Americans Don't Drink Tea? 94,000,000 Pounds

People who gobble up new ideas as quickly as Americans are bound to swallow a lot of hokum with their hot dogs. Most of us have completely forgotten the once-sacred formula, "Every day in every way I'm getting better and better," and many of us stopped eating the required apple a day some years ago, but as a mass, we still believe:

That we live fast and die young, ignoring the evidence of life-insurance companies to the contrary; that we're just a husky bunch of record-breaking athletes, when, as a matter of statistics, we are merely an excitable nation of spectators. Finally, there is a widespread belief that Americans don't drink tea, and, worse, the calumny that American men who drink it are sissies.

Although Americans "don't drink tea," 94,000,000 pounds of it came through the customs last year, enough to make 19,000,000 cups, or thereabouts. There are three things you can do with tea: You can use it to take ink stains out of rugs, the burn out of sunburn, and you can drink it. Therefore it begins to look as though another fallacy has slipped by our unguarded frontier, and, lest it become accepted as a fact and innocent men quarantined as sissies, let's get Polly to put the kettle on and boil down the truth from the mists of fancy.

NAACP to Promote Taxpayers' Suit

New York—Law suits by taxpayers against boards of education that provide defense vocational training for white youths and no, or unequal training for Negro youths may be brought in the near future, it was announced today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The association has received reports from Seattle, Washington, San Diego, Calif., Nashville, Tennessee and St. Louis, Missouri, that boards of education in these cities have indicated that they will not provide defense vocational training for Negro students because industries in or near the cities have declared that you have been ordered to vacate by the court. You might try one last chance by consulting a good attorney and he can inform you just how you stand. In all probability he can point out the facts that you aren't familiar with in the case.

D. M.—My husband and I have been married for seven years and it has been a struggle. The last six months pretty bad. Tell me if we will continue on in this rut.

Ans: No, not since you are both working. The thing to do now is to learn to live cheaply and economize so that you can get by with less expense until you can get on your feet. This year is going to bring about a change.

Add Zest

When food begins to seem dull and uninteresting, that is the time to include more fruit in the menu, says a noted household editor. A fruit cocktail, salad or desert will pep up lagging appetites amazingly. One of the most popular and versatile fruits are oranges. When serving the juice serve it freshly made as even a short standing time will affect the flavor and vitamin content. To chill, store the fruit in the refrigerator several hours before using. When selecting oranges, choose those which are heavy and free from soft spots. For juice, the smaller ones are an economy, whereas the larger ones are better for using in sections.

Synthetic Crude Rubber Developed by Industry

Development of synthetics in the United States is proceeding so rapidly that should a national emergency arise, this country could entirely eliminate the need for importation of crude rubber within one year.

A research program costing approximately $30,000,000 — a small sum in a wartime budget — would bring a new compound of coke, limestone and salt called koroseal to a point where it could replace natural rubber, according to an article published in India Rubber World by S. L. Brous, engineer of the B. F. Goodrich company.

The new substance, which has been applied to more than 1,000 industrial uses, already ranks as a strategic material, Brous points out, because of its usefulness in protective wearing apparel and fabrics for lighter and heavier-than-air craft. Also, in tests against mustard gas penetration, koroseal has been found superior to the best rubber compounds, while fabrics treated with it have been proven many times more resistant to hydrogen gas diffusion than rubber coated fabrics, he wrote.

It is predicted that other properties of this new synthetic point toward continued use in industry regardless of an emergency since it has been found to have high dielectric strength, complete resistance to ozone and corona cutting and resistance to acids, alkalis and light. It also does not swell in oil or common hydrocarbon solvents as rubber does, the engineer added.

Americans Don't Drink Tea? 94,000,000 Pounds

People who gobble up new ideas as quickly as Americans are bound to swallow a lot of hokum with their hot dogs. Most of us have completely forgotten the once-sacred formula, "Every day in every way I'm getting better and better," and many of us stopped eating the required apple a day some years ago, but as a mass, we still believe:

That we live fast and die young, ignoring the evidence of life-insurance companies to the contrary; that we're just a husky bunch of record-breaking athletes, when, as a matter of statistics, we are merely an excitable nation of spectators. Finally, there is a widespread belief that Americans don't drink tea, and worse, the calumny that American men who drink it are sissies.

Although Americans "don't drink tea," 94,000,000 pounds of it came through the customs last year, enough to make 19,000,000,000 cups, or thereabouts. There are three things you can do with tea: You can use it to take ink stains out of rugs, the burn out of sunburn, and you can drink it. Therefore it begins to look as though another fallacy has slipped by our unguarded frontier, and, lest it become accepted as a fact and innocent men quarantined as sissies, let's get Polly to put the kettle on and boil down the truth from the mists of fancy.

ALEXANDER FOR SCHOOL DIRECTOR

Des Moines has the rare opportunity to do outstanding things if they elect A. A. Alexander a member of the school board Monday. For more than thirty years, no Negro has held an elective office in the city in spite of the progress he has made along all lines; in spite of the support he has given hundreds of others for public office.

It must be conceded by all fair-minded people that Mr. Alexander is eminently qualified both by training and experience to give the board of education valuable service; he is a recognized business man in business man in the community; he is unflinching in his time and means for the improvement of civic, religious and educational need of the county. All these things are indicative of the calibre of the man.

Des Moines boasts of being a city where tolerance prevails to a larger degree than in most cities. We are inclined to this view. And yet we have been woefully lacking in applying this tolerance when it comes to a question of giving Negroes recognition in high places. There are other communities far ahead of us in this matter and if we practice what we preach, this opportunity to make good our claims should not be overlooked.

While Mr. Alexander is not running on any platform labeling him the champion of the rights of Negroes only, yet his very presence on the board will enable the Negro to be properly recognized when policies are being made. Experience has shown that we are not left out at all times because of prejudice but because nobody is present to look after our interest properly.

And this brings us to the second thing we wish to emphasize and that is, Alexander can, and will be elected, if his friends, white and colored, go to the polls and vote, and tell their friends to do likewise. Undoubtedly, the vote will be watched carefully in order to determine just how well this group does vote for the things it wants. Certainly, this election provides a splendid test.

The Bystander wishes to emphasize that victory in this instance will represent not personal success but that of a principle. That must be kept first and foremost. Personalities should not be considered. And if we keep these things in mind and VOTE and ELECT Alexander, Des Moines will have gone a long way toward showing other communities that it does not allow intolerant views to prevail within its borders.

WHERE ARE WE HEADED?

The longer this war lasts, the less anyone knows just what the outcome will be for developments come so thick and fast that a line of thought cannot be followed through before another angle distracts the mind in another direction.

Those who have watched the debate in the senate over the British aid bill are bound to conclude that America is still uncertain about just what ought to be done. It is perfectly evident that the brute strength of Hitler's army has frightened the European countries, including Russia, into a defeatist position. They cannot resist so why make the sacrifice. England's position is precarious, making uncertain its ability to withstand the punishment she must bear to continue.

We are doing a lot of talking—some preparing. But just how much weight we shall be able to lend the democracies without including ourselves is still a question. Maybe, we have our hands full to get ready to protect our own hides. Maybe not.

But, the Bystander believes that a well organized movement is on foot to get America into the war with guns, men and ships. Many newspapers and radio speeches indicate it very clearly. And we shall not be surprised to see some powder keg touched off at any moment that will turn the trick.

Frankly, the Bystander is opposed to this position. And we doubt that our efforts can be effective in proportion to the price to be paid. Conditions today are different from those of 1917 and 1918. The aeroplane has changed that. We could not land an army in Europe today, and yet the only way to defeat Germany would be to beat him on German soil. Yes, we too are in great peril partly because we have talked ourselves into it. But just what course to follow does not appear certain yet. However, there is one thing we must do—prepare for the worst. This, we seem unable to do efficiently.

WHO AM I?

By Henry N. Wilcots

THE PRINCE OF FIGHTERS

How boxing as a sport began in America is one of the few stories that should draw and hold the attention of every colored boy today. Because it is the one field in which he can still measure upward, even to the highest peak and enjoy it, he honors the like of other human beings.

I think Bill Richmond was the first Negro boy to claim pugilistic honors in America. Bill was born on Staten Island but, he was taken to England very young. Lord Percy, Duke of Northumberland, observing his natural physique and fighting capacities, placed him in the care of Lord Camelford, a nobleman, and great sportsman.

The first American champion to fight in an international bout, was Tom Molyneux, in 18100. Molyneux's father and grandfather before him, had been notable fighters during plantation days. Tom Cribb was among the toughest—Cribb drew a decision after a struggle of 40 rounds, but, only after he had been saved in the 23rd round by his tricky seconds, on a time limit issue.

I met Godfrey on August 24, 1888, and after a terrific mauling of 19 rounds, I came through the winner. As a seaman, I had come up from West Indies the hard way.

I reached Australia, it was Tarry Foley who took me over and taught me the finer points of the game. After taking the championship from Tom Tees, I came to America. Here, I found that I was up against a dastardly, callous colored line.

The California Athletic club placed a purse of $3,000 and practically forced Patsy Cardiff, who had a draw to his credit with Sullivan, to meet me. At the end of 10 rounds I took the purse and moved on to England, where I was matched with some of the best.

In 1891 a purse of $10,000 was posted. James J. Corbett was then a young man of few battles, I was now past 30 years, having weathered more than 100 battles—after the "1st" the referee called the fight "NO CONTEST"; we had battled for four hours and we were both so exhausted we could hardly meet at the center of the ring.

Pompus nor pride were ever hobbies of mine—and perhaps, "this is why I was known far and wide as the "Black Prince of the Ring."

Who Am I? — Answer—Peter Jackson.

BOOK REVIEW (By Louise Glass)

THE WAVE OF THE FUTURE

By Anne Morrow Lindbergh—Harcourt & Brace Co., New York.

Considering the amount and the intensity of controversy this book has caused, one would expect it to be a bulky volume. But it is just one long chapter of forty-one pages.

Mrs. Lindbergh's ability as a writer is already well known. This fact may be partially responsible for the wide circulation of the book. This book doesn't present a solution of any kind to the problems confronting us now. Nor does it show these problems from a new angle. It fairly bristles with self evident facts—well known facts. The futility of trying to "save civilization" by going to war; the many imperfections in "our way of life;" our neglected opportunities for real service have been admitted.

Along with her distinguished husband, Mrs. Lindbergh believes that this country's "isolated geographical position" makes it practically immune to invasion. A lot of other equally well informed, reliable people see that immunity as gone with the snows of yesteryear.

We must agree that certain conditions make the world "ripe for a change." But why should we accept slavery as the only alternative?

In Mrs. Lindbergh's opinion, the world is now in the same position as a child on the seashore facing a huge roller. The attempt to run away from it is futile. The attempt to stand only means that he will be beaten down in to the sand.

His only course is to leap with the wave or dive into it. She believes that it is too late now for us to do anything but leap into the "wave of the future" that is rolling over the world. This certainly is not "the Spirit of '76." It is not the "Spirit of Frederick Douglass."

HEALTH HINTS

BY DR. C. R. BRADFORD

OBESITY (Overweight)

Obesity implies that there is present in the individual an increase of weight above normal without necessarily an excessive amount of body fat.

An individual who is not only overweight but who has an excessive amount of body fat is posed as inert storage tissues is called obese. The important factor in the dietary treatment of obese are: low calory content, adequate protein, moderately low carbohydrate contents, very low fat content, sufficient bulk to satisfy hunger.

Low Calory Content

The caloric intake of the individual at hand is the first thing to be considered, and of course, it must be below the energy requirement of the patient.

The calory should be high enough to meet the adequate needs of the body and teach good food habits. One must choose a caloric intake of 800 to 1,400 calories per day, dependent upon the amount of overweight, the rate of which one desires to reduce, the expected or ideal weight desired and whether there are any associated problems or complications.

Adequate Protein

The protein intake must be adequate to maintain nitrogen balance. In addition to the protection of nitrogen balance, one should choose proteins of high biologic values, so as to insure the necessary amount of all the amino-acids that aid in the building of the body's tissues. Such proteins are meats, eggs, milk and cheese.

Carbohydrates Contents

The carbohydrate contents of the reduction diet must be limited if much weight is to be lost, yet high enough to maintain nitrogen equilibrium.

Low Fat Contents

Fat is the one foodstuff that must of necessity be very low in amount because of the number of calories allowed in a reduction diet and the high caloric value of the fat as compared to the carbohydrates and proteins.

Bulk to Satisfy Hunger

The satiety value of the diet is very important. The diet should be planned so that the individual should not be hungry and at the same time able to carry on his normal activity. Liberal quantity bulk and ruffage to aid bowel elimination and to satisfy hunger. Meat is one of the foods that has particular high satiety value. The use of a small amount of fruits at the end of a meal aids a great deal in giving a sense of fullness and satisfaction. Clear meat broths are also an aid and have no food value.

By following out a program one may assure normal metabolizing mixture regardless of the calories given by mouth. In addition the patient will not ordinarily experience any discomfort after a first few days and will tend to lose weight uniformly. It is best to reduce weight gradually by prolonging the period of dieting. This is an advantage in that it accustoms a patient to a small amount of food so that he is not likely to overeat after the weight has been sufficiently reduced; also, slow reduction lessens the changes of weakening the patient.

Riding the wave can only mean surrender of all social advancement we have made during many centuries—the most abject slavery.

Many of us prefer faking a chance on being beaten down into the sand. You can get up out of the sand and start again—if you are free. But slavery! No, we don't intend to ride the wave of the future.

GRAVES SETS MARK IN GOLDEN GLOVES

The showing of the local Negroes in Chicago's Golden Gloves meet was due to three things: the expert handling by their trainer, Eggie Graves, the ability and condition of the lads and the spirit of the squad, including the white boys. They kept telling each other that they were the best team that ever represented WHO until they began to believe it and went out to prove it. The entire squad fought their hearts out and were beaten only after bitter battles that they didn't have to be ashamed of. Morton Graves became the first local boxer to ever reach the semi-final round of this meet. Morton got mad Wednesday and ate two dinners in quick succession. He fought just like he ate and his win over Don Emmerich of Sioux City kept intact his mark of having lost just one bout to an Iowa amateur in five years. He will likely be picked for the intercity bouts with New York if he has done all right in his next bouts.

Show Stealer

Ozzie Lewis is getting to be a regular show stealer. He stole the spotlight last Tuesday when he belted out two kayos within less than five rounds. He shot his Sunday punch a left hook to the feed box of George Johnson of Centralia, Ill., for a number one and lamed over a right on the kisser of Fred Shivers and he couldn't take it. His fight with Morris Corona of Ft. Worth, Texas was something. For about a round and a half, Corona had the edge over Ozzie. Then Ozzie went to work. He pounded the Texan around the ring in toe to toe slugfest that made the crowd go wild. In the last round he battered Corona's jaw with both hands for at least thirty seconds. The White boy reeled and bucked under the terrific storm of punches, but he just wouldn't go down. The crowd forgot that there were two other fights going on and stood up and yelled a tribute to both men. Given your illustrious scribe found himself standing on a seat yelling for Ozzie to drop the guy just once. The verdict against Ozzie could well have gone either way, and his fine showing earned him several honors. He made the front page of the Chicago Tribune, a rare honor in itself and may get called for the intercity bouts.

Al Winfrey had what we thought was tough luck. He had trouble getting a win over Al Capably of Gary, on Tuesday and we will always believe that he outlasted Vincent Myers if Oklahoma just as far as he did Capably. But the two judges and the referee thought otherwise. Al proved himself a rare sport and said that he thought he really lost. Your writer and Al will never agree on that. We were so sure that Don Turner was going to win the heavyweight honors that we went around calling him the next champ. Maybe we jinxed him. Don looked like a million dollars Tuesday when he belted out that lad from Grand Rapids. Then he got caught in a fine fix. No matter which of his last opponents, he fought first, the other one would have taken him, for both were rough, tough boys and Don had not time to get in shape for two tough fights. He used all his energy in getting the juke over Ray Tibbett of Danville. Then when he met Allen Aubrey of Cleveland, a big powerful Negro, he had nothing left after the second round.

Victims The meet gave us plenty to think about. If Negroes were not the victims of some unbelievable decisions and drawings the semifinals would be nearly all Negro. At that 17 of the thirty-two remaining lads are Negroes. One must be there to see it in order to believe what took place. One Negro battered his opponent around the ring, cutting his nose and mouth and staggering the boy several times. Yet he lost the decision. He was so hurt and stunned that he left the ring crying and the crowd bood him for being a poor looser, while your Uncle Dukey stuffed his flat into his own mouth to keep from swearing out loud. Another Negro was knocked out when he attempted to shake hands with his rival and only the alertness of Al Winfrey saved him from a similar fate. Anything goes just so a white boy beats a Negro.

The Negroes also have trouble in getting even break on treatment. The white boys are quartered in the best loop hotels and given the best of everything. The Negro lads are quartered on the South Side on the theory that they can have more fun out there. But they do not get the best there. Too often we saw the Negroes eating two-bit steaks and had to fight that night. The Negroes get about half the attention and care given the white boys but they are in there to pitch.

Your writer was treated by Eggie Graves, trainer, and the boys as if one of the gang. There was nothing they didn't do or no place they went that this reporter wasn't included. On the final night Bill Brown, WHO sports announcer, included us in the big steak dinner where Morton Graves set some sort of a record. So ours

Paul Revere Not Alone During His Famous Ride

Paul Revere was not alone on his famous ride, but was accompanied by William Dawes, an ancestor of former Vice President Dawes, and Dr. Samuel Prescott, who overtook them on the road to Concord. On the night of April 18, 1775, the head of the Sons of Liberty, Dr. Warren, noticed the mobilization of the British troops near Boston and he summoned Dawes and Revere to alarm the countryside. Dawes was the first to start and his route to Lexington was through Roxbury and Brighton Bridge. Revere went by way of Charlestown and Medford to Lexington, found Samuel Adams and John Hancock and gave them the message. Dawes came. They set off together for Concord and were overtaken by Dr. Prescott, whose home was in that place. About 2 1/2 miles from Lexington Common, when Dawes and Prescott had stopped to give the alarm at a house, Revere was about 100 rods ahead when he saw two men in the highway. They proved to be British officers and others came forward. Prescott jumped his horse over a low stone wall and escaped to Concord, and Dawes escaped to Lexington, pursued by three or four officers. Revere never reached Concord, but the alarm was given there by one of his companions.

Newest Radio Cabinets Are Smartly Designed

Have you seen the new radios? They are housed in such smartly styled, well made cabinets that they are an asset to the furnishings of any room.

Progress in cabinet design has been rapid during the last few years. Before that time there was a period when it was practically impossible to get a radio in a moderately sized case. It was out size or nothing. Those were the days, too, of the huge, overstuffed couches and elephantine lounge chairs. Now they have made way for merchandise of better lines.

One well known manufacturer of radios is following traditional furniture designs in a fall showing. Four particularly good looking models are made in the style of Queen Anne Sheraton, Heppelwhite, and in the Regency manner. All are provided with automatic record changing devices.

The Queen Anne radio is handsomely simple and looks like a high-boy. Its brass drawer pulls increase the illusion, as does the lovely shell carving just below the top. The legs are cabriole with shell carving on the knee, and spade feet, because of its colonial character.

Light Cuts Night Deaths

"Light is essential for the safe movement of fast automobile night traffic. The accident records bear out this fact," said L. J. Schrenk, general superintendent, Public Lighting commission, Detroit.

There are few people better qualified than Mr. Schrenk to speak on this subject because of the splendid accident reduction record made in Detroit, under his direction, during the last four years.

"There are more than 100 persons alive today who would have been dead if adequate visibility had not been provided during the last three years on 31 miles of Detroit streets where the fatality rate was the highest. Had these streets been lighted six years ago and had the volume of traffic been equal to today's, an additional 100 lives would have been saved," said Mr. Schrenk.

Been in a DRAFT? gargle Listerine

Like wet feet and fatigue, drafts weaken body resistance so that germs associated with colds may get the upper hand. Help Nature to overcome such germs on throat surfaces by gargling with Listerine Antiseptic at the first symptom of an irritated throat or an oncoming cold. This pleasant precaution taken promptly and frequently, may spare you a long, unpleasant siege. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.
