Renew Battle to Enter Oklahoma School

Educators Testify That Makeshift Law School Is In 'No Wise Comparable'

Norman, Okla.—The second round in the legal battle of Mrs. Ada Sipuel, Fisher for admission to the University of Oklahoma Law School opened Monday in the District Court of Cleveland county. NAACP lawyers representing the plaintiff launched a fight not only to prove that the school setup for Mrs. Fisher at Langston University is not equal to that at the University of Oklahoma, but that segregated school can not be equal to a non-segregated school.

Educators Testify
Norman, Okla. (NNPA)—Four nationally-known educators last Wednesday testified that the makeshift law school at Langston University is in no wise comparable to the University of Oklahoma law school, enrollment into which was refused Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, Chickasha, solely because of her color.

The four witnesses were Dr. Max Radin, professor of law of the University of California; Charles Bunn, chairman of the curriculum committee of the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Erwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School, and Dr. Earl G. Harrison, dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school.

Their testimony was in direct contradiction to that of Dr. John G. Hervey, former dean of the University of Oklahoma, who earlier testified that a student can get a legal education at Langston equivalent to that offered by the University of Oklahoma.

Student Body
All four witnesses stressed the importance of a large student body in modern methods of teaching law. Radin agreed that students at the Langston school could adequately be taught certain points of law, but declared they could not get a good general understanding of the law.

Thousands Homeless in War-Built Vanport; Had Been 2nd Largest Housing Unit

Portland, Ore.—Negroes comprised about 25 per cent of the families whose homes were inundated when the Columbia river burst through its banks at Vanport here Sunday. Of the 18,000 or 20,000 persons living in Vanport, between 4,000 and 5,000 were colored.

Like the white residents of this war-built town about three miles from Portland proper, the Negroes had come to work in the Kaiser and other shipyards. At one time there were some 14,000 colored residents here, but as war work vanished many returned South and East.

There is no way yet to tell how many Negroes or whites are dead. Thus far, there are only six or seven known dead but thousands are homeless. It is feared that many are trapped in their homes.

The houses in Vanport, principally prefabricated or frame, were washed up from their foundations and are floating around in 20 feet of water. Vanport was built down in a swampy former lake region so that when the dikes broke, they swept waves of water from 12 to 20 feet high over the entire project.

Vanport, although only two miles from Portland, had to develop its own government because Portland, a tight, prejudiced community, did not want Vanport residents within its city limits, calling them undesirable.

Second Largest Unit
Vanport, now a mass of splintered wood hiding scores of victims of the Memorial Day flood, was once a modern $24,000,000 city. The war-built city on the Columbia held 42,000 persons at its heyday. It was the second largest city in Oregon and the next to the biggest housing project in the country.

The first units were completed in 1942 and called "Kaiserville." Most of the heads of families worked at the Kaiser shipyards.

Vanport boasted 9970 apartments in 714 buildings, 179 service buildings, including two schools, two

UP THEY GO—More wire, . . . more cable . . . more telephone equipment of many kinds . . . to provide more long distance circuits.

Iowa's growing telephone needs still are making necessary a tremendous dollar investment in new facilities . . . even though since V-J Day we have added 566 new long distance circuits, 112,000 more miles of wire, 250 new switchboard positions and a vast amount of other central office equipment that keeps the wires "talking."

So far in 1948, local and long distance equipment has been going in at the rate of $200,000 a week in Iowa. By the end of the year, we will have spent $30,000,000 since V-J Day to improve and extend telephone service.

Sweet Sixteeners

Candy making is fun, say these girls from Manhattan Junior Achievement group which meets every Monday night. Left: Carmen Diaz of New York City stirs coconut into melted chocolate.

High school girls (and boys too) learn how to make many kinds of products for sale at Junior Achievement and come out with a profit. This group of girls is learning how to make and sell all sorts of delicious candies and cookies.

Here you see their group leader, a trained Home Economist, demonstrating to the girls some interesting cookery shortcuts—such as using a special candy-making chocolate for quickly made, professional looking candies. Chocolate Coconut Patties are one of the easiest of these, are made as follows:

Simply take a package of Dot Chocolate and heat over boiling water until partly melted—then remove from boiling water and stir rapidly until entirely melted. Add 1 1/2 cups shredded coconut and stir until blended. Drop from teaspoon on waxed paper. Cool until firm. Makes 2 dozen.

1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 cup sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 package semi-sweet chocolate chips, 1/2 cup chopped nut meats, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 Cream—shortening, add sugars gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Sift flour once, measure, add salt and soda, and sift again. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 50 delicious tasty cookies.

K.T.C.—I fell in love with a man and married him. He said he loved me. Now he doesn't want me to go any place. He wants me to stay at home all of the time and let him go. I can't even go and visit with my mother, sister and brother. He beats me nearly all of the time and accuses me of things I do not do. He takes all the money I make and throws it away. He doesn't give me anything. If he does, he takes it back. Does he love me and will he quit his ways? Must I stay with him?

Ans: Chastising of one's wife went the way of the cave man. Modern women do not have to tolerate brutality. It's hard to believe that a man who loves his wife would stoop to such an act. However, if your husband is the domineering type who believes a woman's place is in the home and should have no authority or privileges, adapts yourself to his ways of thinking if you love him enough to endure such treatment. If you feel that you won't always be able to bow to his will and live the life of a martyr your decision right now before your spirit is broken and you are too embittered to create a new life for yourself.

A.M.C.—I am a senior in high school, 18 years old. I am staying with my sister and brother-in-law attending school as my mother is dead. My home life is not happy because my brother-in-law dislikes my boy friend. I promised the boy that I would marry him when I finished school. He doesn't come around as often now as he did. Should I marry him and live a happy life. Each of us have a home of our own. Tell me what to do?

Ans: Stay single for the present. Don't let unsettled home life force you into a hasty marriage. You have a deep affection for this boy but you are not in love with him. After you graduate, get a job and go to work. Save your money and plan to go to college this fall. With the money you earn together with the money your parents left you, you can attend any college you desire. Campus life will give you a chance to live a normal, happy girlhood and have all the privileges of a well-ordered home.

M.M.H.—I received my Guide and was truly glad to get it. It has been a help to me all ready. Got a job the next day and the next week I got a higher job making more money. I am tickled pink. My heart is overflowing with joy. About the hubby part, that's okay too. I am not worried any more about that. He can go because he don't want nothing and nothing from nothing leaves nothing. I am reading my guide step by step every day. Thank you for all you have done. Sincerely, Mrs. M. H.

L.C.—If I didn't have the house and what's in it, this man I have wouldn't know where I made my last tracks. All he has is a suitcase and a car but the old car runs well enough for it to take him everywhere he wants to go. He likes to juke and goes to all the juke joints. I like to go to church and to the show. We fuss all the time. What

Can Corn in Variety for Next Winter's Meals

Cream Style, Whole Kernel, or Corn-on-the-Cob—you can have your own home canned corn in variety for winter use. More corn will be canned this year, due to the fact that more pressure cookers are available. Most home canners prefer to use pressure cookers for canning corn because it keeps so much better and time is saved too. Be sure the gauge of your cooker is accurate.

Always can corn fresh from the garden or truck patch. It must not have been gathered the previous day and stood overnight. The kernels should be plump, shiny and full of milk-like juice.

To can corn Cream Style, cut tips ends from the kernels and scrape out the pulp. Add one teaspoon salt and two cups boiling water to each quart of corn. Boil three minutes. Pour into hot Ball Jars. Process 100 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

For Whole Kernel canning, cut the corn from the cob and do not scrape. Add one teaspoon salt and two cups boiling water to each quart corn. Boil three minutes. Pour into hot Ball Jars. Process 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Whole Kernel corn usually has better color, flavor, and keeping qualities than cream style, according to the Ball Blue Book, from which these directions are taken.

To can Corn-on-the-Cob, boil the corn five minutes and pack into hot Ball Jars, adding one teaspoon salt to each quart. Cover with boiling water. Process 75 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Many like to put up Corn-on-the-Cob because it is a novelty. However, it tends to absorb the flavor of the cob.

Pint jars are preferable and be sure to add one and one-quarter cups of boiling water to each four cups of Whole Kernel and two cups of Cream Style corn. This facilitates heat penetration and helps prevent the corn turning brown. You can add one-half teaspoon salt and a little sugar, if you wish. Can either field or sweet corn, as you prefer, and can it when it is FRESH!

Home-Canned Green Beans for Nutritious Meals
Green beans are a low-acid vegetable and should be canned with the use of a pressure cooker because the high temperature is better insurance against spoilage and is also the faster method.
Select beans with crisp and meaty pods. They should be young and tender and brought fresh from the garden or truck patch. Wash, string, and break or cut the pods into two-inch pieces. Boil five minutes and pack into hot Ball Jars. Add one teaspoon salt to each quart.
Cover with water in which cooked. Process small young pods 35 minutes and large ones 55 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. With a plentiful supply of home-canned green beans you are always prepared to serve a popular, nutritious green vegetable.

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

Seats were at a premium Monday morning at Drake university's commencement exercises. Because of the Memorial Day holiday many of the public school children and employees in stores and institutions, had an opportunity to swell the crowd.

Taking up one whole row of seats were relatives of graduate, (Mrs.) Victoria Kitchen Woolery, some of whom had come as far as Georgia. Happiest of all was Vickie's grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Hughes, as she watched Vickie march in the procession of 406 graduates who received their degrees. Mrs. Hughes' memory went back to over fifty years, when in that same auditorium, she was baptized, she revealed.

Proud and happy family groups roamed about Drake's campus after the exercises and took pictures of their graduate.

With Arthur Bryant, inspecting his Bachelor of Music education degree, were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Bryant and Arthur's sister, Nancy, all of Omaha, and a brother, Walter, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Quentin R. Mease came all the way from Chicago to see his niece, Jacqueline Mease, get a bachelor of science degree. Of course, with him was a high-powered camera which he used. In the group with Jackie were her grandmother, Mrs. Carnelia Mease; her father, a sister, Elaine Mease of Omaha; and other relatives.

Chatted with Leo S. Brinkley, all dressed in his cap and gown, just after he had been draped in his Master of Science in Education hood. He revealed that he might be teaching next fall at Arkansas State college. The target of several photographs, phone picture editor, 3-2822.

While the university students were finishing up their commencement exercises, high school seniors and graduates were winding up their graduation week events which came to a climax on Wednesday night when North High and Thursday night when East, Lincoln, Des Moines, Tech and Roosevelt High schools held commencement exercises. Twenty of the 1,261 graduates are Negro students.

During class night exercises at East High Tuesday, work of some of the graduates was on exhibit, and received congratulatory comments from parents and friends. In the corridor was art work of Henrietta Robinson. On another wall was stenographic samples of shorthand and typing by Esther Saunders. In one of the home economic rooms was a coat made by Lucinda Hickman.

Many of the East High graduates expressed desires to go to college, but revealed that they would have to work a while first.

Ran into North High school graduate, Juanita Cobbs, who is known by many residents as a "news girl." Juanita said she received many graduating presents, among which was a flashlight camera, with which she took Memorial Day parade pictures. She said she will have to get a job soon in order to be able to take pictures.

Homeward bound from the Des Moines river banks early Wednesday morning was Furrier William Fields who complained that the fish evidently had gone on a strike for he caught none.

Blowing a crisp whistle for the downtown rush hour crowds to move along the heart of the shopping center Tuesday was a so-called on-scene sight—a police officer of color, Patrolman Bob Webb.

Pictures of the university and high school graduates will be published in the anniversary edition of the Bystander. Please bring photos to the office not later than June 7. Phone picture editor, 3-2822.

A FAIR REQUEST TO THE CITY COUNCIL

The Des Moines Railway Company has filed an application with the city council to increase fares: raise the pass from $1.50 to $1.75; single fares to 12 1/2 cents or two for 25 cents; fares of school children, 2 1/2 cents, would remain the same.

The railway company has built a good system here in spite of the handicaps inherent in the size of the city. Des Moines covers a larger area than most towns with its population calling for long hauls and the maintenance of lines that don't pay their way.

In spite of the tremendous rise in the cost of everything the Des Moines Railway Company has not increased fares. For instance copper which the company bought for 17 cents per pound before the war costs them 37 cents; coal cost about $2 per ton before the war now costs about $6.

It goes without a lot of argument, and most opposition to the increase is based on ignorance or prejudice against large corporations, that no business can long continue when its outgo exceeds the income and that is just about where the Des Moines Railway Company finds itself.

Des Moines is growing every day. New businesses continue to locate here which go a long way to making it a prosperous town—a town where good citizens are proud of it, proud of its institutions. And a well managed, well paying railway system is essential to the continued growth of Des Moines.

In view of the situation as it stands today, the Bystander hopes the city council will grant the request of the Des Moines Railway Company for the increase in fares it has requested, feeling that some of the things which might be improved and in which it is particularly interested will come about once the company is assured of sufficient revenue with which to operate with a reasonable profit.

VOTE AT THE PRIMARIES MONDAY

The Iowa 1948 primary election will be held June 7. Candidates for the United States Senate, House of Representatives; governor and other state offices, county and township offices of the respective parties, will be nominated. It is in the primaries where members of political parties make their bids for the nomination, where intra-party scraps are aired. As the United States Supreme Court said, "it is an integral part of an election."

While lacking the heat of primaries in years gone by, except that there is considerable interest in the Republican race for governor—undoubtedly a large vote will go to the polls.

Like all elections, the primaries are important in that they offer parties a chance to put their best candidates forward—a chance to weed out, in many cases the undesirable.

Citizens should be interested in voting for they have a financial interest in government, an interest in just how government should be run, they may speak their piece at the polls, so it is important to vote at the primaries. It is a privilege we must not let pass by.

WHY THERE IS SO MUCH TURMOIL

The world knew several months ago that England was withdrawing its forces from Palestine. Everybody who knows anything about the relationship between the Jews and Arabs in Palestine, knew that serious trouble would develop once they were left to work out their own problem. And it has.

In the meantime, United Nations has been working on a solution. Individual countries like America, have had their program with the result that nothing has been done. Everything is in turmoil.

It is no wonder the world is in such a stew for the people who have been placed in charge of handling problems arising between nations and races don't seem to have the courage and/or knowledge to the more talking by students the better.

Definite Disadvantage

He added there was a definite disadvantage in having a law school located on a university campus. A segregated school alone would not have the advantages of a school with a student body of varied groups, he continued.

He said he had experience as a part-time instructor, and he found it "very unsatisfactory," from both his own and the student's view-point.

Langston faculty members are going to find it exceedingly difficult to give the necessary time required by the school, he said.

He declared a law school faculty should be made up predominantly of full-time men. He added it was not possible for the most qualified men in the world, much less men without experience in teaching, to set up a law school in five days.

Asked if he could prepare to teach a first-year law course in two days, he answered:

"I could not and in my opinion no other member of the bar could either."

Dean Griswold said the two schools are so unequal that there does not exist any fair basis for comparison.

Funeral Rites for Mrs. Cornelia Hunt

Funeral services for Mrs. Cornelia Hunt, 70, of Orlabor, were held Tuesday at the Maple Street Baptist church, with burial at Glendale cemetery.

Mrs. Hunt died Thursday, May 27, at Broadlawn General hospital of injuries suffered when she was struck by a car.

Mrs. Hunt and her husband, William, a retired preacher, were crossing E. University avenue at Stewart street when she was struck by a car driven by Bernard W. Southward, 28, of Altoona.

Southward told police he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car. He said Mrs. Hunt stepped backward into the path of his car.

Her death was the eleventh traffic fatality of 1948 in Des Moines.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two foster sons, James Harlan and Richard Hunt, both of Des Moines.

VETERANS WHIRL

By JAMES L. HICKS NNPA Staff Writer

For the past three years, Joe, this column has been serving as an employment agency trying to find you a decent job. This week we offer you what we think is the best opportunity that has come along in the past three years. Give a look and have a job:

The United Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York is looking for fifty veterans to train as insurance agents under the provisions of the GI bill and no matter how we look at the program it looks good.

The Mutual has perfected arrangements with the Insurance Society of New York for installing a branch of the insurance school in its home offices on Lenox Avenue and are now accepting applicants for the first course in the school which will eventually lead its students to a New York State license to engage in the insurance business.

Here is the plan: You go to school in the Mutual Building for a period of ten weeks. You then take the state examination and as soon as you pass it you begin work with the Mutual as an on-the-job trainee insurance agent at a salary of $177.66 a month.

For the first six months you will work for $177.66, but in your second six months an addition $5 will be added to your salary so that at the end of one year you will be making $182.66 a month. (Wait a minute before you say that's not enough—read on.)

At the end of the third six months you will be raised again by $5 thus making your earnings $187.66 a month.

During the fourth and last period of your training you will receive an additional $5 which will boost your earnings to $192.66 a month.

OK, Mr. Broke man, you sit there on relief and say that's still not enough. But look, Joe, look at your opportunity at the end of your training period. You are a trained insurance agent, you have been trained in a reputable company, you have been permitted to establish your own contracts, build up your own business, and you have been paid

HEALTH FOR ALL

DEFENSE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

What types of people are most susceptible to tuberculosis? No one can be certain that he will never get tuberculosis. The disease attacks people in all walks of life, in any age group, the stout or slim, tall or short, rich or poor.

Those who neglect their health and allow their resistance to become weakened are inviting trouble. The person who has sound health and tries to keep it sound has a better chance of warding off tuberculosis or recovering from the disease if it does develop than the person who consistently neglects his health.

Even if one takes ordinary precautions against the disease, he cannot always be sure he will keep tuberculosis germs out of his body. These germs are coughed up by people who have active tuberculosis and may get into the bodies of other people. Most adults have been in contact with tuberculosis germs and have taken them into their bodies at one time or other. If one is in general good health when this occurs, his body usually successfully fights the germs, surrounding them on all sides with body cells that imprison them. The germs are sealed off in this way and disease is prevented. If health becomes impaired later, the tuberculosis germs within the body may break loose from their prisons, or tubercles, with the result that the disease occurs.

As a defense against tuberculosis, it is wise to get into the habit of having a regular physical examination, including a chest X-ray which can detect the disease even in that early stage before outward symptoms are apparent. These examinations will aid the doctor in finding anything that may be wrong, enabling him to advise corrective measures before serious damage is done.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by Polk County Tuberculosis Association.

SPORTS

By ALLEN ASHBY Tennis

Our tennis club needs to be taken by the ears and given a good shaking. For nearly fifteen years we watched and battled with this tennis situation here and hoped for a strong club whether we had any part in it or not. Just as the war broke out, our hopes were realized. Then came the war and tennis was forgotten for a while.

After that we had our club's face lifted again and with Bill Ashby began a series of tennis instructions, our club got strong and with kids beginning to play on the various tennis teams of the high schools, we could see our classes beginning to pay off. Last year was the peak year with trips out of town and two of the best meets in our history.

But during the winter the thing had died. Bill Ashby, president, and driving spirit behind the thing has become involved in more deals than even he can handle. His time is limited and he doesn't have much time to give to tennis or tennis clubs.

We don't know what will finally happen but with hot weather here and more kids clamoring for instruction, we guess this is the best time to revitalize the club. We wouldn't tackle the job without Bill Ashby's consent given at a club meeting. This is out of respect for the great job he has done while we were chasing around the country. But we would like some actions for the kids soon.

Valley Golf Meet

Cleo Johnson of Des Moines won the championship flight of the Des Moines Negro Open Golf tournament Monday at Woodside with 197 strokes for 45 holes.

William MaMory of Kansas City, Mo., was runner-up with 201, and Benny Collier, Denver, Colo., third with 204. Fifty-five completed, with John Simms of Omaha, Neb., the nine-hole medalist with a 37.

Other results: First Flight—Charles Anderson (Denver), 204; LeRoy Doty (Kansas City), 207; LeRoy Hill (Denver) 213. Second Flight—D. M. Bolding (Kansas City), 229; Lloyd Jones (Des Moines), 235; Ed Reeves (Des Moines), 240.

Senior Division—William Mitchell (Wichita, Kan.), 195; Roy Todd (Des Moines), 201; Toussaint Howard (Des Moines), 202.

while you were doing so.

But don't take our word on this plan. That's not smart. Kick it around a bit. Talk it over with some of your better acquaintances among the insurance boys. Tell them to show you what's wrong with it. Then if they can't find defects in the plan sit down and drop a line to Herman P. Osborne, 310 Lenox Avenue, New York, and tell him you are interested. He is the public relations director for Mutual.

Registration started for the classes last April 13, but if you secret that registration has been slow so you still have time to get in the first course.

And don't forget that the GI Bill, as amended recently, provides that a single veteran in an on-the-job training spot may earn up to $210 a month, a veteran with one dependent may earn up to $270, and a veteran with more than one dependent may earn up to $290.

National Guard Quells Strikers Riot at Waterloo

Waterloo, Iowa, (NNPA)—Contingents of the Iowa National Guard were sent here last Thursday to maintain peace at the strikebound Rath Packing Company plant after a colored man was arrested on a charge of murder during the rioting at the plant gate.

Lee Roberts, 55, of Dunkerton, Iowa, father of thirteen children, was held in connection with the killing of William Farrell, 40, of Waterloo. Roberts was rushed to another town for safekeeping as strikers threatened to take him from the jail.

Blair Wood, county attorney, who filed a homicide charge against Roberts, said the latter will be arraigned when it is safe to return him here.

Guard Ordered

The guard was ordered here by Governor Robert D. Blue after Farrell was fatally shot and a woman picket, Mrs. Margaret Graheim, 34, was wounded in the shoulder. Police said apparently the same bullet killed Farrell and wounded Mrs. Graheim.

The strike, in which wage increases is the only issue, has been going on since March 16. Company spokesmen said a back-to-work movement had been growing until between 1,000 and 2,000 of the company's 5,000 employees were on the job.

Lee Simon, international representative of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers, blamed the killing on an injunction obtained by the company which allowed only five pickets at each gate and banned for a breakfast. Guests were the Rev. C. L. McAllister of Selma, Ala., who was formerly instructor of the class. The class was disbanded until September.

other strikers from within 500 feet of the plant. There were an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 strikers at the gate when Roberts tried to drive in the back gate. Pickets stopped him, he said, and he tried the front gate.

Lifted Car "Some of the pickets lifted the front end of the car off the ground and threatened to turn it over," Roberts told the police. "Some of them shouted 'Kill the Jig!' He said he thrust a .32 caliber revolver out of the window to scare the pickets but some of them kept coming.

"I fired a shot out of the right side of the car," he continued. "Most of the pickets were on the left side where I was sitting. I intended to fire into the ground and didn't see anyone there."

Roberts drove away and was seized by police after he got clear of the strikers.

GARDEN FEVER IS GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Garden fever is raging these days. Children catch it, too, and beg for a little garden of their own. This kind of fever is good for them.

But the child's fever quickly burns out. A small girl or boy soon tires of any activity and his garden is no exception. Besides, he cannot do the work well. His rows are crooked and his onions sets may sprout upside down.

His parents may consider it a waste of time to help him start a garden. Yet, a crooked row is a small matter beside the thrill of seeing his own seeds grow.

Here is something he has helped create. It is better fun than gluing his ears to a radio thriller. It is more creative than sitting twice through a movie western.

We do not need to criticize his clumsy work. He will do better when he is older and gains more skill in his muscles. The important thing for him now is to enjoy his experience and see the results of his labor.

A child's interest will last longer if his garden is not too large. A long narrow plot is better than a square. One writer recommends a plot 1 1/2 feet wide, placed against the sunny side of a fence or a garage. Then there are no rows behind the child to be stepped on.

The child needs to see quick results, before he grows discouraged with waiting. Lettuce and early radishes probably grow best for his purpose. Of course we will serve his produce at the table with special mention. This is the reward for his labor.

And we won't laugh at his funny little radishes. Respect for a child's efforts encourages him to try harder next time.
