Rush Civil Rights Bills in Congress

Measures That Failed of Passage in Last Session Pushed by Congressmen

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—In the first three days of the 81st Congress, Senators and Representatives rushed to introduce civil rights bills which failed of passage in the 80th Congress.

Senator Irving M. Ives, Republican, of New York introduced for himself and Senators Sheridan Downey of California, Wayne Morse of Oregon, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Republicans, and Dennis Chacez of New Mexico, James E. Murray of Montana, and Francis J. Myers, of Pennsylvania, a bill to prohibit discrimination in employment because of race, national origin, or ancestry.

Pointing out that the bill was identical with the one introduced in the Senate in the last session and that it was offered by four Democrats and four Republicans, Senator Ives said "The approach is being made on an entirely bipartisan basis, and I pray and I hope that it will continue to be in that situation so long as this type of legislation is before the Senate."

Amendments to the existing cloture rule were offered by Senators Myers, Carl Hayden of Arizona, chairman of the Rules Committee, and Claude Pepper of Florida, Democrats, and Morse, Saltonstall and William F. Knowland of California, Republicans.

All of the resolutions would make a motion to limit debate applicable to any measure, motion or pending matter. The rule is now applicable only to the "pending measure" and is ineffective to end a filibuster on a motion.

The resolutions offered by Senator Myers provides for the adoption of cloture by a simple majority vote as does also the resolution offered by Senator Morse. The Morse resolution, however, would permit Senators to speak for two hours after the adoption of cloture and if a Senator did not use up all of his time he could farm it out to other Senators who desired to speak.

Senator Ferguson introduced his resolution on behalf of himself and Senators Knowland, Homer Ferguson of Michigan and Ives.

Senator Hayden offered his resolution on behalf of himself and Senator Kenneth Wherry, Republican, of Nebraska.

Senator Ferguson introduced an antilynching and antipoll tax bill. Senator Pepper also offered an antipoll tax bill.

FOX PAYS $100,000.00 FOR STORY ON A NEGRO INTERNE

Hollywood, Calif.—Twentieth Century-Fox has acquired "No Way Out," a screen story by Lesser Samuels dealing with the problems of a Negro interne in a metropolitan hospital, it was learned Tuesday. George Wilmer of the Nat Goldstone Agency negotiated the sale for Samuels at a price slightly under $100,000.

The plot of Samuels' story involves a Negro interne, assigned to the prison ward of a hospital, who is accused of killing a prisoner because the prisoner uses a vernacular expression. The studio's plans for filming the story have not yet been announced, but it is expected that Darryl F. Zanuck will supervise the project directly, as he did "Gentleman's Agreement" two years ago.

Call Witnesses from Jury Box to Testify for Whites Accused in Mallard Case

Savannah, Ga.—The trial of two white men, held in the slaying of Robert Mallard, casket salesman, opened here Tuesday morning, Jan. 11.

A Cleveland manufacturer, Joseph M. Goldwasser, is in Savannah to aid Mrs. Amy Mallard, widow of the victim, in the prosecution. Mallard was slain by a group of white men near Lyons, Ga., last November.

The case received nation-wide attention, which was augmented by Goldwasser's entry in the investigation in an unofficial capacity.

The president of the Peerless Manufacturing Company of Cleveland called on Gov. Herman Talmadge to request that the state increase its efforts to apprehend the Mallard slayers.

The widow said that a band of robed, but unmasked men shot her husband on a lonely road near Lyons the night of Nov. 30. Officials of Toombs county stated that their probe cleared the Ku Klux Klan.

Later a grand jury returned indictment against two white men, who will come to trial. They are William Howell and Roderick Clifton.

Jurors Called

Two jurors were called from the Election of officers will be held.

Famed Iowa Football Star, Duke Slater, Now Chicago Municipal Court Judge

JUDGE F. W. (DUKE) SLATER

Fred W. (Duke) Slater, one of the two Negro judges on the Chicago's 36-judge municipal court bench, was in Des Moines during the week end attending the silver wedding anniversary of a former classmate, Cecil H. Brewton, 1309 Laurel street.

Judge Slater, an All-American football player while at the State University of Iowa, began a six-year-term last November, when he became the fourth Negro to be elected to serve on Chicago's municipal court bench.

At present he is serving in the civil branch, the judge revealed in an interview regarding his experiences in the profession of law since his college days when he was a famous football tackle at Iowa university where he earned his B. A. and L. L. B. degrees.

Playing college football and later professional football for ten years with the National Football League, serving as a football coach at Douglass High school in Oklahoma City, have had "tremendous values" in the life of Judge Slater who began his practice of law in Chicago in 1932, he related.

During his campaign last fall, just before his election to the municipal court-bench, members of the Notre Dame team of 1921—when Iowa beat Notre Dame—pulled some political strategy when they met and had their pictures taken with him. "We had a great team that year—and won the Big 10 Championship," the judge recalled. The group included such men as Eddie Anderson, now football coach at Iowa university.

Making Friends

The contacts he made during his football days have helped him in his profession. "One ought to realize the importance of making friends—whether in business or a profession," he said.

Judge Slater has practiced law for 17 years and from 1935 until last year, with the exception of 18 months, he was former assistant corporation counsel for the city of Chicago. For eighteen months, he served as an assistant commissioner of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Building Morale

His position as a Chicago judge has its value in "race relations," he commented. "As Negroes we look to the courts for justice. Certainly the presence of a Negro on the bench has helped to build Negro morale and make the white judges conscious of this whole question of opportunity and justice for all—regardless of race."

To the youth, Judge Slater advised that "Negroes ought to have

Racial Segregation and Discrimination in Armed Forces Attacked Again

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—Racial segregation and discrimination in the armed forces were attacked last Saturday as the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Services prepared to see President Truman and begin the duties specified for it in the executive order creating the seven-member group.

Grant Reynolds, chairman and A. Philip Randolph, treasurer, of the "Committee Against Jim Crow in Military Service and Training," held a press conference last Saturday, at which they stated that they would demand that Congress write into the 1948 Selective Service Act specific guarantees against race discrimination in the armed services.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party, of New York last Wednesday introduced a bill to repeal the draft law.

Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Randolph said at a news conference that legislation will be introduced to amend the draft law to:

1. Forbid the government to buy any military supplies from a manufacturing plant that discriminates against an employee because of his color.
2. Make it impossible for the Government to train or station any colored soldier in a State that has segregation or "Jim Crow" laws.
3. Guarantee that colored soldiers will receive equal treatment with

Food Specialist Gives Tips On Cooking for Large Crowd

Chairmen of church suppers or bridge club dinners will find these tips on how to go about cooking for a crowd of considerable value. Miss Frances Cook, foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, advises you to look the situation over before choosing a menu. Start by looking over the kitchen facilities. How is the equipment? It may be that the refrigerator space is limited. Then don't have a gelatin salad or a refrigerator dessert. If there is only one oven, plan to do baking and roasting ahead of time. When ready to select the menu, perhaps the best bet is a simple meal with just a few courses. A menu suggested by Miss Cook is: meat balls with tomato sauce, baked potatoes, buttered peas, and Waldorf salad. For dessert, you might have chocolate pie. Once the menu has been decided upon, list the foods needed and the amount it will take. Then outline a working schedule—when to buy groceries, when to begin fixing the food.

BURIED HERE

EDWARD F. BUTLER Services for Edward Butler, 76, former Des Moines resident who died Jan. 4 in Chicago, Ill., were held Saturday, Jan. 8, at Bethel A.M.E. church.

He was employed as a state-house custodian here for several years and was a former member and deacon of Bethel church.

Surviving are his wife, Myrtle; son, Lauren, Des Moines, and three stepdaughters, Mrs. Hazel Colas, Chicago, and Mrs. Lola Edwards and Mrs. Helen Simmons, Des Moines.

The Song Fellows plan to present frequently to the public, talented youth in the schools here. Experiments with fertilizer for tobacco show that this crop is one of the most exacting of all plants. For most crops, says the U. S. department of agriculture, the type of machine that places the band of fertilizer at one side of the row gives results just as satisfactory as from a band on each side. But with tobacco of most types, says J. E. McMurtrey Jr., of the bureau of plant industry, soils, and agricultural engineering, recent research work shows that a one-sided application "frequently produces one-sided growth effects." Some chlorines produce desirable responses with certain tobacco types, but it is extremely easy to supply too much, which will reduce the fire holding quality of the leaf grades used for cigar, cigarette and smoking tobacco. As little as twenty pounds to the acre may be enough on some soils where fine cured tobacco is grown but should be held to a minimum with cigar, burley and Maryland types.

Two of the world's most heavily bombed spots, the English channel port of Dover and the British Mediterranean sea of Malta, made life-savers of old catacombs. Many children sheltered beneath the white cliffs of Dover remembered no other home. In Malta's network of under-rock corridors, dating from crusaders' times, the islanders found protection for their lives, their planes, and meager supplies of food, notes the National Geographic society. Athens hid priceless statuary from the Acropolis in near-by caves on the side of the "Prison of Socrates." An art gallery of old Dutch masters was carefully preserved in a cavern formed by a sandstone quarry near Maastrecht.

Collect Eggs Frequently, Poultryman Urges Farmers

Quality of eggs depends greatly on how quickly they are cooled after they are laid, reports J. M. Moore, extension poultryman at Michigan state college. He points out that consumer interest in eggs centers on quality. USDA poultry specialists estimate that 5 eggs out of each 100 produced become unfit for food as a result of quality deterioration or other causes. This 5 per cent loss has taken an annual toll of more than 233 million dozen eggs in the past five years. Farmers are urged to collect eggs from nests at least three times each day—10 a. m., noon, and 5 p. m. Less frequent collection not only delays proper cooling of the eggs but also results in a partly-cooled egg being left in a nest to be re-warmed by other hens using the same nest. In very hot weather, eggs should be gathered every two hours in the morning and twice in the afternoon. Eggs should be collected in wire baskets which permit the free circulation of air around every egg. This is impossible when pails, boxes, or woven baskets are used. They should be placed on a wire tray and put in the cellar immediately after collecting. Because eggs absorb odors quickly they should not be kept in places where there are strong odors such as those of onions, lemons, kerosene, or mustiness. Eggs should be fully cooled before they are placed in egg cases since there is not sufficient air circulation in cases to allow eggs to cool properly, Moore concludes.

Mostly About Salads

Some of the most popular herbs for salads are parsley, tarragon, chives, sweet basil, mint, thyme, and marjoram. Try one at a time. With a tossed green salad, add a combination of chopped fresh or powdered basil, tarragon and thyme. For cheese balls or garnish salads, mix the cheese with powdered caraway or dill seeds. Try tarragon-vinegar for tossed green salads, or for marinating chicken, lobster or crabmeat salad. Use garlic vinegar for french dressing or in potato salad dressing.

Versatile Camel Had Role In Building 2 Continents

Australia's camels, which once helped explore, supply and police the "out-back" country, are becoming a nuisance. Outpaced by trucks and buses, the animals are being given away by the South Australian government.

The first recorded camel in Australia was imported in 1840, notes the National Geographic society. Twenty years later, two dozen were brought in from India, as carriers for the ill-fated Burke-Wills expedition across the continent.

Because of their strength and endurance, and ability to go days without water, camels played an important role in early surveying and settlement of the island continent.

In long trains, silhouetted against the empty horizon, they packed mail, food and other necessities to interior sheep ranches, returning with loads of wool. They helped push pioneer telegraph lines, and as fleet mounts for constables, captured many a fleeing outlaw.

In the U. S. on the other hand, early experiments with camels were soon abandoned. In 1855, Secretary of War Jefferson Davis, later president of the Confederacy, encouraged the importation of camels and native herdsmen to aid military transport in the arid Southwest. The Civil war, however, halted activities. Horses and mules would bolt at sight and smell of the newcomers. When Camp Verde fell to the Confederates, many of its camels wandered off. The others were later sold to packers, circuses and zoos.

Lamb Overeating Disease
Combated by Medicines

Science has come to the rescue of lambs that get deathly sick from eating too much.

Ovine enterotoxemia, usually called overeating disease, can now be combated by three effective medical weapons, veterinary research men told a national convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association in San Francisco.

Lambs sent to feedlots to be fattened for market often get sick and die from stuffing themselves on grain. An organism present in their digestive tract begins to pour forth a poison under the influence of heavy grain feeding, with death often resulting.

Since the object of feedlot operations is to get lambs fat as quickly as possible, it is not practical to reduce the ration. So, instead, sheep owners in cooperation with veterinarians are now using one or more of the three following means of cutting down losses:

A bacterin, which confers immunity against the disease.

An antitoxin, which also confers immunity and has been found valuable in stopping explosive outbreaks.

Sulphur, fed in small amounts along with the grain ration, as a preventive measure.

All of these methods have been tested under field conditions on many thousands of lambs, the research men said.

China Fights Cattle Plague

American wartime research is going into delayed action against a plague responsible for nearly a million cattle deaths annually in China. Because military leaders feared that saboteurs might introduce deadly rinderpest virus into American herds, they set up a top-secret research project on a remote island in the St. Lawrence river, where leading United States and Canadian veterinarians, aided by virus disease specialists, developed a highly effective vaccine, ready for use in an emergency. As soon as the war ended, the United States sent a large shipment of the vaccine to China, and it was put to work immediately in combating widespread outbreaks of rinderpest. China was given the American formula and is now manufacturing the vaccine in a project designed to rebuild her livestock industry.

Caution for Pet Owners

Overloading Fido and Fuss with the "sunshine vitamin" may black out their chances for a healthy, happy existence, pet owners are cautioned. "Serious pathologic changes" have been observed in pet animals receiving excessive daily doses of vitamin D fractions over a period of several months, according to veterinary authorities. While measured amounts of vitamin D are essential to the health and growth of dogs and cats, indiscriminate feeding of vitamin D supplements may so affect bone growth that their teeth become diseased and useless.

Hormones for Roosters

Female sex hormones planted under the skin in pellet form, are believed to act in one or more of the following ways to make cockerels and roosters grow fatter. 1. The hormones may stimulate lipogenesis, which is the actual growth of fat. 2. They may affect basal metabolism, which has to do with the conversion of food into energy and flesh. 3. They may have a quieting effect on the bird's temperament through suppressing masculine traits.

Soap Bubbles Prove Useful in Experimental Studies

Scientists have resorted to blowing soap bubbles in an effort to find out what makes metals strong, says Sir Lawrence Bragg of Cambridge university, England, Nobel prize winner in physics in 1915.

Soap bubbles, Sir Lawrence explained, have proved more useful than anything else tried so far in constructing a working model of the crystal structure of a metal. A cluster of bubbles, he said, behaves much like the cluster of atoms making up a metal crystal, and lasts "an hour or so," which is long enough to permit experiments. The bubble-blowing studies were undertaken, according to Sir Lawrence, because science as yet has no satisfactory theory of metal strength, despite the enormous amount of empirical knowledge about the mechanical properties of metal which has been obtained through countless investigations of the metals and alloys so important in modern technology.

"On the theoretical side, we know the way atoms are arranged in the perfect structure of metal crystals, and the theoretical physicists can tell us much about the forces of attraction and repulsion which keep these structures together," he stated. "There is no bridge, however, between theory and the empirical knowledge of mechanical properties. We cannot calculate from first principles the point at which a metal ceases to respond elastically and yields with consequent permanent deformation."

L.P.—I am a great reader of your column. I see where you help so many people and I wonder could you help me. I have been going with a girl for the past 18 years and she's talking about getting married. Do you think I should marry her or do you think I should leave her alone?

Ans: The girl is right—you should marry. You hit it off well together and marriage would give you a chance to pool your earnings and get ahead in life. She'll make you a good wife.

L.M.C.—I have been out of school and working for the past five years. My ambition was to become a nurse but I was forced to quit school in my senior year and go to work. I am now thinking of working as a nurse's aid in the hospital here. I want your advice.

Ans: That would be an ideal setup since you are so interested in this field. You really should arrange to enter night school and finish your senior year's work so that you can get your diploma. When you do so, you can enter nursing school and become a registered nurse.

S.C.M.—Last year my husband passed and I find I grow more lonesome by the day. I am seriously considering inviting one of my sisters boys to make his home with me during the school term. I could do a lot for him as he doesn't have many advantages where he lives. Would I have cause to regret this step?

Ans: Never. The presence of a youth in your home will bring a lot of sunshine in your life. The boy will be company and a joy to have around. The money that you spend on the boy's education and other necessities will be a lasting benefit to him.

cellaneous equipment which weathered the Japanese invasion.

The technician is Arthur R. DeLong, well-known American bakery official, who was drafted by the government to help restore Guam's dietary standards to a pre-war level.

DeLong scoured through shoulder-high vegetation last spring to salvage bakery equipment still resting where it had been placed preparatory to the invasion of Japan in 1945. To this he added machinery originally employed in Guam's pre-war bakery, still complete, except for certain gear levers. These, he believes, the beleaguered marines used for clubbing Japs when Guam was invaded.

"Now operating at full capacity, DeLong's bakery produces each day 1,300 two-pound loaves of enriched bread, 1,000 pies, and a wide assortment of cakes and small pastries.

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

The traditional silver wedding anniversary gifts on display at the Cecil H. Brewton, Sr., home, 1309 Laurel street, last Sunday afternoon, when Cecil and Frances celebrated the twenty-five-year-mark of their marriage, held the interest of the many guests who admired the gifts, brought greetings and congratulations.

But stealing the scene—and holding the enraptured attention of the guests—was the exquisitely decorated anniversary table with its fine white linen, its richly shining silver, tall glistening tapers, a handsomely frosted cake topped with a bridal pair. These were some of the customary table appointments. But dazzling the eyes, steaming the palate and rushing the appetite—were large silver platters on which art pieces had been created in colorful hors-d'oeuvres and canapes, the work of one who throughout the reception and anniversary dinner that followed, was called by his friends, "Pierre Du Fong."

"Pierre" who has done, as a sideline, many of the movie star parties during the ten years he has resided in Hollywood, created some of the hors-d'oeuvres and canapes that he has served at the parties of Lauren Bacall, Humphrey Bogart, Sonja Heine, Hedy Lamar, and other stars, he revealed as he chatted with guests during the evening. One of the most popular art pieces on the platter—one that the guests devoured and took home as souvenirs, was a strawberry. It stood out and set off the platters. Made of grated cheese, colored, rolled in toasted colored bread crumbs, and shaped, with a sprig of parsley added—the straw-

SILVER ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION HIGHLIGHTS POST-HOLIDAY SEASON

Nearly two-hundred guests brought congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hilliard Brewton, Sr., 1309 Laurel street, at their silver wedding anniversary celebration held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 9, when an announcement was made of the marriage of the Brewton's elder son, Mr. Cecil Hilliard Brewton, Jr., and Miss Agnes Lacona Grant.

Opening the silver reception was the Rev. A. N. Fox, supply pastor of the Corinthian Baptist church, who offered an anniversary blessing. Standing with the bride and groom of twenty-five-years ago, were the Brewton sons, Cecil Jr., who presented his wife, Agnes; and Cpl. William Brewton, a senior X-ray technician at Camp Pickett Station hospital in Virginia.

Mrs. Brewton, Sr., for her silver anniversary, wore a gown of white bridal satin, fashioned with long pointed sleeves, fitted bodice from which ruffles tiered, in the back of the full skirt, to the hemline. The neckline was clipped at the corners with silver trumpets that matched the earrings. Her shoulder corsage berry hors-d'oeuvres were a sensation. There were others of eggs, kipper herring, anchovy paste, anchovy fillet, minced sardines.

The appetizers did their duty—for when the platters of sliced turkey and ham and dressing and the rest, and the champagne glasses began tingling, during the dinner—the food really did vanish.

In reality, "Pierre," is Wallace Reed, the brother of Mrs. Brewton. He has been living in California where "I am an eligible bachelor, I own my own home, I am a tailor by trade, on the side—I do catering for movie stars—and my address is 1828 N. Highland avenue," he confessed. Recently he returned to Iowa because of the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. G. W. Reed in Cedar Rapids, he revealed.

J. G. Browne, downtown shopping, this week, stopped by the office to try to remember something that his wife, Ora, had told him to do. He thought and thought and finally had to phone home.

"What did you tell me to do?" he queried. After a chat with her revealed that his wife had told him to "use my own judgement" in getting something to eat.

"No wonder I did not remember," Mr. Brown commented. "That is an honor I seldom get."

Married in Iowa City

Mr. and Mrs. Brewton, Sr., were married on Jan. 6, 1924 by Justice of Peace E. A. Crosssett at Iowa City where Mr. Brewton was a medical student at the University of Iowa. In 1936 they moved to Des Moines where two years later Mr. Brewton went on duty at the old Broadlawn General hospital as an X-ray technician. Now he heads that department at the new hospital. A native of Moberly, Mo., he was reared in Mason City, Ia.

The Brewton's two sons, Cecil and William, who are graduates of North High school here, served during World War II in the Pacific and Europe, respectively.

Now that her children are grown, Mrs. Brewton who has been active in sewing circles of the St. Paul AME church of which she is a member, spends her leisure time doing needlework while her husband builds radios as his hobby.

Mrs. Brewton, born in Collinsville, Ill., was reared in Cedar Rapids where her parents, Mr. and Mrs.

W. G. Reed reside. They were unable to attend the reception because of Mrs. Reed's illness.

Greeting the interracial gathering of guests during the afternoon were parlor hostesses, the Misses Delores Morrow, Betty Jane Morrow, Marguerite J. DeSleet, Betty June Hayes, Bara Jo Smith, Barbara and Beverly Oliver, Jean Walker of Cedar Rapids, niece of Mrs. Brewton, and Mrs. Cecil Brewton, Jr. Many of the guests were staff members of Broadlawn General hospital.

Pouring at the table were: Mrs. Horace M. Spencer, of Mason City, mother of Mr. Brewton; Mrs. F. W. Slater of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Leon Blake of Estherville, Ia., a cousin of Mrs. Brewton; Mesdames Marceline Estes, W. L. Oliver, Helen D. Beshars, Leola Grant and Morris DeSleet. Mr. DeSleet served as a host.

Other out-of-town relatives and guests included: Mr. Wallace Reed of Los Angeles, Calif., brother of Mrs. Brewton; Judge F. W. (Duke) Slater of Chicago, Mr. Horace H. Spencer of Mason City, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Warren of Mason City, Mr. and Mrs. Fay V. Rupp and daughter, Sallie, Maxwell, Ia., Mrs. Daisy Murrell of Jacksonville, Fla.,

Mr. Fred White of Waterloo. An anniversary dinner, buffet style, followed the reception.

Presented to the guests were the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brewton, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Spencer of Mason City. Mrs. Spencer, the former Maude Brewton, is Mr. Brewton's mother. During the afternoon recordings of congratulatory messages from relatives and friends, were made by W. O. Sandin. Dr. E. T. Seales presided as master of ceremonies.

Miss Grant Marries

Miss Agnes Lacona Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Grant, and Mr. Cecil H. Brewton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Brewton, Sr., were married here Jan. 6, at St. Paul AME church parsonage by the Rev. A. J. Irvine.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitney. Both graduates of North High school here, Mrs. Brewton attended Jarvis Christian College in Texas. Mr. Brewton, who is an army vet-

HELP THE MARCH OF DIMES DRIVE

The annual drive of the March of Dimes will be held January 14-31. As the high infantile paralysis rate mounted in 1948, it becomes evident more and more that this disease is a serious problem in America and that much more money is needed for care and cure of patients; much more for research.

HITTING THE RIGHT SPOT

Several bills concerning civil rights have been introduced in Congress by Democrats and Republicans. That is nothing new. But the program to change the rules which will permit measures to hurdle some of those committees and enable the senate to break a filibuster is the meat of the whole situation.

NEGROS IN KEY POSITIONS

As legislatures meet in various states, Negroes elected last fall are taking their places in assemblies as far south as Missouri where four Negroes were elected.

In Congress, Representative William L. Dawson became chairman of the committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments. This is the first time in recent years that a Negro has had such a strategic post which places him in a position to wield great influence in Congress.

As time goes on, Negroes are finding themselves in greater places of importance and influence. With those positions go a lot of responsibility; personal, to their constituents, to the nation as a whole. Just in proportion that they discharge that responsibility with efficiency, thoroughness and in keeping with the fine traditions these places carry will they be truly representative.

Then, too, these positions give the Negro a place on the "inside" where policies are formed. Thus, the Negro will, in those instances, be better off for someone is on hand who knows his problems best.

It happens all too often that we get a small share of what is available simply because we are not on hand to protect ourselves, or to know what to do before it is too late.

These positions are simply cumulative evidence that Negroes are making headway daily and with the continued help of those white people who have the brains and the will to support the Constitution of the United States, they will push ahead as the years go by.

CLAIMS ABE LINCOLN WAS PART NEGRO

Chicago. How Negroes and the race problem touched the lives of some of America's most outstanding Presidents is told in a February Negro Digest feature which reveals that Chauncey Burr claimed that Abraham Lincoln was part Negro.

George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Martin Van Buren, and Andrew Jackson are other presidents the Negro Digest article declares were directly affected by claims of Negro ancestry or affiliations.

MRS. ALEXANDER AND FAMILY BACK HOME

Mrs. Lucretia Alexander and children, 517 Racoon, returned to the city last week from Staten Island, N. Y., where they spent two months during the illness and death of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Nanna Saunders.

FIRST THREE DAYS OF 81ST CONGRESS

See FRONT Page both Democrats, introduced antilynching, anti-poll tax and anti-discrimination in employment bills. They also introduced civil rights bill for the District of Columbia.

Mr. Powell also introduced bills to prohibit racial segregation of interstate passengers and to prohibit segregation in the armed forces. Ant-poll tax bills were introduced by Representative Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party, of New York; Errett P. Scrivener, Republican, of Kansas; Emanuel Celler, Democrat, of New York; Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat of California.

Fair employment practices bills were introduced by Representatives James G. Fulton, Republican, of Pennsylvania; Jacob J. Javits, Republican, of New York; Mr. Celler, and Mrs. Douglas. Antilynching bills were introduced by Representative Clifford P. Case, Republican, of New Jersey; Mr. Celler, and Mrs. Douglas.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts, introduced a bill to provide for the establishment of a veterans' hospital for Negro veterans at the birthplace of Booker T. Washington in Franklin County, Virginia. Representative Walter B. Huber, Democrat, of Ohio, introduced a joint resolution to establish a joint Senate and House Committee on Civil Rights.

Judge Slater

Goals set high and prepare for everything. Be prepared for the opportunity that is forthcoming.

Praises Judge Green

Regarding the other Negro municipal court judge, Wendell E. Green, the former Iowan revealed that Judge Green who was reelected last November for his second term, "has made an enviable record and has been given the highest rating of any of the judges on the municipal court bench of 36 judges."

Judge Slater, 50, nicknamed "Duke" since childhood, is a native of Clinton, Ia. He married in 1926, Miss Erita Searcy of Muscatine, Ia. Mrs. Slater, who accompanied her husband here for the silver wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brewton, Sr., is an alumna of Iowa university, and a former school teacher.

PRESS PHOTO SERVICE

REP. WM. L. DAWSON Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—Representative William L. Dawson, of Illinois, who is slated to be chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, began to function in his prospective chairmanship last Wednesday by the introduction of two bills.

One of his proposals would raise the Federal Security Agency to Cabinet rank by creating the Department of Welfare. This proposal is in line with the recommendation of President Truman made in his state of the Union message, in which he said "The government agency which now administers the programs of health, education and social security should be given full departmental status."

The second bill introduced by Mr. Dawson in his capacity as prospective committee chairman was a measure to regulate subsistence expenses of officers and employees in the executive branch of the Government while absent from their designated posts of duty on official business.

Both bills were referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Influenza is caused by a virus—a germ too small to be seen through an ordinary microscope. It occurs most frequently in the winter months, sometimes spreading rapidly through entire communities. It may occur in mild form, causing the patient only a few days' discomfort, or in a severe form, such as that which took more than 20 million lives in the outbreak following World War I.

Influenza rarely appears in very young babies, although older children seem particularly susceptible. Fortunately, it is generally less severe in children than in adults.

The disease is thought to be spread through coughs and sneezes, or through direct contact. No symptoms appear for from one to two days after infection. Then the victim has a fever, ranging usually from 101 to 102 degrees, aching muscles, running nose, headache, sore throat, and a general feeling of illness. He may have a dry or loose cough.

Medical advice should be sought as soon as possible after the onset of the disease. Serious complications can be avoided if the doctor is called early and his advice followed. To assure as mild an attack as possible if infection occurs, body resistance should be kept at a high level. Adequate rest and a properly balanced diet are essential. Sensible clothing, suited to weather conditions, should be worn, and precautions taken to avoid chilling.

During the past several years, several protective vaccines against influenza have been developed and used with varying degrees of success. Some of the objections to presently available vaccines are the frequently rather severe reactions resulting from the injection, and the fact that only certain strains of the several influenza viruses are included in the vaccine, with the result that there will be no protection if the outbreak is due to a strain not included in the vaccine.

Basketball

If you are interested in seeing some pretty good basketball you could do worse than drop in on the Crocker Y league at North High on Mondays and Wednesdays and the Pathfinder League at the Jewish Community Center on Saturday. The kids of five years ago have grown up, and are playing a nice brand of ball.

As we see it, the Little Renns ought to win the senior league but they had better not play any of the five remaining clubs cheaply. They are all dangerous and given a hot night could upset any other team in the league.

The week's top game was the torrid battle between the Black Hawks and the Olympian club. This scuffle took place in the Pathfinder League and found both teams keyed higher than a C-string on a piano. Big John Jones got hot in the second-half and dumped in enough points to bring the Hawks out in front 28-23. Johnny counted sixteen for his day's work.

The Hawks play Rock Island at the center on Jan. 23 at 7:30 p.m. Captain Fred Thomas allowed that this ought to be column material, so here it is. But we think he meant the Olympian game. We don't know for sure who really won the game between the Cagey Five and the Esquire Juniors. The score board showed the Cagey boys winning, but the score book showed the Esquires winning. Both scores were 25-26, so take your pick.

In the Crocker Y league the Renns rolled over the over-anxious Shy Guys club and the Esquires and the Ambassadors had a warm scuffle with the Squires coming out by a point. The Hawks dusted somebody by a point.

The thing about these leagues that is remarkable is the spirit of all the clubs. Rivalry is keen and the games are close, the play hard, but there is a fine willingness to accept decisions and breaks that figures well for the future.

Time was when the close, hard games that we have seen would cause loads of trouble but lets hope these days are really out.

RACIAL SEGREGATION IN ARMED FORCES

See FRONT Page white soldiers while being transported from one State to another.

Reynolds and Randolph said they intend to ask Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York to support State legislation to abolish segregation in the New York National Guard.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Charles H. Fahy, former United States Solicitor General, has returned from Paris and will arrange to see President Truman with members of his committee as soon as his health permits.
