Argue 4 Restrictive Covenant Cases

After Arguments, Court Observers Split Equally In Opinions on Results

By LOUIS LAUTIER
Washington, D. C.—(NNPA)—If books were made on the outcome of cases before the United States Supreme Court, like handbooks on horse races, the odds on the four racial restrictive covenant cases probably would be 5 to 4—take your choice.

After the arguments were ended last Friday, court observers were divided in their opinions on the results. Some saw the court splitting, 4 to 2, for invalidation, or dividing equally. In the latter event, the decisions of the lower courts upholding covenants would stand.

Lawyers for the petitioners in the four cases appeared to be disconsolate as they left the courtroom at the end of the arguments. Privately they expressed a belief that the cases were lost.

One guess was that Justices Hugo L. Black and Felix Frankfurter were wavering in their view of the legality of covenants and would probably join Justices Frank Murphy and Harold H. Burton in invalidating covenants.

hearing of the four cases involving such agreements.

Immediately after Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, finished his rebuttal argument in the Detroit case, Chas. H. Houston, nationally prominent Washington lawyer, opened the argument in the two District of Columbia cases.

When the court convened at noon last Friday, the full bench was present. But immediately after the swearing in of new members of the Supreme Court bar, Associate Justices Stanley F. Reed, Robert H. Jackson and Wiley Rutledge, who disqualified themselves last Thursday, again left the bench.

None of the three judges gave any reason for disqualifying himself. Under the rules, disqualification lies within the discretion of each judge. In these cases it was presumed that they chose to disqualify themselves because they either owned or lived in property covered by covenants.

Judges Disqualified

Another guess put Justices Burton and Frankfurter with Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson in voting to affirm the decisions of the lower courts, and Justices Black, Murphy and William O. Douglas voting to reverse.

But one guess was as good as another. It probably will be months before the court decides these cases, and if then may split three or four ways in reaching a decision that covenants are good or no good.

Argument of the two racial restrictive covenant cases which arose in the District of Columbia brought to a close last Friday the two-day

Question for Decision

Justice Rutledge, a former member of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, lives at 4928 Indian Lane, in an area known as Spring Valley where deeds to property contain covenants barring colored persons, Jews, Persians, Armenians and Syrians.

It also was reported that the home of Justice Jackson near Jamestown, New York, is subject to a racial restrictive covenant. Justice Jackson, a former Attorney General and Solicitor General of the United States, now resides at McLean, Virginia.

Both covenants were reported to See EDITORIAL Page

READERS SEND PRAISE TO MAGAZINE FOR PRINTING NEW KIND OF RACE STORY

New York, (CNS)—The Woman's Home Companion, which with its circulation of 3,800,000, is one of the largest of the women's magazines, received mostly praise for its heart warming, different kind of story on a Negro boy, "Moment of Glory."

Written by Gertrude Schweitzer, a mother herself, the story was carried in the November issue of the Companion and evokes compliments from both Negroes and whites. Wrote one reader, "I am a Negro and I couldn't resist commending this story. To know there are people of other races who really know the feelings of my people gives me a much brighter outlook."

Said another reader: "I am a southerner. My Jimmy has hair like wheat and blue eyes, but while I read 'Moment of Glory' I could separate him from the Jimmy with dark skin and tight curls. Today I got my heart creased by a well-aimed bullet."

High School Students and Graduates Urged by Urban League to Go into Nursing

New York—"Your Career in Nursing," a special career leaflet urging Negro women and men to consider opportunities in the nursing field was released this week by the National Urban League's Office of Vocational Guidance, in cooperation with the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses.

Addressed to high school students and graduates, the three-page folder explains what the qualifications are for entering the field, and how to get training and employment. It also includes statements on training costs, categories of employment for professional nurses, and salary expectations.

"Every Negro nurse who wants employment has it," Miss Vessells said in a special interview. "NACGN also emphasizes that Negroes—ten per cent of the total American population, and needing health care more than any other group—number less than 3 per cent of the more than 250,000 graduate nurses. Although 44,700 were graduated this year, hardly 3,000 were Negroes."

"NACGN can only say again and again that America is begging for nurses, and the field stands very high among the professions practically guaranteeing job security."

"Your Career in Nursing" is the second of a special series of career leaflets released by the National Urban League, and is a part of the 1948 Vocational Opportunity Campaign literature. Single copies may be obtained on request from the National Urban League, 1133 Broadway, New York 10, New York, or the Southern Field Office of the Urban League, 250 Auburn Avenue, N. E., Atlanta, Georgia.

Negro History Week Feb. 8-15

According to the Negro History Bulletin, a magazine published in Washington, D. C., by the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, anyone may figure out the date of Negro History Week by following the established rule.

In the beginning, the Association decided to set the celebration for the week in which fall the birthday of Abraham Lincoln on the 12th and the supposed birthday of Douglass on the 13th. Douglass did not know when he was born but he selected Valentine Day as the time for him to be remembered because, as he said, he was his mother's "Valentine."

This year, Negro History Week will begin Feb. 8; in 1949, Feb. 7; and in 1950, February 6. That week beginning on Sunday, the 6th, will include only one of these birthdays.

Oklahoma State Regents Set Up Quick Law School As Branch of Langston U.

Oklahoma City Okla.—The Oklahoma state regents for higher education Monday established a Negro law school here as a branch of Langston Negro university.

But a leader, Roscoe Dunjee, a national director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said immediately that there would be "no acceptance of a Jim Crow law school."

Files Application

The school was established after the school was established after the supreme court of the United States ordered Oklahoma to provide equal law-school facilities for Negroes as soon as for white persons. Oklahoma's constitution requires separate schools.

Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, 23-year-old Negro who sought for two years in the courts a decision to permit her to enter the University of Oklahoma law school, filed application to enroll Monday morning.

"The new law school must be established by next Monday to meet the needs of Mrs. Fisher, honor graduate of Langston university, the state's only institution of higher learning for Negroes."

Dunjee said, "I can't see how the regents can give a school next

WILEY COLLEGE REMAINS OPEN DESPITE STRIKE

Marshall, Texas.—Dr. E. C. McLeod, president of Wiley College, where a student strike has been in force since Jan. 5, declared last Wednesday that the school will continue to function despite the strike.

The president's statement was released by H. J. Mason, public relations director for the school.

Mason said the decision to continue operations was made when Dr. McLeod talked Tuesday night with Bishop R. N. Brooks of New Orleans, chairman of the school's trustee board.

Classes have been held regularly although attendance has been less than half the 685 enrollment.

The strike began as the result of 53 students being dropped from the rolls during the Christmas holidays for participating in an earlier strike last fall.

NEGROES UNABLE TO SEE GOVERNOR

Jackson, Miss.—Negroes were not admitted to the executive mansion, Tuesday when Gov. and Mrs. Fielding L. Wright entertained at open house following his inauguration.

A group of about a dozen Negroes from Jackson college attempted to join the line going in to the mansion. A state highway patrolman said he "steered them to the side of the mansion and told them to lineup there." He said he told them to "be very late," before they could be able to see the governor.

Some time later, he said, he found Negroes had left without entering the mansion.

BRAIN WAVES AT IOWA LOOK COMPLICATED

By John Mattill
Iowa City, Iowa.—Electroencephalography makes a long word.

But things get simpler when you learn that it means the business of electric brain waves. In professional lingo it's shortened to "E. E. G."

The program is being sponsored by the Bethel A.M.E. church of the East side to promote better race relations. There is no admission price.

Lecturers at the the University of Iowa started studying E.E.G. in the late 1920's, when they were real pathfinders in the field. Now, 20 years later, brain waves are a standard tool to help diagnose illnesses and abnormalities in the brain.

Sociologist Finds Press Improved

Chicago—"Is the Negro press growing or dying?" In answer to this question Grinnell College sociologist John H. Burma declares in February Negro Digest that the Negro press is doing both—decreasing in numbers and growing in circulation and value to the community.

In all, Negro general newspapers today number 155, fewer than any time in the last 50 years, Burma asserts. And these newspapers are growing by leaps and bounds, he continues. During two years circulation has increased more than 12 per cent and advertising more than 50 per cent.

"This far surpasses the record for white newspapers during the same period," the Negro Digest feature insists.

Pointing out that smaller newspapers have been unable to cope with rising cost of production in the face of competing larger newspapers, Burma says that the bulk of the present Negro press is now in a sounder position than ever before in its history. The writer continues: "While this decrease in numbers was occurring, number of employees has been increasing about 10 per cent a year. Negro papers are now published in 32 states and in all large cities."

Contributing factors listed by Burma are increased Negro interest in his status as a second-class citizen, increased income, and migration of Negroes from rural areas to larger cities.

HUBBY TOO FOOT-LOOSE? HERE'S THE ANSWER

New York—No matter how good your husband is, he is more or less susceptible to the wiles of the "other woman," declares Dr. George Lawton, noted psychologist and author.

A husband may be theoretically all that he should be, says Dr. Lawton in the January Journal of Living, but if he starts taking his wife for granted, excuses his indifference with complaints of hard work or tiredness, shows concern at approaching baldness or middle age and feels only partially successful in his work—then it's time for wives to beware!

Unless a wife can recognize these warning signals, her husband may be ready to look for a woman who "understands" him. It's not the other woman but his susceptibility to any woman which counts most, insists Dr. Lawton. A man is sure bait for any woman who gives him a feeling of masculinity, assurance and importance.

Every wife can use the same implements as the "other woman" with the same effect, Lawton points out. It's an important part of marriage for a wife to know the signs of a husband who may "go looking" and she should know what he is looking for. Simply supplying it is the answer to her problem.

ST. PAUL A.M.E. CHURCH NOTES
Pastor, Rev. A. J. Irvine, continued his series of evangelistic sermons Sunday morning with the result that one, Eugene T. Brown, united with the church upon profession of faith. Among the out-of-town visitors at this service were Messrs. Edward Hopkins of St. Louis, Mo., and Elwood Griffin, formerly clerk of the church, but now a musician in Gary, Ind.

At 3 o'clock the pastor and choir officiated at the quarterly Communion service at the 1st C.M.E. church. At the five o'clock hour Ernest Wright, Redd, entertained and enlightened a fair sized audience with his illustrated lecture upon the art of musical composition, before the Ethical Cultural club.

On Thursday evening Jan. 29, Evangelist Estella Coates will present her historic pageant "The Progress of the Race," in which all the members of the Race who have played prominent parts, in history since Emancipation will be represented by living persons; and for which no admission fee will be charged.

On next Friday evening Jan. 30, Lt. Jas. C. Whittaker, who in company with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker was adrift for twenty-one days upon a raft in the South Pacific during World War II, as a result of which experience he embraced the Christian Religion and is now a traveling evangelist, will give a harrowing experience at St. Paul church. No admission fee will be charged. The general public is invited.

On next Sunday at 5 p. m. the Ethical Cultural club will observe "Washington Carver Day" at 5 p. m. At 7:30 p. m. Dr. J. C. Brown, who was Dr. Carver personally, will speak at Tuskegee and who brought him to Des Moines and took him back to Ames in February, 1932, will deliver the principal address.

Girl Scouts to Make Clothing Kits for Europe

New York — More than 1,300,000 American Girl Scouts, colored and white, will take up needle and thread in 1948 to sew for their new program, "Clothes for Friendship," it was announced this week by the national headquarters of Girl Scouts. Guided by the slogan "Make Warm Friends—Fill a Girl Scout Clothing Kit Today," the Girl Scouts of the United States of all races plan to fill and send to Asia and Europe 100,000 kits of children's clothing. Each kit will be made up of new or reconditioned clothing and will contain a minimum of ten items: a complete winter or summer wardrobe for a child who would otherwise go in rags.

Shipping and distribution of the kits will be handled by the American Friends Service Committee who were charged with the responsibility of selecting the countries on the basis of greatest need. Additional countries will benefit as the project gets under way. At first kits will go to China, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Japan and Germany.
The Girl Scouts are stressing the importance of making the clothes attractive as well as useful. They plan to make the clothes really express friendship and good will. Nothing that the girls themselves would not wear at home or school will be sent. Careful hand-finishing, good design and sound workmanship are essential. Reconditioned clothes must be cleaned or laundered, buttons replaced and seams reinforced.

Repair Toys for Christmas

Many old toys, repaired and repainted, can help make glad many underprivileged children at Christmas time. Similarly, many old pieces of furniture with a little fixing and refinishing with paint, varnish, stain, shellac, lacquer or enamel, can be made into attractive gifts. If you cannot do the work yourself, you can turn over unneeded toys and pieces of furniture to the Good Will industries, the Salvation Army and other organizations which are equipped to repair and refinish them and again put them into useful channels.

Bound for Japan and Daddy

Mrs. Reginald B. Doyle and Muriel.

Canned baby food and milk were an important part of the baggage of Mrs. Reginald B. Doyle, 1545 Walker street, when she left by rail early Saturday, Jan. 17, for San Francisco, Cal., accompanied by her 8-month old daughter, Muriel.

Mrs. Doyle and Muriel sailed this week for Kyoto, Japan, where Muriel will meet her daddy, Lieutenant Doyle, of the U. S. army engineers, for the first time.

In Japan a Year
Lieutenant Doyle, who went to Japan a year ago, has obtained living quarters for his wife and daughter in Kyoto.

"We expect to be gone at least two years," Mrs. Doyle said Friday, "but the only thing I'm really stocking up on is the baby food and milk."

Lieutenant Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle, 1140 E. Eighth street, was graduated from East High school. He has been in the army six years and served in the Philippines and in Europe during World War II.

Welfare Worker

Mrs. Doyle, the former Dana Herndon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Herndon, also was graduated from East High and attended the American Institute of Business during the war she worked in Dayton, Ohio. She has been employed in the Polk County welfare department.

Joyce Fant with her Willkie House weekly news report and her husband, Frank, who was weighted down with a pile of books enroute to Graceland college, breezed into the office early Wednesday morning. Joyce flashed open a smart red leather shoulder bag and happily displayed her street car pass in a clever compartment of her purse. That, she was proud to keep.

Her husband Frank said he was "sorry" that the passes were continued because he wanted a good reason to have to buy a car.

Joyce interrupted with a "Buy a car with what?" She revealed that he didn't relish buying street car passes each week. She added that she would not be in favor of buying the car because she could not live in the car and neither could she "eat" the car.

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

The most disheartening piece of news released in the city last week was the Des Moines Railway Company's announcement of the discontinuance of the weekly street car passes, because of "decreased revenue."

The best piece of news of this week was the same company's announcement that decided not to drop the sale of the weekly passes. The weekly pass will continue to be sold for an "indefinite period." The Sunday passes will be discontinued.

Looking very attractive in her grey-furred tuxedo, a hat to match and wearing a beautiful corsage early Tuesday afternoon was Ruby Steger who generally at this time of day is down in the shoe repair department of Younkers store, repairing leather articles on a power machine.

But Tuesday Miss Steger was bubbling over with smiles. She had taken the day off. Her fiancé accompanied her as they ate their lunch together at one of the downtown stores. When they had finished, Miss Steger commented to the passerby: "This is the day. We're on our way." The boy friend grinned.

She revealed that they were on their way then to the court house to "get the knot tied." She would go back to her work tomorrow and he would be back on his job the next day, they revealed.

The groom was worried about one thing as they walked toward the court house. He informed the press that Ruby would no longer be "Miss Steger."

"When you write about her in your job column next week her name will be Mrs. George Sims." The press thanked him.

The couple are at home at 1136 14th street, in an apartment.

Picture of January graduates of the high schools here will be published in the Bystander during February.

Games were played. Bubble gum and balloons were the favorites. Many gifts were received.

Iowa Bystander, 221 1/2 Locust Street, Des Moines 9, Ia.

P.B.—My husband and I have been married 10 years and recently a former wife whom he had not divorced when we married has shown up. Will this have anything to do with his social security if he happens to die before me?

Ans: It sure will. You are not legally his wife, since he has never divorced his first wife. And consequently you would not be a legal heir. Your husband had better get his matrimonial affairs straightened out legally before he tangles seriously with the law.

B.C. I am a poor, nice looking, 27-year-old Cuban girl. I came to this country six months ago to work under a contract for some people here for a year. I have a six year old brother in Cuba and I would like to have him over here so he can get a good education. My family is willing to help. How can I get him over here and which is the best school for him to go to? Is this sacrifice for me worthwhile?

Ans: It is certainly a very worthy sacrifice. Before taking and definite steps toward getting your brother here, find out if you can renew your work contract for another year so you will be assured of steady work. Contact the immigration authorities in this country or write and tell your parents to contact the U. S. Embassy in Cuba for information about bringing your brother here. There may be some red tape connected with it, but it could probably be arranged. Any good private school would be all right for your brother, but rather expensive. If he could live with you and go to public school, it would be easier financially.

D.M.—Is it advisable for me to make the trip out to California to visit this man since his past few letters have been indifferent and most uncertain? Fact is, he doesn't even mention the trip any more although he appeared so anxious for me to come a month ago.

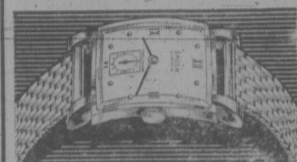

Ans: Don't spend your money and effort chasing a man who apparently has lost interest. If he wanted to see you very much, he would make the trip himself. Continue writing, but don't mention the trip again.

C.D. I am in business and doing well. My partner is in bad health and wants to sell out. He has made me a good price. Do you think I could handle it on a GI loan?

Ans: Talk the situation over with your banker. GI loans are pretty much of a joke, but they are made occasionally on sound investments. Your risk seems to be a good one and your banker will advise you straight. There are different types of loans and I feel sure you can get a loan on your small business in itself.

Learning to Walk Again

Margaret Samuels, Kentucky polio patient, is happy learning to walk again. Most people stricken by the disease recover completely thanks to the generous support of the March of Dimes by the American people. Husband Frank said he was "sorry" because he wanted a good reason to have to buy a car.

Joyce interrupted with a "Buy a car with what?" She revealed that he didn't relish buying street car passes each week. She added that she would not be in favor of buying the car because she could not live in the car and neither could she "eat" the car.

P.E.—My husband and I have been married 10 years and recently a former wife whom he had not divorced when we married has shown up. Will this have anything to do with his social security if he happens to die before me?

Ans: It sure will. You are not legally his wife, since he has never divorced his first wife. And consequently you would not be a legal heir. Your husband had better get his matrimonial affairs straightened out legally before he tangles seriously with the law.

B.C.—I am a poor, nice-looking, 27-year old Cuban girl. I came to this country six months ago to work under a contract for some people here for a year. I have a six year old brother in Cuba and I would like to have him over here so he can get a good education. My family is willing to help. How can I get him over here and which is the best school for him to go to? Is this sacrifice for me worthwhile?

Ans: It is certainly a very worthy sacrifice. Before taking and definite steps toward getting your brother here, find out if you can renew your work contract for another year so you will be assured of steady work. Contact the immigration authorities in this country or write and tell your parents to contact the U. S. Embassy in Cuba for information about bringing your brother here. There may be some red tape connected with it, but it could probably be arranged. Any good private school would be all right for your brother, but rather expensive. If he could live with you and go to public school, it would be easier financially.

D.M.—Is it advisable for me to make the trip out to California to visit this man since his past few letters have been indifferent and most uncertain? Fact is, he doesn't even mention the trip any more although he appeared so anxious for me to come a month ago.

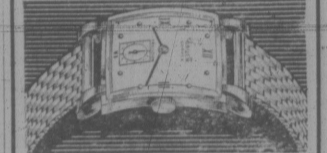

Ans: Don't spend your money and effort chasing a man who apparently has lost interest. If he wanted to see you very much, he would make the trip himself. Continue writing, but don't mention the trip again.

C.D.—I am in business and doing well. My partner is in bad health and wants to sell out. He has made me a good price. Do you think I could handle it on a GI loan?

Ans: Talk the situation over with your banker. GI loans are pretty much of a joke, but they are made occasionally on sound investments. Your risk seems to be a good one and your banker will advise you straight. There are different types of loans and I feel sure you can get a loan on your small business in 1948.

MARCH-OF-DIMES DRIVE DESERVES SUPPORT

The annual drive for funds to support the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for 1948 is in progress all over the country. The national budget amounts to thirty million dollars. Polk County is asked to raise sixty thousand dollars.

The treatment for infantile paralysis is expensive; so much so that the average person, who falls prey to the disease, is not able to pay for the cost. Then, too, the national organization is dependent upon local groups to help raise funds much of which goes for research in an attempt to find and stamp out the cause of this dreaded disease.

THEY HOWL BUT GO ALONG

The governor of Mississippi says the Democrats of the south will concede from the party if northern Democrats don't stop helping Negroes gain for themselves equal consideration under the laws of this country.

Evidently, he is referring to the recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court outlawing the subterfuge used in some southern states to keep Negroes from voting in the Democratic party primaries and the Oklahoma case requiring the state to provide equal educational facilities for all of its citizens.

Many northern Democrats realize that in key communities they stand little chance of election unless they get the Negro vote and, of course, in order to compete with Republicans, they must do something tangible to show their interest. Then, too, there are some Democrats, coming from places where there are few Negroes, who as a matter of right and fairness, support "desegregation" consideration for all people.

Then, too, the governor is worried about the anti-lynching, FEPC and anti-poll tax measures; all of which will get some attention at this session of Congress.

The governor, like most southerners, want the Negro problem solved along the pattern they have fixed and which emphasizes second class citizenship. And they have been able to convince a lot of people that they are right. They have succeeded in getting decisions from the United States Supreme Court, which have so restricted the meaning of the Constitution that those who fought that southern attitude were powerless to make much headway.

But things are changing. The world leadership our government has assumed makes it essential that the things we do must be an example for others to follow morally as well as from a military and economic view. We are telling other people about democracy but fall far short of practicing it ourselves and such people as the governor of Mississippi are making it pretty embarrassing for our state department.

Of course, the governor is talking for the benefit of his constituents and has no intention of bolting the Democratic party.

COVENANT CASES

See Front Page. Have been in force for a number of years. Neither justice had anything to do with their execution. They were on the properties when they acquired them.

cases last Thursday, Philip B. Perlman, Solicitor General of the United States, threw the full weight of the Federal Government against enforcement of Covenants.

"The Government submits that there should be an end to this word magic (covenants) under which the Negro and other racial groups are denied the fundamental and necessary right to buy and occupy homes," he declared, "and denied complete equality before the law in this and other respects."

"Racial restrictive covenants on real property should no longer be enforced by any part of the judicial system of our country," he added. "They should be relegated to the limbo of other things as dead as slavery."

"The Government believes that the time has come to destroy these evils which threaten the foundations of our free institutions," he told the high tribunal, adding:

Mr. Perlman based his argument on the premise that court injunctions to enforce racial restrictive covenants violated the following Constitutional rights:

- 1. The right to acquire, use, and dispose of property without being restricted in the exercise of such right because of race or color.
2. The right to compete on terms of equality without being discriminated against because of race or color, in the efforts to acquire adequate and decent living accommodations.
3. The right to equal treatment before the law.

LAW SCHOOL

See Front Page. order to comply with state segregation statutes.

It was indicated classrooms will be established at the Oklahoma state capitol. Faculty members will be following recommendations of Dr. W. Page Keeton, dean of the university school of law.

The resolution establishing the new school specified "the course of study and the standards for said school of law shall be substantially equal to the course of study and standards now in existence at the University of Oklahoma."

The course of study of said school, the resolution read, shall be prescribed and made available for any Negro citizen of the state of Oklahoma qualified to enter the school at registration time, which shall be identical with the registration period for the enrollment of law students at the University of Oklahoma school of law.

Equal Education. A week ago the supreme court of the United States ordered Oklahoma to provide equal and immediate education for Mrs. Fisher but did not rule on the constitutionality of Oklahoma's segregation laws.

OKLAHOMA STUDENTS VIEW COURT'S DECISION

Norman, Okla. - University of Oklahoma students split into two camps of almost equal size on the question of racial equality for Miss Ada Sipuel who Monday won the right to enroll here.

Student newspaper reporters conducted a survey of campus opinion in connection with the U. S. Supreme court's decision that the OU law school must admit Ada Lois Sipuel.

Quinton Peters, editor of the Oklahoma Daily, student paper, said 50 per cent of students polled on the issue favored giving Negroes equal educational opportunities, but in separate schools. About 4 per cent, he said, favored admission of the Negro at the graduate level.

Favored Admittance. Peters himself editorialized strongly in favor of admitting Miss Sipuel, who is the daughter of the late

HEALTH FOR ALL

Preventing Tuberculosis

None of us wants to grow old. We give generously of time, money and energy each year to beauty parlors, barbers and gymnasiums in efforts to ward off, as long as possible, the visible changes that time make in us.

How much of our concentration goes to the prevention of disease and the preservation of health? How many of us try to avoid having and spreading tuberculosis, a communicable disease that kills 50,000 Americans, annually?

About half a million people in the United States today are suffering from active tuberculosis. It is estimated that only half of these cases, are known to health authorities, which means there are approximately 250,000 Americans suffering from the disease who may not know they have it, who are not receiving proper care and who may be unknowingly spreading it to their families, friends and co-workers.

We are needlessly gambling with our own lives and those of our associates when we ignore the possibility that we may be among the unknown victims of tuberculosis. Preventing the visible signs of advancing age, just doesn't make sense when we do nothing about losing our health, and even our lives, to tuberculosis.

A complete physical examination with a chest X-ray will tell you whether or not you have tuberculosis. The X-ray can find signs of tuberculosis in your lungs long before you actually feel ill and see your doctor as a result.

That is why chest X-rays of apparently healthy people have resulted in early detection and early cure of tuberculosis in thousands of persons who would otherwise go untreated and spread the disease in their daily contacts.

Although the X-ray is the easiest way to detect pulmonary tuberculosis in its early stages, it does not mean that the disease is diagnosed by the X-ray picture alone. If the X-ray reveals any suspicion of disease, other tests are made before a final diagnosis is given.

The wise person who gets a periodic chest X-ray is fighting a two-fold battle against tuberculosis. He is safe-guarding himself and he is protecting his family, his friends and his community.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Polk County Tuberculosis Association.

SELF HELP IN DRESSING

"I do it mine own self," protested 2 year old Bob. So he pulled back from his mother who was buttoning up his coat, and struggled with the buttons. He mastered the first two before he grew tired and gave up.

Now Bob's mother could scold him. She could yank him back and order him to stand still while she buttons his coat. She could discourage him from learning self help.

At the moment she could save considerable time for herself. But how about in later years when she will want Bob to do things for himself? Will she be saying, "You are big enough to do better than that." At ten will she say, "Bob just isn't dependable. He has no confidence in himself. He won't try."

Small children like to try to dress themselves. Their interest in handling buttons and zippers and snuggly buckles stimulates their training in self help. Self help means growth in self reliance. It means a more independent child and a more secure child.

It also means a patient parent who can wait while the child learns to help himself.

Many modern designers of children's clothes take into account the child's need for self help in dressing. They design clothes with large buttons for small fingers to manage. There are only a few buttons and these are placed where the child can reach them. Tiny buttons down the back are out for that new look in a little girl's dress.

Small boys' suits are planned with fewer and larger buttons. Elastic bands make buttons unnecessary in many garments. Zippers are great fun when children are allowed to do the zipping.

Simple clothing which the 2 to 4 years old can manage by himself is a great aid to self help and self reliance.

TUSKEGEE FLYER SETS UP HAITIAN AIR LINE

Chicago - Captain Jim Plinton, Jr., a combination Steve Canyon, Smiling Jack and Captain Midnight who was instructor to countless Negro pilots at Tuskegee's Army Air Base, declares in February Ebony photo-profile that Haiti offers tremendous business opportunities to American Negroes with energy and ideas.

Suave and Jolly "Captain Jim" came out of the Air Corps four years ago to enjoy a hectic postwar career that has given him everything that comic strip here Steve Canyon has, Ebony says, including a Feetah-Feetah like secretary and a pretty Haitian mademoiselle named Marie Therese Francis. Unlike his comic strip prototype, though, "Captain Jim" is making money.

The fast-flying, shrewd ex-GI is the talk of all Haiti with two new businesses in the first Negro republic in the world—an island-hopping airline service and the first modern dry-cleaning plant in the country.

"U. S. Negroes will be welcomed in Haiti and given cooperation in starting any agricultural venture, modern dairy farm, chicken farm,

After about eighteen months of sojourning in various towns your illustrious scribbler finally decided to return for keeps to the city of his birth. Say what you will, there is something in being able to walk down the street or into public places and exchange smiles and greetings with people you know. That, nothing in the world can replace. Money, success, nor anything else can replace that feeling of being among old friends, renewing old feuds and fuses, fighting with your neighbors and then helping them when you can. In short, it's good to be home.

It will take us a while to get back into the swing of things, maybe, a whole week. We haven't seen much of local Negroes on local high school clubs yet. The Little Renns are still in the Y Open league, but have to win their first game. They never lose by a large score, but they just lose.

Be back in the fringe line next week.

Rev. T. B. Sipuel, Chickasha, one-time bishop of the Oklahoma diocese of the Church of God in Christ.

Dr. George L. Cross, university president, said the university's action will be determined by the OU board of regents which met here Wednesday morning. Then he added: "The supreme court in effect, is declaring Oklahoma's law unconstitutional."

The president said the question of housing Negro students would require "careful study." The court decision, he remarked, "no doubt, opens the way for Negro students to be admitted to other schools and colleges of the university."

Memphis Banks Reports Success After First Year

Memphis (ANP)—Tri-State bank of Memphis stockholders beamed their satisfaction last Saturday when they learned from the institution's president and other officials that within the brief period of one year the new financial house on Beale street had risen from 12th to 9th from point of size. The meeting of stockholders, held at Foote Hopes auditorium was the first annual session.

Dr. J. E. Walker, president and organizer of the bank, in an informal address related many details concerning the institution, declaring: "We have gone a long way, and have shown that we were on the right track in organizing this bank."

The president pointed out that two white banks in Arkansas have on deposit at the Tri-State $68,000 and that a total of $131,000 have been placed in the bank by other out-of-town depositors.

"It's on my program to help make Memphis the financial center of the United States for Negroes," Dr. Walker added.

R. R. Wright III, cashier at the bank, gave most of the financial figures in connection with bank operation. He said that the bank had on deposit more than $700,000 after two days of operation—and by June 30, 1947, had reached $1,035,000, a period of six months. This amount had been stepped up to $1,334,404, as of Dec. 17, the largest amount ever to be on deposit, Mr. Wright asserted. It was significant that

THE MAKINGS The world is such a funny place It is hard to please by far But God made what He intended: He made just what we are. -By Vera Douglas.

APOLOGY If I have ever done a wrong in life It was with ignorance the thing from me did pass. For to accuse a passion-kindled fire, In some heart sadistically I render grass. If in spite I've wrongly done my brother I did not realize I did him thus. For God I know I must meet and another. And life's too short to make up one big fuss. -By Vera Douglas.

REVEAL PETER STUYVESANT AS FOE OF SLAVERY

Washington (ANP)—A little known contribution to the abolition of American slavery is one of the themes of a book by Knud Stowman, based upon the life of Peter Stuyvesant, last Dutch governor of New York who died in 1672.

Mr. Stowman, a consultant to the UN's World Health organization as well as a novelist, states that, "I found to my surprise, Stuyvesant was for freeing the slaves. He freed his own and took them into his congregation when no one else would take them into their churches."

Of Danish descent, Mr. Stowman was educated at the University of Copenhagen and has had broad experiences with various racial groups while working with the Red Cross during World War I and with the League of Nations.

The new Stuyvesant historical novel is on the Harper's booklist for 1948.

Book Reviewer On That

Vacation in New Jersey "At long last on that vacation of mine," wrote Charles Enoch Wheeler from East Orange, N. J., recently. "Having a good time in Newark with my father and mother and friends also across the river in New York City. Will send book reviews as soon as I am home."

Mr. Wheeler of Chicago, writes book reviews of Negro authors that appear in the Bystander monthly.

Mr. Smith died at his home of a heart attack. Born in Jacksonville, Ohio, he had been a resident of Des Moines for 30 years. He was a member of Doric lodge, A.F. and A.M.

He is survived by one brother, Ben, Ogden, Utah.

To the People of this Community

Our CRUMBS Will Do It Chairman Charles Luckman of the Citizens Food Committee explains the requirements for European aid this way

We have an excess of 470 million bushels of grain. Our export for minimum world relief needs must be 570 million. That 100 million bushels difference must come from what you and I think we need during the next few months.

We can help save on bread. But—surprisingly enough—three-fourths of all of our grain goes to feed livestock and poultry.

So you see the need for keeping down our production, and consumption of meat and eggs.

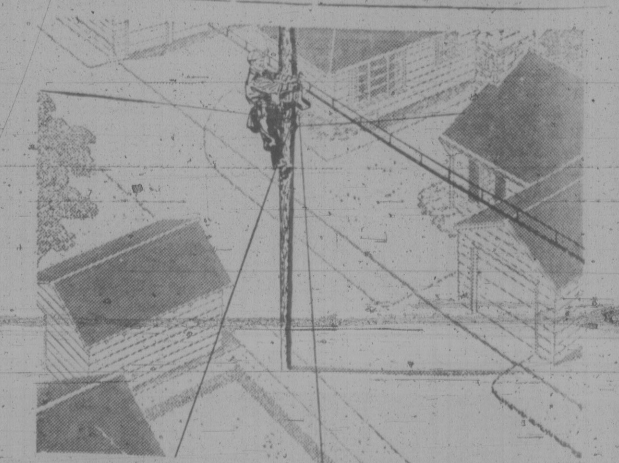

That's why you must observe meatless Tuesday and eggless Thursday. That's why we must stop wasting food—any food.

It's a challenge to the homemakers—the cooks—of this community's families.

You women can do it. Just remember people are desperate—they'll fight to get food. We've had enough of fighting.

Save wheat—save meat—save the peace.

How many party lines in this picture? These residence telephone lines look alike and are alike, except that three out of four have been "stretched" to serve more than one customer. We call these party lines. Because lines have been shared we have been able to bring telephone service to thousands more than would be possible with only individual lines. We are working hard toward the day when individual lines will be available for all who want them. Until we reach this goal, you can help make your service better by your share of the party line as you would have your neighbor's. "Use 'em or lose 'em." Thanks, neighbor.
