Klan Gets Hardest Legal Flogging in History; 49 Fined, 15 Get Sentences

New York.—During 1951, night marauders, robbed and hooded, terrorized the residents of Columbus County, N. C. Thirteen citizens—three Negroes, ten whites—were dragged out of their homes and flogged by the Ku Klux Klan (Time, Feb. 25). The revived Klan was determined to run thins in the county and the state the Aug. 11th edition of Time Magazine reported.

The first victim was a 38-year-old Negro woman named Evergreen Flowers. Forty or 50 Klansmen stormed her house one night, chased her husband away, shot up the place with a hundred bullets, gagged the woman with her slip, tied her legs with plow lines and beat her with sticks and gun butts. Just why she was flogged was not clear. Klansmen said vaguely that she had been "running around with white men." Others were flogged for not attending church regularly, cursing near women, drinking too much.

While residents of Columbus County bolted their doors, FBI men and state police went to work. They rounded up more than threescore Klansmen, including "the big one," Thomas Hamilton, who had quit his wholesale grocery business in Leesville, S. C., to become the full-time Imperial Wizard of the Klan in the Carolinas, had boasted that he would reawaken the Klan all over the U. S.

Last week, in Whiteville, the Klan got the hardest legal flogging in its history. Superior Court Judge Clawson Williams sentenced Wizard Hamilton, who had pleaded guilty, to four years in prison for conspiracy to assault. Fifteen of Hamilton's sheet-wearers got sentences averaging three

National Urban League to Hold Annual Conference in Cleveland; 1,000 Expected

New York.—Over 1,000 out-of-town visitors and delegates are expected to meet in Cleveland, Ohio, September 1 to 5, when the National Urban League holds its 1952 Annual Conference at the Hotel Hollenden. It will be the second time that the League has met in Cleveland, the previous Conference having been held in 1924.

Host to the Conference will be the Cleveland Urban League of which William O. Walker, editor and publisher of "The Cleveland Call-Post", is president, and Arnold B. Walker, executive secretary. Edwin L. Worthington, former president of the local affiliate, will be host chairman.

Conference secretary, Guichard Parris, director of NUL's Department of Promotion and Publicity, in releasing the names of guest experts and consultants who will speak on the program, said that discussions will center around the Conference

Get 17,000 White Signers To Save Life of South African Village Leader

New York.—In the bloody 1906 uprising of the conquered Zulus, a 26-year-old Zulu warrior named Mdhiani Ngcobo remained loyal to the whites and was rewarded by being made head man of his village. Mdhiani married, prospered, begat children, grew old, respected and respectable. But one son, Clifford, became a thief and a gangster. Three years ago, son Clifford, all his bravado gone, crept into his father's hut. He whispered that he had murdered a white Durban policeman, and blubbered: "They will hang me."

But the police never tracked down the murdered. Mdhiani kept his son's secret, after first pledging him to mend his evil ways. Soon Clifford was back to his old tricks: armed with three revolvers he terrorized the good people of the villages.

And so Mdhiani went out alone into the veld, stayed there three days and three nights, praying to God for guidance. When he returned on the third night, he went straight to Clifford's hut, took one of Clifford's three pistols and killed his sleeping son. Then he surrendered to the police. In Durban police court, he said: "I shot my son because he killed a white man. Do what you will." Mdhiani was sentenced to hang.

Then, in a land where a Negro's life has little value, a strange event occurred. Led by Anne McTavish, a white Durban city councillor, scores of white women, leaders of their community, went into the city streets and set up little tables with placards reading: "Save this old man from the gallows." In three days they collected 17,000 white signatures pleading with South Africa's Governor General Sir George Jansen to reprieve 72-year-old Head Man Mdhiani.

It was the first time in South Africa's history that so many whites had united to save a colored man. Impressed, Governor General Jansen promised to review the case, the Aug. 11 edition of Time Magazine reported.

Two Young Women Win Honorable Discharges

WASHINGTON—Two former WAC's who had been separated from the Army without the additional honorable discharge have been entitled to such a certificate by the Army Discharge Review Board.

Following review of the applications submitted to the board on behalf of Miss Mary Alice Campbell of Washington and Miss Dorothy M. Bryant by Jesse O. Dedmon, Jr., for the NAACP, the two young women were informed by Col. H. H. Newman that the Secretary of the Army had directed that honorable discharge certificates be issued to them.

Two Men Injured In Hotel Fire

One man was overcome by smoke and a second suffered a severe cut while trying to put out a fire at the street, about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Fire Capt. J. Quinn said the fire began when George Daniels, 29, fell asleep while smoking a cigarette, setting a bed on fire.

Daniels was overcome by smoke. Walter Williams, 36, who lives in an adjoining third-floor room smelled the smoke and ran to Daniels' room. Williams rolled Daniels off the mattress and attempted to shove the burning mattress out a window. The window pane broke, slashing Williams' wrist.

Both men were taken to Broadlawn General hospital. Williams was released after treatment.

COUPLE GETTING AWAY WITH ROBBING STORES

New York.—(CNS)—Holding up women's wear shops along Fifth Avenue is proving good business for one couple, whom victims are describing as a Negro couple with the woman a tall and sinewy one and her companion, a short man of diffident manners. They have successfully robbed several stores in just the past week.

Catch Man Who Killed Cop In Harlem

New York.—(CNS)—Within 24 hours, police had the man who killed a cop, father of three small children, when he sought to break up a street brawl on Harlem's 125th Street. He is 43-year-old Henry Jefferson, a handyman with a police record dating from 1950.

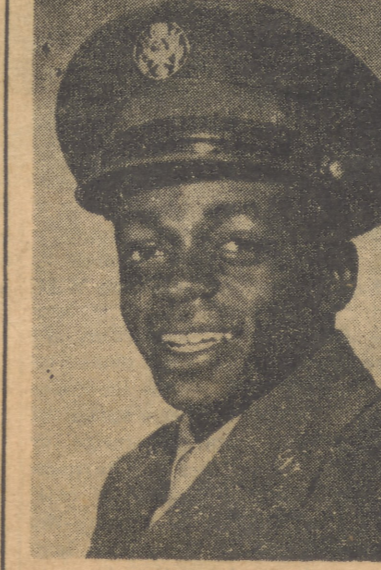

The tragic case came to a swift end, when Jackson was picked up for wounding his girl friend, 25-year-old Sarah Goodman. A routine ballistic examination revealed that it was the same weapon—a spanish type pistol—that killed the patrolman and wounded Miss Goodman.

Said the widow of the cop, Mrs. Margaret McCillion, when Jefferson confessed: "I feel no bitterness toward the man. This man has no conscience and he has left three babies fatherless. There is a God and He will take care of him for what he did to my husband."

Illinois Governor Says He Will Support Move for Anti-Filibeester Measure

New York.—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic nominee for President, will support the move for a change in Congress rules looking to the shutting off of filibusters in the Senate and the permitting of freer flow of legislation in the House.

This was the assurance given Roy Wilkins, administrator of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in an hour-long interview August 7 in the executive mansion in Springfield, Ill. Upon his return to New York, the NAACP official reported upon his interview with the presidential candidate.

Mr. Wilkins, who has requested and secured an appointment for a similar interview with Gen Dwight Eisenhower, Republican nominee, told Gov. Stevenson the NAACP is a non-partisan organization that does not endorse candidates, but is seeking the best possible action on a civil rights program.

Political Football
 "Political commentator and others are trying to present civil rights as a mere political football," he told the Illinois chief executive, "but to millions of Americans it is deadly serious business that affect their lives each and every day."

Gov. Stevenson said he had called the civil rights plank in the Democratic platform "an excellent one" and that he intended to run on it. He said he had previously stated that he was opposed to filibusters that endanger the national welfare and that he would support the platform plank which urges action in the 83rd Congress to prevent a minority from blocking the will of the majority.

On FEPC, Gov. Stevenson repeated his belief that there should be no discrimination in employment and he cited once more his approval of the Humphrey-Ives FEPC bill which came out of committee in the last days of the 82nd Congress. The Humphrey-Ives bill provides for enforcement. The nominee also told Mr. Wilkins of his sponsorship of an FEPC bill with enforcement powers in the state legislature of Illinois. It was passed by the Democratic lower house, but defeated in the Republican-controlled state Senate.

Gov. Stevenson recalled that he had sent troops to quell the Cicero housing riot and that state troopers had been sent to Cairo on the occasion of a bombing in connection with a school case. He said he wanted to "accomplish something" on civil rights and not just "talk about it." He said where one kind of approach might not achieve the end, another might do so, and he firmly intended to "move forward" in the civil rights field.

Oakland Ends Segregation In City Fire Department

Oakland, Calif.—The abolition of segregation in the Oakland Fire Department was hailed as "a long overdue victory" by the Rev. Edward Stovall, president of the Alameda County branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which spearheaded the drive for an integrated department.

The city's firefighters had been separated from other workers in the department for more than 20 years. Two years ago the NAACP branch started a fight for integration of Negroes in the department. This campaign culminated in victory this week.

Iowa-Buxton Club Plans to Welcome 3,000 at Annual Reunion Celebration Aug. 31

Delegations from at least 17 states, and an attendance of 3,000 persons are expected here next week end when the Iowa-Buxton club holds its fifth annual reunion of the descendants of the old mining community, which existed from the '80's through the '90's in Mahaska county.

Saturday night, August 30, visitors will be welcomed at a social homecoming at Crocker branch YM-CA, 1330 Keo Way.

The anniversary celebration of the founding of the old mining community 72 years ago, will be held at Union park here Sunday afternoon, Aug. 31. Henry Steel will be master of ceremonies. Henry Mease will be speaker for the day.

Leonard Walker, one of the descendants of the first 39 Negroes who came to Muchakinoch, Ia., on March 5, 1880, remembers much of the early history of the old mining town.

"This group that assembled in Muchakinoch built churches and had secret societies. In 1882 Evans and Muchakinoch organized bands and they consolidated and became known as the best concert band in the state of Iowa. This town, Muchakinoch, was the only town west of the Mississippi river that had annual fairs and fairgrounds owned by one of the first 39 who came to Iowa," Mr. Walker stated.

Mrs. Rosie Brooks is president of the club; Henry Mease, vice president; Mrs. Leona Jordan, secretary; Mrs. Elsie Morrison, assistant secretary; Leonard Walker, treasurer; Mrs. Gertrude Massey, chaplain; Mrs. Ella Gibbons, reporter; Mrs. O. L. Howard, 701 S. E. 11th street, is program chairman; with Mrs. Jordan and Mr. Walker, members of the committee.

Peace Pipe Leaves Tribe For Final Resting Place

A Ponca Indian prophecy of perhaps 1,000 years ago has been fulfilled. Ninibauxube, the sacred peace pipe of the Ponca Indians, has left the tribe for its final resting place with the University of Nebraska.

Le Claire said it was perhaps 1,000 years ago, that the peace pipe would leave the tribe. "That day has come now," he said. "I hope the young Ponca will come to see it here."

Le Claire, in presenting the pipe to the university, carried out the wish of the last Ponca chieftain, Joe Birdhead, who willed the pipe to the "Big School" several years ago.

According to Ponca tradition, the pipe was handed down from father to son, but Birdhead's only child was a girl and by tribal law, she could not take custody of Ninibauxube.

Famed Biblical City

The famed Biblical city of Lod, more than 3,000 years old, is staging a comeback on the stage of modern history. When Israeli forces took the city from the Arabs in 1948, Lod was nearly in ruins. Houses were crumbling and streets were full of rubbish. There was no water supply or electricity. Only a short time earlier Lod's 20,000 inhabitants had been faced with the feeding and housing of 50,000 refugees. Today the old city bears a fresh look of new and repaired houses, shops,

A large group of music lovers at St. Paul AME church applauded enthusiastically the song recital given by the Chapel Choir of the St. James AME church of St. Louis, Mo., last Sunday afternoon.

James Bailey directed the group of 29 young adult members of the choir in a well-balanced program of religious, spirituals, favorite numbers. Houser A. Grey presided at the organ.

factories, parks and schools. Electricity, a water system and street cleaning services have been installed. The largest air field for civil air communications in Israel lies on the municipality's outskirts.

Lod, also known in ancient times as Ludd, was founded, or at least reconstructed, by one of the sons of Benjamin, according to the Bible. From the years of the Second Temple, about 515 B.C., the town flourished as a trading center on the road leading from Jaffa to Jerusalem. One of its claims to fame lies in its association with a saint and his legendary, man-eating dragon.

Most Popular Colors

The color of attractive objects that you buy for use in your kitchen, for instance, quite often has a bearing on the hue of the paint you purchase to redecorate the walls and woodwork for your household workshop. As a consequence, you are feeling the effects of mass market selling in your own home.

The new summer liner United States carries more kinds and quantities of food—all of luxury quality—than a large supermarket. She carries more than 300 tons of food. Included are 14 different kinds of milk, 85,811 pounds of meat and game, and 50,450 pounds of poultry. Table linen runs to more than 250,000 pieces. The ship carries 87,000 sheets and pillowcases, all of extra-fine percale, and has 8,640 coffee and bouillon cups and 8,000 champagne glasses.

Unexpected Feast

The people of the French town of Tarbes will long talk about the day hundreds of them unexpectedly dined on quail. They didn't shoot the plump game birds or buy them in the market place. The migrating quail became exhausted during a violent wind storm and fell into the streets like manna from heaven.

That Mosquito

To the layman, a mosquito is likely to be just a mosquito. To the expert, the insect may belong to any of 1,400 catalogued species. The rates of description of new types seems to be falling off, but in the last twenty years, about forty-two new names have been proposed annually. Dozens of varieties are common but when next you find yourself scratching, either Aedes Sollicitans or Culex Pipiens is probably to blame.

Manly, Iowa

Manly, Ia.—Elder Douglas delivered the Sunday morning message. Guests were Mrs. M. Ross and Mr. James Solomon of Nashville, Tenn. Guest speaker for the evening services was Rev. Horace Lewis of Perry, Iowa. Many Mason City friends of various churches attended our evening services.

Out-of-town visitors in the Will Solomon home were Mrs. M. Ross and Mr. James Solomon of Nashville, Tenn.

More Cities and Counties Combine Buying Agencies

Faced with the necessity of stretching their dollars in the face of rising costs, more cities and counties are centralizing their buying in order to purchase in large lots at lower costs.

At least 250 cities have centralized their purchasing responsibilities. Generally, the centralized purchasing departments procure materials, supplies, equipment, and services required for the housekeeping functions of the entire city rather than letting each department fill its needs independently.

Cooperative purchasing with other units of government also often result in substantial savings for cities. Typical of this sort of arrangement is that of Cincinnati with Hamilton county, the board of education and the municipal university and the public library in buying coal, oil, soap and paint.

Similarly, University City, Mo., and its school board have recently entered into an agreement for the joint purchase of supplies. Among the items being purchased jointly are duplicating supplies, fuels, and electrical supplies.

Group Of Colored Farmers Beat Drought With Cooperative Irrigation System In Community

Washington.—The drought isn't bothering one group of Florida colored farmers because they have their own irrigation system, says District Agent J. A. Gresham of the Florida Extension Service in a report received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture last week.

Among this group is Elijah McMillon of Chattahoochee, a producer of shade-grown tobacco, who took the lead in organizing the irrigation cooperative in his community. He and his neighbors own a gasoline-powered pump and nearly half a mile of pipes to convey water from branches of the Chattahoochee river to their farms. This saved their

had only $1.50 in his pocket, a wagon-load of shabby furniture, and three bony steers.

They used two of the steers for plowing and ate the third. "We dried some of it, and canned some of it," says Mrs. McMillon, "and we swapped vegetables out of our garden with the grocer for meat."

Mr. and Mrs. McMillon, who married 29 years ago, have been farming all their lives as day-hands, share-

TABLE TRICKS: Anniversary Party

"Treat the anniversary couple to a real bride-and-groom cake cutting," suggests Miss Catherine Gray, Postoria Glass consultant on correct table settings. Bake a double-ring cake to symbolize the years of happy marriage. It's a beautiful centerpiece for an anniversary dinner, and it's not difficult to make. Bake two cakes in ring molds—the kind usually used for salads. When the cakes are cool, place them on a large, stiff piece of cardboard. Cut a section from each cake and join them so they form interlocking rings. Ice the cakes and decorate them lavishly with flowers of frosting. Place garden flowers around base of cakes to cover cardboard, candlesticks at either end of cake. "Of course, an occasion like this calls for your best silver and crystal," says Miss Gr.-J.

croppers, cash renters, and now on 171 acres they are buying through the Farmers Home Administration.

While high-grade shade grown-tobacco is their main cash crop, the McMillons are no one-crop farmers. Besides 3.2 acres of tobacco that grosses them $5,000 a year, they have three acres of sweetpotatoes, two of peanuts, 1.5 of sugarcane, 35 of corn, 14 of cow peas, 10 of millet and velvet beans, a one-acre truck patch, and 65 acres of pastures.

Also, they have 10 milk cows, six heifers, eight beef animals, including a registered bull; 15 hogs, 17 goats, and a flock of 125 chickens. Their total annual gross income has averaged close to $10,000 during the last three years.

Cattle Raising

"Once I get my pastures in good shape," says Mr. McMillon, "my boys and I are going into beef cattle raising on a larger scale." Already County Agent Russell Stephens has helped him develop 25 acres of improved pastures and up his corn production from 22 to 60 bushels per acre by turning under blue lupine, using a hybrid variety, and applying an adequate amount of fertilizer.

Edmond, the McMillons' eldest boy, Edmond, being a livestock farmer.

Shows for eight years and for three years in a row, he walked off with grand champion prize money. This achievement won him a trip to the first Regional 4-H Camp in 1948.

Tobacco Raising

One of Edmond's younger brothers, Ivory, likes raising tobacco and operating the irrigation pump. Says he plans to go into tobacco farming in a big way when he grows up.

The thinner, more elastic shade-grown cigar-wrapper which the McMillons produce brings them from $1.25 to $2.25 a pound. Their yield averages 1,400 pounds per acre. But there are a lot of expenses involved in raising shade-grown tobacco. For example, the cheesecloth covering, which provides the shade, runs close to $750 per acre, the seedbed has to be sterilized against plant diseases, and tons of fertilizer are required. Then, of course, an irrigation system must be maintained as a safeguard against just such a disastrous drought as occurred in the South this summer.

But the McMillons are proud of their ability to make crops of tobacco despite the costs. And they are proud their livestock, their modern home, and the long way they have come since Farmers Home made them a loan 14 years ago.

An Occasional Saturday Movie, After Child Has Done Work Well Will Have No Ill Effects

Afton Smith, Assistant Professor, Child Welfare Research Station

It is difficult today to find family duties in which the child may have a share. The electrical gadgets of our day save the family from work that once was drudgery; but these same gadgets place a new responsibility on the parents for finding useful chores for the children to do.

It isn't so important that children learn to be good dish washers or lawn caretakers. They will learn work skills faster when they are older and have better motor control and more judgment. It is important, however, that they develop a feeling of being useful members of the family. Children need a share in family responsibilities and they can get a good deal of satisfaction out of work which is appreciated by their parents, and which is really needed to make their home a good one.

It takes planning on the part of the parent to provide this kind of family cooperation. It is so much easier to send the children off on Saturday to the special shows for children. This gets them out of the way while mother does the work in half the time it takes for the children to do it. Yet here is one way by which children may be made to feel the opposite of responsible and important. They know well enough that they are gotten rid of as nuisances.

After work is well done, an occasional movie may do the child no harm. But when we send children off to get them out of the way we

PERSONAL TOUCH

By MARIE ROSS

Rushing home one afternoon this week after having transacted some business downtown were Kaye and Henry Spriggs of 1227 E. 18th street. They were happy over the thought of moving soon into the 1300 block on Jefferson street—right across the street from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Frazier and family.

When the Spriggses got settled in their new Jefferson street location, they may be able to see some of the "flying saucers" that other Jefferson avenue neighbors reported that they saw last week.

Mrs. Charles Holmes, 1328 Jefferson avenue, reported that she saw last Tuesday night something which looked like "a great big saucer with a silvery light" from a window of her home about 10:30 p.m.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Charles Lord, 1330 Jefferson avenue, also saw the object, which others described as "white and plate-like."

"Greetings from Canada," arrived last week from the George Jackson family, 818 14th street, who wrote: "Just left Canada and Detroit. Back in Cassopolis again with Mrs. Allen (the former Mrs. Gladys Ross of Des Moines). We are on our way home now. Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Canada—it has been quite a trip. Still have 'Little Bit of Heaven' yet to see."

Mrs. Hazel Howell, 1436 Maryland, was resting this week after a three-week motor trip through Oklahoma, Arkansas, Michigan and Missouri. She has another week to go before her vacation ends. In the meantime, she said she felt very fortunate to be able to return to the green lands of

Their home was decorated with baskets and vases of lavender and purple garden flowers, birthday remembrances from friends to Mrs. Morris. The long buffet table, covered with a tiny-figured lavender cloth, held a floral piece of lavender colored astors, snapdragons, gladioli and layatrus, decorated with Bells of Ireland branches.

McGregor of El Centro, Cal., and her hostess, Miss Mary Holmes; Mesdames A. A. Alexander, Mildred Wiley, Lulu Mae Harris, Gwendolyn Fowler, Birdie Winn, Miss Marie Ross, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Another interesting tour was in Versailles, Mo., Lake of the Ozarks region, where they visited Jacob's cave, the ageless underground wonderland of stone.

While here they were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford

It was a sad picture to note thru farmlands of Arkansas and see the bodies or cattle strewn about dead—or horses and cows just barely able to stand on their feet. There was nothing green—nothing for the cattle to graze upon; and no water. Many bodies of water have dried up to small streams," she described.

The Howells had smooth sailing on their motor trip—even took a boat-ride in the Wisconsin Dells—had their pictures made on some bucking-looking stationary bronchos. All went well until they lost their car keys while in Oklahoma and had to wait until the extra set of keys arrived by plane from Des Moines.

Summer-time is nearing its end—and some residents and property-owners in the vicinity of 11th and 12th and School streets are still hoping that the city's or county's weed-cutters will get around to cutting some of the weeds that make it almost impossible to stay on the 12th Street sidewalk, as one walks towards School street.

These residents have complained, in a letter this week to the Weed Commissioner, that the weeds have grown so large and stretched out so far on the county-owned land that the area looks like a wilderness—and trying to find the mud-covered sidewalk—after the frequent rains—is almost impossible.

"Trees in the last six years have grown 20-feet tall, on one of the lots," neighbors say.

In the recent issue of "On Iowa," bi-monthly alumni magazine of the State University, appeared class reunion pictures taken at the last June commencement celebrations.

Among the scenes were Des Moines residents, A. A. Alexander, and M. A. Repass, members of the engineering class of 1912, and partners in the Des Moines and Washington, D. C. firm, Alexander and Repass Contractors; and Dr. E. T. Scates, pictured with the university's 1927 medical class.

Mr. Alexander, president of the Cedar Hill Construction corporation in Washington, of which Mr. Repass is vice president, was in Des Moines during the week end. His company is constructing a housing project on the Frederick Douglas Memorial Site in Washington, for the National Association of Club Women.

He chatted over the building problem of securing sufficient steel, and the scarcity of Negro carpenters for the many jobs available.

among them were Mesdames Bayles of Hampton, the mother of Leonard, Clifford and Edward Bayles; Mrs. Luventa Madison of New York City, and Miss Mattie Burke of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hosts at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Reggar Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bayles, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bayles and Mr. Robert Webb. Parlor games and contests were features of entertainment, which was kept lively with intermissions, at which time each guest devoured a spoonful of the breakfast cereal called "Pop".

The visitors were extended social courtesies in Manly, Mason City and Hampton.

STEVENSON ENGAGES IN DOUBLE TALK

Senator Nixon has been accusing Governor Stevenson of double talk on some important issues and calls upon him to speak up and tell the public where he stands.

It appears that there is some justification for the charge judging from the two positions he is taking on the issue of civil rights.

Prior to and at the time of his nomination, Gov. Stevenson stated that he believed that FEPC legislation was a matter for the states to handle and if they failed, he favored federal action.

This position pleased southerners to the extent that they were at the convention and are now going along on the Stevenson bandwagon.

Prior to and during and since the convention Gov. Stevenson said that unlimited debate was good for a democracy inferring that the senate rules governing filibusters should not be changed.

On August 7, Roy Wilkins, assistant secretary of the NAACP, had an interview with Gov. Stevenson and he reports that the governor has an entirely different view on these subjects.

Gov. Stevenson told Mr. Wilkins that he was opposed to filibuster "that endangers the national welfare and that he would support the platform plank which urges action in the 83rd Congress to prevent a minority from blocking the will of the majority."

Mr. Wilkins also said he "cited once more his approval of the Humphrey-Ives FEPC bill which came out of committee in the last days of the 82nd Congress. The Humphrey-Ives bill provides for enforcement."

Now, just upon which of these positions does the governor stand on? He tells the big news services one thing and the Negro Press another.

Of course, the governor is running a campaign and is trying to hold all warring factions within his party together. But he ought to be consistent otherwise there is no telling what his position will be following should he be chosen president.

FREEDOM WONT BE BLOCKED

The government in South Africa is finding it difficult to put down rebellion by non-whites against their anti-civil rights laws.

Only recently 208 including some women were fined fifty dollars each with the alternative of two months at hard labor.

Seventy-four of the accused were women, 10 of whom were ordered to be struck four times each with a cane.

This, to be sure, is a desperate attempt to intimidate these people into submission. Evidently they are determined to have their freedom and are willing to make sacrifices to gain and maintain it.

South Africa will not be able to stop these non-whites. They have awoken to the world wide demands for the freedom of all men and are willing to slug it out with their government.

Just what, if anything, "freedom loving" nations are saying to South Africa, nobody knows. There is no difference in what they are doing than what Russia is being criticized for. The only difference is the South African situation is known to the world, while that of Russia is partly guesswork.

DESERVING BETTER SUPPORT

Last week, two excellent baseball teams: the Kansas City Monarchs and the Indianapolis Clowns played in Des Moines. It was a well played game—far superior to what the Des Moines Bruins and most of the Western League teams are able to put up.

About 15 hundred fans saw the game. To the disappointment of the management the percentage of Negroes was not good.

This was unfortunate. With the splendid opportunities offered Negroes in baseball today there is great incentive for players to do a good job. Certainly, Negro fans should lend their encouragement.

TB Facts

Approximately 250,000 Americans are in a position to spread tuberculosis to the fellow citizens, the National TB Association reports. The association revealed recently that deaths from TB have been cut in half in the past six years, but the decline in the large number of new TB cases nation-wide is slow. About 115,000 new TB cases are developing in the U.S. each year. At least 80,000 TB patients are hospitalized for TB in this country at any one time, with 10 months the average length of hospitalization. Total cost of TB to the American people is more than $360,000,000 yearly. The average cost of one case of TB can be estimated at $14,000 to $15,000.

Cooling Device

A cooling device so powerful that it can change a searing blast of 600-degree air into snow within 2/10 of a second has been produced by a U.S. manufacturer. No larger than a man's hand, this equipment has been devised to solve the cockpit cooling problem in high-speed aircraft. At the opposite extreme, another manufacturer has designed a heater for aircraft engines in Arctic regions that can raise temperature 345 degrees in one second.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Need A Chest X-ray?

A chest X-ray, a "shadow picture" of an individual's lungs, reveals any abnormalities of shape, size, and position of these organs of respiration. The chest X-ray is also a valuable aid to the doctor in diagnosing diseases of the lung, particularly tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is a serious communicable disease which leads all diseases as a cause of death in this country among young people between 15 and 35. These are unnecessary deaths, however, because TB can be prevented and be cured.

But tuberculosis is easier to cure when it is found in an early stage. The chest X-ray is a reliable means of showing up signs of early TB. For even though TB has no obvious symptoms when it first strikes, signs of the damage it has started in the lung will show up on the X-ray.

Of course, a diagnosis of tuberculosis is never made on evidence of a chest X-ray alone. When X-rays show suspicious shadows, the doctor makes additional tests to ascertain whether or not a person has tuberculosis.

The question is often asked, who needs chest X-rays? The answer is that every adult, 15 years of age and over, should have a chest X-ray at least once a year.

There are an estimated 400,000 cases of active tuberculosis in this country. Of this number, about 250,000 are known to health authorities, and presumably, most of these are under treatment. But the remainder—approximately 150,000—are "unknown," and many of them do not know they have the disease because of TB's symptomless onset.

These people who do not know they are ill are unknowingly losing their own health and at the same time may be innocently spreading the disease to others. Thus a person may receive a bombardment of TB germs without knowing it. His body may be unable to resist the germs and active disease can take hold, again without his realizing it.

There are obvious symptoms of TB, but these usually show up in an advanced stage. So it is far better not to wait until the obvious sign appear. A person has his best chance of finding TB early, should it strike, by getting chest X-rays regularly, at least once a year.

TB can strike anyone, at any age, in any walk of life, because it is a communicable disease which is spread from person to person. Who needs chest X-rays? Every member of our adult population, 15 years of age and over.

nell, former Iowa back, with Tunnell we saw in some of Iowa's games.

The guy ran with long lazy strides and looked like he wasn't running fast until someone who seemed to be moving fast got beside him. We saw Emlen make several spectacular catches and tackles while he was at the Hawkeye school. It will be interesting to see him again.

Local Sports

Of all the local athletes going off to college, our pick to do something if he can stay in school is Larry Graves. The guy can run anything from a quarter-mile to five miles in good time. He was a pretty good bet to make the Lone Track team where Don L... is the first Negro we ever heard of.

The well-known boxing shows at Wilkie House are developing a closely knit fraternity of young boxers. It is amusing to see how they hang together and how seriously they take their work. I hope they can learn to take other things as seriously in later life.

We have heard it said that Art McCune is really a top-notch pitcher if he wanted to pitch. But Art doesn't care to be a pitcher. Looks as if he might want to be one for this meet at least.

The Tots beat their toughest rivals, Glen Towers last Sunday in an exciting series up between... who made a funny if the rubber game was the state crown.

Tennis

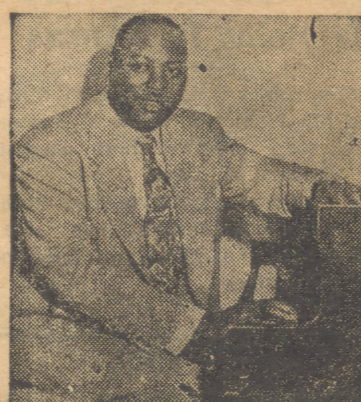

Never did find out who finally went to the national tennis meet. Bill Ashby should have gone and one or two others were planning to go.

We entered Jerry Simmons and Tommy Wallace in the juniors and boys divisions of the North End Junior Open Tennis meet last week. Got transportation for them and think we had a place for them to stay. But we couldn't get away to go with the kids and everyone else we talked to would go, "but?" The parents were perfectly right in wanting an older person to accompany their children who aren't fifteen yet. So we had to let the idea go. But wait until next year!

SET YOUR SIGHTS

Some people are near sighted they don't look far ahead They wait till life is blighter until they're nearly dead, before they use their hindsight and the sad past they review. If they would only seek the Light they'd set their sights anew. And know where they were going on the path that lies ahead; instead—they keep on stumbling on a road they fear to tread. If they set their sights on Jesus and the blessed life above, they will know the road to glory; and a life of peace and love. —Glenn A. Gallagher.

IN HIS WILL

In His will—is joy, gladness, all without—is grief, is sadness.

Drink deep where living waters flow, keep close to God where'er you go. Make all your plans within His will, His blessings then, your life shall fill. And share your joy with everyone, to earn your place there with the Son. When He commands, "Thou peace, be still."

Be sure you're walking in His will. Then you can join the hosts above, forever living in His love. —Glenn A. Gallagher

Walcott-Marciano Bout To Philly?

New York.—(CNS)—Though they are still dickering, still hemming and having, the odds are that the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano bout will take place September 23rd in Philadelphia's huge Municipal Stadium.

Jersey City has been seriously considered as possible scene for the championship fight. Nonetheless the Philadelphia Stadium will probably be the final answer when all details are agreed upon.

Still a bone of contention—whether Joe Walcott should get 42½ per cent his manager Joe Boechicchio is demanding. IBC's Jim Morris has so far offered only 40 per cent.

Law Takes To The Air; Nabs Seiners

Although their lookouts were covering every approach of danger, William C. Blair, Jr., and V. F. Carlson neglected to watch the sky. So it was that they were each fined $100 and costs by Justice of the Peace C. F. McCarty at Leon for seining catfish in the Grand River near Decatur on August 11.

They were observed and apprehended by Conservation Commission Officers flying down the Grand River in search of illegal fishing operation.

Sentries posted on nearby haystacks were not able to cope with the low-flying officers, and their warning system was too slow for their own good.

Legal fishermen, have been brought to justice by this new law enforcement tool . . . the airplane.

Chicken in Hand

A welcome warm weather meal is skillet chicken dinner, an easy way to keep cool and still satisfy hearty appetites. Top flavors of summer fresh vegetables, fluffy rice, and fried chicken come to the fore when Ac'cent (pure monosodium glutamate) is used. An economy note for summer meals is chicken—no matter how it's cooked.

SKILLET CHICKEN DINNER

- 1 frying chicken (2½ to 3 lbs.)
Ac'cent (pure monosodium glutamate)
salt, pepper, flour
¼ cup fat (preferably half butter)
2 to 3 carrots
1 medium onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chicken stock or water
¼ teaspoon Ac'cent (pure monosodium glutamate)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup fresh or frozen peas

Cut chicken in quarters. Wash. Sprinkle pieces with Ac'cent, salt and pepper. Dip in flour. Heat fat in large heavy skillet and fry chicken over moderate heat until golden brown on all sides. Remove chicken from skillet. Add carrots, celery and onion to skillet; saute 4 to 5 minutes. Push vegetables to side of skillet. Add rice. Brown lightly in fat, stirring frequently. Add chicken stock, Ac'cent, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Lay chicken pieces on top. Cover tightly and simmer gently 15 minutes. Add peas and continue cooking about 10 minutes.
