Order Restored on Tuskegee Campus

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—Some semblance of order appealed on the campus horizon here this week, following six days' strike activities by students who on Jan. 15 lived up to their ultimatum to stay away from classes and the school cafeteria until their demands were met by the institute administration. The strikers, who said they took this action as a protest against poor food and glaring instances of maladministration in the school's relations with its student body, have remained adamant in their demands. The administration, on the other hand, also remains unshaken in its refusal to meet the demands, denying at the same time that the student's charges are founded on fact. On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute. Sunday, January 19, the students went to chapel where the regular services were held. The activities of the school are now proceeding as usual. Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school. These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute. The action of the Executive Council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

PROF. THOMPSON IS COMMISSION HEAD

Harvey Ingham, venerable editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, was named chairman-empiricus of the Des Moines Interracial Commission at the annual election of officers of that body at North High School last Tuesday evening. One of the three charter members of the executive board of the Commission in 1923, the distinguished journalist has been one of the foremost exponents of interracial understanding and a vigorous opponent of intolerance and discrimination. Speaking on behalf of the committee in presenting Mr. Ingham's name, Atty. S. Joe Brown told of his lifelong interest in the struggles of the Negro and his unceasing fight for full equality and opportunities, and that the editor was being honored in recognition of his splendid work. Active officers elected were: Prof. S. E. Thompson, principal of North High School, chairman; Mrs. Helen D. Beshears, vice chairman; Quentin R. Mease, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. J. E. Campbell, assistant secretary-treasurer. The following were named to the executive board: Prof. A. L. Severson, A. A. Alexander, Miss Ruth Lumbard, Mrs. Lillian Edmunds, Ike Smalls and Dr. C. R. Bradford. Stating "that one should not be orated a pacifist or militarist who offers information on national defense," Attorney Brown, government appeal agent for Selective Service Board Number 4, discussed defense measures and the President's two recent messages on the subject. The speaker pointed out that it was going to cost the American people 25 billions of dollars within the next three years as a minimum estimate and that the cost will accelerate as production increases.

CHICAGOANS PROPOSE 'GLOOMY SUNDAY' FUNERAL

Chicago, (ANP) If a proposal made at an informal meeting at Hull House Tuesday is carried out, a mass mock funeral for democracy will be held in Chicago on either February 9 or 16. Endorsed by the Chicago Urban League, the Chicago Defender, and the heads of several other organizations, the observance of "Gloomy Sunday" will be a tangible expression of the belief of many Negroes throughout the country who have attempted to participate on an equal basis with other elements of the American population in the nation's defense program, that democracy is dead. The plan for the cooperation of labor, religion, youth, press, women, social and civic organizations and professions is one mass demonstration designed to further impress upon the minds of the Negro his plight under existing conditions and to bring vividly to the attention of the country at large the gross abuses being forced upon the group.

Airmen Plan to Campaign For Flyers in Air Corps Without Regard to Race

Chicago—A strong resolution condemning the War Department's plan to establish an all-Negro pursuit squadron as a part of the United States Army Air Corps was adopted by the National Airmen's Association here Friday. At the same time, the association, made up of Negro flyers throughout the country, voted to intensify its campaign to have Negroes integrated without regard to race into the United States Army Air Corps which presently bars Negroes. According to under secretary of War, Patterson, the squadron consisting of a ground crew of 400 men, 33 pilots and 27 planes, will be set up at Tuskegee institute in Alabama where a flying field and other facilities will be provided. The ground crew, according to the announcement will be trained at Chanute field Illinois for several months before going to the southern school. The squadron, it is understood, will be commanded by a white officer. Cornelius R. Coffey who in addition to being the president of the Chicago chapter of the association is also national president, in commenting said the action taken Friday is in line with the association's policy. "Our fight for entrance into the air corps has been long. We don't intend to compromise now, even the army and navy have succeeded in arguing against the adoption of segregated units. "In the air corps there is no tradition either favorable or unfavorable to complete racial integration. If we permit the establishment of a Negro unit, it will be establishing a precedent which will be hard to break down. "We'd rather be excluded," Coffey said, "than to be segregated. There's no constitutional support for segregated units and the only traditions existing in aviation as I know it, are ones which would make complete integration sane and logical." Willis B. Brown secretary of the association and coordinator for Chicago's CAA programs held up the Civilian Pilot Training Program as an example of a successful interracial project in aviation. "There is no segregation in the CAA programs" she said, "and there have been no race riots or violence because of this fact. I think the War Department is attempting to inject the racial issue where none has existed in the past."

Silhouette Movies Feature YW Meeting

Silhouette "movies" illustrating the broad scope of activities carried on at the Blue Triangle Branch of the Y. W. C. A., highlighted the annual report of the executive secretary, Mrs. Marie Roberts, at the annual dinner meeting which was held Thursday night, Jan. 16, at the branch. A large number of Y. C. C. A. members and friends attended this meeting, at which the election of officers and the address of Miss Alice Whipple, secretary of the Council of School Agencies, were the main features. Mrs. Lillian Scales, chairman of the dinner, presented Mrs. Korinne Jackson, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Whipple. From her broad experience in social work, which has given her contact with Negro groups, Miss Whipple addressed the dinner meeting on a theme of doing more than "just talking." From her work with Negroes in the stockyard district in Chicago, and her work in Davenport, Iowa, Miss Whipple said she had observed a "solidarity in the Negro family life"—the readiness of relatives to help one another; the Negro's willingness to sacrifice for an education; and "the most magnificent thing," the Negro's philosophy, which the speaker summed up as a "lesson in courage and faith." Then she turned her attention to her particular work with the Community Chest which made her "always conscious of needs" and funds being spent. In the Negro recreation-

BOOK REVIEW

HUGHES SAYS GOODBYE TO "GOODBYE CHRIST"

(Pittsburgh Courier Jan 11, 1941) By Langston Hughes

Some years ago we watched with eager interest Langston Hughes' meteoric rise to fame. A smart boy, got a little too smart—a smart aleck. We wondered just what had got into him when he gave us "Goodbye Christ."

Now, after nearly ten years, the more mature Mr. Hughes makes, not only an explanation, but a practical retraction also. We can understand when he says, "Having left the terrain of the 'radical' at 20' to approach the conservative at 40, I would not and could not write 'Goodbye Christ.'"

(Most of us can stand up and testify that we did and said things at 20 that we have too much sense to say at 40).

Mr. Hughes goes on to tell why he reached his radical conclusions. Again we can understand. He cites the stark injustices that prevail over so-called Christian communities—the exploitation of the poor and the ignorant—color bars—we know a list of them.

Most of us felt a jolt when one of the greatest religious organizations in the world sanctioned the Italian invasion of Ethiopia on the ground that it would open the way to bring civilization and Christianity to that backward people. The same argument was made in favor of slavery.

Tip Given on Picking And Cooking Good Corn

The early American settlers would never have survived if the Indians had not shown them how to cultivate corn. But most of us consider the type of corn which kept them from starvation as food fit only for animals.

At the present time we demand corn which has been carefully cultivated for tenderness and sweetness for our roasting ears, and for preparing all types of corn dishes.

The rule of putting the kettle on to boil, then going out to pick the corn is a good one to follow, if you can do it, for the longer the time that elapses between picking and eating, the less delicious the corn.

After you've picked out your green ears, strip back the husk and examine the kernels. They should be just firm enough to resist a slight pressure and when you prick them should exude a milky juice.

The husk on the corn acts like the cellulose film used for modern packaging—seals in flavor and moisture and keeps out dust—so don't husk the corn until you're ready to pop it into the kettle.

We usually speak of "boiled" corn on the cob, but it's really best to just simmer it, because boiling makes the kernels tough. Put enough water in the kettle to cover the corn, bring it to the boiling point and drop in the ears.

The addition of a cup of milk and two teaspoons of sugar improves the flavor. Keep the water at a simmering temperature for 10 to 15 minutes. The shorter time is used for garden fresh corn, the longer for that you buy in the market.

Study Papago Indian

That the Indian only says "Ugh!" is an obvious fallacy, according to Dr. Emil Haury, head of the department of anthropology and director of a group of University of Arizona linguists, archeologists and historians who are making an exhaustive investigation into the Papago Indian tribes of the Southwest. Dr. Haury describes the Papago Indian as "good-natured, co-operative, well-equipped physically and mentally, yet distinct in appearance from many other southwestern tribes. The study, which may take several years, is being carried out along definite lines, with one member tracing the archeological history, another making photographs of current Papago customs and another reconstructing the cultural history of the tribe and attempting to trace the effects of contacts with other Indians and the white man.

New Fashions

More Natural Silhouette

Nellie was a lady—back in Victorian days—but not a bit more of a lady than her great-granddaughter Helen will be the winter of 1940-41.

The important note in women's wear news is the slimmer, more graceful—and more natural—silhouette. Shoulders and sleeves are straight—not exaggerated; skirts are slim-looking but sufficient for a natural stride. Untrimmed coats are important, fur is used less lavishly on dressy coats, collars are smaller, prettier and often detachable.

Costume suits, matching dresses and coats are top fashion, and the coats are made so that they can be worn with other dresses as well. Skirts stay at 15 to 18 inches depending on the wearer, dress necklines are high, hats tend more to fit the head.

Gold is the leader in jewelry, but it is never bold or garish. It, too, goes for the quiet elegance that suits the lady of fashion best. Only on the Americana note does the jewelry style trend become bold, with jeweled military pins, insignias, lapel ornaments like medals, and the American flag over and over again for every belt, neckline and lapel, enameled or twinkling with true red, white and blue stones.

Turkey Yields to Women

Tradition, custom and law has been scattered to the winds in Turkey. No longer are the women kept secluded in harems. Today, about the only thing a Turkish woman can't do is join the military forces. It all came about because the men had so much to do in building a new nation that they needed the women's help. Today there are women judges, city officials, legislators and dentists. They have the right to vote and sit in assembly. There are women law students, women in the college of pharmacy, in engineering schools and in agricultural schools. There are more jobs for women than there are trained workers to take them. The few restrictions against women workers are in the kind of work they may do. They are not allowed to work underground, under water, or in dangerous industries such as poison gas and sulphur plants.

DR. ELMER TACKETT OPTICIAN 29 YEARS

Dr. Elmer Tackett started his optical career at the age of 15 and has been in this work for 29 years. He has thousands of satisfied patients in Iowa.
In 1930 Dr. Tackett opened business at Katz Drug Co. and has been in Des Moines ever since. He is now located on the balcony of the new Rogers Jewelry store at 317 Seventh street.

"Our eyes are priceless and they represent the cameras of vision," Dr. Tackett said. "If our cameras are out of focus, henceforth, a blurred picture. Some way into our eyes we actually see with the brain, if our eyes are out of focus, they bring strain to our nervous system, headaches, styes, red lids, and many other symptoms.
It is dangerous to neglect our eyes and many people keep putting off having their eyes examined which results in a permanent damage. Take care of your eyes. They are more precious than diamonds," Dr. Tackett advises.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

Justifying the extraordinary power sought in the end or lease or...
The unusual concentration of everything in one person. And since someone had to be given this power, it is just as well that he be that person.

Opponents of the delegation of these unusual powers may well ask why this same rule is not applied to the national defense board.
In spite of the fact that this board is charged with the responsibility of procuring defense equipment it has no head. Two men, Mr. Knudson and Mr. Hillman, have been given equal authority. This just won't work and of course it will not be admitted until another slow up in production occurs.

SOLDIERS DESERVE SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Back in 1917 and 1918 when the United States was at war, the people promised the soldiers that once they were back in civil life nothing would be too good for them. Several states gave a bonus, tax exemptions and other special consideration; the federal government gave a small bonus upon their discharge from the service, a larger bonus later and has done well for the sick and disabled and their families.

As time wore on, some people complained that the ex-service wanted too much, and instead their reaction became somewhat hostile. These people forget that the soldiers of the World War served for one dollar per day while those who remained at home and worked in factory and fields earned this amount per hour. The inequality in pay was just too much of a handicap in civil life.

Today, the government is drafting men for training and paying them a dollar per day while men employed in defense factories are earning more than this per hour — and in case of war they are safe from gun shots.
It is fine for a citizen to serve his country; in fact, it is his duty. But as long as the inequality prevails in time of war, soldiers will clamor and will be entitled to the special favors at the hands of the nation.

YOU CAN HELP

Des Moines, like many other cities, has a large number of class publications. And while each appeals to the public generally for support, each bases its claim for existence upon its service to the particular group it serves.

The Bystander is one among this group. It has been on the job many years, due to the support given both by the Negro and white group.
The average reader does not recognize the value of a mouth piece. It sees in it a business establishment operated by the owner but fails to recognize that people of affairs look to these publications to find out how a particular group is thinking. And many look to it for words of commendation, or fear of condemnation.

Then, too, the average reader does not realize that he can help his class paper immeasurably by trading with its advertisers. Space buyers want results and if we can produce, the job of selling advertising becomes easier — the operation of the paper becomes easier. So when in the market for purchases, scan the Bystander columns for the names of firms soliciting your business. You can render real service to your paper by the strategy that you conceal in the simple teachings of Jesus.
Now that you have been big enough only to see a mistake Mr. Morris publicly acknowledge it. You for you has grown.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. C. R. BRADFORD
BERI BERI

Beri Beri is characterized by polyneuritis (inflammation of the nerve) and a cardiac failure and is supposed to be due to a deficiency of vitamin B. Although there is overwhelming evidence to indicate that a deficiency of vitamin B is important in a production of this disease, it is not conclusive that this is the whole story. The most striking association between Vitamin B deficiency and Beri Beri is its high incidence among those who live mainly on polished rice, which is upheld by experiments in birds and lower animals. There are those with a certain amount to prove the presence of an infectious agent and others who insist many of the symptoms are due to protein deficiencies.

Beri Beri is widely prevalent in the Orient particularly in Japan, China, and East Indies. India and the Malay Peninsula. It has also been found in the Arctic region and Newfoundland where the people live almost exclusively on a fish diet. There are two recognized types — the dry and the wet Beri Beri.

Acute dry Beri Beri has a rapid onset with Polyneuritis (inflammation of the nerves). There is tingling of the hands and feet. Paralysis supervenes with foot-drop, wrist-drop, absence of reflexes, and muscular atrophy. The cranial nerves are rarely involved.

Acute wet Beri Beri may be ushered in by acute heart failure. In consequence there is an enlargement of the liver, upper abdominal pain and shortness of breath.

Prophylaxis depends upon an adequate diet particular in camps, prisons or ships when epidemics develop. It is not enough to supply Vitamin B alone, an adequate supply of biological protein should also be provided.

SEEKS INFORMATION

After returning from army service, he came to Des Moines in 1919 and was employed at 308 Grand, at a barber shop. Any one who may have information is asked to communicate with the above office.

THE PASSING OF A CHAMPION

By Allen Ashby
HENRY ARMSTRONG

He finds it just a little harder to win his battles. Can't understand why he passes up so many chances to end it all. He can't realize that a few years ago he didn't pass any openings. He is the favorite. The boys along the rise now can only think of him as he was in his peak — a rough two fisted boy that no man could stand before. Comes the final test. He can't seem to get started — just can't get going. This time it is just another futile flurry. The end. Next day it is labeled as a great upset.

The champ goes into seclusion. Something was surely wrong. That guy is tough alright, but gosh, I made so many mistakes. Next time I'll knock his block off. Maybe I wasn't quite ready. They go to the post again. The new champ, bright-eyed and eager to regain his honors. The low ex-champ a little grim, determined. He has worked hard, hadn't ever before in his life, for this time that punch gets put back in place. The ex-champ is still the favorite because the fans can't forget him as he used to be. Comes the rest again. The crucial moment arrives. Gotta go all out now or never. So tired — so very tired. Gotta go. For a brief moment he is the champion of his hey day. The new champ sits, falters, but hangs on grimly. The spurt runs out and the ex-champ is just a tired old man going down to defeat with the will, the heart still saying go on, but the tired body just unable.

The champ goes down. The crowd forgets the old champ as they flock to be in the crowd to congratulate the new champ. The old champ, as he stands alone, must think of the young successor who will go over the same route as time goes on. A lump gathers in his throat as he thinks of his earlier days. The trail to top the year on top and the adulation that were a part of being champion. He probably realizes that at last Father Time has caught him. He might flick away a tear as he tells himself that he at least went down swinging all the way.

The passing of Henry Armstrong is simply the story of the passing of all champions in all games. Another milestone in athletic history has been passed. Your writer can't help but feel a twinge of sympathy as he doffs his hat to the grand old champion and the new.

But they come and go. We never see them do so without wishing it were possible for the old champ to keep his stuff. The ancient Vikings had a place called Valhalla where all the old warriors went after death and lived again the glorious deeds of their youth. Somewhere in this mythical haven they are reserving space for Henry Armstrong, who was the greatest of the great.

BASKETBALL

Saw the East-North brawl last Friday. The game was to be a scuffle between Bob White, Joe Howard and Henry Hill of North and Jess Hill of East. But White, Howard and Hill never got started and East rolled into a 11-1 lead. This was too much and North finished second, 37-29. Jess Hill was the outstanding player on North's team, he rammed home two baskets just when they were needed to break up North's rallies and controlled rebounds off both back boards. Lonnie Howard also got to play against his brother, Joe, White, Howard and Holt tried, but just couldn't get going until the last quarter. Joe grabbed a lot of rebounds in this quarter and played nice defensive ball but it was too late.
They tried Art McCune and Dick Williams, but it didn't help North any. In the second team game Verne Palmer nearly tossed away the game but came through with a basket in the overtime period to win for East 29 to 28.

They tell us that Don Turner will have his hands full in his division because Joe Accardi, winner of two years ago, is supposed to top it again, but we don't see how he can.
