Alexander and Dawson Address Interracial Commission Meeting

The Des Moines Interracial Commission, at its monthly dinner meeting at North High Cafeteria Tuesday evening, heard two interesting talks.

A. A. Alexander, internationally famous Negro engineer and technical adviser to Secretary of Defense Johnson, recounted some of his experiences upon his recent visit to maneuvers by the U. S. Naval air bases and warned that "we might be in a shooting war within the very near future.

Rev. J. Hamilton Dawson, formerly pastor of one of the Lutheran churches of the city, but now vice president of the Iowa State bank, maintained that the progress that had been made in matters of race relations in America had grown out of the practice of religious principles and predicted that further progress along this line could only come from adherence to such principles.

Among the visitors at this meeting were: Mrs. Alexander, wife of the engineer and Mrs. Lawrence Oliver, wife of the chairman.

Dr. Bunche Pays Courtesy Visit to London; Says 'If UN Fails, War Inevitable'

By Rudolph Dunbar
London — (ANP) — Dr. Ralph Bunche on his recent courtesy visit to London gave a press conference at the UN headquarters here. A large number of newspaper men fired a barrage of questions at Dr. Bunche and he replied to them with the skill that illuminated his brilliant exploits since he has become a world figure.

He was asked to comment on the Seretse Khama's affair which is causing such world sensation. Dr. Bunche said that he was unable to make any comment primarily because he did not study the nature of the case; and secondly, the case had not been brought before the UN, hence, it would not be prudent for him to make any comment; and thirdly, it would be a breach of diplomatic ethics to comment on the domestic jurisdiction of the British government.

Free to Criticize
He finally said: "If I was in my own country I would have been free to criticize at will."

Dr. Bunche declared if the UN fail it is inevitable that there must be war. "Despite its faults," he pointed, "It has succeeded where it wants to succeed." He paid a courtesy call to the secretary of state for the colonies and was entertained at the House of Commons by the Minister of State during the lunch hour.

Smoking his cigarette, he walked around the library where the conference was held greeting nonchalantly all the newspaper men. After the conference was over, almost all the newspapermen commented on his charm of manner and his mental brilliance.

British Government's Indecision in Seretse Affair Causing Threats

SEROWE, Bechuanaland—(ANP)—The hot pot of tension is near bursting point here over the British government's indecision in the affair of Seretse Khama—his banishment from the territory for five years or fore- ever, the forthcoming birth of a child to the former white London typist, Ruth Khama; and the labor government's refusal to recognize him as chief of the Bamangwato tribe.

Latest development in the tense and ticklish situation is a proposed plan by the tribe to journey to Lobatsi, 300 miles to the south, to see their chief. Khama has been at Lobatsi for over a week waiting for Britain's high commissioner, Sir Evelyn Baring, to make up his mind on the conditions under which the chief may return temporarily to tribal territory.

Mrs. Khama, at present in Malapye within tribal territory, disclosed that the tribesmen have become restless and threatened to make the trek to Lobatsi unless the British allow their chief to come home soon. Hundreds of the tribesmen have been gathering in the capital here to welcome their banished chief.

Would Not Wait

According to Mrs. Khama, they said they would not wait much longer and would "invade" Lobatsi to see him, taking their cattle, women and children with them.

Acutely aware of the rising tension, British authorities have imported 190 British-officered African police from Southern Rhodesia and Swaziland. These forces march through the streets at frequent intervals with their small arms, Bren guns and mobile equipment in a show of force. Normally the town is policed by 15 men.

In addition, the high commissioner has temporarily posted William Forbes MacKenzie, deputy resident commissioner of Swaziland, as temporary district commissioner over Bechuanaland.

Meanwhile, many of the tribesmen are selling their cattle to raise money for Khama to fight his banishment in courts. According to a government source, the tribe has already raised an estimated $700,000.

Bury Dr. C.G. Woodson, Probably World's Best Authority on Negroes

Washington—(ANP)—Dr. Carter Woodson, 74, probably the world's best authority on Negro history, was buried here Saturday. Funeral services were held at Shiloh Baptist church. The Rev. E. L. Harrison officiated.

The famed historian, both self-educated and college trained, died in his home Monday afternoon, apparently from a heart attack. His home was located above the Association for Study of Negro Life and History, an institution he founded and devoted his life to. He had been in ill health and under doctor's care for two years.

Born at New Canton, Va., Woodson grew up in Huntington, W. Va., and worked in the coal mines. During that time he became a self-educated man. Later he attended Berea (Ky.) college and the Sorbonne in Paris. He earned his A.B. degree from the University of Chicago in 1907 and his A.M. in 1908. In 1902 he was awarded his Ph.D. from Harvard university in 1912. He received an LL.D. from Virginia state college in 1939.

During the early part of his career, Dr. Woodson taught school, 1909-18, in Washington including a year as principal of Armstrong high, a year as dean of the school of liberal arts, Howard university, and two years as dean of West Virginia State college.

While at West Virginia State he conceived of his idea of his Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, an organization designed to print and publish books about and by Negroes on Africa and America. The association also was designed to help scholars in their study of Negro history. At the time of his death Dr. Woodson was working on a six-volume Encyclopedia Afri-

Medical, Dental Clinics Pause in Honor of Dr. C.R. Drew During Funeral Hour

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—(ANP)—The chimes at the institute chapel solemnly rang out at 1 p. m. last Wednesday and all medical activities on Tuskegee campus ceased. Physicians and dentists stood silently with bowed heads for one minute in reverence to Dr. Charles R. Drew who met with accidental death while enroute to attend the John A. Andrew clinic in session here.

The silent moment in memory of this outstanding surgeon and great humanitarian was held at the exact moment that he was being eulogized in Washington, D. C.

The John A. Andrew Clinical society was officially represented at the funeral by Dr. Asa G. Yancey, a former student of Dr. Drew, and now chief of the surgical service at the Tuskegee Veterans hospital as well as consultant in surgery at the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital.

A message sent to the family by the society said, "Our feelings of his loss will not be measured by his tears, but by the sincerity with which we accept the responsibility to carry on in the spirit and in the direction of the leadership which he gave so unstintingly toward the furtherance of sound training and adequate preparation of the younger men of the profession."

When the news of Dr. Drew's death reached the Tuskegee campus last Saturday, it was the first impulse of officials of the Clinical society to call off the scheduled meeting and pour out grief in talking of him, and sorrowing over the society's loss.

"But", said the spokesman "all who knew the man personally, or even slightly, are aware of his devotion to his work, of his tremendous concern for the future of our young men in medicine and surgery, of his high sense of responsibility for an obligation accepted. He would have been the first to insist that we carry on the program as he had helped to plan it."

Strawberry Parfait Cake

It looks like a shortcake—it's really a cake, with a strawberry meringue for the filling and topping, and a final garnish of bright berries.

Strawberry parfait cake is a variation on the shortcake theme, and an elegant springtime dessert. Instead of biscuit or scone base, there's fluffy cake, and strawberries are folded into a frothy meringue for a topping that is beautifully pink and luscious tasting.

The parfait "frosting" makes the most of strawberry flavor, so that a little more than a cup of berries will make a strawberry cake serving eight to ten people generously.

No need to hunt for a four-leaf clover to expect good luck with this cake. Follow accurately this basic, tested recipe for a two-egg cake, using best ingredients, correct utensils, and temperature given. Bake the cake in two greased eight-inch layer pans, dividing batter evenly between the pans. For layer cakes, it is often well worth the time to cut a sheet of plain paper to fit the bottom of pans so that the cake will come out perfectly.

This cake requires only standard ingredients almost always on hand. Use enriched flour to make it for family service because of its extra B-vitamins and iron. The cake is one you'll want to serve throughout the year, with a variety of fillings and toppings.

STRAWBERRY PARFAIT CAKE

Batter: 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1/4 cup milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, beating well until creamy. Add vanilla extract. Add about one-third flour mixture. Mix. Add one-half of milk, mixing well. Add one-third flour mixture. Mix. Add remaining one-half of milk, mixing well. Add remaining one-third flour mixture, mixing until light and creamy. Pour batter into two lined eight-inch cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 to 30 minutes. Makes two eight-inch layers.

Strawberry Parfait Topping

2 egg whites, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup strawberries, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Mash strawberries, or put them through a coarse sieve. Beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt and cream of tartar. Beat until stiff. Add sugar and strawberries gradually. Continue beating until meringue holds its shape when beater is drawn through it. Pile between layers and on top of cake, leaving sides bare. Garnish top with whole berries.

Milk Industry in Europe Subjected to Regulation

Milk production and consumption are greater in most European countries than ever before, according to Dr. Leland Spencer, professor of marketing at Cornell University.

He also states that the food situation is generally gloom in most countries of western Europe except Germany and in England where the diet is "somewhat monotonous and unappetizing."

The marketing specialist represented the United States at the world dairy congress in Stockholm, Sweden, last August, and also studied agricultural and economic conditions in 10 other countries from Norway to Italy.

"The milk industry in western Europe is subjected to a surprising amount of regulation and control," Spencer added. "In some countries such as Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland, the controls are exercised largely by farmers' cooperatives. In Great Britain and Holland, government agencies have a lot to say about the distribution of milk."

The payment of subsidies from the national treasury in order to satisfy farmers and consumers, is a common practice, he said. In Britain about one-fifth of the total cost of food is paid by the government.

In most countries of western Europe Professor Spencer found only one milk plant in each market. The farmers have no choice of outlets and the consumers have no choice of milkmen.

Freshman Height-Weight

Despite dietary changes caused by two world wars and a major depression, America's young men and women continue to grow taller and heavier, a University of Cincinnati researcher reports. Dr. Laurence B. Chenoweth, professor of hygiene and director of the university's health service, reveals that over the past 33 years, freshman men entering the university have grown 2.74 inches in height and 22.41 pounds in weight and freshman women have added 1.24 inches and 4.33 pounds. With the continuing increase in height and weight of this university's freshmen, the soaring curve does not yet appear to have reached a plateau, he feels. In fact, he expects the increases to continue "for some years."

GEORGIA TOWN RECOGNIZES BRIDGE BUILDER'S GENIUS — 23 YEARS LATE

LaGRANGE, GA.—(ANP)—John T. King, Negro bridge-builder, architect and contractor, had to wait 23 years after his death before his genius at building bridges in Troup county was recognized. King, with his father and three brothers, erected many bridges in the county, most of which spanned the Chattahoochee river.

The little-known constructor of bridges died on May 27, 1926, at the age of 80. His structures, built by a secret process without nails, weathered the storms of time for some 60 to 75 years. One such bridge, a covered structure over Flat Shoals creek between Columbus and West Point, withstood nature's and man's abuse for 60 years before its moorings were ripped out by the swollen creek on July 11, 1948.

However, it was not until King's bridges were being torn down last September to provide modern steel and concrete bridges for heavy motor vehicle traffic, that the real worth of the builder's genius was appreciated.

Not too much is known about the King process of bridge construction.

Constructed Homes

Aside from bridge building, King was also responsible for the construction of many houses and buildings in the city. The two-story house in which three daughters now live was designed, built and completed by him in May, 1918. The original King home once stood on property across the street from the Dixie Mills, Inc. In addition, the family owned much property in the area, where they had lived for 76 years. At his death, his estate was said to be worth about $300,000 in property and assets.

In November, 1926, six months after King's passing, the local white daily LaGrange Reporter devoted a large obituary space to him, in which it was stated, "Among his own race, he was a constructive leader and wielded a wholesome influence. His will, courage, and hope never failed until the last."

PERSONAL TOUCH

A good spring tonic is needed right now—just as spring's warm breezes play hide and seek with winter's lingering chill; when the sun's warm rays are cooled by gray snowclouds. In a search of some good tonic to keep the thoughts turned towards balmy days, a call was made to Mrs. Rosa Bland, 910 Grove, who always wears a warm smile of springtime on her face.

"Do you have a good old spring tonic?" was the query to Mrs. Bland who laughed and said, "yes, mine is love—and it is hard to find nowadays."

In her conversation she revealed that she and her husband were married fifty years ago on April 5 and they passed their golden anniversary quietly—giving thanks to God who kept them happily married for a half century.

Mrs. Bland is very active at home, washing her windows and cleaning and cooking and she has a "wonderful" appetite all of the time. Mr. Bland is anxiously awaiting some warmer days to get out on the streets with his "hot tamale" wagon.

Sometime the latter part of this month—around about the twenty-fifth of April, noises will be coming from the kitchen of the G. B. Tucker home—where in one of the corners, G. B. the mechanic-husband will be whipping up one of his favorite cakes to celebrate his own birthday.

Quite proud of his ability to bake cakes, he is always in the market for a new recipe to try out and a few days ago, stirred up a bit of delicious sweet butter batter for a cake to celebrate his wife, Sarah's birthday.

Of course, Mrs. Tucker will inform, "I'm on a diet," and she finds the line very handy when one of G. B.'s cake creations lack proper identification. In most cases, Mr. Tucker has very good luck with his cake-baking, he said.

Mrs. Betty Franklin was quite proud this week of some Kansas violets that had been picked for her on Easter Sunday. In transporting the tiny spring flowers, the donor forgot to wrap them properly for

HEALTH FOR ALL

Warning to Homemakers

A warning to homemakers by the Iowa State Department of Health to disregard certain false statements being made by kitchenware salesmen implying that some kinds of pans will cause stomach ulcers, cancer, arthritis, diabetes and kidney diseases.

Many letters have been received in the division of preventable diseases from homemakers saying that such statements had been made to them. The salesmen say that cookingware of materials other than those they are selling not only destroys the vitamin, minerals, and nutritive value of food, but causes various other diseases.

To demonstrate their contention these salesmen may boil some baking soda in an aluminum pot. They then point to the "deadly poisons" which are discoloring the pot. They either don't know or don't want others to know that the slight discoloration produced in the pot is due to the formation of a small amount of aluminum hydroxide which is in no way injurious.

Dr. Ralph H. Heeren, director of the division of preventable diseases, says that certain low grade enamelwares have been found to contain traces of chemicals soluble in acid.

Some of these traces, as antimony, are soluble from the enamel reacting with acid foods, (as lemonade stored in a cheap enamel pitcher) and may cause mild illnesses of short duration. However, he adds, no scientific research in any recognized journal or other publication can be found to support the argument that use of high grade enamelware, aluminum or stainless steel for cooking pots causes cancer, diabetes, arthritis, heart disease or any of the other diseases an unethical salesman might mention or imply.

Track

This is the week of the Kansas Relays, always a preview of the Drake show which comes up next. We guess Jerome Biffle of Denver U., who stole the show here last year will be among those present at Kansas. Also Michigan's great shot putter, Charley Zanesville, who may yet set a new world's record in his event.

High School

Looks like East at the Valley Relays and at the Drake affair. No school in the state can match the Scarlet quartet of Reggie Atkins, brother of teh famous Dick; Roy Kaiser, one of the running Kaisers; Verne Fields and Al Gatewood. These guys just about wrapped up the indoor state track meet last week and if they can keep the pace outdoors will be hard to handle. North

Baseball

It never fails. Last week, Lee Taylor said in his column that Sam Jethro was not a hard hitter. So the very next day Sam homers. But then all of the writers seem to much but foot speed.

Luke Easter has really been blazing his way in the grapefruit league. Hope his injury doesn't set him back too far. Wonder what has happened to Minando and Artile Wilson.

Have you been noticing the series between the Harlem Globe Trotters basketball team and the college All Stars? Every game close, one or two points difference, and the teams take turns winning. Whether it is real or not it must be a good show.

Visiting around Iowa Iowa's Wider Roads

Glad to see they are widening some of our highways! "It's going to save a lot of accidents," Ed remarked as we drove west from Colfax on newly-widened No. 6. "Narrow roads are like narrow-minded people—they're dangerous." And that's certainly true. Think what trouble and unhappiness a few narrow-minded people can cause in a neighborhood. If we could only broaden their outlook as easily as we widen our highways!

After all, broad-mindedness is one of the keystones of our democracy. Tolerance and good will,

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS THESE ARE THE WORKERS REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESMAN REPORTER Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair. But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care! Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine Until the socialists got him—then there were nine. Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate Along came federal medicine—then there were eight. Eight little free workers thought this country heaven But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven. Seven little free workers—till the miners got in a fix Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six. Six little free workers till the day did arrive The steel mills, too, were federalized—then there were five. Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four. Four little free workers till the government did decree All must have free legal advice—then there were three. Three little free workers—the number is getting few, But with government groceries selling food—then there were two. Two little free workers—our story's almost done, With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one. One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none. Ten little workers—but they are no longer free They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see, And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"
