By Allen Ashby, Sports Editor
Des Moines got its first glimpse title and about one thousand Negroes were in the crowd that watched Henry Armstrong, welterweight king, pound Al Manfredo of Fresno, California into the vesin in 1:35 of the fourth round.

Everyone present saw a convincing demonstration of why Hurricane Hank is the only man ever to hold three world titles at once. Manfredo is a fair boxer and not slow, but he couldn't keep the constantly boring in title holder away from him. He hit Armstrong several times, good hard punches that connected solidly, but they didn't halt the forward march of Hammering Hank. After the first round Henry opened up and late in the second round he began throwing the cyclone of gloves. He stepped up the pace in the third and, but for the bell, would have added it then. Des Moines fight fans have never seen anything like the rain of gloves that descended on the helpless Manfredo. Left, right, left, right, in every conceivable manner and with every known punch in the book, Armstrong battered the Fresno California boy around the ring. With so many punches, it is no small wonder that a few of them landed in foul territory. Manfredo was hit so often as he lay on the ropes that he couldn't fall down. He just hung there like a wretched dummy battered from side to side until referee Alex Fidler stepped in and stopped the slaughter.

Armstrong weighted 141 with half his clothes including his shoes on and Manfredo weighed 146½ in his birthday clothes.

Negroes in the other bouts had rough sailing. Johnny Whitters, our latest addition to the crop of local heavies, outfought a tough Kansas City Negro, Charlie Neaves, a six round bout. The fans didn't like it, but this Neaves guy has fought the best of them and never looked bad. Ring-wise, durable, and parking a wallop of his own, Neaves gave Whitters a busy session, but the latter consistently beat his man to the punch.

Big Boy Gray, who looked to us more like a Kansas City Amateur boxer, just didn't have it in his fight with Lee Savoldi and was bopped on the chin with left hooks for the count in the second round.

Al Powell, obviously out of condition, dropped a four round opener to a tough Ottumwa white boy.

Council Asked To Take Action; Rejects Probe

Funeral rites for Dr. Robert H. London, who was fatally wounded in a gun battle with local police officers, were held Friday afternoon, October 6, from the St. Paul A. M. E. church with the Rev. H. C. Boyd officiating.

A large crowd attended the services, and many of them participated in the funeral procession to Glendale cemetery where the body was interred. The Estes Funeral directors had charge.

Order Autopsy

Prior to the funeral services an autopsy, at the request of the family, was made at Broadlawn General hospital by Dr. D. W. Coughlan, deputy county coroner. Dr. J. Alvin Jefferson assisted.

According to Dr. Coughlan, hemorrhage resulted from bullet wounds and caused Dr. London's death.

In a statement to the Bystander, Dr. Jefferson commented that the examination also revealed severe injuries of skull.

Ask Investigation

A request for an investigation of charges that Dr. London was beaten by police after the gun battle Oct. 3 in which he was fatally wounded, was made on Monday, Oct. 9, by Atty. Charles P. Howard to the city council, in a letter.

The Attorney wrote in the letter to the council, "We are authoritatively advised that Dr. London had three big gashes on his head and one on his forehead . . . these blows . . . were inflicted by the officers after he was disarmed and shot down."

The letter asked the council to order an investigation to be made by persons outside the police department and that the investigators include at least one Negro.

After a story session the city council decided it would take no action.

Another call was paid to the council members on Tuesday.

Dr. Carver Wins Noted 1939 Award

New York, N. Y.—George Washington Carver, celebrated Negro agricultural chemist, is one of the noted Americans, named to receive the Roosevelt medals for 1939.

Frank R. McCoy, soldier and diplomat, and Carl Sandburg, biographer and poet, are the others.

The awards, established by the Roosevelt Memorial association in 1923, are given annually in certain fields associated with Theodore Roosevelt's career.

James R. Garfield, association president, said Dr. Carver was awarded the medal for distinguished service in the field of science; General McCoy for work "in the administration of public office" and in behalf of the national defense; and Sandburg for his work as the biographer of Abraham Lincoln.

The medals will be presented here Oct. 27 at a banquet at Roosevelt House, the former president's birthplace.

Dr. Carver, who in boyhood slavery was exchanged for a race horse, worked his way through both Simpson college at Indianola, Ia., and Iowa State college at Ames, Ia.

When he was graduated from Iowa State in 1894, he became one of the nation's few Negroes holding a degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. In 1896 he received the degree of master of science and was appointed to the Iowa State faculty.

That same year he left Iowa to become director of agriculture at Tuskegee Institute, the famous Negro college founded fifteen years earlier by Booker T. Washington.

In the years that followed, Dr. Carver developed face powders, paints and pigments from Alabama clays; from the peanut he extracted milk, cream, condiments, coffee, paper and plastics; and from the sweet potato he developed starches, tapioca, syrup and breakfast foods.

From cotton, he made paving blocks, paper, rugs and insulating board.

When in Des Moines in 1932, he declared he took no credit for his work; he attributes it all to divine revelation. "I put it in God's hands and said I wanted to find out about the peanut," he said.

In 1916, Dr. Carver received the unprecedented honor of being made a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, of London, England; and in 1928 he received the degree of doctor of science from Simpson college.

LAW SCHOOL CLOSSES AFTER ONE-STUDENT ENROLLS

According to police information, Guy Hughes, an uncle of Mrs. Small's, who gave his address as 722 S. E. Astor street, said he shot Robinson.

Hughes told police he fired through a crack in the door, with the intention hitting him. He said Robinson had been molesting Mrs. Small and had tried to break into the house just before the shooting.

Mrs. Small and Hughes were released by Jack Brophy, chief of detectives, after Robinson said he had not made a decision concerning charges. His condition was reported "better" at the hospital this week.

Indictment To Stand

MRS. WILLIAMS IS DENIED A DISMISSAL

A motion for the dismissal of the indictment charging Mrs. Mary Williams with murder was overruled Friday, October 6, by District Judge Loy Ladd.

Mrs. Williams was indicted for the shotgun slaying of Charles Helm, at her home, 1544 Scott avenue, on Tuesday night, August 8. She said at that time that he threatened her life with a paring knife during a quarrel.

Helm, 31, was a boarded at her home.

Ed. S. Thayer, attorney, asked dismissal of the indictment on grounds that the grand jury panel, from which the grand jury was selected, was unconstitutionally drawn. This was so, he maintained, because discrimination allegedly was shown in drawing only three Negroes among the 150 panel members.

Mrs. Bernice Richmond, 1021 17th St. visited friends at Sac City, Iowa, last week.

W. H. BAILEY IS STATE HOUSE EMPLOYEE

William H. Bailey Jr. of Ottumwa recently moved to this city to take the position as one of the assistant chemists at the State House.

Mr. Bailey is a graduate of Ottumwa High, and Parsons College of Fairfield, receiving his B. S. degree there in June, 1939.

"I was tickled to death when I received my notification. First I was glad to get the position and second, it was an opportunity to live in Des Moines," Mr. Bailey told a Bystander representative. "For the past three of four years I have been coming to Des Moines on short visits and I like the population."

"There are four other assistant chemists under E. L. Redfur who is head chemist, and each one is given a different duty," the young chemist said. "Last week, my duty was ana-

ARMSTRONG IN DES MOINES

Des Moines sport fans were treated by an unusual feature Monday night when Henry Armstrong and Al Manfredo fought a rather one-sided bout at the Coliseum. This was Henry's first appearance in Iowa, and those who watched the bout could only say "He is a small but efficient piece of fighting machinery."

Somehow, we are just not good sports in Iowa, for a man with the reputation of this fighter of international fame should have drawn a packed house, but that was not this case. Anyway, the time may come when we shall step-up in sport inclinations and shall encourage fine exhibitions like this chap put on.

And while passing, it might be well to remind Bystander readers that Iowa has a law expressly forbidding prizefights, and yet, they are promoted weekly here in Des Moines. It is just one of those silly laws that some impractical influence has kept us from repealing.

FEAR OBLITERATES COLOR BAR

It does not make sense to allow such a law to remain on the statute books. In fact, its mere existence and a wink at its violation by public officials constitute an unwholesome example.

When the legislature meets again, the law ought to be repealed. And maybe more people will appreciate good sportmanship, which people in most states enjoy, but which we violate the law to promote.

It happens all too often that it requires great calamities to force us to do the thing which in the beginning we know is fair and just.

For years, Negro editors and leaders in other movements of racial betterment have called upon Congress and the Presidents to increase Negro participation in our national defense program by abolishing the discriminatory practice of forcing some of our regular army Negro soldiers into service battalions excluding them from some departments, restricting Navy men to menial duties only and refusing to provide adequate training for Negro units during peace time.

All of these demands have fallen on deaf ears with the result that nothing tangible came to pass until Hitler started his conquest in earnest.

Now Negroes are being offered most everything they demanded years ago.

And, of course, they are going to take it because they are American citizens demanding and willing to take part in every activity any other citizens do and to fulfill those obligations that goes along with these privileges.

Once these fine things are the job is not complete we must be

Health Hints

By Dr. C. R. Bradford

ACUTE BRONCHITIS

This is an acute inflammation of the air passages, such as trachea and bronchi. It is as a rule fairly harmless in adults if treated early and not allowed to become chronic.

In older people the conditions tend to extend downward toward the base of both lungs causing a chronic bronchitis. It is of importance to keep in mind that tuberculosis often begins like bronchitis and may resemble an attack of bronchitis for a while.

Acute bronchitis is especially prevalent in the changeable weather encountered in the spring and late autumn.

Special care should be used to avoid chilly and contracting colds. Individuals who are habitually closely confined or who commonly visit crowded places of amusements, or use public conveyances are especially prone to colds. On the other hand those who live an outdoor life and are subject to all sorts of weather are comparatively free from these disorders.

Bronchitis begins with a cold, which as it extends downward successively causes some irritation of the pharynx, at times hoarseness, and finally symptoms indicating involvement of the trachea and bronchial mucous membranes giving a sense of oppression in the chest, soreness and cough.

If the usual home remedies fail to show early improvement the patient should immediately see a physician. Do not forget that bronchitis frequently leads to pneumonia.

Negroes Steal Show At Iowa

As Iowa and Indiana put on their movie thriller last Saturday with the Hawkeyes winning an unbelievable score of 32 to 29, two Negroes had everyone talking about them. Big Jim Walker at tackle was one of the mainstays in Iowa line. A sixty minute ball player in one of football's toughest positions, tackle, who gives promise of becoming a Hawkeye immortal before his three years of play are over. There is nothing more we can say in praise of this young Gary Indiana gaint that has not already been said by daily papers so you can see how he rates.

Indiana's Archie Harris was on the receiving end of the greatest passing combination Iowa field ever saw as he snugged pass after pass from a lad named Hersberger to all, but ruin Iowa's plans. Hams was tough on defense and when he left the game in the last quarter, he received an ovation worthy of an Iowa captain.

Fred Smith, an Iowa end, played no small part in his team's win, and Martin was in for awhile at tackle for Indiana.

swamp Missouri in their opener Saturday, but Jimmy Smith of Northwestern ran into grief as Oklahoma tamed the Wildcats. Remarkable thing, but all of the Big Ten Negroes this year are big. Walker at Iowa 202; Harris of Indiana 207, and Anderson of Ohio State 205. Smith of Northwestern pulls a mere 195.

Willard Cushingberry got into Drakes battle against Grinnell last Friday and didn't do anything wrong. Maybe he will see a lot more action yet.

White Stars For North

North High evidently got tired of losing and went out after Creston in a big way Saturday. Bob White who seems to have learned to follow his interference, was the big gun as he passed for one marker and ran for two more. White's passing and running earned him a place on the weekly honor roll of the daily Tribune. Claude Elliston's end play picked up quite a bit, and he turned in a nice performance.

Clyde Lucas was a starter against Oskaloosa last week as East High turned back the invaders 19 to 7. Lucas in our estimation is the best defensive end in the city, and we believe he will prove it before the boys begin picking all city teams. Ralph Johnson was in a bit at a half and looked good.

The overall Brigade went out and finished a little further behind the Lincoln Heights A. C. as the Rockets got wet and went under 26 to 6. Ike Miller was the chief noise, and we do mean noise, for the Brigade. Tommy Avant scored the six for the overall boys and lost his pants doing it, thereby earning the title of "no

"What are you doing, my little maid?"
"I'm talking to Daddy, sir," she said.

Already she's learning that telephone calls bring happiness. Not so many years and other fellows besides Daddy will be calling her—the telephone is going to play a big part in bringing good times and friends.

Later, she will learn other things that Mother knows now—that the telephone saves time and energy—that it's a great comfort to know you can call the doctor or anyone else you need right away—that the telephone keeps you in touch with friends and relatives—that it is one of the most convenient and helpful things money can buy and yet it costs very little.

HENRY ARMSTRONG GROUP GETS ABOUT CITY AND MEETS FOLK

Members of the Henry Armstrong fight group touring the country, headed for the West coast, left Des Moines Tuesday morning after a week's stay here.

"We had a wonderful time," the secretary said voicing the sentiment of the entire group, and then he added "after we got started."

The group had been here nearly a whole week before the members of the party got into circulation. "This is the first town we have been to that someone did not meet us or plan something for us to do," the men agreed.

"We had a lovely place to stay at the hotel" and Henry Armstrong cut in to emphasize that "Mrs. Esters really can cook good food."

"But after we left the gymnasium each evening there was nothing to do but go back to the hotel," they all agreed again.

Then all of a sudden they got invited out and the five men began to get acquainted.

They were guests Thursday at a sports dinner given by Atty. Charles P. Howard at his home and later attended a theatre.

Friday the group attended the Drake-Grinnell football game, accompanied by Bill and Allen Ashby. Armstrong, the welterweight boxing

CANNING

By the Sampler
Something snappy for the nippy fall days when housewives will be searching their recipe books and files for something to pep up that special dinner or put away for the holiday season is Brandy Peaches.

Don't complete your canning season until you have put some in your fruit cellars, pantries or hideouts. The recipe is offered by Mrs. Clara Johnson, popular with Des Moines housewives, who hear her each year at the Bystander's annual cooking school.

Mrs. Johnson put up recently four gallons of this delicious "Peach Brandy" and gives you the recipe. Skin one peck of peaches—preferably clingstones.

One-half their weight in sugar
One-quarter of brandy (best you can buy)

Put alternate layers of peaches and sugar in a stone jar and pour over the brandy. (The brandy she used was the very best and four years old at that.) Use jars large enough to allow six inches from the top for fermenting. Cover closely with a plate; put clean brick over plate; then cover again with a clean piece of cotton batting over the top to catch fruit bugs. Tie a tea towel over that and place jar in a cool place. Watch closely and let set for three weeks before using. It will keep indefinitely.

H. J.—Dear Sir, I take the paper just for your column. I was married and left my husband. Met up with a man I loved and he had to leave. Well he didn't return and I started with his cousin. Now after nine years he is back and it is breaking our hearts because we can't be together, as he married a woman he hates while away. Now must we leave the two we are with and marry as people should or must we kill ourselves together then no body could separate us?

Ans: I actually believe you are desperate. Yours is a mixed up affair and there is no need to tell you to forget one another. If you both feel that you can't go on as you are doing now, then leave your present mates and live separately for six months or more. Then if you still feel that you can't do without one another, you would have had time to get your divorces and try your luck together.

D. D.—Will I have to go to work if I marry this boy that I am going with now?
Ans: You certainly would have to work . . . do HOUSEWORK as well as get outside employment for a good portion of the time. You aren't ready to marry yet, so give up the idea.

C. H.—Will I learn to pick the guitar and be popular in the field of guitar music?
Ans: You already have a good start toward this end . . . keep up your hours of practicing and you will be real good in a couple of years.

I. M.—I am about to become a mother. The boy promised to marry me but he suddenly changed his mind and I wish to know what I should do?
Ans: Have a member of your family talk with this boy and see if they can't persuade him to give the child a name. If he refuses, then you will have to "handle the situation legally."

W. M.—I have lost my regular job and I have been given a job as a salesman and I wish to know could I be successful in this field. What is your price for a private reading.
Ans: This opportunity that has just been presented to you will be the means of your getting on your feet again. Work hard and long hours too if necessary for you have the personality of a salesman. Send a quarter for my New Astrology Reading if you like. Also your full name, birthdate, and correct address with your three questions for my free opinion.

C. C.—Why did my husband leave me so suddenly on a certain Sunday evening recently?
Ans: He had a job washing down a kitchen wall, and it had to be done on Sunday or not at all. He wasn't pulling a fast joke on you this particular time.

She's pretty as a picture, but
No one can tolerate halitosis (bad breath). It can ruin almost any girl's popularity . . . her closest friendships. . . .
Food fermentation in the mouth is said by some authorities to be a major cause of halitosis. And the insidious thing about this offensive condition is that anyone may have it and never realize it. Friends know, of course . . . only too well. But, unfortunately, it is such a delicate subject they won't tell.
So don't gamble with your social opportunities and your happiness by taking unnecessary chances. It is so simple to take precautions by gargling with pleasant-tasting Listerine Antiseptic - mouth fermentation is quickly checked and its odors are overcome.
Get the Listerine Antiseptic habit. Use it . . . morning and night, and before all important engagements. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Missouri.
