New Governor of Virgin Islands Is Praised

New York, N. Y. — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has congratulated U.S. Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay for his "excellent choice" of Archie A. Alexander as governor of the Virgin Islands.

A telegram sent to Mr. McKay by the NAACP this week affirmed Mr. Alexander's "brilliant experience" and declared that the new governor should "do a magnificent job in demonstrating in the strategically important Caribbean that ability and not color determines American policy in selection of public officials."

The communication was signed by Walter White, NAACP executive secretary. Mr. White also sent a telegram of congratulations to Mr. Alexander.

Mr. Alexander, a senior partner in the interracial engineering firm of Alexander and Repass in Des Moines, Ia., is a charter member and former president of the Des Moines branch of the NAACP.

Urge Iowa Parents To Join SUI Stuttering Speech Clinic

Iowa City, Ia. — If your child stutters or seems to be stuttering, you are invited to spend a day soon at the State University of Iowa speech clinic.

Until May 1 the clinic can provide free diagnosis and guidance for your child, if he's been stuttering less than two years, according to Richard Boehmler, supervisor of a current research project aimed at determining the differences between those who stutter and those who don't.

After visiting the SUI speech clinic some families have been relieved to learn that their child doesn't stutter at all, Boehmler says, explaining that it's quite normal for a youngster between two and five to repeat syllables, words and whole phrases approximately 45 times per thousand words. If he repeats himself often more than this, however, he might be in the early stages of stuttering.

Sees Freedom Fulfillment Conference March 10 As Turning Point in History

New York — The one-day Freedom Fulfillment Conference called by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Washington, March 10, "may well mark an historic milestone in our long struggle to achieve a truly democratic society," Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, said Feb. 18.

Indicating the importance of this conference, the NAACP chairman pointed to the enthusiastic response

James Byrd Enters Plea Of Innocent

James Robert Byrd, 23, indicted for first degree murder in connection with the mutilation-slaying Nov. 29 of Mrs. Mildred Hanson, 42, last Saturday pleaded innocent when arraigned before District Judge C. Edwin Moore.

Byrd, of 917 Twelfth street, was arrested near the address where he roomed, an hour after Mrs. Hanson was found beaten and dying on a lot adjoining a house at 778 Tenth street. Mrs. Hanson, who lived at 675 Eighteenth street, died en route to a hospital.

Byrd is being held in the county jail in lieu of bond. His trial is expected to start in the second week of March, Moore said.

Dr. Ralph Bunche Speaks at National Farm Institute

DR. RALPH J. BUNCHE

"No nation can prosper or be secure today without friendly intercourse with other nations," spoke Dr. Ralph H. Bunche Saturday night at the concluding session of the National Farm Institute here.

Drawing upon his experiences and work with the U.N. to describe the world picture today, Dr. Bunche, director of the department of trusteeship of the United Nations, said:

World Smaller

"The word has become very much smaller; the peoples in it very much closer together," he said.

More than 500 persons attending the dinner preceding his talk at Hotel Fort Des Moines, and another 300 came into the ballroom after the meal to hear Dr. Bunche, 49, winner of the Nobel peace prize in 1950 for his work as acting United Nations mediator in the Palestine war.

Of the United Nations, although frankly admitting it was being criticized, Dr. Bunche said "I see no need to make apologies for it or to be defensive about it."

"In my estimation, through its efforts in many troubled and war-torn areas, in Indonesia, Kashmir, Palestine, Iran and Korea, it has staved off atomic world war.

Kept Nations Talking

"Except in Korea, it has been able to keep nations talking rather than shooting, and even in Korea there would have been far more and far wider shooting had there been no United Nations — unless, and this would certainly have been fatal — we were willing to stand by and let Communists aggression have its way in Korea."

The United Nations way is not only the common sense way, it is also the Christian way, said Bunche.

"How can civilization and mankind survive and progress in this atom age unless there is peace, and how can there be peace unless there is organized international effort to achieve it?" asked Bunche.

Much of his talk dealt with the Technical Assistance program of the U.N. which he said was the least publicized U.N. activity.

Dr. H. Gregg Accepted by Afghanistan Government to Head Educational Mission

Washington, D. C. — Dr. Howard D. Gregg, former president of Delaware State College and present Dean of Arts and Sciences, Allen University, Columbia, South Carolina, has been accepted by the government of Afghanistan to head the United States Educational Mission, it was learned in a cablegram to Washington from that country last week.

This designation of Dr. Gregg to this position is singular in that it carries the present Administration's program of complete integration of all races to international proportions.

More than ninety per cent of the members in Dr. Gregg's Mission are of other races. He is expected also to correlate the efforts of French, German, Turkish, English and all other nations who have representatives in this country.

Wide Experience

Dr. Gregg has had wide experience as an educator, having served as Professor of Education at Howard University, Washington, D. C.; Dean, Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio; President of Edward Waters College, Jacksonville, Florida, and Editor of the A.M.E. Review. He also was President of Delaware State College.

At Delaware State, Dr. Gregg reorganized the entire college curricula and received accreditation for the college in 1945, from the Middle States Association of College and Secondary Schools. The Department of Agriculture was also accredited by the Federal Government and permission to establish an ROTC unit from the Federal Government was also received. Funds for the construction of several buildings were secured from both the State and

ROBERT FRAZIER

Robert Frazier, January graduate of Lincoln High school here, will leave March 1 for San Antonio, Texas, bound for an army air corps base to begin his military training.

Frazier, one of the 43 students in the Lincoln High graduating class, led a busy high school life which found him active in the school's athletics. He received three letters in baseball and one in football. One of the highlights of his career happened when he was crowned king of the school's 1952 Homecoming Day. He was a member also of the Student Council.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frazier, 328 E. Creston, he is a member of Shiloh Baptist church and has been active in the Junior Choir.

ment of Agriculture, for designing a device for pulling sheet piling.

Adoption of the device, which makes it possible to pull up shoring from ditch banks 12 times as fast as with chain or cable, will cut the cost of this work on the 12,000-acre research farm by about $600 a year, says Wade H. Roby, superintendent of mechanical shops.

The square cornered, U-shaped device with a loop hole attachment on the side for being hooked to a crane cable is simply slipped around the boards which have been driven into the ground to shore up ditch banks. Pull of the crane cable causes the device to grip the board and pull it up.

Vandals Break Out Doors, Windows At Cleveland Ave. Church

The Cleveland Avenue church, 1758 Cleveland, was entered recently by vandals who broke out glass of the doors and windows, stole money and destroyed literature belonging to the church and Sunday school, officials reported.

Ten of the intruders were arrested by the police, but the vandalism has not ceased.

Future services, until further notice, will be held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Ellis, 1179 Thirteenth street.

Ask Eisenhower, Brownell To Protect Lives and Properties of 6 Families

Chicago, Ill. — The nation's largest civil rights organization called this week for intervention by President Eisenhower and U.S. Attorney General Brownell to protect the lives and property of six Negro families in a public housing project here.

The Negro tenants, residents of federally-owned Trumbull Park Homes, have been subject to constant bombing attacks and other acts of lawless violence against them since they moved into the project several months ago.

In messages sent to President Eisenhower and Attorney General Brownell, the Chicago branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People pointed out that the rights of American Negro citizens living on U.S. property are being violated, and urged federal intervention "to the end that these violations cease and that the rights of the Negroes involved or who might become involved be protected and extended."

Plea to Governor

The NAACP this week also asked action from Illinois Governor Stratton and Chicago Mayor Kennelly to help put an end to the housing violence.

It requested the Governor to announce publicly that he will furnish state troops if necessary to "quell any riotous disturbances resulting from Negro citizens exercising their legal rights to move into any section of the City of Chicago."

"It is our belief that such an announcement by the Governor of the State would constitute a marked deterrent to the forces of lawlessness and violence in this and other areas of the city," the message added.

Repeated Attacks

A letter sent to Mayor Kennelly reiterated a request for an NAACP conference with him on the Trumbull Park Homes situation, and asserted that "repeated attacks, bigoted attitudes and acts of violence against Negroes in the project" continue without "effective preventive and counter measures being taken by the City of Chicago."

Lack of action on the part of city officials and "continued silence" from the Mayor, the communication said, "can only lend hope and encouragement to the rioters."

"To meet this present situation and any further ones requires the full and open support, if not the leadership, of the top officialdom of the city from the Mayor down."

"The rioters must be told two things: one, that rioting will not accomplish their objective and two, that persons engaging in such acts

NAACP Attorney Hears Facts at Fitz's Conference

A. W. Fitz, Sr., 59-year-old operator of a Council Bluffs cleaning business, conferred Tuesday with officers of the State Department of Public Safety to present facts charging unfair treatment by police and state highway patrolmen.

Attending the conference was James B. Morris, Jr., Des Moines attorney for the Iowa branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to whom Fitz had appealed.

Fitz was wanted by Council Bluffs police for violation of the state driver's financial and safety responsibility act.

A warrant for Fitz's arrest was issued Feb. 6 in Council Bluffs on a charge that he failed to surrender his driver's license in compliance with the driver's responsibility law.

Refused to Surrender

After refusing to surrender his license Feb. 6, Fitz came to Des Moines, met requirements of the responsibility act, turned in his old license and was authorized to apply for a new one.

Fitz charged that "highway patrolmen and local police officers have attacked the house and broken down doors to gain entrance."

Highway Patrolman Keller at Council Bluffs, said that when he went to Fitz's home, Feb. 6, to arrest him, Fitz "was standing in the doorway and ran back into the house."

Keller then obtained an arrest warrant and returned about an hour later with Capt. Robert Edwards of the Council Bluffs police.

Broke In

Mrs. Fitz refused to open the door, Keller said, so he and Edwards "went in anyway," breaking the screen door, but Fitz was gone.

"Keller and Edwards said they were 'perfectly within our rights to break in' because they had a warrant for the arrest of a man whom they had good reason to believe was inside. They denied threatening or abusing anyone in connection with the case."

At the conference here, the officers

Negro Strikebreakers Quit Struck Hat Corporation

New York — Many Negro workers used as strikebreakers in the labor dispute between the Hat Corporation of America and the Hat Workers Union, AFL, in Norwalk, Conn., have left the struck plant, Herbert Hill, labor relations assistant of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, reported this week.

Withdrawal of these workers, Mr. Hill said, followed intervention by the Norwalk and Bridgeport NAACP branches which invited him to join them in averting a possible racial conflict growing out of the strike situation. Committees were organized to work with the union and to contact the non-union employees.

In a statement published in the Norwalk papers, the NAACP branches "deplored the current practice of the Hat Corporation of America in using some Negro workers for strike-breaking purposes. . . . An investigation has disclosed that the corporation has approached employment agencies largely patronized by Negroes, and has solicited unemployed Negro workers for strike-breaking by other means."

Negro members of the union, Mr. Hill pointed out, have steadfastly refused to cross the picket line and have maintained a solid front with the white union members.

A Cheese Specialty Designed for Dunking

Bavarian Fondue, when accompanied with dunking-size pieces of crusty French bread and tall glasses of zesty beer, makes a wonderful combination for informal, weekend suppers.

This savory cheese specialty combines the best features of two famous national dishes—Welsh Rabbit and Swiss Fondue. Like the Welsh dish, it calls for the blending of cheese with ale or beer to make a smooth, tangy sauce. But, like the Swiss Fondue, it's made with Swiss cheese and seasoned with nutmeg.

It can be served Welsh-style, as a sauce on toasted bread or English muffins. Or, it can be served in the Swiss manner from a chafing dish or casserole on a candle-lit warming stand with enough forks and bread for everyone.

BAVARIAN FONDUE

(Makes 4-6 servings)
1 12-ounce can or bottle ale or beer

1 pound Swiss cheese, grated or cubed
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash nutmeg
Sprinkling black pepper

Open ale or beer and let stand about 15 minutes. Pour ale or beer into top of double boiler over hot water and heat until it begins to boil. Add cheese in handfuls, stirring after each addition until cheese is melted and smooth. When all cheese is added, stir in flour which has been blended with a little cold water. Season with salt, nutmeg and pepper. Serve immediately in a casserole which has been rinsed with hot water.

How to Cut Square Opening

TO CUT a square or rectangular opening with round corners in a piece of wood or similar board, holes of the proper radius should be drilled at the corners. Then you can saw straight down from one hole to the next. This will assure that the opening will be of the dimensions wanted and that the corners will have the correct radius. To cut a similar opening with square shoulders, use a similar technique, drilling small-diameter holes at the corners with their outer edges tangent to the sides of the rectangle. Proceed as above. Then square off the small arc in each corner with a file. — Illustration, courtesy of Popular Mechanics.

Experts Explain Why Sudsed Pot Produces Better Tasting Coffee

Increased knowledge of the chemical structure of coffee beans, and modern methods of scientific testing, have made it possible to formulate precise rules for brewing good coffee. These rules stress the use of fresh coffee, the correct proportion of water, a clean coffee pot, and the fact that coffee should never be boiled.

In explaining the rule regarding use of a shiny-clean coffee pot, the Pan-American Coffee Bureau emphasizes that this means washing with suds, not just rinsing with water. According to their experts, fats and oils which dissolve from coffee during the brewing process are deposited on the surface of the pot. Unless removed with suds, they will become rancid and taint all coffee brewed afterwards.

Usually Little Child Can Understand Simple Explanation

Att'n Smith, Assistant Professor State University of Iowa
Child Welfare Research Station
Usually we talk too much when we correct a little child's behavior and he gets lost in our maze of words. He can't follow us, although he could understand a brief, simple explanation.

Allen was a smart, forthright four-year-old. One day he tinkered with a forbidden bottle of ink and spilled some on the rug.

His mother was upset and spoke in haste and confusion. "Oh, you've spoiled my rug!" said she. "Did you spill that ink?"

Allen was frightened and did what his safety-first impulse told him to do. He said, "No."

Then his mother said, "I know you did it. But I'm not going to punish you for spilling the rug. I shall punish you for telling a story."

"Then Allen said, 'Why don't you punish me for spilling the rug? The story hasn't spoiled anything.'"

Allen was more logical than his mother. A less intelligent child could have been completely confused by the mother's shift from spilling the rug to telling a story.

spoil the rug. At four years he could hardly be expected to face the truth under the threat of his mother's voice. But if he had been told several times to let the ink alone, he could understand this simple issue. He had disobeyed instructions.

There are of course other devices which Allen's mother might try instead of punishment. But if punishment is necessary, then let whatever is said or done be simple enough for the young child to understand.

Early Negroes to America Were Not Slaves But Explorers, Navigators, Chicago Librarian Tells Group Here

The Negro has a "rich heritage to be cherished and shared with our children," spoke Miss Charlene Rollison of Chicago, Ill., Sunday afternoon at Willkie House on a Negro History Week program sponsored by the Mu Omicron chapter of Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

Children's librarian for the past 26 years at the Hall branch of the Chicago Public Library, Miss Rollison informed that the Negro "did not come to America first as slaves as every school books says.

With Balboa

"We were among the earliest explorers of the North American continent with such explorers as Balboa, Ponce De Leon and navigator of one of Columbus' ships was a Negro. How many of the general public knows that?" she queried.

Miss Rollison paid a high tribute to Carter G. Woodson, dean of Negro historians, who founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History in Washington, D. C. One of the ways to know facts about the Negro is to write to the association, (whose address is 1538 Ninth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.), she urged.

Miss Rollison informed that two outstanding children's books contained Negro history. One is the story of Amos Fortune, Negro slave, who purchased his freedom and the freedom of others.

Children's Books

The story was heard recently as a special intermission feature during the NBC Symphony's Sunday broadcast the early part of this month. The book received the Newberry award for 1951.

Another children's book which reveals Negro history is "The Long Black Schooner," a story of the revolt of the Schooner Armistad led by the son of an African chieftain.

Miss Rollison explained that Negro history is not for the purpose of explaining "our separations," but should be studied to reveal its value to the total contributions of American life.

The speaker was presented by Atty. Luther H. Glanton, Jr. Other participants on the program were: Miss Alberta Bates and Mr. Christopher Moore, soloists; Mrs. Lillian Edmunds; Rev. Jesse Hawkins, Rev. Luther H. Smith, Dr. Stanley Griffin, basileus of the fraternity.

Following the meeting question period, the Quettes were hostesses at a social hour with Mrs. Glanton presiding.

Iowa Farmers Show Up Russia

Iowa farmers have made Russia's "dictator" farming system look pretty bad on still another score.

Figures now show that on Iowa farms we have SIX times more tractors per square mile than in Russia.

I think the reason why is pretty plain. Over there, a farmer has to take what the dictators decide. Over here, a farmer uses his own good judgment. He's an individual who stands on his own two feet, and thinks for himself.

If an Iowa operator prefers two tractors, or three, it's his right to hack his own preferences. That freedom to choose for ourselves is part of our Iowa way of life.

It goes for choosing between Benton oats and Clinton oats, or between a temperate glass of beer or pop, or the question of which ticket we'll vote.

We've never had much use for dictators, professional or amateur, and that, too, has made this a better state to live in.

Personal Touch

Just last month, mentioned in the column was an item revealing how much enjoyment Mrs. Travis Bailey, 825 Tenth street, got out of her "gossip bench," a Christmas gift of two years ago. On the bench she has been able to spend much time visiting with sick persons, shut-in persons who never leave their home—but enjoy hearing the pleasant voice of a well-wisher.

Since the night of Feb. 12, Mrs. Bailey has spent some sad moments on her bench, answering the many calls from friends and members of the Union Mission Society in which she is very active, who wanted to cheer her—to help her.

Like all mothers, when her 22-year-old son, Burton, got into trouble, was arrested following a purse snatching incident, Mrs. Bailey said she was sick at heart. Her whole family was upset. Here Burton has just been voted the outstanding boxer at the Central Iowa Golden Gloves tournament the week previous. He had brought home several trophies and she and all of his family and friends and sports fans were proud of his performance.

"But, for a week or so before Burton was arrested I had a heavy heart. I felt that something was going to happen. I prayed over my burdened feeling and fasted—but that was God's way of letting me know that trouble was coming," the mother talked.

So, when friends phone, and drop by to offer me a bit of sympathy, I am glad to see them, but I tell them to pray for my son."

Mrs. Bailey and I recalled last year, how happy she was when Burton arrived home safely from the battle fronts of the Korean war. The mother, at that time, was worrying about her son's condition. He didn't seem the same," she noticed. He wasn't the same teen-ager who entered the services. He was a veteran. He had learned well the ways of warfare. He had protected himself—and he had escaped death on many of the hills in Korea. Then he returned home from the battles—but the lessons he learned in warfare are still with him.

Mrs. Bailey was happy to receive a postcard written last week by her son from the jail.

"Dear Folks," he penned. "I am sorry for the trouble it caused. You and dad have been good to me. But one doesn't realize it until it's too late.

"I haven't been praying but I've been reading my Bible every night. "I'll have to start from the bottom again but I'll make it cause I'll have

DR. BUNCHE ASKS
FAITH IN U.N.

Speaking in Des Moines last week, Dr. Ralph Bunche urged his audience to have faith in UN; that the close proximity in which peoples of all nations live to day makes it necessary to maintain an organization where men may gather and settle their differences by mutual agreement rather than on the battlefield.

Dr. Bunche is aware of the subtle fight which is being made on UN by a powerful right wing group who in the name of states rights, a doctrine which has raised suspicion among liberal people over the years, are trying to ham string the organization so as to destroy its effectiveness.

Few people are in a more authoritative position to give this advice for it was he who settled by peaceful negotiations one of the most ticklish disturbances of our time, the Arab-Israeli situation. And this after his chief in the Trusteeship Division of UN had been murdered while trying to settle the controversy.

Dr. Bunche, as usual, emphasized that each community, no matter how small, must make its contribution to the general cause by practicing as well as preaching democracy; that we cannot go on extolling the virtues of democracy when the kind of democracy we practice is often contrary to the things we preach.

As Dr. Bunche says, to do otherwise cuts the dirt from under the feet of representatives who are trying to deal with Russia and the other Asiatic countries.

SENATOR MCCARTHY
MISUSES AUTHORITY

Almost every newspaper or radio broadcast contains some reference to Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin who heads the Senate committee investigating Communism in government.

Each day brings a new break in the news when some present or former employee of the government is accused of having been associated with the Communist. These revelations often come in such crude and sometimes illegal fashion that it keeps people keyed up about what the senator will do next and how to stop his reckless tactics.

The senator knows that most people in America, for some reason or another, are afraid of Communism. He also knows that representatives of this foreign ism are to be found everywhere and thus nobody knows who to trust. Consequently any one who goes around, however untactful, posing as the one who will expose Communism gets a sympathetic ear, a lot of support and an attitude that they can do no wrong.

Undoubtedly President Eisenhower and the Republican leaders have been embarrassed by the methods displayed by the senator to accomplish his ends. On the other hand, they are trying to keep the Republican party working with some semblance of harmony which unfortunately lets the senator continue on his rampage.

At times, his activities have accomplished some good results but most people will agree (if they dare express an opinion) that his tactics have been in keeping with those of the very people against whom he proposes to be working.

It is strange that a fellow like he can corral such a following but as was once said a fool is born every day.

DULLES MOVE NO
MUNICH HERE

Secretary of State Dulles is being accused of appeasing Russia because he agreed to talk with Communist China about problems in the far East. With this we cannot agree.

During the troublesome period in South America where one faction took over the government by bloody revolutions, we adopted a policy of refusing to deal with those who came to power under such circumstances.

However laudible this doctrine may be, here we have a situation which involves peace in the whole world rather than a small isolated country. Certainly, it would do no harm to meet with these people, who after all have tremendous power, and make an effort to come to some understanding by mutual agreement. After all a fellow can never settle his differences with his neighbor unless both agree to talk things over.

Fitz Case

According to Attorney Morris who attended the meeting, "from all of the facts presented, it looks like the public safety people acted in accordance with the law. It appears to have been no violation of civil rights."

Facts Revealed

Attorney Morris, stated that among the facts revealed during the conference were: that in 1951 Fitz had been arrested and paid a fine of $1 on a charge of driving after his license had expired. When he applied for another license, he did not reveal his arrest and secured a new license. When the information came to light that he had been arrested and fined, Fitz was notified to surrender his license. Failing to get a response, the officers went to Fitz's home.

"It appears that the procedure outlined in compliance with the driver's responsibility law was applied to within the letter," and that the highway patrolmen acted in accordance with their rights," Attorney Morris commented.

Fitz returned to Council Bluffs where a disposition of the case was to be made this week.

Letter To Editor

I want to compliment you very much for the splendid work you are doing — publishing the procedure of the Eisenhower administration on Negro segregation. I hope you will give us all of it through your paper until segregation is abolished.

J. O. Winston, R. 8, Box 117, Ottumwa, Ia.

The Negro Press

The greatest factor in the progress made by the American Negro is the Negro press. Without it the demagogues would still be standing upon our necks — unmolested. Our friends would be helpless to aid us. We would be ignorant and poverty stricken with no powerful and influential organizations to demand for us justice.

Today we have a $15 billion market and hold high and lucrative positions in the richest nation in the world.

I have but to mention the Hon. Ralph Bunche and Hulan Jack, Manhattan Boro's first Negro borough president receiving a salary of $25,000 per year. Knowing this I am

The United States mails provide one of the great puzzles of our present day civilization.

Today postal distances separating peoples and nations—thanks to the airplane — are getting smaller.

But at the same time villages and small cities only a few miles apart are becoming more widely separated in point of time because the rail connections once joining them are largely disappearing.

Overseas mail from London to New York is delivered overnight. A letter from Paris requires only 24 hours and one from Rome but 36. Even a letter from Karachi, India, takes only 60 hours.

But America's rural areas and smaller cities seem to be getting farther and farther apart—if one judges by the time it takes to deliver a letter. For instance...

The mails from Forrester, Illinois, to Dixon, Illinois, only a matter of perhaps 20 miles by auto, may take as long as four to five days in time on the roundabout rail route it must be sent.

This is just one of the reasons the Independent Advisory Committee to the Trucking Industry is urging the U. S. Postoffice Department to use the nation's giant trucking industry to haul the mails on all routes up to 300 miles.

Not only does ACT assert this action would move the mails "faster and more efficiently" but would bring a saving of "more than $100,000,000 annually."

Remembering that the U. S. Postoffice Department in 1953 showed a $440,000,000 deficit, any plan to speed up the mails—and save millions of dollars — might well be worth looking into.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Measles Season

As if February weather were not a grave enough affliction, this is also the time when we begin the measles season. No one seems to know exactly why epidemics of measles occur at the end of winter every second or third year. But doctors, school teachers, and parents all know that they do.

This is the time of year to be suspicious of every cold that a child has. During a measles epidemic, if a child develops symptoms of a head cold, he should be kept home from school and away from other children, especially away from babies. The disease is infectious from the time the first signs appear — fever, runny nose, slight cough, and red, watery eyes. The doctor should be called at once. He may use gamma globulin which acts to prevent or modify measles for a limited time, especially if the child is ill at the same time with another disease, particularly tuberculosis. If there are other young children in the family, gamma globulin may be given if the time of exposure is known.

The "head cold" symptoms come about ten days after the child has been exposed to a case of measles. The next sign is the appearance of spots on the inside of the mouth. Within a few days the typical skin rash begins on the face and neck and gradually spreads to the trunk, arms, and legs.

The child feels miserable. The rash lasts about a week, and he feels sicker while it is at its height. As the rash fades, he begins to feel better, and the problem is to keep him in bed until the doctor says it's safe for him to get up. With the average healthy school-age child, the illness lasts only about two weeks, but he must be carefully guarded against secondary infections while his resistance is low.

Secondary infections are always serious and may be fatal. Pneumonia is the most frequent complication; ear infections are another possibility, and occasionally encephalitis — inflammation of the brain — develops. For babies and children under five, measles can be so serious that every effort should be made to protect them against the disease until they are older.

The care of a child gets during measles has a great bearing on whether he will escape complications that may seriously affect his entire future. The doctor's advice should be followed in every detail.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

The 1954 Golden Gloves boxing team makes more news now than the boys did when they were battling for positions. Irvin Collier of Wilkie, became the latest addition to the team. Collier, who many people thought would have won the lightweight honor had he been able to make the weight, replaced the ultimate winner, John Eggenlienger said Bill Heath was ruining his style.

We don't think any of the guys we saw in the Gloves at KRNT has enough of a style to be ruined. Anything a kid can learn has to help him that much. Of course, any old pro is apt to criticize the teachings of another one, but he ought to have let the kid go along with Heath. Bill is no dummy and can teach boxing. He wouldn't hurt anybody if he can help it.

There was some talk about Lee Colbert being added also, but we guess that was just talk.

Basketball

We read with some interest the story in the Register comparing the present Roosevelt High basketball team with those of the twenties. It is hard to compare teams of different eras. The rules change a lot. Now everyone shoots and shoots. In the twenties and thirties basketball offense was built around one man who nearly always shot layups. If that man was stopped the team had a long-shot man who would open fire. Then there was a fellow who was supposed to drive in for layups. Such a team was our old Crocker Y Big Five. The late Bob Brown was our chief scorer. We made our plays so that everything worked around him. When teams tried to stop Brown, Bunny Wilson and Mel Overton would open up from far out. Then there was Von Delico in James Allen and Kenneth Palmer, who were among the best drive-in artists.

Defense was different then. There was one player who never came tied the middle of the floor. That might work now in some key games to upset a fast break team. It would be called new and might upset some good offense.

But the good players of any age would have been good players now.

Tennis

There have been a group of tennis players working out on Saturdays at the Wilkie House. This has gone on for a few weeks now and those who are working out ought to have a good start on the 1954 season. This is a good time to iron out faults and develop new playing habits.

THE LIVING OF THESE

If we would only rest awhile . . . and ponder on our ways . . . perhaps we'd make some changes in the living of these days. Do not look back . . . we have been told . . . all good things lie ahead.

But experience pays, in many ways, and there's more to life than bread. The mind must thrive to stay alive, must feed on more than books; in God's green fields, His woods, and hills, lives knowledge, if one looks.

Deep in the cortex of each mind, with linkage to the heart; burns the tiny flame one calls the soul, that sets man and beast apart. When foul abuse has quenched that flame, the beast in man will rise; to spoil, to maim, to desecrate, and smother truth with lies. Please God, we pray, in some future year, they'll stop the waste, the reckless ways, that mar the living of these days. —Glenn A. Gallagher. (First American serial rights only)

Federal Government.

Growth of School

The student body was more than doubled and all appropriations were greatly increased. The institution also was admitted into the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

There were no doctors on the faculty when Dr. Gregg became president of the college, and only a few masters. During his term the number of Ph.D.'s rose to eight and practically all teachers in the Liberal Arts Department had the A.M. degree. Not only was the faculty strengthened, but the influence of the college was extended through a community college program on health, home improvement, farming and other programs which were composed of institutes carried on through the entire state.

Dr. Gregg was appointed a member of the State Board of Education in Delaware, being the first Negro to serve as a member of a state board of education. He was a member of the Governor's post-war planning committee and chairman of the state's colored planning board.

He is a contributing editor to the Journal of Negro Education as well as a charter member in its organization.

Superior Student

Dr. Gregg is a graduate of Allen, Lincoln, Yale and Columbia Universities (Teachers College) and the University of Pennsylvania. In the last named institution, he received the Ph.D. degree with a very high average and passed a brilliant Oral Doctor's examination.

One of the DuPonts of the well-known DuPont family commended Dr. Gregg to the State Department as well as the dean of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. E. D. Grizzell, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, in communicating with the State Department, referred to Dr. Gregg as a very superior graduate student while at Pennsylvania, and as a successful college administrator.

Dr. Gregg is married to the former Mable Hart of Atlanta, who is expected to accompany him to his foreign post of duty.

It's a One-Minute Job!

BUDGET-CONSCIOUS newlyweds who have books but neither a coffee table nor a full purse can solve their problem quickly and with minor expense. They can put a table together without nails or other fasteners in just about one minute flat! Here's what they, or anyone, can do: Go to a lumber yard for some hollow clay tiles, which are 4 inches wide and 1 foot square. These will serve as 'supports for the table and should be spaced 4 feet apart for a top that is 1/2" thick. At the lumber yard, they should obtain a brand new material known as Plyron, since it is ideally suited for table tops or shelving. The dealer can cut it into the required length and the 12-inch width needed to fit over the tiles.

This new combination of familiar materials, Plyron, has a core of plywood and faces of smooth, splinter-free Masonite hardboard. The unique new panel's plywood core makes it puncture-proof, strong and rigid. Its surfaces have the characteristics of Masonite tempered hardboard—hardness, smoothness, wear-resistance, paintability and moisture-resistance.

A two-tier coffee table can double as a book shelf, as shown in the illustration. Both the tiles and the boards may be left unfinished or may be painted, depending on the budget and the couple's wishes.

Plyron has numerous other uses around the home such as book or closet shelves and cabinet doors.
