Lynch Victims Safe After Visit to Scene

In Custody of NAACP and Marshalls, Louisianans Appear Before Grand Jury

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Albert Harris Jr. and his father Albert Harris Sr., are today safe in their home in the midwest after a dramatic return visit to Louisiana, where on August 8 John Jones was brutally murdered by a sadistic mob and young Harris pitilessly beaten before he made his escape. The Harrises are alive today, however, because they made the trip closely guarded by U. S. marshalls, following a request addressed to the NAACP by the Justice Department that they be present when the Department presented the evidence of their investigation to the Grand Jury in Monroe, Louisiana, last Saturday.

Since Monroe is notorious for its Ku Kluxism and mob violence, Walter White told the Justice Department that a NAACP representative would accompany the Harrises to Monroe, but insisted that the Justice Department assume full responsibility for the Harrises' safety from the minute they left the midwestern state where they are now living, under the care of the NAACP, until their return.

To do this, it was necessary for the Harrises to place themselves voluntarily in the protective custody of the U. S. Government as material witnesses. They, therefore, were required to appear, at a closed hearing, before a federal judge in the midwest so that no one would know about their plan to go back to Louisiana. In that State, they risked facing the mob which the NAACP knew would stop at nothing to close young Albert Harris's mouth forever, as he was an eye-witness to the lynching and can positively identify some members of the mob, which included deputy sheriffs.

The Harrises traveled to Louisiana in a drawing room, accompanied by the executive secretary of one of the NAACP branches, and guarded by several U. S. marshalls at all times.

They testified before the grand jury on Monday, and left immediately afterward for their home in the midwest. The announcement that they had testified was withheld by the Justice Department until their safe return was established.

Success in Business Depends Upon 'Guts, Brawn and Brains' Speaker Declares at Dept. of Commerce Parley

By JAMES L. GLOCKS
NNPA Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, D. C.—America will think little of the color of a man's skin in buying a product, if that product is good, delivered as represented and sold on a competitive basis.

This suggestive expression made at the closing of the conference on the Negro in business last Saturday morning, was indicative of the attitude of the business men in attendance as they explored the potentialities of foreign trade, federally-sponsored field extension business service.

George W. Kerford, president of the Kerford Quarry Company, Atchison, Kansas, who made the statement, struck the keynote of the three-day conference which was sponsored by the Commerce Department.

The three-day session began last Thursday night with a welcome address by Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman. More than 700 business men and women representing every state in the union and Haiti and the Virgin Islands, were in attendance. The sessions were held in the Commerce Department auditorium.

The delegates last Friday had heard Denis Fenelon, commercial attache to the embassy of Haiti, chide them for their failure to seek foreign trade.

Speaks in French

In a fifteen minute address delivered entirely in French, which was later translated by Mercer Cook, Howard University professor, Mr. Fenelon told of the trade potentialities of his country—how it abounded in brain power, had abundant labor, was well supplied with material, and lacked only the capital which the colored business man had at his disposal in this country.

Directing his attention to the insurance men attending the conference, Mrs. Fenelon said:

"In my country, Negro insurance companies shine by their absence."

The training of the colored man in business education was discussed at the Friday morning session in a panel chaired by John W. Davis, president of West Virginia State College.

This session heard Dr. Vishnu V. Oak, professor of economics and sociology at Wilberforce University, charge that vocational guidance is vague in the minds of many colored educators.

Dr. Oak stirred some 500 delegates attending the session by declaring that college freshmen should not be advised as to what course they should pursue throughout their four-year academic period. They should be allowed freedom to change

MAILING PERIOD FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS TO OVERSEAS SOLDIERS OPENS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Postoffices throughout the nation began accepting 1946 Christmas packages destined for Army personnel overseas October 15. The special gift mailing period, during which packages may be sent without request slips to overseas soldiers, will continue until November 15, according to Major General Edward F. Witsell, The Adjutant General, under whose direction the Army's postal system is operated.

In the past years the gift mailing period has been set from September 15 to October 15, but this year, with the number of troops overseas greatly reduced and their movement stabilized and location better known, postoffice officials and Army postal officers decided the mailing period could be moved back a month. With the change, officials expect that gifts will be delivered to the soldier in the days immediately before Christmas Day, adding to their sentimental value and the spirit of the Christmas season.

NO NEGRO GUARDSMEN

By LUTHER HENRY SMITH, SR. Regional insecurity exists among Negroes in states where they have been denied National Guard Units, is the opinion expressed in an editorial of the current issue of The Central Christian Advocate published by the Methodist Church in New Orleans, La.

Many years ago there had been Negro National Guards units in the State of Georgia but these had been abolished. C. A. Scott editor of the Atlanta Daily World had asked for the re-establishment of these units. This appeal has set off a nation wide discussion of the practice in some states of refusing to grant this privilege. Quoting the Advocate:

"The attempt now inaugurated to resurrect such a unit is an attempt to bring the state back in line with its earlier and more liberal policy, a policy pursued by Governor Arnall. Instead of Mr. Scott's appeal being an effort to revive ancient race animosities, it is an appeal to revive the former glory of the state.

"The petition, moreover, brings out in the open one of those hidden spots in race relations in states that have the same type of laws and practices that Georgia has. Throughout such states the most deep-seated feeling in the heart of the Negro, the thing he most deeply suffers from, is the sense of personal insecurity. This feeling that is in the heart of practically every Negro in such states, that his life counts for nothing at all where the will and pleasure of a white person are concerned, colors all the attitudes and actions of the members of the race. It is the basic element in the race's struggle for the ballot, for the Uncle Toming, the migrations, and for much of the sensitiveness and crime. It warps the religious life and the moral code of the race, represses many an expression of noble feeling, and is a moral cancer in the entire life of the Negro people."

In Iowa there seems to be a similar situation about the establishment of Negro National Guard units. The present state administrators seem reluctant to grant this action for which Negro Republican leaders have been asking. Recently Brig. Gen. Charles H. Grahl announced the location of 18 companies which will make up the 133rd infantry regiment of the Iowa National Guard. There were no Negro units named.

COMES UP WITH "ATOMIC BOOGIE"

PETE JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY, (CNS)—Pete Johnson, the Kansas City Boogie Woogie King, now house-warming the cozy Cafe Society Downtown night club, is quite proud of his newest addition to the recording field—"The Atomic Boogie."

"We've had everything else 'atomic,' from the blues to the bomb itself," Pete says, "so why not a boogie with power behind it?"

This amazing boogie has a set of supporting men all its own: Jack Parker, drums; Abe Bolar, bass; Jimmy Shirley, guitar, Hot Lips Page, trumpet; Don Stovall, sax; Bud Johnson tenor sax and Clyde Bernard, trombone. "Atomic" is a National record with "Back Room Blues" featuring Pete and Hot Lips Page, on the reverse.

Already winning acclaim, "Atomic Boogie" was honored by being chosen as the top record of the month by Bandleaders Magazine. In addition, The Billboard rated it as most likely to achieve the over-all best sellers list and the most-played charts. And—the city's disc jockeys are wearing it out.

Louis Jordan Stars In Movie at Family

Louis Jordan portrays a prominent band leader in the feature picture, "Beware" which opened Thursday night, Oct. 24, for an extended run at the Family theater, 511 Locust street.

Jordan returns to his home college, Ware, and saves it from supposed financial difficulty by putting on a benefit show. The imagined difficulty caused by Milton Woods who is attempting to close the college and thus force the physical education instructor, Valarie Black, to marry him.

Louis saves the school and breaks up the unwelcome romance and claims Miss Black as his bride. The acting is uniformly superb. Other members of the cast are Frank Wilson as the lovable Prof. Drury, Emory Richardson as the dignified Dean Hargrave, Benjamin Ward, Eddie Byrd.

The producer-director is Bud Polard.

The picture, however, is primarily Louis Jordan's. A slam-bang hit, it gives Decca's leading Negro recorder a chance to put across the sort of numbers which made him famous in the way his millions of fans love. "Fig Leaf For Eve," a Belmont picture, is a love-spiced comedy-drama starring the bright new team of Jan Wiley and Phil Warren.

October 16 were: James A. Wilson, Jr., step-son, and his daughter, Miss Ione Wilson of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Lorna Morgan, sister-in-law from Milwaukee, Wis.; Mr. Clark Wilson, brother-in-law, Mr. Bland Woods, cousin, Mrs. Earl Lewis, niece, all of Chicago; Mrs. Edith Gordon, daughter, and Mrs. Julia Del Rosa, of Waterloo.

PERSONAL TOUCH
By MARIE ROSS

A recent search to learn something of the Negro's arrival at Des Moines for a historical report that will be a part of the Urban League's survey among Negroes here, led to some of the residents who are still active in local affairs and are known as "Old Timers" here.

Mention the words "Negro History" and every other person will refer you to the veteran Iowa attorney, S. Joe Brown, the native Ottumwan who recently moved his law office from the Watrous building where he had been located over 40 years to his Fifth avenue residence.

Someone mentioned Mrs. Elvira Shepherd of 1014 Laurel street who can remember when the Iowa By-stander was founded 52 years ago by ten men, one of whom was her husband. This week Mrs. Shepherd was busy going to a series of religious lectures at the Hoyt Sherman Place. Since September she has heard seventeen lectures and is hoping to complete the series of 22.

Mrs. Shepherd mentioned the name of a neighbor, Mrs. Eva Owens and the W. M. Warricks, who were here in Des Moines when she came as a young lady.

Mr. Warrick came to Des Moines on Sept. 22, 1882 from Lebanon, Mo., "looking for a better place to live." He found a good many more Negroes here who had also come from Missouri and most of the Negroes were holding jobs as barbers, porters or janitors. He recalled that one Negro had a horse-drawn transfer company. He cannot forget the day when Martha came into his life. He over-stayed his time while meeting her and when he returned to his work-late—he was fired, he laughed. He and Martha have been happily married for over 55 years.

The Warricks recalled that Harry Hughes and Douglas Miller were around in Des Moines about that time.

At the Iowa State Capital building Mr. Miller is still on the job—serving as messenger to Governor Blue. Born in Missouri, he came to Iowa when a child and arrived in Des Moines about 1880 he recalled. He named Robert Hyde who manufactured a soap, Horace Lewis—and quite a settlement of Negroes around 12th and Center streets.

These are just a few of the residents who have been in Des Moines many years. Persons who have been living in Des Moines a longer time than the above mentioned residents are invited to make themselves known by contacting the By-stander office, news department.

Perplexed—I am a senior in high school. I manage to hear the wolf call sometimes but my problem is why can't I hold my man? Sure, I can get a boy friend with the charms most girls have but after that something goes wrong. Sometimes the boys "cut out" because of someone else. Sometimes I'm responsible for losing them because I say something "smart." I hope you can help me because if this keeps on I may be an old maid.

Ans: Enjoy a few years of fun and popularity before concentrating your efforts toward winning a husband. You have no difficulty attracting the fellows which is a mighty important factor in your favor. You must learn to be more tactful in your dealings with the opposite sex and use diplomacy in handling them. Keep them sufficiently interested in you but guessing, be entertaining and congenial and keep conversation flowing but never centered around yourself. Make the boys enjoy your company and they will come back.

B.T.—I am 23, married and have three children. Now I am on my vacation and since here I met a man friend who is married too. He's so nice to me but my husband is also. Do you think I had better go home or wait? This man seems to be wild about this man. And if my husband hears about this man, do you think he would quit me?

Ans: Pack your duds and get back home. You were sent on a vacation and not an adventurous love-feast. You know very well what your husband would do if he gets wind of this other man. He would make it hot for you. As for the other man... you're just another pebble on the beach to him and it wouldn't worry him at all for you to make your exit.

WHY NOT CORRECT CONDITION AT HOME?

Bulgaria, one of the countries near Russia and which the U. S. and other of the Big Four nations say is under Russian influence, will hold an election shortly. Fearful that the forces which favor Russia may get the upper hand or may so dominate the election that their candidates will succeed that our state department is making representation to Bulgaria that they expect to watch what goes on very carefully in order to help insure a free election.

Right here in America, we are holding an election on November 5. Our government knows that thousands of men and women will be denied the right to vote for no other reason than that they are Negroes. But as yet our officials in Washington have said and done little about it in the states where these conditions exist and yet they make a lot of noise about what is happening thousands of miles away.

It is little wonder that Russia is suspicious of many of the things Secretary of State Burns says because they know that he rose to power and position by advocating the denial of the right of some people to vote and the conduct of free elections. They just can't understand a person who lives and practices one thing and talks another. And it is hard to have much confidence in a fellow who does this.

VETS SHOULD GRAB OPPORTUNITIES

Last week the Bystander carried a story which printed a dark picture with reference to the treatment of Negroes in Veterans Administration hospitals. Other articles have criticized the Veterans Administration and communities where veterans facilities are located that Negroes are not getting the full benefit of the GI bill. This, the Bystander knows is true. Service organizations ought to arouse sentiment in behalf of a change in that policy.

Business Conference

(SEE FRONT PAGE) Their minds and their courses at any time, he declared. His statement brought approval from H. Naylor Fitzhugh, head of the Howard University School of Commerce and Finance.

To Train People

"We need to train people in those aspects of this total thing we call business which can be more effectively done in the classroom than in the school of experience," Mr. Fitzhugh said.

Offers Support

"I will do all I can, personally and legitimately to develop Negroes both in small business and large business," he concluded.

N. Harvey Receives Bystander in Japan

"Received the Bystander paper Saturday—which enjoyed reading very much," wrote Pfc. Nathan Harvey on October 14 from Kobe, Japan. "Claude Phillips read it also. He also said that he hasn't written to you—so I suppose you have a lot to pick with him."

"I received a letter from one of my dear old Des Moines friends telling me some news before the paper came. Some of the boys I came into the army with are home now. I don't have too long now before I'll be on my way out myself."

"They are raiding a lot around there lately, I see. They took sixty out of one place—is that so? Well, I don't have much to say so I'll close for now. Pfc. N. Harvey, 2349 1226 Engr. Fire Fgnt. Pltn., APO 317 C/O Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. Clarence Bogan Talks to Lieutenant Son, John Roberts, in Rome, Italy Mrs. Clarence Bogan, 833 E. 24th street, was all thrilled on Tuesday afternoon when she talked with her son, Lt. John Roberts, who is stationed with the army in Rome, Italy.

This is the second telephone conversation Mrs. Bogan has had from her son who has been in Italy for two years. The three-minute message which cost the son about $37 informed the Iowan of a grandson, born three months ago. The lieutenant is married to an Italian girl.

Mrs. Bogan said that her son felt "homesick" and wanted to hear the voice of his mother. He went into the services when World War II was declared and intends to remain in Italy indefinitely after he is discharged from the services.

To be certain that Mrs. Bogan would not miss her telephone call, the Northwestern Bell company informed her on Monday night that a call would be coming through to her about 3 p.m. Tuesday. She got the connection with Italy about 4 p.m.
