Pres. Truman, Sec. Tobin Praise Patriotism and Valor of Troops in Korea

Washington—"We cannot fulfill our democratic destiny, unless we make good the faith of democracy at home," declared Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin in paying tribute to the patriotism, valor and the contributions of American Negroes to the trade union movement before delegates in attendance at the 7th biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in New York.

Secretary Tobin conveyed a message from President Truman to the President A. Philip Randolph of the Brotherhood which said in part: "All America is proud of the valorous performance of our Negro fighters in Korea. Their courage, skill and high morale will give new impetus to the measures we have undertaken to insure that America's armed forces will be the most democratic in the world."

Important Role
"Their achievements on the battlefield presage the more important role which American Negroes are destined to play in our new program to help the long oppressed peoples of Asia and Africa help themselves toward freedom, dignity and self-government."
"I am especially grateful for your

Merger of Negro and White Community Church Councils

A historic event in modern-day Protestantism took place recently on the campus of Lake Forest college in Lake Forest, Ill., when the Negro Biennial council of Community Churches and the white National Council of Community Churches

The new organization, which has an interracial staff, is called the International Council of Community Churches. The five-day meeting brought to the little college's campus outstanding Community church ministers from throughout the United States.

Porters Call for World Congress of Negro Peoples To Meet 1951 in New York

New York (Atlas)—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, (AFL) appeal for racial equality, and called for a world congress of Negro peoples to meet in New York next year, and the appeal was loudly cheered by the 350 delegates to the seventh biennial convention of the brotherhood, ending their five-day sessions at Hotel Theresa, last week.

The convention wants a complete elimination of Jim Crow from the Armed Forces, so the Negroes "may die as free men and not as Jim Crow slaves." The convention went all the way out for the advancement of the cause of colored races through out the world, and supported President Truman's Point Four Program. It wants not merely material resources, but one freedom from the "evil forces of oppression and exploitation that is at present practiced by the Malan government of the Union of South Africa."

'Quiet Discrimination'
In another resolution, the convention accused the Department of State of practicing a bit of quiet discrimination against Negroes in its higher positions. It said that, since "two-thirds of the population of the World of color suspect" the United States, more Negroes should be appointed to the higher levels of the department.

Declaring that many Negroes are well qualified for diplomatic service, the resolution said that "the presence of colored Americans in foreign affairs posts will be the most effective policy of convincing the peoples of Asia and Africa that the United States practices what it preaches about democracy."
A New Deal
Warning that the Korean conflict might erupt into a world atomic war, another resolution called on the United States Government to give organization's continued support and encouragement in the achievement of effective civil rights legislation, which it still regard as one of the major pieces of unfinished business before the Congress."

Must Build

In his address to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters on the occasion of its 25th anniversary and silver jubilee celebration, Secretary Tobin stated:

"We cannot hold our own, in the great struggle of ideologies now convulsing the world, unless we build, as Mr. Randolph put it, a bastion of freedom here in America, which will thrill teeming millions of every variety of race, color and confession, throughout the earth, make them followers of democracy, save them assurance to the peoples of Africa and Asia that the United States presents a new deal for them in land reforms and recognition of their nationalistic aspirations and racial equality.

She was released on a $200 bond. The hearing, set for Sept. 20, was continued until Sept. 27.

The 350 delegates are firmly behind the American democratic ideals to offset the menace of Russian aggression, especially by appealing to the colored peoples of Africa and Asia. At the same time, A. Philip Randolph, international president of the union was reelected for a three-year term. He has been president of the union during its twenty-five years of existence.

Says America Must Prove That Democracy is Living Reality With No Bounds

New York—In its first meeting since the beginning of hostilities in Korea, the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People voted "support of the efforts of the United States and the United Nations to halt Communist aggression in Korea."

The board resolution, which "condemns unreservedly this breach of the peace by the armed forces of the government of North Korea aided and abetted by the Soviet Union" action to end all forms of racial discrimination and segregation in our military and civilian life.

"We are acutely aware," the resolution continues, "that victory over disruptive and sinister Communist forces cannot be achieved by guns alone. If America is to win the support of non-Communist Asia and Africa it will have to demonstrate that democracy is a living reality which knows no limitation of race, color or nationality."

The charge was made by Ralph Randall, chairman of the judicial committee, and endorsed by State Representative George O'Malley, candidate for state senator.

Albert J. Loveland, Democratic nominee for United States senator, declared that his opponent, Republican Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper is "an expert at bungling and creating confusion."

Salty Fare for Calves Saves Work in Feeding

To save work in the daily feeding of a little—and only a little—cottonseed meal to beef calves, U. S. department of agriculture workers hit on a method of mixing enough salt with the meal to control the daily consumption. With the right mixture they found that the calves would eat about two pounds of meal a day. The proportion of salt to meal had to be watched and adjusted from time to time. Generally one pound of salt with four pounds of meal was right, but a narrow ratio as one to three was sometimes needed. In fact, up to one pound of salt a day has been fed. Two pounds of cottonseed meal was just enough concentrated feed to keep the calves in thrifty condition on winter pasture at the Great Plains experiment station at Woodward, Okla. Without the heavy salting of the meal it would have been necessary to feed the meal each day exercising care to allow each calf easy access to the feed. The new way greatly simplifies the feeding and permits placing of bulk supply of the salt-mixture in the feeders.

The experimenters found that the salt had no ill effects on the animals. To get the calves accustomed to the salty fare, the two-pound-a-day allowance of meal was fed in an introductory period with a daily increase in the amount of salt. After the calves had learned to eat the mixture, it was easy to mix it in bulk and shovel it into a self-feeder. Then the calves ate the desired daily allowance with no further need for daily attention—a substantial saving in labor.

Horse Diseases When horses come down with sleeping sickness or swamp fever, owners should look beyond feed and water to find the cause. If it were possible to trace the infection, it usually would be found that it got started through the skin, rather than through the stomach. Sleeping sickness and swamp fever are both caused by viruses which can survive in feed and drinking water, but research has shown that it is extremely rare for horses to get either of these diseases through the digestive tract. In most cases, the virus is introduced into the blood stream by biting insects or careless use of surgical instruments.

LORIN (Snus) MILLER Republican Candidate For Sheriff

At the November election you will have the privilege of selecting from the candidates, a Sheriff, to serve you for the next two years. This is one of the most important elective offices in Polk County.

You should use the utmost care and consideration in selecting your candidate. Regardless of your business, profession, or occupation, you should appreciate the value of experience. If your automobile needed a repair job, you would want an experienced mechanic to do the work. If you had a toothache, you would want an experienced, qualified dentist to take care of the tooth. Entrusting your safety, the safety of your family and property to a peace officer should be given more consideration than your automobile, or an aching tooth.

I have had 27 years experience as a Peace Officer. During this time I served as a Patrolman, Detective Sergeant, Lieutenant, Captain, and the last three years as Chief of Police. I have made arrests for every major crime violation, and prepared the cases to go to court without the assistance of outside enforcement agencies. I know the value of crime prevention, and I know that a patrol car in all localities will discourage crime. I know that children are entitled to different treatment than adult violators, and the way to give these children different treatment is to assign capable officers to assist the Juvenile Court and our schools in handling these cases. If I am elected, there will be a Juvenile Bureau established, patrol cars in all localities, and experienced and capable men will be assigned to the criminal division. It is not too early to start making your selection of candidates you intend to vote for. You should check the qualifications of each candidate with the same care and consideration you would an applicant for a position in a private business. Since the primary election, I have talked to several representatives of churches, business and social organizations, and have been asked what my policies would be, should I be elected, so I am taking this means of advising the public what my policies will be. THREAT OF POLICE ACTION GETS SERVICE FOR NEGROES

Detroit, Mich.—Threatened police action last Friday evening saw five Negroes who were refused service upon a walk-out of the Hotel Detroit cafeteria staff, being personally served by the hotel manager. The group included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dillard, Attys. John W. Roxborough II and Edward M. Turner, and Arthur L. Johnson, all members of the Detroit NAACP Restaurant Discrimination Committee. Mr. Johnson, local NAACP executive secretary, stated that all members of the cafeteria staff disappeared when the group entered the cafe for service.

Open Only to Guests

After waiting about fifteen minutes, Johnson related, a man approached them and stated that he was the manager of the hotel. Upon learning that the group wanted service, the alleged manager stated that the dining room was only open to hotel guests.

Mrs. Ernest Dillard asked: "How do you know that we are not registered?" The official stated that there were no Negroes registered at the hotel.

Called Police

After a lengthy discussion, Atty. Turner reportedly insisted upon seeing license for the cafeteria. When it was failed to be produced, Mr. Turner called police.

When the police failed to showup after a brief wait, the manager then agreed to serve the group himself.

Bride's Biscuits

Following a tested recipe using enriched flour will help the bride make biscuits like these—golden topped, tender and flaky, served piping hot with butter or margarine and honey. Four square biscuits provide breakfast or tea-time conversation, yet they are even easier to make than the usual round variety. In following this basic biscuit recipe until the mixture looks like coarse crumbs. Use two knives, a pastry blender, a pastry fork, or fingertips. Then add almost all the milk at once, saving out two or three tablespoons until you see if you need it. Different flours may need a different amount of milk to make a dough of good consistency. Stir vigorously until flour is moistened. Biscuits are different from most other quickbreads in that they have to be kneaded slightly. This makes them high, light, and flaky. Warning: knead with a light touch, and only 30 seconds. After rolling out dough, dip sharp knife in flour. Cut into squares by pressing knife or spatula straight down. Avoid "dragging" the knife through the dough. This pulls the biscuits out of shape and makes them lean to one side during baking. Bake on ungreased baking sheet. Serve biscuits hot, with honey and tea, the traditional accessories. Hot biscuits are one of the most economical ways to add not only appetite appeal, but needed B-vitamins and iron to the menu.

BISCUITS

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
2/3 to 3/4 cup milk
Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently, 30 seconds. Roll out one-half inch thick. Cut with floured biscuit cutter or sharp knife. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 12 biscuits.

IOWAN TELLS OF TEN-WEEK SUMMER TOUR IN EUROPE WITH STUDENTS ON INTERNATIONAL LIVING EXPERIMENT

Charles P. Howard, Jr., back home from a ten-week student tour of Europe, gave highlights of the trip last Sunday to an audience at St. Paul AME church.

On a scholarship representing Howard university, where he is a student, Howard was one of 1,500 students who participated in the Experiment in International Living. Leaving Quebec, Canada, June 20, on a British ship, the 2,000 persons in the group, arrived in LaHarve, France, where the passengers departed for their destinations and he went on to London, England, and then to Brighton, considered the "Atlantic City" of England, he informed.

The students were placed in homes of families in various countries, to live for one month and then travel later about the country, he said.

While there he observed the coal industry, socialized medicine, visited the birthplaces, homes and tombs of prominent English personalities whose life and works are imbedded in the history of the country. Among the homes visited were those of Rudyard Kipling, Charles Dickens, John Keats P. B. Shelley, Samuel Johnson, Wm. Shakespeare.

Found 'Paradise'

In Switzerland, he said he found "a paradise on earth," at a hotel where 1,400 persons of all races, down the boulevards you can see a creeds and colors, live under one roof.

The hotel is operated under the Moral Rearmament program which is referred to in Europe by the letters "MRA."

The MRA hotel which has all modern conveniences that the first rate American hotels have, is operated by volunteer help.

The MRA program, he said, is based on four principles, which he named as: "absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love."

While at this hotel, he said he met and dined with dignitaries and common people of many of the other countries.

Back in England, he visited many of the old abbeys, in Yorkshire; outdoor opera, built on the island in Scarborough; saw the national game of cricket played; went to Stratford-on-Avon, where he saw Shakespearean plays; returned to Oxford university where during World War II he spent sometime, he recalled.

In Paris

In Paris, he noted that "colored American women are sought after. You can't get near them—the line is so long," he added.

"If an American beautician went to Paris she would be as wealthy as Madam Walker was," the Iowan remarked. "There is a tremendous need for Negro beauticians. There is no place to fix your hair."

Evidently, the native French women have no beautician's problems, for Howard pointed that walking woman with blue, green or silver-colored hair airing a little dog with hair dyed to match hers.

Howard will leave Friday for Vermont to make a formal report on his trip. Then he will return to Washington, D. C., to resume his studies at Howard university.

Presents Brothers

Following the lecture Sunday evening, Rev. G. A. Singleton, pastor of St. Paul church, presented brothers of the speaker, Lawrence and Joseph Howard, sons of Atty. and Mrs. C. P. Howard, 1136 14th street. Lawrence, who received his master of arts degree from Wayne university in Michigan, last June, left Monday, bound for Cambridge, Mass. to begin work on his doctor of philosophy degree at Harvard university. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Drake university here.

Joseph left this week for Seattle, Wash., to enter the University of Washington.

All three are veterans of World War II.

fish he shouldn't catch) at his side, the warden came up and asked the fisherman what he was doing with that fish. Didn't he know that it was against the law to catch that kind of a fish?

"Well, Mr. Warden," the fisherman said. "I'll tell how that happened. You know, I put my bait in the water once, and that fish came along and ate it. I took him off the hook and put him back in the water. I put on a new bait and that same fish came along again and ate it. I took him off the hook again. Then when I put on another new bait, that same fish came back—so I put him up here beside me—to save my bait. When I get through fishing, I intend to put that fish back. The warden went on his way."

WON'T GOP LEADERS EVER LEARN

Young Republicans Saturday decided on a 12-state southern conference Dec. 1-3 as the first step in a drive to build up the G.O.P. in Dixie.

The Bystander thinks that the youngsters ought to review a bit of history concerning recent efforts to "build up the GOP in the south" and particularly just what happened to the fellows who tried it.

President William Howard Taft conceived the idea when he was in office and tried it. He was kicked out in 1912 almost failing to get his party's nomination.

President Hoover, captivated by the fact that two southern states went Republican in 1928—and this was done because of Al Smith's religion and prohibition—decided the time was ripe to build up a strong GOP in the south. Remember, Iowa's Senator, Smith W. Brookhart, went down south and carried on a campaign to drive Negroes out of the GOP. Of course, this fiasco is fresh in the minds of most people today.

Governor Dewey's campaign managers attempted to soapbox the civil rights issue in 1948 hoping that by so doing the south, and particularly the Dixiecrats, would flock to the Republican party. Dewey not only failed to get an electoral vote in the south, but the conduct of his backers helped to hold northern Negro voters in the Democratic column.

John Tope of Detroit, Mich., chairman of the Young Republicans federation, said "the time is ripe to attract to Young Republican ranks those southerners who can find no comfort in their (Democratic) party, which has wandered so far afield from its traditional purposes."

Several months ago, Chairman Guy Gabrielson of the Republican National Committee made a trip through the south for the purpose of showing the Dixiecrats why they belong in an alliance with the Republican party to keep the country safe from socialism. Undoubtedly the youngsters got this one from him.

The Bystander wonders how long the Republican leaders are going to fool themselves in the nation that they can build a strong GOP in the south. It is a cinch that southerners will insist on principles down to their level in matters of civil rights as a price for their support, and thus the Negro voters in the north will refuse to go along with any such deal. In other words, the Gabrielson leadership is turning its back on that which they have had and have a chance to regain for something they have never had and have little chance to get.

Taft and Hoover tried it before Negroes left the GOP because their managers thought Negroes were wedded to the party which gave birth to the great fight for civil rights. They thought Negroes were afraid of the Democratic party. But that day is gone as evidenced in the elections since 1932. And as long as the Republican party leaders abandon the principles of the GOP, as is being attempted by the young Republicans, they will find themselves defeated in 1952 and in later years.

TWO PEAS IN A POD

Drew Pearson told his audience Sunday that the Security Council of UN was able to get unanimous support for a resolution to raise an army to fight in Korea because the Russians were absent.

But now that they are back, an effort to raise a world-wide UN force would be sought through the General Assembly because only a majority present and voting is required to put through such a proposition.

America is greatly responsible for the veto power on the Security Council. And America has been whipped over the head with this procedure on many occasions much to the disgust of its delegates and those who shape our foreign policy.

But this procedure sounds like the filibusters in the United States Senate. Those rotten parliamentary tricks permit the use of dirty work in the Senate and UN, all of which help to understand why the world is in such terrible shape today.

Democrats

See Front Page of the sales tax on food and anti-labor laws.

Lorin Miller, Republican candidate for sheriff, was the only Republican nominee for county office who was singled out for direct attack.

Clyde E. Herring, Democratic candidate for county attorney, said that Attorney General Robert L. Larson worked with Sheriff Howard C. Reppert, a Democrat, in cleaning up gambling in Des Moines, and by-passed Miller, who was then Des Moines police chief.

"The attorney general has found it impossible to endorse the candidate in his own party (Miller) who is opposing Reppert," Herring said. He added that Democrats in the courthouse have operated their offices for less money than their Republican predecessors despite higher wages and increased costs of materials.

County Auditor Harold E. Anderson was toastmaster.

Bees Engaged in Building Record Honey Pot for 1950

The honey pot of the nation is again full to overflowing. A preliminary report of the U.S. department of agriculture estimates that nearly 230 million pounds of honey will be harvested from the beehives of the nation this season, the second largest crop on record. In addition, the 500 billion bees were sufficiently busy during their short lives so that they gathered from the flowers of the fields and trees sufficient nectar to produce an added 500 million pounds of honey or more to take care of their own needs. It takes a lot of honey to feed the baby bees which come along so rapidly when individual queens can lay 1500 eggs a day and keep that job up day after day without even asking for one day off in seven.

Leading areas of production this year are the north central states, notably Minnesota, Iowa, Ohio and Michigan, which produce light-colored delicately-flavored honey from clover and sweetclover; and the Western area, including California, Texas, Colorado, Wyoming and Idaho, with a wide range in flavors from aromatic orange and thistle to full-flavored alfalfa and cotton. However, bees are to be found in every county in the country, and the 500,000 beekeepers of the nation are scattered very widely.

In 1949 a much greater appreciation has been evident than formerly of the value of bees in pollination, and thousands of colonies have been placed in or near fields of alfalfa or other legumes of which honeybees are rapidly becoming the principal means of pollination. Although native ground-nesting bees are not quite in the class of the buffalo and the mourning dove in scarcity, clean cultivation along fence rows and the increasing use of insecticides are so rapidly reducing their numbers that they can no longer be depended upon for the efficient pollination which they once performed for the legume crops.

High Frequency Sound Waves Used in Gall Stone Illness

A new technique for breaking gallstones by high frequency sound waves has been developed.

Experiments, which have been restricted to anesthetized rabbits and a dog, open up the possibility that gallstones may some day be treated without surgery. If gallstones can be successfully fragmented by high frequency sound waves, or ultrasound, the small, broken pieces may then pass into the intestines and be excreted through natural elimination.

(High frequency sound waves are waves which vibrate with a frequency too high to be audible to the human ear).

In these experiments, the ultrasound was introduced through an abdominal incision and directed on the gallstones without damage to the surrounding tissue of the animals.

Thus far, doctors have limited their research to the proof of two basic points: first, that gallstones can be fissured or fragmented by ultrasound; and second, that live animal tissue surrounding the gallstones need not be damaged during the brief exposure to ultrasound.

Children's Noon Meal

Whether a child eats in the school lunch room, comes home for lunch or carries his lunch, his noon meal should supply him with at least a third of his daily nutrition requirement. It should include milk; a protein-rich food such as cheese, eggs, meat or fish; a fruit or vegetable (preferably both); whole-grain or enriched bread; and butter or margarine. An effectively administered school lunch program not only provides children with well-balanced and nourishing meals—it can also help improve children's food habits. When eating with a group, many a child will eat and like food that he refused to touch at home.

Gregorian Calendar

Japan adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1873; China and Turkey only two decades ago. The Soviet Union, adopting it in 1918, found the anniversary of its celebrated October Revolution shoved into November by the change. China's old calendar, the Hebrew calendar and others follow the ancient Babylonian rather than the Egyptian pattern. They give heed to the moon—month of 29½ days, and the year of 12 moon-months, or 354 days. They then intercalate (insert) a very short month every year or a near-average month every few years to balance lunar and solar years.

HEALTH FOR ALL

TYPHOID FEVER

Typhoid fever is going underground, according to reports in the division of preventable diseases of the Iowa State Department of Health. Years ago most typhoid cases got the disease from other cases. Now typhoid fever is taken care of so that it can't spread from patient to patient. The records show the results.

Five cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Iowa so far this year. Five years ago there were 10 times that many. In 1908, there was 600 cases, state Dr. Ralph H. Heeren, Director of preventable diseases.

This does not mean that the danger of typhoid fever is no longer with us," Dr. Heeren adds. "That's where the going underground comes in. New cases now come from carriers; from hidden or unsuspected persons."

A typhoid carrier, Dr. Heeren explains, is a person who harbors the disease, but isn't sick with it. Perhaps he had the fever 25 years ago, and still carries some of the germs with him. His attack may even have been so mild he didn't know that he had it. But he still may be the cause of some one else's having typhoid fever, perhaps severely.

The dramatic decrease in typhoid fever is due to a number of factors. Sanitary engineers have directed treatment of public drinking water; sewage disposal; proper handling and pasteurization of milk supplies; fly control, and general sanitation.

In addition, physicians have developed methods including the use of protective vaccine that helps to prevent a second case of typhoid from happening in any family. Working with health officials the physicians follow their cases carefully to learn whether any become chronic carriers. The State Department of Health also keeps a close supervision over known typhoid carriers. This is in order to protect other persons from the disease. Cases of typhoid fever that are now reported, usually come from some unknown carrier, and efforts are immediately made to locate him.

Not everyone who has typhoid fever becomes a carrier, but a recent survey of known typhoid fever carriers disclosed that out of 131 known carriers in this state, 72 remain carriers. Investigations have been started on 32 of these, and 25 are under medical treatment. Eight carriers have not yet been located, and 7 for the time being have not submitted laboratory specimens for testing or don't want to sign a carrier agreement.

Public Health nurses in the counties; visitin gnrurses and local physicians all help in the work of checking typhoid fever carriers.

SPORTS

By ALLEN ASHBY

Our unscheduled and very unwanted date with the surgeon's knife or razor or whatever he cuts on people with, threw our late summer and early fall plans into a tailspin. We had to miss the Hilltop tennis meet. That one hurt our plans to get around to see what Negroes were doing in local high school and we had to miss the opening of the football season.

But we are back on schedule now and expect to keep up with things from now on. We were sorry to hear about young Weathers of Tech. We wish him a speedy recovery and maybe he will be back next year.

Drake

We had to content ourselves with a newspaper account of the doings of John Bright at Drake, but we guess he did alright. We asked a fellow, who has played and seen football for just about forty years, what he thought of Johnny Bright. The old guy lit his pipe, looked over his glasses and said: "You really want to know? Well, here it is. He is potentially a great back; big and fast with a nice sidestep, but he needs to learn how to pace himself behind his blockers. He should be able to change pace and direction. In other words, he must be able to handle that speed. A hard, straight arm would be an asset and when he really turns on the fan, he ought to take longer strides.

On the favorable side, he has plenty of heart and isn't afraid of the devil. He can and wants to be rough and is hard as nails. But if he doesn't start going into a line bent double, he may not finish the season. He is dangerous, because he can pass and is a nice runner. But if he will work on the things I told you about he will be a really great back."

That we might add is strictly one man's opinion and is backed by forty years of association with football.

Baseball

Never did get around to mentioning the Hottentots who captured the city softball crown for the third time in five years and went to the quarterfinal round in the state meet. They had quite a ball clinic, but we wish they could crash through to the state title again. But then, so do they.

THE SOURCE OF JOY

Joy springs in the heart that is tender and kind, Like a fountain that kisses and toys with the wind; Whence rills trickle softly to blend with the ground, Spreading freshness and verdure and beauty around.

O! Seek not for joy in the depth of the bowl, Nor quence in its poison the fire of the soul; Each draught leaves a seed that will quicken and bear An Upas to wither with grief and despair.

Joy is found in the peace and the comfort of home, It is lost to the heart when in exile we roam; It is glimpsed in the smiles of the faces we love, Like a star beaming forth from its station above.
