Happenings and the People

NAACP Eights On

Gretna, La.—After two unsuccessful attempts to interview Mayor Ed. S. Strehle of this city, a committee of the local NAACP was given an audience at the City Hall here Tuesday night, August 6.

The committee, composed of local NAACP officers recounted how the police had intimidated some of their members and had prevented the local branch from holding a meeting three weeks ago.

Although the Mayor insisted that the whole affair was a mistake and promised that future would not be prevented, many members here feel that "the meetings would not be interfered with unless the police felt that something was wrong with the affair," coupled with the absence of Chief Miller means that the issue is not yet settled as far as the police are concerned and that a loophole has been left for further interference.

Wants Conscription Bill Amended to Guarantee Rights of Negro in Army

New York.—Pointing out that "There can be no unity among our citizens as long as both the executive and legislative branches of our Government deliberately disregard at least one-tenth of the population," the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged 75 United States Senators to give "proper consideration to the rights of Negroes" in the pending debate of the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill.

The appeal, contained in a letter sent out August 7, is a selected list of senators who either have a large Negro constituency or have expressed a willingness to vote for the federal anti-drafting bill, urged that the conscription bill be amended so far as to guarantee "Negroes the right to serve in every branch of the armed forces without any discrimination because of color.

"Negroes are willing to take their part in the defense program along with other American citizens," the insin, that their government give insist that their government give them the same opportunities to serve in all branches of the armed forces in which they may qualify without discrimination because of race or color."

Reveal Col. Davis' Name Selected to Take Post in New Defense Program

Washington, (ANP)—Establishing a precedent in the department, information from sources close to the office of the chief of staff, Gen. Marshall, declare that the name of Col. B. O. Davis, now commanding officer of New York's famous 369th regiment has been accepted to act on the general staff, immediately under Gen. Marshall, to handle affairs pertaining to the welfare and good of Negroes in the army and in the future drafts.

Following the lead of the United Government Employees and their president Edgar G. Brown, who sometime back suggested the name of Lieut. B. O. Davis, Jr., as a man fitted to take over such a post in the new defense program, the chief of staff took under advisement several names, it is reliably reported.

When he came to the biography and record of Col. Davis and discussed the same with his associates, the general consensus of opinion was that no man in the service had a finer record and accordingly, Col. Davis' name was given the final approval.

It is further reported that within a few days, Col. Davis will be relieved of his duties as commanding officer of the 369th and ordered to report to Washington, where he will immediately assume his new duties under the direct supervision of Gen. Marshall.

The selection of Col. Davis has the wholehearted endorsement of the organization which first suggested his son's appointment and Mr. Brown expresses himself as feeling that no better equipped man could be found for the position.

SERMONETTE ON WISDOM WRITTEN BY WATERLOO MINISTER

THE SOURCE OF WISDOM

This week as a special feature of the Waterloo page, the Rev. R. A. Broyles, writes a sermonette, the subject of which is "The Source of Wisdom;" the text found in Psalms 111:10.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." These words were written by David, the king who, in childhood was a keeper of sheep. His father, Jesse, often encountered wild beasts of the field. It was here that the foundation-stone of knowledge was laid. It was here that he could not care for sheep without the presence and power of God.

One has said: "Wisdom then might be considered a combination of discernment and sagacity. It is so important that one writer, prays: "Teach to number our days that we apply our hearts unto wisdom." Think of an individual created in the image of God, going through life thoughtlessly, never discerning his relationship to his God. Wisdom means—wise judgement. "Wisdom crieth in the streets."

Our relationship to our fellowmen ought to be guarded with zealous care. Theodore Roosevelt once said: "We must act with wisdom, or else our adherence to right will be mere sound without substance." This was simply in a moral sense, and not necessarily religious.

How much more so when we as heralds of the cross must think and act from the spiritual discernment? One writer has said that "Wisdom is the use of the best means for obtaining the best ends." That looks good to me, for in this sense

Mr. William Bruner of Kansas City, Missouri, is visiting Mrs. M. Parker. 'Creepin' by the Jeep

It is true that the pace of Edna Mae Wilson's heart has slightly quickened for J. D. Why doesn't A. M. get down to his own class and leave J. L. W. alone? This Burton-Wilder affair just can't go on any longer or has it got the wool pulled over L. G.'s eyes? Whats this I hear about R. L. and E. W. The cool cat that breezed into M'town from Souix City to see B. J. Ross was none other than A. Pearson; her heart turned a flip-flop. When Iver Jeane left town Manuel really looked downhearted. Why does R. L. and C. Ross breeze by the Maxwell residence so often and ring those cowbells in that little green car? Does Violet know about this? Who is Harriet M.'s heart stuck on? Archie can't you take a hint. I wonder if Carlyn B.'s heart is still stuck on V. Brown or has another girl got it in her possession? I. Shaw: when are you going to decide which you want—C. W. or D. R.? By the way the "Vehicks" Excecator M was back in town, also Father Allen.—"The Jeep."

Mrs. Lucile Taylor, Mrs. Lydia Green-up, Mrs. Eloise Bates, and Mr. Myron Ewing, all motored Sat., to spend the week end in M'binneapolis, Minn.

Marie Downing BEAUTY AND ROMANCE Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. SPONSORED BY LARIEUSE BEAUTY FOUNDATION

The Larieuse Beauty Foundation was established by the Godefroy Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving women's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

With the March winds howling around the corners of buildings and the last traces of winter in the air, most of us are a bit run down from a long hard winter, and it's often as if reasonably possible—not just at night. Foundation cream will help to keep the powder in place in spite of constant wheezing and blowing. Pads of cotton dipped in lead skin tonic and placed over the eyes will soothe the smarting and remove the bloodshot look. Apply your make-up more carefully than ever if you feel that you look wan and pasty. The shade of your powder alone can make a tremendous difference. Use a slightly warmer shade if you feel a bit washed out. A little more rouge, if properly applied, will give you a brighter look and distract attention from your chapped and peeling nose.

Keep Fit Here are some common-sense suggestions for avoiding the start of a cold: Keep in the best physical condition possible; don't allow yourself to become over-tired nor expose yourself unduly to temperature changes. Get plenty of sleep, fresh air and exercise and maintain a sensible, balanced diet. Lack of sleep and proper food at this time of year leaves you a ready prey to colds. And if, in spite of taking all possible precautions, you find yourself with a heavy head and a feverish feeling, do something about it immediately. If possible, go to bed and stay there for a day or two. If you can't stay there all the time, get as much extra sleep as possible, drink lots of water and fruit juices and avoid unnecessary fatigue.

Make-Up Helps Disguise A Cold When you have a cold it is impossible to look as well as you do when you are in the pink, but with a little time and care you can manage to look somewhat less drugged. First of all, a cold has a tendency to dry out the skin. Keep a good night cream handy and apply it as often as is reasonably possible—not just at night. Foundation cream will help to keep the powder in place in spite of constant wheezing and blowing. Pads of cotton dipped in lead skin tonic and placed over the eyes will soothe the smarting and remove the bloodshot look. Apply your make-up more carefully than ever if you feel that you look wan and pasty. The shade of your powder alone can make a tremendous difference. Use a slightly warmer shade if you feel a bit washed out. A little more rouge, if properly applied, will give you a brighter look and distract attention from your chapped and peeling nose. Above all, don't give the whole thing up just because you are feeling miserable. A little time and trouble can work wonders toward making you look almost human and, when you see how much better you look, you'll find that you feel better too.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 521—319 North Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

THE ONLY ANSWER
The U.S. is woefully unprepared for defense in any emergency and all forms of modern equipment (except military equipment) are obsolete. Selective military training, training and service is the only practical solution of the war preparedness problem.

BECAUSE of this weakness, the Western Hemisphere, with its vast natural resources and raw materials, now is as great a lure for conquest as ever existed. With our Navy in the Pacific, the British Fleet is our first line of defense in the Atlantic. Our second is our regular army of 264,000 men and a National Guard of 242,300, ill-equipped for mechanical warfare. How long can we continue to depend on the supremacy of the British Navy in the Atlantic?

Is Guy in the dog house now after his little episode of last week? . . . Dora McKay; who is the gent in the high-draped pants that has been calling on you?? . . . (wouldn't I like to know) . . . If you hear the sound of hoofs, it's Bernice Wells riding out of Wm. La Masters life . . . By the way Bernice is Carl Fraction the reason? . . . J. B. Jr., which of the Jones girls are you interested in? Is it Nellie? . . . When the "Dream Prince" (Junior K.) walked past a half dozen young damsels who screamed "Hello" with a frenzied delight, he just grinned and brushed them off, just like the attractive "gent" he thinks he is: (he was a whole year older the 6th of August and claimed he wanted no presents—who are you fooling?) . . . Wonder why Allie L. always carries that "innocent as a colophane" look around? . . . Helen S. is this time "It's Really Real"? . . . At last I've found out why Luther Smith makes so many frequent trips to the East Side . . . Hazel Craddock is the answer—Marguerite Green and Ola McCraney are home for a few weeks . . . DELICIOUSLY DIFFERENT IS JELLIED SALAD

(By Arden H. Duane for ANP)

At my house salads have a particular appeal at this season. The meals are brighter the family appetite sprightlier. We are hoarding all left-over meats, fruits and vegetables. But we are sure to blend the ingredients with a canny eye and a cautious hand.

So a way to turn salads easily out of even the most elaborate small mold is news and real news. It's so very simple, too. Just brush the inside of the mold first with glycerine and the salad will slip out easily and perfectly without damaging either its appearance or your temper.

Jellied Cucumber Salad . . . Four cucumbers, peeled and chopped, one onion, chopped, one teaspoon salt, one cup boiling water, one tablespoon gelatine, dissolved in two tablespoons cold water.

Boil the chopped cucumbers and onion in the salted water in a saucepan five minutes. Remove from the fire; add the gelatine, dissolved in cold water. Stir carefully. Pour into individual molds. Chill until firm; serve the salad unmolded upon crisp watercress and garnish with lime mayonnaise.

Asparagus Bavarian Salad . . . One tablespoon gelatine, one fourth cup cold water, one and one half cups asparagus liquid, one No. 2 can green asparagus, one cup whipping cream, one fourth teaspoon salt, one fourth teaspoon white pepper, one half pimento, chopped, dash of mace.

Soak gelatine in cold water, and dissolve in hot asparagus liquid. Chill Arrange stalks of asparagus around the sides of a dampened mold. When jelly begins to congeal, add one half cup of asparagus that has been put through a sieve, salt, pepper, mace, the chopped pimento and the whipped cream. Turn into mold and set in refrigerator to congeal. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing. Garnish with pimento rings or strips.

C.

Asking your advice.

N. J. G.—I have had a bad break in life, altho I am the cause of it. Tell me please in your own words what would be the best thing for me and my family to do?

Ans.: My advice is to LEAVE TEXAS. You and your family are getting exactly nowhere amid your present surroundings and I strongly recommend a change of scenery. All of us have to get a new lease on life at some time or other and when nothing else will do the trick . . . a change of state works wonders. Pack up and scat . . . you can't lose.

G. S. W.—Have been in love with this man for more than a year. I like him very much and he is so affectionate to me. Should I consider him?

Ans. He loves you dearly. He's steady sober and has a pretty good job . . . what more do you want lessy? Consider him by all means, he is a mighty good catch. However if you think you can do better there is no harm in trying.

A. C.—Will I ever be able to build back on my home lot again? What is the hitch?

Ans.: You couldn't build a chicken-coop let alone a house on the lot right now . . . because it takes money and thats something that you ain't got. Get your financial affairs in order before you even think of building. Once you get a little money ahead you will find your plans will go through without a hitch of any kind.

THE BURKE-WADSWORTH LAW—NO!

The Bystander has supported some form of universal military service for years; it has favored compulsory military training in the schools. Naturally, it favors bringing our defense forces up to the place where they can cope with the military machines of Hitler, Mussolini, et-al, for it has never had any faith in any other method of impressing the men, but we are not in favor of the Burke-Wadsworth conscript bill now pending in Congress.

As contemplated, the law will cause thousands of men to leave their jobs—and which they won't get again—many of whom have already had training or could be trained otherwise; we don't have anything to train these men with; voluntary enlistment would suffice to give us man power as fast as we could supply them.

The Bystander takes this position knowing full well that America needs to be prepared for any eventuality. Hitler has not ceased his lust for power, and naturally chafes under the knowledge that America is giving England all the help possible in its battle against Germany.

But, why get hysterical over something that we just can't change over night?

ROOSEVELT SLAPS OUR FACE AGAIN

In spite of protests from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and other interested groups, President Roosevelt has appointed Lindsay C. Warren, former Democratic representative from North Carolina, as controller general. The Senate confirmed him without delay.

In 1934 Warren was chairman of the House Audit Committee on Accounts which has charge of the restaurant in capital building. He clashed with Oscar DePriest, then congressman from the first Illinois district when he said, "the House restaurant has never served colored employees or visitors nor will it as long as I have anything to do with the restaurant". The restaurant is maintained in the capitol for House members and their secretaries and visitors.

Mr. DePriest made quite an issue of this gross discrimination speaking in Des Moines and many other towns against such practice in the nation's capitol building.

Mr. Roosevelt had been advised in advance that Warren was highly objectionable to Negroes, but he ignored their protest and named this race hater to a high post. This is not the first time such a course has been adopted by Mr. Roosevelt which makes it appear that he listens to protests from Negroes when it is convenient to do so.

The Bystander does not take the position that southerners should not be appointed to federal offices, but it does condemn the president for appointing those who make a direct fight on the Negro to gain office and while in office, and that is just the type Mr. Warren is.

And frankly this is just another good reason why the Bystander is anxious to change administrations this fall, for one thing we shall not stand in constant fear that some Negro hater will be put in a high place in our government.

BE CONSISTENT

Last week Ella Fitzgerald's orchestra played two dances at Riverview park in Des Moines: 9 to 12:30 for white people and 12:30 to 2 for colored people. Frankly, the Bystander can never be impressed with an arrangement of this kind for it demonstrates that Negroes are blind to segregation in some instances.

But to the rather surprise and pleasure, too, of the management, dozens of white people came back into the hall when the colored people danced. They paid their admission fee and were entitled to dance, but did they? No. Most would have danced if they had been permitted to do so but the management just didn't have the nerve to stand the gaff.

However, the Bystander takes the position that if Negroes are to be excluded from watching whites dance, then whites should be excluded from Negro dances. And the fact that this practice puts a few more dimes in the pocket of the management makes no difference.

We must insist on fair play in these matters even though they penalize Ella Fitzgerald's chances of making a few extra dollars.

Claude Ellison, 170, W-41-O Golden Gloves middleweight champion, shaded Mose Shackleford, 173, in the first return match of the two finalists since last winter, in the main event of the Crocker Y.M.C.A. weekly outdoor boxing show Wednesday night before a capacity crowd.

Lacking the fire of tournament competition, both boys mixed freely with a fast exhibition that pleased the crowd with the titleholder being given the nod.

Charles Boston, 151, of the University of Iowa, easily outpointed Sonny Washington, 150, in the semi-windup bout. Boston's left jab proved too much for his opponent, altho Washington scored a knockdown in the second. The younger member of the Boston family, Charles, 143, was less fortunate as he dropped an exciting battle to Roland Taylor, 145, whose lightning lefts almost ended the fight in the first round.

In a furious scrap which kept the spectators on the edge of their seats, William Robinson, 140, slugged a decisive victory over Bob "Scooter" Daniels, 132, scoring two knockdowns during the fight.

Reeling, on the verge of being knocked out in the final round, courageous Joe Garrett, 140, rugged West to John Danforth, 138, of Crocker Des Moines battler, lost the decision Y in his first comeback fight.

HOOKWORM

In the warmer parts of the United States a large number of people suffer from Hookworm diseases, chiefly as a result of careless disposal of bodily excretions. The Hookworm is a tiny, whitish form, little less than half-inch long, which lives in the intestines and sucks blood from the alimentary canal. People affected with this disease grow pale, weak, listless, often without knowing what is the matter with them.

The eggs of the Hookworm pass out with the discharges from intestines; and the young worms which hatch from them usually get into the body of a new victim by boring through the skin of the foot, since in these warm regions many people go barefooted. The worm may also be taken in by dirty drinking water or dirty food.

People who have Hookworm disease can be cured by special drops which kill the worms in the intestinal tract. The most important step in preventing his disease, however, is to provide good toilet facilities so that the soil will not be polluted with discharges containing Hookworm eggs.

LINCOLN POST

By Leroy Bird

At this time of the year the main topic is membership, and all know that Sr. vice commander Clarence Adams with the help of all his co-chairmen, that includes Earl Bundy, will have the quota before the frost comes. And a hundred is the quota.

Commander Burns, Adjutant Bird and Finance Officer Stone were elected delegates to the state convention at Arnolds Park Aug. 25-28.

It is encouraging to know that four legion squadrons in the state, one of the four is Lincoln Post, S. A. L. squadron.

The boys who attended Boys State, past June, have not presented themselves to the other Posts yet, that includes the Forty & Eighty, and they are Mr. Morrow, McQuerry and McGuire.

On Sunday Aug. 25, there will be a joint program, at Good pool, and manager Robinson has reserved a section for the Post and Unit which will turn out in full legion uniforms, with the Post colors. Prizes will be given by the Post. Scout Troop 59 will be on hand, and as this program is given with the help of the Red Cross, Miss Green will be there.

The Uniform club, under the able direction of Comrade Sampson is going strong, and a heavy program for the fall months. The club will have all members in uniforms, by spring.

WHO AM I?

(By H. N. Wilcots)

A FAMOUS BISHOP called THE BLACK MOSES

Born in Newberry, S. C., 1834. My parents were free, but as a boy I was "bound out" to a slave owner and worked side by side with slaves until fifteen years of age.

Tiring of my lot I ran away, entering the service of attorneys where John Calhoun practiced law in Abbeville, S. C. Attracted by my aptitude in spelling my employers taught me the elementary English branches. And during the intervals of my duties I read law.

At twenty I was licensed, minister of the M. E. church, (south). Within a few years I became famous as an eloquent speaker, and decided to go to Africa as a missionary. However, changed my allegiance to the A. M. E. church, and entered Trinity college, Baltimore, completing divinity, Latin, Greek and Hebrew.

I was assigned to pastorate of Israel church in Washington, but with both a rapidly growing reputation and a greatly increased membership I was recommended to President Lincoln by Chief Justice Chase and Secretary Stanton to serve as Chaplain of the first regiment of Colored troops.

At the close of the war, I was elected member of the constitutional convention, and afterward was chosen to two successive legislatures. When congress passed the civil rights bill I resolved to abandon active participation in politics. I was made the first Negro postmaster at Macon, Ga., resigned on account of the bitter opposition of the whites. Was then appointed custom house officer at Savannah.

1876 chosen publisher in chief of the A. M. E. church, with headquarters at Philadelphia. Four years later, elected Bishop, at St. Louis. Was known perhaps, as the greatest revivalist of my day, boasting a record of 30,000 additional to the church. Made three trips to Africa, and organized a conference in Sierra Leone and Liberia. Appointed general consular representative of the republic of Liberia to the United States.

I regarded slavery not as a divine but as a providential institution of temporary duration, brought into existence for the purpose of bringing the Negro in contact with the Caucasian—the giant race of the world.

WHO AM I?

The answer: Bishop Henry M. Turner.

The "Who Am I?" in the issue of August 8 was Claude McKay, a famous lyricist.

TRIO OF FISHERMEN

RETURN FROM MINNESOTA

Dr. C. R. Bradford, "Health Hints" columnist of the Bystander, Dr. T. S. Williams and Mr. Robert Dacus returned to the city last Sunday evening from Minnesota where they spent a week's vacation fishing in the lakes.

While there they were successful in catching sunfish, crappies, Bullheads, buffalo and others and, returned to their homes with generous "coatings" of the Minnesota suntan.

Beginner's luck was credited to Dr. Williams for catching the largest number of fish during the week. According to the health editors, his largest fish was a dogfish which was "as long as my leg, from my foot to my knee; but people in Minnesota don't eat dogfish so I gave it to the chickens," he lamented. In charge of the household duties in the cabin was Mr. Dacus who found many dishes to wash when the paper plates and utensils were out.

TENNIS MEET RAINED OUT
BY ALLEN ASHBY
Our tennis meet was getting along fine when J. Pluvie got on the war-path again and closed out things. The meet was down to the semi-finals in the men's singles, the finals in the beginners, and one bracket of the finals in the women's singles. We might have been able to run things through on schedule, but now we don't know when we will be able to finish.

In the men's singles at this writing there are left Joe Howard, Paul Williams and Chet Williamson, with Paul trying to keep Williamson away from his tenth title. Paul got into the next to last round by dusting Charley Johnson in spite of the latter's hustling over the court. Joe Howard is in the finals because Bill Ashby was one of the officials in charge of the meet. By all the rules of tournament play, Joe should have been defaulted on Monday. He was scheduled to play Bill, but broke his racket Sunday, and knew he was to play Monday. Monday he showed up with no racket and repeated the performance Tuesday. In Joe's bracket was Paul Woods, who wanted to win just one match—the one with Leonard Lomas. Paul said he didn't care if he ever won another match, that was one match he was going to win, and he made good.

Lomas blew higher than the proverbial kite in the last set, and didn't get a game. Then came the rain, and Paul went partying with tennis the last thing on his mind. Just as he got in bed, he was confronted by Joe Howard who wanted to play before he went to camp. So Paul played on a court with no lines and slippery on one end. Joe got the first and third sets, and earned the right to play Chet or Paul. Paul and Joe promised to meet in the finals, but Chet may have something to say about that.

The beginners singles will be between Kay Frazier and Pat White. Kay engaged in a furious struggle with Eloise Morrow to see which could lose the match, and Kay finally had to take the thing. Pat chased tennis balls like a greyhound chasing a rabbit to set down Kay's mother, Mrs. Frazier.

The men's doubles hadn't got under way yet, and neither had the mixed doubles, so we had nothing to say that we haven't already said about those events. Miss Marie Ross and Williamson are supposed to win the mixed doubles title, but everyone doesn't believe they will; just as they don't believe that Chet and your Uncle Dudley will keep our men's doubles crown. The Juniors haven't been started, and it looks like a one man show. When and if it quits raining, we will get the thing off, and we have promised to never look at a racket for another year.

TURNER STOPS OFF
Don Turner, who was recently robbed out of his Golden Gloves heavy-weight title, was offered up as a sacrifice to the state champion, the highly touted Orlan Ott. It was a case of the lamb turning into a ram and butting the sacrificers, for Don walked out and sank his Sunday left hook into the breadbasket of the towering Harlan farmer, and the latter sat down. Three more times Don floored the state heavy champ, and the slaughter was stopped. The cards seemed to be stacked against Don, so he would have to score a kayo in order to win, and did he come through? Ott wants another match, and Don says it is okay by him.

but with both a rapidly growing reputation and a greatly increased membership I was recommended to President Lincoln by Chief Justice Chase and Secretary Stanton to serve as Chaplain of the first regiment of Colored troops.

At the close of the war I was elected member of the constitutional convention, and afterward was chosen to two successive legislatures. When congress passed the civil rights bill I resolved to abandon active participation in politics, I was made the first Negro postmaster at Macon, Ga., resigned on account of the bitter opposition of the Whites. Was then appointed custom house officer at Savannah.

1876 chosen publisher in chief of the A. M. E. church, with headquarters at Philadelphia. Four years later, elected Bishop, at St. Louis. Was known perhaps, as the greatest revivalist of my day, boasting a record of 30,000 additional to the church. Made three trips to Africa, and organized a conference in Seira Leone and Liberia. Appointed general consul representative of the republic of Liberia to the United States.

I regarded slavery not as a divine but as a providential institution of temporary duration, brought into existence for the purpose of bringing the Negro in contact with the Caucasian—the giant race of the world.

WHO AM I?

The answer: Bishop Henry M. Turner.

The "Who Am I?" in the issue of August 8 was Claude McKay, a famous lyricist.

TRIO OF FISHERMEN

RETURN FROM MINNESOTA

Dr. C. R. Bradford, "Health Hints" columnist of the Bystander, Dr. T. S. Williams and Mr. Robert Dacus returned to the city last Sunday evening from Minnesota where they spent a week's vacation fishing in the lakes.

While there they were successful in catching sunfish, crappies, Bullheads, buffalo and others, and returned to their homes with generous "coatings" of the Minnesota suntan.

Beginner's luck was credited to Dr. Williams for catching the largest number of fish during the week. According to the health editors, his largest fish was a dogfish which was "as long as my leg, from my foot to my knee; but people in Minnesota don't eat dogfish so I gave it to the chickens," he lamented. In charge of the household duties in the cabin was Mr. Dacus who found many dishes to wash when the paper plates and utensils gave out.

TENNIS MEET RAINED OUT

Our tennis meet was getting along fine when J. Pluvius got on the warpath again and closed out things. The meet was down to the semi-finals in the men's singles, the finals in the beginners, and one bracket of the finals in the women's singles. We might have been able to run things through on schedule, but now we don't know when we will be able to finish.

In the men's singles at this writing there are left Joe Howard, Paul Williams and Chet Williamson, with Paul trying to keep Williamson away from his tenth title. Paul got into the next to last round by dusting Charley Johnson in spite of the latter's hustling over the court. Joe Howard is in the finals because Bill Ashby was one of the officials in charge of the meet. By all the rules of tournament play, Joe should have been defaulted on Monday. He was scheduled to play Bill, but broke his racket Sunday, and knew he was to play Monday. Monday he showed up with no racket and repeated the performance Tuesday. In Joe's bracket was Paul Woods, who wanted to win just one match—the one with Leonard Lomas. Paul said he didn't care, if he ever won another match, that was one match he was going to win, and he made good.

Lomas blew higher than the proverbial kite in the last set, and didn't get a game. Then came the rain, and Paul went partying with tennis the last thing on his mind. Just as he got in bed, he was confronted by Joe Howard who wanted to play before he went to camp. So Paul played on a court with no lines and slippery on one end. Joe got the first and third sets, and earned the right to play Chet or Paul. Paul and Joe promised to meet in the finals, but Chet may have something to say about that.

The beginners singles will be between Kay Frazier and Pat White. Kay engaged in a furious struggle with Eloise Morrow to see which could lose the match, and Kay finally had to take the thing. Pat chased tennis balls like a greyhound chasing a rabbit to set down Kay's mother, Mrs. Frazier.

The men's doubles hadn't got under way yet, and neither had the mixed doubles, so we had nothing to say that we haven't already said about those events. Miss Marie Ross and William are supposed to win the mixed doubles title, but everyone doesn't believe they will; just as they don't believe that Chet and your Uncle Dudley will keep our men's doubles crown. The Juniors haven't been started, and it looks like a one man show. When and if it quits raining, we will get the thing off, and we have promised to never look at a racket for another year.

TURNER STOPS OFF

Don Turner, who was recently robbed out of his Golden Gloves heavyweight title, was offered up as a sacrifice to the state champion, the highly touted Orlan Ott. It was a case of the lamb turning into a ram and butting the sacrificers, for Don walked out and sank his Sunday left hook into the breadbasket of the towering Harlan farmer, and the latter sat down. Three mor times Don floored the state heavy champ, and the slaughter was stopped. The cards seemed to be stacked against Don, so he would have to score a kayo in order to win, and did he come through? Ott wants another match, and Don says it is okay by him.
