Baptists of Nation Go to Oklahoma City This Week

Oklahoma City.—The National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc., opened its annual session in Oklahoma City Sept. 5. More than 5,000 laymen are expected to attend the meeting before it ends Sept. 9.

The Oklahoma City pastors and churches, and the Baptist State Convention, Dr. E. W. Perry, president, are hosts to the convention.

Main session of the convention is in the City auditorium, the Woman's Missionary Convention in Calvary Baptist church and the National Baptist laymen in the Mirror Room of the Municipal auditorium.

Effort will be made at the convention to get each organization to contribute its quota in support of the Bathhouse at Hot Springs, Ark., the American Baptist seminary, Nashville, and the John L. Webb Foundation Scholarship fund.

Dr. George W. Harvey, editor-in-chief, Sunday School Publishing board, Nashville, will deliver three addresses during the Laymen's convention, meeting with the National Baptist Convention, according to Jas. E. Gayle, executive secretary.

The laymen are holding all of their sessions in the Mirror Room of the Municipal auditorium.

Indians More Frequently Scalped Than Scapling Says Indian Association

New York.—Stereotyped notions about the "savage redskin" are beginning to give way to a more realistic appreciation of his achievements in American history, the Association on American Indian Affairs reported last week in supporting a bill introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature by Representative Earl E. Hewitt, Sr. The bill would "repeal all laws providing for the giving of bounties for Indian scalps."

The Association cited the Pennsylvania Legislator for acting on the "truth that Indians were more often scalped against than scapling." The laws in question were proclaimed by Governors Robert H. Morris and John Penn in 1756 and 1764, respectively. Governor Penn's price list for Delaware-tribal scalps was quoted by the association in a statement widely circulated last year.

Scalp Premiums

The association invoked the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., to point out that scalping in its common form and greatest extent was largely the result of the influence of white people, who introduced firearms which increased the fatalities in a conflict; brought the steel knife, facilitating the taking of the scalp; and finally offered scalp premiums.

Oliver LaFarge, president of the association, said that these slanders against Indians impede education and opportunity for "our Indian citizens even now and by debunking the myths, the association aims to strengthen Indian pride and self-re-

The group is beginning its third year of a special educational effort to counteract misconceptions about Indian life and is placing before Hollywood studios and other mass media facts about the Indian "as a human being."

Making Progress

Pointing out that the association's national film committee, composed of top authors and educators, is making progress, Mr. LaFarge said: "We don't know what we can do, though, about those prehistoric horse operas that keep cropping up on television."

He cited two books recently published that balance the tomahawk-throwing by presenting the Indian in a new light—as poet and orator. They are "The Sky Clears," edited by A. Grove Day of Honolulu, and "Cry of the Thunderbird," edited by Charles Hamilton of Los Angeles.

The first-name book includes poems from forty North American tribes and reveals the mental and emotional qualities of Indians never remotely suspected by many Americans; and the second retells the story of the

Kansas Citizens Fight Jim Crow of Flood Victims in Trailer Housing Project

Kansas City, Mo.—Negro citizens of Kansas City, Kas., are mobilizing their forces to prevent and fight against any attempt to segregate Negro flood victims who will be housed in the temporary trailer housing project now being erected on the Old Homestead golf course.

While the five-man board of trustees of which David A. Christ, a banker, is chairman, has not stated publicly what policy will be followed, reports are circulating that a plan is underway to place white, Negro and Mexican occupants in separate sections of the temporary site.

The Rev. Edward A. Freeman, president of the Kansas City, Kas., branch of the NAACP said this week that the branch will vigorously oppose any form of segregation on the site near the Argentine high school.

"The flood did not visit or spare victims on the basis of race, color or creed," the militant minister said. "In re-housing persons made homeless through act of God, no racial lines should be drawn."

The Old Homestead golf course is located on an 85-acre tract on Steele Road in South Argentine.

100 Trailers Here

About 10 trailers already have been placed on the site and others are arriving daily. Workmen are busy installing utility lines so that families to be housed there will have modern conveniences.

The temporary housing project is expected to accommodate 1,000 families.

Chairman Christ, when questioned concerning the occupancy pattern to white man's conquest of a continent through the eyes of Indian writers and orators.

In the latter book Chief Luther Standing Bear, a Sioux, tells how another stereotype started—the one about the "lazy, good-for-nothing Indian." According to Standing Bear, be followed said that so far the board of trustees has set no policy. He said that the matter was discussed in a meeting with A. Maceo Smith of Dallas, racial relations adviser with the Federal Housing Administration, who is in loan of the office of Raymond Foley, in charge of the rehabilitation program.

Christ would not say definitely whether or not Negro and Mexican families would be segregated.

Race Should Not Count

It is the feeling among Negro citizens in Greater Kansas City that families should be placed in the trailer project in accordance with need and size of family without any regard whatsoever to race.

Thomas A. Webster, executive secretary of the Urban League, said this week that he accompanied Maceo Smith to Topeka on Saturday and held a series of conferences with key officials and community leaders regarding the rehabilitation and housing of flood sufferers there.

No Jim Crow in Topeka

There will be no segregation, Webster said, in the temporary trailer project which is being set up in Lakewood park in North Topeka for flood victims. He said that the mayor and

Judge Grund Dismisses Case Against Rev. J. D. Wilkerson; Says 'Wrong Charge' Filed

The case against the Rev. J. D. Wilkerson, pastor of the Union Baptist church, E. Sixteenth street and University avenue, charged with obtaining money under false pretense, was dismissed Thursday morning, August 30.

Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund held that the wrong charge had been filed against the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson. The charge should have been "issuing a false check," Judge Grund said.

The minister was alleged to have issued a worthless check for $15 to the Shell oil station at Eighteenth and Crocker streets on June 11.

The charge was filed by Walter Bruhn, operator of the service station, who testified that on the morning of June 11, the minister came to the station and bought some supplies and gave him a check.

"He said he needed some money to attend a service in Ottumwa," Bruhn stated the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson said. Bruhn said he cashed the check for $15.

"That was on a Friday and I would not be going to the bank until Monday," Bruhn related, revealing that on Monday, when he returned to his station office, he found a note under the door, requesting that he hold the check.

Bruhn said he held the check for ten or more days and in the meantime, the minister was to make another payment on the merchandise he had bought, which amounted to the total of $52.

When the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson failed to make his payment on the merchandise, Bruhn stated that he went to the Iowa National Bank where he was informed that the minister had "no account."

Atty. Henry T. McKnight, who represented the minister, told Bruhn that "all you are trying to do is to collect a civil obligation of $52."

Bruhn answered that "I'm trying to collect my money."

The attorney argued that "this is a civil obligation, not a criminal one."

Bruhn responded: "I don't know what it is. I just want my money."

Attorney McKnight read statutes to the court and the judge dismissed the case.

In the courtroom were a number of the members of the Union Baptist church.

Melrose Scott, of 772 Tenth street, was fined last Thursday by Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund when he pleaded guilty of operating a disorderly place of business.

Say Decision in Favor of Elementary School Would Benefit All in the South

New York.—"There is little logic in the contention that a frontal attack jeopardizes the Negro's fight for better educational opportunities," says The Crisis, official organ of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in an editorial in its fortieth annual education number, August-September, 1951.

"The McLaurin and Sweatt cases did not effect the great masses of Negroes," the editorial states, "but a decision outlawing segregation in public elementary and high schools will be of immeasurable benefit to practically every Negro family in the South. The stakes are high, but the hazards are relatively fewer than they were ten years ago."

Noting that the Supreme Court decisions in the graduate and professional school cases have been confined to the cases involved, The Crisis asserts that "If segregation is to be eradicated in the grade school, we must succeed in winning a U.S. Supreme Court decision involving this specific issue."

The decision to make a frontal attack against segregated education, the magazine explains, was made by the legal staff, the board of directors, the annual conventions, and several NAACP state conferences, "after more than eighteen years spent in examining the Association's anti-segregation program." It also points out that NAACP leaders throughout the South "have requested the legal staff to continue its direct attack on segregation in public education."

Hail United Artists Film, 'The Well' As Important Contribution To Race Relations

New York.—Walter White and Dr. James Egert Allen, respectively heads of the national and New York State organizations of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, have hailed the new United Artists film drama, "The Well," as powerful, exciting and moving screen entertainment which will be an important contribution to improved race relations. It was a well-timed week.

In separate statements, Mr. White and Dr. Allen paid tribute to the producers and distributors of the Clarence Greene-Russell Rouse screen play which has its world premiere at Loew's State Theatre in New York City in late September.

"In my opinion," Mr. White, executive secretary of the NAACP, "it is one of the most moving, most exciting and most important films ever made. The story it tells of the deterioration of human brotherhood and then of its rehabilitation is so spine-tingling I was kept almost constantly on the edge of my seat."

Mr. White urged that "The Well" be seen by as many people as possible to enable them "to gain a new concept of American democracy and of respect for the democratic process."

Dr. Allen, president of the New York State Conference of NAACP branches, declared: "This picture is most dramatic, to say the least. It is realistic and intensely emotional. It is a picture for old and young. The scenes are carefully drawn, the acting is most natural and the cast is well-suited."

"During these days of racial hate and misunderstanding, a film such as 'The Well' can do much to develop better human relations."

The story of a modern town torn "Well" is brought to the screen by a peformance of a little Negro girl, "The apart and reunited over the disappearing cast of leading Negro and white actors, including Richard Rober, Maide Norman, Barry Kelly and Ernest Anderson.

Study of Bacteria Is Held Important to Future Ages

Bacteriological advances in the next fifty years can play as important a role as atomic energy in helping to solve some of the world's most pressing problems, a University of Michigan doctor predicts.

Future developments in the study of bacteria may even discover a method of utilizing the sun's energy, Dr. Walter J. Nungester of the University's Medical School Department of Bacteriology told a meeting of fellow scientists.

Dr. Nungester outlined some of the distinguished findings of past research and admitted that he was doing some "crystal ball gazing" regarding the future.

"Greater knowledge of bacterial activity will lead to methods for increasing the world's food supply," the U-M scientist forecast.

He explained that research by soil microbiologists will help to teach the world how to increase the fertility of the soil and how to get more food from animals.

In the prevention and treatment of disease, Dr. Nungester prophesied that continuing efforts will develop a safe and effective chemical agent for conquering tuberculosis. Research will also reveal the causes and suitable forms of treatment for many present little understood infectious diseases such as the "common cold," he added.

Finish Given Careful Attention

Because of the important part the finish on an automobile plays in its sales appeal, special emphasis is placed on the quality of that finish and on the actual finishing operation. Production finishing is carried out with a high order of efficiency in automobile plants. In one large organization, one tenth of the employees are engaged in the processes. First comes the prefinishing cleaning, when all rust, grease and dirt must be completely removed.

Traffic Fatalities Near Numbers Killed in War

Traffic accidents in the single month of July last year killed only 900 fewer Americans than were killed in the Revolutionary war.

That ironic fact underlines the National Safety Council's recent campaign to reduce accidents, especially on the nation's highways, over the Fourth of July—the day which commemorates that victorious struggle for independence.

The Revolutionary war cost 4,044 patriots who were killed in action or who died of wounds. Traffic accidents in July last year killed 3,150 persons, according to the Council.

Tragic as war is, the Council said, the number of Americans

District Court of Iowa, in and for Polk County, in the Polk County District Court House at Des Moines, Iowa, the Petition of John Junior Abbott and Bettye Francis Abbott, petitioners, asking that Judith Ann Grundmeier be adopted to John Junior Abbott and Bettye Francis Abbott, and that full rights to her care, custody and control be conferred upon them, which petition will be fully heard and considered at 9:00 o'clock A.M., on the 27th day of October, 1951, in and before the District Court of Iowa, in and for Polk County, in the Polk County District Court House at Des Moines, Iowa, at which time and place you may appear and show cause why such adoption should not be granted. It is alleged in said petition that Judith Ann Grundmeier was born to Lloyd Wayne Grundmeier and Bettye Francis Grundmeier on June 28, 1943, that Lloyd Wayne Grundmeier, without justifiable cause abandoned and deserted his said child in August, 1947, and that after said abandonment and desertion the said Lloyd Wayne Grundmeier failed to care for, provide or furnish support for said child and that he has thereby waived and forfeited all rights to said child and is estopped to assert any claim in relation to her or to object to her adoption.

The petitioners fully stated in their petition that if adopted to the petitioner, John Junior Abbott, said child will be raised in the Christian faith; that the petitioner Bettye Francis Abbott is the natural mother of said child and that the home of the petitioners and said child are well suited to each other and that she should be adopted as prayed.

For Further Particulars, see said petition now on file. Walking Prescribed Way To Keep the Ankles Slim

Puffy ankles may not be the main cause of blasted Summer romances, but they certainly are no help when you're trying to look and feel your best on the beach or in that new summer ensemble.

If you ankles and feet have a tendency to swell with the onset of warm weather, there's good news for you in the recent findings of a group of foot specialists.

The doctors advise you to do less standing and more walking. Although this may sound paradoxical they explain that standing on your feet for any length of time causes the foot and leg muscles to contract and impede the normal circulation of your blood.

Walking is the perfect antidote for this condition. Foot muscles and ligaments are alternately contracted and relaxed as you walk—and your hard-working feet are momentarily relieved of weight-bearing after each step. Wearing leather-soled shoes will assure flexible support for the thousands of different positions that your foot assumes during your health and beauty stroll.

To get full benefit from walking, as a matter of fact, your feet must be shod properly, the experts warn. You should wear shoes that really fit the contours of your feet and that are roomy enough to allow full toe action. Heels should be no higher than an inch and a half, and in order to balance foot structure on an even plane make sure that your shoes are equipped with genuine leather soles.

Aside from wearing the proper footwear, the doctors advise that you follow these simple rules, which will not only help to prevent puffy ankles, but also will keep your feet and general body tone up to par: Take regular walking exercises, particularly if your work keeps you standing or sitting in one position all day. When resting at home, elevate your feet and legs so as to relieve the congestion in your lower extremities.

So, if you want to make certain that those slim ankles of which you're so proud will stay slim, hit the road, sister.

Rev. Wheeler Honored At Surprise 85th Birthday Party

The Rev. W. H. Wheeler, 777 Thirteenth street, retired Methodist minister, was guest of honor at a surprise party and program celebrating his eighty-fifth birthday held Saturday evening, Sept. 1, at the Crocker YMCA.

After many out-of-town and local relatives and friends had seated themselves around the reception hall, which was centered with a table that held a birthday cake and candles, the Rev. Mr. Wheeler was escorted into the room. The group began singing "Happy Birthday" and the surprised minister stopped to comment, "well, you've put one over on me."

A relative from Kansas City, Mo., Mr. Leroy Gayden, sang "The Lord's Prayer." (Malotte). The Rev. J. E. Tunstall, pastor of the Burns Methodist church, where the retired father is a member, and former pastor, presided during the evening.

Birthday remarks were made by Mrs. Gertrude Rush, attorney, after which another relative, Cecil Rideout of Burlington, sang a group of spirituals, "Were You There," and "Let Us Break Bread Together."

A. P. Trotter, representing Ike Smalls, made a presentation of a framed photograph of Walter White, national secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and a group of WACs and Mr. Smalls, taken during the World War II. The retired minister has been for years an active member in the NAACP and the YMCA here.

Mr. Gayden sang "Holy City," and the Rev. Mr. Wheeler sang his favorite hymn, "Keep Your Hand on the Throttle," before giving a response of "thanksgiving and appreciation."

Other remarks were made by "old-timers," W. H. Warrick and J. L. Dameron.

U.S. to Have Five Million More Oldsters by 1975

The number of persons 65 and older in the United States will increase from the present 12 1/4 million to between 17 and 20 million by 1975.

Phillip Hauser, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, made this prediction today in addressing Northwestern University's Centennial conference on "Problems of an Aging Population."

Dr. Hauser's talk was filled with significant statistics pertaining to the aging of the population in the United States. Here are some of the facts he reported:

In 1950, the average person in the U.S. was over 30; in 1970 the average was about 16.

In 1850, 4.1 per cent of all people in the U.S. were 60 or older; by 1900, the percentage had increased to 6.4; by 1947 it was 11.5.

Death rates have been declining for at least as long as any records are available. In 1850, expectation of life at birth was 38.3 years for white males in Massachusetts; by 1900 it had increased to 44.3 and by 1940 to 63.3.

For the original registration states in 1900, life expectancy for white males was 43.2. By 1948 life expectancy for white males in the U.S. had increased to 65.5 years.

Between 1850 and the present, expectation of life at birth has increased by about 27 years for white males. For white women, the increase has been 30 years—an increase of about 70 per cent in average longevity.

The most phenomenal declines in mortality have occurred in infant mortality and through conquering of infectious diseases. As a result, expectation of life has not increased uniformly at all ages of the population.

In the first half of this century, while the expectation of life at birth for white males increased by over 17 years, expectation of life for those at age 20 increased by less than seven years, at age 40 by three years, and at age 65 by only one year.

Allergy Strong Factor

Research is disclosing that allergy is a factor in many infectious diseases and in other disease states. This statement is made by Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg, chief of the Division of Allergy at Northwestern University's Medical School, in a new book, Allergy: Facts and Fancies. According to Dr. Feinberg, associate professor of medicine at Northwestern, ten million or more persons in this country suffer from some form of allergic reaction. Of these, there are probably 5 to 7 million hay fever sufferers and 1 to 2 million persons who have asthma. While research is contributing much to the knowledge of allergy, Dr. Feinberg reports that "the greatest immediate benefit to the allergic millions would be the common sense utilization of the present and available methods of diagnosis and treatment." He points out that only about 10 per cent of the allergy sufferers have taken advantage of such therapy.

PHOTOGRAPHER WILLIAM ASHBY AND WIFE TAKE 2,800-MILE VACATION AND TENTH ANNIVERSARY TRIP

Well known Des Moines photographer William Ashby, and his wife, Anna, 1112 Tenth street, returned last week from a 2,800-mile ten-day vacation which they spent in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Michigan and on into Niagara Falls, and Chatham, Ontario, Canada. They spent their tenth wedding anniversary on August 29 in Niagara Falls. Making the trip by motor, they returned from Canada, went to Cleveland, Ohio, where they stopped at Hotel Statler, and attended a ball game, a golf tournament where they saw the former world's heavy-weight champ, Joe Louis. Enroute

ture, she observed some of the park's fish in the pool. In the end picture she was seated on the deck of the Milwaukee Clipper, enroute to Muskegon, Mich. Third Row—(left to right) Mrs. Ashby donned her rain hat and boots for the under falls trip. In Marshfield, Wis., before they went to Niagara Falls, they stopped at what they described as a "beautiful cabin." Mrs. Ashby is seen at the door. A Niagara Falls park bridge over a stream and rock garden caused Mrs. Ashby to take a seat for another picture. Bottom Row—(left to right) the Ashby dog, "Butch," photographed when his owners returned home from their trip. Ashby said he was a German shepherd, "mostly." The only papers he has on him are the dog license receipts. In the next picture, Mrs. Ashby and John Boswell, a Canadian lad, are seen in one of the many tobacco fields at Blenheim, Ontario, Canada. While in Blenheim they visited a "good old AME member," a Mrs. N. Baker who used to come to annual conference here. The Ashbys went cabin boat fishing for two hours and a half during which time Mrs. Ashby, after posing for a few pictures, landed a big fish. What kind of fish it was—Ashby commented, "only a fisherman would know." (All Photos by Bill and Anna Ashby.)

KAY VAUGHN SAYS: HERE'S THE FALL LINEUP FOR YOU

New York City (CNS)—It's the season for stoles, milady, so be prepared. Black velvet, for evening wear with fringes or silk tassels . . . loud plaids for baseball and outdoor games—for college and office wear . . . smart dark wool stoles for suits and wool dresses for cocktails and office wear . . . the stole coat will be fashion-wise for deep winter . . . the fur stoles over suits will naturally regain their prominence when Fall officially begins following Labor Day.

In the chapeau department, the best sellers for the Fall will be hats in deep, lustrous rayon velvet and in petal-shaped glowing velveteen. The shape's the thing. Sophisticated cloches, odd-shaped berets and pretty little things. The Fall colors are more vivid too.

You'll be back to pumps, plain and ornamented. When we say ornamented we mean "dressed up" with rhinestone buckles, bows or some kind of Frances McClain, president, in Chicago, and Mrs. Odessa Calderon, in Boston, Mass.

The next meeting will be Sept 6 with Mrs. Bertha Clark, 1227 E. 16th street. Mrs. Gladys Walker is reporter.

TV Popularity Rising

Television is growing in popularity among teen-age youth at the expense of movies, reading and radio. This is the finding of a Northwestern University professor of education, Dr. Paul Witty, who surveyed the high school students of two Chicago area suburban communities, Oak Park, Ill., and River Forest, Ill. Prof. Witty's study revealed that 44 per cent of the students interviewed now attend movies less frequently than before the advent of television. Fifty per cent attend with the same frequency as before, and only two per cent go to the movies more frequently. The Northwestern educator also found that one-third of the students read less than before TV, although the survey showed the literature to be of relatively high quality fuss. Plain black pumps always fill the bill—with suits or dresses.

Taffeta, rayon faille and rayon moire will be the leading materials for suits and dresses for cocktail affairs and theatre parties this Fall. The more swish—the merrier—in fact you'll want to whirl to the waltz of the skirts. And you'll find them more romantic and Parisian this Fall than ever . . . dotted with rhinestone buttons and scatter pins in the cutest places. Wear them with the black velvet hats — the midnight black suede pumps and your favorite "after dark" stole—and milady, you are dressed to cope with the evening's fun.

Many old friends got together last Sunday at the fourth annual Buxton reunion picnic at Union park.

Happy to see her first school teacher, was one of the white Buxtonians, Mrs. Opal Binge Crowe, who now lives at 1524 Tenth street, in Des Moines. Back in 1917 she was in Buxton, where he father was a miner.

At the reunion Sunday, Mrs. Crowe walked up with her father, Perry Binge, now of Winterset, Ia., and said, "I'm from Buxton. I went to my first school there—and I was so happy to see my first teachers out here today. They were Miss Harris, Miss Lucas and Miss Bates. Oakley Reeves was my seat-mate," Mrs. Crowe talked.

Later in some of the groups of guests I ran into Mrs. Grace Harris Potter of Waterloo, who was a former Buxton school teacher. She pointed out other former teachers attending the picnic—Mrs. Lola Hart Reeves, Mrs. Beatrice Terrill Crank.

Since the days of Buxton, Mrs. Potter said she had taught school in Atlantic City, Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita, Kas. Now she is the wife of R. G. Potter of Waterloo. Miss Gertrude Lucas Craig of Omaha and Mrs. A. V. Stalworth and Mrs. Solo Billings of Chicago were the house guests of Mrs. Lola Hart Reeves during the week end for the reunion of the Buxtonites.

All of these were among the last of the public school teachers at old Buxton, the former largest mining town in Iowa.

Talking to Mr. John Drew of 955 16th street was Mr. Harry Henderson of Chicago, Ill., who informed that he lived not far from Buxton, but in Muchikonich, where Mr. Drew used to "carry me to school." Mr. Henderson is a Chicago building contractor.

Mrs. Bertha Redmond of Quincy, Ill., guest of her sister, Mrs. Clarence Strother, 1018 12th street, and family. Back in Buxton, Mrs. Redmond was employed in the post office. She's "just a housewife" in Quincy.

Mr. Thomas Scaever of Chicago, Ill., who was with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Scaever, revealed that during the days of Buxton he baked at the company store. After leaving the mining town, the father said he had been employed in Chicago as a baker for one of the notorious gangsters. Now the baker is retired.

Miss Vera Underwood and T. V. Spencer Say Vows Here

Miss Vera C. Underwood, niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. McCowan, 1156 17th street, became the bride of Mr. Thomas V. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer of Marshalltown, Saturday night, Sept. 1. The Rev. Luther H. Smith officiated.

The vows were exchanged by the couple who stood before an improvised altar, decorated with candelabra, in the living room of the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William Hunter, and Mr. Hunter, at 1004 Tenth street.

For her wedding Mrs. Spencer wore an ankle length gown of green organza which featured a green satin design. Her green net veil was attached to a band of plaited satin. A corsage of yellow roses adorned her shoulder.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Hunter, was honor matron, wearing an orchid colored gown that was fashioned like Mrs. Spencer's. Mrs. Hunter wore a corsage of pale pink roses.

Hostesses at the reception that followed were: Mesdames Redmond Kelso and Marsh Houston and the Misses Vega Johnson, Jane Moss and Frieda DeSleet.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fulghum of Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer of Marshalltown.

The couple left Sunday for Racine, Wis., where they will live. Mr. Spencer is employed at the Nash Motor company's plant. Their address is 1748 Racine street.

The Scaevers are relatives of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce, 1019 12th street.

Getting along fine with a platter of brown chicken in front of his plate was Dr. L. R. Willis who was in the party of picnicers at the table of Mrs. Gertrude Massey and her family. Out-of-towners were her son, Toussaint Massey and his son, and Mrs. Nadine Massey of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins of Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Gertrude Massey whispered that she had along with the chicken, the usual "cornbread and greens" which she promised to save me—but it took so long to make my rounds to all of the tables, in search of out-of-towners, that I lost out on the Massey greens. I have her telephone number and address, too.

Ran into Mrs. James Smith of Oralabor, at one of the picnic tables with a majority of her family of 16 children.

"Do you have any guests?" the mother was asked. She stopped her eating to reply, "are you kidding?" She informed that her husband, who did not come to the park with them, would miss the picnic, because he went to the wrong park, Good park, and would get tired of waiting and go home.

Everyone was so generous with food—and if I had been able to have carried around an invisible deep-freeze, as I moved from table to table, I could have stored up enough fried chicken, green beans, salads, pies and cakes, to last until time for the next picnic in 1952.

By the time I got around the end of the fourth long table, and had talked with about 400 or more persons, I paused, for a rest, at the table of Mrs. Ransom Cogswell, who with Mrs. Effie Brown and their guests, the Orris Todds and the John Wares of Cedar Rapids, the A. L. Piggees and Mr. James Malone, were wrapping up the leavings of their dinner.

"Where have you been?" Mrs. Cogswell queried as she began covering up what was left of the lemon chiffon pie. She reminded that "you were late getting around to our table last year." Then she began going into some of the closed boxes and bringing out some of the golden brown stuff—chicken, and candied yams. Mrs. Brown was packing away some homemade rolls but she paused. Mrs. Ware was covering up a chocolate layer cake.

Mrs. Cogswell insisted that I try her blue-berry pie. She makes it every year. And, added to the lemon cream pie and the chocolate cake—they made a delicious trio of des-

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Ransom of Topeka, Kas., were guests here recently of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bell, 846 15th street. Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Ransom are cousins.

Sitting at one of the tables and surrounded with platters of chicken, barbecue, cakes, pies and other picnic delicacies, was a friend who called herself, "Old Widow Skipper" of 504 S. E. Third street. She said she would "just love to have someone to cook all of these fine foods for."

Brown Bread 'n' Beans

Saturday night in Boston means a homespun dinner of dark, flavorful Brown Bread and steaming pork and beans. It's a good idea to adopt from coast to coast!

There are a lot of good reasons for liking Saturday. One of the best is a Saturday night supper of old-fashioned Brown Bread and baked beans.

Molasses is the sweetening for dark, rich-tasting Brown Bread made with enriched flour. Therein lies a nutrition story, for both enriched flour and molasses carry a generous quota of food iron. Enriched flour also contributes protein and three B-vitamins. A thrift story is there, too, for enriched breads are our most economical source of these important nutrients.

Recipes for Boston Brown Bread haven't changed much over the past hundred years. However, great grandmother always steamed her Brown Bread for hours. Today's homemaker sets her tightly covered cans of Brown Bread on a rack in a kettle of boiling water, steams it for 90 minutes and calls it done.

One can always buy Brown Bread from the baker or grocer. Sometimes chopped nuts and chopped raisins or dates are added in the making, as in this recipe, to obtain a richer bread. This richer Brown Bread is delicious with fruit salad plates, or spread with butter and honey for tea.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 cup corn meal
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt

Sift together flour, corn meal, soda and salt. Add fruit and nuts. Add molasses and milk and mix well. Fill greased pound size

1/2 cup chopped dates or raisins
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup molasses
2 cups sour milk

molds or baking powder cans 2/3 full. Cover tightly and steam 1 1/2 hours. Makes 2 1-pound loaves.

MINNESOTANS SPEND LABOR DAY HERE

Misses Gloria and Shirlee Brown, and Kathryn Ann Bailey, residents of Minneapolis, Minn., spent the Labor Day week end here visiting their parents, relatives and friends.

The Misses Brown are daughters of Mrs. William Ashby, 1112 Tenth street; and Miss Bailey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Bailey, 825 Tenth street.

They promised, faithfully, to get back on them the next day. Found one man, a Mr. Scott, who was a diabetic, who stuck religiously to his diet. He was having a good time watching all of the other folk—just eat.

Among the postcards that came in the week end mail, was one signed by Mrs. Lula Harris and the O. L. Carters, who wrote from Casper, Wyo., this message:

"Here at the Oil Capitol of the Rockies; visiting the Lillard Sloans. Sight-seeing in the day; canasta in evenings."

A postcard showing Chicago's Civic opera building, came this week from Miss Sadie B. Jones who wrote: "I am on my vacation. I also went to Pittsburgh, Pa., and spent several days and returned to Chicago. I will be home by Tuesday."

WHY NOT DO MORE THAN TALK ABOUT JOHN RICE?

It happens quite often that a bad situation exists, but until it is dramatized very little is done to correct the evil. And the disgraceful exclusion of John Rice, an Indian World War II veteran from burial in a cemetery in Sioux City, Iowa, sheds the light upon one type of racial discrimination, which while not confined to that town alone, has brought disgrace upon Iowa. It has made a lot of people outside of Iowa realize that we are not the liberal state they thought we were.

Of course Sioux City is one among many communities where such practices exist against all minority groups.

These incidents, like the crime investigation by the US Senate which produced a lot of surprises among the thoughtless, cause some to hold up their hands in horror and wonder how such things could happen. Just as the average fellow on the street knew about organized crime before the Senate investigation—the papers are full of it daily—so does the average fellow with a lick of information know that racial discrimination thrives all around him—even under his feet.

The burial incident drew a lot of criticism from people on the streets, in gatherings and in the newspapers. They are all fine. But as yet none of these criticisms contained one suggestion of how to prevent recurrences of racial discrimination which would, in a way, make amends for the already unsavory publicity Iowa has received.

Iowa has a civil rights law, making it a crime to discriminate against people on the basis of race, creed or color and yet in practically any town except these in the northern tier counties in the state it is almost impossible for a Negro to buy a decent meal or get hotel accommodations. Yet, law enforcement officials do nothing about it and if a charge is filed against offenders in court a conviction is almost impossible to secure.

Hundreds of Negroes, passing through Iowa each year, are surprised to find these conditions; many local citizens including traveling representatives of the state and Veterans Administration experience those rebuffs almost daily.

Negroes in Iowa suffer a terrible housing problem. In a eastern river town—a few Negroes live there—they cannot buy or rent a house. Loan companies and banks, even in Des Moines, charge a higher interest on mortgages because their residences are restricted on trickery to certain areas.

A Negro member of an American Legion baseball team is insulted as he went about his job of playing a good game simply because of his race.

A Negro member of an out-of-state V.F.W. baseball team is denied accommodations at a hotel where his teammates stayed simply because of his color.

A Negro prisoner of Ft. Madison, no matter how excellent his record, is denied a chance to live at the prison farms simply because of his color even though this is a reward for good conduct.

Several attempts have been made to secure a statewide movement led by the state which would do something tangible to lessen racial discrimination. Some effort has been made to get county attorneys interested in enforcing civil rights laws—they all take the oath to uphold the law—but without success. Most public officials, like most big business men, say we have no race problem in Iowa and thus the thing drifts on until something like the Indian's burial or the American Legion or V.F.W. baseball tournament, throws a lot of people into fever heat.

The Bystander feels that something tangible should be attempted with a determination that an honest effort shall be made to rid Iowa of the terrible stigma of racial discrimination.

As the first citizen of Iowa The Bystander suggests that the governor should invite a group of three citizens from each congressional district for a conference. The group would be non-partisan and at least one veteran should come from each district giving particular attention to securing state heads of our veterans organizations to serve. This group would meet, organize and return to their homes to study what particular problems prevail in their localities. And in order that they might do a full job, the district members might ask in county representatives for a district organization.

The district members would, after three months study, reassemble when a program of education and cooperation for better racial understanding could be evolved which could be carried out as a function of the state government. As a part of the program, recommendations could be made to the governor and the legislature for such instructions and assistance as might be needed to carry on its program.

The Bystander knows such a program would be welcomed by a lot of communities which have desired some type of organization for better racial understanding but nobody has seen fit to take the initiative.

Such a group would not cure all of our ills, but it would be a live working force in a field where people do a lot of talking but little action.

It would show that when Iowans speak of democracy they mean to include all of its citizens. It would give those people who have been horrified by the disgraceful handling of John Rice's body an opportunity to throw the spotlight of publicity upon undemocratic treatment of American citizens; it would throw the light of publicity upon and emphasize the fact that there is too much disposition to neglect duty by public officials to enforce the law or the good citizen to help maintain decent communities in which to live.

other city officials of Topeka have given assurance that there will be no discrimination in either the temporary or permanent housing projects to be set up.

In Kansas City, Kas., however, on such assurance has been forthcoming. The only answer that has been given by Chairman Ghrist is that "no policy" has yet been set.

Ghrist said that the board of trustees has been devoting its full time to "getting the project ready." It hopes to have the trailer camp ready for occupancy by September.

Other members of the board of trustees which will have control of the temporary project are: Harry G. Miller, the Rev. Leo T. Lutz, Willard Phillips and Leonard Childers, all of Kansas City, Kas. All are white.

Webster said this week that he had received information to the effect that an administrative device will be used to effect segregation in the temporary project. He said that he had learned that applicants for the trailer houses will be asked "if they wish to live next door to Negroes and Mexicans."

Webster has suggested that an advisory committee be appointed to assist the trustees in the screening and selection of occupants for the project and that Negro representation should be included on such a committee.

Webster said that in the management of the project "such positions as clerks, accountants, managers and maintenance personnel will be needed and that qualified Negro persons should be given equal consideration for employment."

Permanent Policy Set

Two weeks ago Joseph H. McDowell, state senator and chairman of the Redevelopment Authority of Kansas City, Kas., said there would be no discrimination in the permanent housing for flood victims.

The temporary housing or trailer city is managed by a board of trustees which is not connected with the redevelopment group. Once the permanent quarters are obtained the temporary organization will be dissolved.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Hay Fever

In many communities throughout the country, people are conducting relentless war on ragweed, trying to stamp out the growth by spraying it with death-dealing chemicals or by cutting down the weeds and burning them.

While ragweed is far from pretty and adds nothing to the natural scenery, efforts to eliminate it are not in the interests of beautifying the countryside, but of promoting the health and comfort of community residents. For ragweed pollen causes "fall hay fever," one of the most widespread of all types of hay fever, usually beginning about mid-August and lasting until the first fall frost.

Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages which results when the victim is sensitive (or allergic) to some particular kind of pollen, dust, or other substance. Its symptoms include tickling, stuffiness, an watery discharge in the nasal passages (which combine to produce the characteristic sneezing) and redness and an itching sensation about the eyes and face.

There are various types of hay fever, most of them caused by pollen from trees, grasses, or weeds, depending on the season of the year. While ragweed is the chief offender in the fall, "spring hay fever" is caused by tree pollen, and "summer hay fever" comes from pollen of grasses and weeds like timothy and redtop.

It would be bad enough if hay fever meant just annoying sneezes and sniffles. But hay fever can also make and high school teams now that you don't know who is who until you see the play. We recall when one Negro on a team was something. A fellow the other day was telling us of his experience as the only Negro on his high school team. The coach, going into his pep talk pointed to his. "Jones, they got a colored boy on their teams. What are you gonna do to him?" Jones was a little older than most high school pupils and a pretty deep thinker. He asked the coach if he was to play against the team or this other Negro. The coach nearly lost his uppers, but Jones stuck to his point, he said, and insisted that he was having no personal vendettas. "And, do you know, I nearly got kicked off the team," he said. Glad those days are gone.

Local Sports

The Hilltop tennis meet staggered to a close. Chet Williamson retained his men's singles crown. He and Everett Newcome won the doubles; Thyra Johnson, the women's singles; and Ted Martin and his daughter, Colleen, the mixed doubles honors. The Hotentots, new state softball champs, are off to St. Joseph, Mo.

SPORTS

By ALLEN ASHBY

The football season comes on with a rush or a bang or whatever it is that football seasons come on with. At Drake there may be more than just Bright in the lineup when the Bulldogs field their first team.

Aside from Robertson, last year's defensive end, there are a couple of promising freshmen who may make the grade.

It will be interesting to see what Bright does this year. Three good seasons should rate him pretty high on anybody's All American list.

If he can make the grade, Iowa State will bring out its first Negro backfield man in its history and the first Negro player since Jack Trice was killed at Minnesota in the middle twenties.

Iowa University has its Negroes: Commach, Bennett and Riley, ready for a tough season. Hope to get to see a few Hawkeye games this year.

High Schools

The local high schools have their quota of Negroes. If Tech has anything at all this year, the Engineers may have a nearly all Negro team. Haven't heard from North or East yet; but they can be depended on to have their share of Negroes.

Negroes are so common on college

SILENT PRAYER

When you are heavy laden weary of your load of care, Step into that restful haven that you have in silent prayer.

Friends forsake, and woes o'er'take you, when there's trouble everywhere. There is one who ne'er forsakes you, talk with Him, . . . in silent prayer. When the worldly lures beguile you, there's temptation everywhere;

If they seek to claim, . . . despoil you, find your strength in silent prayer. Matters not the throng about you, He is with you everywhere. So . . . when evil seeks, besets you, talk with Him, . . . in silent prayer. —Glenn A. Gallagher.

If We Are Not Mature Parents We Cannot Guide Children To Maturity—A Long Process

Being a parent or a grandparent does not mean always that we are grown up and emotionally mature. You have seen gray haired babies, no doubt.

The wife, 40 years old, who fainted when her husband brought home a new Chevrolet instead of the Buick which she wanted certainly was immature.

When a man or woman cannot compromise fairly or accept their financial limitations, or squarely face difficult facts, they are immature.

A little girl, two years old, burst into tears and pounded her largest doll because it would not fit into the small doll chair. "But I want her to sit in this chair," she sobbed. It was hard for her to accept the facts at two years of age.

The little girl behaved pretty much as the woman of 40, but with this difference. The 2 year old was not immature for her age. She had many lessons still to learn, while she showily grows up.

At 3, this little girl wanted to go to the field with her father. He sat down, so he could talk to her on her level. He explained quietly why he could not take her this time. She listened and accepted his decision. In a year's time she had made progress in facing facts. She was more mature now for her age than the fainting wife who could not listen to reason.

A few tantrums in early childhood do not indicate immaturity, for growth toward maturity is a long process. The child needs direction by a mature parent. If we are not mature parents, we cannot guide children to maturity. If an adult, 40 years old, acts like a baby, someone has failed in helping her to grow up. It might have been her parents.
