Randolph Abandons Disobedience

Decides on Strength of Truman's Announced Plan To End Jimcra in Services

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

New York (NNPA)—A. Philip Randolph, chairman of the League for Non-Violent Disobedience Against Military Segregation, last Wednesday did an about-face and abandoned the movement on the strength of President Truman's announced plan to end segregation in the armed forces.

Mr. Randolph, who founded the league on June 26 to urge young men, subject to the draft, to refuse to register under selective service or, if they registered, to refuse to be inducted, said he also spoke for Grant Reynolds, a member of the organization's executive committee.

At the same time, Bayard Rustin, executive co-secretary of the league, made it clear that the movement will continue without Mr. Randolph. Nineteen members of the league said they will continue the movement because they are convinced that Mr. Truman's executive order establishing an advisory committee to the Secretary of National Defense on "equality of treatment and opportunity in the armed services did not abolish military segregation."

The nineteen officials of the league, who rejected Mr. Randolph's and Mr. Reynolds' stand, promised to carry on the civil disobedience campaign until "there is an unconditional order or law stating that non-segregation in military service is the national policy."

In their statement, Mr. Randolph and Mr. Reynolds declared that "through Senator J. Howard McGrath, chief spokesman for the President, we have been given assurance that segregation in the armed services is unequivocally banned under the executive order of July 26."

Probe Importation of 212 Workers from Georgia Now Seeking Help in Michigan

Detroit (NNPA)—Four vans, jammed like slave ships with human cargo, brought 212 colored workers from the welfare rolls of Georgia four weeks ago to be distributed among Michigan farmers at a price reputed to be $35 a head.

Nearly all of them have since been seeking relief help here, producing handbills issued by the Georgia state employment service which promised them wages from $6 to $12 a day in Michigan cucumber fields.

Discovering they could make no more than $4 a day, they have been resting under the shade trees of Saginaw and Bay counties these summer days and swarming to the jails and welfare agencies when moved by hunger and the need of shelter.

About twenty-eight of those in the shipment were single women. These young women have vanished and no one could account for them. With the men and boys who made the three-day journey from Savannah, Georgia, young married women were delivered to three farm camps in Bay county—one of them in a pig barn.

Some lived with the pigs, according to Dr. R. L. Loftin, health officer of Bay county.

With no lights, water or sanitary facilities, they slept on straw and prepared their food in pots and pans brought from Georgia.

The back doors of the vans which brought them here—the only doors were locked from the outside during the two long nights the gargo was on the road, and the only air was from two peepholes about eight inches in diameter, according to Dr. Loftin.

James Monroe, director of the Michigan employment service, is incensed by the wholesale importation of uneducable.

He ordered the trucker, Clyde Thompson of Savannah, to truck them back. That was two weeks ago. Thompson said he could not find the women, and most of the men found conditions in Michigan.

DES MOINES FIRM BREAKS RACE BARRIER

employ four workers—three Negro and one white. Most important of all, they feel from their own standpoint and from that of many customers as well, is the fact that they opening up job opportunities for Negroes where skilled workers of that race have been especially restricted before.

Calderon and Semple employ three welders and two are Negroes. The latter were unable to work at their trade previously because of racial prejudice. And now Semple and Calderon are looking for two more Negro—or white—welders.

No Handicap
"A lot of people have gone out of their way to give us business because of our policy in employing Negroes as welders," Semple said.

"We never have run into a single case where our plan was a handicap. Many people ask us if we are the place where Negroes are employed as welders, and then give us their business because we are."

Semple and Calderon met through their mutual activities in the American Veterans of World War II (Amvets). Both are state officers—Calderon the adjutant and Semple public relations officer.

Calderon, a captain with the 5th Army in the North African campaign—lives at 1349 Jefferson ave.

Semple, a veteran of both World War I and II, was a chief boat-swain's mate and was a chemical warfare instructor at the Coast guard academy at New London, Conn. He lives at 1539 Fifty-sixth street.

Business Expanded
Calderon has worked for many years in wrought iron trade. He opened his own shop after the war.

U. S. MARINE CORPS REVERSES POLICY
Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—The United States Marine Corps has reversed its policy and is now commissioning colored officers in the Regular Marine Corps, it was learned Wednesday.

Marine Corps headquarters here in July, 1946, said plans did not call for the commissioning of any colored officers in the Regular Marine Corps. Two such officers were put on the inactive list simultaneously with their being given reserve commissions.

The first colored officer to be commissioned in the Regular Marine Corps, Second Lieut. John Earl Rudder, 23, of Paducah, Kentucky, is undergoing training at the Pre-Basic Marine Corps School at Quantico, Virginia.

OLYMPIAN CLUB'S TEAM WINS SECOND IN STATE MEET
The Olympian Athletic club swimming team placed second in the State A.A.U. championship meet held at the municipal pool in Boone, Iowa, last Sunday.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Donna Lou Carr, who became the first Negro swimmer in Iowa to win a state title in scoring an easy victory in the Women's 100 yard breast stroke event; Paul Slack who placed second in the Men's 200-yard free-style and Paul Johnson who rated fourth in the men's three-meter diving.

Although competing against top-notch swimmers from all over the state, the Olympian team was barely nosed out of first place by the powerful Iowa State College aggregation.

Wealthy Englishman Buys Second Oldest Newspaper For Youthful Negro Wife

New York (NNPA)—The New York Age, the second oldest colored newspaper in this country, is being sold to Richard Bourne-Vanneck, of Long Island, a wealthy Englishman who is buying it for his youthful colored wife at a cost of $120,000, it was authoritatively reported here last Saturday.

Neither Bourne-Vanneck nor Ludlow Werner, editor of the Age, would confirm or deny the report, but Bourne-Vanneck admitted that he was "interested" in the paper, and both men said there would be an announcement "in a couple of weeks."

Reports of the sale of the paper were strengthened last Friday when Dan Burley, columnist and managing editor of the New York Amsterdam News, resigned his position presumably to become editor of the Age under Bourne-Vanneck.

Julius Adams, associate editor of the Amsterdam News, said there had been some talk of Burley's resigning, but that officially Burley was "on vacation." Burley's intimates, however, said he had resigned Friday morning and had already signed a contract to edit the Age at a reputed salary of $250 a week. He was reported to be out of the city and unavailable for comment.

Still Running Paper
At his desk in the Age's office, Werner said he was still running the paper, "as you can see."

Other reports were that Bourne-Vanneck was already forming a staff of well known newspapermen.

John Clark, formerly city editor of The People's Voice, has been working in the Age's plant for the past two weeks and is said to be in line for one of the top jobs under Bourne-Vanneck.

Op. New Staff
It also was reported that Thelma B. Boozer, formerly society editor of the Amsterdam News and first acting dean of the Lincoln University (Missouri) School of Journalism, will be a member of the Age's new staff as well as John Lewis Clark, a New York printer and former Amsterdam News executive.

Another report was that Bourne-Vanneck wanted Bill Chase, society editor of the Amsterdam News, but Chase was said not to be interested. He is now on a tour of the West Coast.

The Age reportedly is owned by the Fred R. Moore Corporation, consisting of Mrs. Ida Mae Dudley, Mrs. Gladys Walton, wife of Lester Walton, formerly United States Minister to Liberia; Mrs. Marion Moore Day, and Gilbert Moore, a printer, children of the late Fred R. Moore.

Mr. Bourne-Vanneck and his colored English-born wife are currently living in the St. Albans home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barnett (Etta Moten, the singer). The English.

BODY OF CARETAKER FOUND HANGING BENEATH STATUE OF LINCOLN

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—The body of a 50-year-old caretaker was discovered early last Friday in the Lincoln Memorial. He was hanging from a rope slung over a railing in the Memorial's basement. The rope was wound twice around his neck.

Park police identified the man as James Walls, of Brentwood, Maryland. He had been an employee of the National Capital Parks service for several years.

Neither his co-workers nor his wife could supply a reason for his act. Mrs. Walls and Guard Houston Johnson, 29, who also lives in the Walls home, said Walls appeared well and in good spirits last Thursday night.

Mr. Johnson said he missed his friend around 4 a.m. and went to look for him. The body was discovered in the basement beneath Lincoln's statue.

Police said he apparently had tied the heavy manila rope around the railing, slipped the loops around his neck and slowly lowered himself. They said his neck was not broken, and death was due to strangulation.

Private Bill was discovered missing at 5 p.m. July 31, but his body was not found until 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, August 3, seven miles down the river. Military funeral services were conducted at the Post Chapel.

At the luncheon, attended by Charles P. Howard, of Des Moines, Iowa, publisher and keynote of the Progressive party convention last month, candidates or their representatives outlined their platform and cited the need for progressive candidates in their respective districts.

One of the candidates addressing the meeting Dr. John E. T. Camper of Baltimore, candidate for Congress in the fourth Maryland District and reputed the first colored man ever to run for Congress in his State.

17-Year-Old Boy Scout in Columbia Wins VFW's 1948 Scholarship Award

New York—William Jackson, Jr., 17-year-old Scout of 102 Hill Street, Columbia, Mo., who with three other Boy Scouts saved the lives of five small children from burning to death in their home, is the winner of the 1948 Veterans of Foreign Wars Scholarship. It was announced last Wednesday by Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

The V.F.W. scholarship, consisting of $500, and a gold medal, is awarded annually to an outstanding Boy Scout of First Class rank or higher, between 15 and 20 years old, who has previously received a life saving award of the Boy Scouts and who has demonstrated Scout character, leadership, good scholastic ability and unselfish service to others.

Presentation on Sept. 2

Ray H. Hannaman, Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will present the $500 scholarship check and gold medal to young Jackson next Thursday, Sept. 2 at 2:45 p.m. at the Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis, during the national encampment of the veterans' organization.

The Negro lad received the Gold Honor Medal from the Boy Scouts for his part in the rescue. He represented last year's 47 Boy Scout heroes in a symbolic ceremony at the National Council Meeting of the Boy Scouts in May 1947 in New York.

The four Boy Scouts, all Negroes, were honored for saving the five Glasgow children, the eldest five years old, when fire destroyed their home on October 10, 1946, while their mother was away on an errand.

Hubert Stapleton also received the Gold Honor Medal while Augustus Chamley and Burton Richardson received certificates for heroism.

The Scouts, returning home from football practice, came upon the blazing dwelling. Finding the front door locked, they broke a window. Scouts Jackson and Stapleton entered the house and passed two children through the window to the other Scouts.

Heavy smoke forced the two Scouts to leave after they tried to force the locked door of a room where they thought there might be other children. They tried again a few minutes later and forced the door open but the smoke and heat halted them. Then crawling on the floor they saw the legs of a crib, when they heard the cries of other children.

Enter Smoke-filled Rooms

Jackson felt around in the smoke and grabbed one child by an arm and another by a leg and ran with them out of the house. They still heard another cry. Stapleton entered the smoke-filled room, found his way to the crib and came out with the fifth child, an infant. Then to make certain, all four Scouts crawled into the room again, felt everywhere but found no one else.

Scout Jackson averaged Grade "A" in his senior year at Douglass High School, Columbia, Mo., this year. An honor student, he was president of his sophomore class, a member of the school band, and a letterman in football and basketball. He also helped edit his school paper.

Thermometer from breaking. To use, the prod with the thermometer inside is inserted in the hay and left 10 to 15 minutes. The thermometer is then pulled up with the string and read immediately.

Founder of Modern Nursing Fought Red Tape, Jealousy

Florence Nightingale was born in England on May 12, 1820—128 years ago. As nurse, administrator, statistician, sanitation expert, health conservationist and military organizer, she attained worldwide prominence.

Perhaps the most impressive service performed by Florence Nightingale was her activity in the Crimean war in 1854. Practically singlehandedly, and despite jealousy, red tape and inefficiency, she established and commanded the British army's first modern nurses' group. She set up laundries and diet kitchens, and a sanitary engineering works, provided supplies of all kinds for both patients and nurses.

The British expressed their gratitude to Miss Nightingale by presenting her with a large sum of money, which she used to establish a modern training school in St. Thomas' hospital in England, in 1860. Her intention was to train nurses to go to other hospitals, there to train still more nurses, so that modern nursing care as it was then known could be available for all.

The first tangible results of the Nightingale system of nursing education in the United States were achieved just 75 years ago, when schools of nursing based on the Nightingale system were established at Bellevue Hospital in New York, New Haven Hospital in Connecticut, and Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Florence Nightingale's theories on nursing were essentially based on the fact that nursing is a profession, and that nurses should be well educated and well prepared.

Thermometer Good Check For Temperature of Hay

Danger of a barn fire from spontaneous ignition of hay can be reduced through the construction of a simple hay prod thermometer. To check hay temperatures, insert Fred Roth, farm safety specialist at Michigan State college.

When hay is stored with much over 80 per cent moisture content, danger of heating in the mow is present unless a mow drier is being used. Even small amounts of damp hay, if all in one spot, may cause heating in a limited area.

Heating of the hay takes time and checking should be done continually for two months after hay is put in the mow. A hay prod thermometer can be made inexpensively to give a quick check of the temperature of the hay. The outfit consists of 30 feet of one-half inch electrical conduit with an oak or ash point on one end to permit driving into the hay. Six one-quarter inch holes should be punched in the conduit above the point. A drier thermometer on a string is then put into the conduit. A rubber pad at the bottom of the tube will keep the lege, principally for research on torpedopropellers. A water tunnel is the hydraulic counterpart of a wind tunnel, and is used in research on the design, modification and improvement of propelled underwater devices, in much the same way as a wind tunnel is used in tests for airborne devices. The circulating tunnel will have an inside diameter of 48 inches and will be 14 feet long, large enough to permit testing models more than eight inches in diameter and eight feet long. The tunnel will provide a smooth, streamlined flow of water in which such models can be tested with a maximum velocity greater than 60 feet per second, or 40 miles per hour.

Tomatoes from a Tree

Tree tomato generally is considered to be a native of Peru. Although generally unknown in the United States, the tree tomato grows in many other parts of the world. The plants as they grow in Peru are a woody shrub, sometimes approaching the size of a small tree, 12 to 18 feet tall and two to four inches in diameter near the soil surface. Most people consider the succulent, subacid fruit similar in taste to that of our garden tomato; others, however, think it resembles the gooseberry or the passion fruit. When cooked its taste is not unlike that of apricots.

Uncle Sam Buying Diamonds

Uncle Sam is buying diamonds on a large scale. Before the war 75 per cent of the world's diamonds were marketed in the United States. "Now it's about 85 per cent," said Joseph Bauhauf, secretary of the world's largest diamond cutting firm, Biggest-Buyer of Diamonds today, after the prospective bridegroom, is Uncle Sam. Diamonds, of course, are a strategic material. Diamonds cut through aluminum and other light metals developed for war use as though they were so much butter.

Give the Home-Made Dress That "Custom-Made" Look

Give your dress that "custom-made" look by using tailoring techniques that professional tailors use. Although tailoring requires skillful sewing and much patience, the results are worth the effort.

Well tailored dresses of good quality material and good construction are expensive. One-third the value of the garment is represented by the cost of the fabric, one-third by style, and one-third by cutting, fitting, and workmanship.

Three important steps in tailoring a garment are selecting material, laying the pattern, and cutting and marking, says Mrs. Helen Barnard, Missouri university home economist.

Choose a fabric wisely in relation to money to be spent and garment to be made. A close firm weave will contribute to long service and durability.

Check the pattern for possible alteration. Lay it on the material according to the diagram included in the pattern. The yarns of the fabric are known as the lengthwise or warp and crosswise or filling yarns are referred to as the grain of the material. Unless the pattern is placed with the grain of the material, the garment will not hang correctly. Use plenty of pins in pinning the pattern to the material.

For best results in cutting use sharp scissors and long strokes. Make all necessary markings using tailors chalk or tailors tacks. Do not remove the pattern from any part before you are ready to work with it.

Sod Webworms Ruin Lawns; Method of Control Given

If brown patches show up in a lawn, sod webworms may be doing the damage, although this is not always the case, says Dr. R. M. Bohart of the University of California college of agriculture.

One way to tell is by the shape of the spots. If they are irregular, it's probably the webworm. If the patches are round, it's most likely fungus. The next test is to examine the grass near the dead areas. If it's webworm, the grass will be short and uneven. Webworm larvae have red, and wavy and yellowjackets might be found feeding on the larvae. Also, there will be many adult moths around in the shrubbery and nearby window ledges.

To be certain, spray the grass around the damaged area with a pyrethrum solution and the webworm larvae will come wriggling to the surface.

The best way to control sod webworms is to mix five pounds of acid lead arsenate in 50 gallons of water and sprinkle it over the lawn. Only one treatment is needed, and this amount of solution should cover about 1,000 square feet.

Pyrethrum, rotenone, or dichloroethyl ether solutions can be used, but the webworms may come back again after these treatments.

Trumpeter Swans in Alaska

Rare trumpeter swans are appearing in southeastern Alaska in growing numbers in both winter and summer, according to reports sent in by observers of the Fish and Wildlife Service. In addition to the wintering flocks totaling nearly 300, reports have come in of birds summering on the small lakes among the islands, and on several occasions the young have been observed. Once an abundant bird, the trumpeter swan population declined so rapidly during the early part of the century that the species was thought to be extinct. Early destruction resulted primarily from the heavy trading in the bird's down and breast skin. Later the population was further depleted when the breeding grounds of the swans were taken over for farms and ranches.

Thick Forelegs in Pigs

Occasionally, litters are found in which one or more pigs show marked enlargement of the forelegs below the elbow joint. The skin is tense and may have a purple hue. The affected animals have difficulty in standing and moving about and, as a result, they usually die from starvation in two or three days. The condition is hereditary and usually can be prevented from showing up again in the herd by changing either sires or dams.

HOUSING WOES SOLVED IN MODERN HAVEN

Penny and Roland Richtman's two dogs Sandy, standing, and Dana also go with them wherever Coast Guardsman Richtman's career takes them. Modern household appliances make the 27-foot trailer into a comfortable, permanent apartment on wheels for the young service couple.

Eight pounds of clothes makes a load for Mrs. Richtman's washing machine. Clothes are washed, rinsed and spun dried without leaving the tub. About eleven gallons of water are required for the washing operation.

NEW LONDON, CONN.—Housing shortages and the uncertainties of service life don't worry the Roland H. Richtmans, a Coast Guard couple stationed here.

They have one answer to both problems—a 27-foot three-room trailer packed with all the conveniences and comforts space permits.

There are no furnished rooms or apartments with cramped quarters, hot plate cooking and wash-basin laundry facilities in the Richtmans' future—no matter where his duties take them.

Boatswain's mate first class Richtman and his pretty, dark-haired wife, Penny, have designed their trailer as a "permanent apartment on wheels" for as long as he stays in the Coast Guard—maybe longer. A veteran of six years' service, he recently re-enlisted for another three years. Their trailer home has a comfortable living-room and bedroom and a kitchen complete with the latest electrical equipment.

Chief source of pride to the Richtmans is their kitchen which has a washing machine, apartment-sized electric refrigerator and stove, built-in cupboard, counter, work space and sink—with hot running water now being installed.

Number one work-saving item in the trailer is the "Autonagic" washing machine—a toll-saver ordinarily ruled out of trailers by lack of space and limitations on water supply and installations. The machine is suitable for trailer use because it does not have to be bolted down and also fits into a small space. A built-in balancer eliminates excessive vibration so that the machine need not be fastened to the floor.

Permanent plumbing is also not required in the trailer. An outfit through the floor for a rubber hose attached to the clothes-tub water outlet serves as a drain for the machine. At present, hot water has to be carried to the machine. However, Richtman is now installing a hot water heater—in an outside compartment—to furnish hot water for the trailer and washing machine.

Water economy also makes the Wash machine practical for trailer use since Mrs. Richtman uses only about six gallons of hot water and about five of cold water for her weekly wash.

Unlike most trailer homes, none of the furnishings except the bed and cupboards is built in. Besides the kitchen appliances, the trailer has a full-size studio couch, a small Duncan Phyfe dropleaf table, a comfortable easy chair, plus draperies, slip covers and a living-room rug.

All of the furniture and appliances are carefully arranged so that they don't overcrowd the trailer—and most important of all, they can be transferred into a house when the Richtmans' Coast Guard "hitch" is over.

The W. C. Buices, 1070 17th street, revealed that the Negro student who will enter the University of Arkansas medical school next month on a non-segregated basis, is a niece of theirs. She is Miss Edith Mae Irby, 20, Hot Springs, Ark., who was an honor graduate of Tennessee State college in Knoxville.

Miss Geneva Looper, niece of the Buices, is first cousin to Miss Irby.

Sporting a new black and white checked apron around her home is Mrs. Martie Warwick of 1006 13th street, who spent "quite some time" in getting the new item finished. She made most of it by hand and is contemplating the making of a plastic one—to be sure that it will have plenty of room in it.

B.C.M.—I have become engaged to a girl whom I love but she doesn't act like she cares for me. I am completely unhappy about the whole setup. Her ways are not at all like mine. She doesn't smile, sing, joke, dance, whistle or listen to music. She is always sarcastic. I am about to decide against getting married.

Ans: Marriage between two people as different as you two can develop into a sad experience. The fact that you seem to love the girl is not sufficient if you have absolutely nothing in common. She is decidedly serious and frowns upon the light existence you seem to enjoy. Therefore, face the facts and call the marriage off until you can at least feel sure of yourself.

S.A.—I read everything that you write every week. I followed your advise and now my husband and I have a little store and we are doing fine. He still holds his job and helps me during his spare hours. He says that he should hold the job at least another year until we can get more money ahead. I feel like he could quit now and start in at the store. What should he do?

Ans: He's right—his job pays too well for him to give it up right now. Get the business established and netting a good income before encouraging him to give up his job. You can get extra help there in the neighborhood if you need it to help you out during rush hours.

M.L.M.—I have been married but my husband and I have been separated sixteen years. I have been with this friend for six years. He hasn't been able to decide about getting married so recently I met another man who says he will marry me. What should I do?

Ans: Get a divorce if you do not intend to live with your husband again. You can't marry anyone right now as you do not have your legal freedom. The man you are with is providing for you as a wife—you should not encourage other fellows as long as you accept his support.

A.M.C.—I want to know why do people come by to rent my room and then they never return. Is there anything wrong?

Ans: Make your room more attractive. It can be done with out too much expense. And you will be able to get a tenant. The season will open up in your section this fall and if you do a little decorating—you can keep it rented.

M.E.M.—I need help today. I live here in this city with some people and I don't have any rent to pay.

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

Easter lilies are in their second bloom for the year at several homes around town—where flower lovers—just taking a chance—stuck their post-Easter lily-bulbs in the ground instead of pitching them out as many recipients of holiday flowers do.

In one of the garden plots of Mrs. Maude Wyatt, of 1042 Seventeenth street, Easter lilies are quite the center of attraction.

Mrs. Salemma Morris has Easter lilies in bloom in her front garden square at 1216 School street. She is quite proud of the plant and is wondering about a Christmas Point setta bulb which she has buried in a pot—upside down—in the same garden. Someone told her to try it that way just as an experiment.

The Fred Graham home at 803 Boyd street has been buzzing with excitement for several days. Aside from the 100-degree of more temperatures, and the tanning of green beans from the garden, Mrs. Graham has been greeting her three-week-old grandson, Christopher Harold Greenlea, born Aug. 8; congratulating her Donna's husband, Archie Greenlea, who received a Bachelor of Arts degree in the commencement exercises held at Drake university last Friday; and planning to attend the wedding of her son, Fred, who will be married on Sunday to Miss Lillian Miller in Omaha.

Mrs. Graham revealed that her husband has not been "so well" and that her sister, Mrs. Paris Skanes, will accompany her to the wedding in Omaha.

Mrs. Graham's daughter, Donna, remarked that her family had grown so fast that she and Archie had to find a larger home to have enough

UNUSED MANPOWER IS EXPENSIVE

Satchel Paige shut out the Chicago White Sox with three hits Friday night as league-leading Cleveland triumphed, 4-0 before the largest night game crowd in major league history—a standing-room-only assemblage of 78,382.

Paige's white washing job was the fourth in a row turned in by a Cleveland pitcher and tied an American league mark of four straight shut outs, set by the Cleveland club of 1903 and equaled by the New York Yankees in 1932. Des Moines Register Sports page.

It is evident that Paige earned his salary in this game alone.

At 39, Paige is doing a marvelous job. And that type of job he has been doing for years. Think of the money that would have been flowing in the till of some ball club.

Segregation is an expensive system: exclusion of the use of manpower on the basis of race likewise. And that has been the policy of organized baseball all these years. It is not surprising, therefore, as well as Championships rather than give Negroes an opportunity.

This ought to be a lesson to other ball clubs. It ought to be a lesson to those "business institutions" which exclude Negroes from employment. The public will go to see a fellow player who can deliver the goods in sports; it will not object in any appreciable numbers, to being served by Negro clerks or salesmen.

But we are making progress in the full integration of Negroes into American life on the basis of first class citizens and the success of the Negro players on the Brooklyn and Cleveland teams demonstrate that the policy will work.

GOVERNOR, WE BALK ON THIS SCORE

Gov. Dewey has stated that he favors the return to Italy the African colonies it had before the war under a trusteeship of United Nations.

The Bystander is in favor of the election of Gov. Dewey as President, but it cannot go along with him on this score.

Italy carried out one of the most cruel war campaigns against Ethiopia known in history. Defenseless men, women and children were burned with mustard gas, sprayed with machine gun bullets, and slaughtered like flies. The whole world condemned this conduct at that time. The crimes are no less now than they were at the time they were committed.

And Mussolini and his followers hailed these victories with great delight.

The history of these possessions go back over a long period of time for the Italians got them by force in the process of which the Abyssinians fought many a successful battle to drive the enemy from the country.

The Bystander feels that the allies have been too quick to take Italy back into the society of nations. Certainly, like a criminal who emerges from the penitentiary, a period of probation should elapse before she should be accorded the privilege of a citizen of the world.

Ethiopia and its friends will fight this move to the last ditch for nations, like individuals, must be punished for their crimes. Gov. Dewey will hear much about this suggestion and, undoubtedly, will back away from his position before many days pass by.

RANDOLPH MAKES WISE CHANGE

A Philip Randolph president of the National Union of Sleeping Car Porters, has announced that he has abandoned his campaign advocating disobedience to the draft. While in Des Moines a few months ago, he urged Negroes to refuse to register for the draft as long as the armed services maintained Jim Crow units.

Mr. Randolph changed his position on the strength of the recent order of President Truman requiring equality of opportunity without regard to race or color and announced determination to banish segregation in the service.

Whatever the reason, it is commendable that Mr. Randolph has taken such a course. He had a large organization which cannot afford to be other than loyal to the government. Such a course would be detrimental to the group to have a man as its head who would impugn the authority of the government.

The Bystander has never supported Randolph or anyone else who advocated the refusal of citizens to bear arms in defense of the government. Certainly, the Negro has gained friends by his loyal support in past wars and his loyal record has been a good argument in defense of his right to full citizenship.

Congratulations to Mr. Randolph for your decision.

PHILIP RANDOLPH DOES ABOUT FACE ON CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE PROGRAM

He said the members of the league who had announced their intention of continuing the fight against racial segregation in the armed services were acting on the basis of their "sincere beliefs" and that he held no "recriminations" against them. He added, however, that they would not be permitted to carry on in the name of the league and said the furniture at the league's headquarters would be disposed of and the league dissolved.

At the league's headquarters, Rustin charged that Randolph and Reynolds had decided to drop the fight because the sentiment of the people of the nation was no longer with them.

Rustin said the executive order did not abolish segregation, even with clarifying statements, and the apparent apathy on the part of colored people was due in large part to a "justified skepticism" as to the willingness of the leaders of the movement to follow through.

Meanwhile, the acting chairman of the league is Conrad Lynn, an attorney, who said that already more than 1,000 young men of draft age have pledged themselves to support the civil disobedience campaign.

more tolerable than in Georgia. He could round up only forty-one men for the return trip.

The price paid per head for the workers on delivery to Michigan is in dispute.

Welfare Director Grover S. Stine, of Saginaw county, said he was told Thompson was paid $35 for each man, woman and child.

Thompson denied this, but declined to reveal the amount he will receive.

He said his contract was with the Bayview Food Products company, which is in the Bay county town of Linwood. The Bayview firm, in turn, supplied the colored help to farmers with whom it has contracted for the harvest of pickle cucumbers.

F. J. Jancke of the Bayview company said all information should come from Thompson.

and the business expanded rapidly. He talked to his friend Semple about a partnership. They agreed and incorporated. Calderon is president and Semple vice-president of the firm, in the one-story brick building which also houses the Little Peiter-broom factory.

Their business is booming. An expansion of 300 per cent has come with orders from four states. Most of their work now is ornamental railings for porches and buildings. Soon they expect to expand into heavier iron rail and fire escape construction.

Calderon directs work at the shop and Semple handles sales. Semple formerly was a commercial artist and advertising man. His ability to make quick sketches, showing prospective customers how railings will look, is a great asset. Their work is custom work, too, rather than stock type manufacturing.

Their Negro welders had taken wartime courses—and then could not find employment, despite the great demand for these craftsmen. In recent months, they had been employed as a common laborer, the other worked at a junk yard.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Summer Comfort

"Beating the heat"—keeping as cool and comfortable as possible during those hot, humid days of midsummer known as "dog days"—can be fairly easy when we follow a few common-sense rules.

Except for the short vacation period, most of us have to keep working during the hottest days. We can't just wail and wait for more comfortable weather. Complaining about the heat and allowing it to drain us of our energy only makes the situation worse.

We know from experience that those "dog days" are bound to come with every summer, so the best thing to do is to accept them, adapt clothing and diet to the hot spell, and be sensible about exercising and other physical activities.

Light, loose clothing is best for hot-summer days. The body makes an effort to keep its temperature normal by throwing off perspiration on the surface of the skin. Heavy, tight clothing hinders this natural function and prevents the perspiration from evaporating and thereby cooling the skin.

Most people feel better in hot weather when they cut down on heavy foods. Rich, heavy meals produce large numbers of calories and make a person feel hotter. Vegetables and especially fruits, which are rich in vitamins, minerals and water content, and are plentiful in

Tennis Tourney

The Hilltop club's tennis tournament finally gets under way this week but it is now the Willie House meet. The Willie House directors have always thought it would be a good idea to have a tennis meet, but since the Hilltop and other groups seemed to have things pretty well nailed down the House kept hands off.

But they have never done a bad job whatever they tackled so the tennis meet will more than likely be a success.

Win National Tennis Titles

Orangeburg, S. C. (NNPA)—Geo. Stewart, a Panamanian student at South Carolina State College, and Althea Gibson of Wilmington, North Carolina, won singles championships of the American Tennis Association here last Saturday.

Stewart defeated Harold Mitchell of Oakland, Calif., 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5, in the finals of the men's singles tournament.

Miss Gibson downed Nana Davis of Elizabeth, New Jersey, 6-3, 6-0, to take the women's crown. The junior singles championship was won by Wilbur Davis, of New York City, who defeated Maynard Driver of Brooklyn, 6-3, 6-2, and the veterans' title went to John B. Garrett of Tuskegee Institute, who beat Elwood Dwing of Roanoke, Virginia, 6-4, 6-4.

Women's Doubles

Margaret and Romaine Peters of Tuskegee defeated Nana and Dorothy Davis of Elizabeth, 6-3, 6-1, in the women's doubles final, and Miss Gibson and Dr. R. Walter Johnson of Lynchburg, Virginia, stopped Frances Giffons of Brookland and Vera Morgan of New York, 6-2, 6-4, for the mixed doubles crown.

Darkness halted the men's doubles final match between Stewart and Hubert Eaton of Wilmington and Mitchell and John Chandler of Fanwood, N. J. The match stood at two sets, three games all, when it was stopped.

In semi-finals matches last Friday, Stewart downed Dr. Reginald Weir of New York City, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5, and Mitchell eliminated Howard Minnis, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. Miss Davis won a shot at the women's singles title held by Miss Gibson by defeating Margaret Peters of Tuskegee, 6-4, 6-1.

The defending champion won over Dorothy Davis 6-0, 6-1, in the other semi-finals match. Other results: Men's doubles quarter-finals: John Chandler, Fanwood, N. J., and Harold Mitchell defeated Howard Minnis and Dr. Reginald Weir, 4-6, 6-2, 5-2 (Minnis left court).

summer, but are low in calories, should be stressed in planning a "hot weather diet."

Since the body perspires more in summer, we should drink enough liquids to replace the water thrown off during this process of the body's cooling system. The liquids may be water, fruit juices, milk or other non-alcoholic beverages.

A great deal of salt, an important part of the body's chemical make-up, is also lost in this excessive perspiration. This, too, must be replaced, and it can be done by adding extra table salt to the diet.

Exercising or playing strenuous games during the hottest part of the day not only results in discomfort, but frequently brings on heatstroke or sunstroke. Exercise should be adapted to the weather as well as to the individual's strength and condition of health.

Frequent baths in summer, and especially during a heat wave, cleanses the skin of the extra wastes the body throws off and gives refreshing comfort. Dirt clings more to the surface of the skin in summer, too, and frequent bathing washes it away, thus cutting down on the possibility of skin infections.

VETERAN'S WHIRL

By JAMES L. HICKS NNPA Staff Writer

OK young Joe—it's your turn now!

Your older brother has gone out and made a name for himself in the war just ended and your old man didn't do bad for himself, in the war before that. Now, in a few days you will be receiving the well known "Greetings" from the President—what kind of soldier are you going to make?

There is so much talk about our "new army" and the changes that have been made that even a veteran of World War II hesitates to offer advice to a draftee on how to get along in uniform. But the odds are pretty heavy that the things which lasted from World War I down through World War II will remain the same in World War III. So, here is some off-the-cuff advice which will get you dollars to doughnuts will help you in the "new army" just as it helped your big brother in the last war and your dad in the war before that.

To begin with the "new army" has a master sergeant in your company who receives the same pay and wears the same stripes as your first sergeant, but, young Joe, don't get your sergeants confused. Your first sergeant will be running that company and the first time you begin to doubt it he will be glad to prove

Little Nothings

We're so busy doing nothing in our life And keeping our souls all filled with strife We have forgotten God in our love for power We have so stealthily traveled up life's great tower. How can we help the arm that has no strength? What can we do for this man with any great length? How can we teach this man that has no fear of God? God alone can help him carry life's rod. —Alta Davis.

A technique that is coming into use in flower breeding is the utilization of different lines are crossed with one another, the resulting hybrid is often more vigorous than either parent. The chance of obtaining greatly increased vigor usually increases the more the parent plants differ from each other. Thus, more vigor and larger flowers is likely to result from crossing a tall, red-flowered snapdragon with one that is short and bears white flowers, than from crossing two tall reds.

Poor Dudley!

He could tell you a lot about feminine whims. Taking his customers one at a time is usually quite enough to test all his capabilities. But how different it is in the electric business! For electricity must be manufactured and delivered at the same time, and there are periods every day when you and almost all your neighbors use electricity at the same time!

During the "peak" periods, mid-morning and mid-afternoon, when almost everyone is calling for electric service, we have to send out more and more power to meet increased needs. Often our generating stations are taxed to the limit. Serious delays in delivery of vital electric equipment have prevented us from keeping ahead of this community's use of low-cost electricity during "peak load" hours.

At present, it's the "peak" periods that worry us most when your demand for service is piled on top of the demands of thousands of other customers—but we'll be doing our best to get over those daily "humps" during the summer.
