History Made by Oklahoma Teachers

For First Time Salaries Of Negroes, White School Teachers Will Be Equal

Oklahoma City, Okla., (NNPA)—For the first time in the history of Oklahoma City schools, salaries of colored teachers for the school year just ending will equal those of the teachers in white schools. John Prigmore, schools auditor, last Tuesday announced funds are available to pay the colored teachers the full amount of their contracts. Warrants for 19 per cent of each teacher's annual salary were issued last Wednesday, Prigmore said. The first nine payments on the year's contract as in past years, were for 9 per cent. Under a salary schedule in effect here for three years, colored teachers and principals are on an equal wage scale with white teachers and principals. But because the separate schools operate under different tax levies and funds, the school board has never been able to meet the one-scale salaries. Payments to the approximately 120 colored school teachers will total $56,076.80. Prigmore said full payment is made possible "by an unusual amount of surplus collections" and by "using every available penny." Ira Williams, school board president, warned it is unlikely contracts can be met in full next year and in succeeding years unless the constitutional amendment authorizing an extra one mill for separate schools is approved by voters in July. School officials anticipated the action will bring an end to the "discrimination" suit filed against the board by Mrs. Emma Lee Freeman, a teacher, and now pending in federal district court. Mrs. Freeman is attempting to force equal pay for colored and white teachers and principals. The board of county commissioners and the county excise board are co-defendants in the case.

Mrs. Gray Makes Statement About Recent Divorce

Regarding a recent suit in which her former husband, Noble F. Gray, 68, who has been residing for over a year in Philadelphia, Pa., came to the city and was granted a divorce June 16, after 47 years of marriage to her, Mrs. Maxine Gray of 1134 Enos, made a statement to the press this week. In asking the uncontested divorce suit, Gray said he felt he should be entitled to spend the rest of his life "in mental happiness." Mrs. Gray, in a written letter, stated that she did not go into court and contest the divorce because she was "willing for him to have the said divorce." Mr. Gray had testified before District Judge C. Edwin Moore that his wife's temper "got worse every year." Mrs. Gray wrote that her husband "was temperamental, irritable, domineering, ungrateful and unfaithful." The letter also, informed of incidents in which Mrs. Gray said she learned of her husband's "unfaithfulness." The letter also charged that the former husband was "abusive towards his daughter—a devoted and loving daughter to both of us." "After so many years unhappy years, with Mr. Gray, it was indeed a pleasure for me to be divorced from him. Now, I can enjoy life, and have peace in my home. I, Mrs. Maxine Gray, was awarded all of the furniture, and the equity in the property at 1134 Enos avenue. The property will not be sold. Mr. Gray is out. Nor will any of the furniture be sold." Mrs. Gray is employed as a maid at Davidson's store, downtown.

Quentin Mease on 'Hectic Visit to Big Town' Writes Of Fight and GOP Meeting. Quentin R. Mease of Chicago, who used to make annual visits to the big Eastern cities while serving here as executive secretary of the Crocker-Young, has written his comments on the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight and the Republican National Convention, both of which he attended recently. His letter dated June 27 from New York City follows: "I am winding up a rather hectic three-week visit to the Big Town and other points East and the typing of this missive will serve to culminate an eventful stay before hopping the Mainline at 6:00 a.m. tomorrow for what I hope will be a pleasant three-hour journey back to Chicago. The air journey back to the Windy City was made necessary due to the postponements of the fight and returning delegates from the Republican Convention in Philadelphia. Although the New York Central added extra sections to their crack trains—Twenty-first Century Limited, Commodore Vanderbilt, and Paecemaker, still accommodations were inadequate for the thousands of western-bound travellers. I was therefore fortunate in obtaining a seat on the first flight of the Mainliner out of New York, hence the early hour. There is an ironical twist, though

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL PROCLAIMING FEBRUARY 1 AS NATIONAL FREEDOM DAY

Washington, D. C., (NNPA)—President Truman last Wednesday signed a resolution requesting the President to proclaim February 1 of each year as National Freedom Day, to be observed with ceremonies of freedoms guaranteed by the American pattern of democracy. The resolution was drawn in tribute to the late Major Richard R. Wright, Sr., Georgia educator who became a banker in Philadelphia and founded the National Freedom Day Association in 1941. The purpose of the organization is to observe the date on which Abraham Lincoln in 1865, signed the resolution proposing the Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution, abolishing slavery.

Search Still on by Des Moines Police for Body of Boy, 14, Drowned Seven Days Ago

The Des Moines police department's river crew is still searching for the body of Howard Frazier, 14, of 1309 Sampson street, drowned in the Des Moines river Thursday, July 1, when he attempted to buck a 13-mile-an-hour current rather than accompany his four companions across the Rock Island railroad bridge below the S. E. Fourteenth street viaduct. The boy stripped and waded into a narrow point in the river opposite a large sand beach, his companions said. A police squad dragged the area throughout the afternoon. His clothes were found, but the body was not recovered. His companions said they saw him go down five times. They threw out a rope but Howard could not reach it. None of the other four could swim. Delay in Getting Aid Because the spot is an isolated, weed-grown area, it was more than 30 minutes after the drowning before the companions reached a telephone to summon police. "We told Howard not to try and swim because the current was so fast," said Noble Nichols, 13, of 1919 E. Seventeenth street. The other boys in the group were James Cooper, 10, of 1623 Walker street; Ronald McClain, 10, of 1642 Walker street, and David Jackson, 11, of 1656 Walker street. Parents See Search The victim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Frazier, stood along the river bank as police searched for the body. His mother sobbed quietly. Surviving with the parents are 11 brothers and sisters. They are Jackie, 7; Peggy, 9; Joe, 11; Madonna, 12; Donald, 16; George, 17; Theodore, 20; Bernice, 22; Oscar, 23; Dorothy, 27, and Henry, 30. Howard was in the eighth grade at Anjos Hiatt Junior High school. Since the tragedy, the family has moved from their tent-home on Sampson street. According to a son, Frederick, the mother and children are with Mrs. Frazier's mother, Mrs. Dave Turner, 812 S. E. 28th street.

THREE COLORED MIDSHIPMEN ENROLLED AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Annapolis, Md., (NNPA)—For the first time in the history of the United States Naval Academy, there are three colored midshipmen enrolled, one of whom has reached his senior year. The latest one to be admitted is Lawrence C. Chambers, a graduate of Dunbar High School, Washington, who was appointed by Representative William L. Dawson, Democrat, of Illinois. He entered the academy last Thursday. Chambers was the valedictorian of High School. He was the colonel of the Cadet Corps in the school year 1947-48—the highest ranking cadet officer. The Des Moines S. S. Workers council will meet July 13 at 8 p.m. at Shiloh Baptist church. The discussion subject will be Sunday School Music. Mrs. Odella Daniels will be in charge. At her home in the Dunbar Apartment, 2588 Seventh Avenue, Mrs. Pelham Speaks, socialite and Harlem lawyer, was disbarred last Thursday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for alleged misconduct in dealings with her clients. The disbarment proceedings were brought against her by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. Identity of the clients, for and with whom Mrs. Speaks had allegedly unethical dealings, was not disclosed. In its findings against Mrs. Speaks, the Appellate Division declared: "The record established a course of conduct which no member of the bar should pursue, and respondent should not be allowed to practice as a member of an honorable profession." "The respondent has been found guilty of entirely neglecting one matter entrusted to her and, as a result the claim was barred by lapse of time. The referee also found her guilty of failing to perform legal services for which she had been retained and paid; of making false representations with respect to the status of various matters in which she had been retained, and failing to return certain fees received in some of such matters." Says She is Innocent At her home in the Dunbar Apartment, 2588 Seventh Avenue, Mrs. Speaks last Thursday night declared that she was innocent of the charges preferred against her by the bar association and said she would petition the Appellate Division for reargument of her case. If her motion is denied, she said she could still appeal to the State Court of Appeals. A native of Washington, Mrs. Speaks has a prominent family background. Her father was the late Robert A. Pelham, who for a long number of years was chief of a unit in the Census Bureau. Her mother, the late Mrs. Gabrielle Pelham, was secretary of the Community Center Department. Recently, she has made sensational charges of corruption and misconduct against Harlem police. She accused them of rigging homes without warrants, "planting" number slips on persons under arrest, and taking money and valuables from apartments which they had raided. As a result of her charges, several persons came forward with information concerning the alleged misconduct of Harlem police, and one man testified that he had paid policemen $1,500 a month for protection in operating gambling games in his establishment. She said she was threatened with bodily harm in three telephone calls she received, but she refused to (SEE EDITORIAL PAGE)

CROCKER Y.M.C.A. TRACK MEET

Before a crowd of over 300 people 75 athletes participated in 24 events to stage one of the outstanding meets in the history of Crocker Branch YMCA. Charles Holmes former New York athlete and now member of Drake university, staged the biggest upset of the afternoon, by winning the 100 and 220 yard dashes. In the latter of these races Holmes upset the highly famed Reginald Kaiser, member of the famed North High Flying Foursome. The time was 23.5. Conrad Jones scratched from the 100 yd. dash.

In an exhibition high jump Kenneth Witney, Drake student representing Roadside Settlement tied with Cecil Brewton, Iowa University high jumper representing Crocker Branch when both jumpers failed to clear 6' 2". The famed Ambassador Club, entering a 12 man team failed to snatch a first place in the classie field of Senior entries in the 440 and 880 yard relays. Both of these events featured the power of Bicky Hackney's East Side "Esquires" who all afternoon showed their heels to the Senior Field.

In the intermediate 100 yard dash, Howard Peters, a good replica of Tuskegee's Mosell Ellerb, thundered down the track to win the century in 10.9—pointing out to the excited crowd that the long tradition of sprinters such as Bill Mash and Dick Atkins has not terminated.

Another thrilling feature of the afternoon was the open half which brought together Jack Copeland, from Iowa City and Dick Phipps, East High stellar half miler. Copeland, former North High Student

The fort's name commemorates the exploits of Captain Meriwether Lewis who in 1805 led the historic Lewis and Clark expedition down the Columbia river and into the virgin territory now contained in the state of Washington.

With more than 70,000 acres of land, 80 per cent of it virgin timber, the huge post has dozens of target ranges and training areas. Its reservation includes every kind of terrain on which almost any type of military problem may be practiced. Within a half-day's journey lie low hills, pathless-forests, beautiful groves, rivers, lakes, and the sea itself.

The fort was originally established in 1917 as Camp Lewis, and became a permanent installation 10 years later. During World War I the hard-hitting 91st division was organized and trained at Camp Lewis prior to its participation in fighting in France. Also organized there was the 13th Infantry division during Lewis' growth as a wartime military training center.

Today, all Fort Lewis activities are closely related to the training of the 2d (Indianhead) division.

new Varieties Proven Two new potatoes, bred at Minnesota experiment station, have proven so satisfactory they will be distributed when seed can be increased. The first is a white potato which has been named Chisago. It is a cross between Cobler and one of the station's better breeding lines. It is a high yielding, tubers are large and cooking quality is good. The other is a red potato as early as Red Warba, which will bear the name Waseca. It is a high-yielder of good cooking quality and is not as deep-eyed as Red Warba. Early trials indicate that both will prove satisfactory in earlier-producing regions.

ates of East's class of 301 seniors—Miss Daniels had a rating of 1.4/6. Her rating was the highest among the Negro students of the graduating classes of this year's classes. When the Iowa Association of Colored Women wrote to the schools for the highest ranking student, scholastically, Miss Daniels' name and a letter of recommendation was sent to the state club women. The organization later awarded their scholarship on an honorary basis which placed the June graduate second instead of first place, she informed.

Miss Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Alberta Williams, plans to attend Drake Community college in September. She likes swimming as a hobby, but has to come so far across town from the East side to the Good park pool, that she does not get much of it done.

No greater indication of the necessity for more home canning need be cited than the U. S. Department of Agriculture campaign for 20 million home gardens in 1948, an increase of three million over last year's goal.

So while you can set up a picture like the one above in your own kitchen, Mrs. Housewife, be sure to do so and you will have plenty of nourishing, flavorful home-canned fruits and vegetables for your family's use next winter.

Keep a supply of your favorite fruit jars, caps, lids and rubbers on hand; then you can put up fruits and vegetables as soon as they come from the garden or your grocer gets in a fresh supply.

Home Freezer Saves Time

In Packing School Lunch Getting the children off to school on time with a good packed lunch is a double duty many homemakers face five mornings a week.

For buffet meals, picnics and teas is saved if you prepare and freeze sandwiches in advance. For frozen sandwiches, use any variety and thickness of bread.

Buying Deep-Freeze Unit? Then Consider These Points

Families intending to purchase home deep freezers should consider carefully uses to be made of them before they buy. In the opinion of G. H. Stewart, leader of Clemson agricultural engineering extension work, Stewart believes that the deep freeze units can best be used in connection with locker refrigeration plants where they will be used only for storage of frozen foods.

Money can be saved if the vegetables to be stored can be processed and packed at home and then taken to the locker refrigeration plant for sharp freezing," he says.

High Compression Engines

New high-compression gasoline engines for some models assembled in 1949 are being planned now by some manufacturers. Long-range goal of this development, which has been in the experimental stage for several years, is to cut the automobile owner's gasoline bill with estimates of potential savings running as high as 35 to 40 per cent.

Use of Ammonium Nitrate

Ammonium nitrate is one of the new forms of fertilizing materials that is being used on United States farms. Its use in mixed fertilizers began about 1930. It was first used for top-dressing crops in the 1942-43 season. In the 1947 season 374,618 tons was consumed as a top-dressing alone, says the U. S. department of agriculture, which anticipates that in 1948 over 400,000 tons will probably be used for this purpose.

Car Damaged in Not Joe Louis

New York, (NNPA)—It was not Joe Louis' Cadillac but two other cars that Harlem revelers damaged after the Louis-Walcott fight, it was learned last Friday.

One of the damaged cars belonged to Charlie Glenn, of Chicago, a long time friend and associate of Louis. The other belonged to Dr. J. Francis Dyer, an ear, nose and throat specialist, of Washington.

Of the two cars, Dr. Dyer's was the more seriously damaged. Its top was buckled in from the weight of the crowd who stood on its top to get a glimpse of Louis.

According to informed sources, Louis had arranged to enter the hotel after the fight by a side entrance. On the way from Yankee Stadium, he changed his mind and decided to go in through the front entrance. More than 3,000 persons were lined up in the streets to catch a glimpse of him as he went in.

With traffic blocked off on Seventh avenue from 120th to 129th street, Louis drove up to the hotel in Glenn's car, a 1948 Cadillac.

Dr. Dyer's car, a new Lincoln Continental, was one of two cars parked in front of the hotel. The crowd climbed on its top, which caved in. They also broke off the side mirrors and license plates on Glenn's car.

meet at the Shiloh Baptist church Sunday, July 11, at 3 p. m. at which time the Young people of various churches will take part. Rosetta Tywater is chairman of the program.

SING IN YALE BOWL SUMMER CONCERTS

New Haven—Muriel Rahn, soprano, and Edward Matthews, baritone, scored heavily in the Yale University Bowl "Pop" Concerts here last Tuesday night. The artists were soloists with the 87-piece New Haven Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Conductor Harry Berman.

Thousands upon thousands of Connecticut music lovers and Summer School students of Yale jammed the Ivy covered Bowl of Old Eli under a brilliant moon to hear the noted concert stars in their solo and duet selections from the works of the old Masters.

The two soloists, who were the first Negroes to appear in the traditional old Yale Bowl Summer concerts, were so successful that a return engagement for next season was immediately requested. Above, Conductor Harry Berman has just presented Muriel Rahn with a bouquet of red roses from the New Haven Chamber of Commerce as Matthews looks on approvingly.

In the pushing and shoving Detective George Webber, Louis' bodyguard, almost had a finger wrenched off by a thief who attempted to take a diamond ring off of it. Webber knocked the man down. Louis' two cars, a black Cadillac and a Lincoln Cosmopolitan, were in a garage on the night of the fight.

 Well, honey, it's like this. You won't talk too long, will you? Or call all the kids one after another? Or get panicky if you hear someone talking when you start to make a call? Just hang up, that's all. And you won't forget to hang up when you are through talking either, will you?
 Oh, you'll make a fine party liner.

"Miss Whipple, Let's Serve all the Customers at the Same Time!"

Miss Whipple just can't do it! It's all too clear to the customers that she has to serve them one at a time. But how different it is in the electric business! For there are periods every day when almost everybody uses electricity at the same time. And electricity must be manufactured and delivered the instant you need it.

During the "peak" periods, mid-morning and mid-afternoon, when you and almost everyone else call for electric service, we have to send out more and more power to meet increased needs. Often our generating stations are taxed to the limit.

Before the War, we kept ample reserve generating capacity available in anticipation of community growth and expansion. Today, serious delays in delivery of vital electric equipment have prevented us from keeping ahead of our ever-increasing use of electricity.

At present, it's the "peak" periods in mid-morning and mid-afternoon that worry us most... when your demand for service is piled on top of the demands of thousands of other customers... but we'll be doing our best to get over these daily "humps" during the summer.

Miss Morrow Weds In Garden Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. RALPH T. ARRINGTON

In a shaded nook of a rock garden on the spacious A. A. Alexander estate at 2220 Chautauqua Parkway, Geneva Ann Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Morrow, Sr., and Mr. Ralph T. Arrington of Niagara Falls, N. Y., said their vows on the Fourth of July.

The Rev. E. Gladstone Scott of Marshalltown, read a solemn and beautiful double-ring ceremony which was witnessed by members of the families of the couple and about 400 guests.

Ferns, candelabars, and palms enhanced a large urn of white gladioli and stephanotis, blending in with the natural beauty of the garden which was thickly grown with needlepines, evergreens, Japanese shrubs, honeysuckle and other flowering bushes. Branches from tall maple, sumac entwined with vines, formed a canopy through which rays of the late Sunday afternoon sun played rhapsodies in shadows. Tiny rivulets trickled into a garden pool from little waterfalls at the ledge.

A white-robed aisle, from the Alexander home, guided the bridal procession down a long grassy-covered lane to the altar—a breathing picture which was beheld by a colorful gathering of guests in afternoon attire.

From the patio of the Alexander home, organ music filled the out-of-doors as Mrs. Barbara Jean Williams played delicate airs of Debussy's

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

Very proud of her twenty-three year old motor car which she drives daily to her Bible classes meeting at the Maple Street Baptist church is Mrs. Jessie Brown of 301, South-east Twenty-eighth street. She is a teacher until July 16.

The little black coupe of a very popular make has been the personal property of Mrs. Brown for several months now since she was lucky to purchase the bargain of the century—for the unheard-of sum of $6.00 (six) dollars, she informed one Saturday morning when her church club was holding a bake sale at the city market.

The "fine old number" had puffed up to the market and has been taking the city streets like a youngster. When she got the bargain from a seller who had aged faster than his car—the owner said the car had "good tires, a good running motor that purred its way along the dusty south-east side roads, had passed traffic inspection and had a sticker to prove it, and held license plates for this year."

Last week Mrs. Brown informed that she had added a California visor to the car and a propeller to make it nap through the air. Should you pass her in her neat little carriage—just give her a wave because she will be going fast. Getting ready for the annual clean-up and beauty campaign, Mrs. Lela Warfield has been very busy around her home. She actually made—all by herself—shutters to go around the windows of her home—and is she proud of them because they really add an extra touch of beauty to her dwelling place which is right on busy Second Avenue.

Observing his seventy-third birthday in a very quiet way was Atty. S. Joe Brown who, dropped in the office on Tuesday, July 6, and wiped perspiration from his brow in near 100-degree temperature. He didn't seem to mind having a birthday card—one of the many held around the desk for sudden discoveries—handed to him.

Out in the sweltering heat on Tuesday afternoon was Mrs. Alice Bell of 846 14th street who stopped to chat about her husband, Jesse, who was able to spend the holiday Monday on a fishing trip out to Waterworks park. It has been many months since Mr. Bell has been able to go fishing because of illness. He was tickled, Mrs. Bell informed just to be able to get out by the water, use a new reel and sit in a favorite chair that she purchased him over a year ago.

The Jim Roberts celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary on July 4.

carried a shower bouquet of Calla lilies and a string of pearls adorned her neck.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Betty Jane Morrow, who wore a gown of white taffeta and lace with fitted bodice, full skirt which fell into a slight train. Her picture hat of white delicate straw and lace that matched her gown was banded with red velvet streamers that hung to the hipline. Her lace-gloved hands held an arm bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaids whose gowns and hats were replicas of the maid of honor's, carried shower bouquets of white gladioli and stephanotis.

Attendants

Sharing the honor as the bride's attendants were: Mrs. Camilla Boyer of New York City and Miss Winifred Arrington of Le Roy, N. Y., sisters of the bridegroom; Mrs. Helene Holmes of Buffalo, N. Y., roommate of the bride when she attended Tennessee State College; Mrs. Virgil Dixon, Mrs. Seymour Morrison, Miss Inez McQuarry.

Best man was John C. Arrington of Le Roy, N. Y., brother of the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Arrington of Le Roy. Ushers who wore smart afternoon attire were: Messrs. Virgil F. Dixon; Adolph F. Boyer of New York City, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Fred O. Morrow, Jr., and Harold A. Morrow, brothers of the bride; Seymour R. Morrison and James B. Morris, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony the wedding entourage formed a receiving line with Mrs. Samuel Arrington of Le Roy, N. Y., the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. F. O. Morrow, Sr., mother of the bride; Miss Phyllis Arrington, sister of the bridegroom and Mesdames Guy E. Greene and Gwendolyn Fowler.

The bride's mother wore a red crepe floor-length dress with draped side; a large natural straw and a gardenia corsage at the waistline. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Arrington, who is sister of Mrs. James B. Morris here, was attired in gray crepe faille with pink accessories. She wore a Camilla shoulder corsage.

Hosts

Beautifully gowned hostesses included Mesdames Orsel Morrow, Catherine Atkinson, Lee Kemp, Eleanor Hawkins, Misses—Edith Blakely and Loretta Wilcoits. Hosts were Messrs. Orsel M. Morrow, James A. Morrow, Lee Kemp and Atty. Luther Glanton.

BEACH SHOES

Are you ready for that beach party? Don't forget beach shoes are an absolute necessity. Here Miss Mary Ann Mulet wears a pair that she made herself, and any lady can make them simply by braiding strands of material together and tacking them to wooden soles. You may make several pairs, using the same wooden soles for each occasion. For complete instructions on how to make these nifty beach shoes write to this paper's Sewing Department or to Home Sewing Bureau, 400 Manhattan Ave., New York 26, New York, Suite 4.

Mrs. Morris, Sr., 955 17th street. Mrs. Arrington is Mrs. Morris' sister.

FRIENDLY GUIDANCE ON YOUR HUMAN RELATIONSHIP PROBLEMS by The ABBE WALLACE Service

Readers who feel the need of a direct-by-mail, confidential reply—should send 10c and a stamped, return envelope for Abbe's "private reading letter" covering their individual problem. Mail your letter to: The Abbe Wallace Service, P. O. Box 11, Atlanta 1, Georgia.

Iowa Bystander, 221 1/2 Locust Street, Des Moines 9, Ia.

R. A. M.—My husband and I separated. I could not live with him any longer. He took the child and refused to let me have her. Now I want to know if I have to give in to his wishes or what should I do? I want my child.

Ans: Legal guardianship of your child is a matter for the court to decide if you are planning to separate permanently from your husband. Therefore, you must consult a lawyer to represent you in your desire to gain custody of your child.

L. M. C.—I have your Guide and it has been a wonderful inspiration to me. I am thinking of making a trip to Detroit this summer and possibly remaining up there if conditions are good. Tell me should I go, take all of my things without a definite place in view to stay? Ans: Before you go, write the woman with whom you stopped last summer as well as the other friends you made up there and inquire about a temporary place to live. These friends will be glad to help you find living quarters. You certainly would not want to make the trip and take all of your belongings with you without a definite place in view to stay.

M. A. G.—My problem is liquor. I have always taken a small drink occasionally but now it seems like I act a hog with it and I was not raised to that. Everytime I touch it now I drink too much. Tell me something to do.

Ans: There is but one way for you—TOTAL ABSTINENCE. It won't be very hard to do, as you actually drink just to be sociable—not because you feel any desire to relax or enjoy it's effects. Also, you realize what it is doing to you and you have the will and determination to pass up drinking. Do it in the future—your friend will admire you more for refusing. They don't enjoy your company one bit when you pass out or make a monkey out of yourself. It's disgusting.

P. N. C.—I am upset and worried. I am a college graduate and have taught school one year. I am going with an Ex-GI who finished high school in June. He plans to go to college. He was in service 4 years and his education was interrupted. We attend the same church, work together in church work and enjoy a quite life. We love each other but know that he should finish his education before we marry. But I am condemned by my friends for going with a high school student. Is this reason for me to give up this lovely friendship? I can't ever forget him. We are the same age.

Ans: It's absurd to let your so-called friends influence you to give up this friendship. Refuse to listen to their criticism—avoid discussing your private affairs with other people. There is a complete understanding between you and the young man friend—continue your friendship.

TRUMAN DESERVES A FAIR CHANCE

The Bystander is not particularly interested in who gets the Democratic nomination for president. But it does believe, that some of its leaders ought to quit parading as a liberal party and at the same time allow the most reactionary wing of that organization to control the course of action in determining the greatest tests of liberalism—civil rights.

Anybody with an ounce of brains knows that the fight on President Truman is bottomed on his stand on civil rights. Certainly he has not been a great president, but he has had the nerve to take a real stand on the Negro question even to a greater extent than the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt.

But had Mr. Truman remained silent on the question of civil rights, the southerners and their sympathizers would have been willing to stand on the record he made as the record of the Democratic party.

It is quite refreshing that General Eisenhower has, so far, refused to allow the die hard wing of the Democratic party to use him in an attempt to pull these chestnuts out of the fire. It is pretty certain that no Democrats with any great ability will do likewise.

These race haters in whatever party—and they are not all in the Democratic party—find themselves losing ground every day. This Truman issue is just another which indicates that their position gets less secure as the time moves on.

WHERE WE STAND ON LABOR UNIONS

A good subscriber of the Bystander recently criticized the editorial columns of the Bystander because of what he called its anti-labor attitude. Had his sentiments been forwarded in writing, they would have been printed and thus given the public the benefit of his view.

The Bystander has never opposed labor unions as an institution. But it has and will continue to oppose some policies of some unions. No union has a right to deny membership to applicants because of race, creed or color for in so doing it precludes them from securing a job. This practice prevails in a great many unions so without regard to any other consideration, the Bystander opposes those unions on this ground.

Certainly an organization for the purpose of advancing the cause of labor should not violate the rules of fair play by penalizing a large segment of the population of this country.

No union should be so great as to feel itself exempt from regulation by the government and amenable to the laws of the land.

In the recent packing house strike, our critic is a member of the packing house workers union—lawlessness was at its height and much damage was done individuals and property.

Fundamentally, mob violence must not be tolerated in any form and wherever it crops up, the Bystander opposes it.

No, the Bystander is not opposed to the principle of collective bargaining and the principle of labor unions. As a matter of fact compulsory arbitration of labor disputes has been a principle close to our heart for years because the public ought not be allowed to be caught between the squeeze of capital and labor nor the families of the worker suffer because of the lack of funds during strikes.

Harlem After Fight Mease-Big Town

(See FRONT PAGE) the millions of other sport fans, were tuned-in for the broadcast of the Louis-Walcott return engagement in Yankee Stadium Friday night. This was apparently King Joe's last fight, according to his own declaration, and I especially wanted to be on hand to see him in his "swan fight" as we did on the occasion of his winning the title back in 1937. It was just eleven years that five of us—Everett Wadsworth, Melvin and Harold Carr, Lloyd Shelton, and yours truly—motored over from Des Moines to sit in Comiskey Park on the night of June 22, 1937 and witnessing the crowning of Joe Louis as World Heavyweight Champion—the ruler of all fistiana—as a result of his smashing victory over Jimmy Braddock. It was an unforgettable sight, watching the youthful Brown Bomber from Detroit knocking out the venerable, but game Braddock, and then assume his place at the pinnacle of boxing success and to begin a long and unparalleled reign as champion of the fistie world. And while we had seen Louis in two fights before winning the title and three times since, the Braddock fight in Chicago will always remain the most cherished in our memories of the great fights of a great champion.

I returned from Philadelphia Tuesday night, where I had been an onlooker at the opening sessions of the big G.O.P. Carnival in the City of Brotherly Love, to be on hand for the big embroglio in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night. But, as you know, Jupiter Pluvius reigned as Champion on that and the following night and many were the disappointed souls who couldn't remain over for Friday night. Many of these disappointed persons, who had previous commitments elsewhere, disposed of choice ringside seats, costing fifty dollars for as little as fifteen smackers. No, I couldn't take advantage of the situation because I already had my duck and was set. Fortunately, the Convention down in Philly finally came to an end early in the day and many of the politicians, delegates, and observers converged on Manhattan and were able to see the fight. These late-comers helped swell the crowd to around the 42,000 mark and was some consolation to Mike Jacobs and the Twentieth Century Sporting Club who saw two successive nights of rain ruin an anticipated "gate" of over a million dollars and spectators numbering in the vicinity of 60,000.

Perfect Setting Friday night provided a perfect setting for this Battle of the Year. The sky was absolutely cloudless at fight time and a near full moon hung lazily over the Harlem River besides which stands the vast amphitheater known as Yankee Stadium. Spread out on the field, which for five months of the year is the home grounds of the World's Baseball Champions, the New York Yankees, were approximately 15,000 seats at fifty dollars per. Nearest to the ring, which was perched exactly over secondbase, were the accommodations for the working press and the radio and television announcers. Before this vast assemblage of government officials, statesmen and politicians from Washington and every state in the Nation, business and industrial tycoons, motion picture and stage celebrities, and the thousands of commonplace folks, but the truest sports fans, met two superb Negro athletes to do battle for sportdom's richest prize—the World's Heavyweight Championship.

Now Ring History What took place in the next forty-five minutes is now ring history, having been all too well told in the millions of words of copy that were sent out by the fifteen hundred reporters and fight experts at the ringside plus the descriptions over the radio and television networks. All of it boils down to this: It was an extremely slow and uninteresting fight for eight rounds due principally to Walcott's running, shuffling style of ring maneuvering. Louis commenced his offensive in the ninth canto when it appeared that Jersey Joe was beginning to slow down, scoring effectively with sharp left-hand thrusts. Walcott made a stand in the tenth round and seemed to have solved Louis' jab, for he was avoiding it, ducking away and presenting a moving target. When that round ended, it seemed that Jersey Joe, the ancient warrior, was going to win the heavyweight championship in one of the most uninspired fights in years.

Midway in the 11th, after Walcott had crossed a right hand to the head which seemed to stagger Louis, but the latter suddenly nailed his foe with a sharp right cross which drove him to the ropes. For the first time in the fight, Louis was now alert and aggressive and he followed Walcott to the ropes with a flurry of blows. Walcott kept ducking his head in awesome fear of what was at the leather end of Louis' gloves, but he was zigging when he should have zigged.

A right caught Jersey Joe flush on the jaw and he reeled away from the ropes, a helpless and hopeless target for a rain of furious blows. On his way down to the canvas, Walcott was fit in quick succession by two of the fastest rights that Louis ever delivered.

Walcott fell to the canvas like an inert sack. He rolled over at an early count, three or four, and was on his knees by eight, but it was purely a reflex action. His legs acted as though they were not part of him. His body wouldn't obey his brain because by then Jersey Joe had no brain, only a collection of scrambled thoughts, dreams and instincts. Walcott was staggering, lethally staggering in his feet at the count of 10. The elapsed time was 2:46 of the 11th, just four seconds before Walcott would have been able to escape to the sanctity of his corner.

Too Much Walcott's sliding, dodging tactics were too much for Louis and in the third, Jersey Joe crossed a right high to the temple and dropped the champion for a count of one. It was almost the only effective blow in the fight until Louis ambushed his Stine day punch in the eleventh round.

Local Sports The Esquire club won the Crocker Y track meet last Sunday at the East High stadium. Couldn't get the totals but Lonnie Howard got them in his YMCA news this week.

The Olympian club's swimming meet comes off Sunday, July 11. The club boys have never put on a bad show yet, so it looks like their swimming meet will go over big. The Olympians are composed largely of fellows who are interested in helping young amateur athletes and are gradually getting a sound program on foot.

We finally got both sides of the reorganization of the Willkie House soft ball club. The House directors didn't get a very good break. No matter how one dresses it up, no matter what the cause for the break was, the Willkie House heads should have been given a hearing before the final jump was taken. But we live and learn.

Baseball Jackie Robinson has finally stolen a base, so maybe, he will get rolling again. Last year the rookie of the year played a big part in the pennant drive of the Dodgers and his failure to get going didn't help this year.

Larry Doby of Cleveland, now laid up with a bad ankle, has been hitting had. His percentage isn't too high, .278, but he hits a long ball.

Brooklyn recalled Roy Campanella, catcher without any fanfare. So the guy hits two home runs in one game last Sunday. Maybe, he will stay.

HEALTH FOR ALL

VISITING THE TB PATIENT

If a member of your family or a friend is in a tuberculosis hospital, probably you visit him as often as you can. These visits can contribute directly to his cure if they are timed right, if hospital rules are observed and if visitors are cheerful and understanding while with the sick person.

A person who has a cold or some other illness should postpone his visit until he is perfectly well because the patient might catch his cold. The sick person needs all his strength to fight his tuberculosis. An additional illness, such as a cold, might over-tax and weaken his body defenses.

Visitors at the tuberculosis hospital should make it a doctor and the hospital personnel because they know what is best for him. For instance, it isn't easy for the patient to accept the fact that he must stay for a long time in the hospital. He may complain to his visitor about the length of his hospital stay or question the judgment of the doctor who advises continued rest and hospital care.

The visitor can help by reminding the patient that the doctor is the one best qualified to say what progress is being made against the disease. He can point out to the patient that a premature discharge against medical advice might mean a more serious breakdown in the future.

The intelligent visitor can be a real tonic to the patient and a pleasure to the hospital personnel who know what is best for the patient. Such a visitor will have the patient well and home that much sooner.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Polk County Tuberculosis Association.

SPORTS

By ALLEN ASHBY

The winning streak of Harrison Dillard, Baldwin-Wallace star, finally went the way of all such collections. It had to end some day. And the old man who can still trot a mean century, Barney Ewell of Pennsylvania had to be one of the guys who helped stop Dillard's run of victories. Dave Abrington of Ohio State at 36 is still one of the nation's top-high jumpers. Maybe high jumpers don't age so rapidly. We recall that we saw Harold Osborne, a forty-year old veteran, clear six feet with apparent ease.

It looks as if Negroes will again win all the races up to fifteen hundred meters, but this time some of the Negroes won't be American citizens.

One group of people have remained strangely silent. They are the people who are most concerned with Mr. Reynolds' and Mr. Randolph's program. They are the guys who actually fall into the age group from 18 to 26 who will have to decide whether to swallow their pride and be inducted into a Jim Crow Army or Navy, or follow Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Randolph and go to jail as a draft dodger or whatever fancy names you wish to hang on them.

Well the President and the Congress has called Mr. Reynolds' and Mr. Randolph's bluff and passed a Jim Crow law. It is their move now. And to their eternal credit they have moved. And to their future credit they have not taken a backward step. Instead, the announced last week that they are immediately putting their program into operation.

Colored men with pride who are eligible for the draft will want to know a few things about Mr. Randolph's program before they make up their minds—to go or not to go. They want to know is a refusal to enter a Jim Crow draft treason? They'd like to know who will support them if they decide not to register for the draft. They want to know what the penalty is for refusing to answer a Jim Crow draft call. This column does not have the answers to such questions. But Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Randolph have made an attempt to answer them and since it seems a fair attempt, they are passed on to you, Joe, to evaluate them as you will.

Randolph and Reynolds say it is not treason to refuse to answer a draft call. They claim that a poll of "outstanding lawyers" have convinced them that Senator Morse is wrong in his cry of treason. But they admit it is illegal to re-

Well the President and the Congress has called Mr. Reynolds' and Mr. Randolph's bluff and passed a Jim Crow law. It is their move now. And to their eternal credit they have moved. And to their future credit they have not taken a backward step. Instead, the announced last week that they are immediately putting their program into operation.

Colored men with pride who are eligible for the draft will want to know a few things about Mr. Randolph's program before they make up their minds—to go or not to go. They want to know is a refusal to enter a Jim Crow draft treason? They'd like to know who will support them if they decide not to register for the draft. They want to know what the penalty is for refusing to answer a Jim Crow draft call. This column does not have the answers to such questions. But Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Randolph have made an attempt to answer them and since it seems a fair attempt, they are passed on to you, Joe, to evaluate them as you will.

Randolph and Reynolds say it is not treason to refuse to answer a draft call. They claim that a poll of "outstanding lawyers" have convinced them that Senator Morse is wrong in his cry of treason. But they admit it is illegal to re-qualify now as a Sergeant in the Army! Your nearest Army and Air Force Recruiting Officer can let you know for sure.
