Atty. Charles P. Howard, Prominent Defense Lawyer, Surrenders His License

Attorney Charles P. Howard, faced with disbarment proceedings, Friday voluntarily surrendered his license to practice law.

The widely-known defense attorney's certificate was given to the clerk of the state supreme court by Attorney James B. Morris, acting for Howard.

Surrender of the license came just three days before district judges from outside Polk county were to hear disbarment charges filed against Howard by the Polk County Bar association. The disbarment hearing was set for Monday.

Ends Action

Howard's action ended any further proceedings against him. The attorney's right to practice law in Iowa ceased immediately upon surrender of the license.

In surrendering the certificate, Howard asked "liberty to make application for re-instatement at some future date." It would be up to the supreme court to re-instate him or deny his application.

The attorney had filed an answer to the bar association's charges Thursday in district court flatly denying four charges of "unprofessional conduct."

Financial Dealings

Three of the charges involved Howard's financial dealings with his clients. One accused him of "appropriating" to his own use a client's judgment in a law suit.

Howard, long prominent as a defense attorney here in criminal cases, would not say what his immediate plans are.

"Although the (disbarment) charges are hopelessly unfounded," Howard said, "there are those persons who are critical of my trip to Russia and are determined to destroy everyone in this movement."

Howard was a delegate to the recent Communist-sponsored World Peace congress in Warsaw, Poland.

As a speaker at the Warsaw conference, Howard praised life behind the "Iron Curtain" and was critical of the United States' policies, especially treatment of Negroes here. After the conference, he toured Russia at the invitation of the Soviet government.

"I will wait until this hysteria dies down," he said Friday. "Time will prove my honesty and love of my country."

The attorney, who frequently has battled in the courtroom for civil rights, said he went to the conference only in the interest of peace.

"I am only interested in doing what I can to prevent the devastation that is coming," he added.

Property Lien

Last week the federal government filed a tax lien against Howard's property for more than $6,000 in unpaid income taxes dating back to 1945.

The tax action came within two weeks after officers of the bar association asked Howard's disbarment and revocation of his license.

The association's petition included charges that "acts and conduct" of Howard in "many matters involving financial transactions with his clients" in the last 10 years were "violations of the duty of an attorney toward his client."

Howard denied all the bar association charges.

Howard's certificate to practice law was suspended in 1940 for a year after disbarment proceedings based on similar charges. Later the supreme court reduced the suspension to six months.

Howard, 55, at one time a Des Moines city prosecutor, has offices at 515 Mulberry street, and lives at 1136 Fourth street.

2 Get Terms In Dope Case

Two more men accused of being members of a midwest dope ring were sentenced late Monday after pleading guilty to charges of possession of narcotics.

District Judge Tom K. Murrow sentenced Excenator E. Morrow, 32, of 832 Keosauqua way, to six months in the county jail, Raymond Clyde Monroe, jr., 28, of 1216 Laurel street, was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Earlier in the day, Judge Murrow fined Robert Williams, 25, of 1555 Walker street, and Clarence V. Crook 20, of Chicago, Ill., after they pleaded guilty to similar charges. Crook paid his $200 fine. His attorney, George W. Crank of Chicago, told the court Crook had been in no previous trouble and is in the army reserve awaiting call to active duty.

Williams went to jail for 150 days in lieu of a $500 fine.

Two other men arrested by federal narcotics agents here last September in connection with the ring have been indicted, but disposition of their cases is pending.

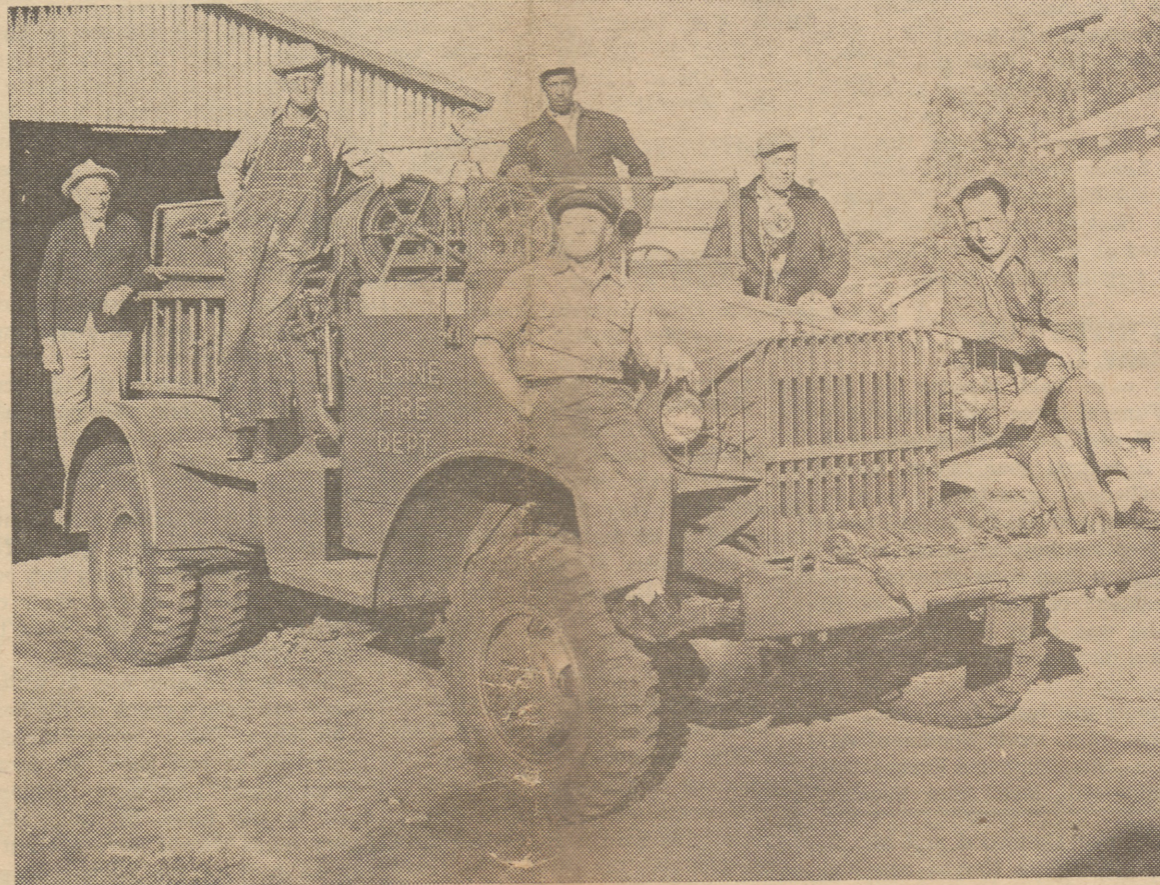

Federal authorities said the six men had been supplying at least 50 marijuana-smokers here with about 1,000 marijuana cigarettes each week. Federal agents made simultaneous raids here and at Omaha, Neb., where eight persons were arrested.

Also among the 24 persons indicted was Mrs. Lovela Wolfkill, 28, of 814 visiting the Korean front where he is reviewing the cases of the servicemen who have been court-martialed. Plans were made to have an Iowa group at this meeting. Mrs. Wilmer Johnson and Mrs. C. H. Copeland of Cedar Rapids are compiling the minutes for the state meeting.

Mr. Ike Smalls returned last Thursday from New York where he attended the national board meeting of the NAACP. He is a national vice president.

Former Iowan Is Assistant Fire Chief in California

Former Iowan, Lee Roper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Roper, at 1420 Buchanan street, has found brotherhood—a year-around event—on the fire department of Alpine, California, where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

He is assistant fire chief of Alpine's efficient department which cooperates closely with the forestry service in giving prompt service to fire calls in the area.

and Harvey Dennis.

Roper is foreman of an Alpine ranch, just 30 miles out of San Diego. He spends much of his spare time drafting plans for the building of homes in the community.

He and his wife, the former Juanita Dawson, have two children.

Indict 4 Men In Series Of Hog Thefts

Four men being held in Polk county jail were indicted last Friday by the county grand jury on larceny charges in connection with a series of hog thefts here.

They are Norman Eugene Norfleet, 18, and his brother, Allen, both of 1719 S.E. Fourteenth court; Percy Lee Porter, 18, of 1600 S. Railroad

Ninth st., on a charge of attempting to commit arson.

She was accused of attempting to set fire last November to three homes. None of the houses was damaged seriously.

The grand jury also ignored charges against the following: Alfonzo Townsend, 832 Keosauqua way, assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury.

NAACP Secures Drastic Reductions in Sentences For 21 Soldiers in Korea

New York.—Drastic reductions in the sentences imposed upon 21 Negro servicemen court martialed in Korea have been reported to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People by the U.S. Army's Judge Advocate General's office, before which the convicted men were represented by NAACP attorneys. The 21 were among 39 GIs who had appealed to the NAACP for assistance.

Four men who had each received a 10-year sentence were exonerated. They are Corporal Verlon S. White, and Privates Bernell Gordon, Willie Martin, Jr., and Hardy E. Sanders. The life sentence which had been imposed upon Private J. P. Morgan was reduced to 5 years and suspended. The one-year sentence given Private Mahlon Moore was also suspended.

Life Terms Reduced

Six other GIs had their life sentences reduced to 20 years, another to 15 years, and still another to 10 years. The sentences of two who had each received 25 years were reduced to 15. Four victims who had been sentenced to 20 years imprisonment each had their sentences reduced by 5 years, and another by 10 years.

The 10-year sentence of one convicted private was upheld by the Judge Advocate General's office.

These cases are among those investigated in Japan and Korea by Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, who went to the Far East last month for the purpose of probing the circumstances surrounding the courts martial of Negro officers and enlisted men of the Twenty-Fourth Infantry Regiment who had sought the aid of the NAACP.

Commenting on the reductions in sentences thus far gained, Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, said: "The NAACP will continue to work for the complete exoneration of every man who has been victimized by racial bias or an unfair trial as determined by the investigations of our legal department."

All have been held in lieu of posting bond since their arrests last month. Three others were arrested by sheriff's deputies in the hog thefts. One, a 16-year-old, has been turned over to juvenile authorities.

The other two are free on bond.

Deputies Bert Long and Caleb Spangler said those indicted have admitted stealing hogs from the L. J. feeding lot at S.E. Nineteenth street and the Des Moines river. Peters said about 200 hogs valued at $7,000 were stolen from the lot in the last year.

Ben Taylor, 113, In Hospital

Ben Taylor, 1152 Second place, who was born a slave and claims to be 113 years old, was admitted to Broadlawn's General hospital last Thursday night.

"He came walking in and said he had a pain in his side and his breath was getting short," a hospital attendant said.

Well known in Des Moines for his agility despite his age, Taylor has received considerable publicity. He often has recalled days of slavery and remembers seeing his birthdate, Feb. 3, 1838, written in his master's Bible.

He was placed under observation, believed to be suffering a bladder ailment.

MRS. PERRY ILL

Mrs. Jessie Perry, 754 Eleventh street is seriously ill at Broadlawn's General hospital.

City in Indiana Wins National Human Relations Award by Christians, Jews

New York, N. Y.—The city of South Bend, Ind., was announced last Saturday night as winner of the 1951 Community Human Relations award presented by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The award is given "for outstanding improvement in relations among its religious and racial groups."

Industrial Center

South Bend, widely known as the home of Notre Dame university, was described by Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, national conference president, as a typical American city with the usual categories of racial and religious groups found in an industrial center.

Noting that the KuKlux Klan once flourished in Indiana, including South Bend, Dr. Clinchy said the city's citizens deserve praise "for giving the nation an example to follow" in fighting discrimination.

"There is no discrimination or segregation," he reported, "in any public recreation, local churches, schools, public transportation, health, welfare or hospital services."

Better Relations

Dr. Clinchy noted that "news papers and radio stations in the community give wholehearted support to all of the city's efforts to better group relations."

"Protestant ministers, Catholic priests and Jewish rabbis meet every month under leadership of the nation-

Long Island U. Cancels Remaining Basketball Games

Long Island university Tuesday night canceled its remaining basketball games and said it is withdrawing from intercollegiate athletics of all kinds.

Four Long Island cage stars have admitted fixing seven basketball games for $18,500 in bribes.

As a result, a special meeting of the university's trustees decided to return all sports at L. I. U. "to the status of intramural competition."

Two Madison Square garden games were among those canceled. The games were scheduled against Cincinnati Thursday and Valparaiso Mar. 1.

Two other homecourt games were wiped out—against Bloomfield Saturday and Montclair State Mar. 3.

al Conference of Christians and Jews to consider common problems of the community," he added.

No Lasting Peace or Real Progress in World Without Brotherhood, Says Morris

There can be no lasting peace or real progress in the world without brotherhood among men, a Des Moines attorney told a group of Drake university students Monday.

J. B. Morris, jr., speaking on "Brotherhood As I See It," told the students: "Brotherhood is the salvation of the world."

The whole idea behind the United Nations, Morris said, is an international view of brotherhood. And, he contended, "to a certain extent we can apply the idea of brotherhood to Russia."

"I don't mean we have to keep turning the other cheek," he said. "But we might try to be less adamant."

He suggested we should keep trying for peace with Russia—at the conference table.

The idea of brotherhood, Morris explained, is merely "the respect of one man for another."

"You cannot appreciate and fully understand an adversary until you sit down and go over things peacefully with him."

Morris urged the students to make brotherhood "less of a slogan and more of a living thing."

Opportunity

"That doesn't mean you'll give anyone anything. It just means you'll give them more of an opportunity to get."

Morris was the opening speaker in a series of brotherhood talks scheduled by the social science department

Doctors Have Never Seen Case Like 'Deep Freeze' Woman in Chicago Hospital

Chicago.—The case of the "deep freeze" woman continued to amaze physicians at Michael Reese Hospital here last Tuesday when arms of the victim were unwrapped of bandages and found in excellent condition.

Bandages were slated to be removed Wednesday afternoon from her legs to determine whether amputation is necessary.

She is Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, 23, who was found about 8 a.m. February 8, in an alley frozen into a condition "similar to rigor mortis." Her temperature was 64 degrees, lowest in medical history. The weather was nine-below zero.

History was also recorded Sunday afternoon when she amazed physicians at Michael Reese hospital by wiggling her fingers and toes. The doctors expressed hope of saving her limbs.

First in History

There is no case in medical annals of a person surviving at a lower body temperature than 80. Normal body heat is 98.6 degrees.

Mrs. Stevens was found by two policemen who thought she was dead but took her to the Reese hospital to make certain. It is thought that she had lain all night in the alley. She was breathing only three times to the minute, had virtually no pulse and her blood pressure had dropped to a 12 reading.

An opening was made in her throat to aid breathing, while plasma and cortisone, the "Wonder Drug," were administered. Her first words upon regaining consciousness were: "I'm cold." Later she complained of a slight fever.

Normalcy Indicated

The latter came after her temperature soared to 100.8 degrees by Sunday, while her pulse pumped to 100, and blood pressure measured 132/80. All indications of normalcy, according to the doctors.

Dr. Harold Laufman of Northwestern university who has been in charge of the case, still was skeptical about the case, although being encouraged by her rally because as another physician put it: "We've simply never seen a case like this before."

Tuberculosis and Children

Tuberculosis, a disease which kills approximately 40,000 Americans annually, leads the causes of death from disease among young people between 15 and 35, although the median age at which tuberculosis takes lives has been advanced in the last decade from 39 to 46.

But tuberculosis can and does kill at any age, infants and octogenarians as well as young and middle-aged adults. Although tuberculosis is primarily a disease of adults, it killed 1,636 children under 15 in 1948.

Tuberculosis is not inherited. The young child who gets in contracts it from someone who has the disease—usually from an adult with whom he is in close contact.

Johnny Bright Accused In

An 18-year-old girl in district court here accused Johnny Bright, Drake university football star, of kidnapping her.

The girl charged in the petition that Bright is the father of a child she expects to be born in August. She asked that Bright be ordered to pay medical expenses and support the child "until it can support itself."

The action was filed through the Polk county attorney's office by Mrs. L. E. Kemp, 946 Fifteenth street, mother of the girl, Willa Mae Kemp. The girl and Bright started "keeping company" last September and she became pregnant Nov. 25, the petition said. She does not attend Drake.

examination. interest of better health, by POLK County Tuberculosis Association.)

At one time, many young children caught tuberculosis from the bovine or cattle type of germs. It frequently attacked the bones and joints and often crippled its victims for life. This type of tuberculosis was usually transmitted to children who drank raw milk from diseased cows.

To combat the menace of bovine tuberculosis, a nationwide campaign was started in 1917 to eliminate the disease in cattle. Dairy herds were tuberculin tested and cattle showing signs of the disease were slaughtered. County by county, bovine tuberculosis among cattle in the United States was gradually wiped out.

In addition, the pasteurization of milk, which kills all germs, including TB germs, is now a requirement wherever milk is sold.

Mainly as a result of the tuberculin testing of cattle and milk pasteurization programs, bovine tuberculosis has been virtually eradicated in this country.

Since most children who contact tuberculosis these days get it from an older person with whom they come in contact, adults protect their children, as well as themselves, when they keep a check on their health.

There is a reliable way in which a person can keep a check on the health of his lungs. This is by periodic chest X-rays which can show up damage—even slight and early damage—done to the lungs by tuberculosis. Every adult should have a chest X-ray as part of his annual physical

Alabama Woman Feels Good Now; Thanks Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B, B, Niacin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

When a person doesn't feel good, is nervous and run-down, has no appetite and can't sleep, they just don't feel like doing anything. Seems like it takes all the ambition out of them. This is what Mrs. Cora Hurd, 1424 Pineleaf, Montgomery, Alabama, used to say, but now that she is taking HADACOL, she says she has more energy and doesn't feel a bit run-down.

Mrs. Hurd was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B, B, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Hurd's own statement: "I had aches and pains for quite some time. They sure made me feel bad. I didn't feel like doing anything. My appetite wasn't good and I was run-down. I heard about HADACOL over the radio and decided I wanted to try it. That's just what I did—bought a bottle and began taking it. After the second bottle I began to feel better. I have now taken 12 bottles and can truthfully say that HADACOL has certainly helped me. I have a good appetite and no longer feel run-down. I have more energy and my aches and pains have been greatly relieved. HADACOL is certainly wonderful. I just can't praise it enough."

Trial size, $1.25; large economy size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, La.

Mrs. Rosa Welch Makes Plea For Brotherhood in Songs and Talk at Annual Citywide Tea

A plea for goodwill, racial understanding and peace on earth was made in songs sung by Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, Chicago soprano, Monday, at the sixth annual citywide Brotherhood Week tea held at the YWCA.

A member of the Commission on World Order for the Disciples of Christ Brotherhood, Mrs. Welch, who has been called the "Marian Anderson of the Disciples of Christ," sang and then talked to about 400 men and women who attended the tea which was sponsored by the women's division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Accompanied at the piano by Lucian Stark, a Drake university Fine Arts' graduate student, Mrs. Welch opened her numbers with Handel's "Art Thou Troubled," then dedicated to the sponsoring groups, Gounod's "Ave Maria," a Yiddish selection and a spiritual.

In her song, "Not Understood" (Hoglan) the crowd composed of women and men of many races and creeds, listened, enraptured, as she sang—"we gather false impressions and hold them closer as years go by;

"Oh God that men would see a little clearer;
"That men would draw a little nearer."

In the selection, "One World," Mrs. Welch made a plea for "One world—built on a foundation of God and peace."

For an encore she sang, unaccompanied, the Negro spiritual, "Let Us Break Bread Together On Our Knees."

Following her short recital of songs, Mrs. Welch returned to the stage where she was awarded a national citation by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for her "distinguished service to the cause of brotherhood" by Dr. Henry

G. Harmon, president of Drake university.

So impressive was the presentation that the singer stood silent and dried the tears that came to her eyes. Throughout the audience, listeners were doing the same.

"There is no service higher than the cause of brotherhood," Dr. Harmon spoke.

"It takes a whole lot to make me speechless," and this must be a whole lot," Mrs. Welch began.

"This is one of the nicest things that has ever happened to me."

Mrs. Welch recalled when she began singing and as she began to develop herself, she has tried to express through "my singing and living what I believe about the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

"At first, my feelings were easily hurt," she talked, "but I have learned that what other people do to me," because she is a Negro, "they do because they don't know any better."

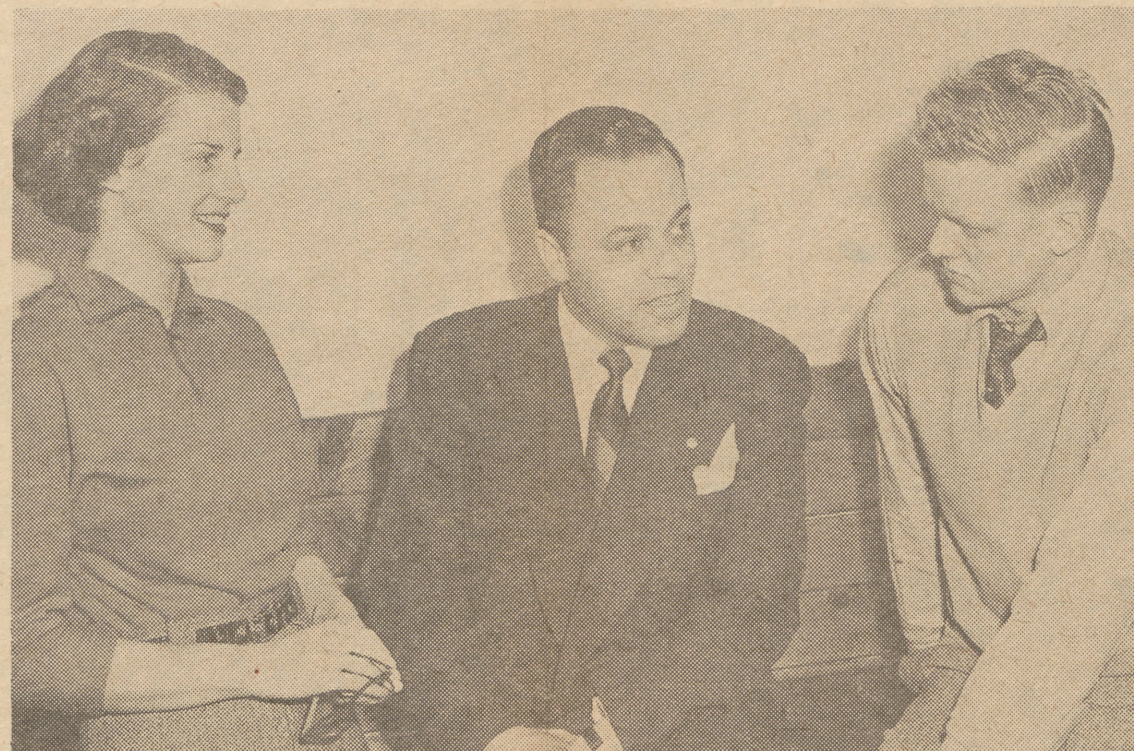

Of the award, Mrs. Welch said "I feel so unworthy". She added that her experiences in race relations have "made me what I am today."

"We are brothers whether we like it or not and the sooner we come to that realization, the sooner we will have brotherhood."

Mrs. W. R. Hindal was program chairman. Greetings were extended by Miss Dorothy Rutherford, executive secretary of the YWCA. The Melodique Music club sang a group of songs.

Mrs. Welch later appeared at a tea at Drake university women's dormitory.

PERSONAL TOUCH

Returning home from a downtown shopping trip, one day last week, Mrs. Mildred Duke, 125 Jefferson, had the misfortune of losing her hand-tooled black leather shoulder bag. She found that it had been turned into the lost and found department of the taxi company in whose car she rode home.

In the bag were many of the items that women carry in pocketbooks, plus a small coin purse and a fat billfold. The coin purse which was zipped in a special compartment of the bag, still held the four dollars when she got back her bag.

The leather billfold which held cards of identification; social security, an American Legion auxiliary card which would entitle her to one free meal at any of the veterans' hospitals in the country, and medical aid and other hospital courtesies, other credentials, and snapshots of her family, came to her in the mail at the end of the week. Only a five-dollar bill was missing. And, was Mrs. Duke thankful!

Had brunch the other day out in the "blue" room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Parker, 127 Ridge. Mrs. Parker was very proud of the new addition to her kitchen, which gives her now, a breakfast nook that looks out on the very busy Second avenue. She has also built on an enclosed front porch which is finished in knotty pine wood.

Now, she is seeking more what-not shelves, figurines, souvenirs, trinkets and a few more vines to give that porch a more personal atmosphere.

Among the attractive windows in which flowers can be seen blooming the year around, or foliage stays hearty and colorful, are the front windows at the home of Mrs. Annie Ware, 1137 School street. Throughout the day and night, passengers riding on the Clark Street bus, which stops in front of Mrs. Ware's door, comment on the beauty of her flowers.

SOME ESCAPE THEIR RESPONSIBILITY

Brotherhood week suggests many topics for discussion tending to make the all-important relationship a year round affair rather than a Sunday, a week or the month of February.

While one person after another has worked hard for a better understanding between races over the years, the job began with much greater force about the last twenty-five years. At that time, the NAACP had been functioning in Des Moines for ten years and the Interracial Commission came on the scene.

The membership of both have always been interracial including a lot of fine business and professional people. The great bulk of the work has been done by social workers, teachers, ministers and lawyers, who by the nature of their work, have been in a position to see the necessity for a better understanding between people and seized upon an opportunity to do something about it.

The large number of people reached by this group got the benefit of the contacts which has made them more amenable to a program which had for its purpose better racial and religious understanding which, when the opportunity presented itself, made the job a little easier.

For some unknown reason the top level business men of Des Moines have been conspicuously absent from all of these movements. Generally speaking they say "we have no race problem in Iowa" which of course is not true at all. Unfortunately they remain so aloof from any association with the problem that they cannot know about it. So that in spite of the fact that a lot of progress has been made, it has been accomplished without much active aid on their part.

This condition does not prevail in a great many places outside of Iowa. Thus the home folks are escaping some of their responsibility to their neighbors. Good racial, good religious relations help make a good town. Certainly business can well afford to help in the job of making Iowa a better place for all of its citizens.

NEGROES HAVE A DEFINITE JOB TO DO

Lester Granger of the Urban League writes an article in the February Crisis "Does the Negro Want Integration?" which every Negro should read.

Very sensibly, he says "... the original question is silly, its chief error lies in trying to lump fifteen million people into one arbitrary classification merely because the skin of most of them happens to be tinged with an overdose of sun."

Too many people attempt to put all Negroes in one class, in the discussions of a problem where an individual basis is the only fair way to proceed. In view of the interest aroused by the creation of a Des Moines FEPC, the Bystander quotes these next few paragraphs because they place a definite responsibility upon those who attain integration. It said:

"An integrated job situation is not automatically produced when the employer hires a number of new Negro workers and assigns them solely on the basis of their skills. Integration is a fact when the Negro worker takes advantage of his job to join his union, participate in its activities as a full-fledged member, takes more training and addresses himself to improvement of his job status, support of his union leaders, and his own elevation to leadership if he possesses the necessary qualifications.

"Social integration is not a matter merely of an open door policy by restaurants, theatres, clubs and the like. It requires a painstaking, re-acculturation process by the young Negro especially. It means learning new speech habits, sometimes shedding rustic mannerisms and methods of address. It means presenting one's new associates.

"If we are perfectly honest with ourselves, we will admit that throughout the country there are literally millions of Negroes who are not only unready for such integration, but are also unwilling to undergo the self-discipline and self-denial that are required as a part of the integration process. We say we want it, but we seek to avoid the steps by which we arrive at the goal of our dreams. 'Everybody talk about heaven ain't going there,' declares the old Negro spiritual, similarly, everybody who talks about integration does not really want it if it requires too much of a sacrifice on his part personally."

With this position any fairminded person must fully agree. And if the Fair Employment Commission is to do a good job, the Negroes, who will benefit chiefly by its success, must as Mr. Granger says, do the things to merit integration.

WHAT ABOUT GROUND AND WATER BURSTS

Bursts on or near the ground usually will leave a limited area of rather heavy and often dangerous pollution near the explosion point. In such cases, the possibility of harm from radioactivity falling out of the clouds is greater than in high-level explosions. But even so, a person could escape contamination by simply taking refuge inside a house or even by getting inside a car and rolling up the windows. And even if some of the wastes fell on him, he would lessen his chances of injury if he promptly shed his clothes and took a bath or shower.

In underwater explosions, large portions of the bomb's radioactivity wastes will be "trapped" by the water and then spread over the immediate area. Under these conditions, serious ground pollution is to be expected.

After a water or underground burst a cloud of very radioactive mist or dust might form and spread, particularly downwind, injuring people who weren't well sheltered.

If the explosion has been underground, at ground level, or in the water, stay in your shelter. If caught in the open, get indoors right away. Then stay indoors for at least an hour or until you get instructions. It may be necessary to stay inside for three or four hours. The reason for this is that most lingering radioactivity loses its power very fast. So staying undercover for a while will greatly reduce the danger.

Any rain or mist that comes right after an atomic explosion should be considered dangerous, even though it may not always be radioactive. Keep from getting wet if you possibly can. And remember that an air burst will leave no lingering radioactivity of importance, so after a few minutes it will be safe to get out and help fight fires or to help people who may need it.

Radioactivity Detected

While we cannot see, hear, feel, smell, or taste radioactivity, its presence readily can be detected with Geiger counters and other instruments. However, you won't have to know how to use one of these. Instead, you can rely on your local radiological defense teams—a small, especially trained corps of "meter readers"—to warn you of the presence of lingering radioactivity. You also can count on them to see to it that firefighters, rescue workers, and other people who may have to enter contaminated places do not remain there long enough to be injured.

But always remember our sunlight comparison. There is usually a whole of a difference between detectable and dangerous amounts of radioactivity. The rays and particles from an ordinary, luminous-dial wrist watch will cause a roar in the earphones of a Geiger counter, as just one example. We must not lose our heads just because radioactivity is reported as present.

Golden Gloves There weren't too many Negroes in KRNT Golden Gloves boxing matches last week, but those who were fighting were nearly all in condition. There won't be over two of the boys in the team if they can make it. Don Lee has a chance as a flyweight. This Lee boy is pretty good. We were so interested in his bout to get to the finals that we forgot to count for a couple of fast knockdowns that each one scored.

If someone were to make Lee spend a lot of time using that left hand he could be a winner in Chicago. As it is, he may bounce around to throw that right hand and stop a quick left that could spill him for keeps.

Burton Bailey got to the finals of the 160 pound class without swinging a glove. We don't know how he will do, but he has a tough job ahead of him. This guy, Bert Baysinger, is nobody's fool. He has been in a ring a time or two before and might get the nod over Burton.

A little guy named Coleber will be in the finals of the novice flyweight class. He had a wild, free-swinging affair in which both guys were knocked down and thrown down, kicked, butted and all but bitten. But young Colbert had the most at the finish.

Roy Lee tried to make it an all-Negro final in the novice flyweights. He and a lanky boy stood toe to toe and slugged it out for the three rounds. Lee stopped one too many high ones and it cost him the scrap.

Phil Jefferson lost in his welterweight match because he wouldn't fight until the last half of the last round. He took on a former college boxer and had he crowded his opponent all the way he did in that last round, would have won from here to Boston. Ray Edwards showed everything to become a great fighter, except a willingness to move in behind his punches. This cost him a decision to a short fat boy and Edwards went away feeling he had been robbed.

One boy said the presence of Negro judges and officials made him feel good. "You don't mind losing a close one because you feel the Negro wouldn't rob you." He said, "so you must have lost fair and square."

Boxing We were sure that new middleweight champ, Ray Robinson, would take the old champ, Jake La Motta. In their previous bouts, Robinson usually weakened in the latter rounds. But, this time it was the other way around. Don't know who can beat Ray, but we feel he better stay away from light heavies.

THE PERFECT PLAN

There is but one perfection, the only perfect plan. Trust His Divine perception, our Christ; the God; the man. He is the Door... the only way,

All other paths are dark. Without Him, you are lost today; you're wearing Satans mark! God gave the way to glory;... thru Christ; the only Son. You've heard, you know the story;

now let His will be done. You keep the faith; be true all ways; and righteous... take your stand. When God has named the day of days; you'll see His perfect plan. —Glenn A. Gallagher

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Iowa's Sand Painters

Up in northeast Iowa they still have some old-timers who make those wonderful "paintings" of colored sand.

With polished "chopsticks" they put different colored sand grains in a glass jar. When finished, you turn the jar slowly and there, through the sides, you see birds, steamboats, flags, fishes...

You can imagine the time and work it takes, but the result is worth it.

You and I probably wouldn't have that much patience. But, then, there are lots of other jobs we wouldn't like, either. Lucky, it's a free country where we have our own choice... whether it be in choosing our work, how we vote, or whether we sit down to dinner with a temperate glass of beer or a hot cup of tea or coffee.

No two tastes are alike. But we're O.K. as long as you and I figure the other fellow has as much right to his preferences as we have to ours.
