DISMISS CIVIL RIGHTS CHARGE

Moline, Ill.—Judge E. J. Turnbaugh of Moline City court Monday directed a verdict of acquittal in the case charging Ralph Birks, Moline park superintendent, with violating a Negro's civil rights by not permitting him to swim in Moline municipal pool.

The judge held there was no direct evidence linking Birks personally with the case.

John Allston, vice president of Tri-City chapter of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, whose son, Warren, allegedly was denied permission to swim in the pool, said he does not intend to let the matter drop.

The judge dismissed the charge against Birks without prejudice, and there were indications another charge will be filed against someone more directly connected with the pool.

The Negro boy was a member of the East Moline high school band which had leased the pool and other facilities of the pool building for a party last summer.

Little Rock, Ark.—Arkansas service men and women, both white and Negro, can vote in elections in this state henceforth without paying a poll tax as a result of a constitutional amendment approved in last Tuesday's general election.

'Wainwrights' Reach Ft. Des Moines and Part

Negro women from New York state who were recruited along with 200 other New Yorkers as members of a company of women who would honor the name of General Wainwright who is in a Japanese prison camp, by banning themselves together, living and training as one separate company, found another story when they reached Fort Des Moines WAC Training Center, on Nov. 1, it was learned this week.

Though honored and feted in New York's Grand Central Palace, photographed and praised for being a group of white and colored women who would set a precedent by being able to live and train together to serve their country, the Negro Wainwrights learned that they are the on-lookers while the white Wainwright WACs carry the banner of their company, live in a separate building which is designated the "Wainwrights."

Arriving at Ft. Des Moines the Wainwrights separated—the white women went to the special Wainwright barracks, known as Company 13, and the 12 Negro women were placed in a Negro company, No. 6.

"Though we share none of the Wainwright honors here we are forced to wear the armbands and take a good razzing because we cannot take any part with the Wainwrights," one member said.

Even Col. Hobby hoped that the white and colored girls would get along in one company, the discouraged Negro Wainwright WAC added.

Quartermasters In Key Spot Near German Border

With the First U. S. Army, Belgium—Not too many miles from the German border the First Army has a great signal depot, in a key spot is a quartermaster service company. The men from this company came ashore in Normandy on "D plus 7" and have been holding down this front line service spot for Lieutenant General Hodge's First Army since that time, moving when the First Army moved. The unit was visited last week by Brigadier General Benjamin O. Davis, ranking Negro officer of the Army, ward J. Gillett is the commanding Mary Porter Scott, of the Municipal Nurses Board, St. Louis, officer. Among the men who keep the outfit working are: Staff Sergeant William Smith, St. Louis, Missouri; Corporals John R. Not A Toot From WAC Band Since Reorganization

Since August, when the War Department ordered the reorganization of the Negro WAC Band No. 2, at Fort Des Moines, Ia., Negro citizens have been waiting for the first public appearance of the Negro women, now known as the 404th army band—but not a public toot has been heard since July when the women played their last engagement in Chicago, at the NAACP War Conference.

Ask any of these women why they are not carrying on—playing concerts playing for war bond drives in and out of Des Moines like they were when they were the Negro WAC Band, No. 2, they will tell you that "few of us have instruments."

Instruments Slow
During the two months that they have been reorganized the Negro band has been receiving on the average of one instrument a week, some of them related. With sixteen more instruments needed for the band, the women are beginning to wonder if the instruments will arrive before the war is over.

These band women are anxious to get busy, hold their band practices and win back their stripes which they lost during the summer when the band was disbanded, they related.

Whatever is holding up their instruments—with quartermasters' depots and music stores filled with instruments—is the question that is puzzling the members of the Negro Army band, No. 404.

In a message to Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, John S. Coleman, president of the Des Moines branch, urged Mr. White to "help make it possible for these girls with talent to do their share."

Two Officer Candidates And One Enlisted Woman Sworn Into Navy Reserve

Washington—Three Negro women, including two officer candidates and one enlisted recruit, were sworn into the Women's Reserve in Boston and New York City, Monday morning, November 13, under a Navy Department plan, approved by the President, for the acceptance of Negro women into the WAVES.

The first Negro woman in the First Naval District to complete her application and be sworn into the Women's Reserve was Miss Jane A. Freeman, 22, of 164 Walnut avenue, Roxbury, Mass. She was sworn into the service as an enlisted WAVE at 8 a. m. Monday by Capt. L. D. Causey, USN retired, Director of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement at Boston.

Two hours later in New York City, two other Negro women were sworn into the service as apprentice seamen and officer candidates by Lt. Rosamond D. Selie at 33 Pine street. They were Miss Harriet Ida Pickens, 35, of 260 West 139th street, and Miss Frances Eliza Willis, 28, of 315 West 113th street, both of New York City.

To Hunter College
Miss Pickens and Miss Willis were scheduled to report to Smith College for training on November 15. Upon successful completion of training, Miss Pickens will be commissioned Lieutenant (j.g.) and Miss Willis will be commissioned an ensign. Miss Freeman, the first Negro enlisted WAVE in the New England area, will be one of the first group of Negro recruits to enter "boot" training at Hunter College, New York City, about January 1, 1945.

Miss Pickens graduated from Smith College in 1930 with A. B. degree cum laude and did graduate work at Columbia University from 1930 to 1933—no degree. From September 1931 to June 1932, she was an instructor at the Bennett College for Women in Greensboro, North Carolina. From 1934 to 1939, she was a project supervisor under the recreational program for WPA in New York City. From June 1939 to the present, she was executive secretary of the Harlem Tuberculosis and Health Committee in New York City. Miss Pickens was born in Talladega, Alabama, on March 17, 1909.

Former Social Worker

Miss Willis graduated from Hunter College in 1938 with a B. A. degree. She received a M. S. from the University of Pittsburgh, in 1934. This degree was in biology, social administration, speech and dramatics. From 1936 to 1940, she worked in the employment department of the Y.W.C.A. on West 137th street, New York City. From February 1940 to September 1941, she was a secretary in the New York Protestant Episcopal Mission Society. Since November 15 last year, she has been a case worker for the State Charities Aid Association in New York City. This work is primarily devoted to investigation of families in connection with child adoption. Miss Willis was born in Philadelphia, Pa., on October 8, 1916.

Miss Freeman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Freeman of Roxbury, Mass. She attended Roxbury Memorial high school, graduating in 1940. While in school, she was drill leader, on the ring committee, and on the senior council. She has been employed as an inspector by the Dewey and Almy Chemical Company. Navy life will not be entirely new to Miss Freeman. She states that in the Civil War her grandfather, Abraham Fermo, was in the navy.

Pastor Files Civil Rights Charge Against Druggist

REV. W. F. OGLETON

The Rev. W. F. Ogleton, pastor of the Bethel A.M.E. church, 1526 E. University avenue, brought charges against Elmer Yarnell, white operator of the Yarnell drug store, 625 E. Twelfth street, on Nov. 4 for the violation of civil rights.

Scheduled for hearing Tuesday afternoon before Judge Harry B. Grund in the municipal court, Yarnell's attorney asked for a jury trial and Judge Grund set the trial for the first week of the December term of court and warned all parties concerned that there will be no continuance—"that the cases will be disposed of one way or another."

The Rev. Mr. Ogleton charged that Mr. Yarnell refused to serve him a sandwich on Nov. 2. Going to the drug store frequently as it is near the Iowa State House where the minister is employed in the state library, the Rev. Mr. Ogleton said that he was at the counter and ordered an egg malted milk and then later requested a sandwich.

Realizing that the time was near noon, when the drug store would begin to fill up with other state house employees, the Rev. Mr. Ogleton said Mr. Yarnell asked—"if you want to take it out."

"Take it out," the minister said he repeated and added, "no, I want to eat it here."

At that point, the Rev. Mr. Ogleton said Mr. Yarnell told him that it was near the noon-hour lunch time and that white women were due in soon and that none of them would want to eat the counter if he was seated there.

"You know your place," the minister said Mr. Yarnell told him.

In the meantime two of the white state house workers who knew Rev. Ogleton came into the store, Mrs. Florence Payton and Mrs. Gladys Johnson, who were at the scheduled hearing ready to testify as witnesses.

PERSONAL

By MARIE ROSS

Mrs. Fannie Mae Williams was all smiles this week when she celebrated her eleventh wedding anniversary. Although her better-half, Staff Sgt. William H. Williams, is stationed at South Camp Hood, Texas, Mrs. Williams received eleven beautiful red roses—one for each year—and a gorgeous yellow rose—for "love," she thrilled as she related the information.

Mr. and Mrs. William Elmore on East Nineteenth street have been teasing friends with talk of their luscious giant strawberries which are ripening daily—right in their back yard. If the weather permits the Elmore will have fresh strawberry shortcake for their Thanksgiving Day dinner next week.

Mrs. Rose B. Johnson dropped in the office this week loaded down with bundles she had accumulated at the city market. She revealed that she just "loved" to come to Des Moines from Marshalltown to select her fresh vegetables and bargain with the market clerks.

Undertaker John M. Estes was head-over-heels with work this week—remodeling his buildings and getting garages fixed up for the winter. He has been so busy "making hay while the sun shines" that he has not had time to get out into the corn to look for his annual pheasants.

'Does and Don'ts' for Home Equipment Care

THE old adage, "Take care of what you have and it will take care of you" is doubly true these wartime days when household appliances are difficult to replace, tionally circulated Capper's Farmer advises housewives.

Here are some of her "does and don'ts" about such items as the kitchen sink, the refrigerator, and the range:

"Don't let coffee grounds or particles of food, especially greasy ones, stop up the sink drain. If it gets stopped up, force it with a suction plunger. Regular use of a commercial detergent or chemical will softten the accumulation in pipes so it can be rinsed away. Soap and water or a mild abrasive, used daily, will keep the surface spick-and-span.

"Don't crowd the refrigerator or foods will not keep well. Be sure refrigerator isn't getting hot under the collar standing too near the range. Defrost regularly; frost on freezing unit shouldn't get over one-fourth inch thick. Never pry trays or frost loose with a knife. Wash shelves and interior of mechanical or ice refrigerator once a week.

"The range is home base in your kitchen. Clean oven with soap and water. Rub with unsalted fat to prevent rust. Don't store food in the oven. Wipe up food as it is spilled, as acids in some may permanently discolor the finish. When cold, wash with soapy water. Washing while hot may craze enamel.

Interracial Group Meets

The meeting of the Interracial Commission held in the cafeteria of North high school Tuesday evening drew an unusually large attendance there being present twenty Negro and twenty-four white members.

Because of the absence from the city of the Chairman of the program committee, Dr. A. T. DeGroot, Mr. Ike Smalls had planned the program which consisted of a piano solo by Miss Donna Washington, of the Drake Conservatory of Music and Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, director of the Social Service Department of Broadlawn County hospital, who gave an informing address in which she gave a vivid description of the construction and operation of each of the three departments of the hospital, the general, the tuberculosis and the contagious.

Mr. Horace S. Hollingsworth, first winner of the Tribune Community award, who is now a member of the commission, but who was secretary of the Board of Hospital Trustees when the first section of Broadlawn was erected, some twenty years ago, related some of his experiences in the securing of the vote of the taxpayers of the county to authorize its establishment.

At this meeting Mr. Frank J. Dillon, chairman of the commission, announced that he had appointed Mrs. Georgine C. Morris, Prof. S. E. Thompson, and Atty. S. Joe Brown, three past chairmen as the committee to select and recommend to the next meeting a list of officers for the ensuing year.

1945 Readings Are Ready

D.S.—I am 6 years old and my husband is 30. We've been married 2 years and have a baby. My husband has been overseas and is now back in the states. He says he wants to go back to me, but never says when. He says that he still loves me and the kid, but that he is not worthy of such a good woman as I. He also asked me for a divorce. Shall I give it to him? Is he sick or just what is wrong? I love my husband very much.

Ans.: Yours is a problem that will confront thousands of young couples like you and your husband—and that is a problem of readjustment. Your husband has been through some nerve-racking experiences overseas, and it is hard for him to adjust himself to civilian life overnight. Try to be patient with him while he gets a firm hold on himself and becomes more adaptable to present conditions. Once your husband is employed and earning his own living, he will be most anxious to assume the responsibility of you and the baby. You had to adapt yourself to the changes that were brought on when he went away—now learn to adapt yourself to the change his coming back has entailed.

L. S.—I am taking Beauty Culture and it seems that I just can't catch on to my work as I should. I work hard and want to make a success at it, but it seems that I am making slow progress.

Ans.: You entered this course with the expectation of sailing right thru it, becoming a master beautician in a few months. But you must realize that this course is difficult, and requires a great deal of study and effort. You have paid the tuition for the entire course, and you should complete it. Make up your mind to study and succeed at this course, and don't let any little temporary setbacks-discourage you. Any course of study you might pursue seems difficult at times. Discuss with your quite the vogue this year. This service is available at the club. Be sure to make your messages to send home early to avoid the rush.

H. B.—I'm in love with G. I. and we have been going together about 9 months. He was transferred to Spokane, Wash. I haven't heard from him in 3 weeks and I know he must have some reason for not writing. People say I'm crazy for not making new boy friends. What must I do?

Ans.: Your G.I. deserves the benefit of the doubt. Your love for him should mean more than the opinion of other people. He has proven his love in the past. Give him time and he will prove it again in the future.

A man in the service doesn't always have the liberty to write and carry on a courtship as he might wish to.

C. V. W.—My husband is 34 and I am 29. We've been married almost 3 years. He said that he had never gained as much property and household furniture single as he has since I have been helping him. I appreciate that. But he becomes violently angry when I ask him for money for anything other than grocery bills. I've worked the whole time we've been married and now I am sick. I need money for the doctor and other incidentals. How shall I go about correcting my trouble without causing more domestic friction?

Ans.: For the first few years of your marriage, you worked and assumed part of the household obligations, and helped your husband to accumulate substantial holdings. Now that he has become the sole breadwinner, it is a bit hard for him to adjust himself to the situation. However, it is only right that he be responsible for your doctor bills until you get yourself back in good physical shape. Ask your husband to go with you to see our doctor, and have the doctor explain your physical condition to him—and he can convince your husband of the importance of your receiving medical aid as soon as possible. Your husband can be handled with tact. He likes to feel that he is the head of the house and the finances—grant him that position, make him feel that you are dependent on him, and his generosity will be tapped.

Green Peppers Tasty As Main Course Fare

While we think of green peppers primarily as seasoners, they can play several interesting roles as main course fare—Remove the stems and seeds and stuff them with a meat or fish croquette mixture or a combination of cooked vegetables, as corn and green beans or peas, carrots and celery. Top them with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until the filling is thoroughly heated and the peppers tender. If you wish to shorten the baking time, steam the peppers for a few minutes before you stuff them.

Best known are the wine-red gems, others ranging from light browns and red through the darker shades to black. Some specimens have measured over two feet in diameter, and 6 to 12-inch crystals are commonly found.

Because garnet is very hard and can be broken into angular grains with sharp chisel-like edges, it is well adapted for use as an abrasive. Abrasive cloth or paper made from crushed garnet is excellent for smoothing wood surfaces before applying varnish or shellac, also for finishing boots, shoes and many articles made of rubber, leather and plastics.

Giant Bombsight

A giant bombsight which has never been off the ground—and never will be—is doing a king-size job at home in preparing cadets of the army air forces training command for raids against the Axis. This super-sight is bolted to the floor in classrooms of training command bombardier schools and there it will remain until victory. Five feet high, eight feet long and five feet wide, it compares in size to the actual AAF bombsight as a washtub compares to a wristwatch. In order to maintain their reputation as the world's finest bombsights, it is necessary that bombardier cadets be thoroughly familiar with the inner workings of their precision aiming device. Some of its vital parts are almost microscopic in size. The instructors concluded that a "big" bombsight, with correspondingly "big" parts, would enable the cadet to see more clearly just how things ticked on the inside when he drew a bead on an enemy target.

Saves Ducks
Countless thousands of wild ducks and geese can be saved by timely use of botulinus antitoxin, according to Dr. E. R. Quorrup of the Wildlife Disease research station, Brigham, Utah. Antitoxin treatment is combined with good management practices, including shifting affected birds to fresh water ponds and shade.

The administration of antitoxin to 327 ducks taken at random, without regard to degree of sickness, gave an 87 per cent recovery, while only 64 per cent recovered from 207 birds which received no treatment. The difference between 87 per cent and 64 per cent is 23 per cent, this being the percentage of birds actually saved by antitoxin.

Of severely affected birds, 82.09 per cent recovered when antitoxin was given; only 18 per cent recovered spontaneously without antitoxin. The curative dose of botulinus antitoxin for ducks is 2 cc., for wild geese 5 to 10 cc. Thus, the cost of saving a sick duck is only about five cents.

Gold Alloys

Alloying of gold with other metals modifies the characteristic bright yellow of gold itself and results in varying shades that have added to the decorative appeal of the precious metal. Usually the color of alloys is a modification of the colors of the constituent metals, but sometimes the scientist is surprised by getting an alloy entirely different from what would be expected from the colors of the metals used.

Thus, when 22 parts of aluminum are added to 78 parts of gold, an intensely purple, or ruby-colored, alloy results. Unfortunately this truly beautiful alloy is very brittle, and cannot be produced in sheet or wire form. Whether it will be possible to take advantage of its extremely beautiful color for decorative pieces of jewelry, etc., by attaching small pieces of the alloy to a gold background, remains to be seen.

Making Water Wetter
Strangely enough one of the newest derivatives of petroleum to become valuable is a material to make water wetter. That paradox is not as strange as it seems since there are a great many things water will not normally wet—ducks' backs, raw wool, greases—and a great many others. However, if soap is dissolved in water, as everyone knows, it has power to wet more different kinds of materials than without soap, and is therefore, in a sense, wetter. Modern industry, and that includes particularly textiles among many, has used a great many different kinds of materials to help soap to do its job of "wetting" water better. The latest of these is being made from petroleum, from the molecules broken too small for use in gasoline by the cracking process.

Potatoes Packed With Lye During Processing
White potatoes are "lye peeled" after being stored in a well-ventilated room at 70 degrees Fahrenheit for at least one week. They are first washed in hot water to remove surface dirt, and are conveyed through about a 20 per cent caustic soda solution at a temperature just below boiling for nearly three minutes to loosen the skins, eyes and surface blemishes.

The potatoes are then mechanically conveyed through a rotating cold-water washer where they are freed of skins, loose eyes, and all caustic water sprays. The potatoes then pass over an inspection belt where they are inspected for any remaining defects and, when necessary, deeply embedded eyes and stem ends are trimmed by hand.

In the largest potato processing plant in the world, located in Caldwell, Idaho, 450,000 pounds of raw potatoes are peeled every 24 hours.

SHE ALWAYS WINS THE PARTY LINE VOTE

Her "good neighbor" policy is simple, friendly, workable—she uses her party line telephone in the considerate way that neighbors recognize... and appreciate.

She listens to see whether the line is in use before placing a call—and hangs up quietly if it is. She watches the length of her calls, allows time between them for others to use the line.

No wonder her friends would vote her the ideal party line neighbor. No wonder, either, that they show her the same telephone courtesy.

School Lunchbox Gets Zip With Citrus

A LUNCHBOX can be as full of zip as the tangerine or orange tucked in, Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, advises mothers faced with the daily problem of making their school-age youngsters' noon lunch zesty.

"It can be just as refreshing as the thermos of grapefruit juice," she writes in the Country Cooking section of the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. "Citrus fruit supplies vitamin C as well as interest to the lunchbox."

Another citrus delicacy that can perform the twofold assignment of providing a tempting dessert for home meals or a toothsome addition to the lunchbox, is Orange Bread. It is simple to make and quickly becomes a family favorite.

This bread requires only 1/2 cup of sugar and may be served with or without frosting.

Orange Bread.

1 large orange	1 teaspoon vanilla
Hot water	1/2 cup white sugar
Raisins	2 cups flour
1/2 cup nuts	1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening	1/2 teaspoon soda
2 eggs, beaten	1/2 teaspoon salt

Squeeze juice from orange and add hot water to make 1 cup. Put rind and pulp of orange through food chopper and add raisins to make 1 cup. Combine liquid, fruit, nuts and melted shortening. Add eggs and flavoring. Add sifted dry ingredients in 3 portions. Mix only enough to dampen flour. Bake in a moderate oven (350-F.) from 50 to 60 minutes.

This recipe for Orange Bread was selected from hundreds sent in by readers of the Country Cooking department of the farm magazine, which invites homemakers to submit practical, wartime recipes each month.

CONGRESSMAN ADAM POWELL, JR. AMONG NAACP YOUTH SPEAKERS

New York—The NAACP Youth Conference which will be held at Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., November 17-19, 1944, promises to be the largest in the history of the Association. Seriously interested in the theme, "Building for Total Democracy," delegates have already registered from states as far distant as Michigan, Massachusetts, Alabama and Georgia. Since the NAACP Youth membership has more than doubled in the past year, it is expected that the number of delegates will be far in excess of the 200 attending last year's conference.

Dr. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., New York's first Negro Congressman and pastor of the World's largest Protestant church, Abyssinian Baptist, will deliver the keynote address at the opening mass meeting on Friday night, November 17. Response will be made by Mrs. Ruby Hurley, magnetic young youth secretary.

The Mother, Stewardess Day at the Mt. Zion Spiritual church on Nov. 12 was a success with Rev. Floyd Humble, white evangelist of Bloomington, Ill., as guest speaker.

Gem and Abrasive
The garnet is a member of the mineral family that varies in use from a gem, worn for personal decoration, to an abrasive, utilized in industry. Although widely distributed, garnets are found in only a few places in sufficient quantities to make their commercial recovery profitable.

Best known are the wine-red gems, others ranging from light browns and red through the darker shades to black. Some specimens have measured over two feet in diameter, and 6 to 12-inch crystals are commonly found.

Because garnet is very hard and can be broken into angular grains with sharp chisel-like edges, it is well adapted for use as an abrasive. Abrasive cloth or paper made from crushed garnet is excellent for smoothing wood surfaces before applying varnish or shellac, also for finishing boots, shoes and many articles made of rubber, leather and plastics.

Giant Bombsight
A giant bombsight which has never been off the ground—and never will be—is doing a king-size job at home in preparing cadets of the army air forces training command for raids against the Axis. This super-sight is bolted to the floor in classrooms of training command bombardier schools and there it will remain until victory. Five feet high, eight feet long and five feet wide, it compares in size to the actual AAF bombsight as a wash tub compares to a wristwatch. In order to maintain their reputation as the world's finest bombsights, it is necessary that bombardier cadets be thoroughly familiar with the inner workings of their precision-aiming device. Some of its vital parts are almost microscopic in size. The instructors concluded that a "big" bombsight, with correspondingly "big" parts, would enable the cadet to see more clearly just how things ticked on the inside when he drew a bead on an enemy target.

Saves Ducks
Countless thousands of wild-duck and geese can be saved by timely use of botulinus antitoxin, according to Dr. E. R. Quortrup of the Wildlife Disease research station, Brigham, Utah. Antitoxin treatment is combined with good management practices, including shifting affected birds to fresh water ponds and shade.

The administration of antitoxin to 327 ducks taken at random, without regard to degree of sickness, gave an 87 per cent recovery, while only 64 per cent recovered from 207 birds which received no treatment. The difference between 87 per cent and 64 per cent is 23 per cent, this being the percentage of birds actually saved by antitoxin.

Of severely affected birds, 82.09 per cent recovered when antitoxin was given; only 18 per cent recovered spontaneously without antitoxin. The curative dose of botulinus antitoxin for ducks is 2 cc., for wild geese 5 to 10 cc. Thus, the cost of saving a sick duck is only about five cents.

Green Peppers Tasty As Main Course Fare
While we think of green peppers primarily as seasoners, they can play several interesting roles as main course fare. Remove the stems and seeds and stuff them with a meat or fish croquette mixture or a combination of cooked vegetables, as corn and green beans or peas, carrots and celery. Top them with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until the filling is thoroughly heated and the peppers tender. If you wish to shorten the baking time, steam the peppers for a few minutes before you stuff them.

Corn and green pepper scallop is another favorite combination. Mix two parts of whole kernel corn with one part of minced green peppers. Add enough thin cream sauce to moisten, season to taste with salt, pepper and a dash of nutmeg, and turn into a greased baking dish. Top with crumbs and a tablespoon or two of minced raw bacon and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until golden brown and thoroughly heated.

Vary the scallop occasionally by using a portion of lima beans along with the corn. Baked or boiled ham, cooked chicken or veal may be combined with the vegetables for a substantial main course dish. Instead of the minced bacon topping use strips or slices and run the casserole under low broiler heat to crisp the bacon just before you send the dish to the table.

Potatoes Packed With Lye During Processing
White potatoes are "lye peeled" after being stored in a well-ventilated room—at 70 degrees Fahrenheit for at least one week. They are first washed in hot water to remove surface dirt, and are conveyed through about a 20 per cent caustic soda solution at a temperature just below boiling for nearly three minutes to loosen the skins, eyes and surface blemishes.

The potatoes are then mechanically conveyed through a rotating cold-water washer where they are freed of skins, loose eyes, and all caustic soda by means of high pressure water sprays. The potatoes then pass over an inspection belt where they are inspected for any remaining defects and, when necessary, deeply embedded eyes and stem ends are trimmed by hand.

In the largest potato processing plant in the world, located in Caldwell, Idaho, 450,000 pounds of raw potatoes are peeled every 24 hours.

Gold Alloys
Alloying of gold with other metals modifies the characteristic bright yellow of gold itself and results in varying shades that have added to the decorative appeal of the precious metal. Usually the color of alloys is a modification of the colors of the constituent metals, but sometimes the scientist is surprised by getting an alloy entirely different from what would be expected from the colors of the metals used.

Thus, when 22 parts of aluminum are added to 78 parts of gold, an intensely purple, or ruby-colored, alloy results. Unfortunately this truly beautiful alloy is very brittle, and cannot be produced in sheet or wire form. Whether it will be possible to take advantage of its extremely beautiful color for decorative pieces of jewelry, etc., by attaching small pieces of the alloy to a gold background, remains to be seen.

Making Water Wetter
Strangely enough one of the newest derivatives of petroleum to become valuable is a material to make water wetter. That paradox is not as strange as it seems since there are a great many things water will not normally wet—ducks' backs, raw wool, greases and a great many others. However, if soap is dissolved in water, as everyone knows, it has power to wet more different kinds of materials than without soap, and is therefore, in a sense, wetter. Modern industry, and that includes particularly textiles among many, has used a great many different kinds of materials to help soap or to do its job of "wetting" water better. The latest of these is being made from petroleum, from the molecules broken too small for use in gasoline by the cracking process.

School Lunchbox Gets Zip With Citrus

A LUNCHBOX can be as full of zip as the tangerine or orange tucked in, Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, advises mothers faced with the daily problem of making their school-age youngsters' noon lunch zestful.

"It can be just as refreshing as the thermos of grapefruit juice," she writes in the Country Cooking section of the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. "Citrus fruit supplies vitamin C as well as interest to the lunchbox."

Another citrus delicacy that can perform the twofold assignment of providing a tempting dessert for home meals or a toothsome addition to the lunchbox, is Orange Bread. It is simple to make and quickly becomes a family favorite.

This bread requires only 1/2 cup of sugar and may be served with or without frosting.

Orange Bread.
 1 large orange 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Hot water 1/2 cup white sugar
 Raisins 2 cups flour
 1/2 cup nuts 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 2 tablespoons shortening 1/2 teaspoon soda
 2 EGGS, beaten 1/2 teaspoon salt

Squeeze juice from orange and add hot water to make 1 cup. Put rind and pulp of orange through food chopper and add raisins to make 1 cup. Combine liquid, fruit, nuts and melted shortening. Add eggs and flavoring. Add sifted dry ingredients in 3 portions. Mix only enough to dampen flour. Bake in a moderate oven (350-F.) from 50 to 60 minutes.

This recipe for Orange Bread was selected from hundreds sent in by readers of the Country Cooking department of the farm magazine, which invites homemakers to submit practical, wartime recipes each month.

CONGRESSMAN ADAM POWELL, JR. AMONG NAACP YOUTH SPEAKERS

New York—The NAACP Youth Conference which will be held at Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., November 17-19, 1944, promises to be the largest in the history of the Association. Seriously interested in the theme, "Building for Total Democracy," delegates have already registered from states as far distant as Michigan, Massachusetts, Alabama and Georgia. Since the NAACP Youth membership has more than doubled in the past year, it is expected that the number of delegates will be far in excess of the 200 attending last year's conference.

Dr. Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., New York's first Negro Congressman and pastor of the World's largest Protestant church, Abyssinian Baptist, will deliver the keynote address at the opening mass meeting on Friday night, November 17. Response will be made by Mrs. Ruby Hurley, magnetic young youth secretary.

AS WE CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING DAY

Next Thursday we celebrate Thanksgiving day. Originally observed by the Pilgrims in 1621, since that time the president and governors of state have by proclamation designated the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day.

These early founders of America had gone through some tough experiences which brought no crops, suffering and death. But as they began to see the light and were blessed with food and a few other necessities of life, they felt that some concerted manifestation of their appreciation ought to be given Him who provides all their blessings.

The United States, in 1944, is passing through another dark experience in the history of the country, and while we have ample necessities of life and even luxuries, we are at grips with two powerful enemies abroad which will tax our manpower and resources for days to come. Inevitably we shall win but not without the loss of many men and untold dollars.

An equally great crisis is that of making a peace which will avoid such colossal wars as we are fighting. In arriving at a lasting peace, compromises must be made and some nations must give up old self sufficient arrogant ideas they have held which invariably have pushed them into war.

The people within our nation have a big job to do winning peace among themselves for jealousies have sprung up or been intensified during the war which are bound to give trouble unless they are stamped out by stern methods.

But even though there is much to be done in the future, we can in 1944 look back over the year's work and be thankful for many things. As a nation, although bought with money made available from the blood of our men in armed service, we have ample food, clothing and the other necessities of life; our country, has been spared the ravages of an enemy occupied land or devastation by the cruel weapons, but best of all we are on our way to victory.

We ought to be proud; we ought to be thankful, not only because we are winning but also that our cause is right and just.

NEGROES IMPROVE HOUSING CONDITIONS

Some years ago after George Schuyler, noted columnist, visited Des Moines, he wrote an article about his visit here. Among other things he said Des Moines Negroes were poorly housed and nobody will deny that he told the truth.

Schuyler did not attempt to analyze the cause. We knew it all the time for the poor type of employment heretofore available to Negroes made that condition inevitable.

Since 1940, as millions of men have gone into the service and war industries sprang up and expanded Negroes have had a fair share of the work available — thanks in part to the Des Moines Branch NAACP and the FEPC — consequently their income has been more nearly in line with that of others in the community.

This rise in income has evidenced itself in the better type homes Negroes are occupying, the improvements made both in and out and the seeming desire to maintain them and live more comfortably. The addition of siding and new paint on the outside, redecoration and other improvements on the inside have been the rule in so many instances that this dark picture about which Schuyler spoke

Letter To Editor

Regarding "Roosevelt Wins; What Now?" an editorial appearing in the Nov. 9 issue of the Bystander, Rev. Wm. H. Waeber, retired Methodist minister, 777 W. Thirteenth street, wrote to the editor this week: "It certainly was timely and impressive."

Continuing the letter the Rev. Mr. Wheeler informed that he had also read Mr. Kent's article which appeared in the Register in which he dwelt on the "inconsistencies of the President, especially with reference to the press. Then Mr. Childs of the Register was criticizing 'The Old Guard'."

"Mr. Childs concluded by saying, quoting from the Nov. 9 issue, 'The American people didn't want the Fourth Term. They took it because there seemed to be no alternative.' No wonder one has said—'consistency—thou art a jewel!'"

"While the electoral vote was high for the President, his much falling off in the popular vote is significant. Something is being rightfully said along this line and I am thinking more will follow."

The minister informed that he "was really disturbed and sorry for several reasons for Gov. Dewey's defeat—but he did nobly when you consider all told, the mountain he had to climb—almost a shame! Dewey has made an inspiring and informing battle for the presidency."

"I am still and more so since a beginning of a '16-year-reign'—absolutely opposed to the breaking to the worthy American tradition for 150 years, viz.: giving more than two years to a president. In my mind as it was in the mind of some of our great statesmen. It is not good for the man nor the country. Properly and unbiased analyzed, would reveal the truth."

DRAKE AND IOWA STATE PLAY SATURDAY

There was little rejoicing in the Drake football camp Monday as a result of Saturday's expected victory over Missouri Valley Navy men. The 31 to 0 win did keep Coach V. J. Green's men in the nation's undefeated list and it also kept Del Cockayne among the country's top-ranking scorers.

However, the team's general play was not the sort that would boost its prospects for next Saturday's crucial contest with Iowa State.

All available statistics point to the Iowa State men as favorites in this forty-fourth renewal of their grid rivalry. The Cyclones have won 28 of the past games, Drake has taken 11 and there have been four ties.

In addition, the Cyclones playing on their own Clyde Williams field have always been a far tougher foe for Drake than when playing away.

Scoring Column Del Cockayne forged far to the front in the Drake scoring column when two touchdowns against Missouri Valley brought his season's total to 78. This placed him fourth in the national list and kept him in first place among Missouri Valley Independents.

Elmer Patterson, Negro right halfback from Emporia, Kans., racked up 18 points in his first game for Drake on the home field last Saturday.

Frank Weik of Des Moines is second in the Drake list with 30 points. Third place with 18 points is held by Patterson, Don Welcher, end, of Hanford, Calif., and Bob Clark, right halfback of Des Moines (now in service). Emmanuel "Muggsy" Migliorisi holds next rank with 14 points made by conversions. Six points each have been made by Eugene Shipp, quarterback of Manning, Ia., George Kita, fullback of San Diego, Calif., Dan McHugh, right halfback of Joliet, Ill., Joe Salerno, quarterback of Omaha, Neb., and Bill Reed, end, of Des Moines (now in service). Glenn Graham, right halfback from Hutchinson, Ill., has made two points on conversions.

While we are on the subject of Big Ten Ball, we might as well go out on the limb to add that Young and Patterson will have about the same kind of luck against the giant Buckeye line as they had against Michigan. But if they can get a few passes loose, one or the other may get away for at least a score. Even though the Illini lose.

There wasn't much that Paul Robinson could do as his team got swamped last week, but, the Eastern papers say that he was in there trying.

BIG TEN FOOTBALL

The fundamental weakness of the Illinois team finally showed up enough to trip Messrs. Young, Patterson and Co. last Saturday as the Wolverines set them back on their heels 14 to 0.

It had been apparent all season that the Illini needed a crashing fullback to crack the center of the line in order to keep it close-knit and let the running backfield run.

Up till last Saturday, they had met no team strong enough in the line to keep them from gaining ground so they could always shake Buddy loose, or break Patterson loose on a quick off-tackle play to get out in the open. But there was no cracking the big Michigan line in the middle Saturday, and all they had to do was spread their defense wide and let Young run. An the Michigan tackles were too strong for the Illini to handle well enough to break Patterson away so the ends would have to come in closer. There was your ball game.

Young Gene Derricote, who had been sort of playing second fiddle to the other Michigan backs, came into his own last week, and set up the first Wolverine score by personally escorting the ball to paydirt so it was a simple matter for another back to crash over. He also played a big part in the second score, and in general stood out as one of the outstanding backs of the game. He will likely get his chance to pass against the big Ohio State line and Bill Willis next week.

Willis didn't get into the game against Pittsburg last week, and was probably being saved for the big one with the Wolverines. Coffee of Indiana didn't start against Minnesota, but got into the thing for a while, but we didn't see where he helped matters much.

While we are on the subject of Big Ten Ball, we might as well go out on the limb to add that Young and Patterson will have about the same kind of luck against the giant Buckeye line as they had against Michigan. But if they can get a few passes loose, one or the other may get away for at least a score. Even though the Illini lose.

There wasn't much that Paul Robinson could do as his team got swamped last week, but, the Eastern papers say that he was in there trying.

Jimmy Wants a Star on Christmas Tree and Cake, Candy, Nuts, and Bracket.

To "My Dearest Mother," Private First Class James L. (Jimmy) McGuire, Jr., wrote from somewhere in the South Pacific a letter to Mrs. Minnie McGuire, 1101 Eleventh street, revealing his desire for the coming Christmas.

"Oh! for Christmas I want a silver chain (heavy) identification bracelet. I lost my other one in a skirmish just before my three-day rest period," Jimmy wrote and added just how he desired the bracelet to be inscribed with "Mother & Dad—Love."

"That's all I want for Christmas except a picture of you and dad together in front of the car. Also, more candy and nuts and fruit cake. Oh, Mom, make the identification bracelet very masculine and sturdy looking. "How about some pictures of the house from different views and garage and all? Also a picture of the car all by itself—also a picture of Dad's police car."

"That's all I want for Christmas—And, Mom, put a big star on the Christmas tree and Mom you put it on the tree and have Dad take it off. You may think I am sentimental but I feel sort of sentimental at this time being—"

Young Iowa Captain in Italy Says Returning Negro Vet 'Will Not Be the Same'

"No, Miss Ross, I wasn't a fighter as you call it until I became faced with realities or at least I really wasn't conscious of the fact," wrote Capt. R. G. Pitts of the 99th Fighter Squadron, on Oct. 27, from somewhere in Italy, in response to a letter from the columnist.

"It really didn't occur to me the difficulties a man of color must encounter in order to succeed in life. Now, if that is what you mean by being a fighter then I have a long story to tell along that line but knowing that the struggle has just begun, I'm afraid that I would rather not delve into that subject for the time."

"You will recall that I mentioned in my previous letter that I am interested in your profession. That is true, but not so much from the standpoint of writing as it is from the publishing angle."

Captain Pitts, nephew of Mrs. Josie Gibson, 1167 Eleventh street, is a native of Keokuk, Ia., where he graduated from the Keokuk Senior high school in 1938.
