MRS. SAMPSON TELLS UN

Peace Must Be Built from Bottom Up

'The Price of Failure May Be New Slavery; Reward of Success, Freedom for All'

New York.—Mrs. Edith S. Sampson, alternate United States Representative to the General Assembly of United Nations, addressed the Herald Tribune forum at Waldorf Astoria hotel, Tuesday, Oct. 24.

On the subject, "World Security Begins at Home," Mrs. Sampson spoke in part:

"At the close of this United Nations Day, it is fitting for us to think together about the problem of world security. That is a two word summary of the great goal of the United Nations.

"Sir Gladwyn Jebb has traced the history of this voluntary association of nations. Ambassador Pearson has discussed the problem of collective security. These statesmen have, in various capacities over the years, helped shape the character of this international institution.

"I am a freshman in this Fifth Assembly. Most of my life I have lived and worked on the South Side of Chicago. From this vantage point I have learned something about the word, "security". As a social worker and a lawyer—I am not a corporation lawyer, you know—I have long listened to the problems of ordinary people.

Security Real

"Security means something very real and personal to them. It means opportunity to work and advance in their own lives."

please and say what they think and to join free associations to protect and advance their interests as workers or farmers, businessmen or professional people; to be assured a fair trial with all that implies; to be free to worship God according to conscience. And security also means an effective defense of all these against aggression.

"A lady I know, living in a fourth-floor, one-room apartment on State street, whose only son is writing letters from a foxhole in Korea, wants this security we are talking about tonight.

"In 1949 I conversed with people in a score of countries around the world. I discovered that security means the same things to them. Only a few understand the ins and outs of international politics—the high-level language we hear at the United Nations. But the most illiterate peasant does understand the simple longings in his heart for the kind of security I have been describing.

Shift Talks Due To Segregation

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Disagreement over the segregation issue caused the Chapel Hill Ministerial association to remove two scheduled appearances of Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, widely-known Japanese Christian leader, from the University of North Carolina campus.

U. S. Republican Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa was reelected Tuesday over his Democratic opponent, Albert J. C. Bowers, who was decisively defeated in a near-record off-year outpouring of voters.

Gov. William S. Beardsley was re-elected by a big majority, holding the house intact for the Republicans. All eight Republican congressmen were re-elected.

Lester S. Gillette, former state senator, who headed the Democratic ticket, conceded the election to Beardsley.

Attorney General Robert L. Larson, who stopped gambling in Iowa, led the Republican ticket outside of governor and senator in number of votes.

In Polk County, all but two office holders were re-elected in the county's heaviest off-year election in history.

County Attorney E. S. Thayer, running for a second term as an independent candidate, and Coroner O. Edwin Owen, a Democrat, were the only incumbents defeated.

Puerto Ricans Plotted to Kill President to Gain Country's Independence

Washington, D. C.—The two Puerto Ricans who tried to kill President Truman "just took a chance" that the president was there Wednesday, Nov. 1, when they charged Blair House with guns blazing, according to a statement made by the one who survived.

The president was napping inside at the time. He was not injured. The assailants were shot down by White House guards. One was killed, the other critically wounded in the gun fight.

One guard was killed and two were critically wounded.

At Blair House

The attack took place at 2:20 p.m. in front of Blair House, the president's temporary quarters across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House, which is undergoing repairs.

The shots awakened the president from his regular after-lunch nap. He rushed to an upstairs window in his underwear and looked down on the scene of the fighting.

A secret service man shouted at him to "get back, get back," and the president moved away from the window. The shooting had ended by the time he reached the window.

Truman Calm

A short time later Mr. Truman left the White House by the back door to go to Arlington National Cemetery, where he dedicated a statue of Sir John Dill, British general in World War II.

The assailants meant to shoot their way inside with the expectation of encountering him there, said the statement released by investigators last Thursday.

The statement, informal and not signed, was taken from Oscar Colazzo during questioning while under guard and during hospital treatment for a bullet wound in his chest.

In it, he said that only two weeks of conferences between him and Grisello Torresola—his co-conspirator who was killed in the gunfight at Blair House—preceded their decision to "take the law into our own hands."

Colazzo, who is expected to survive and stand trial on a murder charge in the death of one of the president's bodyguards, was moved Thursday from Emergency hospital to a jail ward in Gallinger hospital, a municipal institution deemed more secure.

BEACH OWNER FOUND GUILTY OF BIAS; FINED $500

Minneapolis, Minn.—Emil Engberg, Twin Lakes beach operator, located in Brooklyn Center, received a $500 fine from Theodore B. Knudson, judge of district court, Wednesday, Nov. 1, for violation of the state civil rights law.

Engberg was previously found guilty in a four-day jury trial in district court for violating a Minnesota statute which prohibits denial of equal accommodations to any citizen in public places because of race, creed or color.

The convicted man had refused to sell a ticket to Robert Baker, a 14-year old Negro lad for admission to the Twin Lakes beach.

In sentencing the beach operator, Judge Knudson told Engberg he was satisfied with his contrite attitude and the fact it was his first offense had been taken into consideration.

Knudson told Engberg that if at any time during the year probationary period he should act in a similar way, he would have to pay the $500 fine and serve 90 days in the workhouse or both. If Engberg's conduct, on the other hand is satisfactory during this time, the fine will be suspended.

Thurgood Marshall Says 'Far from Final Victory' In Fight for Education

New York.—Recent developments in the legal fight to break down segregation in education clearly indicate that a hard and intensified battle still lies ahead, Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said this week.

"Even on the law school level, we are far from final victory," Mr. Marshall said in commenting on the persistence of the State of Louisiana in appealing a federal court decision ordering the admission of Roy S. Wilson and other qualified Negro applicants to the Louisiana State University, and on the refusal of a lower court to order admission of Negro students to the University of North Carolina Law School.

Louisiana Fighting

Louisiana is fighting to exclude Negroes from the University despite the fact that Roy S. Wilson is already attending law classes in accordance with the federal court ruling.

A stay of execution of the Court's judgment, pending the appeal, was requested by the State and the University and denied by United States Circuit Judge Wayne G. Borah and United States District Judges Herbert W. Christenberry and J. Skelly Wright, who rendered the decision on October 30.

"When the Supreme Court decided the Sweatt and McLaurin cases last June, too many people grew complacent, accepting those decisions in and of themselves as the imminent end of all segregation and discrimination in public education," Mr. Marshall declared. Louisiana attorneys have already filed notice of their appeal, which is expected to be filed in the United States Supreme Court next week. The NAACP will have to answer this appeal with briefs and possible argument in the Supreme Court.

The NAACP has also filed notice of appeal of the lower court decision refusing to order the University of North Carolina to admit qualified Negro applicants to its law school. The necessity for this action, plus the Louisiana appeal, were noted by Mr. Marshall as demonstration of the fact that the NAACP will have to continue to muster all possible resources to hammer at the remaining walls of segregation in education.

Sweet Sixteeners

Candy making is fun, say these girls from a Manhattan Junior Achievement group which meets every Monday night. Left: Carmen Diaz of New York City stirs coconut into melted chocolate.

High school girls (and boys too) learn how to make many kinds of products for sale at Junior Achievement—and come out with a profit. This group of girls is learning how easy it is to make all sorts of delicious candies and cookies.

Here you see their group leader, a trained Home Economist, demonstrating to the girls some interesting cookery short-cuts—such as using a special candy-making chocolate for quickly made, professional-looking candies. Chocolate Coconut Patties, one of the easiest of these, are made as follows:

Simply take a package of Dot Chocolate and heat over boiling water until partly melted; then remove from boiling water and stir rapidly until entirely melted. Add 1 1/4 cups shredded coconut and stir until blended. Drop from teaspoon on waxed paper. Cool until firm. Makes 2 dozen.

1/2 to 3/4 cup shortening; 1/2 cup granulated sugar; 1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed; 1 egg, well beaten; 1 cup sifted flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 teaspoon soda; 1 package semi-sweet chocolate chips; 1/2 cup chopped nut meats; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening; add sugars gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Sift flour once, measure, add salt and soda, and sift again. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 50 delicious tasty cookies.

Smoke Control Ordinances Being Adopted by Cities

Cities are broadening and tightening up smoke control programs in an all-out effort to lift low-hanging smog clouds. The American municipal association reports.

More than 200 municipalities in the U.S. have adopted smoke control ordinances. In general, these ordinances prohibit emission of dense smoke of more than a few minutes duration. Notable exceptions are St. Louis and Pittsburgh, where anti-air pollution laws prohibit the use of smoke-producing fuels or require the use of a type of burner that will consume high volatile coals without producing smoke.

A new set of rules drafted to enforce New York city's smoke abatement ordinance extends controls to cover smoke emission, kind of fuels sold and installation of new heating equipment. This is the third attempt by the city's board of smoke control to draw up effective regulations.

Under the revised regulations, greater control will be exercised over fuel to regulate the sulphur content of smoke, reducing its damaging power. The New York board proposes to determine the volatile content of all fuel used in the city and see that it does not contain more than two per cent of sulphur by weight.

Possible damage from air pollution is forcibly pointed up by the experience of Donora, Pa. In addition to the 20 deaths that resulted from the smog of 1948, the real market value of Donora property dropped more than nine per cent in 1949. At the end of 1948—the smog occurred in October 1948—the total actual value of real estate in the city was $34 million. A year later the market value of total property had dropped to $30.8 million although property throughout the state, generally, showed an increased market value.

Grain Belt States Reduce U. S. Farm Mortgage Debt

A handful of states, mostly in the grain belt, are primarily responsible for the fact that total U.S. farm mortgage debt currently is over a billion dollars lower than it was a decade ago, according to figures compiled by the U.S. department of agriculture.

As a matter of fact, according to these figures, 25 of the 48 states had a greater farm mortgage debt outstanding at the beginning of the year than a decade before. Some of the increases were substantial, with Florida's mortgage debt up 30 per cent.

FOR Flock Replacements Purchase of "started" chicks or adult males for breeding flocks is discouraged by veterinarians on the grounds that older birds are more likely to introduce disease than carefully purchased day-old chicks. The recommended procedure is to buy day-old chicks from a reliable hatchery that is known to be free of pullorum disease and other infections. The farmer can then raise his own males for the breeding flock instead of gambling on a questionable source. Use of day-old chicks also is recommended for replacing the laying flock.

Cut Winter Drafts with Venetian Blinds

A properly dressed window will contribute to the winter coziness of your home, keep it warmer and reduce expenditures for fuel by blocking drafts from the outside and loss of heat from the inside.

The ideal window dress pictured here is a snug-fitting Venetian blind with full-hung draperies of light-weight wool. A simple valance adds a decorative touch and prevents drafts and heat loss at the top of the window.

Tests by the Armour Research Foundation of Chicago show that the blinds can save enough in fuel costs to pay for themselves during their long term of usefulness. An air space is formed between closed slats of the blind and window glass that prevents drafts from entering the room and interior heat from escaping.

Wives as Beneficiaries

A new statistic showing family solidarity in America comes from an insurance association. According to a survey of buyers just reported by the association, 93 out of 100 married men purchasing ordinary life insurance policies name the wife as beneficiary. The remaining seven per cent name parents, children, other relatives, estate, business associate or others as beneficiary. Almost half of all men name a secondary beneficiary when buying a new policy — a specific beneficiary to whom payment will be made if the primary beneficiary dies before the insured.

She Shall Have Finishes

In centuries past, queens, princesses and their attendants owned a share of their luxury to finishes which were made by secret formulas — often of raw materials brought from far places by seafaring men. To-day, the boxes of

Develop Immunity to DDT

War-developed DDT, hailed in the press a few years ago as the answer to all problems stemming from noxious insects, is losing its effectiveness against some important pests, the wildlife management institute reports. Strains of houseflies and mosquitoes which are resistant to the insecticide have been reported from many parts of the world.

Check of most home medicine cabinets will reveal a stock of pills, prescriptions and remedies that often have had forgotten what they were supposed to cure, she explains. Happened in Egypt

Egyptians appear to be slow in learning that it makes a lot of difference whether an animal gets in medicine through the nose or down the throat. The British veterinary journal reports that a donkey "paid through the nose" for its owner's mismanagement in giving a drench for colic. Like many Egyptians do the owner poured the medicine through the donkey's nostrils causing mechanical pneumonia. The frantic owner put in an emergency call to his veterinarian just as the animal was taking its last gasp.

Jefferson as Inventor Thomas Jefferson rates an honored place in the gallery of "Inventions That Serve You." His greatness as a statesman overshadowed his distinction as an inventor. Invention of the swivel chair was one of his earliest achievements. His carriage "mileage computer" antedates the modern speedometer. A score of gadget inventions, including a combination table and chaise longue, may be seen in his Monticello home today.

Right now, one whole block has been cleared of everything but tree stumps, and they will go soon, to make way for the East High School Athletic field, the Independent School District's sign informs.

Mainly colored residents in this block, many moved their structures, to other sections nearby and are trying to get them replanted on firm foundations, reinforced and sealed up before the cold winter sets in.

It is a take-what-the-school-district-will-pay-for your home or lose, many of the property owners have revealed—and in this day of high cost of homes, there is little that can be done.

In talking with many of the property owners, they have been disgusted and discouraged with many of the real estate companies who "just have nothing for Negro families."

That is one of the dirty and stingy deals of the whole situation for the Negro families who have had to and still have to move. Nobody of the school district has any suggestion for communities that these families might move into—and nobody is bothered about where they move just as long as they get out, take what is offered for their homes, and if the families want to stay till spring pay the school district rent.

I happened to stop at the home of the William Fields last Saturday morning, and was there when the real estate agent for the school district, phoned to know when they were settling up, pay rent or leaving. Mrs. Fields reminded that it was just the latter part of August when they got an official word and seemed to them that they should have at "least thirty days" to make their decision.

It is a discouraging picture. She revealed that the company that was moving the houses for the school district would not give any estimates on the cost of moving, until the company found out how much money the homeowner was to get for his home.

IOWA MUST NOT VIOLATE ITS PLEDGE

When Iowa University scheduled a football game with Miami University in Florida, the Bystander was fearful that the affair would work out just as it has. Recently, it learned that the white members of the squad are to be housed in a hotel while the Negro members had been assigned to private homes.

This is a disgraceful arrangement, an insult to the Negro players and takes an unfair advantage of the players. The Negro parents of these and other boys and all liberty loving Americans who believe in fair play along the whole front in accordance with our so-called fight against Totalitarian government, feel likewise.

Last summer, a V F W baseball team from Pueblo, Colo. went to Fort Madison, Iowa to play in a tournament. When they reached the hotel to register, the management refused to accept the Negro player. The whole team left in a body insisting that they played together and should stay together. They found quarters in a hospital where all stayed without discrimination.

We are sure that many people have noted the decisions of the United States Supreme Court in recent months striking down the old rule which barred Negroes from state universities of the southern states. Prior to these rulings, the students of some of the southern universities voted that they favored the admission of Negroes to the state universities and even though Miami University, if our memory serves us correctly, is a private institution, we don't believe the youngsters there feel any different.

As long as a team is traveling in Pullman cars, in all decency, the boys should be quartered in those cars during their stay in Miami and thus refuse to compromise on the principle which we know to be right.

Archie Alexander, who played football in Iowa several years ago, ran into these same embarrassments and the University promised that it would not do things in the future which would embarrass members of its football squad. The present officials should respect that pledge.

There is absolutely no excuse for the great state university of Iowa to discriminate against Negroes. It is telling Russia what a great country we are, men in high places should not agree to deny a citizen all the rights and privileges to which he is entitled under the law of the land.

We know that racial segregation is a law in Florida. The officials who scheduled the game knew the Negro players were on the team and that it would be necessary to take a stand in this very matter. They should have acted without discrimination.

Kagawa, the famous Japanese religious leader, refused to speak at Chapel Hill, N. C. last week because Negroes were to be segregated at the meeting. The program was moved to a Methodist church. And while the Bystander is fully aware and appreciates that Iowa university has done a good job in the matter of fair play for all races among other things by naming Homer Harris as captain of the football squad and more recently Harold Bradley as co-captain of the team last week. But this business of compromising and appeasing must go.

Some may argue that these homes are nice. We don't doubt it in the least, but the principle remains the same. Segregation is undemocratic and unfair and places a stigma upon those who are objects of the unholy practice. As citizens of Iowa who believe in America, as citizens who have gone to war for America, we would be derelict of duty if we neglected to make a vigorous protest to the action taken by the athletic department of Iowa University and suggest that they make a change in the arrangement for housing our football players at Miami so as not to subject the Hawkeye state to the justifiable criticism that it has entered into a mutual agreement to segregate and embarrass a portion of those who have been sent out as representatives of the institution. must be the Open House.

The airplane, the radio, films and the free press, including our own organization publications, are modern instruments for building a peoples' front against aggression and for world development. Let's use them with all the energy and imagination we can muster. Our reply to censorship should not be the mere absence of obstructions to the free flow of ideas, but the positive stimulation of every form of communication. "Our answer to the Iron Curtain

People from all over our country and from foreign countries write me letters. In one way or another they say, "Mrs. Sampson, speak for us. We want a just peace." And I find that delegates from the other 59 countries get the same sort of letters.

SPORTS

By Allen Ashby This was a real week end for Iowa's three top football teams. Harold Bradley becomes the top lineman for Iowa University against Minnesota, who fell to the Hawkeyes 13-0. Bernard Bennett scored one marker for Iowa.

Here at Drake we watched what was strictly one man football show Johnny Bright must read our column, because as soon as we remarked that he ought to make 400 yards against Bradley, the guy goes out and makes 433, or within 17 yards of the all-time record set by Georgia's big Frankie Sinkwich.

A lot of people holler about the caliber of Bright's opposition. Well, now, most records of that sort are fattened off guys named Joe. There are few marks made against strictly high class competition all the way. We guess that Sinkwich made his mark against teams like Podunk Normal and Whoozie Tech, along with a few good games against the better guys.

Anyone who has seen Bright will agree that he is one of the nation's top offensive backs. The guy is improving with each game. Saturday he knocked a Bradley player rubber-legged with a straight arm. He knocked Ames Saturday to see Bright against Iowa State.

High School Noel Harris and Ed Turner along with Ed Lucas were the top-notchers dance and announced that he would in the game with Roosevelt Saturday as East spanked the Riders 30-0. Couldn't hear a sound from the North side.

Boxing Lee Savold came to town last week and entertained a few suckers, we mean customers, with a ballet stop Charles on ten rounds.

Buck Scott doped it out that Lee meant Charles would knock him out in ten rounds and then with Savold on the floor Charles would have to stop fighting. So Lee would have stopped the Champ in ten rounds. You take it from there, Buck.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Housewives and Tuberculosis

The tuberculosis patient who receives his medical discharge from the sanatorium and then carefully follows the advice of his doctor can live a useful and satisfying life when he returns home. But mental and physical strain, which are bad for everyone, are special hazards to the ex-tuberculosis patient and might cause a "breakdown," necessitating a return to the sanatorium.

Of all groups, the most frequent breaks occur among housewives, according to the experience of many doctors and tuberculosis hospital officials.

Housework can be a fatiguing, time-consuming, and exacting occupation. But when women take advantage of modern conveniences and plan their household chores carefully, they find that they can save much time and energy.

The housewife who has had tuberculosis should realize, in planning her work, that it must involve as little strain and as few steps as possible so there will be no danger of a recurrence of the disease.

Since many housewives spend a great deal of time in the kitchen, the woman who has had tuberculosis should put the most efficient methods possible into practice there. Steps and energy can be saved, for example, when kitchen units, such as the stove, the sink, and the table, are near each other. All kitchen utensils—pots, dishes, knives, works—should be placed within easy reach from the place where most of the preparation of food is done to eliminate unnecessary walking about, reaching, and stretching.

Chores like ironing, cleaning vegetables, and preparing food are easier when the housewife sits instead of stands. Even such things as sweeping and mopping can be done without too much strain.

In some communities there are people attached to the home extension division, Department of Agriculture, who are specially trained to teach and help housewives make their jobs as "homemakers" as pleasant and as easy as possible. A number of sanatoriums offer home-making courses as part of their rehabilitation program to help prepare the housewife for her return home. These specialists are glad to show the former patient the best ways of saving time, steps, and energy.

Furthermore, the family can help make life easier for the housewife returning from the sanatorium. Husband and children can relieve her of some household chores and encourage her to "sleep late," rest every afternoon and, at the same time, see that she gets the relaxation and fun which every woman needs.

High School Driver Award, Program to Cut Auto Toll

That the nation is taking positive action to reduce the toll of street and highway accidents was highlighted when it was announced that 20 states were to receive awards for noteworthy progress in developing driver education courses in their secondary schools under the 1950 high school driver award program.

Awards were based on detailed reports submitted by representatives appointed by the governor of every state. A board of leading educators and safety specialists, meeting in New York, cited the following states for outstanding achievements in advancing safe driver education in their high schools: Arizona, California, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Delaware, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Georgia.

Official reports of the 48 states which participated in the award program show that 6,995 high schools throughout the nation offered safe driver training courses in 1949-1950 school year. This was an increase of 23 per cent over

Iowan Enjoys Paper; Misses 'Post Exchange'

"Dear folks: I have enjoyed the Bystander since subscribing, last spring, like the lady who told Miss Ross she wanted to 'see what a Negro newspaper was like!' Really, what self-restraint you must exercise to listen calmly to that sort of stuff! Why in the world would a 'Negro' paper be different? The more I mull that over, the harder I boil—and I'm a white woman.

"However, being a white woman, I also appreciate Miss Ross's correspondent's naive sincerity; her absolute unawareness of the insult in her implication. Honestly! What a way we have to go to eradicate this disease of mind that has such a large percent of our population believing that the color of a man's skin is anything but an accidental, superficial thing!

"I have enjoyed your 'Post Exchange,' and miss it when omitted." Sincerely—Mrs. W. H. (Rosabelle) Heifner, Panora, Ia.

FOOL THAT I AM

I'm sorry, but your counsel, common sense,

I must ignore. You tell me that I cannot ever have What I plead for! The situation I concoct in dreams Are far too sweet To let you stop me, common sense! Retreat!

Ah, I must dream, and waking do my weeping; And weeping know that what you say is true. But common sense, somehow I simply cannot Be bossed by you!

was being pushed, too, in New York, N. Y., which has a large population of Puerto Rican natives, and in Puerto Rico itself, where the violently anti-United States Nationalist party this week attempted a revolt.

Denies Being a Red

Authorities gave this account of what Collazo told them:

He denied that he was a communist and declared he met Tor-resola two weeks ago in the Puerto Rican colony in New York City.

Collazo said both were members of the Nationalist party of Puerto Rico and that they agreed something should be done to gain their country's independence from the United States.

Puerto Rico

Puerto Rico is an island 100 miles long and 35 miles wide with a population of 2,180,314 (1949 estimate) and with a population density of more than 600 persons per square mile, higher than in any state, except Rhode Island, in the Continental United States.

The economy of the Island is primarily agricultural with industrial development in its initial stages, a recent federal agency report revealed. Only about one-half of the land is cultivated. Except for manpower, the island has very limited natural resources.

More Iowa Jobs

Cousin Ed took a new job last week... making tires in one of the new plants eastern industry is putting up here in Iowa.

"I might as well keep more of that eastern money out here," Ed said.

When you think a minute, it's amazing the number of eastern plants that are locating in Iowa, making everything from tires to fishing tackle.

Time was when easterners didn't think much of our industrial ability. But Iowa workmen have proven just as efficient as those back east, sometimes more so.

I say it's just another proof that set ideas and prejudices have a way of being wrong, once you test them out. No one's ideas are the only RIGHT ideas.

Ed likes to garden; I don't. Ed likes ice tea, while I enjoy a temperate glass of beer. We're both happier neighbors because we have respect for the other fellow's good sense... and we realize that his abilities, tastes, and opinions are just as valid as ours.
