SPEECHES OF SENATORS CONNALLY OF TEXAS, AND BILBO OF NORTH CAROLINA SERVE TO EMPHASIZE OVERWHELMING SUPPORT FOR MEASURE

Washington, Nov. 24—Colored people and others supporting the Gavan-Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill need not be alarmed over the long-winded speeches being made in the senate this week against it, for these speeches have served chiefly to reveal the quiet, solid strength behind the bill and to point more than ever to the certainty of its passage.

This does not mean that senators should not be reminded constantly of their duty to be on their guard and eventually vote for the bill; but it does mean that there is no occasion for misgivings.

Losing Battle

The senators from the deep south are fighting a losing battle and they know it, but they are determined to talk for the benefit of the voters back home.

Senator Tom Connally of Texas led off the speeches designed to delay consideration of the bill. It must be remembered that the speeches this week were not against a motion to consider the bill in advance of the farm bill.

Strategy Smart

The anti-lynching bill is number 2 on the calendar after the farm bill, but since a farm bill was not ready for the senate, the supporters of the anti-lynching bill moved to take it up while waiting for the farm bill. It was this motion that was debated this week. The strategy of moving to consider the anti-lynching bill was a smart one, because if it had not been moved, Senator Byrnes of South Carolina would probably have got consent for his government reorganization bill.

This bill is a controversial measure and might have been debated for weeks. Then the farm bill would have been brought in and debated at length, with the result that the anti-lynching bill might have gone over until the middle of the winter.

When the farm bill is disposed of, there will be no debate on the motion to consider the anti-lynching bill. The anti-lynching bill will be in its proper place on the calendar

Mississippi to Hang For Slaying of Negroes

SUPREME COURT REAFFIRMS CONVICTION

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 24—(ANP)—The Mississippi supreme court last Monday reaffirmed the death sentence of William G. Mitchell, 44, a white contractor and world war veteran, convicted of the murder on July 11, 1932, of Lewis Bryant and Coot Bryant, father and son, both colored.

Declared the court: Mitchell went and there can be no debate. It must be taken up on its merits and voted upon. There is every indication that the anti-lynching bill will be passed before Christmas.

Connally Attacks Wagner, N. A. A. C. P.

Senator Connally, speaking against the bill, lashed about with bitter attacks on Senator Wagner of New York City and Harlem and also upon the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He charged Senator Wagner with paying more attention to the voters in Harlem than he did to the constitution as written by George Washington.

Seventy Sure Votes

The bill is being supported vigorously and the strategy is being run by Senators Wagner, Van Nuys and Bennett C. Clark of Missouri. Senator Clark has been a tower of strength. Behind these three leaders are some seventy sure votes for the bill and these senators are merely sitting quietly by and letting the southerners have their way. Everyone knows that victory is in sight.

The gossip in the corridors and the cloak room is that even Senator Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi has conceded that the bill will have some seventy to seventy-five votes in its favor. Senator Bilbo is understood to have said that he will make a short speech against it for the folks back home.

Senator Connally's long harangues are being regarded as being more damaging to his own side than they are to the bill. Many persons felt that he made a blunder in dragging in the speech made by Senator Black in 1935, because this reference served mostly to remind the senators who had voted for Senator Black to be made justice of the supreme court, without knowing of his Klan connections, that perhaps they should vote for this bill in order to try to make amends for their vote for Black.

Pictures Irritate

Senator Connally also engaged in a sharp exchange with Senator Clark of Missouri over the fact that Senator Clark had caused to be displayed in the senate chamber three pictures showing the horrors of the Duck Hill, Miss., blow-torch lynchings of last April 13.

NEWSPAPER MEN SAVE NEGRO FROM EXECUTION

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 24—(ANP)—Five white newspaper reporters, acting at the request of Gov. Clyde R. Hoey as an unofficial court of last appeal, Thursday saved Brady Lawrence, 22, from execution in the lethal gas chamber for the murder of a white man.

For two hours the reporters studied records of the case, then voted unanimously to spare Lawrence's life. Sentence was immediately commuted. "Frankly," the governor told the newsmen, "I have been studying this case for several months and still haven't been able to reach a definite conclusion. Here are the facts. Your decision will be final. What would you do if you were in my place?"

Characterized as a "delusion, the belief held by many that there is an improvement in racial understanding in this country," Professor Severson cited several factors that were contributing to this situation; the trend

Rosenwald Fund Changes Southern Rural Education

EXPLAINS ACTIVITY WHICH EXTENDS TO WHITE SCHOOLS AS WELL AS NEGRO

Chicago, Nov. 24—(ANP)—How the Julius Rosenwald fund has aided in the light to replace rote teaching in both Negro and white rural schools and replaces it with education was revealed by Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the fund, in the November issue of the Atlantic Monthly in an article entitled "Little Red Schoolhouse—1938 Model."

Merely contributing to the building of over 5,000 school houses in almost every county of the fifteen southern states was not enough, Mr. Embree revealed, for when the fund's officers began looking into what was going on inside the buildings, they were appalled at the prevalence of parrot-like recitation and absence of education. The emphasis of the fund's work has been

NORTH CAROLINA LEADS WAY IN NEGRO MEDICAL WORK

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 24—(ANP)—North Carolina is commended as a "pioneer state" in the matter of health work among Negroes, by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, in a letter to Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, which the state health officer has made public here.

Dr. Reynolds recently wrote Mr. Embree, telling of the accomplishments of Dr. Walter J. Hughes, first Negro physician attached to any state board of health, whose appointment was made possible through a grant from the Rosenwald fund.

CARL TURNER, 36, WAS EMPLOYED ON WPA

By Everett Wadsworth Staff Writer

A cold, bleak Thanksgiving faced Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turner, both 36, as their four room cottage at 831 S. L. Twentyeighth street, was leveled by flames Saturday night. Turner, a world war veteran, who faced fire and destruction many times before, was badly burned on the head and face, as he, with his wife, rescued the two babies, Violet, 1 year old, and Carl, Jr., 2 year old, from the blazing house.

With all their worldly possessions gone, the Turner children have been cared for by neighbors, while the parents were treated at the Broad-avenue General hospital. Mrs. Turner suffered hand and arm bruises. All day Monday, Spencer Elliston, service officer of the Lincoln American Legion post, accompanied the unfortunate ex-war veteran, who was garbed in his WPA work clothes, all he had left and who wore a large cap to cover the severe scalp bruises.

Mr. Elliston is furnishing lumber to rebuild the Turners a home and the S. M. N. Social Workers club, of which Mrs. Sophia Nichols is president, are furnishing clothing and food for the family. "I shall try all I can to secure a federal grant or loan for this poor, impoverished family," Mr. Elliston said. Legion buddies are helping, also the Lincoln post auxiliary unit and others are giving all the assistance possible.

The contents of the cottage, valued at about $500, were completely destroyed. Turner used his bonus money to purchase lot to build this little home last year. Mr. and Mrs. Turner, out of coal, were trying to start a fire in a heating stove when the celluloid in the kindling they were using ignited, causing an explosion. The couple fled from the blazing inferno, but the cries of the babies brought the parents back through the flames, who rescued the youngsters to safety. "He saved his army discharge papers, too," Mr. Elliston added.

Iowa Bystander Is Conducting Trade Survey

FULL CO-OPERATION OF EVERYONE IS URGED

Where do you spend your money? Do they appreciate the purchases you make from them? The Bystander is attempting a city-wide survey among the Negro population to secure more advertising.

Thousands of dollars yearly from colored trade go into pockets of merchants and coffee of business firms.

Many factories, stores and establishments and organizations in Des Moines don't even know there is a colored newspaper in the city. It is up to the Negroes to boost the BYSTANDER, their product.

The fullest co-operation of everyone is urged in this undertaking. It is not a matter of prying into one's business. The questionnaire may seem to some a bit personal, and it need not be signed. (See questionnaire on editorial page.)

Lesson for November 28

CHRISTIAN FRUITFULNESS

LESSON TEXT—John 15:1-8. GOLDEN TEXT—Herein is my Father's love that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples.

Thanksgiving day has just afforded each one of us a special opportunity to return praise to God for the fruitfulness of America's broad acres.

Christian work of which we spoke last Sunday may (at least in a measure) be imitated, but fruit cannot be imitated.

The chapter before us is a portion of Scripture which has been the peculiar favorite of God's children in all generations.

Many are the expositions of this passage, but a beautifully simple one which came to the writer from Dr. W. Graham Scroggie is suggested as most helpful.

I. Life and Fruitfulness (vv. 1-8). Life results in fruit and there can be no true fruit where there is no life.

Christ is the vine, the Father is the keeper of the vine. We who are Christ's are the branches abiding in him, that is, living our whole life in and for him in such close union with him that his life as the vine brings forth fruit in us as the branches.

But, alas, there are branches that seem to belong to the vine but they lack the one indispensable evidence of life which is the normal bearing of fruit.

While we must not read into these words more than our Lord intended, let us beware lest we explain away their serious import.

Fruit in the Christian is undoubtedly first of all the fruit of character but that character is also to show in conduct.

Do not miss the prayer promise in verse 7. It is an unlimited promise with a closely limited condition. Let us meet the condition and claim the promise.

II. Love and Friendship (vv. 9-18). This is my commandment that ye love one another.

The joy of Christ was fulfilled on the eve of Calvary by the love of his disciples for one another, and for him. He rejoices today when we love the brethren and love him.

The joy of Christ was fulfilled on the eve of Calvary by the love of his disciples for one another, and for him. He rejoices today when we love the brethren and love him.

But, oh! the sweet intimacy of fellowship with him. Read verses 14 to 16. Chosen and appointed by him for "the first loved us," we are not kept in the distant position of servants but are brought into his circle of friends with whom he shares the glorious secrets of his Father and our Father.

Every man should use his intellect not as he uses his lamp in the study, only for his own seeing, but as the light he uses his lamp, that those afar off on the sea may see the shining and learn their way.

The wise man must remember that while he is a descendant of the past, he is a parent of the future, and that his thoughts are as seeds which will bear fruit in his own day.

Beauty Culture Rides On Wheels Nowadays

STREAMLINED DEMONSTRATION TRAILER AMAZES POPULACE ON 4,000 MILE TRIP THROUGH SOUTHWEST Proves Big Attraction at Pan-American Exposition

Chicago, Nov. 24—(ANP)—Mrs. Marjorie Stewart Joyner, president of the National Beauty Culturists League of America and national supervisor of the Madam C. J. Walker Beauty Colleges, has just returned to her Chicago headquarters from a unique demonstration and good will tour, the first of its kind ever undertaken in America, and making the entire trip in the company's specially built trailer fitted up as a modernly equipped beauty shop.

Starting from Chicago, Mrs. Joyner's first stop was Indianapolis, home office of the Madam C. J. Walker company, where she lectured and met with the students and representatives in the firm's million dollar building.

In Dallas the "beauty shop on wheels" was a feature of the Negro Day parade, held in connection with the Pan-American Exposition. At the exposition grounds later the trailer was viewed by thousands of persons and demonstrations were given all afternoon and evening.

In all the cities mentioned mass-meetings were held in honor of Mrs. Joyner, newly elected president of the National Beauty Culturists League, and numerous courtesies were shown the party at every place visited on the good will tour. Mrs. Joyner was accompanied and assisted on the trip by Mrs. Alice E. Burdett, senior representative and vice president of the Madam C. J. Walker Manufacturing company. The trailer was driven by Arnold Bryant.

At the conclusion of the trip Mrs. Joyner reported that the beauty culture profession is definitely on the upgrade, that beauticians are as busy now as they were before the depression and that the colored women of America are rapidly becoming "beauty conscious."

CLOSE CHICAGO'S HAMILTON CLUB

Chicago, Nov. 18—(ANP)—The Hamilton club, famous republican organization for nearly fifty years, closed its doors over financial difficulties this week. The organization is remembered because of the ban against Negroes riding in its passenger elevators which attracted attention some five years ago.

First Kindergarten Was in Blankenburg, Germany

The idea of schooling as simply the fostering of the best natural growth was in the mind of Frederick Froebel when he opened the first kindergarten in the little town of Blankenburg, Germany, in 1837, and found a name for his educational idea, says a writer in the New York Times. From a hilltop where he could see the village houses, each with its tiny garden plot, he made his famous declaration: "Eureka! I have it! Kindergarten it shall be!"

Froebel's first school was at Kelln, established in 1816. The working plan of that school and his educational theory he put into print in 1826 in the "Education of Man." The "Means of Education" used there and printed in "Education of Man" would be an acceptable course of study in a modern country day school.

Froebel's experience in this school and his observations of mothers with their children in the home life about him led to his conviction that education was a continuous process, and to be effective should begin in early childhood. For twenty years he thought and worked over his plans for obtaining a more abundant life for children.

He had made his appeal to parents for a better understanding of child nature in the following terms: "O men, as you stroll through garden or meadow or field or copse, why not use your sense to perceive what nature would teach you? Behold the plant! When grown under pressure you scarcely guess its natural life and purpose, but in open ground it becomes a sun of green rays, a star of leaves. Your children, too, O parents, have it in them to become creatures fully developed to beauty."

Smoke Small Particles Suspended in the Air

Smoke is nothing more than myriads of small solid particles suspended in the air, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune. These particles are denser than air, yet they settle only with extreme slowness because of two facts. A falling body soon reaches a speed at which its weight is balanced by the air resistance opposing its motion. This resistance is roughly proportional to the amount of surface exposed, and the smaller the body, the greater the ratio of surface to weight and the slower its rate of fall through air. Smoke particles usually are so small that their rates of fall hardly are perceptible. In addition, the particles' motion through the air causes them to pick up electrical charges, and the mutual repulsion of these charges prevents the particles from coalescing into larger particles which would fall more quickly.

It is a surprising fact that these smoke particles are much harder to remove from air than are the far smaller molecules of a gaseous impurity. Air can be freed from foreign gases by bubbling it through the right kind of absorbing liquid or by passing it through a loosely packed mass of a porous solid absorbent. These methods frequently fail with smokes.

The reason for this difference lies in the fact that the small, light gas molecules are in a state of constant motion, and travel at incredible speeds which quickly bring them into contact with the absorbing material. On the other hand the far heavier smoke particles drift very slowly through the rest of the gas, and only a few of them have time to reach the absorbent.

Invented the Lifeboat

The first lifeboat of which any complete account exists was invented by a Frenchman in 1765; but there are no records that it was ever used, says London Answers Magazine. So the honor of designing the lifeboat as we know it may be divided between three Englishmen. Wouldhave invented the self-righting boat; Lukin designed the non-self-righting sailing lifeboat; and Greathead actually built the first lifeboat. This noteworthy vessel was launched at Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1799; it did good service for thirty years, saving hundreds of lives.

Murderer Revealed Crime

A strange case of the lack of observation occurred during the assassination of President Marie Callot of France in Lyons on June 24, 1894. Accompanied by three friends, two grooms and surrounded by mounted police, he was riding in his state carriage when a man jumped on the running board and fatally stabbed him. The first inkling of the tragedy, according to a writer in Collier's Weekly, came from the murderer, who attracted attention to himself when, running down the street, he shouted, "Vive l'anarchie!"

Heavy Water

Heavy water is water in which the hydrogen atom is replaced by the double-weight hydrogen isotope, deuterium. Chemically it is indistinguishable from ordinary water, except that a given amount weighs more. It is mixed with ordinary water in the proportion of about one part in 6,000. It was first prepared by the electrolysis process at the Bureau of Standards shortly after the discovery of the heavy hydrogen atom.

Lutheran Church Much Older Than Methodist

The Lutheran church is about two centuries older than the Methodist, notes a writer in the Detroit News. As its name indicates it was founded by Martin Luther, whose opposition to certain doctrines and practices of the Catholic church led to his excommunication in 1520. The organization of his church began soon afterward and in 1530 the Augsburg Confession was adopted as its fundamental creed. From Wittenberg in Saxony Lutheranism spread throughout Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands, Poland, Hungary, etc. The first Lutheran came to America as early as 1643 and established a congregation in 1648.

The Methodist church was an offshoot of the Church of England and was at first a reform movement within that church. John and Charles Wesley had in 1729 formed at Oxford university a club for the promotion of personal religion and their careful observance of rather strict rules of conduct led to the term "Methodists." Briefly, the open-air preaching of the Wesleys and of George Whitefield and the opposition of the Church of England gradually developed the Methodist system into a church, from 1738 onward. The first Methodists arrived in America from Ireland in 1760 and six years later, their leader, Philip Embury, founded the first Methodist society in America.

Calico, Silk, Cashmere Names From Other Lands

Many of our names for cloth come to us from the Orient, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star. Calico is from Calicut, India, the city from which it was first imported. Doubtless at first the term used was Calicut cloth, but phrases often shrink in usage, and calico was an easy evolution. Madras, also in India, gave us the cloth which bears its name. This was first made from silk and cotton, but the name is applied to the same weave in cotton also, a fabric which is much used for men's shirts. Damask is from Damascus, noted long ago for its fine steel blades and for its silks. Damask is characterized by woven designs which represent flowers or conventional figures. It was originally made of silk, but the same name was later applied to the same weave in silk, cotton, rayon or wool used for hangings and upholstery, and to linen woven for table napery and towels.

The Monroe Doctrine

The Monroe Doctrine, named for President Monroe and enunciated by him in his presidential message of December 2, 1823, was originated by his Secretary of State, John Quincy Adams. The formation of new republics in South and Central America had led to the belief that European powers were contemplating interference there to restore the old form of government. The fundamental principle of the original Monroe Doctrine is that there are two natural spheres of world influence, separated by the Atlantic ocean, and that European powers should keep out of American affairs. At a later time the doctrine was extended to imply a United States police power or intervention power in this hemisphere.

Pilgrims, Puritans Were Not Excessive in Dress

For reasons of conscience and economy, the Pilgrims and Puritans frowned on extravagance in dress, according to a writer in the Indianapolis News. Massachusetts records show that each settler was provided with four pairs of shoes and stockings, two suits of doublet and hose, four shirts, one woollen suit (leather-lined with extra breeches, two handkerchiefs, one cotton waistcoat, leather belt, black hat, three caps, a cloak and two pairs of gloves.

In 1634, laws passed by the Massachusetts general court forbade the use of silver and gold ornaments, lace, silk and ruffs. Young men who defied this law by wearing long hair and silk were arrested, and one Hannah Lyman, age sixteen, was haled into court for "wearing silk in a flaunting manner."

Before the arrival of the cavaliers in Virginia, the dress of southern colonists was not unlike that of the Puritan. As the colonists acquired wealth, they began to order wardrobes from London. In 1737 Col. John Lewis ordered for his ward "a cap ruff and tucker, one pair white stays, eight pairs white kid gloves, two pairs colored kid gloves, two pairs worsted hose, three pairs thread hose, one pair silk shoes laced, one pair Morocco shoes, one hoop coat, one hat, four pairs Spanish shoes, two pairs calf shoes, one mask, one fan, one necklace, one girdle and buckle, one piece fashionable calico, four yards ribbon for knots, one and one-half yards cambric, one mantua and coat of white string."

Men among the earlier settlers wore their own hair, the cavaliers dressing theirs in elaborate styles, while the Puritans and Quakers wore theirs plain and long to the shoulders.

Cocobola, Central American Wood

Cocobola is a Central American wood that has been used in the cutlery trade for more than 50 years. In appearance it is one of the most striking of woods, with peculiar shades of red and orange shot through with bands of jet black. It is extremely hard and heavy, and being more oily than most of the rosewood group, to which it is related, is so difficult to glue that it is not used to any extent for furniture except novelty pieces.

Muskmelon and Cantaloupe

Many persons are puzzled by the names muskmelon and cantaloupe. Horticulture states that the term muskmelon is the proper one to apply. The cantaloupe is really a small melon used for forcing in European greenhouses. This name, however, has come to be used in the trade for certain kinds of melons. It is purely a trade name and is given to what is actually a muskmelon.

HOLLYWOOD BOOTBLACK DONS Chromium Is a Silvery, Hard Crystalline Metal

Chrome yellow, chrome steel, chrome leather, chrome green, and chrome alum are the names of a number of outwardly highly dissimilar materials, and the layman may wonder why a single adjective, chrome, is used to describe all of them. The word means that they all contain the element chromium, a substance whose unusual and varied properties give it an unusual position in the chemical industry, says Dr. Thomas M. Beck, in the Chicago Tribune.

Numerous Names for the Friendly Black-Cherry Tree

The wild black cherry has quite a few names which reveal that it is found in a few scattered deposits, sort of a friendly all-rounder, appreciated by the farmer and the lumberman. Among the names for chromium with oxygen and iron. It is a silvery, hard, crystalline metal. It is about as heavy as iron and melts at about the same temperature. It is obtained chiefly from the ore chromite, which is few names which reveal that it is found in a few scattered deposits, sort of a friendly all-rounder, appreciated by the farmer and the lumberman. The wild cherry tree is a familiar figure in the woods. It is apt to give you the impression of being a rather unimpressive tree compared to the dignified maple, sycamore, the oaks. It isn't particularly discriminating about such things as aluminum, lead, or zinc, are where it grows. Then, too, it is unorthodox in contour. The trunk is apt to be crooked and the foliage is thin and drooping.

The happy-go-lucky cherry tree, growing most anywhere in the woods, along the fences or wherever it may take seed, looks much like a character that has tried hard to be correct in every detail. But apparently it has been too much troubled to be precise and stand formal and reserved like an oak.

United States Senators

When the nation's first senate was organized on May 14, 1789, only ten in comparison to the states were represented, the others and the big oaks, it really joins the elite among trees when you consider its wood. It is close grained, takes a fine polish and has been used much to imitate mahogany and for making furniture. But its usefulness doesn't end there by any means. The bark of this rugged old species is used in medicine since it contains an ingredient of tonic properties.

Some species of cacti, like the tuna, are edible, while others are deadly poison; a few contain juices which are intoxicant and some bring on insanity. The Opuntias Nopalans bear fruit which is commonly called prickly pear. The products of certain species of Echinocereus are called allichoques by the Mexicans and strawberry cacti by Americans by Jot in the same way. As their terms expired, successors were elected for the full six-year term. Senators from new states, by the enabling acts admitting the states, were also assigned so as to keep the three classes even.

Food Plants Used by Indians

A lichen growing on the bark of pine and fir trees in the Columbia river area which was sprinkled with water, allowed to ferment, then rolled in large balls and baked in an oven, was one of the favorite foods used by the Indians. The palatable roots of the arrowweed which were boiled or roasted by the far corners of the all the Indian tribes. The annual in Africa, the island of Mauritius, wild rice, which grows in great fields along the Potomac and even in the Los Angeles Times. In one of the most important of the Indian cereals. It is not a true rice, but is almost indistinguishable from that grain. The corne of the jack-in-the-pulpit was known as Iron quois bread root. The sumac, whose acid fruit was used to make cooling drinks resembling lemonade, Mexico and some sections of South America that they are found growing in their native state most abundantly.

Cacti Native of Americas

With one exception, all of the cacti of the world are native to the Americas. From here they have been transported to the far corners of the globe by the Indians. The annual in Africa, the island of Mauritius, wild rice, which grows in great fields along the Potomac and even in the Los Angeles Times. In one of the most important of the Indian cereals. FOR BACKACHE KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLE

Stop Getting Up Nights and Feel Younger

Here's one good way to flush harmful waste from kidneys and stop bladder irritation that often causes scanty, burning and smarting passage.

Ask your druggist for a 35-cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—a splendid safe and harmless diuretic and stimulant for weak kidneys and irritated bladder.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble are backaches, puffy eyes, leg cramps, and moist palms, but be sure to get GOLD MEDAL—it's the genuine medicine for weak kidneys—right from Haarlem in Holland.

EASY NOW TO CORRECT BAD BREATH

No need to offend others—Listerine, quick deodorant, sweetens breath

Now there is no excuse for offending others with halitosis (bad breath). The quick, easy treatment to counteract this condition is Listerine. Simply rinsing the mouth with it makes the breath cleaner, sweeter, more wholesome.

Most cases of bad breath, says one dental authority, are caused by fermentation of starchy food particles the tooth brush has failed to remove.

When Listerine is used to rinse the mouth, it halts fermentation and overcomes the odors it causes.

Smart men and women realize that it is easy to offend others and take the pleasant Listerine precaution against bad breath. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE COMMUNITY PROBLEMS

Last week ten Negro boys were arrested at the Riverside Settlement because they refused repeatedly to obey instructions from authorities to confine their recreational period to the one assigned them.

Recently complaint has been made that in some of the public schools, too many Negro students are not responding to discipline and instruction as well as they might and that their beligerent attitude was not conducive to the good of the student nor the program to create better relationships between the races in Des Moines.

Much of this difficulty can be traced directly to the home training of these unfortunate young people. Of course there are exceptions to the rule. But if young people are not taught to respect authority, to conduct themselves so as not to be obnoxious to others and that good conduct gets them much further than bad conduct then these unfortunate incidents will not only continue but tend to increase.

Naturally the youngsters argue some excuse for their misconduct. At times their explanations have some merit. But it ill behooves them to attempt to take disciplinary measures into their own hands and settle them by acting discourteously and conducting themselves in an indiscreet manner. There is a way to get at these problems, first through the parents and second with the cooperation of interested individuals and organizations.

The status of the Negro in Des Moines has been far above that of most communities in the handling of problems of this kind. It ought not be allowed to be spoiled by unscrupulous children and disgruntled and disinterested parents who set the wrongs of others and no fault in their own youngsters.

THE HANDICAP OF THE ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

Unfortunately anti-lynching legislation in Congress has been burdened down with two handicaps which militate to a very great disadvantage. And this is why in spite of the fact that a majority in the Senate favors its passage but has had no chance to vote on the measure itself.

The average person in and out of Congress argue that the bill is aimed at the South which is of course not true at all. Lynchings have occurred in Northern states and in neither instance have the participants been punished.

The average opponent, and entirely too many of its supporters, consider the measure as an attempt to protect the Negro only from mob violence. And this is not true at all for not only are Negroes lynched in this country but white people as well.

The only thing sponsors of this bill want is that every American citizen shall have equal protection of the law; that punishment for crime be handled in orderly legal fashion as contemplated by the constitution; that whoever attempts to take the law into his hands be dealt with as the law requires—that he be sought out and brought to justice the same as any other criminal.

SENATOR HERRING'S EXPLANATION

Senator Herring wrote several individuals and organizations in Des Moines in response to telegrams sent him in an effort to explain his attitude on the consideration of the anti-lynching bill. He stated that he was not willing to block the President's program by insisting that the bill be considered at this time when by resolution of the Senate last summer the agricultural bill was given first place.

If the administration's farm bill had been ready when Congress convened, Senator Herring's argument would be perfectly logical. But it was not, the anti-lynching bill was next on the calendar and entitled to be considered, Senator Herring ought to be smart enough, and we give him credit for knowing what would happen, to know that once the anti-lynching bill loses its place on the calendar its sponsors will have the same trouble getting it in an advantageous position that they had last summer.

Senator, think that over a little. We think we are right and if you favor the measure as you say, you will agree with us.

What Others Say

LET'S BE A MERRY-GO-ROUND

Let's be a merry-go-round. This is the season to make some one happy, the season to scatter seeds of kindness. As we go to and fro let us be merry, and meet our brother with a glad hand and a hearty shake of the hand, not the touching of finger tips. This is a cold and chilly world. If you have any extra comfort, share with the less fortunate, he may be your neighbor, just around the corner. Let's be a merry-go-round.

As we go around, let's make some one happy. Let not the sun go down, without something being done. It is written, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you may die." It is up to you, as to what you should drink. If you chance to be a peacemaker, if you chance to bring light out of darkness; if you chance to bring peace out of confusion; this is your task. Now is the time to cheer the lonesome traveler. It is written that the strong should bear the burdens of the weak, and may I add the weak should be appreciative of the good turns done by the strong. Now is the time for the trouble makers and trouble carriers to enjoy a season of rest. Awake, and put on your beautiful garments, the garments of righteousness, truth and justice, that you too may shine as the noon day sun. Remember, Time Marches on. Wishing each and every one of you a plentiful Thanksgiving.

Rev. Jordan W. Tutt, Pastor, Union Baptist Church.

Bystander's Trade Survey

In order to find out where Negroes are spending their money, in order that an intelligent approach may be made to the firms with which they trade, in order to secure advertising, the Bystander is conducting a survey. A list of questions calling for this information has been prepared which we hope you will answer. If you do not care to answer the questions, "Do you have an account?" this may be omitted. However it is hoped that you will give the fullest cooperation in this matter.

WHERE DO YOU BUY? Groceries Do you carry an account with them? Furniture Do you carry an account with them? Clothing Do you carry an account with them? Do you have a car? Where did you buy it? What kind of gasoline do you use? Where do you buy it? Kind of refrigerator? When did you buy it? Do you have electricity in your home? Where do you buy electrical appliances? Where do you buy coal? Where do you buy drugs? Phone Number Do you have city water? Number in family Do you have roomers?

The places where you trade should advertise in the Bystander. They will do so if you ask them about it when making purchases or are paying bills. In a great many cases the places where you work should and would advertise if you ask them. Tell them the Bystander is your paper, that you are interested in it and that you want their support.

GAS POISONING

Carbon monoxide poisoning is a fairly frequent occurrence during the winter months. "Carbon monoxide gas is odorless, and colorless". The victim is unaware of inhaling the gas. The onset of symptoms are drowsiness, slight headaches, dizziness, later unconsciousness.

Those who drive during the winter months should have their cars checked for gas leaks. Avoid driving long distances with all windows up. Do not permit your motor to run with the car in a closed garage. If you should find a person who is overcome by the gas move him immediately from the environment of the gas and if breathing has ceased or is irregular, artificial respiration should be started immediately. Have some one call the police and tell them you have a patient who was overcome by gas.

Anti Lynch Bill

Behind the oratory and moves on the senate floor a tremendous amount of detailed lobbying is being carried on. Heading the force is Walter White, N. A. A. C. P. secretary, assisted by Charles H. Houston and Thurgood Marshall of the New York office legal staff of the N. A. A. C. P. Assisting in the many activities are Mrs. Gertrude Stone and the Rev. W. H. Jernagin of this city and the Rev. Marshall Talley of Indianapolis, Indiana. There are also workers here from as far away as Detroit, Michigan.

This force will be joined by Mrs. Walter R. Jones of Jacksonville, Florida, who is being sent by the National Y. W. C. A. to assist in the lobby and to refute the charge that southern white women are not in favor of this bill. One of the most important persons in the anti-lynching bill lobby during this fight and also during the years past is Miss Elizabeth Eastman, who is the Washington representative of the National Y. W. C. A.

M. S. 1—My mother says he doesn't mean me any good because he doesn't visit me and I want you to tell me what you think?

Ans.—You had better take mother's advice about this problem, for she is plenty wise. The young man does not think as much of you as you think of him. Don't worry too much about him, for you are going to have a number of nice boy-friends before you get grown.

R. G. J. 1—Will my husband get the job that he has applied for and if so about how soon will he go to work?

Ans.—He is going to get a job pay enough for you to make arrangements to begin housekeeping. Both of you will be a lot better off when you do get out to yourselves.

B. L. B. 1—Would I be acting wise to wait on the raise that I am wishing for?

Ans.—It will be necessary for you to wait if you expect to get the raise in salary. Don't give up your present job, but you should try to find something that will pay you better.

M. F. 1—Did M. C. ever care anything for me and will he care any more in the future? I am worried about this party.

Ans.—Then ease your mind right now, once and for all—this fellow doesn't care one thing about you and he never will. Stop trying to chase him around.

F. G. M. 1—Please tell me immediately who put the money in my room? I shall be watching for an answer?

Ans.—You are innocent and you know it. Stuck to your story. The money was planted there by someone you are well acquainted with and the whole story will come out very shortly.

R. E.—Does my boy friend love me right now as I desire him to? I wrote you privately back in the summer and was well pleased.

Ans.—He is still very interested in you, although another young woman is in his life at this time also. Don't give up the fight, for you stand as good a chance as she does of winning him. However, he is the type that you have to "run after" to some degree, but don't let him know it.

L. E.—Will I get an answer to the letter that I wrote some few weeks ago and when must I expect one?

Ans.—You are in for a big disappointment, for your uncle is not in a position to help you out financially right now. You should be able to get some kind of job that would pay you enough to live on. Get out and make a diligent search and you will get work.

A. L. S.—Please tell me if my boy friend cares more for me than the woman that he lives with?

Ans.—Absolutely not. If he did he surely would not be staying with another woman. Don't let this individual fool you any longer. He doesn't care anything at all for you or anyone else. He is out merely to see how much fun he can have.

P. W.—Would it be a good idea for me to invest all my savings in the proposition that I have in mind at this time?

Ans.—I sincerely think that you would be using mighty good judgment to purchase the piece of property that has been offered you recently at such a low price. The party is sacrificing the place just as cheap as he can. Buy it by all means, for you will double your money in a short time.
