Race Loses Noted Landmark in Passing of Cosmetics Concern

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 14.—(Special to ANP)—The seven story Poro college building here, formerly headquarters for the famous cosmetic concern of that name, passed out of the hands of the race Friday when the Mississippi Valley Trust company of this city foreclosed on a mortgage of $65,000 and took possession of the structure. Thus there passes from the race one of its landmarks, one of the most noted buildings ever erected and operated by a member of the group.

It was built at the cost of $500,000 by Mrs. Annie Malone in 1918 as she was approaching the zenith of her fabulous success as a pioneer manufacturer of hair and skin preparations especially adapted for colored people. The building was dedicated with elaborate ceremonies which brought scores of dignitaries and newsmen from every section of the country to attend the event.

One section of Poro college housed its manufacturing plant. Another was devoted to business offices and guest accommodations, and while never designated as a hotel, actually served that purpose. It has been the scene of many great events and many prominent members of the race have lodged there.

It had a roof garden theatre, spacious dining rooms and Mrs. Malone's own sumptuous apartments. Since 1930, when Poro's business was moved to Chicago where it occupies an entire block on swanky South Parkway, the factory has stood idle, but the rest of the building has been operated as an apartment hotel and theatre.

Walter L. Majors, who had been an employe of Mrs. Malone's back in 1911, was given a contract as manager in 1912. Discharged after five weeks' work, he brought a suit to recover on the two year contract. The suit was dragged along for twenty-four years and increased in amount from his original judgment of $5,000 to $20,000, as interest and court costs piled up. Mrs. Malone is said to have contended that Majors had quit after victimizing her and always said she would not settle the case because she thought it unjust and appealed each verdict in Majors' favor. The highest tribunal in the state decided against her.

Six Weeks Ago
Just six weeks ago the Washingtons mourned the loss of their employer and friend, former Gov. N. E. Kendall, who died November 4th of heart attack. The retired official left $5,000 to the Washington family for their "faithful and efficient service and integrity."

Mr. Washington was houseman and chauffeur for the Kendalls and Mrs. Washington served as maid until Mrs. Belle Wooden Kendall's death in 1926. The friendship of the families dated prior to 1910, when they, as neighbors, became lifelong companions.

"Victory Through Christ"
"Victory Through Christ" was the Rev. Hackley's subject, in which he paid tribute to Mr. Washington: "He had a wonderful life in the community; cheerful disposition and loved by young and old, faithful and loyal to his church, he had all the virtues of a true Christian."

Eulogies were delivered by the Rev. Brown and McCaw, at whose church Mr. Washington had expected to give a concert on January 8th. Condolences and telegrams were read from throughout the nation from ministers, doctors, lawyers and other professional men of both races. Expressions of sympathy were also received from all departments of the church and the Y. M. C. A. "Face To Face,"

HARLEM HEARS DIVINE MUST PAY
New York, Jan. 14.—(Calvin Service Flash)—Harlem is all agog over the news that "Father Divine must pay." While there had been no public announcement up to Monday morning, it was reported from several "inside" sources that Justice Rosenman had decided to brush aside Divine's elaborate and fantastic story of his high finances, and order the cult leader to pay the $6,000 judgment obtained against him in an automobile crash, or be adjudged in contempt of court and suffer a heavy fine or go to jail.

The Divine case, which has been hanging fire for several weeks, has worked up to the proportions of the famous Marcus Garvey case, in which Garvey finally lost and went to Atlanta prison and was then deported.

MRS. ROOSEVELT, SECRETARY WALLACE, SECRETARY ROPER AND OTHER DIGNITARIES SIT IN WITH COLORED LEADERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(ANP)—Officially welcomed to the capitol by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, wife of the president, delegates to the National Conference on the Problems of Negroes and Negro Youth convened in the auditorium building of the department of labor here Wednesday in a history making three day session.

Called to Washington by Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, director of the department of Negro Affairs of the National Youth Administration the thirty-five prominent men and women consultants gathered in one of Secretary Perkins' most luxurious conference rooms and applauded vigorously as the gracious first lady warned that education alone would not solve the problems either of the Negro nor of Negro youth, but that a firm foundation must be laid by first improving his housing oppor-

N.E.A. Head

New York, Jan. 14.—A protest against the present form of the proposed bill to aid education in the states with federal funds was lodged this week by the N. A. A. C. P. that the proposed bill contains no provision for preventing discrimination between Negro and white schools in the distribution of the funds. The bill would have the federal government appropriate 100 million dollars to the states, increasing the amount annually by 50 million dollars until the appropriation is 300 million dollars.

Since the National Education association is the chief sponsor of the proposed legislation and since the N. E. A. has asked other organizations and individuals to support the bill, the N. A. A. C. P. has outlined its objection in detail in a letter to Mrs. Agnes Samuelson, president of the N. E. A. "Our basic objection," writes the N. A. A. C. P., "is that under the penary power granted the state and territorial legislatures under the 'Harrison-Fletcher bill,' there is nothing to prevent any state or territory from expending every cent of the monies appropriated and apportioned to it on the white schools and the white children, regardless of the needs of the Negro school population."

The association then cites the fact that in 1933-34 Alabama spent 89.2 per cent of its school money on whites and only 10.8 on Negroes, despite the fact that Negroes constituted in that year 27 per cent of the state's school population. The association contends that the discrimination against Negro schools in the south is growing instead of lessening and points out that in 1900 the disparity between Negro and white school expenditures was 48 per cent, whereas in 1930 the disparity between Negro and white school expenditures was 48 per cent, whereas in 1930 it was 252 per cent.

Negroes constitute 49 per cent of the school population, but that in 1932-33 South Carolina spent $331,932 transporting white children to elementary schools and only $628 transporting Negro children to elementary schools. Furthermore the state spent $310,154 transporting white children to high schools and not one cent transporting Negro children to high schools.

The N. A. A. C. P. quotes figures from Georgia to show that county authorities willfully and intentionally divert monies allocated for Negro education to the education of whites and it quotes Dr. Arthur Raper's new book, "Preface to Peasantry," as saying:

"The total amount diverted from Negro to white schools throughout the state in 1933, according to figures from the Georgia department of education, was more than $1,150,000."

CLUB WOMEN SEEK PRESIDENT'S AID FOR COLORED INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIM

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(ANP)—The National Association of Colored Women, Dr. Mary F. Waring, president, an affiliate of the National Council of Women of U. S. A., has started a nation-wide drive to have colored children afflicted with infantile paralysis admitted to the hospital and sanitarium at Warm Springs, Ga., for treatment.

This hospital is the favorite philanthropy of President Roosevelt and annually on his birthday funds—raised by balls and birthday parties all over the country—are raised for the institution at Warm Springs. The club women, therefore, have sent a special appeal to the president, which, framed by Dr. Waring, says in part:

"There are many little brown boys and girls sadly in need of the facilities afforded at Warm Springs. . . . Knowing your very broad view of community welfare and the cooperative spirit that has been such an inspiration to us in our work for humanity, we are asking your assistance or direction in having the doors of the Warm Springs institution opened to all American children."

NO PROGRESS FOR THIRTY YEARS

The legislature of Iowa met this week and in addition to the elected members scores of people are employed as secretaries, reading clerks, etc. Thirty years ago a Negro served as a clerk in the Iowa legislature and several have made applications time and again but even though not appointed they continue to try for a place. At one time a Negro woman served as postmistress of the house of representatives.

The mind of the public is still fresh with the unusual activity of Negroes in politics last fall and surely those who headed the respective drives for Negro votes must have some influence with the powers that be in their respective parties. As far as The Bystander has been able to learn the only applications turned in to the patronage committee are those seeking junior positions in spite of the fact that the Negro is far more intelligent today than he was thirty years ago.

Undoubtedly those who sought clerkships in the legislature in the past were discouraged and finally ceased to hold out any hopes that Negroes would be given any of these places. This is a mistake. Negroes must get into the habit of fighting incessantly for they will get nowhere by giving up. The Bystander calls attention to the Democratic party in the State of Iowa as a splendid example of keeping up the fight in times when all hope seemed to have been lost. For instance, Gov. Herring has run for about every office the Democrats could nominate him for and in each instance he was badly beaten. He never became discouraged and finally in 1932 was elected governor.

The Negro must not confine his political activities to the period around election day and certainly those who are given the leadership should stand out in front and demand recognition for the race whether the Democrats or Republicans are in control. We are far behind our position of thirty years ago in the legislature in the question of patronage which does not argue well for our present political activities.

KEEP INFORMED AND ACT

As Congress convenes in Washington several anti-lynching bills have been introduced; there will be much legislation pending at this session which vitally affects the interest of the Negro of this country and it is going to be highly important that congressmen coming from districts with large Negro votes be informed what the position of the Negro is on these questions.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has been the leading force in sponsoring anti-lynching legislation and has tried to keep the race informed about other legislation of importance to them that the Negro might not only know what is going on but also influence his representatives in Congress that they might vote for his interests.

Since it is not possible to write all Negroes and his white friends individually about these matters the NAACP and other interested groups make their appeals for help through organizations and through the press. With this in mind The Bystander suggests that every citizen keep himself well informed about what is going on in Congress and where measures requiring the particular attention of Negroes are up for consideration he give such support as it possible to the organizations that are taking the leadership and sponsoring them through Congress.

TOO MANY STRIKES FOR BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT

America is appealing to nations to settle their disputes by peaceful methods, but we seem to be getting further away from this policy when it comes to differences between capital and labor. In fact we are having an unusual series of strikes today; the most serious is that of the General Motors Company.

The unions have adopted what they call the "sit-down strike" whereby the employees take possession of the plant, refuse to work and keep out those who would work. In other words they hang a sword over the employer's head and force him to arbitrate with this disadvantage pending.

The Bystander has said on several occasions that it is in favor of labor unions as long as they conduct their negotiations on a fair basis. However, it does not believe this system which is now being employed in the General Motors strike is a fair basis and while they may be able to make it work because the national administration is prejudiced in their favor this system of settling disputes is not going to be permanent in this country.

What Others Say

Have Booked Big Time Bands Here Since 1912

TO BYSTANDER AND READERS

In looking over January 7th issue of Iowa Bystander, I notice an article written by Attorney Nelson Thompson concerning the bands he has brought to Des Moines for his race. He forgot that other organizations are in Des Moines. Booking bands since 1912, I wish to state, for myself, Des Moines has had the opportunity to dance to Fletcher Henderson when it was known as "King of Jazz" and worth twice the amount paid for him today; also Earl Hines, Noble Sissle, Speed Webb, McKinney's Cotton Pickers, Benny Moten, Hardy's Alabamians, booked by M. C. A.; Andy Kirk, then known as Midnite Ramblers, and countless other attractions.

The writer of this article has also brought Duke Ellington and Jimmy Lunceford to Des Moines at the peak of their popularity, but due to the small crowd of Negro dance patrons here who were unable to pay for such orchestras and the price they demanded at that time these leading colored bands were sold to other dance managers. The writer is a licensed member of local 632 of the American Federation of Musicians.

The writer has never been asked to place a deposit on any band coming into Des Moines to play for him and none has ever left the city without being paid, whether it was fifty dollars or seven hundred and fifty dollars. "All bands and bookers like to play for me and I always get first offer when the band is entering this territory before being sold elsewhere." Could have booked Louis Armstrong for Des Moines on December 28th, but knowing the size of dance goers' pocketbooks, let them pass on to Omaha.

I am also a business man of Des Moines, operate the Billiken Nite Club, a Mason, president of the Monarchs club, president of the Valley Golf club, manager of the meat department of the American Food Market, also one of the best dance managers and bookers in the middle west and known from coast to coast with a good rating for bands and orchestras.

This open forum article is not a slam on any person or organization, only let's not take all credit for entertainment of our race in Des Moines, as everybody knows Des Moines never has had a nite club equal to the Billiken in the history of this city. People from east have stated it is one of the most beautiful places they have seen. I thank the Bystander for this opportunity to explain this to its readers and music lovers. Sincerely yours, T. L. CHRONIC GASTRITIS

Chronic Gastritis is caused by persistent overeating, prolonged ingestion of foods that are digested with great difficulty, or are taken too hot or too cold, or by the habitual gobbling of all meals; or by the excessive indulgence in tobacco or alcohol, especially the latter and sometimes by the prolonged taking of some drugs. Chronic gastritis is sometimes misleading as it also occurs as a symptom of ulcer, cancer, anemia, nephritis, tuberculosis and heart disease. This being true persistent cases of chronic gastritis should be carefully investigated. Dietary treatment is essential in these cases. If some certain food is the offender it should be identified and eliminated. Foods to be chosen are good milk, thoroughly cooked cereals, malted milk, milk toast, soft boiled or poached eggs, custards, toast, rice and cooked tapioca. As the patient improves the diet may be increased both in quality and quantity.

The Life Story of Negroes of Note

PAUL LAWRENCE DUNBAR

Some of the men in the audience were so interested in the young poet that they went to the building where he worked to talk to him and to obtain copies of some of his poems. He had to talk to them between elevator bells but a few weeks later a press letter about him was published along with some of his poems.

Not long after this he made up his mind to have a book published. So gathering up his manuscripts and some newspaper clippings of his poems he took them to a publishing house. Some friends had promised to advance the money necessary but when the time came they only laughed it off. The publishers refused to do a single thing until he could pay $125. Finally he found some one who would stand for that sum and his "Oak and Ivy" came out.

In less than two weeks he had sold enough copies of his elevator patrons to pay for the entire edition. More influential people became interested in him and he was offered a loan of sufficient money to pay his way through college. Preferring to be self-supporting and independent he declined the offer.

Life began to move swiftly, sometimes roughly, for Dunbar. A little success here and there but always a lot of disappointment. In 1896 his "Majors and Minors" appeared. This volume is said to contain some of the finest things he ever wrote. It received unstinted praise from critics but for some reason it did not sell so readily as "Oak and Ivy."

William Dean Howells wrote a full page book review of "Majors and Minors" which appeared in the same issue of Harper's Bazaar that carried the announcement of the nomination for president of William McKinley. Naturally this issue had an enormous circulation. Over night Paul Lawrence Dunbar was transformed from a struggling dreamer to a famous poet.

Although he had come out of obscurity, and was known all over the country, his financial problems remained as trying as ever. He was naturally rather shy and retiring and it was difficult for him to ask people to buy his books.

In 1897 he accepted an offer to go to England as an entertainer. While there he wrote "The Uncalled," which is said to be the story of his own life. It was not a financial success.

He was warmly received in England and the trip was interesting but he discovered that he had not paid close enough attention to the wording of his contract before signing it. His manager was to receive all of the money while he was to receive only his living expenses. When this series of entertainments closed he had to send an appeal to friends in America for funds to come home.

After returning to America he was employed in the Congressional Library in Washington, D. C. This position afforded some worthwhile experience and it paid a regular salary. There was some relief from his financial difficulties.

After some futile attempts in the field of prose he decided that he must direct all his efforts to poetry. He the insistence of his friends he went

E. L. B.—Where is my son— He went to school Wednesday and has not come home. I am worried most at death.

Ans.: Your son is visiting with friends and will return during the coming week end. Child-like he did not think you would be worried over his absence and neglect to inform you of his plans.

D. R.—Does the boy I am going with mean me any good— Will I ever marry—

Ans.: "Charlie" is a very honest and industrious young man. He is very much in love with you and has only your best interest at heart. His chief aim in life is to make you his wife. He will do this anytime you lead him to believe that this arrangement would be agreeable to you.

C. M. H.—Would the new used clothing business be a profitable one for me here— Will I ever complete my plans—

Ans.: If you enter this business on a small scale to begin with, you will be able to work up to a paying proposition. When you establish yourself then take up the course in SOCIAL SERVICE WORK that you are interested in for you will like it immensely.

I. M. J.—Mother says the seventh child is the wisest or foolishest and I am the seventh. What do you think—

Ans.: You can surely be the WISEST if you try and your wonderful RECORD in school intellectual. Try hard to be the most intelligent.

X. X. X.—Why does my boy friend beat me all the time—

Ans.: The chief reason that your boy friend beats you is because you need and deserve punishment of some kind in his opinion. Although, it would probably be best for all concerned if he should adopt a different method of chastisement or else discontinue his relations with you altogether. He would have done this before had he not loved you.

I. A. L.—Will I get a settlement or anything from this land and will this attorney here do to trust—

Ans.: It will be necessary for you to place your business in the hands of an attorney in order to get a settlement. Due to the fact that you are holding the DEEDS AND TITLES to this property there should be no difficulty in your getting it adjusted.

L. H.—I have two boy friends that come to see me all the time but once or twice a month. Am I doing right by holding these two regular boy friends off and wait for the one I love—

Ans.: No you are doing wrong, as marriage with either of the two friends you don't like would prove an unhappy venture. Although, the RAILROAD MAN that visits you only once or twice a month is not interested in getting married.

C. H.—I am thirty years old and I feel that I am very talented in singing and would like your opinion whether I should carry out my plans and go to a larger city and try my luck—

Ans.: There is no question about your not being talented as it has been proven that you have a MELODIOUS VOICE... but unless you have enough money to live on for a few months you had best wait another year. I suggest Cincinnati as a good city to try for an audition and it isn't very far from your home town.

to Colorado and stayed several weeks. There was not much to be done for him so he returned home to Dayton.

For a time those who knew him best engaged in quite a verbal battle. Some contended that he literally drank himself to death. Others claimed that he drank to excess in an effort to urge himself on to things that seemed beyond his strength. Whichever way it went, the fact was known that he was a drunkard.

To the end of his brief span of life, just thirty-six years, he was a poet. Always seeing beauty where most people saw only the commonplace. One of his loveliest poems was inspired by a cold November rain beating on the window pane.

Here in 1923

Coming to Des Moines from Albia in 1920, Mr. Washington worked as a trustee, chairman of the men's club, class leader and chorister. He organized the boys' band of the Crocker Y. M. C. A. in 1923. Many of its former members are now playing in leading bands and orchestras throughout the country. For forty years a soloist, instructor, composer and critic, he became famous for his one man band, in which he played the piano, trumpet, drums, clarinet and bells almost simultaneously.

He was an enthusiastic booster for the Bystander talent week productions. He had planned to establish a music conservatory in his home this summer to teach a class of youngsters. Mr. Washington played at the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1902 and was a member of the famous Buxton band of two decades ago. During his early manhood he came to Iowa from Lansing, Mich., his birthplace.

Basketball

The local basketball season is on in full swing. The leagues opened last week, with St. Paul having their hands full to beat the Y. Stars, 16-11, and the Top Hatters during the Rockets, 21-8. Bobby Parker waged a furious battle with Uncle Bunny Wilson for scoring honors in the St. Paul Star game. Bobby got nine points to Bunny's eight. The Rockets had a patched up line and so did the Top Hatters. The Raider-Corinthian scuffle was called off until later.

The Raiders have played four games so far and are unbeaten to date. Tuesday your scribe found himself with a game, two empty Erl-Kings suits and three players. Flu and late working hours played havoc with our local talent and the problem was to find some one to get into the empty suits. After dark we kidnaped Bobby Parker and Harold Carr to team with Virgil Mann, Bus Brown and Bunny Wisop. We drove through our objective town, Guernsey, Iowa, about eighty miles east, so fast and we had to back up and look for it again. After locating the burg, the "Eri-Kings" spanked the boys, 41 to 19. Bunny and Brown made a whole mess of one hand push shot, while Mann sneaked in a few easy ones. Bobby played a swell all-around game and Harold Carr caused the coach to faint when he got three baskets.

Plans were made for a citywide inter-racial program at University Church of Christ on Sunday, February 14th, and the following were unanimously elected as officers: Chairman, Atty. J. B. Morris; vice chairman, Mrs. H. S. Hollingsworth; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Helen Be-shears, and Miss Ruth Lumbard, Miss Lelia Wilson, Atty. Casper Schenk, Atty. S. Joe Brown, Arthur Hill, Rev. J. W. it looked pretty bum to leave out a starting regular. Jack has averaged five points a game all year, getting six against Roosevelt and eight against Perry last week. He finishes his career next week.

The Famous Trotters, a shadow of the crack teams of former years, took one on the chin last Sunday, as the University Coal team trounced them, 46 to 23. The new additions to the Trotters were too inexperienced to be of much help to Johnson and Dennis, who fought all the way in the roughest game we ever saw.

Boxing

The argument about Louis-Schmeling and Braddock is funny. Schmeling and the Germans have appealed to American fair play. Before Louis fought Schmeling people were saying he would never be champion because of his race. Nobody got all steamed up about it. Now this prejudice idea has slipped in the back door and got into the wrong bed. People were hollering about fair play. If there had been fair play, Louis would have fought Braddock last June. Prejudice and hatred are being used to keep the German out of the title bout because he won't draw cash customers. If Schmeling were a good gate attraction, the anti-Nazi boycott would be stepped around so quickly you would wonder where it was. When the other fellow gets down, kick him hard. When you get down, yell fair pay. Nice goin', Jeems.

the Rev. Overton at the Y. W. C. A. on Monday. This reception was sponsored by the H. L. Overton club of the Burns church. Miss Waurine Sprout, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A., acted as mistress of ceremonies.

The addresses were given by the Revs. S. Robinson and Brown, Miss Dorothy Sharon and Mrs. Estella Bloomfield. Musical selections by Mrs. Vivian Parker, field agent of Rush University, Holy Springs, Mississippi, and Burns quartette, composed of Frank D. Allen, Andrew Green, William and Horace Brown. The honored guest returned to Denver on Wednesday.

In a parting greeting the Rev. Overton said to the press Wednesday: "To my many friends in Des Moines I wish to express love and appreciation for the kindness extended to me. I am sorry I could not accept all of the invitations to meals. Among those who entertained are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Green, Dr. H. H. London and mother, Mrs. Cottie Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Allen, in whose home I was highly feted; Mr. and Mrs. James Newsome, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Cason, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brown, Miss Waurine Sprout of the Y. W. C. A. and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Carson.

Last, but not least, I am particularly grateful to the efficient pastor of Burns, Dr. C. K. Brown, for his eloquence and unusual spirit, fine Christian attitude in assisting me to be with them when the last dollar was paid on the parsonage purchased under my pastorate.

For courtesies of Rev. G. W. Robinson and Rev. A. Ross Brent and many other members of the several churches I am indeed grateful."

Waldie Goes Round & Round

My brain refuses to function even after two weeks' rest—so no introduction, but my worthy colleague is doing the honors—Waldie.

Whew! how time does fly. The holidays are gone, but not forgotten. . . . Waldie is back from her enforced vacation. . . . T. Fowler (man about town) has decided that two can live cheaper than one. . . . Bobby H. resides at a new residence. . . . Basketball at West Hi is in full swing. . . . Arthur Clay has turned into a "Rip Van Winkle" since Evelyn has returned to Missouri. Absence makes the heart grow fonder, Art (sometimes). Say, "Nell," Eddie E. has the Doc decided why your teeth chatter like a squirrel eating nuts (especially at proms)—I REALLP LIKE The Morris home remodelled; Geo. Robinson because he is so different; Alsie B. and her southern accent; Louie F. because he is happy-go-lucky; Mairdrite sandwiches when it is cold; boys that aren't "chicken-hearted"; Dr. and Mrs. Bradford, because they are likable people; The Raiders in their new basketball suits. DID YOU KNOW THAT: Bingo is rapidly taking the place of card playing; there is mutiny in the air among the federated girls; Duck Nose (R. S.) isn't really bashful; Buddy G. keeps getting his wires crossed; Mello Jasper is back in town; Joe D. is still undecided; Fred M. practices on a punching bag daily; Waldie is writing poetry and also sketching; Jack H. thinks, Love is such a funny thing—it is something like a lizard—it winds itself around your heart and nibbles at your gizzard (Hi Jack); the Great Triumvirate, F. M., B. H. B., are resuming those Sunday night creeps; cold weather interferes with H. Carr's business; Tommy A. thinks an honest days toil makes a happy heart as he toils in the Neon office; L. Carter can really dance, girls—

WOULDN'T IT BE GRAND IF: All two-faced people were on an island by themselves; B. H. kept his New Year's resolution; if young people had some place besides Center St. to go on Sunday nite; There were more legal holidays?

Say, Marzetta, why don't you take
