government and the welfare of the common people.
An example of his fairness is reflected by the fact that among his appointments during his term of office as safety commissioner, there were two Negroes appointees.

J. L. McGuire and Ben Rich, now respected members of the detective bureau; of thirty appointments to the garbage department during his administration about six went to Negroes.

It is his desire that all people be offered the enjoyment of decent homes in which to live. This, he believes, can be facilitated by low cost housing program.

A man with this record and such a program should be met with public acclaim, and his candidacy should meet with public approval.

Gray Ensemble Topped With Yellow Hat and Gloves Is Enticing

FASHIONETTE
(By Hazel L. Griggs for the Associated Negro Press)

Gray, gray, gray is one of the persistent fashion color themes for spring—and understandably so, this season's offerings being what they are, soft in tone yet having an air of gaiety. Through the wide range of shades from a smooth pearl to a new shade called dusk, not a dismal tone may be found, but rather gray, 1940-style, has taken on a cheerful air without sacrificing any of its distinction. In dresses, suits and coats, it is delightful and flattering to wear, and an excellent background for one's spring wardrobe.

The smartest of all accents with gray is Yippee yellow—the bright, sunshiny shade described last week. A gray ensemble topped by a yellow hat is most enticing, and a gray coat with a yellow plaid ascot peeping out at the neck is unforgettably impressive. Of course, a buttercup yellow blouse worn with a gray suit, and matching yellow gloves is a picture which speaks for itself.

Gray-yellow-brown forms a new winning trio of colors—a combination that can't go wrong, and is as spiritedly springtime as the first crocus. For example; a standout of a gray coat with the new trench pocket; yellow and brown plaid ascot; a yellow felt hat with bright feather, brown gloves, shoes and bag. Gray may be highlighted by several other new spring shades, but this ensembling of colors promises to hold the fashion spotlight.

Dandelion Streaks
In the dress picture, there are many delightful patterns in materials and dresses already made up. Gray, striped with dandelion streaks of color, makes a most attractive dress for wear right now or later in the spring, and stripes slant across the fashion horizon most importantly this season. Even classic polka dots are marshaled into rows for a striped effect. Gray, sprinkled with white stars or geometric whirlings of color, also has decided dash.

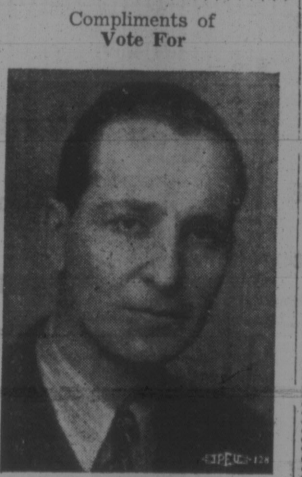

Stripes Turn Up
Stripes turn up again and again in accessory collections. Patriotic combines of red, white and blue are found in bags, scarves, color and cuff sets, Roman stripes also are popular to lend a festive air. A Roman striped collar and cuff duo adds a bit of piquant charm to a black or navy dress.

Blue-Violet
An accessory tone is that of Blue-Violet. It is found in handbags, gloves, belts, jewelry and handkerchiefs, the color of Parma violets—lovely with gray or navy.

BLACKBERRY STAINS WORRY AUDIENCE
The audience at the Des Moines Iowa Bystander Cooking School was scandalized yesterday evening when Miss Clara Johnson held up a perfectly good table napkin which had been deliberately stained with blackberry juice. But she smilingly assured them that within a few minutes with the aid of CLOROX the stain would entirely disappear—and it did!

"You need not worry about such stains as fruit, flower, grass, beverage, blood and many ink, dye and medicine stains, when they get on your white and color-fast linens," Miss Johnson said "for in CLOROX you have a wonderful aid. And what a pleasure it is to feel free to use your fine linens with the assurance that such stains will not hurt them permanently—that you have a simple remedy on your laundry shelf for such accidents, I always think it is too bad when women 'save' their linens. The time to enjoy them is now—and the safeguard to keep on hand is CLOROX."

ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL FEATURES --- RECIPES

When Men Stir About in the Kitchen Anything Might Happen

Usually when men get busy in the kitchen—stirring up some of their favorite dishes—anything might result—from scorched water to “barbecued” dishcloths. But—not in the case of these men who though busy find time to mix up a favorite recipe every now and then.

Take a look at what John M. Estes, undertaker, likes to cook when he has some spare time and a good appetite—Barbecued Ribs.

Barbecue

Get about seven pounds of ribs for six people who like to eat. Make a sauce using one-fourth pound of butter, melted in one pint of vinegar and seasoned with cayenne pepper to taste. To take the vinegar taste away and put a little sweetening in the ribs, add two tablespoons of sugar. Trim the ribs down and take skirts off and salt and pepper them. Put the ribs on an open pit or in oven and brown, turning over on each side. Swab the ribs with sauce every time they are turned to keep them moist. Top with a good barbecue sauce after the ribs are done. This eats good with beer. Sometimes when I am feeling real good I forget the bread.”

“Loose” Biscuit

Mansen James is offering his favorite “loose biscuit” in comparison with what might be called the “tight biscuit” of any new bride. It goes like this: take 2 cups flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, 1 cup milk, 2 tsp. lard. “I never use anything but pure lard,” he says. Sift flour, salt and baking powder and mix in the shortening. Add your liquid; roll and cut. “Bake to a delicious Mississippi brown.”

Fried Potatoes

The Rev. A. Ross Brent likes to get into his kitchen when he has an appetite for his favorite fried potatoes. “He says slice the potatoes round—American style. Of course I put them in the frying pan and fry slowly. When about two thirds done, add a small amount of water. Add a speck of sugar with the top on the pan until they are done. Remove top and brown.”

Combination Salad

The Rev. H. C. Boyd likes “well-

prepared” food which his wife is very capable of fixing. At times he has a yen for his favorite combination salad which no one can put together like himself. This is his method, starting with—the French dressing: Mix olive oil, vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and paprika. Serve on lettuce with hard boiled egg, chopped, and diced celery. Top with a slice of tomato for combination salad. Add a dash of onion—if you prefer.

Tea and Cereal

Black tea and cream of wheat are two things about which S. Joe Brown is very particular. No one can prepare them to suit the veteran attorney’s taste—and he is very good at preparing nothing else but them—when it comes to cooking. His tea recipe is simple: “I just put in about a teaspoon full of tea and pour hot water on it; then steep about five or ten minutes.”

“I usually fix my own cream of wheat every morning. Just put on water and let it boil and add a little salt. I don’t measure the cream of wheat. I stir it in until it thickens; then, I add a spoon full of butter. It is ready to serve with cream and sugar.”

Devil’s Cake

A bit more advanced in the art of cookery is Dr. E. T. Scales who tries his hands—every once in a while—at making his favorite “Devil’s Cake.” His recipe is: 2 cups sifted flour, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup thick sour cream of buttermilk, 2 eggs, 2 tsp. cocoa, ½ cup boiling water, 1 level tsp. of soda. Stir in water, cocoa, while hot. Add this to cream and sugar and eggs. Add sifted flour. Bake slowly from 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven at 306F degrees.

Beans and Ham

“The best thing I like to cook is beans and ham,” smiled William Winston, 1341 E. 19th street. “well—first I let my meat cook while the beans are soaking. After about an hour I put the beans in with the meat and let them cook for a couple of hours—to get in the way I like them.”

SWEET POTATO DELICIOUS

(By Mrs. Charlotte Williams)
2 cups of sweet potatoes sliced
1 cup of sliced apple
1 cup walnut meat
1 cup of sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ cup butter
Boil sweet potatoes (three medium or two large ones); remove skins and slice crosswise and measure. Pare and core tart apples (two); slice and measure. Break walnut meats up into coarse pieces. Arrange layers of potatoes, apples and nuts in a well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with sugar and salt and hot with butter. Bake one hour in 375F oven.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

(By Mrs. C. R. Bradford)
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
2 cups fine bread crumbs
1 tsp. butter
1 lemon flavoring
1 qt. strawberries
Cream butter and sugar. Beat in whipped yolks then creamed in milk and lastly the seasoning. Fill a pudding dish two-thirds full and bake until custard is set. Draw pan to mouth. Arrange layers with strawberries rolled in sugar. Make meringue with whipped egg whites and half cup of sugar. Bake until brown about 12 minutes. Cool and serve with cream.

SPICED PRUNE CAKE

(By Mrs. Julia Proctor)
½ cup shortening
½ cup salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. allspice
1 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. of nutmeg
1 cup sugar
2 eggs unbeaten
1 tsp. of soda
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup prune juice
1 cup cooked prunes (finely cut)
Method: Combine shortening, salt and spices, add sugar gradually. Cream until light and fluffy add eggs—one at a time. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Add soda to flour and sift together three times. Add small amount of flour to the creamed mixture, alternating with prune juice. Beat thoroughly and fold in finely cut prunes. Put in shallow cake pan. Bake 55 minutes in moderate oven.

While warm add cake frosting: two cups of powdered sugar, juice of one orange and one tablespoon of melted butter. Spread over cake while warm.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(By Dorothy Preston)
4 tbsp. butter
4 tbsp. flour
1½ cup milk
1 can mushrooms (small)
2 cups diced chicken
Method: Place in a frying pan four tablespoons of butter, add small can of drained mushrooms. Let simmer few minutes. Blend in flour and cook two minutes. Slowly add rich milk and cook, stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add chopped parsley or pimentos. Stir in diced chicken; heat gently and serve in pattie shells or on hot buttered toast or biscuits.

SOUTHERN DRESSING

(Mrs. Salemma Morris)
2 cups white bread crumbs
1 cup corn bread crumbs
½ tsp. sage—ground with salt and pepper to taste.
onions
¾ cup butter drippings
½ cup water
Brown onions. Mix with crumbs the seasoning plus the fat and the water. When stuffing a fowl do not pack the mixture in the fowl.

CHILI

(Mrs. Margaret Joseph)
2 lbs. medium ground beef
¾ lb. suet
1 large onion (chopped)
1 sprig parsley
1 can tomatoes
3 tbsp. chili powder
½ tsp. salt
Dash of red pepper
½ garlic bean
2 qt. water
2 heps. flour
1 can large chili beans
Directions: chop garlic, onion and parsley together. Fry meat until crisp; add flour and brown. Add garlic plus onion plus parsley plus the meat and the beans. Cook about an hour slowly. Add chili powder, tomatoes and salt and pepper. Cook an hour and a half longer for this particular recipe.—Mrs. Joseph advised. Serves 7.

CREAMED TUNA SUPREME
(By Mrs. Lillian Scales)
(Serves 16)
1 oz. noodles
4 cans of sauce
1½ pkg. potato chips
8 eggs hard boiled
2 cups white sauce
Cook noodles and blanch them. Make thin white sauce. Add diced hard boiled eggs. Cream sauce and add tuna fish. Roll potato chips with rolling pin. Sprinkle chips over fish mixture in baking pan. Bake until brown in hot oven.

Cooking Expert Is Enthused Over Clorox Value

SURVEY SHOWS HOME HYGIENE ON THE INCREASE

Cooking School Expert Enthuses over Hygienic

Value of CLOROX
“According to a recent survey, seventy-five per cent of the housewives interviewed stated that the disinfecting qualities of CLOROX as well as its bleaching, stain-removing and deodorizing qualities are of considerable importance to them,” said Miss Clara Johnson before going onto the platform at the Iowa Bystander cooking school.

“And right now,” Miss Johnson continued, “I want to say a word about this matter of cleansing plus disinfecting—home hygiene as the scientists call it. According to science microscopic examination reveals that countless germs thrive in many homes which appear ‘spotlessly clean.’ But experiments have shown that cleansing, followed by a CLOROX rinse in accordance with directions, disinfects dishes, glassware, refrigerators, drainboards, sinks, bathtubs, toilet bowls, sickroom equipment and soiled cottons and linens. Why take chances, when it is so easy and economical to use CLOROX and give one’s home the health protection it deserves. “I am delighted that so many women are concerning themselves with home hygiene,” said Miss Johnson. With such a product as CLOROX so easily available, I can readily see why a higher standard of hygienic cleanliness is fast becoming the rule in most homes. And of course, though CLOROX is primarily a household product, it can be counted upon for many personal and ‘first aid’ uses since it is a non-poisonous germicide.”

HATTIE MCDANIEL WINS ACADEMY AWARD

Hollywood, (ANP)—Hattie McDaniel, whose portrayal of Mammy in "Gone With the Wind" was reported by many critics to have stolen the picture, won the annual supporting actress award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences here Thursday night. This is the first time a Negro film player has been so honored.

Miss McDaniel was boosted for the coveted award by many nationally known movie folk and columnists, including Jimmie Fidler and Hedda Hopper, who said in a syndicated article shortly before the winners were announced:

"I believe everyone is delighted that Hattie McDaniel who gave such a superb performance as MAMMY in GWTW is up for an Academy award. But I wonder if you know anything about her history? While she was making that picture, they called her in for an hour's interview to get her biography, but she wound up by spending the day there with most of the big shots watching her. Because she illustrated her story.

"She's the 13th child of a Baptist minister, her father had a good bass voice and her mother sang soprano in the church choir. Her mother also taught her to cook and she worked at that job in Denver during the time she made her way through the East Denver high school, where she studied dramatic art and public speaking. She got a gold medal there for reciting verses of Paul Dunbar. She crowned over the airwaves for two years as High Hat Hattie.

P. W.—Have I yet found a company I can trust in making a steady income. Must I take what I have and try to sell it. Just what would be best?

Ans: The "B" Company will give you a square deal if you will do likewise.

H. C. M.—I have been going with a married man and have a baby. He left his wife and said he was going off and take care of me and the baby. Is he?

Ans: Naw. There is still another woman in the case... a young girl, and it is with her that he is now spending his time. Your confidence is misplaced in him, for he isn't half the man he pretends to be. If you profit from your affair with him, you are going to have to treat him like he treats you. In other words pull his leg for everything you can get. He deserves such treatment.

C. C. N.—I have two children and right now I am not getting enough money to take care of them and myself and I wish to know if I should move or is it better to remain where I am?

Ans: A change right now would not be advisable. You are managing to exist on your present income and I would suggest that you hold to your job until you are able to get something better. With two children to support... you can't be hoping up and changing cities with no money ahead.

R. B.—Please tell me if I am worth trying to make something out of myself? What should I do?

Ans: Follow if you don't respect yourself... then you can't possibly expect anyone else to respect you. You are but 29 years old, just old enough to know how to live... sure you should put forth some effort and try to gain something worthwhile in this world. You need to get a better paying job.

K. F. W.—I was injured by a city light last year and I have a lawyer handling this case and I wish to know if I can get anything out of this case?

Ans: It seems to me that you made a report to the city immediately after the accident... allowed them to make their investigation and etc, you would have been paid already. If you expect to force a law suit, it isn't likely that you will profit to any great extent.

ROBERT S. ABBOTT

Robert S. Abbott, founder and publisher of the Chicago Defender, is dead, and while he had been in ill health for some time little did the public know that the pioneer in big Negro newspapers was in such grave danger.

Coming to Chicago soon after the turn of the century with little cash, Mr. Abbott conceived the idea of a big newspaper with nation-wide circulation; a newspaper with a radical policy displaying sensational news. It soon caught the eye of the public and gained wide circulation even beyond the expectations of the founder.

A civic minded citizen in his community, his services were in great demand and he had much to do with shaping the policy of that great city with particular reference to the large influx of Negroes that came to Chicago.

As a champion of the cause of the Negro in every avenue of life, Mr. Abbott never lost an opportunity to speak out against injustice, discrimination and other procriptions which tended to deny his group full rights under the constitution.

The monument he built, the Defender, will stand as a memorial to this great man who had a vision and who by perseverance saw that vision ripen into one of the leading business institutions in the country.

BYSTANDER COOKING SCHOOL

This week, the Bystander is conducting its annual Cooking School and Home Institute. When the paper launched upon this program, it had in mind that and institution owed the public a duty to bring to the community projects other than those for its own benefit entirely. Those of the past have been very successful.

While these institution have been conducted by the Bystander, they could not have gone very far without the cooperation of a large number of individuals and establishments which have been untiring in lending every aid to the success of the schools. They have helped bring to the community modern methods of homemaking that could not have been secured in any other way.

And to these people, the Bystander is grateful; likewise to the public in general, for those who come out to see and hear about the cooking school have played their part and contributed a share which has been essential to the success of the school.

PUBLISHERS MEET

Last week publishers representing a large number of Negro newspapers gathered in Chicago to talk over the problems of their institutions. The meeting was non-political, having in mind that much good would come out of cooperation among the leaders in this field of endeavor.

These publishers represented a circulation of five hundred thousand papers; they represented a force which has great influence on the Negro race in America.

Out of this meeting grew an organization, Negro Newspaper Publishers Association, which has for its object the building of bigger and better newspapers patterned along modern methods; methods that have already made great Negro newspapers in America.

Undoubtedly the organization will be watched because it has great possibilities. And its usefulness will depend upon the unselfish cooperation of publishers themselves.

BOOKS

RICHARD WRIGHT, BOOK OF THE MONTH CLUB NOVELIST

Chicago, (ANP)—Richard Wright, brilliant young author whose new novel, "Native Son," was published by Harper Brothers Friday, March 1, and is the March selection of the Book of the Month club, has already completed the first writing of still another novel which will probably be published sometime in 1941, he revealed last week on a trip to Chicago.

The former Mississippian, who is 31 years old, also stated that his formal schooling did not extend beyond the eighth grade. Since receiving a diploma from the Smith-Robinson public school in Jackson, Miss., in 1925, he has lived a varied life before embarking on a literary career that today places him in the forefront of American novelists regardless of color. This is, incidentally, the first time that a Negro author's book has been selected by the Book of the Month club.

First Book in 1938

Although his first book, "Uncle Tom's Children," as not published until 1938 immediately after winning a $500 national contest sponsored by Story magazine, Mr. Wright has been writing seriously since 1935. An avid reader, he familiarized himself with works of the great writers and absorbed a thorough knowledge of the English language. His first literary efforts, both prose and poetry, shared the fate of most early work; some were rejected, some accepted. Never discouraged, he developed the habit of writing daily which he still practices.

It was the publication in the New Caravan in 1936 of a short story that really started him to fame. Mr. Wright was then living in Chicago, his home for many years, and when this story attracted wide critical attention, he felt encouraged to go to New York, the nation's literary capital. He went there in June, 1937, and in less than a year had won the national contest with "Uncle Tom's Children." This enabled him to win a Guggenheim award for 1939, under which "Native Son" was completed and his new work begun.

His next book, he said, will be a study of the role and position of the Negro woman in American society. It will trace her emotional growth from the feudal South to Fascist tendencies in the North and will treat the problems of domestic workers.

"In all my work, I intend to draw as wide a canvass as possible," he declared. "I want to show the life of the Negro as it is actually lived, influenced by the many different environmental and sociological factors. 'Uncle Tom's Children' dealt with the South; 'Native Son' is a story of Chicago, and the next book will deal mainly with the East. By varying backgrounds, I also hope to avoid monotony."

When setting down the first draft of a manuscript, Mr. Wright writes 15 to 30 pages daily. He revises at a much slower rate. His working day begins around nine o'clock in the morning. Unlike many writers, he works better in the morning than late at night. He also manages to keep two plots ahead of his current story.

Health Hints

By Dr. C. R. Bradford

PELLEGRA
Pellegra is apparently a specific food deficiency disease, occurring at all ages and manifested by characteristic skin lesions chiefly of the dorsum (back) of the distal portion of the extremities, slight constitutional or local subjective symptoms.

Most of the attacks occur in the spring, early summer and autumn. It is unusual for cases to appear during winter. Of course it may be observed that when a case occurs in the early spring and recur, the rash will reappear in the late summer. It has also been observed that there exists a marked tendency for the disease to reappear the following spring or summer after having apparently disappeared during the winter.

Pellegra is usually found amidst unsanitary and unhygienic surroundings, whether in rural districts, cities, mill-villages or institutions. It may occur wherever and under whatever conditions there exists, restricted and deficient diets, over considerable periods of time.

It appears reasonably safe to assume that the Pellegra-preventive factor has been discovered in Vitamin G or Vitamin B complex. A list of foods is known, any one of which when eaten regularly, will prevent and unless serious degenerative processes beyond rehabilitations, cure Pellegra. Among the more important and easily obtainable articles are: milk; liver; lean beef or beef juice; fresh or canned fish; the green, leafy vegetables, such as spinach and turnip tops, either fresh or canned; green peas, fresh or canned; and, fruits, fresh or canned.

BUSINESS INSTITUTE SEEKS CONSUMER OPINIONS

Washington, D. C.—The Negro Business Institute, a newly formed non-profit organization devoted to the progress of better Negro business recognizes the fact that there is more business to be had than Negro owned stores are getting and is seeking the opinions of readers of the IOWA BYSTANDER. The Institute is deeply interested, not merely in helping the Negro in business increase sales and profits but also in creating increased employment opportunities for Negro youth.

The Institute is interested in your opinion. It wants to know not only what you think of the future of Negro business in its relation to better economic conditions for our group, but also what you think can be done to help increase sales and profits in Negro-owned stores. Your suggestions will be most welcome.

Correspondence is invited with Negro Chambers of Commerce, Business Clubs, Social Clubs, and individuals everywhere who are interested in better Negro business and what it can mean to the improved economic status of our group. Address your correspondence to Albert Louis Hypps, Director, Negro Business Institute, Suite 204-5, Southern Aid Building, Seventh and Tea Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C.

MISUNDERSTOOD QUESTION IS THAT OF 'INCOME'

By Edward Pernel

Within the next few weeks will mark the beginning of the 1940 census. Every home will be host for census workers where many questions will be asked and answered. The most important question of the census, that is occasionally misunderstood is the "question of income."

This question does not ask for a total income, but how much the person made in wages or salary last year up to $5,000. If he made more, he merely answers "over $5,000," but does not have to state how much over that amount.

The purpose of this question is to determine mass buying power for the purchase of consumption of goods. The need for such statistics was recognized by congress in the law that passed for 1937 Census of Unemployment. That law stated that its purpose was to provide information about persons partially employed or unemployed and their dependants and income. By receiving such information will be a concrete base for legislators to work on in order that the unemployment situation can be solved.

It should be remembered that every census worker is sworn to keep all answers confidential, and is subject to $1,000 fine or two years imprisonment or both, if he violates his oath. Every American is asked to give full cooperation to the census workers.

For further information see Dan N. McEnery, district supervisor No. 6, 327 Old Federal Bldg., Des Moines.

Crocker Y

The curtain on the 1940 basketball season will be drawn this coming week in which all but five of the 24 teams seeing action in games that will definitely determine championships in each of the four leagues. Of the 27 teams that started the season three months ago, all but three remained in active competition throughout the long grind, the final weeks.

Heading into the final week, the Rens seems assured of no less than a tie for first place and can claim undisputed right to the pennant position if they emerge triumphant in the two remaining contests on their schedule. They are the favorites in the game Friday night (today) against the Iowa Observer combination, but the latter team has scored several upsets in the current campaign and might possibly surprise their highly touted opponents.

Should the Rens dispose of Observers quintet according to form, they will tangle with the East Des Moines Community Center Stars on Friday night of this coming week. But the Lee township aggregation has the formidable Roadside Settlement crew to get by on Friday of this week before they can entertain any hopes of setting back the Rens, thereby throwing the top position into a deadlock and causing a playoff for the championship. The Stars have suffered only one reversal in eight starts but were lucky last Friday to receive a forfeit victory over the Negro Community Center. The latter team, due to Morton Graves and Claude Ellison's late arrival from Chicago and two other players putting in a late appearance, had only three contract players on hand at game time and, according to the rules, automatically forfeited the contest. In an exhibition tilt, the N. C. C. quintet, playing two recruited men, surprised the Stars 34 to 32.

Proof that all of the interest is not confined to the senior section is the large number of cage followers who have turned out for each of the two meetings between the Hawkeyes and the H. I. B. Club of the intermediate league. The H. I. B.'s won both of the previous engagements, each time by the narrow margin of two points in two of the most exciting games of the year. Because of the season's close, the two clubs will have to have to meet twice in the coming week to complete their schedule engagements. A victory for the H. I. B. team in either game will give it the title but if the Hawkeyes can trim their West Side rivals on each occasion, they can tie for the top post creating a possible similar position as in the senior league and necessitating a playoff for the title. These games between the two fast intermediate leaders are scheduled for Monday and Wednesday nights at 8:45 p. m.

There will be a meeting of the physical and basketball committees Tuesday evening, 7:30 p. m. at the YMCA to complete plans for the annual Athletic Carnival to be held within the next two weeks. The gala event will be held in either the Central 'Y' or one of the high school gymnasiums. The date, events and new features will all be discussed at the meeting. Every member of the joint committees are asked to be present.

We haven't heard any complaints from the Negro boys who went to Chicago with WHO Golden Gloves team, but we were mildly surprised at some of the things we saw. In spite of the fact that Morton Graves, Claude Ellison and Jesse Owens who went to the semi-finals were featured in pictures in the evening Tribune here, they were just barely mentioned in stories in the Register and in the Chicago Tribune. In fact the Tribune ran a picture of WHO's team but try and find the Negroes. Then the pay-off came in the Club Matinee broadcast the day after the bouts. Benny Leonard, the team trainer was a guest. He praised the work of the boys, and mentioned a few names, but no Negroes. Then he just happened to recall that they had another boy "a light-heavy" Jesse Owens was mentioned in a casual manner, yet, he was one of the two surviving members of the team. The other boy, George Hayes, received just too much notice. Several Des Moines people saw the bouts in Chicago. Harold Carr, George Bourland, Elmer Banker and some others whose names we can't call now.

North High Wins District

With Bob White re-instated, North High came through the district meet at Perry with a chance to meet Roosevelt again. White, Roman, Howard and Holt all did some fine work in helping North come through. The Little Rens finally caught the old men of the league and knocked them off with a polished display of youthful speed and pep. They sat down on Howard coal team by simply having too many basket shooters for the Coalers who tried hard, but didn't have too much to offer. In fairness to the coalers it must be said that they were but a shadow of the team they opened the season with. In fact one of their early season teammates was playing against them.

The Western Junior league championship, older of the junior division, should be settled on Friday night when the Tigers engage the H. I. B. Juniors. The Tigers first met the Falcons on Monday evening, a game they should win. If successful on Monday, the title game will be necessary on Friday. The Eastern Junior league title honors will be claimed by the winner of the game between the Cubs and Blue Devils on Wednesday evening at 6:45 p. m.

There will be a meeting of the physical and basketball committees Tuesday evening, 7:30 p. m. at the YMCA to complete plans for the annual Athletic Carnival to be held within the next two weeks. The gala event will be held in either the Central 'Y' or one of the high school gymnasiums. The date, events and new features will all be discussed at the meeting. Ieone Crayton, spent the most of the week visiting at the home of the Mrs. William Gordon's where, Benjamin Gordon, with the assistance of his sister Zora, had a party for her Wednesday night. The evening was spent dancing and visiting with a light refreshment served at the close.

Mrs. Gordon, Zora, Benjamin and Eugene Gordon of St. Louis, spent Sunday at Mrs. H. R. Crayton's home.

Church services were held here, with the Rev. A. L. Preston, being present. A board meeting is to be held Monday night at the home of N. L. Black. Also a number of the young people are rehearsing for a concert to be given, and also sing at Quarterly meeting services in Muscatine. Bill Dobner rode over with the pastor, and spent the time at Eleanor Turner's home.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES FOR ROBERT S. ABBOTT, CHICAGO DEFENDER PUBLISHER

Happenings and the People
By: D. L. H. W.

THIRTY FOR EDITOR ABBOTT

More than four centuries before the dawn of the Christian era, Pericles, when asked to speak of the first Athenians who fell in the Peloponnesian War, confessed that he doubted the wisdom of any speech and declared that where men's deeds have been great they should be honored in deed only. Today, my mind is one with the great orator of Athens, as I write these lines about Robert S. Abbott, one of our great contemporaries in the field of Negro Journalism, who has just recently been summoned into eternity.

Posterity will be eager to share our knowledge of his personality, gained in the happy comradeship of his work in Negro journalism. Because he was a pioneer in Negro Newspaper publishing, it is the right of future generations calmly to appraise his service and judicially award him to his place in the annals of Negro history.

Nothing that we can say will soften the pain of loss in the hearts of his family. Their grief will not lessen; but consolation, like the morning dew, must come with the realization that they have given a member of their family in sacrifice upon the altar of public service.

Robert Abbott left Negroes a precious legacy, to newspaper men he was known in the intimacy of good fellowship, whose integrity of character and social sympathy had enriched the life of his race and nation. If he could return to his beloved Chicago Defender he would smile—

As only joy made wise
By sorrow smiles, as if a smile would teach—

Us the serenity of one who has the perspective of eternity, of one who stands and views the centuries from afar unconfused by the sequence of past and future.

We who are still here can but—
Dimly guess what came in 'mist' confounds;
Yet ever and anon a trumpet sounds

From the hid of battlements of eternity.

Abbott had an unswerving faith; faith in the ideal of the cooperation of peoples of all races, in the same ideal that in past centuries welded people together.

His Defender championed the rights of his people. His keynote for more than a quarter of a century was freedom of speech. He maintained that human conscience, rose higher than the selfish intent and prejudice of nation and races, he unerringly approved what was right and condemned what was wrong. His editorials gave Negroes a NEW DEED poll to LIBERTY, and neither time nor change has voided the title for the many battles he fought.

It was a fitting climax to his long career that he should on the eve of his passing summon his Contemporaries of Negro Journalism, to Chicago, to discuss Negro Newspapers, their future and duty to their public. We know that though death intervened he must have smiled that as he was about to write THIRTY, his fellow journalist would consecrate their efforts to a great cause, and give their lives as heroically as any soldier-knight who died in a crusade.

As they passed by his brier there must have been born in the hearts of each of them a desire to rededicate themselves and their papers to the defense of their PEOPLE—closed here Saturday, March 2.
Yes, it's THIRTY for a great Editor and publisher.

Chief topic of discussion was national advertising. Machinery for making an exhaustive survey of the Negro market was set in motion. Later this data will be dramatized and presented to the large advertisers and their agencies.

A publishers' information committee was designated to compile facts on issues affecting the general welfare of the race, and to disseminate that information to the member papers.

The group also adopted a resolution favoring the formation of a non-profit newsgathering organization controlled by the publishers.

The Saturday meeting, devoted to "building our business," was presided over by G. James Fleming, representing the Philadelphia Tribune.

Membership Restricted

In the permanent organization plan adopted, membership will be restricted to "independent, secular newspapers sold to the general reading public." Representatives admitted to sessions must be corporate officers or business managers of the member newspapers.

Other officers elected are Thomas W. Young, secretary-treasurer; D. Arnett Murphy, Baltimore Afro-American, eastern vice president; Jacob R. Tipper, publisher of the Chicago World, Midwestern vice president; Frank L. Stanley, editor of the Louisville Defender, southern vice president, and C. A. Franklin, publisher of the Kansas City Call, western vice president.

Chicago again was chosen as the next meeting place. The date to be designated by the president, will be between February 1 and 15, 1941.

At Sessions

Others attending the sessions were Russell J. Cowans, Detroit Tribune; Joseph B. Brown Jr., publisher of the Postal Alliance; Cecil E. Newman, publisher of the Minneapolis Spokesman; James B. Morris, publisher of the (Des Moines) Iowa By-stander; C. Galloway, publisher of the Omaha (Nebr.) Guide; publisher and Charles of the Hundreds Pay Last Respect to Editor Robert S. Abbott

Chicago (ANP)—Robert Sengstacke Abbott, who built the Chicago Defender into the first big newspaper owned by Negroes, is dead.

In ill health for several years, and in recent months confined to his mansion on South Parkway, the noted editor passed away in his sleep at eight o'clock Thursday morning, Feb. 29. He was 69 years old.

Funeral services were to be held Monday at the Metropolitan Community church with many notables of both races in attendance. Rev. Archibald Carey, assisted by Revs. Evans and Bennett, were to officiate with burial in the Lincoln cemetery.

It was on Nov. 24, 1870, that Mr. Abbott was born at St. Simon's island, near Savannah, Ga. The son of slave parents, he was given schooling at Savannah and in Claflin college and Hampton institute, finishing the printing trade at the latter institution and singing with the glee club.

Started With Daily Paper

Coming to Chicago in 1895 at the age of 25, he attended the Kent college of law and received his LL. B. After practicing for a few years in Gary, Ind., he abandoned the profession and secured employment as a printer with the ambition of founding a newspaper to fight segregation. His first venture was a daily, but it did not last long.

On May 5, 1905, there appeared the first issue of the Defender. For several years, during the struggle to survive, it was published in the living room of an apartment on State street.

Became Millionaire

Be that as it may, Abbott became a millionaire. At that time he paid himself a salary of $2,500 weekly. This was in contrast with stories of the editor's early days of struggle, when he wore patched clothes, went without food, and begged the assistance of friends.

Twice he had to oust key workers from the newspaper after he became convinced they were robbing the business. The first major shakeup

From the start, Abbott carried on a bitter fight against southern Negro-phobes and sought to encourage the race as a whole.

Surrounding himself with able men, he saw the Defender grow phenomenally in 10 years. Then came World War I and entry by the United States into the conflict. Abbott fought uncompromisingly for the rights of Negro soldiers and the colored southerner he came north to work in industry. His circulation grew by leaps and bounds.

In 1921, when the Negroes who went to France to fight for democracy had returned and were fighting, with Abbott's help, against discrimination at home, the Defender had grown to such proportions that it became necessary to move to its present quarters on Indiana avenue. Its circulation, according to publisher's figures, was 205,500.

It is said that at its peak money came in so swiftly from circulation representatives that the clerks tossed money orders into paper boxes, counting them only when the day's last mail deliveries had been made.

Mr. Abbott first married Helen Thornton of Atlanta, Ga., in 1918. They were divorced in 1933. Later he married the widow of Col. Franklin Deanison who survives him. Other survivors are his nephew, John H. Sengstacke, vice president and general manager of the Defender; two sisters in Savannah, Miss Rebecca Sengstacke and Mrs. Eliza McKay, and two other nephews and four nieces in Chicago.

The sixth annual Bystander Cooking School opened its first session

Wednesday night, March 6, at the Billiken Hall which has been converted into a colorful model kitchen during the school.

Hundreds of spectators who have listened to Mrs. Clara Johnson's expert demonstrations greeted her Wednesday night and will return to the final session Thursday night for the roundup.

In a model kitchen equipped by the Des Moines Electric and the Des Moines Ice and Fuel companies, Mrs. Johnson, with her capable assistant, Mrs. Margaret Joseph, prepared a delicious Easter dinner.

Thursday night at the final session the food demonstration will include a large variety, from recipes selected by local housewives.

Special features of the closing session will be a fashion show of spring styles sponsored by Seymour's Clothing store and a hair style parade by beauty shop models.

Many valuable prizes will be given away.

The first year for the cake contest, held yesterday, was won by Miss Verona Garland, 1067 Fifteenth street. Her "Bystander Cooking School" cake of three layers was a delicious cake of "fine texture," the judges reported. A thin chocolate icing covered a white almond-flavored frosting. Her recipe has already been requested by many of the spectators.

Judges were Mesdames Judith Wilson, Maurice Kelley and Miss Dorothy Preston.

government and the welfare of the common people.
An example of his fairness is reflected by the fact that among his appointments during his term of office as safety commissioner, there were two Negroes' appointees.
J. L. McGuire and Ben Rich, now respected members of the detective bureau; of thirty appointments to the garbage department during his administration about six went to Negroes.
It is his desire that all people be offered the enjoyment of decent homes in which to live. This, he believes, can be facilitated by low cost housing program.
A man with this record and such a program should be met with public acclaim, and his candidacy should meet with public approval.

Gray Ensemble Topped With Yellow Hat and Gloves Is Enticing

FASHIONETTE
(By Hazel L. Griggs for the Associated Negro Press)

Gray, gray, gray is one of the persistent fashion color themes for spring—and understandably so, this season's offerings being what they are, soft in tone yet having an air of gaiety. Through the wide range of shades from a smooth pearl to a new shade called dusk, not a dismal tone may be found, but rather gray, 1940-style, has taken on a cheerful air without sacrificing any of its distinction. In dresses, suits and coats, it is delightful and flattering to wear, and an excellent background for one's spring wardrobe.

The smartest of all accents with gray is Yippee yellow!—the bright, sunshiny shade described last week. A gray ensemble topped by a yellow hat is most enticing, and a gray coat with a yellow plaid ascot peeping out at the neck is unforgettably impressive. Of course, a buttercup yellow blouse worn with a gray suit, and matching yellow gloves is a picture which speaks for itself.

Gray-yellow-brown forms a new winning trio of colors—a combination that can't go wrong, and is as spiritedly springtime as the first crocus. For example: a standout of a gray coat with the new trench pocket;

BLACKBERRY STAINS WORRY AUDIENCE
The audience at the Des Moines Iowa Bystander Cooking School was scandalized yesterday evening when Miss Clara Johnson held up a perfectly good table napkin which had been deliberately stained with blackberry juice. But she smilingly assured them that within a few minutes with the aid of CLOROX the stain would entirely disappear—and it did!

"You need not worry about such stains as fruit, flower, grass, beverage, blood and many ink, dye and medicine stains when they get on your white and color-fast linens," Miss Johnson said "for in CLOROX you have a wonderful aid. And what a pleasure it is to feel free to use your fine linens with the assurance that such stains will not hurt them permanently—that you have a simple remedy on your laundry shelf for such accidents, I always think it is too bad when women 'save' their linens. The time to enjoy them is now—and the safeguard to keep on hand is CLOROX."

government and the welfare of the common people.
An example of his fairness is reflected by the fact that among his appointments during his term of office as safety commissioner, there were two Negroes appointees.
J. L. McGuire and Ben Rich, now respected members of the detective bureau; of thirty appointments to the garbage department during his administration about six went to Negroes.
It is his desire that all people be offered the enjoyment of decent homes in which to live. This, he believes, can be facilitated by low cost housing program.
A man with this record and such a program should be met with public acclaim, and his candidacy should meet with public approval.

Gray Ensemble Topped With Yellow Hat and Gloves Is Enticing

FASHIONETTE
(By Hazel L. Griggs for the Associated Negro Press)

Gray, gray, gray is one of the persistent fashion color themes for spring—and understandably so, this season's offerings being what they are, soft in tone yet having an air of gaiety. Through the wide range of shades from a smooth pearl to a new shade called dusk, not a dismal tone may be found, but rather gray, 1940-style, has taken on a cheerful air without sacrificing any of its distinction. In dresses, suits and coats, it is delightful and flattering to wear, and an excellent background for one's spring wardrobe.

The smartest of all accents with gray is Yippee yellow!—the bright, sunny shade described last week. A gray ensemble topped by a yellow hat is most enticing, and a gray coat with a yellow plaid ascot peeping out at the neck is unforgettably impressive. Of course, a buttercup yellow blouse worn with a gray suit, and matching yellow gloves is a picture which speaks for itself.

Gray-yellow-brown forms a new winning trio of colors—a combination that can't go wrong, and is as spiritedly springtime as the first crocus. For example: a standout of a gray coat with the new trench pocket; etc.; yellow and brown plaid ascot; a yellow felt hat with bright feather, brown gloves, shoes and bag. Gray may be highlighted by several other new spring shades, but this ensembling of colors promises to hold the fashion spotlight.

Dandelion Streaks
In the dress picture, there are many delightful patterns in materials and dresses already made up. Gray, striped with dandelion streaks of color, makes a most attractive dress for wear right now or later in the spring, and stripes slant across the fashion horizon most importantly this season. Even classic polka dots are marshaled into rows for a striped effect. Gray, sprinkled with white stars or geometric whirlings of color, also has decided dash.

Stripes Turn Up
Stripes turn up again and again in accessory collections. Patriotic combines of red, white and blue are found in bags, scarves, color and cuff sets, Roman stripes also are popular to lend a festive air. A Roman striped collar and cuff duo adds a bit of piquant charm to a black or navy dress.

Blue-Violet
An accessory tone is that of Blue-Violet. It is found in handbags, gloves, belts, jewelry and handkerchiefs, the color of Parma violets—lovely with gray or navy.

BLACKBERRY STAINS WORRY AUDIENCE

The audience at the Des Moines Iowa Bystander Cooking School was scandalized yesterday evening when Miss Clara Johnson held up a perfectly good table napkin which had been deliberately stained with blackberry juice. But she smilingly assured them that within a few minutes with the aid of CLOROX the stain would entirely disappear—and it did!

"You need not worry about such stains as fruit, flower, grass, beverage, blood and many ink, dye and medicine stains when they get on your white and color-fast linens" Miss Johnson said "for in CLOROX you have a wonderful aid. And what a pleasure it is to feel free to use your fine linens with the assurance that such stains will not hurt them permanently—that you have a simple remedy on your laundry shelf for such accidents, I always think it is too bad when women 'save' their linens. The time to enjoy them is now—and the safeguard to keep on hand is CLOROX."

ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL FEATURES --- RECIPES

When Men Stir About in the Kitchen Anything Might Happen

Usually when men get busy in the kitchen—stirring up some of their favorite dishes—anything might result—from scorched water to “barbecued” dishcloths. But—not in the case of these men who though busy find time to mix up a favorite recipe every now and then.

Take a look at what John M. Estes, undertaker, likes to cook when he has spare time and a good appetite—Barbecued Ribs.

Barbecue

“Get about seven pounds of ribs for six people who like to eat. Make a sauce using one-fourth pound of butter, melted in one pint of vinegar and seasoned with cayenne pepper to taste. To take the vinegar taste away and put a little sweetening in the ribs, add two tablespoons of sugar. Trim the ribs down and take skirts off and salt and pepper them. Put the ribs on an open pit or in oven and brown, turning over on each side. Swab the ribs with sauce everytime they are turned to keep them moist. Top with a good barbecue sauce after the ribs are done. This eats good with beer. Sometimes when I am feeling real good I forget the bread.”

“Loose” Biscuit

Mansen James is offering his favorite “loose biscuit” in comparison with what might be called the “tight biscuit” of any new bride. It goes like this: take 2 cups flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, 1 cup milk, 2 tsp. lard. “I never use anything but pure lard,” he says. “Sift flour, salt and baking powder and mix in the shortening. Add your liquid; roll and cut. Bake to a delicious Mississippi brown.”

Fried Potatoes

The Rev. A. Ross Brent likes to get into his kitchen when he has an appetite for his favorite fried potatoes. “He says slice the potatoes round—American style. Of course I put them in the frying pan and start slowly. When about two thirds done put a small amount of water in the pan. Add a speck of sugar and fry with the top on the pan until nearly done. Remove top and brown.

Combination Salad

The Rev. H. C. Boyd likes “well-

prepared” food which his wife is very capable of fixing. At times he has a yen for his favorite combination salad which no one can put together like himself. This is his method, starting with the French dressing: Mix olive oil, vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and paprika. Serve on lettuce with hard boiled egg, chopped, and diced celery. Top with a slice of tomato for combination salad. Add a dash of onion—if you prefer.

Tea and Cereal

Black tea and cream of wheat are two things about which S. Joe Brown is very particular. No one can prepare them to suit the veteran attorney's taste—and he is very good at preparing nothing else but them—when it comes to cooking. His tea recipe is simple: “I just put in about a teaspoon full of tea and pour hot water on it; then steep about five or ten minutes.”

“I usually fix my own cream of wheat every morning. Just put on water and let it boil and add a little salt. I don't measure the cream of wheat. I stir it in until it thickens; then, I add a spoon full of butter. It is ready to serve with cream and sugar.”

Devil's Cake

A bit more advanced in the art of cookery is Dr. E. T. Scales who tries his hands—every once in a while—at making his favorite “Devil's Cake.” His recipe is: 2 cups sifted flour, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup thick sour cream of buttermilk, 2 eggs, 2 tbsp. cocoa, ½ cup boiling water, 1 level tsp. of soda. Stir in water, cocoa, while hot. Add this to cream and sugar and eggs. Add sifted flour. Bake slowly from 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven at 306°F degrees.

Beans and Ham

“The best thing I like to cook is beans and ham,” smiled William Winston, 1341 E. 19th street. “well—first I let my meat cook while the beans are soaking. After about an hour I put the beans in with the meat and let them cook slowly for a couple of hours—to get them the way I like them.”

SWEET POTATO DELICIOUS

(By Mrs. Charlotte Williams)

2 cups of sweet potatoes sliced
1 cup walnut meat
1 cup of sugar
½ cup butter
500 sweet potatoes (three medium or two large ones); remove skins and slice crosswise and measure. Pare and core tart apples (two); slice and measure. Break walnut meat up into coarse pieces. Arrange layers of potatoes, apples and nuts in a well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with sugar and salt and hot with butter. Bake one hour in 375°F oven.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

(Mrs. C. H. Bradford)

1½ cups sugar
2 cups fine bread crumbs
1 tbsp. butter
1 qt. fresh milk
1 cup strawberries
Cream butter and sugar. Beat in whipped milk then crumbs soaked in milk and lastly the seasoning. Fill a pudding dish two-thirds full and bake until custard is set, with strawberries rolled in sugar. Make cup of sugar. Bake until brown about 12 minutes. Cool and serve with cream.

SPICED-PRUNE CAKE

(By Mrs. Julia Proctor)

½ cup shortening
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. of allspice
1 tsp. cloves
1 cup of nutmeg
1 cup sugar
2 eggs unbeaten
1 tsp. of soda
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup prune juice
1 cup cooked prunes (finely cut)
Method: Cream shortening, salt and spices, add sugar gradually. Cream until light and fluffy add eggs—one at a time. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Add soda to flour and sift together three times. Add small amount of flour to the creamed mixture, alternating with prune juice. Beat thoroughly and fold in finely cut prunes. Put in shallow cake pan. Bake 65 minutes in moderate oven.

While warm add cake frosting: two cups of powdered sugar, juice of one orange and one tablespoon of melted butter. Spread over cake while warm.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(By Dorothy Preston)

4 tbsp. butter
4 tbsp. flour
1½ cup milk
1 can mushrooms (small)
2 cups diced chicken
Method: Place in a frying pan four tablespoons of butter, add small can of drained mushrooms. Let simmer few minutes. Blend in flour and cook two minutes. Slowly add rich milk and cook, stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add chopped parsley or pimentos. Stir in diced chicken; heat gently and serve in patie shells or on hot buttered toast or biscuits.

SOUTHERN DRESSING

(Mrs. Saleema Morris)

3 cups white bread crumbs
1 cup corn bread crumbs
¼ tsp. sage—ground with salt and pepper to taste.
¾ cup butter drippings
¾ cup water
Brown onions. Mix with crumbs the seasoning plus the fat and the water. When stuffing a fowl do not pack the mixture in the fowl.

CHILI

(Mrs. Margaret Joseph)

2 lbs. medium ground beef
¾ lb. suet
1 large onion (chopped)
1 sprig parsley
1 can tomatoes
2 tbsp. chili powder
½ tsp. salt
Dash of red pepper
½ cup garlic bean
2 qts. water
2 tsp. flour
1 can large chili beans
Directions: chop garlic, onion and parsley together. Fry suet until crisp; add flour and brown. Add garlic plus onion plus parsley plus the meat and the beans. Cook about an hour slowly. Add chili powder, tomatoes and salt and pepper. Cook an hour and a half longer for this particular recipe.

CREAMED TUNA SUPREME

(By Mrs. Lillian Seales)

2 oz. noodles
1 can of sauce
1½ pkg. potato chips
2 eggs hard boiled
2 cups white sauce
Cook noodles and blanch them. Make thin white sauce. Add diced hard boiled eggs. Cream sauce and add tuna fish. Roll potato chips with rolling pin. Sprinkle chips over fish mixture in baking pan. Bake until brown in hot oven.

Cooking Expert Is Enthused Over Clorox Value

SURVEY SHOWS HOME HYGIENE ON THE INCREASE

Cooking School Expert Enthuses over Hygienic

Value of CLOROX
“According to a recent survey, seventy-five per cent of the housewives interviewed stated that the disinfecting qualities of CLOROX as well as its bleaching, stain-removing and deodorizing qualities are of considerable importance to them” said Miss Clara Johnson before going onto the platform at the Iowa Bystander cooking school.

“And right now,” Miss Johnson continued, “I want to say a word about this matter of cleansing plus disinfecting—home hygiene as the scientists call it. According to science microscopic examination reveals that countless germs thrive in many homes which appear ‘spotlessly clean.’ But experiments have shown that cleansing, followed by a CLOROX rinse in accordance with directions, disinfects dishes, glassware, refrigerators, drainboards, sinks, bathtubs, toilet bowls, sickroom equipment and soiled cottons and linens. Why take chances, when it is so easy and economical to use CLOROX and give one's home the health protection it deserves. “I am delighted that so many women are concerning themselves with home hygiene,” said Miss Johnson. With such a product as CLOROX so easily available, I can readily see why a higher standard of hygienic cleanliness is fast becoming the rule in most homes. And of course, though CLOROX is primarily a household product, it can be counted upon for many personal and ‘first aid’ uses since it is a non-poisonous germicide.”

When running colors streak your wash... use CLOROX!
A COLORED sock or bandana, for instance, may discolor a whole tubful of linens. But Clorox, used as directed on label for laundering, will remedy the damage. Clorox gently bleaches white cottons, linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors), makes them fresh-smelling, sanitary; also removes numerous stains—even scorch, mildew. Clorox provides protective cleanliness in laundry, kitchen, bathroom... has many important personal uses. Order by name.
