Six Air Raid Sirens

At least six air raid sirens will be ready to wail here on "alert day" June 14, Capt. Philip R. Weaver, Des Moines civil defense director, said.

Col. Julian Blames U. S.
State Department for Woes
Of Tiny Nation, Guatemala

New York—(CNS)—The ever colorful Colonel Hubert Faulneroy Julian, more familiarly known as the Black Eagle of Harlem and now 58 years old, charged this week that if red-tinged Guatemala has received any shipment of arms from behind the Iron Curtain, it is all the fault of the U. S. State Department.

Julian declares that he can speak with authority on Guatemala as he is the purchasing agent for that country. He says that our State Department has refused to let the tiny Central American country have surplus military materials so that "she will be forced to buy her supplies any where she can."

Disturbed

Washington has been greatly disturbed about the report that a shipment of arms arrived in Guatemala via Poland.

Said Julian, always a figure in international politics, "I charge that the policy of the U. S. government is directly responsible for Guatemala acquiring arms for her personal needs from behind the Iron Curtain."

Julian recalled how he tried to

The executive board of the Iowa State Conference of NAACP branches met May 22, with Wilmer S. Johnson, president, at 1194 Fourteenth street.

Committee reports were made. Attending the meeting were: Ike Smalls, Atty. and Mrs. James B. Morris, Atty. James B. Morris, Jr., Mrs. Guy Greene, Mrs. Clifford Bayles, Mrs. Lorraine Collins, Mrs. Viola Gibson of Cedar Rapids, Mrs. C. H. Copeland, of Cedar Rapids, secretary; Leland Ahern, and Mrs. Rose B. The annual state convention will be held in October, instead of June, as it has been for many years.

Rosenting Hardaway,
Jr., Injured When
Car Backs Over Him

Eight-year-old Rosenting Hardaway, Jr., of 1128 Eleventh street, remained in a serious condition this week at Mercy hospital, where he was taken last Friday night with both legs broken and head and possible pelvic injuries.

The boy was injured when he fell from the rear bumper of a car and was run over as the driver was backing up.

Driver of the car was identified as Mrs. Jeanne Ellen Ewing, 22, of 1142 Ascension street. Patrolmen Cleo Lewis and Lester P. Reed gave this account of the accident:

As Mrs. Ewing came out of her house, she warned three children playing in the street that she intended to back up because her car was

Seeking Education, Jesse J. Hawkins
Then to Texas, Indiana and Iowa

"It was May 17, 1954, when the U. S. Supreme Court made known to the world its momentous decision: that public school segregation violates the Constitution."

"This decision challenges America to show how schools can translate democracy into action. The times call not for despair but for courage; not for a philosophy of escape but for a philosophy of reality," wrote Jesse J. Hawkins of 1182 Ninth street.

A former Des Moines minister, the Rev. Mr. Hawkins, who is on a leave of absence from a teaching position in Mississippi, has been working on his Master's degree at Drake university here since last June. He continued his comments:

Smug Complacency

"This decision was extremely slow in its arrival, largely, due to the attitudes of indifference and the seats of smug complacency on the part of too many Negroes, themselves."

"How many of us can proudly join hands and say, because of our time, efforts, money and support of the NAACP, we have won, perhaps, the important decision America has ever witnessed?"

Even though it has been hard and embarrassing, America, for many decades, has denied our children the good things of life without an explanation because of our own negligence as parents and leaders!

"I am convinced that our willingness to stand up as men without backbones will do more in pushing us forward than our color will do in holding us back."

"I have told my students many times in the classroom that parents and teachers can do just so much in getting them started, after which, the rest of their life's success dependent upon them.

"The U. S. Supreme Court has made its decision. The decision was unanimous. This is the beginning. The future success of the decision rests, to a great extent, upon us. Our opportunity confronts us: what are we going to do with it? asked Mr. Hawkins.

JESSEE J. HAWKINS

His School Life

Born at Center, Mo., Mr. Hawkins revealed that though three white schools were within one-mile radius of his home, the nearest Negro school was eleven miles away at New London, Mo.

Going that distance each day—until bad weather set in, he recalled that "bad weather and farm work permitted me about three months schooling per year."

"I was college age before realizing that eleven miles one way, or twenty-two miles daily with three parked facing a dead end.

She then backed several car lengths before feeling a bump and hearing the children scream. She stopped and pulled the boy out from underneath the car.

The Hardaway boy and Joe Johnson, 11, of 1118 Eleventh street, apparently had climbed on the back bumper of the car as Mrs. Ewing started to back up. The Johnson boy leaped clear and was not injured.

Sen. Wiley to Hold Public Hearing in
D. M. on UN Charter

Senator Alexander Wiley, chairman of Committee on Foreign Relations, has announced that a special Foreign Relations Subcommittee will hold public hearings in Des Moines, Saturday, June 19, on the United Nations Charter.

This is the fifth of a series of "grass roots" hearings that began in Akron, Ohio, in February. These hearings represent the first attempt by the Foreign Relations Committee to take a major foreign policy question directly to the people for discussion.

The hearings in Des Moines were scheduled in response to an invitation from Mayor Joe Van Dresher, on behalf of the people of Des Moines who have indicated much interest in the subject.

In announcing the scheduling of Des Moines hearings, Senator Wiley pointed out that the United Nations Charter will probably come up for review sometime after 1955.

Top N. Y. Vice
Detective Is Shot
By Girl Friend

New York—(C N S)—Following closely behind another sensational case involving a model cop and his murdered estranged wife, this case centers around 37-year-old Detective James Brown of the vice-squad who was shot in the chest by his attractive 27-year-old girl friend, Edythe Evans.

Brown, married and the father of two, was in Miss Evans' apartment at the time of the shooting. According to her, she took the gun from his holster during an argument so that when he tried to wrest the gun from her, it "accidentally" went off.

Friendly for more than three years, the two first met when Brown's work as a vice investigator on the Manhattan district attorney's staff took him to the probation office. She was a clerk there and only resigned her post four months ago. Miss Evans is the mother of a two months old baby. She was charged with felonious assault and held without bail. Det. Brown is on the critical list at Harlem Hospital.

Washington May Serve As
Guide for Border and 17
Southern States to Use

Washington, D. C.—The District of Columbia board of education Tuesday adopted by a vote of 6 to 2 a five-point blueprint for ending segregation of white and Negro children in Washington's public schools.

Plans before the school board, laid down by the superintendent of schools, calls for a start on ending segregation next fall, with completion a year thereafter.

A Guide

President Eisenhower has voiced the hope that a successful plan for wiping out separate schools in Washington may serve as a guide for abolishing school segregation in 17 southern and border states where it has been compulsory.

The plan approved by the district school board is designed to put into effect as rapidly as possible the supreme court decision holding racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

Hobart C. Corning, superintendent of Washington schools, said in a long report that he and his staff "state as a basic premise that the schools will hereafter operate as a single system and that no reference will be made in any way to racial differences among its pupils or its employees."

The Des Moines Veterans Council met last week and made plans "that all veterans organizations and units

Washington Opens
Playgrounds To All Children

Washington, D. C.—(CNS)—Deciding that "there was no reason to put this off any longer," the Recreation Board voted to open Washington's 137 public playgrounds to all children—white and Negro.

The board made the decision at a special meeting in light of May 17th's historic decision of the Supreme Court. The vote to end segregation which had been a subject of much controversy was unanimous.

Just a week earlier it had voted against opening the playground by one vote.

Offers Prayers of Thanks For Supreme Court's Ruling

The Rev. John E. Hunter, pastor of St. Paul AME church, speaking upon the subject, "Out Doing Our Yesterdays," Sunday May 23, took time out before his message, for a silent prayer of "thanks to God for the long over-due step by the United States, through the Supreme Court, to eliminate segregation in public schools."

Referring to this decision, the minister said, "Segregation has had its day, and discrimination its noon. The day of brotherhood is dawning."

'Much Remains to Be Done
To Extend Frontiers of Human Freedom' NAACP

New York—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People regards the unanimous decision handed down May 17 by the United States Supreme Court as a highly significant step in the forward progress of American democracy.

In overruling the "separate but equal" doctrine laid down by Plessy vs. Ferguson in 1896, the Court reinforced the faith of all Americans in the basic justice of our system.

"This ruling further vindicates the 45-year fight of the NAACP to establish the principle that to segregate is to discriminate and, accordingly, violates our Constitution and the American spirit of equality. This decision gives the lie to the Communist propaganda that American democracy is decadent and that Negroes or other minorities cannot obtain justice through the democratic process."

Fully Prepared

"In accordance with the Court's decision, the NAACP is fully prepared to present further argument for the formulation of decrees and will exert every effort to win full community compliance with this historic decision.

"We have high regard for the integrity, intelligence and understanding of the American people, North and South, and their respect for law. We are confident that the people of the South, Negro and white, will get together on the basis of the Court's decision and jointly formulate plans to carry it out at the local level. Our units in the South stand ready

School Decision 'Direct Step Towards Making Democracy Work'

"The United States Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools in the southern states should not be looked upon as victory for the victor and defeat for the vanquished, but to my opinion, a victory for our country and all its citizens," wrote William L. Bell, 1320 Ascension street.

Mr. Bell, a past president of the Des Moines branch of the NAACP, continued:

"It is a direct step toward making democracy work as it should.

"Having been born in a rural community in Texas, and began my early childhood education in that rural neighborhood, I am very much acquainted with the separate school system.

"I often would wonder in my three miles walk to school, which was two miles past the white school, why such had to be?

"The irony of the whole situation was that Negro and white children would play together all the way to school that first mile, then there were always two miles more to walk, and, I often wondered why my friend and I could not go to the same school. With us, it didn't matter.

"Then, too, there was the time we would compare our schools. It was a settled fact that the white school had more to offer its pupils than did the Negro school.

"It is no doubt in my mind that the Supreme Court will erase an evil from our public school education system. Now, that we have gotten rid of the segregated schools, let's all of us get down to the business of making it work. Thanks to the NAACP for keeping up the fight."

months per year, was too much when there were schools close by.

To Mississippi
"I left home and arrived at Southern Christian Institute, Edwards, Miss., where I completed high school and two years of college. Being unable to continue my seminary training in the white schools of Mississippi, I went to Jarvis Christian College, Hawkins, Texas, where I completed the other two years of college for a Bachelor of Arts Degree.

Leaves Texas

"Being unable to attend the white universities of Texas, I went to Butler university, Indianapolis, Ind., where I spent one semester. I came to Drake university and spent three years, receiving my Bachelor of Divinity degree (B. D.) which is a three-year requirement of study after completing four years of college.

"In order to use these seven and half years of study, I went to Mississippi in 1947 as Dean of Religion at Southern Christian Institute. Having been offered leadership of several schools in Mississippi, I came back last June to spend another year of study in the College of Education at Drake from which I will receive a Master's Degree in school administration, in July.

"I am spending this week end at Edwards, Jackson and Tougaloo, Miss., in commencement activities. It will be a good time to get the feel of Mississippi as a result of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision on public school segregation," concluded Mr. Hawkins.

Guacamole Delivers Magic Life To Any Party Table

"Guacamole" is a magic word in Mexico that signals a real taste treat.

An avocado mixture that is at once a sauce, a dressing, a salad and a unique "dip" to be served at your next party, guacamole goes far back in Mexican history. There are records that Cortez ate its avocado base the first time he was fêted as a guest of Mexico in 1519.

Today Guacamole plays just as big a part in the Mexican diet, and is rapidly being discovered by American homemakers who are looking for something new and exciting to serve when entertaining.

In Mexico, Guacamole is prepared in a number of different ways, but invariably at Mexican cocktail parties it is served with corn chips as a "dip."

Guacamole dip with corn chips is wonderful for parties, an excellent adjunct to meals, and fits perfectly on the table in front of the TV set.

GUACAMOLE DIP

1 medium onion, peeled
2 medium tomatoes, peeled
1 small hot pepper
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons salt
2 avocados
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Corn chips

Grind onion, tomatoes and pepper together using fine knife or grinder. Blend in garlic and salt. This mixture may be refrigerated several hours before serving. When ready to serve, pare avocados and remove seeds. Mash avocados and blend with lemon juice. Combine tomato mixture with avocado mixture and serve as a dip with corn chips. Yield: 3 cups dip.

If a slightly more spicy dip is desired, add one teaspoon of hot sauce to the mixture.

Val J. Washington Makes Statement on Historic Decision

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Val J. Washington, director of minorities for the Republican National Committee, issued May 17 the following statement on the decision by the Supreme Court on the ending of segregation in education:

"This Administration can take pride in having thrown its full weight behind the vigorous presentation of this case to the Supreme Court by Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr."

"This is a historic and momentous occasion. The decision could only have been reached in an atmosphere such as the Eisenhower Administration has created."

"In a democracy there can be but one class citizenship for all. It was the promotion of an attitude sympathetic to the advancement of civil rights and equality of opportunity for all by this administration that has made this decision a reality."

Iowa's BALANCED Farming

Iowa farmers can be proud of more new records.

Again, we're first in corn. Also in meat production, including in butter, eggs, clover seed, popcorn, etc., etc.

"It isn't only that we're FIRST," says Extension man Clem Clemens. "It's the fact that our farming's so well-balanced, too." Yes, and that balance goes for most everything else, including our thinking, habits, and way of life. That's what makes Iowa a wonderful state... not for just ONE kind of people, but ALL kinds!

Clem and I don't always see alike, but like most Iowans, we recognize the other's right of choice, and he recognizes ours. Even in little things, such as Clem's preference for riding his bike—or my liking a temperate glass of beer on a hot evening... or Cousin Edna's weakness for graham gems.

Balanced thinking makes us tolerant of the other person's rights. And such tolerance and broad-mindedness make for the true Iowa brand of balanced living.

Mrs. Parker 90 Years Old

Mrs. Armita Parker, of 1014 Thirtieth street, generally spends her days, eating, washing dishes and watching television, but on Thursday, May 18, she celebrated her ninetieth birthday by "not even washing the dishes," she boasted.

Mrs. Parker, who lives with a daughter, Hazel, and a son, William, related the incidents of her birthday, which mainly had much emphasis on the business of eating.

Possessing a good appetite, Mrs. Parker's birthday breakfast consisted of bacon and eggs, toast and coffee. Later she had a light lunch and for supper, she ate one of her favorite dishes, spaghetti.

During the evening, friends and her children and their families gave a birthday party for her and there were gifts and cake and ice cream and singing and games and much merriment.

Referring to parties today, Mrs. Parker said the "kids of today do not have as much fun at their parties as we did when we were coming up."

"We played games like Ring-Around-the-Rosy, Dropping the handkerchief, London Bridge and Hide and Go Seek."

"Oh, Lord, woman! You had some fun," commented the first Negro child born in Albia, Ia., back in 1864.

The frail little mother of fifteen, nine of whom are living, was certain that the children of her day had more fun at their taffy pulling parties where they served ice cream and cake, than the youth do today.

"The kids get together now and they think of smoking and drinking. 'Oh, no,' she paused, as her eyes flashed, 'we didn't do it. It was a rare thing to see anybody drunk.'"

One of twelve children born to Elijah and Mary Morris in Albia, Mrs. Parker revealed that after her mother died a sister, Mary, and herself then 11, kept house for their father.

"He would allow us to go to other children's homes, but if we wanted to go any place on Sunday, we had to start asking him the Monday before. But, come sundown, we had better be at home."

"There weren't many colored people there and we played with white neighbor children—rolling the barrel up and down the hills," she recalled. "Oh yes, I remember the Indians. Mrs. Parker talked. There was none then in Albia, but they would come from a nearby Indian reservation. I was always afraid of them until I found out that they would not harm us. My grandmother was a part Black Hawk Indian."

Mrs. Parker said she had little opportunity for schooling because she had to help care for the younger children in her family. She met her husband, William Parker, at a dance in Cedar Rapids. They married in Mason City and later moved to Des Moines where she has lived 45 years. A coal miner, he died in 1931.

Mrs. Parker revealed that only once did she go to the movies, and that was to attend the memorial services that were being held all over the country for the country's President, William McKinley, who was assassinated in 1901.

"That was a terrible time, then. Everybody was downhearted because McKinley was counted one of the best Presidents."

"When things happened, someone had to go by wagon to each home and tell it. Now, I can sit by television and see them."

"Watching television and eating are my hobbies now," Mrs. Parker said.

Children of Mrs. Parker are: Gertrude Carl, Florence Johnson, Jean Thomas, Hazel Parker, and Frank, Don, Bert, William Parker, all of Des Moines, and Theodore Parker of Chicago, Ill.

About her trip from Canton, Miss., to Denver, Colo., Mrs. Myrtle Jones, wife of the Rev. J. H. Jones, former Des Moines minister, continues her letter, which began in last week's personal Touch column.

"After a night's rest in an Amarilla Texas Hotel and another healthy breakfast, we resumed our journey."

It was another 100 miles travel before we came to the little strip of Oklahoma that divides Texas and Colorado. There we saw dried up rivers and red sand good for nothing. The drought-ridden areas were where the great soils' erosions take place.

"The strangest thing to me was to note that man divides the states by imaginary boundaries and yet God makes such a definite change in the material of the earth until just looking at the soil, one can tell the difference in the states. That sounds strange, but it's very true. Our only major point in Oklahoma was Bols City, a very small town."

"Our next stop was Lamar, Colo., where we had lunch and felt like good American citizens again with another 205 miles facing us to Denver."

"The sun was bright and the weather reasonably warm but 25 miles from Denver the snow storm met us but we made it safe and sound at 9 p. m., with another 500 miles behind us."

"We went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Mallard, who had been expecting us, where we ate a delicious fried chicken dinner with all the trimmings."

"Spottswoods Temple AME Zion church of Denver, our new charge, is just a baby, but it has as members some of the finest church workers in the city of Denver. The church isn't two years old yet and we are the first stationed pastor and family. We don't have a church building but we hold our worship service in the Glen-

THE JOB HAS JUST BEGUN

Considerable time elapsed between the time final arguments were heard and the decision rendered by the U. S. Supreme court in the school segregation case which served to soften the blow even the die hards had become to expect. But as was to be expected such rabid enemies of democracy as Governors Talmadge and Byrnes continued bellow their defiance at the supreme judicial arm of the government.

As a matter of fact, Governor Talmadge says that Negro and white students will attend separate classes even if a company of soldiers is necessary to guard each school. It is problematical just what the governor will do for a certain types of leader in his section have over the years, used every trick at their command to curtail and/or prevent the enjoyment of civil rights by Negroes.

However, the attitude taken by most newspapers and many important figures in the South is encouraging. Either they urge caution in order to work the program out satisfactorily or advise that the people of their state will obey the law.

Many, along with the Bystander, have hailed this decision an answer to Russia who has pointed a finger of scorn at us. But we cannot stop here. The sincerity must proceed to implement the decision. This counts heavily. And the decision will be implemented if those in charge of law enforcement and the good people of each community perform their duty.

KEEP FAITH WITH THE DEAD

Prior to World War II soldiers were not seen in uniform about as common as a police officer and thus here. That sincerity must proceed to Memorial Day did not flare the imagination little. But during the past fifteen years we have lived in a war or a war economy so like soldiers on the battle field there has been little time to look after the dead.

However the people of this country cannot and will not forget those brave men who gave their lives on the battle field that this country and its way of life might be preserved; to help others, who think as we do, to preserve their independence, their right to life, peace and the pursuit of happiness.

Most adults today know someone of these defenders who has passed on in the service of his country. We are all acquainted with the origin of Memorial Day and why it is observed. The dead has died that we might live and enjoy life more abundantly.

During the wars in which these soldiers have fought they had in mind that a victory would end all wars. These soldiers have fought they had in that a victory would end all wars. Most soldiers knew this and gladly made the supreme sacrifice to accomplish it. If anything, wars and possibility of war, have spread bigger and bigger.

Certainly we should honor the dead on Memorial day. It's a token of appreciation. But we shall not have met their challenge unless the things for which they fought have been made a reality.

NOT SO HOT

It is apparent from what has transpired during the McCarthy hearings just how far people with influence, either political or financial, go to get favored treatment for men in the army.

Judging from what was done for the now famous Private Schien, other fellows in his company were justified in their resentment of his preferential treatment.

Out of the Living Past—"The Negro"

by MARION E. HOCKENHULL
Emperor Haile Selassie will visit the United States this week. President Eisenhower invited him as his royal guest.

Emperor Selassie was born, July 23, 1891 in Ethiopia. He married princess Minen in 1912, and they have five or six children.

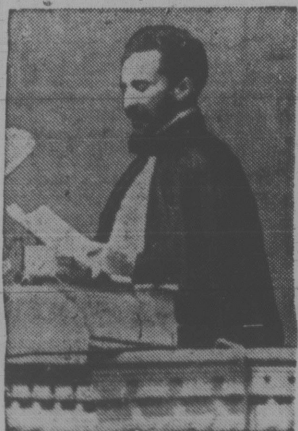

On the 25th of January 1931, the oldest son, Asfa Wassar, was proclaimed Emperor of Ethiopia, Nov. 2, 1930, after the death of the Empress Zauditu, who died April 3, 1930.

Emperor Selassie is a small man with a sensitive brown face. He is very active from early morning until 8 o'clock in the evening, receiving visitors or discussing problems with his subjects. He also often visits the college which is the capital of Ethiopia, Addis Ababa, to discuss education with the students.

Possibly one of the King's most horrifying experiences, was Oct. 2, 1935, when the Italians invaded Ethiopia.

The Emperor with his family took the British warship to England to appeal to the League of Nations who failed him. But in late 1940's in order to secure their own safety, the Allied army had to drive the Italian army out of Ethiopia.

We are hoping that since there are so many Afro-Americans here who are descendants from all parts of Africa, that they too, will give the Emperor a very warm reception; and, that his visit here will be a most pleasant one, in which he'll never tire of telling his grandchildren about it, to deepen his and their affection for this country.

HAILE SELASSIE

He is the father of 3 children. The Board of Foreign Scholarships administers the Fulbright scholarships.

WHY A VACATION?

Silly question Number 555? Not so silly when you think about some of the vacations people take. This is the time of year when we are all thinking and dreaming about vacations. It is the right time to ask yourself why you take a vacation and whether your usual vacation fills the bill.

Do you know a woman who moves her entire family, including four children and dog, from town to lake cottage every summer, who goes right on with her usual routine of housekeeping, clothes washing, and three meals a day without the labor-saving equipment she is used to at home? Her work takes twice as long as usual and she is lucky to get one quick dip in the lake per day. Haven't you wondered why she takes a "vacation"?

What is a vacation supposed to do for you? Business and industrial firms are convinced of its value. People should, they say, come back to work rested, full of new vigor and enthusiasm.

Before starting the family argument on "where shall we go this summer," try to decide what you want the vacation to do. Is physical rest the greatest need? Or is it mental rest away from the countless problems that seem to have taken up lodging in the very pillow you try to sleep on every night? Is it mental stimulation you need—adventure, new faces, and new places? Or physical stimulation to build up a healthier body?

It may be one or a combination of several of these needs that you want your vacation to fill. With thought and careful planning it can happen. And it can often be made to happen with half the expense of a haphazard "change of scene." It can even happen without leaving home at all.

Webster's definition of the word "vacation" is too narrow for most of us. A vacation should be much more than "a time of respite, an intermission or rest." It should give a mental and physical boost for all the months that follow. At the end of your vacation you should be able to say truthfully, "I feel just wonderful."

to defend their city crown and are working out daily. They may have lost a promising young hurler when Delmar Baldridge of a night job. But, maybe, he can play some. Hope he can.

Did you see the number of Negroes out for spring football at Drake? Reports have it that there will be some tough players at Iowa next fall.

We were informed that the new owner of Scotts Pool Hall is named Al Garrison and that we ought to have known better. Sorry Al.

Warrant for Joe

New York—(CNS)—A Warrant is out for Joe Louis as issued by Chief Magistrate Murtagh. It's for disregarding six parking tickets which date back to June '51. The tickets are against Joe's blue Cadillac which carried a Michigan license plate. The warrant directs Joe to appear in Traffic Court in a week.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

That was quite a meet at East High last week. If the fellows could run in more than three events, North would really be tough. But the Polar Bears have to concentrate on the relays. They can't send Ceasar Smith after more than one open race without losing valuable strength.

Then the guy doesn't have to win the state meet mile. If he does he will probably set a state meet record. East High has tremendous all-around team strength and Coach Mike Augustine knows how to spread his guys around to take advantage of his strength. Sam Bradley could win at least one race and place high in two more and along with the other East-runners, may give the Scarlet and Black a strong bid for state meet honors.

East dusted North and Roosevelt in a three-way meet. Augustine giving a fine example of how he can move his team members around.

If you are interested in tennis next week, Barnard Bartz, called "Tut" will play an exhibition match at Birdland Sunday, at about 2 p.m. Bartz is the seventh nationally ranked player and is appearing under the auspices of Lowe and Campbell. The guy is 25 years old and they say he is a terrific player.
