New Anti-Lynch Bill Introduced in Congress

Democrats-Republicans Sponsor Senate Measure

The anti-lynching bill was introduced in the senate Thursday, January 5th, by Senator Wagner, its co-sponsors are Senator Frederick Van Nuys (D) of Indiana and Senator Arthur Capper (R) of Kansas.

Spanish Town, Jamaica's Capital, Old Attraction

Capital of Jamaica for over three centuries under both Spanish and English rule, the ancient town of Spanish Town, numbering in the tropic sun 13 miles west of Kingston, draws within her confines visitors anxious to turn back the pages of history and re-live the brave days when from here the minions of Old Castile and their British conquerors governed the island.

While there are very few old Spanish buildings remaining anywhere in Jamaica, the Great square of Spanish Town is authentically Spanish. It was laid out after the plan of Spanish cities when the Dons decided to leave Seville on the North coast and establish their seat of government island. This is believed to have been in 1538.

Spanish Town was evacuated in 1655 in the face of the British under Admiral Penn and General Venables, but remained the capital until 1872.

The ancient government buildings are among Spanish Town's chief points of interest. The old House of Assembly and King's house date from 1762. The former in particular gives direct contact with the days of the Eighteenth century. In bygone years tradition has it that there was an underground passage leading from the old cathedral across the square to the assembly building, which was used in troublous times by the law-makers as a quick means of getting into and out of the chambers where the assembly sessions were being held.

Praying Mantis Females Require Suitable Mates

The courtship of the male praying mantis is not unlike that of our spiders, for if the lady does not consider him a suitable mate she will pounce on him and kill him. The spider sometimes has a good chance of escaping, for he approaches in a wary manner, but the female mantis is more cunning, and will let the male think she is about to accept him. Then, if she does not consider him sufficiently good-looking, those powerful pincer legs flash out, and there is no hope of escape. Apart from courtship, one mantis will not hesitate to attack another, relates a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

The European mantis harmonizes remarkably with its surroundings, but other species have it beaten. Some are colored like tropical flowers and as they remain motionless, bees and other insects alight upon them to be caught and devoured. Others have wings which resemble leaves, with smaller leaf-like appendages on their legs. These change color according to the seasons, and as the leaves change from green to brown, they alter their coat to correspond with spring, summer or autumn.

Origin of Christening Ships

In ancient times when a new ship was launched the libation (or pouring out of wine) was practiced, consecrating the ship to the god whose image she bore. The action of blessing ships is alluded to by the Monks of St. Denis, and there are records of ship christenings from July, 1418, when the bishop of Bangor was sent to Southampton, England, to bless the king's ships for successful voyages. On October 20, 1797, the Constitution, first U. S. navy ship launched, was christened by an officer who broke a bottle of wine over her prow. The practice of christening ships has thus developed gradually into a recognized custom, and champagne is probably used for the ceremony because it is a rare wine and suitable, therefore, for such an important occasion.

Pessimist of Victorian Age

Thomas Hardy was one of the greatest realists and one of the most uncompromising pessimists. Hallieck says: "Hardy's novels leave a sense of gloom upon the reader. He explains his view of modern life 'as a thing to be put up with, replacing the zest for existence, which was so intense in early civilization.' His pessimistic philosophy strikes at the core of life and human endeavor. Sorrow appears in his work, not as a punishment for crime, but as an unavoidable result of human life and its inevitable mistakes. No escape is suggested."

Monument With Seven Heads

Beside a well near Loch Oich stands a strange monument surmounted by seven heads, according to an Edinburgh correspondent in Pearson's London Weekly. Accused of murdering an entire family in the Sixteenth century, seven men were executed by order of the chief of the clan to which the family belonged. The heads of the murderers were then taken to Glenгарry castle after having been washed in the well, which is still known as "The Well of the Heads."

GEORGIA SHERIFFS THWART LYNCHING

Royston, Ga., Jan. 9—(UNP)—Two state troopers and two sheriffs resorted to a ruse here last Wednesday to foil a mob of over four hundred which threatened the life of a prisoner who was suspected of shooting a white woman.

The prisoner, Charlie Harper, 17, was captured by the sheriffs of Franklin and Madison counties with the aid of a large posse of citizens. When the arrest was learned, a mob estimated between 300 and 500 gathered quickly and shouts of "lynch the nigger" grew louder and louder.

Fearing mob action, sheriffs and two state troopers who came from a nearby town slipped the prisoner away from the mob by announcing that they had to take him "to the hospital to see if the victim can identify him." They placed the colored youth in the sheriff's car and sped out of town. "Fifteen or twenty cars filled with men armed with shotguns and rifles followed them," the sheriffs stated.

Driving at top speed, the sheriff's car outdistanced the pursuers, and after turning into a side road, the prisoner was transferred to one of the state troopers' cars and was brought by a circuitous route to Atlanta, Ga., for safety.

R. B. Eleazer, educational director of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation, hailed the action of the officers and credited them with saving the prisoner from death at the hands of the mob. Charlie Harper is charged with shooting a white woman after he attempted to attack her, according to state police.

Best Falcons for Kings, Dukes

"Falcon," in the old days, was a term applied to any hawk trained for hunting. So popular was the sport in England that laws were passed limiting use of the best hawks to kings and dukes, and of mediocre birds to lesser nobles, and of poor birds to the common people. Carrying pet falcons on their gaudy wrists, says the Washington Post, nobles and ladies set out for fields where dogs flushed the quarry. Once the duck, grouse, pheasant, lark or heron came into view, the hawk swooped upon it, killed it in mid-air, and brought the carcass back to the waiting owner. Fearless and scrappy, falcons did not hesitate to attack birds and animals more than twice their size. In some countries they were used in hunting antelopes, even wolves.

How Papier Mache Is Made

Papier mache is made chiefly from old paper by boiling in a pulp with water, pressing, mixing with glue or starch paste, and then forcing in a mold previously oiled. After drying, the articles are soaked with linseed oil, and then dried at a higher temperature. Other varieties include sheets of paper, sometimes from 30 to 40 in number, pasted on metal cores to form "blanks," and afterwards planed, varnished, polished with pumice stone, and decorated; a coarse, fibrous slab, mixed with clay and chemicals to resist combustion, and carton pierre, made of paper pulp, whiting and gum pressed into plaster forms and stove dried.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI DECISION STANDS, SAYS U. S. HIGH COURT

Tribunal Rejects Plea For Rehearing of Lloyd Gaines Case
Washington, D. C., Jan. 9—Reaffirming its decision ordering the University of Missouri to admit Lloyd Gaines, a Negro college graduate, to its law school, the United States supreme court today denied the university's plea for a reconsideration of the case.

Attorneys for the university had sought a rehearing of the case on the grounds that the court had, in effect, placed a new construction on the equal protection clause in the federal constitution which did not allow for a proper consideration of the practical problem involved in the education of the races in the south. The petition followed closely the line of reasoning set forth by Justices Butler and McReynolds, who entered a dissenting opinion on the court's ruling.

On December 12th the high court ruled that, since the state of Missouri did not provide graduate facilities in law for Gaines while providing such facilities for white students, Gaines was being denied equal protection of the law, and must be admitted to the university's law school.

N. A. A. C. P. TO FIGHT NAZISM AND FASCISM—WANTS AMERICA TO MAKE DEMOCRACY WORK HERE

New York, Jan. 9—Pledging cooperation with other national groups in the fight to relieve the condition of persecuted minorities in Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged the United States to "renew the fight to uphold the constitution and laws, by putting an end to the crime of lynching."

The statement was issued by the association at its thirtieth annual meeting held at the headquarters, 69 Fifth avenue, here today.

CRISIS IN ETHIOPIA SEEN AS ITALY RUSHES WAR MATERIAL TO ADDIS

Jibuti, French Somaliland, Jan. 9—(CNA)—Indication that the Italian army of occupation in Ethiopia is facing a critical situation was seen here in frantic efforts by Italian transport agents here to speed up the transportation of war material and food over the Jibuti-Addis Ababa railroad.

News of extensive guerilla activities and of growing discontent among both native and Italian units of the fascist army of occupation reached this port recently with the arrival of scores of deserters from the Italian forces. They also reported that the natives were protesting growing economic hardships and fascist race decrees.

Kentucky's Fiddle Bow District

Fiddle Bow is the name of the famous bridge grafted black oak tree that once lived in Hopkins county, Ky., near Madisonville. The tree served as the fiddlestick, while a branch, fused into the trunk at both ends, took the place of hairs from a horse's tail. From the tree that part of Kentucky became known as the Fiddle Bow district. A schoolhouse also goes by the same name. This old landmark stood not far from the spot where a notorious highwayman, Micajah Harp, known as "Big Harp," lost his head more than a century ago. This old tree illustrates how a freak of nature may distort or change the shape of a tree, making it so distinct that it becomes a landmark and is written into the pages of history.

Size of the Titanic

The Titanic was 852½ feet long, 92½ feet wide, 73 feet deep, gross tonnage 46,328. The vessel had Marconi wireless apparatus, in charge of Jack Phillips, who lost his life, and Harold Bride, who was saved. She was sailing west from Southampton to New York, struck an iceberg at 11:40 p. m., April 14, 1912, and sank at 2:20 a. m. next day. Capt. E. J. Smith went down with his ship. There was a loss of 1,513 lives, practically all of these representing passengers and crew who remained on board.

Reader Suggests Method For Aid to Bystander

Des Moines, Iowa

Dear Sirs:—I believe that it will be a blot on the history of the Negroes of Iowa if we allow this, our only Race paper in the state, to fail at this time. I am not a journalist and know very little about the business of publishing a newspaper or the problems confronting the Bystander at this time, but I am willing and anxious to do whatever I can to help insure the future publication of this paper. May I suggest that a special subscription drive be made now, appealing to the people through field agents, churches, fraternal organizations and women's clubs, assuring them a fuller, better paper in every way as fast as their financial support warrants it. As an officer of the State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs I can send a message to each club, urging them to send in yearly subscriptions immediately and to give their strongest support to the paper that is their only official organ.

Respectfully,
(Mrs.) A. A. McGinty
Editor's Note:—The suggestions you make are good and you may proceed to carry them out. In the meantime we shall communicate with you further about the matter.

University of Missouri case, came to light here recently in the form of an application for admission to the North Carolina university. Application was made by a Negro woman residing in New York City. Her name was unrevealed.

INTER-RACIAL COMMISSION ELECTS OFFICERS

Tuesday evening, January 10th, at a dinner at North High school Mrs. Horace S. Hollingsworth was re-elected chairman of the Des Moines Interracial Commission. Other officers elected are: Dr. C. R. Bradford, vice chairman, Mrs. Helen D. Beahrs, secretary and treasurer; and S. E. Thompson, James B. Morris, Adria Titterton, Sue M. Brown, Dr. R. W. Shipman and Rev. G. W. Robinson members of the executive board.

The address on the economic plight of the Negro youth, which was to have been presented by Mrs. Lillian Edmunds, executive secretary of the Negro Community Center, was postponed to the next meeting.

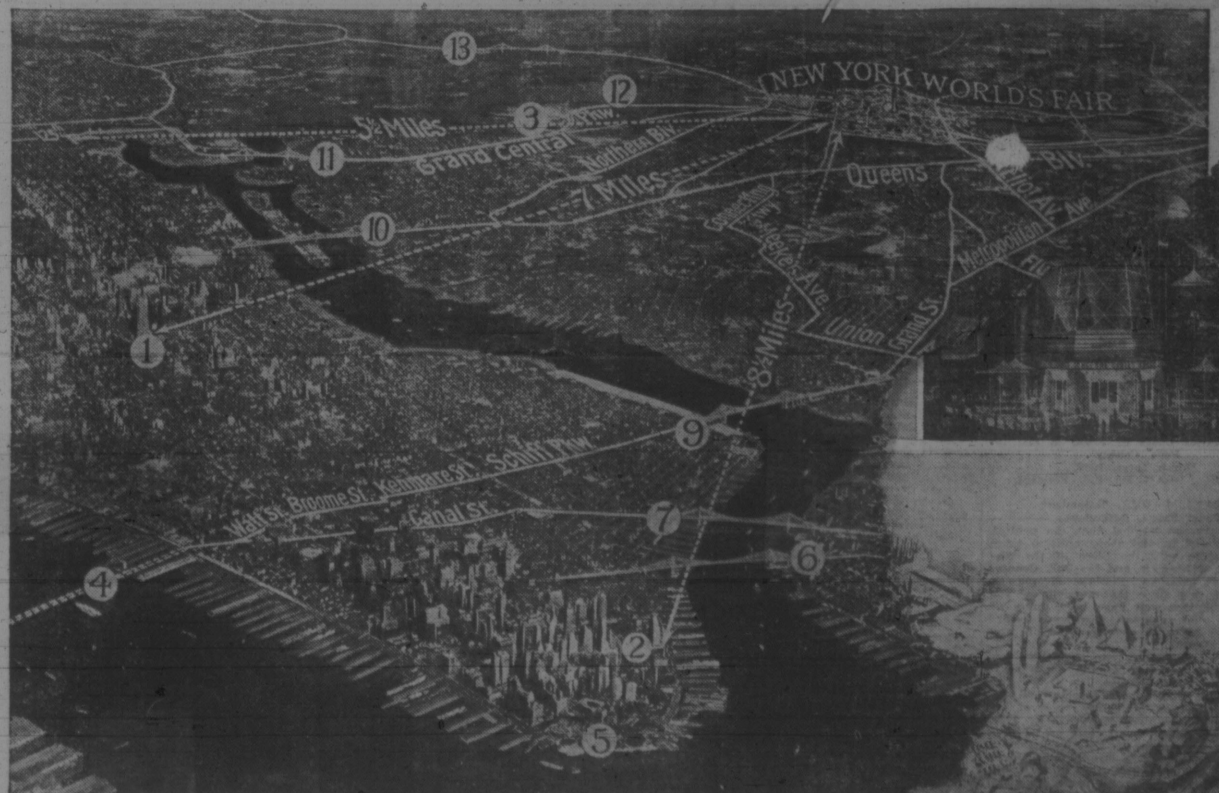

The executive committee of the N. A. A. C. P. met Tuesday evening, January 10th, at the Community Center. Tentative plans were made for the Lincoln-Douglas celebration to be held during the month of February. The program will be announced later.

STINK BOMB BREAKS UP INTER-RACIAL PARTY

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 9—(UNP)—An entertainment of the New Era Youth club, a group of young people who believe in social equality for Negro people, was broken up New Year's night by a tear gas bomb. The bomb was thrown into the U. A. W. union hall, 51 Sproat street, where a big apple dance was in progress.

an unidentified white man who attacked a 13 year old colored girl, Ada Pearl Owen, it was disclosed Thursday. The girl, who is in a serious condition, told Police Chief William Moore that a white man criminally attacked her.

Air Map of Manhattan and New York World's Fair Grounds

NEW YORK—An aerial photographer recently obtained this remarkable picture showing the skyline of New York with its relation to the grounds of the New York World's Fair-1939. An artist has painted on lines indicating distances from certain points in Manhattan to the Fair grounds. These distances, and other facts concerning road and bridge approaches to the exposition which is preparing to handle 60,000,000 visitors, are: (1) From Empire State at Fifth Avenue and 34th Street, in the heart of the retail shopping district, to the Fair grounds, 7 miles. (2) From Wall Street, in lower Manhattan, to the Fair grounds, 8½ miles. (3) From the entrance to the Triborough Bridge, 5½ miles. (Motorists can make this trip without encountering a single traffic light). ns, Puritans Were Different in Early Days of the Sixteenth century the Puritan was applied in England to persons who urged a re-ritual of the Established Church. There were different de-Puritans. There were who wished only to bring a reform of the church liturgers desired to abolish the ev, while some declared a church authority.

Primitives, as they styled the, who first formed a colony in Holland and subsequently led to America, were "Separatists," so called because they had separated themselves from the Church of England and wished to maintain a distinct organization. These formed the Plymouth colony, which settled in New England in 1620, relates Flora MacFarland in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In 1629 another company of Puritans came out and formed the Massachusetts Bay colony. These claimed to be members of the Church of England, and to have no desire to separate from that body, but to be unable conscientiously to conform to the established ritual.

HOW ABOUT THE BYSTANDER?

The status of The Bystander has risen the lowest ebb in its history. The cause need not be discussed here.

Many people have appreciated this all along; others did not. But most people have been at a loss without the paper and honestly not only wish it to begin publication regularly, but also to make substantial progress.

The letter from a Mason City subscriber, published elsewhere, asks what can be done to put the paper on a going basis. Before answering this question we wish to state that we will publish two page editions for three weeks, including therein a reasonable amount of news, and yet within the financial income of those issues. After that the full four page editions will appear and will improve as the financial prospects permit.

To Answer the Question

During this time every subscriber should contact the office and if his subscription has not been paid this year, do so at once. Don't wait to be called upon. Then, as the Mason City writer says, ascertain from the organization you head whether the members subscribe and have paid for the paper. Make an earnest effort to see that they do.

If the Negroes and their friends want The Bystander to continue, it can be done, but only with reasonable co-operation actually put into practice.

The bananas gives more food to the acre than any other plant, and is grown in the whole belt of the tropics for 25 degrees on either side of the Equator. All it asks is heat and moisture. It does not need replanting, but keeps on throwing up shoots from the same root, and each shoot blooms and bears fruit in 18 months.

The yam does require cultivation, but not much. Slips of the vine stuck in moist ground grow at once, and produce tubers weighing up to 10 or 12 pounds each. They are even more nourishing than the ordinary potato of the temperate zone, and form a large part of the food of about one-third of the world's population.

Peanuts, rape, poppy, the oil palm, the sunflower, and the cotton plant all produce valuable oils. On these oils we depend for soap, margarine, paints and varnishes, stock feed and many other necessities.

Least, but certainly not least, comes a plant so humble that few have ever seen it, yet everyone eats its product every day. We refer to the yeast plant, the minute fungus which causes our bread to rise. Except baking powder, there is nothing to take its place. You might almost class it next to wheat.

First Agricultural Co-operatives The earliest co-operative organizations of which records have been found were in the dairy industry. At least as long as four centuries ago, the Swiss and French peasants in the Jura mountains practiced a form of co-operation known as cheese rings.

The woman at home must learn to budget her time just as well as her sister in the working world. She should do her work at scheduled times and have at least one hour that is sacred to beauty. Into that hour she should pack her routine beauty rites—she should exercise care for her hair and face, touch up her make-up, and keep herself generally in trim.

One Hour For Beauty The woman at home must learn to budget her time just as well as her sister in the working world. She should do her work at scheduled times and have at least one hour that is sacred to beauty.

Hints to Preserve Beauty Besides (his hour devoted to reparting the dainties caused by housework, the woman at home can adopt a few simple tricks to save her beauty. A large man's handkerchief or an old towel tied around her head during the heavier part of the cleaning will keep her hair free from dust and prevent it from falling in her face and getting out of wave.

Old cotton gloves worn while dusting will keep her nails from cracking and the dirt from getting under the nails. Rubber gloves are a boon to the woman who cooks and washes dishes. Even the most innocent looking potato and carrot has a stain that leaves its mark on otherwise well-groomed hands. They will also save the polish if your hands are in the water a great deal and keep your hands from drying out from frequent contact with strong soaps.

For some unknown reason people seem to expect the woman who stays at home to be always well-groomed. They take the attitude that she has nothing more wearing to do than sit in an easy chair man-toeing her hair, brushing her hair and creaming her face, and possibly exerting herself to the extent of taking a few setting up exercises now and then. They completely overlook the havoc that dusting, dish-washing and general household drudgery play with the hands and nails. To say nothing of the all-around "ungrooming" that follows a day of house cleaning.

part of the cleaning will keep her hair free from dust and prevent it from falling in her face and getting out of wave. Dull, dusty looking hair is a telltale mark of carelessness. Hair that is naturally lusterless can be improved immensely by the use of a reliable brilliantine or hair coloring.

Old cotton gloves worn while dusting will keep her nails from cracking and the dirt from getting under the nails. Rubber gloves are a boon to the woman who cooks and washes dishes. Even the most innocent looking potato and carrot has a stain that leaves its mark on otherwise well-groomed hands. They will also save the polish if your hands are in the water a great deal and keep your hands from drying out from frequent contact with strong soaps.

For work that requires kneeling, two old pot-holders placed inside your stockings will keep your knees from becoming sore and rough. These are just a few of the ways in which you can save yourself. You can think up others as the need arises.

The world expects you to be perpetually well-groomed. You have to work hard to live up to its expectations, but, as I have said so many times, make your beauty routine a habit and it will fit into your schedule like three meals a day.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, L'arieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 607—511 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

WHAT EVERY DRAB-HAIRED WOMAN SHOULD KNOW

...To Find Romance You Must Look Your Loveliest...Color Your Hair With Godfrey's L'arieuse

ARE you worried because your hair is losing its color? Has the appearance of gray brought you loneliness, a constant fear of losing your popularity—your sweetheart—your job?

There are many reasons why you should be concerned, especially if your hair has prematurely lost its color. For gray hair is considered a badge of advancing age—a sure indication that you're getting along in years.

Is there anything you can do about it? Definitely yes! You can hide every gray hair—have hair that is richly and evenly colored, soft, fluffy, lustrous and natural looking with a single application of Godfrey's L'arieuse, the quick-acting, easy-to-use hair coloring. It will not rub off or wash out. Neither is it affected by permanent waves or the use of hot irons. Choice of 18 colors, including jet-black, black or brown.
