Hearing Dec. 7
For Two Youth in
Kahn Holdup Case

MOORE JACKSON

Edward Jackson, 20, St. Joseph, Mo., and Theodore H. J. Moore, 22, of Kansas City, newcomers to Des Moines from Missouri, are scheduled to appear before Municipal Judge Howard W. Brooks, Dec. 7 in a preliminary hearing on charges of robbery.

The youths were arrested two blocks from the Kahn Grocery, 850 Tenth street, several minutes after Morris Kahn, 74, reported a robbery about 2 p.m. Nov. 20. They were accused of taking $12, a watch and cigarettes from the store, after beating the owner. Both pleaded innocent in municipal court.

At the time of the arrests, Detective Capt. Robert O'Brien said the youths admitted the robbery. Recovered by police were about $12 taken from the cash register, a handful of pennies taken from a tin cup, 20 packages of cigarettes, and a watch belonging to the store owner.

Say Bermuda Is Not Place for Big Three Meet

New York.—President Eisenhower has urged to have the scheduled conference of the Western Big Three shifted from Bermuda to "some more suitable place" because of racial and religious discrimination in that British colony.

In a telegram to the President, dated November 11, Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged that Bermuda "has legislation authorizing religious and racial discrimination in hotels and other places of public accommodation." Only the Union of South Africa and some of our southern states "have made legal such undemocratic practices," the NAACP leader told President Eisenhower.

"We would like further to suggest," the telegram said, "that, for once this conference, if it must be held in the Caribbean, be held in an American Island. If, however, Mr. Churchill insists on its being in a British possession, we urge that it be moved to one which does not have discriminatory laws and practices."

The conference, scheduled for December 4-8, will be attended by President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and Premier Joseph Laniel of France and their top foreign affairs aides.

HOLIDAY GUESTS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. William Boldridge of Irvington, Ia., were guests over the Thanksgiving holiday of Mr. and Mrs. Australia Grace.

James R. Byrd, 23, Charged With Assault Slaying of Woman Found in Vacant Lot

James R. Byrd, 23, was arraigned Tuesday afternoon on a charge of murder growing out of the death Sunday night of Mrs. Mildred Hanson, 42, of 675 Eighteenth street.

Municipal Judge Howard W. Brooks set Byrd's hearing for Dec. 15 and ordered him held without bond.

Byrd, who lives at 917 Twelfth street, was arrested shortly after Mrs. Hanson was found beaten and dying Sunday night on a lot near a residence at 778 Tenth street.

Byrd pleaded innocent and asked for a preliminary hearing. Judge Brooks, however, said he was reluctant to schedule a hearing because Byrd had no attorney.

In the courtroom Tuesday, Byrd was granted permission to speak to his wife. She threw her arms about her husband and burst into tears.

Detective Chief Robert E. O'Brien said Byrd has denied that he assaulted Mrs. Hanson or that he had been with her at a drinking party at a residence in the vicinity the night she was found.

But O'Brien said he had witnesses "definitely linking" Byrd to the case.

Arrested

Byrd was arrested shortly after Mrs. Hanson was found by police at about 8:30 p.m. Sunday in a clump of weeds in a vacant lot adjoining a home at 778 Tenth street.

Police said Mrs. Hanson, whose body was mutilated, was alive when they arrived, but that she died en route to Broadlawn General hospital.

Police said witnesses named Byrd as the person seen carrying the woman's body into the vacant lot, as the person seen with Mrs. Hanson in the residence of Melrose Scott at 778 Tenth street.

Mrs. Hanson's purse, missing after her body was discovered was found unopened on top of a shed at the rear of the Tenth street address.

Fast Record

Municipal court records revealed Byrd was sentenced Nov. 21, to 10 days in jail, sentenced by Municipal Judge Howard Brooks to seven days on a charge of disturbing the peace and quiet and three days on a charge of intoxication.

By some mixup of court records, Byrd served only seven days and was released last Saturday morning at 7:30 a.m.

Police records showed that Byrd twice has served prison sentences in Missouri, one for auto theft and another for grand larceny.

He also served a term in the

J. C. Caroline Named To 1953 Look All America

New York.—Speed merchant J. C. Caroline of Big Ten champion Illinois has been named to the 1953 Look All America by Grantland Rice and the 700-member Football Writers Association of America. The selections are announced in the issue of Look Magazine which went on the newsstand today.

"In picking the team," Rice continues, "we didn't use mirrors, cards or diving rods. We had a complete dossier on every outstanding college player in the country. The Football Writers are as conscientious and able as any with which I've been associated since I began writing sports, and that goes back to June, 1901. We are justifiably proud of the team."

"The enraged supporter of some line player we have not included," Rice declares in Look, "may well have a strong case, but I doubt even he will claim he can pick 22 other players from this year's crop who could beat our 22, tie them or hold stands Dec. 1."

Rice says the writers found that the boiling runs of Caroline, the Illinois sensation, provided, "the spark as coach Ray Elliot's team, unsung in September, went on to astonish the Big Ten and the nation."

"The All America we have selected for Look this year," Rice states,

Busload of Negro Soldiers Driven En Masse to Jail; Fined Total of $1,573

Columbia, S. C.—A busload of Negro soldiers, driven en masse to jail after one of them sat by a white girl, was fined a total of $1,573 on disorderly conduct charges Friday, Nov. 27.

Police said they arrested 50 soldiers, including 2nd Lt. Austell Sherard, when they were called to investigate a disturbance on a Ft. Jackson-Columbia bus Thursday night.

The order the driver to take the load of soldiers to the police station.

Judge John I. Rice said the white girl testified she asked the Negro soldier to move when he sat by her. He refused, she said, and other soldiers joined in the discussion.

Others Interfered

Police said the Negro officer interfered with them when they tried to find the soldier who touched off the disturbance. They said they had intended to arrest only the soldier who sat by the white girl.

"We attempted to take the soldier off the bus but the other soldiers pushed him in back and blocked the

Cornelius McKay Out of Hospital

Cornelius McKay, 37, who suffered critical head injuries when he dived from a second-floor municipal courtroom window here last August, was released Tuesday from Veterans Hospital.

He was returned to the Des Moines city jail, where it was to be decided later Tuesday by Municipal Judge Harry Grund whether he should serve a 30-day jail sentence imposed for intoxication.

McKay leaped from the window after receiving the sentence last August. He had been arrested Aug. 14 at his home, 1023 Fourteenth st., after his wife complained he was intoxicated, had beaten her and was breaking up furniture.

McKay was taken before Judge Harry B. Grund Tuesday to answer a charge of assault and battery. After McKay promised that his wife would have no more trouble from him, Judge Grund gave him a 30-day suspended sentence.

William Warfield Among Top Stars On TV Program

Philadelphia, Pa.—William Warfield, renowned baritone, who has made a number of recent appearances on the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company, was again seen in a special full-hour television and documentary program climaxed by the appearance of President Eisenhower which was presented by NBC-TV Monday, Nov. 23 in observance of the 40th anniversary of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

"constitutes an innovation. It has 22 instead of 11 to-way players, each enjoying equal first-string rank. Each position has two players. We feel them to be less than a three-touchdown margin."

The Look All America will be flown to New York aboard a chartered TWA Constellation for a round of awards, public appearances and other festivities December 3 through 6. The plane left Los Angeles, Cal. December 2. After picking up the All Americans at Dallas, Tex.; Nashville, Tenn.; and Chicago, Ill., it arrived in New York City at 12 noon on December 3.

Earl Starks, Former Iowan, Dies

Minneapolis, Minn.—Rites were held Nov. 24 here for Earl Starks of 1117 Dupont Ave., N., who died at Minneapolis General hospital on Nov. 21. He was a native of Boone, Ia., and had lived here for thirty years.

Clifton R. Wharton
Head of Staff at Marseille, France

Washington, D. C.—The State Department has announced that Clifton R. Wharton, a career officer with more than 28 years in the U. S. Foreign Service, has taken up his new duties as head of the staff of the American Consulate General at Marseille, France. A Foreign Service Officer of Class II, Mr. Wharton's last post was Lisbon, Portugal, where he served as Consul General and First Secretary of the Embassy.

Mr. Wharton brings a broad background of experience to his new post, having been appointed to the Diplomatic Service first on March 20, 1925. He was initially assigned to Monrovia, Liberia, and has since served at Las Palmas, Canary Islands; Tananarive, Madagascar; Ponta Delgada in the Azores; and Lisbon. Before joining the Foreign Service, he was employed as a law clerk in the Department of State and as an insurance examiner in the Veterans' Bureau.

In California

Born in Baltimore, Md., on May 11, 1899, Mr. Wharton is now a resident of Walnut Creek, Calif. He was educated in the Boston, Mass., public schools and was graduated from the Boston University Law School (LL.B., cum laude, 1920; LL.M., 1923). He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1920 and practiced law in Boston from 1920 to 1924.

He was a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity while in college and belonged to the Boston University "Klatsche" in 1921. Mr. Wharton is also a charter member of the Boston University Law School Republican Club. During World War I he served in the U. S. Army and from 1921 to 1923 was a battalion Sergeant Major in the Massachusetts National Guard.

The son of William Bowman Wharton, he is married to the former Mrs. Leonie Spears Carter. Mr. Wharton has three sons and a daughter by a previous marriage.

The custodian, Elvis E. Summitt, of 1155 Ninth street, accused Hayter of driving away with his guitar which he had left in Hayter's car. He said he later found it in a pawnshop.

Omaha Fire Captain Injured In Wreck

Omaha, Nebr.—A fire department lieutenant from Station No. 14, Lt. Robert L. Green, 54, of 2234 Maple street, bravely suffered fractures of both knees and a broken left ankle for when he was pinned for 30 minutes in a wreckage of a fire truck last week.

He was riding in the front seat of Station No. 14 fire truck when it struck a tree at 33rd and Hamilton street.

Took Bus Number

The Negro officer, they continued, "came to the front and took the bus number, the drivers name and our badge numbers. We told him if he couldn't be of some service, not to interfere (but) he continued to agitate the crowd."

The other white passengers, four soldiers and a small girl, apparently did not take any part in the disturbance.

Columbia buses, as directed by law, have signs instructing Negro passengers to seat from the rear, white passengers from the front.

The officer was fined $200 for disorderly conduct and for interfering with police. The soldiers were fined from $25.50 to $125 each for disorderly conduct.

Urges Plan To Fight Bias In Chicago's Trouble Area

Chicago, Ill.—(CNS)—A plan has been presented to Benjamin C. Willis, Schools Superintendent, to combat racial discrimination in the new trouble area of Chicago. Originated by the Chicago Council Against Discrimination, the plan calls for action before trouble starts in the Trumbull Park Area.

Since Negro children will be going to these schools for the first time, the Council asks that special educational programs start now to help remove the prejudices of the white children and possibly the parents.

Rites In Minneapolis For C. D. Jewett

Minneapolis, Minn.—Rites were held here for Claron D. Jewett of Kent, Wash., Nov. 24. He died Nov. 16 in Kent.

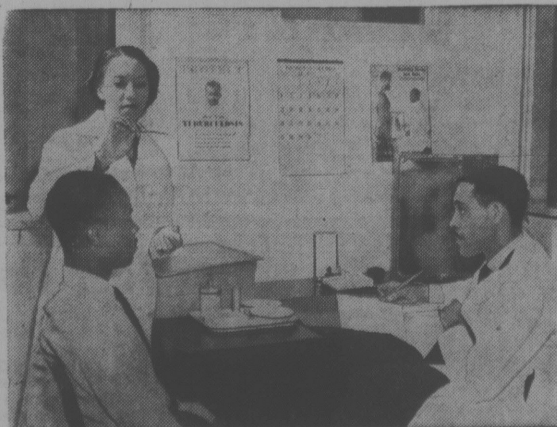

Mr. Jewett was a native of New Hampton, Ia. He moved to Minneapolis in 1910 where he lived until 1952, when he went to Kent.

He was employed with the Great Northern Ry., as a crossing watchman until 1950, when he retired after 36 years with the company.

Held to Grand Jury In Guitar Theft Case

Lewis Hayter, 35, of 941 Seventeenth street, was bound over to the grand jury last Friday on an embezzlement charge in connection with the theft of a guitar from a police station custodian.

School Cases Include More Than Issue of Segregation In Districts, Says Tobias

By Channing H. Tobias, Chairman, Board of Directors, NAACP
New York.—The five public school segregation cases scheduled for argument before the United States Supreme Court beginning Monday, December 7, involve much more than the issue of segregation in the particular school districts in South Carolina, Virginia, the District of Columbia, Kansas and Delaware.

Technically, of course, the Court will render its decision only on the cases before it. But the implications of the Court's ruling extend far beyond considerations of what is to be done in these specific cases.

At ultimate stake is the future of the anachronistic system of segregation not only in education but also in all other phases of the public life of the nation. We of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have long maintained that segregation is a divisive and anti-democratic device designed to perpetuate an obsolete caste system which flatly contravenes the basic ethical concepts of our Judeo-Christian tradition.

We have held that segregation per se is unconstitutional. Should the Court uphold this point of view it could mean that all laws requiring or permitting racial segregation in schools, transportation, recreation, shelter, and public accommodations, generally, would ultimately be invalid.

To Argue

When Thurgood Marshall and the other NAACP lawyers associated with him address the nine justices of the country's highest tribunal they will argue the merits of the cases before the court. But implicit in their argument will be a challenge to the validity of all legislation which separates one American from another on the totally irrelevant basis of race, color, religion or national origin. They will contend, at least by implication, that integration cannot be a halfway measure. Our nation cannot remain half-integrated and half-segregated today any more than it could continue half-free and half-slave a century ago.

Cases Recognized

We, of course, do not know what decision the Court will render after hearing the arguments of our lawyers, the attorneys for the several states, and the spokesmen for the United States Government. We do know that the Court recognizes the importance of these cases. This was clearly indicated by the order to reargue the cases, the requests that

Mason Citian Is Awarded $400 in Civil Rights Case; Judge Rules on Ballrooms

Mason City, Iowa.—Federal Judge Henry N. Graves ruled Tuesday that a ballroom is a place of amusement, comes under the civil rights law and cannot discriminate against Negroes.

The definition of ballroom came up at the $10,000 civil rights case brought by Mrs. John Amos of Mason City against Prom, Inc., operators of the Surf Ballroom at Clear Lake. She contended that she was not allowed inside the ballroom Dec. 8, 1951, allegedly because she is a Negro.

The judge ruled that the ballroom violated the Iowa civil rights statute by refusing to admit a Negro.

Award $400

The court jury of seven men and five women returned a verdict of $400 compensatory damages, after a deliberation of about 1½ hours.

Mrs. Amos had asked $3,000 compensatory damages and $7,000 exemplary damages for being denied admittance. The jury failed to award exemplary damages.

The trial opened No. 23. According to defense testimony, a group of eight young Negroes, including Mrs. Amos and her husband, were refused admission. Mrs. Amos claims she suffered great humiliation and extreme nervousness for several weeks.

Policy

Kenneth M. Moore, 57, Chicago, Prom president, testified that the ballroom's policy was that "any person admitted must be acceptable as a dancing partner to all other patrons."

He told the court the management received numerous complaints after Negroes were admitted earlier in 1951 so he instructed Carroll Anderson, Surf manager, to refuse Negroes admission in the future.

Under cross-examination Moore admitted Mrs. Amos was not admitted because of color.

The case was watched with interest by the national organizations of ballroom owners and by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. No previous ruling had been made in an Iowa court as to whether ballrooms were included in "places of amusement" mentioned in the law.

To Get Citation

New York.—Corliss Lamont, as "courageous and uncompromising supporter of the Bill of Rights for all," will receive the 1953 citation of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee on the 162nd anniversary of the enactment of the Bill of Rights at a dinner in the McAlpin Hotel Dec. 15.

Interfraternal Xmas Tree Dec. 19

The third annual Interfraternal Christmas Tree will be held at Willkie House, Thursday, Dec. 19, 2 p.m. Contributions from organizations may be sent before Dec. 16 to Mr. James Rhodes, 716 Boyd street, chairman.

Over 500 children were guests of the tree last Christmas. The tree is sponsored by many organizations in the city.

Chicagoan Assigned Motorcycle Officer In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal.—A young Chicagoan became the first Negro police cadet to serve as president of his class at the Los Angeles Police Academy, and finish second out of a class of 38.

Assigned as a motorcycle officer in the traffic enforcement division of Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD), he is Officer Jesse Brewer, member of the Chicago Park District Police from 1947 until his appointment to LAPD in 1952.

Brewer, hearing of Los Angeles' superior working conditions and opportunities for advancement, filed an application and flew to Los Angeles to take the written and oral examinations. Later he moved his family here.

He was captain in the famed 92nd division, serving during World War II through two campaigns in Italy. He attended Chicago Technical College and Tuskegee Institute.

Indicted For Taking Dresses

A woman accused of taking four dresses from a downtown department store was indicted Monday by the Polk county grand jury on a larceny charge.

She is Darlene Moore, 1100 Twelfth street, who is being held in the county jail in lieu of bond. She was arrested last Oct. 17 by Detective Harry Olson as she walked out of Hill's department store.

Olson said Miss Moore was seen taking the dresses from a rack and bundling them in her coat, which she carried over her arm. The dresses were valued at about 4 each, he said.

AAA Offers $2,275 To School Children In Poster Contest

Art students in elementary, junior high and high schools throughout the nation have an opportunity to win cash prizes totaling $2,275.00 in the American Automobile Association's tenth annual National Traffic Safety Poster Contest, according to an announcement by E. R. "Johnny" Lange, safety director for the AAA Motor Club of Iowa. In addition to the cash awards, the ten posters judged best will be reproduced and sent to teachers in more than 150,000 elementary and junior high schools throughout the country to assist in teaching safety during the next school year.

Teen-Agers Panel

About 150 members and guests of the Des Moines Federation of Women's Clubs heard Tuesday how high school students might be placed in summer jobs here under the "Iowa City plan."

A panel, meeting Tuesday afternoon Nov. 24, in Hoyt Sherman Place, discussed the pros and cons of the subject after hearing Mrs. E. T. Hubbard's report on the project she originated at Iowa City three years ago.

Mother Of Year

Mrs. Hubbard, who was Iowa's Mother of the Year for 1951 and is an Iowa City Press Citizen newspaper columnist, said the jobs project of the Iowa City Women's Club was a success.

She said that in 1951, the first summer the movement was in operation, 887 of the 984 teen-agers who wanted summer jobs found work.

Following her report, the panel took up such aspects as the probable attitude of high school pupil, parent and employer; the plan's adaptability to a larger and more industrial community; possible violation of child labor laws, and prospects of success.

George Moore, of the Iowa state employment service, suggested that such a program would fulfill a basic need of high school pupils, that of being a part of the community.

Not Supplant

He said that such a program would not supplant anything set up by the school system, and that no student in Iowa City were discovered to have dropped out of school just because they found jobs.

Representing the teen-ager's point of view, Carol Sue Mofle, East High School student, asked the other panelists:

"What should a baby-sitter do when she reports for a job and is confronted by a stack of dishes?"

Mrs. Hubbard replied that such problems could be avoided by educating the entire community as to what should be expected of both employer and employee.

Use Booklet

In Iowa City, she said, the project sponsors published a booklet called "How to Win Jobs and Influence Employers," which they mailed to parents and prospective employers.

Moore suggested that general standards of wages and hours be set up for different types of work.

John Cosgrove, education director of the American Federation of Labor, said there is "tremendous exploitation" of child labor in Iowa and throughout the midwest. "In agriculture," he said, "its notorious." He added that, through agriculture, obviously is a good source of work for young people, it is hard to supervise.

Opposite Stand

Moore took a different stand. He said that during the last three years "we've worked out fine relationships with agriculture—with individual farm owners. Although there is some exploitation, it is not nearly as great as it was a few years ago."

G. A. Tilton of the state department of labor said that, although in Iowa City only 4 per cent of co-operating employers violated the child labor laws, in Des Moines it might be different.

Moore suggested that participating high school students themselves could help in the policing.

Tilton warned the group: "Such a project can be done in Des Moines, but you'll have to work."

"Will Snowball"

Moore concurred. "If you go into a program such as this, the work will be in getting it to move," he said. "After you overcome the initial inertia, the thing will snowball."

Also on the panel where Kenneth Everhart, representing the C. I. O.; Leland Ahern, Polk County social welfare committee; Ruby Van Meter, director of pupil adjustment for the Des Moines schools, and William Potts, Des Moines Technical School student. Mrs. B. C. Hopkins, chairman of the federation's social welfare committee, was moderator.

Iowa Lifer Makes Plea for Elimination of 'Buck-Passing' In Article, 'Holding the Bag'

BY EDDIE M. COOLEY

There is a game called "snipe hunting" in which the fall guy is left holding the bag. The fall guy is always a trusting tyro who is used for the gratification of the so-called wise guys playing the game. They derive a sadistic pleasure from leaving the victim alone and shivering in a dark woods, holding a lantern over a sack into which the snipe are supposed to be driven. The poor sucker stays there holding the bag until his lantern goes out, hoping until the last that some snipe will fly into the bag.

Has Parallel

Snipe hunting has its parallel in the man serving in Iowa. He too, is left holding the bag. This is especially true of those under life sentences—they get the run-around more than the rest.

Under the laws of Iowa, men serving life sentences are not eligible for parole; consequently, they are not interviewed by the Board of Parole, except in rare cases by special request. At such a hearing a lifer is informed that the Board of Parole can do nothing until it receives a recommendation from the governor.

The lifer has the bag. He then proceeds to contact the Governor and receives that old routine reply: that the letter will be added to the file, and will receive careful consideration, but that the governor cannot act until he receives a recommendation from the Board of Parole.

And so the buck is passed, back and forth, in the cases of some lifers, for over 40 years. The lifers don't know which way to turn to find a way out of this prison wilderness. All they can do is hope that something will be done before their light goes out.

Not In Every Case

Although this buck-passing procedure is not true in every case, it holds true in nine out of ten. Few lifers have influential friends to get action on their cases, or enough money to put up an effective legal fight.

An automatic parole eligibility law would give all of them something to hope for, some reason to spend their years in prison preparing themselves for a successful comeback on the outside.

This is not an appeal for justice alone, for justice in its strictly legal interpretation is not always just according to moral and humanitarian standards. Justice tempered with mercy, and contingent upon adequate reparation and sincere repentance should be the goal of jurisprudence.

The records prove that few lifers who are given another chance become entangled with the law again. Why Iowa's attitude toward the lifer is so antagonistic is hard to understand; certainly it profits no one. Perhaps it is because those entrusted with punishment and rehabilitation consider only the crime and subsequent conviction.

Contrary to popular opinion, few major crimes are premeditated; few men want to commit a crime. What happens is the result of combinations of circumstances. If the lawmakers would consider the prisoner's life before the crime was committed, his life after imprisonment, and the extenuating circumstances surrounding his crime, they might decide that life imprisonment, without hope of eventual release, is too severe.

For almost 22 years of observation of prisoners, I am convinced that Iowa would be better served by humanitarian administration of justice and by the elimination of that buck-passing which leaves lifers the fall guys of this legal snipe hunt.

If there is any truth in the maxim that constant drops of water wear away a stone, the long continued hopes, words and prayers of Iowa lifers may at length accomplish something. If so, we hope it is soon, for the oil in our lanterns is fast burning out, and after many years, the bag we are holding is still empty.—(Eddie M. Cooley, Iowa State Penitentiary, Ft. Madison, Iowa.)

NAACP To Meet Tuesday, Dec. 8

The Des Moines branch of the NAACP will meet Tuesday, Dec. 8, 8 p.m. at the Crocker YMCA, 1333 Keo Way. Des Moines churches were very cooperative last Sunday in the citywide observation of NAACP Sunday, which will be held again Dec. 6.

The reports will be given next week. The funds are being raised for the organization's "Four-F" (Fight For Freedom) program. Mr. W. C. Buice is chairman of the "Four-F" program.

The committee working with him is Mrs. Azalia E. Mitchell, Guy E. Greene, Clifford Bayles, James B. Morris, Jr., and William J. Bell.

The 1954 officers will be elected Dec. 8.

The NAACP radio broadcast is over station KSO every Sunday from 5:30 p.m. to 6 o'clock. The "Community Hour" chairman of the radio program is Leland Ahern.

Drake U. To Present Handel's 'Messiah' Dec. 13

Following a 64-year old tradition, Drake University will present its annual production of Handel's "The Messiah" Sunday, Dec. 13 in KRNT Theater. Performances will be at 3 and 8 p.m.

Tickets are free and may be obtained by writing direct to the box office at KRNT Theater. Individuals may order up to four and groups as many as 30 tickets.

All requests should include a return envelope (self-addressed and stamped) and should specify afternoon or evening performance. Group requests should be made by the president, teacher, or other leader.

For this traditional singing of Handel's work, the Drake University Chorus is augmented to 500-voices by singers from Des Moines and the surrounding communities. Director is Stanford Hulshizer, head of the music education department at Drake.

Soloists will be Virginia Parker, soprano; Alene Watterworth, contralto; Vernelle Miller, tenor; and William Lee, bass-baritone.

Miss Parker and Mr. Miller are Drake faculty members. Miss Parker also teaches at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Mr. Lee, of Van Nuys, Calif., is a graduate of Roosevelt high school in Des Moines and Drake. He has appeared on many radio and TV shows and has made a number of recordings.

Miss Watterworth, of Kalamazoo, Mich., is a senior studying voice under Genevieve Wheat Baal. As a 1952 winner of the "Young Artists Auditions," she appeared recently as guest soloist with the Drake-Des Moines Symphony orchestra.

Members of the Symphony will provide accompaniment for "The Messiah." Frank Noyes of Drake is concertmaster.

For 30 minutes preceding the performances, a brass ensemble of 40 players, under the direction of Dr. Gordon Bird, will play Christmas carols.

HOME modernizing

Wood Floors Eventually Need Work; Here Are Tips on Reconditioning

Occasionally—depending on the finish, amount of maintenance and traffic—wood floors need reconditioning. The photographs below give pointers from Home Modernizing magazine on how to proceed.

Sink protruding nail heads with hammer and nail set; then fill holes; eliminate squeaks by nailing to joist nearest the squeaks.

Next, sand the floor with a drum-type sander; make first strokes at an angle to the boards, the second strokes at right angles to first.

A disk-type sander like this one is used for small areas that the drum-type sander can't reach, such as around walls, stairways.

Finish by rubbing with steel wool, sweeping and then applying two coats of the finish—floor seal, varnish or shellac.

57 Varieties Of Church Service At St. Paul A.M.E.

In response to a Christian inventory of talents based upon Psalms 116:12 (What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits towards me?) churchmen of all age groups, volunteered their service of stewardship for 1954, the Rev. John E. Hunter, pastor of St. Paul A.M.E. church announced.

The offering of talents was made on Thanksgiving Sunday, Nov. 22. In addition to the financial pledge was the pledge of more than 300 individual services of 57 different varieties for the improvement of the church in the year ahead.

The pastor referred to the altar scene of Thanksgiving and consecration as a "touching demonstration and impressive interpretation of Christian discipleship. One by one, devout worshippers recently drew near the altar during the meditation period to offer their stewardship as a thank offering—each according to his own ability.

"I was suddenly possessed of a strange desire to return for a few minutes to the ranks of the laity, to walk the path of decision, and again offer the small vessel of my talent to the high calling of the Christian minister," Rev. Hunter said.

St. Paul church will be greatly strengthened during the coming year as a result of the many services offered in the general areas of education, music, church activities, and physical talent and activities—teaching, sewing, table waiting, plumbing, painting, cooking, drama leadership, recreational leadership, poster making, journalism, typing, transportation for shut-ins, singing, playing of musical instruments, electrical work, Scout work, ushering, evangelistic work, mission service—57 varieties of church service.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Wimberly were Thanksgiving week end guests in the home of their father and aunt, Mr. James L. Dameron and Mrs. Margaret M. Lowry.

The Chicagoans were the recipients of many social courtesies.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Tucker entertained informally on Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Wimberly. Other guests were: Mr. Luther Glanton, Sr., of Murfreesboro, Tenn., Rev. and Mrs. John E. Hunter, Atty. and Mrs. Luther Glanton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Guy Greene and Mrs. Joan Bullock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Danforth were hosts at breakfast Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Don Platter entertained at a buffet supper on Saturday evening.

The Wimberlys were honored guests at luncheon in the Cloud Room at the Des Moines airport with Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Shelton as hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Tucker were guests at Thanksgiving dinner in the Dameron home.

The Mack Carsons Visit In Missouri

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Carson, 964 Twenty-third street, spent the week end at the Slater, Mo., farm of Mrs. Carson's relatives; and in Sedalia, Mo., with Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Lucas.

Also guest of the Carsons during the holiday week end was their granddaughter, Miss Hazel Dixon of Chicago, Ill., who visited also with her mother Mrs. Jesserean Dixon and family.

Miss Dixon is attending a tailoring school in Chicago.

The busy month of December is back again—and as we look at the calendar and the date of this paper, there are just eighteen shopping days left before Christmas. And, I had to look at the calendar and count the days before I was convinced that time is a-flying.

Taking advantage of November's good weather to finish up her Christmas shopping was Mrs. Morris DeSleet of 3106 Bowdoin street, who was downtown Monday, puffing her way through the crowds. When she remarked that "I'm almost through with my shopping," she got such a strange and doubtful look from me that she had to laugh. And she added that she generally finishes her Christmas shopping—sometimes during the summer months.

I left her feeling that she misses the real thrill of the Christmas season by getting her shopping done and packaged long before the holiday time. Anyway, she is being wise and economical—by shopping early. I'll bet, though that when the shopping rush gets the heaviest, she'll be back in the crowds—just to get an unexpected gift or card.

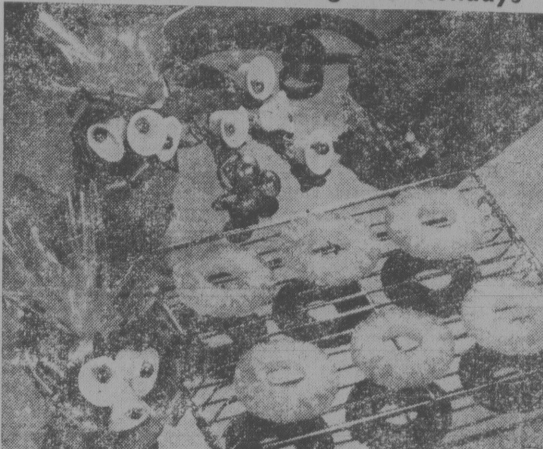

It just doesn't seem that the Christmas season is so near. Maybe, it's the good weather we have had. I shouldn't doubt it, though, especially after a week end at home in Kansas, over Thanksgiving. From early childhood days, my mother always could get us in the mood for the winter holidays, long before the weather changed.

And, when I greeted her on Thanksgiving eve, she was happy to see me, and outline a few "little" jobs to get done around the home after Thanksgiving Day. I immediately volunteered to get started on ironing the holiday curtains. That sounded like a snap—and it was—for after I started ironing the ruffled curtains for the nine windows in two of the bedrooms, I thought of a catch in my offer. The curtains had to be put up which meant that the windows had to be washed, the wood-work and walls cleaned.

During the summer, the carpenters had put in new windows and—waiting to be put up again were the drapery and cornice fixtures—which was a difficult job—for television watching and hammering.

The weather was comfortable for a few outdoor deeds—like picking flowers—and putting the finishing touches on the last coat of paint on the porch posts and arch, doors—painting while Mom held the ladder or holding the ladder while she painted.

Candied Fruit Is A Delight To All Hostesses During The Holidays

Good things to eat... what an important part they play at holiday time. Candied fruit, jams, relishes, fruit cake and puddings are lovely, practical remembrances, gay with ribbons and wrappings. You'll like our easy recipe for candied pineapple rings. They will add glamor to candies, cookies, puddings and cakes right now and all through the holiday festivities.

CANDIED PINEAPPLE

brown. Remove slices to a wire rack to dry about 24 hours. Pat sides and edges of slices heavily with sifted confectioners' sugar. A crusty glaze will form after standing on the wire rack overnight. Note: If surface is not dry after standing, re-roll in confectioners' sugar.

You'll also like Minted and Cinnamon Pineapple to add a Yuletide look to roast turkey or baked ham—hot or cold.

To make Minted Pineapple Slices, just heat pineapple slices in their own syrup, to which a bit of green coloring and mint flavoring have been added.

For the Cinnamon Pineapple, just add a handful of red cinnamon candies, or red coloring and cinnamon bark. Allow to stand for several hours or overnight. Pineapple tidbits or chunks may be treated the same way.

Pfc. R. N. Doyle Visiting Parents

Robert Neal Doyle, private first class in the U. S. Marines, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle of 1423 E. 18th street, after completion of boot training at San Diego, Cal. He will leave Friday for Pendleton Field, Calif.

Kansans believe in getting ready for Christmas early—and, when it comes, celebrating the occasion far into the new year. Maybe, it takes all that time to recover from the pre-Christmas work.

For some reason, few persons who are used to eating their holiday meals in their own homes, are ever completely satisfied if they dine out on the holiday, and then come home, to find none of the holiday foods in the ovens on the refrigerator, for after dining-out appetite that always comes.

Mrs. W. Lawrence Oliver laughed over the fact. Her family had dined on Thanksgiving Day in the exclusive Cloud room of the airport, guests of Mr. Oliver's father, who was here visiting from Salt Lake City, Utah.

He wanted to "make it easy" on Mrs. Oliver who was recovering from a recent illness and nursing a broken toe which she received in a fall. So they went to dinner and as soon as they returned home, Mrs. Oliver revealed that her husband and daughters, got busy getting the turkey ready and the dinner cooked.

"They just wanted a bird around to pick on, and some of it is still here," Mrs. Oliver said.

I'll bet, just as soon as the attorney clears out the smoke which filled his law offices on East Sixth street, early Monday morning, from the $111,000 fire that destroyed the Grand Theater, in the same block, he will finish up the Thanksgiving turkey in a very thankful mood.

Down in Kansas, the day after Thanksgiving, a neighbor, Mrs. Bonnie Primm, said "we tried something new this Thanksgiving." She went on to tell how proud she was that she did not have to cook a big dinner—how they had plenty food from individual church dinners they had sent to them. She did, however, make a pumpkin pie, to keep her husband happy, she thought.

But, while she was talking on the phone, in came her husband from a hunting trip, with a large mallard, feathers and all. The Primms had plenty picking to do to get their duck ready for the after-Thanksgiving stuffing.

Honor Sisters At Birthday Party

Miss Iona Lewis and Mrs. Helen Randle, sisters, were honored at a birthday party Nov. 21, by Mr. Horace Randle, at the home of Mrs. Lewis, 1410 Center street.

Sharing the courtesy were: Misses Delores, Bailey, Janet, McQuerry, Ruth Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Calderon, Mrs. Marie Davis, Messrs. Eladio Obregon, Samuel Taylor, Eugene Freeman, Robert Thompson, Wesley Davis, Gilbert Randle, Sr., Victor Coleman.

Had a pleasant chat this week, by phone, with Luther T. Glanton, Sr., of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who is leaving the city this week after having spent three weeks here visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Atty. and Mrs. Glanton, 818 Fifteenth street.

Mr. Glanton, who has been enjoying life for the past six years, since he was retired after 32 years employment with a Murfreesboro bank, was "much impressed with the way of life in Des Moines," he said.

"I'm going to go home, straighten out my things and I'm coming back," he said.

During his visit in Des Moines, Mr. Glanton revealed that "I've been going around eating, first one place then another. I went to a party the other night and stayed out until 12:30 a. m."

"I've been getting up every morning getting breakfast for the kids," he said referring to his daughter-in-law, Willie, who recently passed the Iowa State Bar and is employed at the municipal court; and, son, Luther, who is an assistant county attorney here.

"I spent one week in the courtroom listening to my son's cases," the father talked and revealed that he was "proud of my boy."

"I worked awfully hard to rear them," the father commented. He has five boys and two girls. His wife died several years ago.

In Murfreesboro, Mr. Glanton said he spends his time raising a big garden on an acreage, and working in a Super-Market operated by another son, Simon, whose wife teaches in the public schools.

He left here to go to Chicago, Ill., to visit a daughter before going on to Tennessee. "But, I'll be back," he said.

Invitations are out announcing the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie King of 1031 Eighteenth street, who will celebrate at a reception Tuesday, Dec. 15, 6 p. m., in the parlor of St. Paul.

The Des Moines District of the Iowa Association of Colored Women (IACW) will meet Sunday, Dec. 13, 2:20 p. m. at Willkie House. Business meeting and election of officers will be held.

The main program, at 3:30 p. m., will be a workshop stressing the theme of "Becoming Acquainted With Your IACW," to be conducted by Miss Mary Bannon of Marshalltown, second vice president of IACW.

Participating in the workshops will be: Mrs. Rose B. Johnson who will emphasize purpose of the association; Mrs. Sarah E. Jett, department, education and scholarship; Miss Jesse E. Walker, projects "What Next and How To Get Started;" Mrs. Lorraine Collins, organization "How, When and Why." A question period will follow. Tea will be served.

The workshop is open to the public. Mrs. Roberta Frazier is president of the district.

J. R. Oliver Of Salt Lake City Visits Kin Here

Mr. J. R. Oliver of Salt Lake City, Utah, spent the Thanksgiving week here as guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Atty. and Mrs. Lawrence Oliver, and his only grandchildren, the Misses Barbara and Beverly Oliver. They were Thanksgiving Day dinner guests at the Cloud Room of the airport. The Oliver sisters are students at Iowa and Drake universities, respectively.

Eddie M. Cooley, lifer at Iowa State penitentiary, has written an article entitled, "Holding the Bag," which appears in this issue of the paper. He commented in a note: "Here's hoping the following will cause persons of high and low stations in our commonwealth, to stop and think within themselves—'Except for the grace of God, there go I.' No one can tell what tomorrow will bring, or who will be holding the bag when the sun goes down."

Mrs. Leonard McGuire, corresponding secretary of the Des Moines Branch Needlework Guild, wrote a note of thanks to the Bystander:

"Our organization is sincerely grateful for the promotional help your paper gave us in our 1953 ingathering of garments for the needy. The article about Viola Johnson was especially interesting.

"This year was most successful in the history of our local branch in that a new high total in number of garments was received. Many thanks for your cooperation."

A Scarf Wardrobe from Leftovers!

HERE'S a timely fashion tip for the budgetwise from the Tintex Home Economics Bureau. At little cost, you can easily create your own vivid-colored wardrobe of scarves from white or pastel leftover material—or from some inexpensive yard goods bought for the purpose. Just cut the fabric into standard 18-inch or 21-inch squares, handroll the edges and you'll have finished scarves that need but quick trips to the tint-bath to give you an assortment in gay, smart colors.

Better select all-fabric dyes for the tinting operations so that you can make the scarves from any kind of material—silk, rayon, acetate, nylon, cotton, chiffon, crepe or what-have-you. Your color choice is infinite since these dyes come in 54 colors and they can be mixed endlessly to produce new and different tones. The all-fabric dyes require no boiling. Hot tap water will do the trick, says the Tintex bureau.

And for extra economy and costume smartness, create a matching glove-scarf combination by dipping a pair of white cotton gloves into the same tint solution as the scarf.

OLD TRICKS DID NOT WORK HERE

It is the practice of lawyers to prove that the case they are defending does not come within the law upon which the cause is based. In the interpretation of statutes, whatever is not enumerated is excluded and this was the approach of defense lawyers in the Amos vs. Prom. Inc. operators of the Surf Ballroom at Clear Lake.

Anyone with an ounce of sense would say dance halls are places of amusement, which brought the case squarely within the Iowa civil rights law. However, the defense lawyers contended that ballrooms were places of recreation and not places of amusement.

Fortunately Judge Graven, who heard the case, was not led into this theory for while the Iowa Supreme Court had never passed on the question, he adopted the sensible reasonable rule and overruled the ballroom management.

For years following the adoption of the Civil War Amendments and legislation on civil rights, the United States Supreme court placed such strict construction on them that the intention of the framers was consistently ignored. And this lasted up until a few years ago.

Some years ago, the famous Frank case—Frank was a Jew charged with murder of a white female factory worker in Atlanta, Georgia—was appealed to the United States Supreme Court. While the trial was in progress, mobs milled around the court and threats of lynching were common. Lawyers contended before the Supreme Court that the defendant did not have a fair trial because it was conducted in a court room charged with fear of what the mob might do.

The Supreme Court held that as long as the state went through the motion of giving defendant a trial, it could not go behind the proceedings to consider the mob tension urged as a ground for reversal.

Of course, this was a bad law and it took a more liberal court to refute this position in a different case and the old rule adopted under the Frank Case is no longer followed.

The Amos case sets a fine precedent which will tend to bring the Iowa civil rights law around to mean what its authors intended. And the more liberal attitude adopted by the public and some public officials makes its enforcements easier.

EISENHOWER ADMINISTRATION MAKES REAL PROGRESS

During the political campaign last fall, President Eisenhower, in spite of considerable pressure, refused to commit himself to the passage of new civil rights laws. But he countered that ample authority existed already which, if enforced, would do away many of the injustices of which minorities complained. He further said that he would do everything within his power to wipe out segregation in the District of Columbia.

Through the courts his administration has broken down segregation in the restaurants in Washington. And last week the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners ordered all its agencies to hire and fire without regard to race, creed or color.

The order also lays down a policy of non-discrimination in the use of city institutions, facilities and services.

Exempted for the time being is the fire department which is segregated with 39 white and 5 Negro companies. Samuel Spencer, president of the board notified President Eisenhower of the action and noted other steps the commissioners have taken to bring the policy of the district government into accord with that of the federal government.

At the same time the air force announced that the issuance of reprimands to Negro officers who refused to follow segregation practices on trains and buses in the south would be stopped if an investigation shows that such reprimands are being made.

Thus the fear of intermingling, which has been held over Negro officers for years, is removed.

Negroes have been placed in jobs they never held before, i.e., (Scolav Richardson is a member of the U. S. board of parole). Jobs they had lost under recent administrations have been given to them: the register of the treasury—a job Negroes have not held since the administration of President Taft.

All the moves are excellent for they bring the policy of the United States more in line with true democracy.

THEY HAD IT COMING

This week the Bystander received a note of disapproval from a reader who complains that the editorial criticizing the Notre Dame football tactics was a blow by a minority to another minority.

Maybe it was a blow but it was justly administered. They had it coming. The Bystander will criticize or disagree with a Negro if he is wrong. To do otherwise would weaken the position to which we hold steadfastly—treat them all alike and nobody can have a just cause to complain.

School Cases

The Attorney General present the government's views of the issue, and the five vital questions posed by the Court.

The importance the NAACP attaches to these cases is demonstrated by the extensive research our legal department has undertaken in preparation for the argument. Mr. Marshall has secured the cooperation of more than 130 lawyers, law professors, historians, and other social scientists in digging up every related fact in connection with this paramount issue. Never before has such an array of scholarship and talent been assembled to prepare for a civil rights case. When they face the Court our lawyers will be fully confident of the validity of their arguments, the accuracy of their information and the soundness of their theory of law.

Jim Crow advocates

Likewise the advocates of continued segregation are aware of the significance of these cases. To argue the Clarendon County case, the State of South Carolina has retained the services of John W. Davis, the eminent constitutional lawyer and onetime unsuccessful Democratic party nominee for President. They have also the attorneys generals of their respective states and private lawyers to represent them at the expense of the taxpayers, Negro as well as white. They are doubtlessly prepared to make the most of their arguments.

The Department of Justice has assigned a staff under the direction of an Assistant Attorney General to prepare the government's argument. What position the government will take is not positively known at this writing. However, it is generally believed that the government will again contend that segregation is unconstitutional just as the Department argued last year at the hearing on this issue. It seems most unlikely that the new Republican administration will take a less forthright position against segregation than that taken by the preceding Democratic administration.

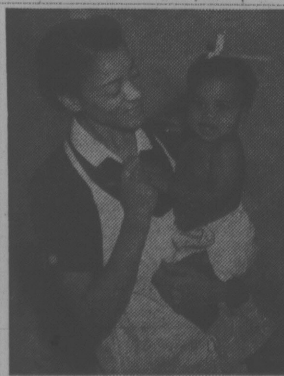

Cour Has Power

Washington, D. C.—The justice department told the supreme court Friday that the court is fully empowered to strike down racial segregation in public schools.

In response to an invitation of the court, where five school segregation cases are pending, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and his chief aides filed a brief asserting that the 14th amendment to the Constitution "compels a state to grant education to all its people the benefits of public equally, without regard to differences of race or color."

The brief said the question is not "whether there is equality as between schools," adding "The Constitution requires that there be equality as between persons."

BY ALLEN ASHBY

As an aftermath of last week's hassle about the Iowa-Notre Dame football game, we find ourselves accused of being pro-Notre Dame. Well, we could be. We have had a couple of rather pleasant experiences with Irish teams that may have put us in their sidewalk alumni group.

The most outstanding one came during the war when we were on our way home from Des Moines to Chicago. We met the Notre Dame basketball team at Iowa city. The fellow in charge of the club thought yours truly was Brother Lucius.

Seems he'd played baseball against the fellow back in the twenties. Well, when he discovered he was wrong, he was glad to meet some more of the family and we went back into the team section at his request. We were introduced all around and all the way into Chicago we swapped yarns, argued and sang. There was a long lay-over before they could catch the train to South Bend, and Vince Boylan, one of the all-time Irish greats, invited us to go to mass. We all got off the train and went to St. Mary's church at Eighth and Wabash. After mass we found a place to eat and had breakfast. When we left the gang after breakfast which was on the team, we really hated to leave such nice fellows. They were a swell bunch of kids.

The Notre Dame team, as we see them, have always been alert and quick to take every advantage of the rule book. If the rule says you can step on a line but not over, then

That day is probably far in the future, if anywhere. But people can and should be fed in accordance with the kind of lives they lead. The office worker does not require the same type of diet as the professional athlete. The housewife who has to keep up with four lively children needs more energy-producing foods than the stenographer. A small person needs fewer calories than a big one.

The trouble with most people is that they eat by habit rather than reason. Many a man of forty whose only exercise is catching the bus to work is consuming the same amount and kind of food he did when he was a growing boy who never sat down if he could help it. The result is overweight which cuts down his efficiency, lowers his confidence in himself, and eventually shorten his life.

Everyone must eat enough for the energy intake to balance the output and for the most efficient body weight to be maintained. More than enough food is stored as fat; less they will step on it, but don't recall any time when they went against the rule book. They never give up and are always looking for a way to break up a game. So much for that.

Iowa's Calvin Jones started what we hope will be a career of picking all star teams. Now, he has an all big team and an all-American to his credit. A lot of guys thought that Illinois' J. C. Caroline shouldn't be chosen in so many all-star teams because all he can do is run. But last Sunday they saw him run and they were converted. Man! How that guy can run!

Basketball

Ought to be interesting to see Drake's basketball team in action this year. The veteran Blumby and Willis Cerf ought to be worth seeing.

High School

Vince Wilson has apparently nailed down a good spot for Tech and Tom Bradley scored quite a few points for East High. Have to see them.
