Joseph Spell and Mate to New York

New York.—Joseph Spell, whom his white employer accused of a four time rape, and his common law wife, Vergie Spell, will make their marriage legal as soon as Spell can secure a divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Spell told reporters here last week where she and Spell came looking for work.

Acquitted of the charges of Mrs. Eleanor Strubing of Greenwich, Conn. Spell told reporters his "consciousness is clear" and all he wants is a job employment bureau, but she prefers that Spell get something other than domestic work because "I think he will always have a dislike for that type of work because of the Strubing incident."

"I love Joe with all my heart," Mrs. Spell, who claims to be a Creole, said. "As a matter of fact, I've known and loved Joseph as long as I've known myself." "But being legally married would not change the quality of our love. We already love each other as much as it is humanly possible and it would take more than an incident of this kind (the Strubing case), to separate us. "I am of a forgiving nature." "I still believe that the whole thing is Mrs. Strubing's fault," she said. "A man's only a man after all. Everyone knows that men are not as strong as women."

Negro Youth on NYA Projects in Iowa

A total of 376 Negro youths, about evenly divided between young men and women, are at present gaining work experience and needed employment with national youth administration out-of-school projects operating in Iowa, according to Theodore P. Eslick, state NYA administrator. Eslick also said that, although there are no definite figures available, there is probably as large a group of Negro boys and girls as employed with out-of-school projects who are furthering their educations in high schools and colleges through the NYA in-school program in Iowa.

Out-of-school projects employing Negro youth are functioning in the main in Des Moines, which has the largest youth enrollment, in Sioux City, Cedar Rapids, Burlington, and Keokuk. Eslick stated, however, that Negro boys and girls are employed in other towns and cities in the state, but not to the extent that they are in the communities with large Negro populations.

IN SCHOOL

Negro youth enrolled under the NYA in-school are furthering their educations at Drake university, Des Moines; Coe college, Cedar Rapids; Dowling college, Des Moines; the University of Iowa, and in many other colleges and high schools in the state. Eslick declared that NYA out-of-school project workers earn wages which approximate $16.20 for each during a 60-hour work month. All work done by these youth workers is of a type needed in communities, and which is co-sponsored by tax-supported public agencies in cities and towns throughout Iowa. Those at work with NYA in-school work projects in high schools receive wages which average $4.50 per month for part-time work needed by the school systems. College students earn from $10 to $20 per month, depending upon the amount of time they spend at project work. Their average wage would approximate $15 a month.

Wages earned by NYA youth workers, though needed and important to the individual youth and in many cases his family, are but one of the benefits boys and girls receive through the NYA program, according to Eslick. He cited the work experience gained by the youth-employees as another important benefit which should help them in gaining private employment as jobs become available.

NEGRO BOYS

Negro boys with the NYA out-of-school program in Iowa are gaining work experience in woodworking, metal working, welding, road construction, sign painting, cement work, park improvement, and auto and aviation mechanics. Girls are obtaining work experience in women's lines of endeavor, in sewing rooms where garments are manufactured for welfare groups, in public offices where they are employed as filing clerks and typists, and in schools where they prepare hot lunches for students.

Special emphasis is being given at the present time, Eslick stated, to the development of projects to provide work experience in defense-type lines of endeavor, in-line with defense program plans for the national youth administration. A special representative, Roy L. Ferguson, who will receive his degree this June at Drake university in Des Moines, has been named by Eslick as state supervisor of Negro affairs in Iowa. Mrs. S. Joe Brown, of Des Moines, is also associated with the national youth administration program in Iowa, being a member of the NYA advisory committee for Polk county. Marri Brooks Johnson supervises girls' work activities in Des Moines. Ferguson now occupies quarters in the Negro Community center in Des Moines, donated for NYA use by Mrs. Lillian Edmunds, director of the center, who also made available space at her headquarters for the girls' work unit when it started operations in Des Moines. Ferguson will soon move to the state NYA office in Des Moines, where he will have his headquarters in the youth personnel division. New development in the NYA program in Iowa are health examinations now being given all NYA out-of-school youth in accordance with one phase of defense activities for the national youth administration. Findings will be reported to those examined and to their parents, in order that corrective measures may be taken if necessary. Cost of the examinations are being borne by the NYA.

Negro Contractors Probe Discrimination on Jobs For National Defense

Hampton Institute, Va.—The fifteenth biennial Hampton Builders' Conference meeting in conjunction with the National Builders' Association on February 10, 11, and 12 at Hampton Institute, was packed with nationally significant events concerning defense construction and the Negro.

In a personal letter to the assembled delegates, John M. Carmody, administrator of the Federal Works Agency announced for the first time the opening of an immediate inquiry into discrimination against Negroes on National Defense housing projects in the Hampton Roads area.

200 DELEGATES
With this hurdle passed, the 200 delegates and 20 states listened to George Zuidema, sole hiring agent for all contractors engaged in construction work at Fort Eustis, Virginia, as he attempted to answer the personal charges made on his discriminatory practices against skilled Negroes.

Unsatisfied with Zuidema's explanation that you "can't change a custom overnight," the Conference dispatched a 580-word telegram to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and 16 other key government officials, denouncing discriminatory practices, submitting specific proof, and asking for immediate action.

W. J. J. I read your column and I think it helpful. I am 26 years old and married, but my husband left this summer the first of July and I haven't heard from him since. I met another man who is 46 years old and he seems much in love with me and wants to marry me but says I will have to get a divorce first. Should I do this?
Ans.: It will be necessary for you to get a divorce before you can marry the gentleman. Your first husband deserted you and you have grounds for divorce. I honestly feel this man you are going with now, will make you a very lovable companion and feel you would be using good judgment to marry him.

August: I have been on this one job for 6 years and I wonder if I could better myself any by quitting?
Ans.: No, of course you can't. Stick right on the job you have until you have been successful in making another contact. It is indicated to me that around the 15th of February you will be working on another job—you will get the job thru an agency.

I. J.: Does the boy I go with intend to marry me in 1941 or is he just stringing me along? I have been going with him for quite a while and he says he would marry me in a minute if it wasn't for his mother but you see she doesn't like me. What is ahead for me?
Ans.: Disappointment if you continue to go with this boy for another four years. He's putting you off on purpose—his mother doesn't even enter into the picture. He wouldn't care if she did or did not like you if he was in love with you—but you see he isn't—and he must have some way to letch out of the bargain. You've been dropped like a piece of lead.

H. C.: I sure would like to know how a certain letter concerning me got to my husband?
Ans.: A friend of yours—or a person who claims to be a friend to you saw to it that your husband received this "piece of news." You will have the whole story in a few more weeks. Don't make trouble for the person—just forget it, as your husband wasn't small enough to take the note seriously.

UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICE

We are hearing more and more talk about unfair labor practices by industry. And in almost every instance, even though the charges in some cases have been rather trivial, courts have upheld labor leaders in their complaints.

For many years, Negro labor has charged wholesale discrimination against them by unions. And even though labor leaders have expressed a desire to include all men in unions, their advice has not been taken by the rank and file of the members.

The laws defining unfair labor practices are so broad that they cover everything. However, the penalties are aimed at the employer and not the employees. Deliberate exclusion of a man from a union or the refusal to work beside a man solely because he happens to be a black constitutes unfair labor practices of the worst sort. But court action to so declare it would not get to first base.

The NAACP has suggested that the labor act should be amended making discrimination on the basis of race, unfair labor practice. There is little question about the justice of such a law. The Bystander believes the cause is worth the effort for even though the idea is not made a law, the public will have an opportunity to get acquainted with the situation should the subject be debated in congress.

HINTS ON THE SCHOOL ELECTION

Des Moines will have a school election on March 10 at which time three directors are to be chosen. For many years our school elections have been quiet affairs attracting very few voters to the polls.

Generally speaking, we have had a rather fine group of people on the school board. They have succeeded in building up a good system satisfactory to most people, the jobs pay no salary, all of which in a great measure, account for little opposition to the candidates each year.

However, the Bystander does feel that the school system is far behind in any program to include the Negro as a real part of it. For instance, we have no teachers, no clerical hire, or supervisors. The only Negroes employed in the system are a few custodians, janitors and a worker or so in a cafe. And this in spite of the same schools, and their families help pay to maintain them.

In years gone by, promises to remedy this situation have been made but with no results. Rather a system of keeping Negroes out rather than including them has been the policy. At least the present state of the record of employment shows this to be the case.

Then, too, our present superintendent plans to retire this year. The kind of man who succeeds him is important. We ought to know that he believes in fair play for all races as well as an efficient school system.

The Bystander believes that the only way to change this situation is to elect a wide-awake Negro on the school board. We need someone in the circle who not only knows our needs but speaks our language; who not only believes in fair play but who puts those beliefs into action; who not only says he has no race prejudice but who votes and acts that way.

We throw out these hints hoping to create some sentiment among Negroes and their friends that the early future will bring improvement in the things of which we complain in our school system.

GO SLOW

As war spirit arises, people become more intolerant of the views of others often to the point of violating the very laws they see to uphold.

In the controversy over the British aid bill now pending in congress, some very violent views are being discussed on both sides of the question. But except in a very few instances, the difference of opinion does not arise over the substance of the measure—aid to Britain—but over the manner in which that job should be accomplished.

For instance, such opponents of the measure as Senator Taft prefer to give an outright grant of funds rather than loan or lease material and equipment to England. Wendell Willkie favors the present bill with some amendments. Senator Barkley and other leading Democrats take practically the same view.

So all in all, we do not have such a violent disagreement as some would suggest. And the Bystander thinks that it is foolish to abuse those who do not agree with our pet method of helping the democracies labeling them unpatriotic, Nazi sympathizers or disloyal party leaders. The question of defense of our country is not a party issue or a race issue.

The Bystander thinks that it is wise that we swallow no plan hook, line and sinker without thorough debate and study. The opposite of that policy is followed in Fascist countries, the very thing we propose to keep from our shores.

WHO AM I?

By Henry N. Wilcots

A GREAT BRAZILIAN LEADER

Born in Bahia, Brazil, June, 1830, he son of a Portuguese and free Negro woman, the famous Luiz Mahin, who figured in one of the most brilliant chapters and the greatest uprisings in the history of the Brazilian Negro.

I was sold by my father, a dissipated gambler who had come to Iowa, to a slave trader. At the age of ten I was taken to Rio and hence to Sao Paulo where I was placed in a student's residence and fortunately, was enabled to acquire at least rudimentary education.

1848 I fled and enlisted in the army, but not liking the service I left to become a copyist in the office of a barrister where I learn a bit of law and the duties of a secretary. From there I went to the office of Francisco Mendonca, a noted linguistics, where I was given every protection and an opportunity of obtaining a good education. It was through this office that I was officially declared free.

On leaving the office of Mendonca, I served in many capacities, the department of police, proofreader of the review Ypiranga and as staff writer or the Radical Paulistano, one of the leading newspapers of Brazil that was crusading against slavery.

I signed the Republican Manifesto in the year 1869. And as a lawyer in Sao Paulo, I defended and retrieved more than 500 unfortunate slaves from servitude. I combated every political movement which failed to face the slaver question squarely. My office became almost a refuge for persecuted slaves.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN RACE RELATIONS SHOWN DURING 15 YEARS

In 1925 on recommendation of Dr. Geo. E. Haynes, Dr. S. Parks Cadman, then president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, Mrs. S. Joe Brown was appointed a member of the Commission on Church and Race relations of that organization, to which position she has been re-appointed every two years. In that position she is charged with the responsibility, not only of spreading information on better race relations in this section, but also of reporting to the National Office in New York the outstanding interracial activities in this section that the National office may have it in making up their annual report of its activities.

Mrs. Brown reports a marked improvement in race relations throughout this state during the past fifteen years as evidenced by the fact this year as well as last there were radio talks on the subject both in Des Moines and in Mason City; and in addition to that numerous cases of exchanges of pulpits by pastor of the different races as well as numerous

ALOPECIA CONGENITA

This condition implies a partial or total absence of hair in places where it is normally present. It is to be considered as an irregularity rather than a disease. There may be either a total or an incomplete absence of hair in certain circumscribed areas. When there is no hair at birth, hair growth probably never takes place later. The hair follicles have failed to develop at various stages of embryonic growth. In some cases not even the rudiments of hair follicles can be found. In the universal type in which the hair is shed shortly after birth, the regrowth is never normal, but in the form of scanty down, or sparse weak hairs.

So far as is known heredity is the main factor. Certain races and families have a tendency to move scanty hair growth than others. In cases in which hair follicle development has been completely arrested there can, of course, be no hope of a growth of hair, and in cases of scanty or partial growth, where there is hereditary element present, prognosis extremely unfavorable.

BROTHERHOOD INC., TO PUT ON MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The Brotherhood and Sisterhood, Inc., care for members in sickness and bury them at death, has as its purpose, to assist in every possible way youth, both boys and girls.

The organization sponsored a program last year to give underprivileged children an opportunity to swim in Good Park pool free of charge. There were 851 children accommodated during the season. The organization also purchased instruments and uniforms for a drum and bugle corps for 30 boys, costing in excess of $300. At the swimming meet Aug. 1 last, Noble Chieftain N. F. Gray awarded a beautiful gold loving cup as a trophy.

The organization is putting on a drive to increase its membership to 500, with a corresponding number of sisters. Seaco Jackson was awarded five dollars for bringing in the most new members during the 1940 season. John S. Coleman is in charge of publicity.

FRED ALLEN, YOUNKER'S HEAD PORTER VISITS KANSAS CITY STORES

Mr. Fred Allen, head porter at the Younker Department store, recently returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he was sent by the store to visit some of the large department stores and observe their methods and get their ideas and views on cleaning and building maintenance. With a letter of introduction Mr. Allen was shown much consideration and extended privileges in going through many of the Kansas City stores.

"This was a new experience and very educational," Mr. Allen commented.

Mr. Allen was accompanied by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. McKinley Baker who enjoyed a pleasant week end visiting with the Overtons; Mrs. Mae Washington, aunt of Mrs. Marie Thomas of Des Moines, honored the visitors at dinner; and Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Dixon of Kansas City were hosts to them. They visited Sunday morning with the Rev. Mr. Lee and members of the St. Andrew's Methodist church in their newly acquired church home at Twenty-fourth street and Troost avenue.

REV. BRENT SPEAKS AT BETHEL CHURCH

Rev. A. Ross Brent, pastor of the Maple Street Baptist church preached his farewell sermon to the members and friends of the Bethel A. M. E. church Sunday afternoon, Feb. 9.

Instances of Negro lay speakers before churches and other audiences of Race Relations Month. Race Relations Week and finally from Race relations Sunday first to white people during the month, the observance having been extended.

In addition to the interracial activities reported through the columns of this paper last week, Mrs. Brown reports the following:

Dr. Stoddard Lane, pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church of Des Moines, as has been his custom for a number of years past delivered a sermon on Race Relations to his congregation on Sunday, Feb. 9; Mrs. Brown herself appeared before the Parent Teacher Association at Granger, Iowa; also before the Parent Teacher Association of the Scott School and before the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Epworth Methodist Church and the Asbury Methodist Church in Des Moines, where she was accompanied by Miss Alice Kenney who presented a group of spirituals; and that she has still to fill engagements before the Ft. Des Moines Methodist Church on Feb. 26th; also before the Des Moines Interdenominational Missionary Council, which meets in the United Westminister Presbyterian Church on Feb. 28th.

SPORTS

NEGROES DOMINATE GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNAMENT

Negroes had little to feel badly about when the Golden Gloves bouts were finished. They won the team trophy, the sportsmanship award and four championships. The sportsmanship award was something. Donald Johnson of Ankeny who dragged his crippled leg around the ring, became the first Negro ever to win this honor. Dr. B. J. Palmer, president of the Central Broadcasting Co., made the presentation and really got off. The doctor wound up and tossed a few choice swings and uppercuts at race prejudice in general. He lauded Johnson's courage and the crowd loved it. Yours truly has been watching athletic events for so long that even the presence of a brother or a close friend in the competition doesn't send us overboard. But when that kid crawled through the ropes to receive his trophy, and the crowd let out that salvo of deafening applause, well, it got even this hardened old campaigner and we were proud to stand up to honor a great kid who earned his laurels.

In the bouts for team places we had nothing to be ashamed of. Bill Mason fought well but dropped the duke to Glen Hogan in the flyweight division. Mason was awarded runner-up, novice honors.

Prize Competition

The bantamweights offered the prize competition. Eddie Robinson was keyed up to the highest pitch and had a goodly delegation of former fighters in his corner. Eddie fought the best bout we ever saw him put up. He battled Morton Graves right down to the final bell and refused to give an inch. The difference between them was Morton's greater experience and speed. It was the fastest and cleverest bout of the tournament. Graves then went on to paste Bill Moody for a technical kayo to win the title. In four years of amateur boxing, Graves has lost just his fights in this class. He lost to Clarence Strothers couldn't punch hard enough to hold off Bob Martineau in the final bout of the lightweight class. Strothers had previously punched Vic Hill of Adel full of holes to win the last round.

The fly really flew in the welterweight class. Roland Taylor was floored early and we all looked for him to be stopped but he fought back to the last bell, even if he was licked by a bigger, more experienced foe.

CROWD CHEERED

Ozzie Lewis ought to never forget his fights in this class. He first engaged John Marinos of Cedar Falls. Marinos was one of the favorites and had twice been barred from the meet and twice reinstated. But, when Ozzie got through with him he was barred for keeps. Lewis just outboxed the clever boxer and wore him down with left hooks to the stomach until the boy just couldn't box on. Giving Ozzie a Kayo. Then he grabbed Smith of Oskaloosa in the final bout and people will talk about that one for years. Ozzie was having the best of it all through the first round. Near the end of the round Sam swung one from the floor and it lit squarely on Ozzie's chin. His head and feet changed ends, his head hitting the floor with a bang. The crowd went wild but that something in a man that makes him struggle to rise no matter how badly he is hurt brought Ozzie to his feet as the bell rang. They resumed operations in the second and Lewis was still groggy but sheer courage and determination held him up. The boys battled toe to toe, swinging on each other's jaws and the crowd yelled so that people sitting side by side couldn't hear each other. Neither boy would give an inch but twice Ozzie belted the white boy in his knees in this eerie slugfest. The last round was just like the second and it got down to just pure stamina for both boys had iron hearts and all the courage you will find in a human body. With both boys out on their feet, but still throwing punches toe to toe and the crowd still hysterical, Ozzie summoned forth enough reserve strength to down Smith once more. That was his edge in a brawl that many of us will never see the likes of. A lot of people booed the decision but that should have been lost in admiration for the fight put up by both boys.

Don Turner brought the fourth sepiu championship by getting a T.K.O. over Murry Cleveland of Winterset who has been trying for three years to whip Don Cleveland hurt his hand and was floored so he had to quit. Don punched out Junior Olson in a round like punching a time clock in his semi-final.
