SEEK THE MEANING OF BE-BOP MUSIC

New York City.—(ANS)—Leonard Feather, local disc jockey over WMGM daily is running a contest concerning be-bop music.

Some of the "Definitions" of be-bop sent in: "Be-bop is emotional catharsis, wired for sound." "Be-bop is something that if a guy plays it, he ought to be (hopped)." Another, "All hail to the Gillespies, John Birks; they look like men, but sound like jerks."

MEXICANS PLAYED BALL 50 B. C.

Panuco, Mexico.—(ANS)—Scientists exploring a buried city near here, report the discovery of an ancient outdoor ball court, complete with everything including a score board.

Robert Pavon, Mexican archeologist, estimated the court was 2,000 years old. He said three temples were found near it. All were reported in good condition. However, he reported part of the court was damaged, perhaps by oil drilling several years ago.

Assisting Mr. Pavon is Dr. Richard Monelish, University of Chicago.

'SHOW BOAT' AT KRNT FEB. 3, 4, 5,

The greatest and most beautiful musical comedy of all times, "Show Boat", the stage show that combines gaiety, melodrama, color and humor, will play four performances at the KRNT Theater, Des Moines, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, February 3, 4 and 5, and a Saturday matinee.

Taken from the novel by Edna Ferber, with the score by the late Jerome Kern and book and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein 2nd, the play has become a classic in the American theater.

Many say that so inspired was the composer by his subject that the music of "Show Boat" has become a kind of American folk-music in the 21 years since he penned it. Such a melody as "Ole Man River", though original with Kern, has already acquired the full luster of a folk song.

A carefully picked cast of 100 is headed by Billy House, Pamela Cavness, Sammy White, Norwood Smith, Ruth Gates, Clare Alden and Terry Saunders.

DOROTHY MAYNOR, LENA HORNE, LIONEL HAMPTON AT PARTY

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—Dorothy Maynor, the concert star, Lena Horne, stage, screen and radio star, and Lionel Hampton and his band starred in the Inaugural Gala at the National Guard Armory last Wednesday night.

President and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, sat in the Presidential box at the Armory and appeared delighted with Miss Horne's rendition of popular songs, the singing of two spirituals by Miss Maynor, and even the "be-bop" music of Hampton and his band.

Miss Horne came on very early in the show. Lionel Hampton opened the second half of the show and was followed by Miss Maynor. All three drew big applause.

COAST BROTHERS GROSS QUARTER MILLION WITH EXACT SCIENCE CHICKS

Chicago.—Foremost among Los Angeles County's 8,000 chicken farmers are the three Wilson brothers, Howard, Clifford and Robert, who are reported in February EBONY to have parlayed a $5,000 investment into a poultry business which grosses $250,000 in the short span of only two years.

The Wilson chicken ranch is located at Corona, California, Ebony says, and has produced more than 100,000 chickens for market in two years. University of California trained in scientific farming, the Wilson brothers sell through their own Angel City chicken markets. Combined weekly gross has now reached the $15,000 mark.

"Ex-GI's, the three Wilson's began with one chicken market in a Negro neighborhood," the Ebony photo-story states, "but have since opened two additional markets in interracial neighborhoods."

Urge Medical Attention For Mrs. Ingram In Georgia State Prison

New York.—Following reports that Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram has suffered recurrent heart attacks, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this week urged authorities to provide immediate medical attention for the 41-year-old widow, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the self-defense slaying of a white neighbor.

"We urge physician's examination at once and relief from assigned tasks until health is recovered," declared NAACP Assistant Secretary Roy Wilkins in a telegram to the Georgia State Board of Prisons and Correction. The wire was sent after the NAACP received information that Mrs. Ingram, despite her illness, has been forced to work as other prisoners in the prison camp to which she is confined.

The NAACP National Office announced this week that contributions to the Ingram Defense Fund now total $45,125.06. Of this amount $30,482.02 has been contributed by NAACP branches, $1,719.13 by individuals, $1,888.98 by churches, and $11,054.93 by other organizations.

ON LEGAL STAFF OF IOWA STATE LEGISLATURE

ATTORNEY HENRY T. MCKNIGHT

A member of the legal research and bill-drafting staff of the Iowa fifty-third general assembly which is in session at the state house, is Attorney Henry T. McKnight, young lawyer who has been practicing in Des Moines for two and one-half years.

Bills that are introduced daily in the senate and house, first come to the Assembly's legal staff; where four lawyers are kept busy, doing research work, passing opinions and drafting the legislation for the Iowa senators and representatives.

In an interview this week at his desk in the state law library, Attorney McKnight revealed that so far, sixty bills, some requiring much research, have been drafted by him. Some bills are short and can be dictated in five minutes, while others are long and consume as much as forty pages, he informed.

Attorney McKnight was a member of the legal staff during the last session of the legislature. Holding such a position offers him invaluable contacts and opportunity for varied research, he commented.

An army veteran of World War II, prior to his 33 month of military service, he had practiced law in Sioux City since 1937.

Active in religious, civic and political organizations in Des Moines, Attorney McKnight is a member of the Corinthian Baptist church in which he is president of the usher board; chairman of the legal redress committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and during the political campaign last year, he was a member of the state Republican's speakers' bureau.

He is married and is the father of a son, 7 months old.

President Truman Show Much Enthusiasm at Three- Day Inaugural Celebration

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—The three-day inaugural celebration here last week was indicative of the almost complete transformation which has taken place within the Democratic party in its attitude toward colored voters.

Historically, the organization was the party of slavery, nullification and secession. Dominated by the South after the Civil War, it remained nationally a white man's party until President Franklin D. Roosevelt and James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, went out to win the colored vote.

Since then there has been a metamorphosis which has brought colored Democrats into prominence and pushed Southerners into the back-ground.

The results of this gradual change were quite in evidence in the main inaugural events. Made increasingly conscious by President Truman's civil rights program of the part that government plays in the every day lives of people, a larger number of colored voters than ever before in the history of the country voted in the last Presidential election.

Enthusiasm Shown

Enthusiasm for President Truman, and interest in government, however, did not end at voting. Hundreds of colored persons from all over the nation came to Washington for the Inauguration. Such cities as New York, Chicago, Detroit, Atlanta and Los Angeles were well represented by colored inaugural visitors.

Shortly after Melvin D. Hildreth, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, was named chairman of the 1949 Inaugural Committee, he emphasized to reporters that Mr. Truman did not want any racial segregation or discrimination in inaugural affairs.

That decision, in the main, was carried out. Die-hards did not comply with the President's wish, but it may be said that in no official event was distinction made openly on account of race or color.

William L. Houston, an attorney and a delegate from the District of Columbia to the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia last summer, was a member of the Inaugural Committee and served as chairman of a subcommittee on national participation. There were colored persons on other subcommittees.

the Capitol last Thursday hundreds of colored persons were scattered throughout the audience. They were there as the guests of members of Congress and the Democratic National Committee.

In the parade that followed, colored people also were represented, and scattered throughout the stands, from the cheapest seats to the Presidential reviewing stand, there were colored people watching the procession.

At the Inaugural Ball at the Armory last Thursday night there also were colored people in attendance. The ball was strictly social, invitations were hard to get, and Capital Presidential reviewing stand loudly booed the Georgia governor.

A few minutes later, the car bearing Governor J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina; the Dixiecrat candidate for President, passed the reviewing stand. Mr. Truman looked (See Page Two)

Report States That System 'Very Much Like Slavery' Being Practiced by British

New York (NNPA)—With reports current that a United Nations Mission will soon charge the British Government with conducting a system "very much like slavery" in Africa, the Anti-Nazi League last Friday renewed its request that the UN investigate charges of slavery in Yemen and the southern coast of Saudi Arabia.

Prof. James H. Sheldon, administrative chairman of the league said the organization has information that slave trading is actively practiced by the Moslems between the Somaliland coast of Africa and the Imamanite of Yemen. The league formally protested such trading to the UN last year.

According to reports, the UN mission will charge the British with practicing near-slavery in the British trust territory of Tanganyika. The charges, it is said, will specify payment of low wages, whippings for minor offenses and a system of labor "recruitment" which virtually amounts to the selling of African workers.

The UN mission will report to the UN Trusteeship Council that wages in the area averaged as low as $1 a month, with skilled workers being paid as little as $4.25 a month. It will also cite the British for compulsory labor and the enforcement of a law which permits the whipping of any laborer over 16 years of age who uses insulting language to his employer, and the conviction of those who leave their employers without intent to return.

Believe Riots in Africa Caused by Government's Policies of Segregation

Capetown, South Africa (NNPA)—While Durban was recovering from the riot between Zulu and Indian inhabitants, the South African Government Monday, January 24, received reports that the situation "is under effective control."

A judicial commission of inquiry will be appointed to look into the specific causes and circumstances of the riot.

Most unrest in the country has been caused by Indians and natives protesting the white government's policies of segregation and limited government representation for colored inhabitants.

According to reports, 300 people were killed and 1,000 injured in the riots, which began January 14, following a fight between a Zulu boy and an Indian peddler. The Zulu boy was reported only slightly injured in his fight with the peddler.

Real causes of the riots, a correspondent in Durban said, are racial antagonism between the Africans and the Indians, aggravated by their religious and cultural differences and "bad living conditions" in the area where the riots have occurred.

An unofficial report said that the death toll may reach 500 when a full check is made. It was reported that one white European was killed and eleven were wounded, but generally the fighting was not directed against the white population.

Fighting covered such wide areas that the estimates at best were guesses.

Bodies Litter Ground

The bodies of riot victims littered the ground at Cate Manor, on the fringe of the city. Long trails of bloodstains marked every street leading to the non-European hospital, where fifteen doctors cared for the wounded.

The fate of hundreds who fled from Durban is not yet known. After the Zulu boy had been injured in the fight with the peddler, incident followed incident, swelling into the worst rioting the country has seen, and causing damage which police say will amount to nearly $5,000,000.

Police, charging with fixed bayonets, at first sought to break up the rioting, but the trouble spread, and heavy military reinforcements were ordered.

A group of Indians, attacked by a

THREE-DAY INAUGURAL INDICATIVE OF COMPLETE TRANSFORMATION IN PARTY

See FRONT Page hostesses complained bitterly at their distribution, but colored people were on the guest list, received their invitations and attended.

In Minor Affairs What was true of the main events also was true of what may be termed minor affairs. The dinner of the Truman-Barkley Club at the Mayflower Hotel on Tuesday night, January 18, was unsegregated. This dinner was attended by 2,500 persons who paid $15 a plate.

Elliott Paul, author of "The Last Time I Saw Paris," had at his table Mr. Houston, Mr. Houston's sister, Miss Clotill M. Houston, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles H. Houston, and Albert Ammons, a Chicago pianist. All were the guests of Welburn Neycek of Los Angeles, treasurer of the Truman-Barkley Club.

Mr. Paul told reporters: "This is the first time in the history of inaugurations that Negroes have been admitted as guests to a function of this kind, and I'm rather enjoying the honor of presiding at the table."

Colored guests also were present among the 7,500 guests at the reception which the President and Mrs. Truman gave at the National Gallery of Art from 5 to 7 p.m., last Thursday. Mr. Truman was forty-five minutes late for the reception because he waited until the end of the parade at 5:30 before leaving the Presidential reviewing stand.

Other affairs at which there were colored guests included the reception given for Senator J. Howard McGrath, of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee at the Shoreham Hotel at 7 o'clock last Friday evening.

The testimonial dinner given for Representative William L. Dawson, Democrat of Illinois, in the South Interior Building, on the other hand, was attended by a comparatively large number of white members of Congress and Government officials.

Pass Reviewing Stand The seven-and-a-half mile cavalcade, which moved from the Capital after the inaugural ceremony and passed in review before President Truman in the reviewing stand in front of the White House, was a demonstration of democracy in action.

The Army, which has resisted the mixing of white and colored personnel, gave the most impressive sight of integration. Other armed forces had mixed units in the parade, but there were so few colored persons sandwiched into such units that they were hardly observable. But not to the Army.

The first mixed unit in the parade came as a platoon of motorcycle policemen of the Metropolitan Police force rode past the reviewing stand. They were in the first section of the parade and rode in a V-formation.

In the twelfth section came the cadets from the United States Military Academy, among whom were several colored cadets. Midshipmen from the United States Naval Academy were in the second division of the parade.

Only one colored midshipman was discernible. There are only three colored midshipmen at the Naval Academy, two of whom are in the first year class. The Military Academy has nine colored cadets.

Georgia Governor Boed As the automobile bearing Governor Herman Talmadge, of Georgia, ardent advocate of white supremacy, passed Mr. Truman turned his back, and some of the spectators in the

PERSONAL TOUCH

The ice-covered streets this week have kept many a resident indoors, while daily-goers have been creeping and nearly crawling along their ways to work and town.

Enroute to Sunday morning services Atty. Gertrude Rusk went down on the ice near her home—but luckily she suffered no ill effects. After being aided on her feet, she continue her journey to church.

The ice didn't seem to bother veteran Attorney S. Joe Brown, who said that after walking one ice—all these years, he's used to it.

Mailman George Robinson, Jr., who has been driving one of the pickup trucks, was happy that he did not have to battle the icy sidewalks and steps as some of the other resident mailmen did this week. Hopeful, Mr. Robinson informed that "we have only about a dozen real cold days during the wintertime."

And—he was reared here too. Maybe, his memory freezes up after the twelfth day of Iowa wintertime.

Last Saturday night—before the ice had fully covered the streets—a number of guests went out to the Parkview clubhouse, Polk and Kingman boulevards, to attend the Olympian club's pleasant evening of dancing to the music of Basie Givens. This was the club's second dancing party at the clubhouse.

Getting ready to "wow" to spectators at the Shriners, Minstrel's next Monday is Mrs. Vera Morrow who is directing the show's olio—which is composed of some "fine numbers", she described. The "wow" will come when she steps out on the stage to sing a number herself. With Speck Redd backing her up at the piano, Mrs. Morrow said it "won't matter much if my voice falls down."

Winner of a recent songs identification contest which was sponsored by the Union Furniture store downtown was Herman Wadsworth, 1404 E. Eighteenth street. His first prize was a suite of furniture.

Mrs. Bernice Carter who won a consolation prize in the contest, was thrilled because it was upon the persuasion of her eight-year-old daughter, Myrtle, that she got into the contest. The beauty shop operator, Mrs. Carter, received a $30 check this week to apply on the purchase of furniture at the store.

It is a thrilling feeling to find something—like a pocketbook or a billfold with money in it—and that grand moment came this week when the columnist picked up a fat identification case, downtown, which held a brand new street car pass, greenbacks, income tax statement—to be paid, registration card, library card and other valuable papers, all neatly tucked into a little case.

There were so many identification papers that it was not hard to find the owner, S. L. Jacobs, a post office clerk who was on duty at the post office. Was he excited when he answered a telephone call—and happier yet was he when he was handed his identification case at the inquiry window later that evening.

Graduates Pictures Pictures of the mid-year high school graduates will be published in the Bystander next month. Graduates are urged to bring their photos to the office immediately.

TEN KEYS MEETS The Ten Keys met at 1029 Tenth street. Games were played. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Christine Martin, 1125 Tenth street. Agnes Eppright is president.

IT CAN BE AND WAS DONE

In reply to the demand that segregation be put at an end in the army, several commanding officers and generals have replied that "it is not the job of the army to solve social problems".

It only goes to show that discrimination is not as hard to break up as many would lead the public to believe; that a determination to say and do the right thing will make most of the cowards see the light even though they are not convinced fully.

Of course, the few hours of integration of white and Negro troops in this instance won't solve the problem; it is not like spending the twenty-four hours per day together. But it did indicate that with proper supervision these men can live and work together in harmony.

WE GO ALONG WITH MR. TRUMAN HERE

Drew Pearson chided President Truman with a bit of sarcasm for turning his back to some of the Dixiecrat leaders as they passed in the inaugural parade.

Well, we go along with President Truman in this. Those Dixiecrats did everything possible in an underhanded way to defeat President Truman; they were poor sports.

While it is un-Christian to take eye for eye and tooth for tooth or to fall to turn the other cheek, modern day living shows that it just does not pay to let such people get a second chance to try their tricks.

We made that mistake with Germany and suffered for it; we make the same mistake with those who display their wares of hate and prejudice. That's why they thrive.

PAY BONUS OUT OF THE SURPLUS

The state of Iowa has a surplus of approximately $7 million dollars in the general fund. Much of these funds are invested in government bonds while a lot is on deposit in banks in the state.

The last legislature voted to pay Iowa soldiers of World War II a bonus, authorizing its payment by a levy of taxes. The people approved the measure at the general election last fall.

Recently, there has been considerable sentiment for the payment of the bonus out of the surplus; some advocate half the payment out of the surplus while some adhere to the original proposition.

It seems sensible that as long as full payment out of the surplus would leave a fair sum for emergency purposes and it continues to get bigger each month, as long as federal taxes take such a large share of the dollars we spend, the treasury would not be jeopardized; thus since no additional state taxes would be levied, payment out of the surplus would be the best course to follow.

Inauguration

(SEE FRONT PAGE) frigidly at the Dixiecrat for about a minute, without waving, without doffing his high silk hat and without smiling. The snub was patent.

The Army's "New look" came into view in the fifth division of the parade when a company of Wacs passed the stands. There in the front line was a colored Wac.

Several hundred police were flown into Durban on January 15 with radio-equipped patrol cars to back up police, military and naval units which were unable to stamp out the fighting.

Two emergency hospitals were opened. The defense Minister, Mr. F. C. Erasmus, and the Justice Minister, C. R. Swart, flew to Durban to discuss the riots.

200 Airmen In the United States Air Force marching units were 200 colored airmen from the Lockbourne Air Force Base at Columbus, Ohio.

An automobile bearing the legend, "Governor William H. Hastie of the Virgin Islands," passed the reviewing stand but Governor Hastie was not in it.

There were colored individuals in other units in the parade. In addition were the James Reese Europe Post Drum and Bugle Corps, District of Columbia high school cadets, the Elks and the float of the National Council of Negro Churches.

Inaugural Address By Louis Lautier

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—President Truman took occasion on his inauguration for a full four-year term in his own right as the thirty-second President of the United States to proclaim to the world the faith and aims of the American people.

His inaugural address, delivered on the Capitol steps after he and Vice President Alben W. Barkley had taken the oaths of office, dealt essentially with foreign relations, but what he said with respect to human rights could be applied with equal force to racial relations in the United States.

"Challenges Momentous" Pointing out that the challenges that confront this country now are as momentous as any in its past history, Mr. Truman said the day marked "the beginning not only of a new administration, but of a period that will be eventful, perhaps decisive, for us and for the world."

"The supreme need of our time is for men to learn to live together in peace and harmony," he declared. Expressing the American credo, Mr. Truman said:

"We believe that all men have a right to equal justice under law and equal opportunity to share in the common good. We believe that all men have the right to freedom of thought and expression. We believe that all men are created equal because they are created in the image of God."

Concluding his address, the President said:

"Events have brought our American democracy to new influence and new responsibilities. They will test our courage, our devotion to duty, and our concept of liberty."

"But I say to all men, what we have achieved in liberty, we will surpass in greater liberty."

"Steadfast in our faith in the Almighty, we will advance toward a world where man's freedom is secure."

"To that end we will devote our strength, our resources, and our firmness of resolve. With God's help, the future of mankind will be assured in a world of justice, harmony and peace."

Families Burned Alive Whole families, both Indian and Zulu, were burned alive in their houses. Others were dragged into the street and slain, or run down as they fled from mobs, or resisted them.

The Government called all trained members of the Royal Durban Light Infantry Brigade to duty, and said the Natal Mounted Rifles would join them later. The Governor-General Mr. G. Brand van Zyl, prepared an order calling the active citizens defense forces into action.

Cuprian, king of the Zulus, pleaded with his subjects to stop the fighting with the Indians which has wiped out whole families.

He said he wanted the trouble to be settled peacefully.

Several hundred police were flown into Durban on January 15 with radio-equipped patrol cars to back up police, military and naval units which were unable to stamp out the fighting.

Two emergency hospitals were opened. The defense Minister, Mr. F. C. Erasmus, and the Justice Minister, C. R. Swart, flew to Durban to discuss the riots.

Rioting so far was confined to the Durban area, which has a population of 121,000 Indians, 109,000 Negroes and 128,000 whites.

HEALTH FOR ALL

EPILEPSY

Epilepsy is a disease of the nervous system which, from time to time, causes its victims to lose consciousness, or suffer from convulsions, or both. It affects some 500,000 men, women and children in the United States.

The word "epilepsy" itself means "seizure," and the attacks of unconsciousness or convulsions are known as "seizures." Seizures take place when the normal functions of the cells in the brain are disturbed, causing the victim to lose control of body nerves and muscles.

Epilepsy was once believed to be a sign of mental illness. But we know today that the great majority of people who suffer from epileptic seizures enjoy sound mental health. Epileptics, like all other groups, include the brilliant as well as the dull. Among famous men of history who suffered from epilepsy were Julius Caesar, Peter the Great of Russia, Lord Byron, the Russian novelist, Dostoevski, and the Italian violinist, Paganini.

We also know today that with prompt medical treatment nearly 80 per cent of those who have epileptic seizures can be helped toward the attainment of complete health. Less than 10 out of every 100 cases of epilepsy are severe enough to require institutional care, and many of these eventually can go back to normal living after treatment by the advanced methods available today. A person should be placed under the doctor's care at the first suspicion of the disease. The doctor examines the patient and prescribes treatment to correct the condition causing the seizures. An injury to the brain, certain bodily disorders, or extreme emotional upsets can bring on epileptic seizures.

The doctor may use an instrument called the lectro-encephalograph, which records the electric waves given off by the brain. By studying the pattern of the recorded waves, the doctor is assisted in determining whether or not the patient is actually suffering from epilepsy. Some types of epilepsy can be helped or even cured by an operation on the brain.

Harlemite fray was a ding-dong battle all the way, clear into the overtime. The Cornets got their game 25-20 and the Warriors staged two terrific rallies to win 20-18 in overtime-battle. The remarkable feature of these close hard games was that all four teams were too busy pouring leather through the hoop to argue with anyone.

Golden Gloves It won't be long until we see a gang of kids dashing out of their corner swiping from their seals and we will know the Golden Gloves bouts are with us again. If only the Negro lads would get into condition, there would be a lot more winners than there are now. The kids look fine for a round or a round-and-a-half. Then they run out of gas and are punched out.

The visiting firemen had a tight man-to-man defense, a fast-breaking offense and some pretty fair basket shooters.

The Hawks, playing their first out-of-town opponents, didn't know just what to do about it. They were in a sort of coma and by the time they came to, the score was about 30-7. From there on it was a good ball game, but the damage had been done. Then on Monday, the Olympian club, traveling under the name of Crusaders, sank the Hawk Juniors 24-10, and Don Richey of the Crusaders asked us not to forget that one. "Here's one for your column."

The two junior games, Cornets vs. Sharpshooters and Warriors vs. Harlemites had the crowd on edge. Both games were closer than ninety-nine is to one-hundred and the Warrior-

IS IT THE TRUTH? In her daily experiences of "seeking the truth", Evangelist Estella Coates, ran into this bit of information which she sent to the office. It reads as follows: Is it the truth and I quote: When a garage man makes a mistake He adds it on your bill. When a preacher makes a mistake Nobody knows the difference. When a lawyer makes a mistake It's just what he wanted to do
