'By Helping India, You Can Prevent It Being Handed to Communists,' Says Mr. Aaron

In a series of speaking engagements this week, as guest of the Des Moines YMCA, Mr. Appaduria Aaron of India Tuesday night addressed a group of citizens at the Crocker Branch YMCA.

Speaking on the subject of "Will Communism Win in India?" Mr. Aaron urged the citizens of America "not to take any steps that will make it difficult for a democratic leader, like Nehru to fight Communism."

"You can help India and save it from the Communism and you have to do it by educating your people small groups of people like this one," he spoke as he referred to his listeners at Crocker Branch meeting.

He stressed the many problems of India in its efforts to raise the standards of its millions of poor people, the religious battles between the Hindus and the Moslems, the unemployment situation of 30,000 of India's college trained citizens, the constant fight to keep alive the teachings of Gandhi, and the ever-present threats of the Communists and Chinese who share a common front with India.

Mr. Aaron pleaded with his listeners to help India by sending food through CARE program, sending farm implements, and sending young people to work in India for at least two years, as a part of their college training.

"By helping India, you can prevent it from being handed very cheaply over to the Communists," he said.

Mr. Aaron and his wife, who has been speaking to many women's groups in the city, will be at Grandview college Thursday and at Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, Friday for a noon luncheon meeting.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lindberg of the Des Moines YMCA, the couple will leave the city Saturday for Chicago, Ill.

Boy Scouts of America in 44th Year Feb. 7-13

New York.—The nation's 3,300,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and their adult leaders will observe the 44th birthday of the organization during Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7 to 13.

The theme of the observance is "Forward on Liberty's Team," the current major emphasis of the movement, which seeks to produce a greater functioning manpower and provide a higher quality program for its ever-increasing boy membership.

The anniversary is to be observed by 89,000 units in all parts of the nation, its possessions and also in other parts of the world where American families reside.

A principal activity of Boy Scout Week will be paying tribute to the volunteer adult leaders of the 89,000 units for the contribution they are making to the boyhood of the nation.

One Of Largest

"The Boy Scouts of America is one of the largest volunteer adult education or training groups on the nation," said Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, the Chief Scout Executive. "Almost 200,000 of our leaders took training courses in Scouting and leadership techniques last year."

When the Boy Scouts of America was incorporated in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 8, 1910, it was founded as the voluntary movement it still remains. Dr. Schuck said there are now 860,000 Scouts "who take time from their own careers to give service in Scouting in order to help their communities do a better job of building citizens."

"Scouting belongs to the American people who have made it possible," he continued. "This is thoroughly in accord with our democratic ideals and the American way of life. As a voluntary movement its doors are open to every boy of every race and religion, who wants to come in. It is dependent upon men who care enough about boyhood and American institutions to volunteer their time in Scouting."

"The Secretary's office informs me that at this important meeting, Mr. Dulles told his staff that in the State Department, qualification, not race, is the major factor in job placement. He told the staff that it was up to each individual to see that anti-discrimination laws and regulations were strictly observed," Mr. Washington said.

Golden Gloves in Finals Saturday At KRNT Theater

Many central Iowa towns are represented in the entries in the 1954 Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament which opened Tuesday night, Feb. 2, at the KRNT Theater stage arena in Des Moines.

"Ring talent this year looks better than it has for several years," says Al Couppee, sports chief of sponsoring radio station KRNT and director of the tournament. "Entries may not reach the total of the previous two years," he said, "but the competition is definitely tougher and the boxers in general more experienced than before. This condition will make for a better show for the fans."

Entries will probably number from 85 to 90, Couppee reported. Several central Iowa towns have team entries competing.

Three tourney nights are slated this week—Tuesday and Thursday nights for the first and semi-final rounds, and Saturday night for the championship rounds beginning at 8 p.m. Eight beginning at 7 p.m. matches in both the open division and novice division are scheduled for the final night.

Attractive awards will be given by KRNT to the winners and runners-up in all weight classes of each division. The eight open division champions will represent central Iowa in the later Chicago Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

Couppee reported that plenty of good seats are still available. They are on sale at the KRNT Theater and the New Utica box office. Mail orders should be addressed to KRNT Theater, Des Moines, but the tourney director cautioned about the time element. Reservations also can be made by telephoning the Theater between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Net profits from the tournament are used to equip and improve gymnasiums for central Iowa youth.

Fair Employment Officer Is Appointed by Dulles

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has appointed a Fair Employment Officer to make certain that there shall be no discrimination in his Department, Val J. Washington, Director of the Minorities Division, Republican National Committee, said Jan. 29.

If Local Agencies Refuse To Operate on Military Bases, U. S. Office Will

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has ordered the army, navy and air force to end segregation in all military post schools by Sept. 1, 1955, it was learned Jan. 31.

His order, issued with the personal backing of President Eisenhower, forbids the services to open any new segregated schools. It requires them to end segregation of Negro and white children on the 21 bases still maintaining separate schools by the 1955 deadline.

These schools—on posts in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Maryland, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia—now are run by local school agencies with money provided by the federal government.

If the local agencies will not run nonsegregated schools on the basis, or if they can't because of state laws, the U. S. office of education has agreed to operate the schools on an unsegregated basis.

Funds Plan

Assistant Defense Secretary John A. Hannah said that if some state or local school agencies are "unwilling or unable" to operate unsegregated post schools, "it then becomes the responsibility of the office of education to take over and come to congress for the money."

He added he expects a request for such funds to go to congress next year.

The ban on segregated schools applies to four scheduled to be opened in the next year or so, as well as existing schools on 21 bases.

Balks in Virginia

In Virginia, C. A. Lindsay, superintendent of the Hampton school system which operates schools at Fort Monroe and Langley air force base, said the school system will halt operations at the posts if the order goes into effect.

"We... operate the schools under the laws and constitution of Virginia," Lindsay said. "If Virginia laws remain the same (requiring segregated schools) and the order goes into effect we will have to end the lease."

Officials at two of the 21 posts said segregation has been abolished at their schools for some time.

A spokesman pointed out that the only school at the Pensacola naval air station, which was named in the order, was a nursery school run and financed by navy wives as a joint baby-sitting operation. The spokesman did not know whether the nursery was segregated.

Dudley Challenges Young People to Finish Fight to Eliminate Segregation

Washington.—The National Youth Legislative Conference, sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was Jan. 31 felicitated by Vice President Richard Nixon at the closing session of the four-day meeting. The conference, directed by Herbert Wright, NAACP youth secretary, was devoted to a discussion/study and evaluation of current domestic and international issues.

Following the vice president's greetings, Edward R. Dudley, former United States Ambassador to Liberia, and now special NAACP assistant in charge of the Fight for Freedom Fund drive, challenged the young men and women of this generation to play an active and aggressive role in the fight to eliminate segregation.

In Each Era

"In each era of progress since the Emancipation Proclamation, we have found the youth of the nation accepting this challenge," Mr. Dudley said in an address prepared for delivery Jan. 31.

"It has been youth in the armed services and youth in the schools who have been most vocal in expressing hostility to racial discrimination. This is as it should be for they are the ones who will be responsible for directing the affairs of our world of tomorrow. I know that you are prepared to continue this tradition and will fight until the last vestige of racial discrimination and segregation is removed from American life."

Traces Fight

Mr. Dudley traced the history of the fight for freedom since the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation, January 1, 1863, as "the first positive act by the government of the United States to recognize the status of the Negro as being other than that of a chattel."

As the struggle went on, he said, it became increasingly evident "that legally enforced segregation based upon race was the prime evil in group relations preventing any significant advance towards first class citizenship."

Continuing, Mr. Dudley pointed to the steady progress in American race relations during the past decade. "Slowly and surely," he said, "the issue of segregation as the keystone to our problem has come out into the open until now, in 1954, it is freely admitted by both the segregationists and their foes to be the one big issue in the entire question."

Among factors which have brought this issue to the forefront, he asserted have been war emergencies, political pressures and legal action in the courts.

Homemade Chili at Its Best

Hot chili and cold beer—a combination that's ideal for cold weather entertaining. Each bowl of chili is topped with an uncooked onion ring and a sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese.

For a party menu that's easy to manage, borrow an idea from Mexico and serve big bowls of bubbling hot chili with a tossed green salad and crisp, heated crackers. The chili can be made the day ahead, then reheated quickly while the salad is tossed and the crackers are heated.

When serving the meal, remember that chili is a somewhat demanding dish which requires a cooling contrast to the highly spiced flavor. Beer is the perfect thirst-quencher and, in addition, it gives an air of festivity to the occasion.

HOMEMADE CHILI

(Makes 6 servings)

1 1/2 pounds lean beef (chuck or round)

2 tablespoons fat
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon crushed oregano
1 teaspoon paprika
1 cup water
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
1 No. 2 can kidney or pinto beans (if desired)

Cut meat into 3/4-inch cubes. Sauté in fat until brown. Add onions and garlic and cook about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add chili powder, salt, oregano, paprika, water and tomato sauce. Cook over low heat 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until meat is tender. If you like chili with beans, add canned beans during last 10 minutes of cooking.

Citizens Vote "No"

It does not seem to be any measure of the yardstick helpful or hopeful for Fort Dodge children, in that voters here, Jan. 18, voted "no" on the $1,950,000 school bond. The majority of the people voted "yes", but not the needed 60 percent.

Evidently Fort Dodge citizens failed their children, for the school board had the approval of a citizens school advisory committee which made an over-all and vigorous study and campaign to get voters "yes" on the issue.

It is generally known and made clear that the grade schools badly needed to be replaced. Two made more room for junior high students who face split-shift sessions. The differences between persons here where the new high school would be built played no small part in the loss of the school board vote.

This is the second time election has been held on the Fort Dodge school bond issue. Perhaps, a third vote might come up; if so, perhaps local citizens will see more clearly and think of the school needs before defeating the issue again.

Gets No Divorce

New York—(CNS) Though Nassau County Supreme Court Justice Stoddard admitted "there's no question in my mind that adultery was committed," he never-the-less ruled against a divorce for Freddie Ohms, husband of Elinor Ohms who was proven to have been "very friendly" with her former Negro obstetrician, Dr. Charles Baker.

The judge gave his reason as being that Freddie continued to be the loving husband for three years after his wife told him of the illicit affair. However, Freddie, a television musician who earns $12,000 a year, was granted a separation on grounds of cruelty, not adultery.

The judge continued, in a 5-page decision, to state that "when Elinor had Dr. Baker arrested for seizing her mink coat last April 26, he willingly told cops and the rest of the world that she and the doctor were lovers."

He felt Freddie "was hurt by the notoriety and her conduct in so publicizing this constituted cruel and inhuman treatment." Mrs. Ohms now has custody of their 2 children and will receive $40 a week for their support if she desires to accept custody.

Young Business Couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Estes, Jr., Return From Wedding Trip To Mexico

Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Estes, Jr., 1012 University avenue, returned recently to Des Moines after a honeymoon tour which took them South of the Border as far as Mexico City, and a flight to the resort city of Acapulco.

The holiday wedding of the former Elaine R. Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinley Graham of Springfield, Mo., and Mr. Estes, son of Des Moines mortician, John M. Estes of 811 Fourteenth street, took place in Springfield at the home of the bride's parents, at 346 Boonville street.

The high noon wedding was solemnized Tuesday, Jan. 29, the date of the twenty-fourth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, owners and operators of barbecue businesses in Springfield and Des Moines.

Altar Decorations

Altar decorations, arranged in front of a fireplace in the Graham home, were an arch decorated with chrysanthemums and centered with a large white satin bow, white candleabra, palms and a white leather kneeling bench.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. J. D. Edwards, pastor of Pitts Chapel Methodist church of Springfield.

Guest soloist was Miss Zelma Ward of Springfield, who sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Because." Mrs. Marguerite Eldrich of Springfield, organist, played the wedding prelude, march and chimes for the entrance of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white tulle and lace gown, fashioned with a full tulle over satin skirt that lengthened into an aisle-wide train. The fitted bodice of white rosebud design lace, fastened down the back with tiny buttons, had a stand-up collar and long tapered sleeves.

Her fingertip length veil of illusion fell from a halo of flowers and she carried a bridal bouquet of white sweet peas and white orchids tied with satin.

Attendants

The bride's attendants were Mrs. James F. Dixon, matron of honor, and Miss Beverlee Oliver, maid of honor, both of Des Moines. They were gowning in ankle length red velvet, with silver and velvet accessories. They carried nosegays of pink carnations tied with pink satin.

James Floyd Dixon was best man, and Adam Johnson, Jr., was usher. Both are of Des Moines. Ring bearer was Miles Stevens, III, of Kansas City, Kas.

Reception At Center

Over 300 guests attended the reception held at 4 p.m. Jan. 29 at Springfield's Youth Center.

In the receiving line with the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Graham, the bride's parents; Mr. Estes, father of the bridegroom; and Mrs. John Williams, Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Graham wore light blue chiffon and lace, a hat of cream and gold brocade, black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Hostesses at the reception were members of the bride's mother's social club, Literary Calm Chat. In the group were Mesdames Ralph Bartley, Olive J. Decatur, Henry Toliver, Delbert Herndon, Job Thompson and Garland Reed and Misses Mary Toliver and Cordia Penn. Other hostesses were Miss Morlene Johnston of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Edith O. Campbell.

Guest soloist was Miss Rame Marie Estes of Minneapolis, Minn. A trio of musicians from the John Thomas Brown orchestra played. With Mr. Brown were Mrs. Florence Adams and David Bedell.

Among Guests

Among the out-of-town guests were: Atty. and Mrs. Myles S. Stevens of Kansas City, Kas., Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Freeman of Jefferson City, Mo., Mrs. Irene McElwee of Polk City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crittenden of Kansas City, Mo., Mr. Don Russell of Ozarks, Mo., Mr. William Decatur of New York City. From Baxter Springs, Kas., were Mrs. Andy Rich and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Estes and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Estes; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Estes of Columbus, Kas.; Mrs. Cora Pierson and Mr. Arthur Young, grandfather of the bridegroom, Mrs. Clarence Cheatum, all of Joplin, Mo. Other guests from Des Moines, aside from members of the bridal party, were: Mrs. Gerald Hayes, Mrs. Sophia Johnson, Mrs. Murlean Taylor.

Honeymoon Trip

The bride chose for traveling a grey dressmaker suit with cocoa satin trim.

The honeymoon trip, by motor, began on New Year's Day. The couple

WEDDING OF ELAINE R. GRAHAM AND JOHN M. ESTES, JR., HIGHLIGHT OF RECENT HOLIDAY SEASON IN SPRINGFIELD, MO.; COUPLE BACK TO DES MOINES AFTER HONEYMOON IN MEXICO CITY AND ACAPULCO

During the wedding reception, attended by over 300 guests at Springfield's Youth Center, Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Estes, Jr., paused at the beautifully decorated bride's table for the traditional cutting of the three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with roses and topped with fresh carnations tied with white satin. Other table decorations were evergreen with white carnations encircling the cake and trailing diagonally from one corner to the other.

ley Graham, father of the bride; the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Estes, Jr.; Rev. J. D. Edwards, pastor of Pitts Chapel Methodist church of Springfield (behind Mr.

Estes); Mr. James Floyd Dixon of Des Moines, best man; Adam Johnson, Jr., of Des Moines, usher; and Miles Stevens, III, of Kansas City, Kas., ring bearer.

Members of the Families Pose with the Bride and Groom

With Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Estes, Jr., are members of their families. At the left are Mr. and Mrs.

James McKinley Graham of Springfield, Mo., parents of the bride. At the right is Mrs. John Williams, Jr. of Des Moines.

Mr. Estes, former Iowa university athlete, and employed in the under-taking business with his father, noted the outdoor beauty, the architectural designs of the historic buildings in Mexico. He scanned the exteriors of some of the funeral homes, and commented that most of them were of the "old style—nothing modern."

"He was carried away with the beauty of the stadium of the University of Mexico, which seats 100,000 spectators, he estimated.

"We visited the Historic House of Tiles in Mexico City. It was of Spanish colonial architect. Everything is done by hand in onyx, marble and lava rock.

"We went through leather works, glass factory, the University of Mexico. We ate at a restaurant, Zimapan, which is over 400 years old, viewed many of the paintings of the old Spanish masters. It is nestled in the mountains," Mr. Estes described.

"What you should see is Mexico's night clubs and shows. They're something to write about," the newlyweds both agreed.

"We left the car in Mexico City and flew to Acapulco. It is a resort town with many beautiful buildings and hotels—and we spent the afternoon and evenings at the beach.

"It was a grand trip," the honeymooners said.

Housewives would have no worry about the rising price of coffee if they could enjoy drinking the ordinary cold water that flows through the pipes of our American cities as much as Mrs. Appauduria Aaron of India did Tuesday afternoon at a tea given in her honor by Crocker YMCA.

All of the other local guests were enjoying the plentiful coffee and tea, while the guest from India was drinking—just what we could call—"plain old city water."

"I think the cold water in America is so delicious, and, I drink as much of it as I can while I am here," she commented as she sipped from the waterglass.

Then she explained that the people in her country drink from the these progressive tucks," she demonstrated.

"See how we wrap a sari on," she explained and recalled some of the comments that she has heard made about the Indian women's sari, while she attended universities in this country.

"What is the big idea of you girls running around in bed sheets?" Mrs. Aaron said some of the American students ridiculed. She asked them "what is the idea of your girls running around in pillow slips?"

The lady from India said that she heard the old saying of the "pot calling the kettle black" and "that was one case of it—because she has learned that "for a comfortable bed you need both bed sheets and the pillow slips."

Then she went into the climatic conditions of India, as she told of the necessity of a flowing garment—and then, referred to the cold weather of the American cities, where the woman "needs a closer dress to keep her warm."

Then the speaker went into some of the food customs. She said that in India, people eat much food that is highly seasoned with very hot sauces and some outsiders have remarked: "You live in a hot country—how can you stand this hot curry?"

EISENHOWER
MOVES BOLDLY

Defense Secretary Wilson has announced that segregation in all army posts must be eliminated by 1955. He further ordered that those schools which have been operated by the states with federal government funds, but which cannot go along with the program because of segregation laws, will be run by the federal department of education.

This order does three things. First, it is a fulfillment of President Eisenhower's pledge to eliminate segregation in the armed forces and where federal funds are used. Second, it presents an opportunity for the people of the South to see, in their own neighborhoods, that the races can attend the same schools successfully, a position which implements the NAACP fight on segregation in the courts. Third, it proves what President Eisenhower has said all along, that we have enough laws already; what is needed is honest enforcement.

The thing which impresses the By-stander is the willingness of Mr. Eisenhower's administration not only to talk but also to do something tangible toward the elimination of racial injustices. Unlike most public officials, and this is particularly true in Des Moines and in our state capital, dodging, lying and procrastinating when such questions are brought squarely before them, the President displays honesty in these matters.

No president in our lifetime has struck such a blow against segregation, one of the chief curses hurting the Negro. And in so doing he displays a distinct bold leadership in these matters thus making it easier for state, city and county officials to do likewise.

Segregation in every form is on its way out and this is certainly a staggering blow against the diehards who shiver and cringe as their platform is being whittled away day by day.

WHY SOME SUPPORT
SENATOR BRICKER'S
AMENDMENT

Much is being said and written about Senator Bricker's proposed amendment which would limit the treaty making power of the President. Much of the force behind it stems from agreements made by the late President Roosevelt and former President Truman which under the laws required no senate consent and yet which have brought much criticism.

Senator Bricker could not get very far if he did not have the support of many people who oppose UN and want to hamstring participation in it.

The senate ratified the UN Charter but only after the inclusion of the veto power by one member in the Security Council. The senators wanted this weapon to protect America, as they thought, but unfortunately the provision has been detrimental to the success of the organization.

When the mutual defense treaty with Korea was before the senate, Senator Robertson of Virginia was critical of the language of the document and reminded his colleagues that "At the time of the debate on the UN Charter, there was no discussion of the fact that an international FEPC was involved in the United Nations Charter, and also the question of human rights, which some persons claim can, if acted on in a certain way change our Bill of Rights."

"In 1948 we find the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare considering an FEPC bill. That committee reported a bill with a substantial number of Senators signing their names to the report stating that, regardless of whether such a bill could be authorized by our Constitution, it was authorized by the Charter of the United States."

Thus it is quite clear that Senator Robertson is afraid that a bill of rights including a FEPC might possibly supersede the laws of the United States—which of course, he is pretty careful what they contain. So it indicates clearly that he courts the Bricker amendment.

As yet, nothing tangible has come in UN of the efforts for peace between Russia and her opposing forces. The human rights section, which Senator Robertson opposes, might go a long way toward placing delegates in a frame of mind to consider peace not as a formula for war but as an instrument which helps people and thus the nations to dwell together in harmony.

Theaters. But he pointed out that vigilance remains necessary and he added that any incidents involving segregation in the future should be reported to both the Department of Justice and the General Services Administration.

Pointing out that Secretary Dulles has instructed his staff that each

HEALTH FOR ALL

A Pain in the Neck

"He gives me a pain in the neck." We've all said it at one time or another. And it can literally be true. A boring person can give you a pain in the neck. In spite of the discomfort, pain has its good points. It is a warning that something is wrong somewhere.

The bore causes you pain because, in pretending an interest you don't have, you tense your shoulder and neck muscles forcing yourself to pay attention to him. Perhaps you can't run away, but at least you can shift position and try to relax. No pain should be ignored. It is a danger signal from your nervous system—a warning of disease, injury, infection, or an emotional upset.

Pain can help your doctor find out what is the matter with you. He wants to know where the pain is most intense, where it spreads, whether it is constant or on and off, what seems to stop it, and finally what it feels like. The last question is the hardest to answer. Two people will describe the same pain very differently.

The doctor can put the answers to these questions—taken together with his other observations and make a diagnosis.

nosis, but you could go far wrong trying to figure out your own trouble on the basis of pain. Pain doesn't always come where the trouble is. Heart trouble can cause shooting pains in the left arm. The gall bladder can make your shoulder hurt. Some diseases of the tongue cause earache. A headache can come from the effort to hold your temper when you are angry.

The amount of pain you feel is no sure sign of how serious the trouble is. A severe injury, for example, may cause a state of shock which numbs the senses. You might suffer more lying in bed with a broken leg than from the immediate pain of the break.

Once it has given its warning of trouble, pain is useless to you. There is no value in being a martyr about it. Continued pain only weakens resistance and turns pleasant people into complaining neurotics. Any pain which can't be explained by a known injury or disease, and which doesn't go away in a reasonable length of time, should be investigated by your doctor.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

By the time this gets out the Golden Gloves will have come and gone. Will have a complete story next week. The meet is being held a month before Chicago in order to give the Des Moines gloves time to get ready. Seems as if Coup is getting tired of going into Chicago Sunday and coming home Tuesday. He has talked Pinkie George into working with the boys. Pinkie and Yours Truly don't drink out of the same bottle but the guy can teach boxing.

The potential winners as we see them now have possibilities and with a month to get ready, might make a good showing and even come up with a winner. The old WHO teams produced one winner, but the team was always in the running for team honors until the last day.

People sometimes get mixed up on queer things. We somehow got the idea that we were being passed up for press passes to the bouts. Don't know how it happened. Well, we sat down and wrote Couppee a letter that was probably a bit warm and as it turned out, unnecessary. Probably made the guy a bit mad. But really, we don't regard press passes as chiseling. Anyhow we ran into Al the other day and wouldn't have felt right without expressing our apologies at flying off the handle.

Baseball

There was a really interesting article in Sporting News about Dodgers' Junior Gilliam or William Gilliam. The fellow doesn't fear the second year jinx. Expects to have a good year again. Come to think of it, Jackie Robinson, Monte Irvin and Campanella didn't do too badly against that second year jinx. So they finally got old Satchel Paige out of the majors. Even at his years now, we bet some of the guys were glad. What a record the man would have given the same break as Bob Feller and a few others.

CONSIDERATION

Consideration was a trait—that until lately thrived; the dwindling few who cherish it, now fear that it has died . . . Not long ago, we can recall in every situation . . . our elders checked and double-checked.

To find the right solution . . . They used to say—don't make a play, without consideration. Be heedful of the other guy, and weigh his explanation.

An equal chance for everyone—the same evaluation; without regard for race or creed, just full consideration. With values gauged by intellect—there's just one sane conclusion; to help consideration grow, is our best resolution.

Bricker Amendment Hit
At NAACP Youth Parley

Washington—The Bricker Amendment to curtail presidential authority in treaty-making was sharply criticized by speakers and delegates at the National Youth Legislative Conference which closed its four-day sessions here Jan. 31.

Hurrying from the Senate floor where debate on the measure began on the opening day of the conference, Jan. 28, Senator Paul Douglas (D.,

Chicago, 19 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Ill. Each should be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope if return is desired. An entry blank will be sent each entrant when his manuscript is received, to confirm qualifications.

Deadline for the competition is April 1, 1954. Announcement of the winner will be made as soon following that date as possible.

Judges in the competition will be Robert Glauber, editor of the Beloit Poetry Journal; Galway Kinnell, director of the liberal Arts program of University College; Karl Shapiro, editor of Poetry magazine; and Samuel Ytlen, editor of the Indiana university poetry series.

Ill.) told the young people that "the cure proposed by the Bricker Amendment was worse than any abuses in the present method of concluding treaties and arranging executive agreements."

Supporters Worried

Some of the supporters of the measure, he charged, "are worried about the Genocide Convention and fear that adoption of the convention by treaty would afford protection which the Congress has failed to provide directly."

In a press conference preceding her address, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt characterized the amendment, as "very harmful." It is based on the premise, she said, "that no future President or Congress is to be trusted. It is incorrect to say that the present procedure empowers the President to take away our liberties. A treaty becomes the supreme law of the land only when it is constitutional."

Addressing the assembly, Mrs. Roosevelt said that she had noted that the value of the United Nations is more fully realized in other countries than in America. This, she
