastrous in the eighth when Willard Brown, Monarch's shortstop, met one of his slow ones and "lost" it over the left field wall.

The oriental team was outclassed by the fast colored boys, but the con-

Anti-Lynch Bill Sidetrack May Cost Democrat Party Thousands of Votes

NOTED WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT SAYS G. O. P. WILL MAKE IT CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Washington, May 24—In his May 20 dispatch, Rodney Dutcher, noted Washington correspondent for NEA Service, predicts that the shelving of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill will be used effectively by the Republican party to woo the Negro voter back into its ranks and may eventually result in the Democratic loss of eight pivotal states in the 1936 presidential election.

"A northern senator high in the Democratic councils," he writes, "remarked privately after the burial of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill by a southern filibuster that if the 1936 election were close, the episode might cost his party eight or ten important states. He referred to the fact well known among politicians that the Negro vote can exert a balance of power in certain states—Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland are usually named—in close contests."

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE AVERTS TEXAS LYNCHING

Dallas, Texas—A Negro farm hand was saved from a lynch-crazed mob of forty angry whites on the Richardson public square and rushed to the Dallas county jail here Saturday.

Allen Samuel, 32, the prisoner, is alleged to have been an altercation with Jack Holland, and later to have engaged in a brawl with W. T. Jones, according to Justice of the Peace V. S. Blewett.

Blewett further stated that a part of the crowd took two knives from the Negro and started to bruise him, cutting him and inflicting multiple contusions, lacerations and minor bruises before he was saved.

test was marked by several brilliant features. Yamada's sensational second base work and Prof. Milton's running catch were the sparkling plays of the game. In their fourth appearance here, the Monarchs have won contests from the Des Moines Demons, House of David, and Dizzy Dean's Barnstormers.

Several new names appear in the Negro champions' lineup. The veteran pitching staff of Chet Brewer, Andy Cooper and Beverly is aided by Kransen and Madison. Ted Young, Allan, Joseph and Rogan are the familiar faces with Merriweather, Troupe and Dwight also ready for duty.

The boys from across the Pacific are touring the United States and Canada, under the management of the Buck Lai, formerly of the Eastern and International League. The Islanders and Monarchs are expected to play another contest here this season again soon.

Many feature attractions have been planned for this summer by Lee Keyser, president, and Charles Knight, secretary of the Des Moines Baseball club.

Clayton Powell, Sr., pastor of Abyssinian Baptist church, 132 West 138th street, tendered his resignation to officers and members of his church on Sunday. The resignation, read at the Sunday morning services, caused consternation to reign, but despite representations made to him by local friends and followers for him to reconsider his action, Rev. Powell persisted in his determination. He read his message of resignation at the Sunday evening services to an equally protesting congregation.

In tendering his resignation, Rev. Powell asked that he be made pastor emeritus, having already been elected pastor for life by the church in July, 1924. While no mention was made of his successor, it was said that one of the favorite choices of the joint boards of the church for the post, would be his son and assistant pastor, Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Jr.

Sports By Allen Ashby

JOE LOUIS

We have a peculiar hunch about this Louis boy. We believe the sports writers are putting him in an unpleasant spot by predicting a quick knockout win for him over Primo Carnera next month. They seem to ignore the fact that no one has ever left the ring with the Man Mountains on the floor several have knocked him down, but never has he had the last count of ten over his great big frame. Now here is our hunch: Should Louis fail to put the big fellow away there will immediately be stories that he isn't quite so hot after all and may be doesn't rate a match with Baer. This Baer and Schmeling would fight for the title. This is a common trick among sports writers to inflate a ball club or fighter so high that the least possible let down makes them look bad. It is an easy way to get rid of some things. Here's hoping Louis does what they say he will and stops Carnera, but keep this dope in mind.

TRACK

The state meet wasn't such a great success for our high school boys. Gail Davis of Perry won the javelin throw, but didn't break the record this meet being one of the few in which he failed to better the state mark. Valley Junction with King and Floyd came through with a victory in the medley relay and Archie Lucas got fifth in the 220 and managed to anchor enough relay teams to help North finish second in the meet. Black of Ottumwa ran second in the ten hurdles.

In the Big Ten, Jesse Owens comonly broad jumped 24 ft. 11 inches, snared his winning of four first but Hevens! is the old boy slipping? We like to see what will happen this week in the Big Ten meet where Ward will be in there again and will run into Owens and Walker of Ohio and Briggs of Iowa.

After years of waiting we uncovered a Negro miler who broke the inter-scholastic mile records last week. We will watch this lad in the future.

LACK OF MONEY HANDICAPPED FIGHT FOR ANTI-LYNCHING BILL, N. A. A. C. P. ASSERTS

New York, May 17.—Lack of sufficient financial support from those who would profit most from the passage of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill was chiefly responsible for the temporary shelving of the controversial measure, according to a statement issued today from the N. A. A. C. P.

Judge Says Negro Must Prove His "African Descent" When Jury Question Is Raised

Wichita Falls, Texas.—(CNA)—Attorneys for Luke Crear, accused of murder, are seeking to quash the indictment on the grounds of violation of the Fourteenth amendment Crear, a restaurant keeper, was indicted for the murder of his wife by a grand jury composed exclusively of white men.

In an effort to defeat the move of the defense, the prosecution haled Crear into court and went through the solemn farce of making him prove his African descent. Ordinarily, when a Negro is accused of any offense in Texas, his African descent and strict punishment are taken for granted. Although Negroes constitute at least ten per cent of the city's population, they are rarely summoned for jury service.

Coal Is the Remnant of Prehistoric Plant Life

Coal is what is left of prehistoric plant life that has been subjected to subterranean temperatures and pressures for millions of years, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The geologists know this because there are scattered throughout ferns, and even fossilized forms of leaves, stems, and tree trunks, to say nothing of assorted vermin of that far-off day. Furthermore, coal in all stages of evolution has been found. There is peat, which is nothing more than a brown, spongy, water-soaked mass of decayed vegetation. There is lignite, or brown coal, which is so soft that it can readily be crumbled by the fingers. There is bituminous or soft coal, which is black in color but still fairly easy to powder. And, as a last stage, there is anthracite, which is a hard, flinty material the composition of which is almost pure carbon. These changes are undergone by wood in its evolution into anthracite. Coal steadily loses oxygen and hydrogen. This means that water, carbon dioxide, and probably some hydrogen-rich natural gas have been steadily baked and squeezed out of the coal, until its composition approaches that of pure carbon.

Color-Blindness Affects People in Various Ways

People who are color-blind were not very pleased when colored traffic signals were introduced and since accidents have been in general use their troubles have increased.

Inability to distinguish between colors is more common than most of us suppose. More men than women are victims of it.

There are people who are color-blind in only one eye. For instance, while their left eye may see red as red, their right sees it as black.

The story is told of a famous Quaker chemist who was color-blind and had only three normal color sensations. A pink flower looked blue to him and when he cut his chin one day he saw green blood flowing from the wound.

Instances of colored vision are not uncommon. Some people always see though they were looking through red glass.—Pearson's V.

Secret Interracial Conferences Perfect Strategy

Washington, May 17.—The fervent hope of senatorial opponents of the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill that no further effort would be made this season to renew the fight for its passage was blasted this week when interracial strategy committees privately conferred here and in New York and rushed plans for a fresh battle. While the plan of attack has not been divulged, it is believed a renewed effort will be made to line up laggard senators.

SIGN COMPLAINT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(Special) An emphatic charge that members of the A. M. E. church of the city acquiring property contrary to moral principles is made by a group of members of the Thomas Chapel A. M. E. Zion church here this week. The charges grew out of the acquisition of property belonging to the group by a group of A. M. E. worshippers.

The members making the charges were given to the World Wednesday are H. F. Thomas, Frank Baldwin, C. J. Ross, M. C. Dowdell, James Brooks and Jim Stewart. The church will hold its services at 1401 College street, hereafter.

"About thirty years ago a group of members of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church purchased a plot of ground on 11th street and 16th avenue for the purpose of building a church and worshipping God under their own vine and fig tree. At that time the members of the church were making the early years, many apparently insurmountable obstacles and of course these were real and prevalent as much then as now, with a church as well as with any other kind of business; the loyal members. The sacrifice of starting the foundation for the erection of a church, finally, under the dynamic, courageous and untiring leadership of Bishop Shaw, the church was completed about eight or ten years ago.

"It is impossible to accurately compute the honest weight and full measure of life's blood that has gone into the completion of this church edifice—Thomas Chapel; name for one of the loyal members. The sacrifice of time, labor and money. Devoted things which have been extracted through the years, that cannot be easily set forth in a brief newspaper article. Suffice it to say, that all of the struggle and arduousness which most Negro churches must undergo, we experienced deeply by us. The full price which is exacted in the building of any institution, was paid in full by us.

During the depression the burden was extra heavy on us, and like many other organizations and institutions, we lost—lost our property, and up to now we have not been able to redeem it. But we love the old spot of land, the building and that for which it stands. Our love was so great, that although we were dispossessed of ownership, we remained there, paying a minimum of twenty dollars a month rent. It was hard, certainly, but we stuck looking forward with hope to the betterment of the times, when we might repossess our property and restore to ourselves the dignity of ownership of the Glory of God.

Many groups have wanted our church. A Baptist group wanted it, but when they found out that we were still in and holding on, their sense of justice and of Christian brotherhood would not allow them to buy our church out from under us. With decency and dignity they refused to crush and humiliate us. Also a Holiness group wanted it, but they too, likewise refused to trample the golden rule under their unshod feet. They dug into us so they would have us do unto them.

It was left to a group of fellow Methodists of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, led by the venerable Rev. Mr. Carter, to stoop so low in the gutter of depravity, as to violate every rule of common decency and moral righteousness, to say nothing about Christian obligation and Christian ethics. The A. M. E. Church led by Rev. Carter and obviously with the sanction of its Bishop, bought the church out from under us without the slightest compensation—not even a notice or consultation.

Do you call that religion? If so I know many crooks, and racketeers who should be preachers and stewards in the A. M. E. Church. For there is a code of honor, even among thieves. And among the "big time" unholiness, there seem to be a rigid code of honor. Some are eyes cut down with hot lead and slugs like a wild weed with a scythe, but that is given ample notice and sufficient warning.

"ATLANTA AFTER DARK"

A Fast-Moving, Six Chapter Short Story By JOSEPH STAFFORD

CHAPTER ONE

"Atlanta is the most wonderful place in the world," Helen Lee chirped enthusiastically to her father as they strolled down Peachtree Street. "I only wish mother were here," she said, and seeing the gloominess that came over his face when she spoke of her mother who had recently passed on, she said, "I'm sorry, dad. But I do hope you'll be successful here. I'm crazy about Atlanta."

"Thousands of people hurry up and down the street, darting in and out of department stores, tall buildings pointing majestically upward and glittering in the sun light, the noise of the traffic, the honking of horns, the clatter of bells, the shrill sound of the police whistles, and the pleasant smell of fruit in the little stands floating about in the early morning air, painted a picture before her such as she had never seen before. But as they reached the entrance to the Howard jewelry store, two shrill cracks of a revolver brought them both to abrupt, panic-stricken stops.

"Get the girl, we'll use her as a shield!" the man in the car beside the curb yelled to the three tall, black men who were bent out of the door with drawn revolvers. One of them carried a bag apparently filled with money and jewelry they had taken from the store.

"In that instant she felt herself being snatched toward the car while her father looked helplessly on, for a more toward the car would have meant his death. "Stand on the running board and if you scream I'll kill you!" one of the bandits snarled as the car shot forward.

Too afraid to speak, Helen quickly obeyed grasping the door with both hands as the car sped through the city, dodging around cars, discarding traffic signals and skidding as it turned corners at a terrific speed. Momentarily she expected her frail muscles to give way to the strain she labored under to keep herself hanging on to the car. At last they turned into a highway and the air almost smothered her as the car picked up speed. She saw the needle on the speedometer move up to sixty, and suddenly another loud crack sounded in her ears and she saw terror in the bandit's eyes who was holding the pistol to her breast.

The car began to zig zag and her body suddenly went numb as she realized there had been a blow from the driver applied to the wheel and labored to steady the car, but his efforts were in vain.

She felt herself being hurled through space as the car left the highway, but through a freak of fate, she landed in a bed of tall grass. She held her eyes and hands as the car struck something. What it struck she did not know, for in that instant she lost consciousness.

The three men stood in her head, she confessed her bit until the doctor reached for her wrist, then she remembered what had happened. "Atlanta isn't so wonderful after all, is it, dear?" her father smiled, patting her affectionately on the shoulder. He had to speak the second time for her eyes and thoughts were seemingly transfixed upon the young man standing near the door.

"Oh, that's Mr. Nick Collins, Helen, her father said. "And you can thank him for having his car handy so we could run down those bandits."

"I assure you I'm grateful, Mr. Collins," she said. "The pleasure was mine, Miss Lee. I hope I shall be able to help you again, but in a different way," he said.

Although she had been frightened almost into hysterics and was suffering from a general shake-up, Helen could still smile. After all, Atlanta was still a wonderful place, she thought. She had experienced more thrills and excitement during the week she had been there she had experienced in Richmond, Georgia, the little country town where she had lived with her grandmother, since her mother's death. Anyway, being rescued by a handsome brown skinned man like Nick Collins was

But as we observe the action of A. M. E. church and of Rev. Mr. Carter, we are forced to the conclusion that the A. M. E. church is, in particular, a supposedly Christian church, but who has utterly and diametrically failed to be Christ-like in their dealings with us, should take some lessons in honor from some racketeering syndicate and that Rev. Carter as a leader, since he fails to have the mind of Christ should at least get the disposition of Al Capone, and at all times give his intended victims of his Dr. Jeany and Mr. Hyde complex a chance at least.

well worth her recent experience, she concluded.

It was Tuesday night, the night she had chosen to see Atlanta after dark. Grace Howard, Harry Young her boy friend, and Nick Collins were coming to take her to the Idle Inn Road House. It was to be her first night at The Simpson Road spot, although she had been in Atlanta several months, and Helen was thrilled beyond comparison. In her mixture of excitement and elation, she couldn't get a single thing to fit her, and pranced about her room for an hour or more before she finally went into her father's room for his inspection.

"You're beautiful, marvelous, Helen," he spoke elatedly, dropping his paper to the floor and inspecting her carefully from head to foot.

COMPROMISE ENDS THREAT OF BOYCOTT

Hoicowitz Store Now Grants Demand of League For Jobs

REMOVE PICKETS

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—(Special) What seemed as the first act between the Future Outlook League, which is campaigning for 2,000 jobs for Negroes, and a merchant in the Woodland area was narrowly averted last Friday when Hoicowitz Department Store, 257 E. 55th street, decided to give employment to a colored girl thus stopping the imminent boycott which an advance squad from the League had set out to institute.

The impasse between Hoicowitz and officials of the League had been broken last Wednesday night after Hoicowitz had ignored a letter from the League asking for a place for some colored girl in his store organization, because of the large percentage of business which his store receives from colored patrons.

At the regular meeting of the League held Wednesday night at the Globe Theatre building 5217 Woodland avenue, four members were added to the executive board of the organization, consisting of M. Milton Lewis, Mrs. O. Howard, Mrs. J. M. Johnson, and Mrs. J. Jennings. A sub-committee to work in conjunction with the investigating committee was also appointed, headed by Mr. Gilliam. Mr. Ottum was named parliamentarian.

A new departure in the activity—the third of a series—was held, frankly admitted that he was nearly at a loss to advise how the Negro worker can best protect his own interest, except for him to organize his own, equitable, pointing out that he felt certain that the right kind of labor organization would make the Negro workers' influence felt.

"There never was a Negro" said Mr. Hill, "when the Negro was in a situation, for Negroes are between two forces, employers and employees. Only in the bituminous fields, where 25,000 are employed, and in the lumber industry do Negro workers have to trouble," he pointed out in clearing the room, Mr. Conners told of the need for foremen at the meeting and intimated that the organization was seen in the invitation to its next meeting of all persons with a thorough knowledge of grocery store management, the retailing of groceries and meats. This gave rise to the theory that the League plans now to direct its attention to the opening up of places in grocery and meat stores for colored help.

Walking into the road house was like walking into a new world. To Helen it was even more like she had pictured it to be. Beautiful people, happy people, wine, drink, music and everything to make life heart skip a beat. She had fled to mingle with this crowd of carefree people. People who were not to live in a state of perpetual bliss. People who live in the present and scorned the conventions of the older generations. Now she was here, among them, one of them. It didn't seem real, somehow. It all seemed like a long, long dream. A dream she hoped would go on forever.

They were hardly seated when the floor was cleared and the orchestra began playing one of its jazziest numbers. A semi-nude girl appeared, singing and twisting her body in unusual postures, to the tunes of the orchestra. Unaccustomed to such displays of audacious and sensuality in the presence of men, Helen became the victim of a thrilling embarrassment, and tried to hide the expression on her face by lifting her compact and powdering her nose, that really needed no attention.

The waiter brought wine, at Nick's request, and for the first time in her life, Helen experienced the taste of an intoxicating liquor.

The remainder of the evening she lived in a daze, seemingly floating around in this air, in a land of infinite joy. The way her dance partner smiled at her and danced to date her, the tender words they whispered in her ear, and at intervals, their grips tightening around her slender waist, made her feel that there was something attractive about her. She was thrilled. These were the happiest moments of her life.

It was in the early hours of the morning when Nick brought her home. Grace and Harry were in the back seat and had apparently fallen asleep. She sat close beside Nick, her head resting on his shoulder, and her eyes staring straight ahead, as though she were dreaming. They were both silent, but Nick frequently stole glances at her lovely profile.

He brought the car to a stop, his arm around her slender waist and their eyes met. He drew her close to him and their slender lips met and lingered. They received as though awakening in a fight. The incident was as much a surprise to him as it was to her. "I'm sorry," he apologized almost breathlessly.

"Don't be sorry, Nick," she said quickly. "It was my fault. I wanted you to do that," she whispered softly, and lifted her eager lips to his again.

LAUDED FOR FINE RECITAL AT LANE COLLEGE

The Young Women's Glee Club of Lane College presented a very splendid recital recently in the Lane College chapel. This splendid group, under the direction of Mrs. C. N. Stephens, assistant director of music at Lane College, is winning much fame for the school and rendering invaluable service to the pioneer C.M.E. institution at Jackson, Tenn.

FORMER ATLANTAN IS CLICKING IN WEST; MANY CLIENTS

(By Ray Buford) LOS ANGELES (WVS)—Having remembered his work in clinics in the south, Dr. Robinson soon established one at the Home Service Bureau. There members of all races congregate to hear him tell them how to keep well and cure the many illness which befall any family. He has also associated himself with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the United Negro College, and Payne College.

When questioned by the writer about the possibilities for a physician and surgeon to be found in Los Angeles, Dr. Robinson answered: "They are unlimited and my services has scarcely been scratched. The only requirements for one who wishes success is knowledge, skill and the will to accomplish. There are no racial barriers and our patients are no pious in the hospital as quickly as those of any other."

Health authorities have given me wonderful cooperation in my work, Dr. Robinson pointed out. "They are unlimited and my services has scarcely been scratched. The only requirements for one who wishes success is knowledge, skill and the will to accomplish. There are no racial barriers and our patients are no pious in the hospital as quickly as those of any other."

At any other time Helen would have indulged in this typical American breakfast. "But today she wasn't hungry. Still, she thought over her first night of adventure, she had no appetite. She merely took a sip of coffee, a bite of toast and her meal was over."

"When her father had come to the office she went back to her room and curled up in bed. She was just about to doze off to sleep when the phone rang. She picked up a pillow beneath her head, plopped in the receiver and spoke a few words.

"Oh hello, Grace! I had the time of my life." "What happened, Helen? Harry and I were just about full and I knew nothing until Nick brought me home," Grace said. "You're telling me? Say, why don't you two get married and get it over with?" "Bright idea, little girl. Why don't you and Nick give the minister a break?"

"Well, you see, I'm not so sure of Nick. I've got to go places and see things first," Helen said. "Now now, you're talking kid. That's just why I called you. Be ready to play tennis at two o'clock. I've just arranged a mixed doubles team."

"But, Grace, I can't. I haven't been on the courts this year," Helen protested. "And besides, you haven't told me who the players are."

"Never mind asking questions, they are not Harry and Nick. Be ready, we'll call for you at two o'clock."

Helen rolled back under the soft pillow and smiled. "Nick was just like Grace, she was so impulsive, and determined. You just couldn't refuse her anything. She nestled herself comfortably and it wasn't long before she was fast asleep."

Promptly at two, the contents of her trunk, which she had packed in the trunk that evening, were taken out and she slipped on her cream colored slip and sweater, and grabbed her racket and rushed to the door. As she stepped down the steps, she noticed the car, she felt upon her forehead the heat that emanated from the radiator. Her eyes were smiling and the two young men stared at her with such profound interest, she felt a bit self-conscious.

BELL MAKES FIRM PLEA FOR GIRLS

CME Minister Asks White Methodists For Assistance

AID PROMISED

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(Special) Rev. Dr. W. W. Bell, pastor of Mt. Olive C.M.E. church, before an audience of nearly 200 white women of the Methodist Missionary Council Tuesday afternoon suggested that:

(1) They set up Mission Study classes for young colored women in various Negro churches of the city.

(2) Organize general Leadership Classes for the training of young colored women in Christian Social Work.

(3) Encourage and aid the religious summer schools to be conducted at Lane College, Mississippi Industrial College, and Payne College.

(4) Give scholarships to deserving colored girls who are anxious to further their education by attending college.

(5) Give summer courses in music, home economics and other courses of interest to women.

(6) Establish Community Mission Centers for the purpose of training colored girls in the study of home economics, art, music, health sanitation and the like.

The Rev. Dr. Bell, at the invitation of the White Methodist Missionary Council, spoke Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

Through the efforts of Dr. Bell, the ladies were interested in assisting and aiding the young colored women of this city who are in dire need of religious attention.

The theme of Dr. Bell's address to the white women, "How may the Christian white-women of Memphis assist in inspiring and training Christian colored leaders efficient in the improvement of Negro life and the promotion of inter-racial understanding, sympathy and goodwill?"

Dr. Robinson is living with his family at 705 E. 52nd Place in Los Angeles. Included in that number are: his wife, Mrs. Florence Robinson, formerly connected with the Family Service Society of New Orleans, La., who has come down to Los Angeles for a year and 10 months; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Robinson, Sr. his father and mother, formerly of Brunswick, Georgia.

His offices are located in the Central Building at 2510 South Central Avenue. He is also in charge of his own business as an accountant in Mrs. Pearlita Brooks, the sister of Dr. Robinson, is employed as a chauffeur by Dr. Robinson and has been so for more than 10 years. Although the last gets lonely for Auburn Avenue in Atlanta, his feelings are somewhat allayed by the attention he is paid by the girls on Central Avenue. His only desire is to allow his friends of Auburn Avenue to see the attention lavished upon him by the Angel City girls.

Although Los Angeles presents a brilliant future, Dr. Robinson faces a longing for the Gate City at times. A place with so many pleasant memories would cause a desire to visit there, steal into the body's mind. The many letters from his former patients and associates makes him realize that he had contributed something to "community life" while sojourning in that midst.

DR. W. W. ROBINSON

Former leading physician and citizen of Atlanta, Ga., who has established himself as one of Los Angeles' leading medical men. Among his many clients is Stepin Fetchak, the celebrated comedian.

OPPORTUNITY ESSENTIAL

Ethel Waters, famous singer, appeared in Des Moines last week in the production "As Thousands Cheer." Judging from the tremendous applause given her, she lived up fully to the expectations of the audience. Miss Waters is a fine artist; evidently the color of her skin made no difference to the audience. Des Moines people are famous for that.

However, the Bystander can not help but admire those who not only recognized ability in Miss Waters but also gave her an opportunity to use that ability and commercialize on it. Artists may be ever-so capable, mechanics may be ever-so skillful but if they never get a chance to demonstrate those attainments they go for naught.

What is said of Miss Waters goes in all lines of human endeavor. Once America recognizes merit in an individual and gives him an opportunity regardless of the color of his skin, it will have less racial strife.

AS MIGHT BE EXPECTED

Five of the so-called progressive Republican senators walked out of the chamber when Senator designate Chavez of New Mexico was sworn in Monday to succeed the late Senator Bronson Cutting. They did this in protest against the Democratic administration's a c t i v e campaign against Senator Cutting last fall in an attempt to defeat him with the obvious approval of President Roosevelt. Later Mr. Chavez filed a contest against Senator Cutting's election which these senators claim is entirely false.

The late Senator Cutting was one of the Republicans who bolted his party in 1932. Yet, he was fought by the Democrats in 1934. The senators who walked out said the action was gross ingratitude and a big blot on the present administration.

As unfair as it may seem, under our system of politics the Democrats did just about what any other political group would have done. No party can pass legislation unless it has the votes with which to do it. The Democrats realize that. It is seldom that these progressives can be depended upon to stay any one place any way; of course they must elect Democrats to help Democrats stay in power.

The so-called progressives brought this embarrassment on their own heads. Of course President Roosevelt was looking for votes—"all true progressives" he said but he too has been embarrassed trying to please Democratic friends and progressive friends. This whole situation illustrates how difficult it is to be independent in politics under our set-up.

STUDENTS FOR STEEPER

A KING'S TOOTHPICK

The use of the toothpick is not only limited to the average citizen of today but unfortunately later at least as far back as the seventeenth century. Noticeably in France during that time is the collection of jewels and ornaments possessed by the Kings. One of the prize gold ornaments is a gold toothpick which the rulers used extensively without fear of its breaking or wearing out while their less fortunate countrymen had to be content with an ill self-shaped piece of wood.

The harmful effects of the wood, silver or gold toothpick are just the same with the metal ones no doubt resulting in more serious injuries and cutting of the gums. Some people today favor the straight pin and the small knife blade to the wooden toothpick and all are paving the way for deep pockets to form between the teeth causing pyorrhea with the resultant pus and looseness of the teeth.

The Kings who used the gold toothpick had the same pyorrhea then as exists now. Therefore, even though the foreign sovereigns picked their teeth it doesn't excuse those of us that feel it necessary today.

QUESTIONS AND COMMENTS

Dear Dr. Dean:
While you were talking last Sunday to the Virginia Association at the

For North High and myself I will develop Nobility of Character; Observance of Laws; Responsibility in Duties; Trustworthiness; High Scholarship; Helpfulness to Others; Initiative in Good Works; High Ideals.

In every home room of North High these printed words familiarize the students with the creed of their school. This creed embodies the high standards of the school and it has been under the advisement of Mr. Steeper, our principal, that it has become a part of the life of the individual students.

"During the seven years which Mr. Steeper has been at North, occupying the position of principal, he has shown in all that he practices the creed in which he had a part in the making, by always showing a friendly and personal attitude toward the student body, and aiding in every way possible to develop fine character in his students.

Through the example set by Mr. Steeper and other members of our faculty, we have clean sportsmanship on the field, on the floor, in the tank, and in the stands.

"Taking stock of our situation, we find that we have most of the good things which any high school should have. Many of these things are due to the honest and sincere efforts of a real friend, a guide, and an educator, Mr. Steeper.

The Bystander states again that it disagrees with the position taken by the school board upon complaint of a few disgruntled in the removal of Mr. Steeper both for its method of handling the matter and the flimsy reasons given for the action. The Bystander recognizes the right of minorities to be

HEART DISEASE

Heart Disease occurs at all ages from infancy to old age and may occur as a primary condition or secondary to some other disease.

When occurring as a primary condition it is usually referred to as simple endocarditis and is not accompanied with any other condition. When not primary it occurs along with some other condition like diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles and makes its appearance sometime during the course of the acute condition. Heart disease in children is usually very serious because of the structural deficiencies involved in the pathology such as patent foremen ovale when the septum fails to close during the intrauterine life of the child. Heart disease in children occurring later on in the life of the infant is serious but not so serious as the aforementioned because it involves the heart valves in much the same way as they are involved in the adult having come about in the same way and from the same cause. Adult heart disease exists in many instances without the knowledge of the one affected and is only made aware of its existence by some one of the symptoms which are known to exist in heart disease. Periodic examinations will protect and will make it possible for the one so affected to receive treatment in time to avoid a permanent invalidism which would not be possible if he did not know that such a heart lesion existed.

Community House you said something about fillings in false teeth, but you never said any more than just that little bit. Now, I would like to know if and can anyone have fillings in their false teeth and something else about them.

Mrs. J. V. G.
Des Moines, Iowa.

Answer: In many cases small and large gold fillings are placed between the teeth of plates as well as gold crowns and especially is this true in places where the patient has had gold in the mouth before the teeth were extracted. Gold is the only filling material used because it adds a naturalness to the plates.

heard but not their right to govern; it believes further that no administrator can be safe to pursue a course even for the best interest of the people; if his tenure in office can be terminated without proof of facts which warrant removal and an opportunity to be heard before action is taken. Any other course is unfair and unwarranted.

Wilson Funeral Home Re-opens Sunday

The Wilson Funeral Home, at 811 Fourteenth street, will be formally reopened to the public Sunday, May 26, under new management. Since last December it has been known as the Merndon-Johnson Funeral Home. Frank Fowler, formerly in business here several years ago, is the chief embalmer and James C. Curton, an embalmer of Charleston, S. C., is the general manager. Roy Tucker, who has been associated with the business for several years, will be a member of the staff.

The same up-to-date service, with comfort and quality, will be given to the public with the same dignified care as in the past, announced the managers.

The late Tag W. Wilson established the funeral home in 1929, following his associations of several years in partnership with Vivian L. Jones. At the cost of several thousands of dollars, the home was remodeled to fit the needs of his increasing business, which was terminated by his sudden death in October, 1934. Recently the place has been redecorated by the present management and they have announced that they are open now to serve the public.

OVALTINE COMPANY DROPS OFFENSIVE BROADCAST AFTER PROTEST

Springfield, Mass., May 17.—The Wander company of Chicago, manufacturers of Ovaltine, who sponsor the "Orphan Annie" radio program, have agreed to drop the use of "nigger" and "darkey" from their broadcasts after receiving a protest from Dr. Bruce T. Bovens, secretary of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The company at first sought to evade the issue by asserting that "these are 'character parts' and their dialogue is in harmony with the characters portrayed." However, upon further objection from the N. A. A. C. P. branch that the terms were used "for the sole purpose of casting aspersions upon a race, of discouraging and demoralizing it," the Wander company agreed to "correct the thing about which you have written."
