Tells of 50 Years Work As Miner

To live a long and active life, one that is safe from traffic worries and free of employment problems—be a coal miner, is the advice of J. W. Bouyer, 1413 East Eighteenth street.

"Outdoors you got a job today—tomorrow—somebody else has got it," he said and added that in the mines "they can't run under you—they got to come by the union."

Mr. Bouyer who has seen three strong years and some is still going strong as a mine-team driver in the Waukegan mines.

His mining career when a small lad who worked along side of his father. When the "free transportation mining camp days" were here, Mr. Bouyer, moved from his native home in Stanton, Ky., to Iowa with his father who died a miner, years later.

Around the age of twenty Mr. Bouyer became a member of the miner's union at Much mines.

Keeps Healthy "Did you ever see any one any healthier than a coal miner?" asked a representative of the Bystander and then he went on to relate that besides having a good appetite at all meals—he gets a bath daily in the wash house of the mines.

"Every miner has to take a bath before he can come out of the mines," he said and added that "there is no color line when one is working in the coal mines."

Asked if he felt safer upon the earth under it and Mr. Bouyer could not recall in all of his fifty or more years of mining when as many people have been killed in the mines as they have by motor cars alone on top.

In Several Mines Once that mining feeling gets into your veins you will not be satisfied unless you are working in the mines, he related and mentioned the other mines in which he has been employed. Among them were Buxton where he helped set up the first shaft in Ariabor, Keystone and Economy mines in Iowa; in Springfield, Ill.

During his half century of work he has had few injuries on the job. "Once mules fell down and squeezed me, broke a couple of my ribs and cut a hole in my shoulder, but I got by," he recalled.

Painting by Dr. Carver Is Unveiled

Tuskgee, (ANP)—Highlight in the Tuskegee institute summer school lecture series was an evening of art with Dr. George Washington Carver. Dr. Carver's lecture on the Fundamentals of Art was climaxed by the unveiling of his most recent painting, "The Yucca."

Dr. Carver has been working on the "Yucca" for more than 10 years. The painting is done on canvas with colors that Dr. Carver developed from clays. The artist portrayed two yucca plants in full bloom. They are a heroic size and stand out against a background of softened sunset light whose tint is faintly reflected on the ivory white bell petals of the yucca bloom. Around the base of the two yuccas sprawls a prickly pear with its spiny leaves and delicate blossoms.

The Corinthian Male quartet featured "The Old Ship of Zion" and by request, "The Alphabetical Number."

The Burns Male chorus appeared in a group of Negro spirituals, with Leland Green directing and accompanying.

"Steal Away" featured Horace Brown as soloist and Harold Hubbard was soloist in "My Lord What a Morning," in a cappella.

THE ARMSTRONG-AMBERS FIGHT

There has been considerable discussion about the Armstrong-Ambers fight in New York last week in which many people questioned the decision of the officials. Generally speaking the Bystander takes the position that good sportsmanship means a fellow must be a good loser; that there is no use selecting judges if their decisions cannot be final.

We were not there; have not seen the pictures of the fight and of course cannot judge whether the decision was fair or not. However, if the judges displayed one-tenth of the partiality as that which was sent over the air by Tower, the announcer—and he evidently had a guilty conscience for on several occasions he attempted to dispel the idea that he was partial—Armstrong had no chance.

Now comes the New York boxing commission and say that not only is Ambers the lightweight champion, but they propose to award him the welterweight championship too. And this in spite of the fact that the contract to fight for the lightweight championship, specifically provided that the the welterweight title was not at stake.

The New York commission knew about this provision before the fight, and just why they waited until after the fight to bring this lead up is somewhat a puzzle. We submit that we are not acquainted with the rules of the commission, but the position they take does not seem tenable.

Several years ago, the boxing game receded to a low ebb because the misconduct of several of the top-notchers had shaken the confidence of the public. For the past five or six years a decided change has come about because we have had a clean bunch of boxers.

It is highly important that referees, judges and commissions be fair and impartial for when the public begins to question their decision and can point to instances to back up their complaints, the boxing game will once more become corrupt. After all, we get further and satisfy more people in the long run by giving every fellow a fair chance and let the best man win. Any other theory is just bad sportsmanship.

IT COMES HOME TO ROOST

No one who lived during the period of the World war wants to see another other, than the few people who have selfish ends to gain or, whose jobs make them so safe, from the bullets that it does not matter. And yet war is just what we are heading for if the present European crisis does not ease up quickly.

Former Empire State Salsie begged the League of Nations to stop the large nations from scooping up the territory of the small weak ones when he was having his troubles. But, of course, England and France were not being molested so they sat back in safety and told Mussolini "sick'em dog, go get em" and they did. It was too bad, but who cared, except Anthony Eden, and he lost his job.

But when Mussolini got quiet—he had to fight for his territory—Hitler started and he has had the big powers jumping from side to side since. He has bluffed them out of everything he has demanded without a fight, and he is still going strong.

And he will continue until he is stopped with guns and ammunitions. Talk just won't do the job. And say what will or may the democracies of Europe must make up their minds now as well as later.

OTTUMWA LAD WRITES OF NAVY EXPERIENCES

"The chances for advancement of the Negroes in the navy, in my estimation, are very small—that is at the present time," wrote Walter E. Robinson of Ottumwa, Ia., 18-year-old relative of Atty. S. Joe Brown, in a recent letter from the U. S. S. Idaho, Long Beach, Cal.
 "A Negro, as an officer would be under the obligation to give orders to the white personnel and that is very much resented by the said personnel," he continued.
 In another part of the letter this lad tells of the various ports he has visited during his navy career.
 "We visited the tropics," in the months of January, February and March. The most interesting place to be going through the locks in the canal at Panama.
 "At first I was sure the ship was going to rub the sides of the canal but there was plenty of space."
 "I visited several little shops in Panama, and was very surprised to see people making suitcases and hand bags of leather by hand. Of course, the climate is very warm there and the people dress in the late styles of clothing as we do."
 "My European cruise included France, Denmark and England. I liked England the best because the speech is more like ours than the other countries. The one thing I enjoyed most while there was the change of guard at the Buckingham Palace in London, at which the King and Queen appeared."
 "Then about four years ago I had a close shave when some slate fell down. After everything was over I was alright. I had forgotten about it," he laughed.

Several years ago, the boxing game receded to a low ebb because the misconduct of several of the top-notchers had shaken the confidence of the public. For the past five or six years a decided change has come about because we have had a clean bunch of boxers.

It is highly important that referees, judges and commissions be fair and impartial for when the public begins to question their decision and can point to instances to back up their complaints, the boxing game will once more become corrupt. Health Hints

By Dr. C. R. Bradford

TEETH

Our first teeth begin to come through the gums when we are about six months old. There are twenty teeth in the first set and the last of them generally appear by the end of the second year. These teeth begin to loosen and fall out when a child is about six years old, but some remain until he is twelve or older. There are thirty-two of these permanent teeth.

Germs breed in particles of food left between the teeth and produce chemicals that act on the enamel and gradually destroy it down to the nerves, this is known as dental cavities.

When the germs infect the tissue surrounding the roots, and finally the gums this is called pyorrhea. The lack of proper food for a baby may be the underlying cause of tooth decay. Neglect of teeth produces many bad effects. Remember that every child needs every tooth every day. Germs which cause decay of teeth may get into the circulation any pass to other parts of the body, where they set up serious diseases, such as rheumatism and heart disease.

In order that children and adults might have strong teeth, it is essential that the food we eat contain an ample supply of bone building salts of lime found in milk, eggs, whole-wheat bread, oatmeal, and nearly all vegetables. These salts are especially abundant in milk and leafy vegetables. It is well to have the teeth examined by a good dentist at least twice a year.

NET EXHIBITIONS A SUCCESS

We had a lot of fun at Good Park last Sunday and put on a nice show before the biggest group of local Negroes ever to see a tennis match. A conservative estimate would be about two hundred Negroes and about fifty white people who attended the matches and saw the best white players in the state go through their paces against us.

We didn't kid ourselves one minute we knew our chances of doing anything except being a fair for the boys were very slim and we all did about as we expected to. Bill Ashby, one of the meet directors, had a busy day. He got up early, rolled the court, marked them, helped set up things and then jumped on Harris Coggeshall, the best in the state. Without doing anything except sleeping, Bill would have had trouble. Coggeshall, once thirteenth ranked nationally, found a 7 drives and serves way off, but called upon the experience of eighteen years of top flight and simply stuck the ball around where Bill wanted it was an exhibition of tennis trickery and skill by a real player and the crowd enjoyed it. Paul Williams took on Harry Dinn, state boy's champion and had a lot of trouble with the little boy who plays a lot of tennis and passed Paul right handily. Frank Brady and Berry Becker.

man, state champs in other years and long ranking figures in this section of the country, took on Paul Woods, and your writer. We had trouble keeping the ball in the court, and Frank and Berry were in a playful mood and tried out all of their trick shots, giving the crowd some real fun and some tennis. Paul later returned to the court with Miss Marie Ross, our newly crowned women's singles champ, against Ted Martin and Edith Woodward. Ted and Edith turned in a mild upset by using Paul and Marie in a one set encounter. It was a real show and we were glad to have contributed to its success.

The present season is all but being spoiled by a silly feud between two of our leading tennis players. The laughable thing about it all is that neither of them is capable of being a ball boy for a first class player. It would seem that the boys in question could spend the time they fued in sharpening up their games to where they can make a respectable showing against real competition. If they do this, they won't have time to fued.

Negroes May Win All Titles

Negroes have a swell chance to make an almost clean sweep in the state amateur boxing meet now in progress we have men eligible for next week's finals and semi finals in five classes. Don Turner is our heavyweight and may come through. Archie Greenlee pulled a surprise when he got the nod over R. C. Nova in the lightweight weight division Nova had previously beaten Greenlee in a Crocker "Y" card and the lanky Iowa student was out to get even. Ozzie Lewis has a chance to clean up the welterweight division and Eddie Robinson may do the same among the flyweights.

Entrenous

This is station "J-I-V-E"—there goes the gong—out of the corners comes "Coo-Coo McCoy" and "Shap Happy Jest"—they meet in the center of the ring and strike a blow—BONG!!!—and your correct Central Standard Time is 1-2-3-and one-half—your out—Coo-Coo-Coo-Coo!

The cooling and delightful sensations in the Paramount Theatre balcony drew all of the "Copper Socialities" of D. M. on Sunday eve. . . . Everyone was there with and without their main features. . . . If you meet Chas. F. and Tommy A., and they act a little "touched in the head," think nothing of it. . . . That's the affect of their last week-end visit in Seventh Heaven. . . . The Angels have gone back to first heaven. . . . Noted—Dorothy Avant looking very sharp and perk in green and black outfit Sunday. . . . Allen A. met with a little tough luck as he came out of his office on 4th and Locust, Saturday eve. . . . He was confronted with his friend Mike the bartender. . . . He owns a small business next door. . . . so I heard—

"He jumps into the lecture man and starts to fight

Theses big fat man that leaves next door!"

Listen this evening over this station for a blow by blow description of this round by Allen A. in person. . . . and with this ring I now pronounce you husband and wife. . . . and then the bride and groom made their getaway and no one knew where to find them. . . . the telephone rang and door-bells sang. . . . but no bride and groom they find. . . . so. . . . now they're at home and all of you know just where to find them. . . . Now that Bill P. is back for awhile, I wonder who will win. M. S. or M. W. . . . They tell me the fight is on. . . . Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!—It's twenty years old, but it's good reading material today. . . . Imagine spending $96.00 on two long distance calls to your girl. . . . Guess Who? . . . None other than our advertising manager. . . . George McDavis. . . . In those younger days. . . . Now I think we have covered the news very thoroughly—so—listen in next week at this same time.

FASHIONETTE

Red Highlights the Autumn Fashion Picture

(By Hazel L. Griggs for ANP)

Red, a real, honest-to-goodness fire engine red, is burning up the autumn fashion picture. Bright and blazing, it is being featured in early fall coats and suits as well as in dresses, and is extremely attractive. Combined with black or worn with black accessories, these bright, dashing creations are taking top honors in all the fashion showings.

A particularly smart number, rating lots of applause in one of the recent fashion reviews, was a slim-fitting, red wool coat made in refer style with slightly flared skirt, and double rows of buttons parading down the front. The perky beret worn with this suit was of black beaver, the kind you wore to Sunday school as a little girl, and a red quill shot out jauntily from the underside. The bag, gloves and shoes were of black suede.

A suit shown, also, used the popular red and black combination. The brief, nipped-in, red wool crepe jacket, topped a black skirt of the same material, and the soft collar of the jacket was of curly, black lamb. Still another outfit, a decidedly debauche type frock of deep, rich black had a splash of color in the long-sleeved bolera of bright red piped with curly black-lamb.

F. L. C.—Will we be able to send our 6 children back to school this term?

Ans: This arrangement could be made. . . . it is very important that you arrange to have these children in school regardless of the sacrifice. Advertise for some reliable person to come and stay in the home and help with the farm work so your children can get their education.

L. J.—I am a widow of six months. Now my husband's son is suing me for his share in this little home that my children and I occupy and I don't know what to do?

Ans: After all, he does have a share in what his father left, doesn't he? You had better place your case into the hands of a lawyer, but I do think that he is entitled to something. . . . it would be better to compromise.

M. E. L.—I am in love with a boy who has been neglecting me lately but he still says he loves me. Does he?

Ans: He has you fooled. . . . he doesn't love you. If he were in love with you, your parents couldn't get him to leave your home. You had better drop out of love.

S. M. S.—Is it alright for me to take the trip I am planning or remain at home?

Ans: The trip wouldn't be so very enjoyable without your husband. Why don't you wait until Christmas and arrange for him too to get away for a few days.

D. S.—I married for love but now I am disgusted with love. My husband don't like to work and if it hadn't been for my mother, I don't know what I would have done. Tell me what to do?

Ans: Give him a swift kick out your mother's home and make him stay out. . . . if he doesn't let you alone, then you will have to get a peace-warrant. Go to work and stop moping on your mother, for you are just as able as she to support yourself.

F. C.—Are the doctors telling the truth? I am almost scared to death. Ans: They are telling you the truth, but they thought you were brave enough to stand it. or they wouldn't have been so frank. You have an even chance to recover. . . . but you must do what they tell you. Their reason for letting you know your condition was to make you obey orders, which you haven't been doing.

TO OPEN CLASSES IN CATHOLIC DOCTRINE
On Monday evening, September 4, instructions in the doctrines of the Catholic religion will begin at the hall of St. Peter's church for the colored people at 7 o'clock. The object of these instructions is to give the colored people a chance to find out for themselves about the teachings of the Catholic church, Father Murphy announced. Arrangements will be made for classes on other evenings during the week. "I don't want the people to think that they have to be Catholics to attend these classes. You, no doubt, hear many things about the church which are wrong. I want to give the colored people a chance to find out the truth for themselves," Father Murphy commented.

Women at St. Paul Win

The women of the St. Paul A. M. E. church walked away with honors on last Sunday in the annual women's day observation by raising $100.43 and defeating the men who held their special effort the week previous with a report of $87.25.

For the special occasion the chairman of the decorating committee, Mrs. Anna Ringo, received many congratulations on the efforts of her committee who spared no pains in making the auditorium and rostrum a beautiful picture for the occasion.

Late summer flowers in all their bright colors lent a picturesque setting for the beautiful voices of the large women's chorus sang during the three services of the day, under the direction of Mrs. Jobnness Kelso.
Words of wisdom flowed from the tongues of Mrs. Myrtle Cranshaw, whose subject was "Eternal Life" at the morning hour; Mrs. Helen D.
