ANGELO HERNDON

Herndon, convicted five years ago and whose case has been up twice before the supreme court, listened attentively as his counsel, Whitney Seymour, declared the young red was engaged in awful political activity and there was no danger to the state in what he was doing.

J. Walter Le Crow, assistant solicitor general of Georgia, declared Herndon's activities in Atlanta five years ago "were designed to bring about violence and create a black belt in the southern states" and that, as a member of the Communist party, "Herndon took his orders from the Communist International, not from any American Communist party, and the Communist International advocates violence to gain its end."

Dark Color Means Nothing in USSR

Moscow, Ussr, Feb. 18—(ANP Cablegram)—Tens of thousands of Russians gathered at the Alexander Pushkin monument in the heart of Moscow on Wednesday, February 10, the 100th anniversary of the death of the great Negro blooded poet, honored as "the father of Russian literature," in one of the greatest jubilee celebrations of all time.

New York, Feb. 18—(CNA)—An all white jury returned a verdict of first degree murder against Major Green in Queens county court last week. A month ago the body of Mary Harriet Chase, white writer, was found by her husband in their apartment at 3706 Eightieth street, Jackson Heights, Queens. The former porter will be sentenced to die in the electric chair February 19.

The court appointed defense counsel conceded Green's guilt early in the four day trial, but contended that the murder was not premeditated. Summing up for the defense, Richard J. Barry threw his client on the mercy of the court, pleading for a life sentence, and not the chair, for Green. For twenty minutes Barry discussed the oppressed position of the Negro people in this country—their contributions to American civilization, their service "in the blood-soaked poppy fields of Flanders."

Barry pointed out that race prejudice thus far had counted heavily against Green, that he had been tried and convicted in the daily press weeks before his trial opened. He asked the jury to put all thoughts of racial discrimination out of its mind. Henry J. Litscomb, Negro defense counsel, declined to say "definitely" whether there would be an appeal from Green's conviction.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 21 THE POWER OF JESUS OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT - John 11:23-28, 33-44. GOLDEN TEXT - I am the resurrection and the life. John 11:25. PRIMARY TOPIC - When Jesus' Friends Stopped Crying. JUNIOR TOPIC - With Jesus at Lazarus' Tomb. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC - The Power of Jesus over Death. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC - The Power of Jesus over Death.

Life, even to the follower of Jesus Christ, has its hours of sorrow, suffering, and bereavement. While the Christian is not "of the world," he is "in the world," and here he must meet the problems of life, including the evils to which the flesh is heir because of sin.

The fact that Jesus is our friend and our Saviour does not exempt us from human sorrow, but it does assure us of the needed grace to bear the trial and to trust Him even in life's darkest hour.

Lazarus, the friend of Jesus, was sick. The home in which Jesus had found rest and fellowship was in deep trouble. Jesus was no longer in Judea. In haste word is sent to him of his friend's illness. But he does not come.

Why does he delay? Such is the heart-ache of thousands today who call on him in their hour of trouble. The purposes of God are beyond our ability fully to understand. We need but to trust him and abide his time. Notice that his failure to respond at once to the message of Lazarus' sisters did not mean that he had deserted them (11:4-6). Nor did it mean that he had denied them his help (11:7). Lazarus may have been dead before the word reached him. He may also have delayed in order that there might be no question about the resurrection miracle. And he may have tarried in order that their faith might be strengthened.

Above all, do not fail to notice that he came. He always does. Jesus has never failed any child of his. The time and the manner of his answer to our prayers may not conform to our opinion of what should have been done, but let us remember that we know only in part, he knows all. Let us trust him. Job in his darkest hour said, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." (Job 13:15).

It is suggested that the lesson for today be studied and taught by considering three pairs of words giving cause and effect.

I. Death-Sorrow (vv. 32-35; also vv. 19-21). Try as we may to temper its cruel blow, the fact remains that death is the enemy of man. It came into the world as the result of sin (Rom. 5:12), and only in Christ is it "swallowed up in victory" (1 Cor. 15:54). Until the glorious day of Christ's returning when the redemption of the body will be complete (Rom. 8:23), death will still be an enemy which brings sorrow to a heart and tears to the eyes.

But let us not fail to notice that as the friends of Jesus we do not sorrow alone. He is with us. "Jesus wept" (v. 35) with Martha and Mary. He weeps with us in our trying hour. He is the "friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

II. Faith-Hope (vv. 23-28). Those who believe in Christ have more than the comfort of his sympathizing presence—they have a sure hope. Read I Thessalonians 4:13-14. Sorrow and unbelief would becloud our faith and thus rob us of our hope. Martha needed to have her faith stimulated by the gracious words of the Lord, and then she triumphantly puts her hope in him as "the Christ of God." Once we recognize him as God, we have no hesitation in believing in his miraculous power.

III. Christ-Resurrection (vv. 25, 26, 28-44). Majestic and authoritative are the words of Christ, "I am the resurrection and the life." He it was who gave life, for was he not "in the beginning with God"? And is it not said of him that "all things were made by him"? And Paul tells us that "by him all things consist." He is the only one who could say, "I lay down my life. I have power to lay it down and I have power to take it up again." (John 10:17, 18.) So it can rightly be said that if we have Christ we have everything—both in this world and in the world to come. But if we do not have Christ we have nothing. We are without God and without hope.

One can sense the urgency of the soul-winner's task, when this truth is known and realized.

Happiness and Love. Happiness is the legitimate fruitage of love and service. It never comes and never can come by making it an end, and it is because so many persons mistake here and seek for it directly, instead of loving and serving God, and thus obtaining it, that there is so much dissatisfaction and sorrow.

Life and Freedom. That life is only truly free which rules and suffices for itself.—Butler.

Waldie Goes Round & Round

By Waldie

Well, my old college pal did not honors last week, spilling some not very truthful dope about "yers trulle"—Well let's see what I can do for you at present: The new East Side Community Center has its gala opening Sunday.....The place is tops and is located at 1438 Buchanan street—Roberta Maupins will keep its affairs running smoothly.....Say! What's this I hear about Christine Wade, Lucian Wyatt and June? I'm told it happens in the best of families.....Now Cookie (Doris Shoots) it wouldn't be like you to cause trouble, would it? Remember Sunday—course I'm not saying anything yet—Since Walt Johnson is in sunny California, Tom Avant is using Joe Danforth as his henchman—In the "uhum," borrowed, rented or otherwise cut, the above named have been cutting a hog on all sides of the town—I say keep the good work up boys—Ahaa—The mighty Y Stars were downed by the veteran St. Paul team last week much to the disappointment of the crowd—And how those Stars started!! What two young ladies blazed a trail from St. Paul church to Mitchell's Sunday—I wasn't there, I was only told.....In receiving my share of Valentines, it wouldn't have been right if I hadn't received a comic one which ran thusly:

Co-Ed
You'll get your diploma, we'll all allow.
You'll vamp the professors for that— and how!
But what is constantly puzzling me is—What'll you do with the Old Degree?
You'll marry the first guy for whom you fall.
Then sue for divorce—'Cause you'll know it all.
Bill Ashby did you do the honors?

Mrs. Margaret Cothorn left Saturday for Baltimore.
Mrs. Fannie Blaine, who has been seriously ill at her home, is improving.
Mrs. Victoria Hendricks has returned home, after spending several weeks in Cleveland with her sister, who has been seriously ill.

Want Games
The West Side girls' basketball team will play in Shenandoah. They will practice at the Roadside Settlement. Engagement for games. Write to Lauraine Johnson, 933 Thirtieth street.

Addressed

—I don't know how I was supposed to take it, but I actually feel honored to think that someone thinks (are you still with me) that I'll take the fatal step some day—Again, one never knows, does one?.....Speaking of things "luciously mellow," how would a good swing affair with some ruff, tuff, ready or otherwise chicks and jaspers, suit the taste at present—Doesn't sound bad, eh.....That debate team, composed of Marian Simmons, Hazel Craddock and William Parker on the eastern side of the stream are tops, having won four out of five debates at the school—My sympathies to the Johnson family for the loss of one of the nicest ladies I knew—

Stuff and things in this town
Are absolutely on the out and down
I wish you kids would do something new
So I'll have something to bring to you
When you let your activities down
Then "Waldie Can't Go Round and Round."

Oh, don't mind me—I had to fill up space somehow—But did you notice that it rhymed—Say Winifred B. and Moses F. are that way, if you get what I mean—Don't forget Joe Lous, Tuesday.....and if you hear Aline Brown going around hitting high notes, don't mind her, she just went to see the opera, Carmen.

ANOTHER ANGLE

Every American recognizes the United States Supreme Court as the highest authority on the interpretation of the laws over which it has jurisdiction. On the other hand our state supreme court is the authority on state laws not in conflict with our federal laws.

Little has been heard about arranging the personnel of our state supreme courts to suit the will of the governors of the respective states but if President Roosevelt sets the example with the United States Supreme Court, it will be a precedent for governors to follow suit.

The President's effort to change the personnel of the Supreme Court bears close watching. The political angle should be left out of the question altogether.

LEWIS ENTITLED TO SUPPORT

In reply to an inquiry sent John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization by the secretary of the Michigan chapter, National Negro Congress, concerning the attitude his organization will take toward Negro labor, he replied:

"The Committee for Industrial Organization stands for the economic organization of the Negro worker in industry on the same basis as the white worker. The United Mine Workers of America is an outstanding example of this policy, having among its members tens of thousands of Negro mine workers who have equal privileges with all other members."

"The Committee for Industrial Organization will follow this policy throughout the entire range of its organization activities in the mass production industries. We welcome the Negro workers into our union and ask them not to be misled on this subject by the misrepresentation of any self-seeking leader."

On more than one occasion The Bystander has commended John L. Lewis for his fairminded attitude toward Negro labor and the further fact that he actually applies his fairmindedness in the administrations of his job.

On the other hand the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, Firemen and Conductors of North Carolina have succeeded in having a bill introduced in the legislature making it illegal for Negroes to become firemen.

In spite of the fact that such a law is clearly unconstitutional, it shows the attitude of the organization which by the way is the group recognized by the Railway Labor board as the bargaining-unit for railway workers. And it should be clearly understood that this is not John L. Lewis' organization.

Undoubtedly John L. Lewis is in for a difficult struggle with industry and the American Federation of Labor for the success of his C. I. O. will mean the death of the A. F. L. But nothing tangible is gained without a struggle. Negroes must join him in this C. I. O.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT

President Roosevelt has appointed a Negro as judge of the United States district court to serve in the Virgin Islands. This is the first appointment of this magnitude made by a President.

Much has been heard of President Roosevelt's appointment of Negroes to office but his additions have been in emergency agencies. They have not been a class of appointments indicating progress of the Negro in the enjoyment of political jobs in the regular establishment of the government.

Mr. Roosevelt it to be congratulated on the appointment and The Bystander hopes that he will have no difficulty securing his appointee's confirmation by the Senate.

The Lie Story of Negroes of Note

By Mrs. Louise Glass

FREDERICK DOUGLASS
Not long after this he was sent to live on another plantation. Life here was almost heavenly in comparison with conditions he had left.

That book he had bought back in Baltimore had a lot to say about "the rights of man" and "liberty." He was haunted by these two ideas all the time. Finally he and some other young slaves decided to experience "liberty." To make a long story short, their plans were betrayed and Douglass found himself in jail.

But instead of severe punishment when he was released from jail he was sent back to Baltimore and allowed to learn the trade of ship caller. He was doing remarkably well and he might have been happy but that "liberty" and "rights of man" pointed into his brain wherever he went, whatever he did.

His master was pleased with the fact that his slave could earn nine dollars a week, which, of course, the master collected. Once in an outbreak of generosity he gave his efficient slave 25 cents.

At last when he could no longer resist that strange spell, cast over him by those magic words, "Liberty" and "rights of man," he made a daring, dangerous escape. On that memorable day he threw the shackles of slavery from his wrists forever.

He went to New York and "the girl he left behind" came in a few days and they were married.

On advice of friends they left New York and went to New Bedford, Mass. It was there he assumed the name Douglass, hoping that it might help him conceal his identity.

He left the sting of race prejudice while in New Bedford, but still he couldn't complain. He was at least free. He met many cultured people here—especially those interested in the cause of the abolition of slavery.

It was not long before he found himself working with abolitionists and in time he was assigned work as a speaker on various programs. Having a fine speaking voice and knowing his subject so thoroughly, he was one of the most effective orators. More than once he had to flee to Canada and to England to escape the wrath of those whom he offended "when he thundered against slavery."

After the emancipation he held a number of important positions in Washington, D. C., and elsewhere.

His first wife having died, he married again and it was this marriage that pushed him from the pinnacle of near idolatry which he had occupied. This second wife was white and thousands of Negroes interpreted this as an act of disloyalty. To others it was a personal affair and their attitude toward him remained the same.

Douglass was grieved when he found out that so many of his race had suddenly grown hostile toward him, but he never regained the place he had once held in their hearts.

Mrs. Louise Glass of 1516 Bluff street is writing a series of articles on the lives of noted Negroes. A new installment appears each week.

Health Talks

By Dr. C. R. Bradford

Pittacosis (Parrot Fever)

Bird lovers who have pets belonging to the same family as the parrot and parakeet should be mindful of the fact that they sometimes harbor a dangerous germ which has never been discovered.

The disease is called pittacosis and it occurs in parrots, and parakeets. The germ is transmitted from parrot to man but it is doubtful if the disease can be transmitted from man to man.

Symptoms:—Incubation period is about twelve days. The onset is acute with a chill and fever, malaise, headache and vomiting. The patient develops a cough, a rapid heart, and scanty sputum; occasionally a plural pneumonia. The symptoms for a while are much like those of flu. Diagnosis is usually difficult unless a history of contact with a sick parrot is secured. The death rate varies in man from 10 to 40% in different outbreaks. The treatment is carried on by treating the symptoms that arise from time to time as no drug has been discovered that is specific. Persons owning parrots should consult a veterinarian if the bird should become ill.

F. W.—I am in trouble. My wife left me and I don't know why. Will you give me some advice about it, please.

Ans.—Your wife is inclined to be fickle and very unreliable at times. However, you will not have to do anything to get her to return to you, as she will do this on her own accord very soon. I do not believe, though, you will continue to be as unhappy as you are at this writing.

W. L. C.—I have a lot down in Virginia and I can't make up my mind what I should do with it? Help me to decide?

Ans.—You have a prospective buyer for the lot, who is offering you a good price. Sell it. You are well situated in a home of your own in your present state and in all probability won't return to Virginia ever to make your home.

B. E.—Which of the two men that I am going with should I depend on as being truthful and meaning what they say?

Ans.—If you are seeking a happy, prosperous married life, you would do well, I think, to accept the proposal of the boy of the age of 23 years. Your feeling for the other boy is like a passing fancy.

H. D. W.—Will you please explain just why it is that my husband doesn't seem to be able to obtain a permanent position?

Ans.—Your husband is one of the many unfortunate people who have found themselves out of work during this unsettled period of industry; and this period of unrest will soon be over and he will not find it difficult to secure regular work. He needs encouragement.

M. R.—Tell me what to do about my wife, as she has left with another man? Does the girl I have in mind care for me?

Ans.—You were fortunate to have rid yourself of your wife without any trouble. Let her go with her lover and follow the life she desires. Your new friend will make you a most agreeable companion.

L. C. C.—I want to know why my boy did not come, as he said that he was?

Ans.—Your friend has not been able to arrange his finances in a way suitable to allow him to take the trip. This does not mean that he cares less for you—in fact he was far more disappointed in this matter than you were.

W. C. H.—Should I consider the trip that has been offered me or just ignore the invitation?

Ans.—You are causing yourself a lot of worry and grief by pouting with your brother. He wants you to accompany him in his car to visit your parents. He has forgotten the misunderstandings between you two and it would be wise for you to do likewise.

W. A. B.—Why do I dream of this doctor so much? Please answer me in your column as soon as possible?

Ans.—The doctor is very much impressed by your engaging personality and appearance of good breeding. This doctor is a man of very good character and high moral standards. You would become most happy should you continue friendship with him. You dream of him because you are so terribly interested in him.
