Mrs. Malinda Payne
Hit by Timbers of
Sidewalk Scaffolding

Mrs. Malinda Payne of 1125 Eleventh street was hurt and a dozen others were shaken up during the traffic rush period Monday evening when a Des Moines Transit Co. bus hit a sidewalk scaffolding on Walnut street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

The driver of the bus, J. C. Roland of 1064 Fifth avenue, told police he swerved into the scaffolding while trying to avoid another car.

ThruBus Door

Patrolman James Thompson said timbers from the scaffolding went through the front door of the bus, narrowly missing some passengers. The scaffolding is in front of the F. W. Woolworth Co., 517 Walnut street.

The bus driver's right trouser leg was almost torn off by one of the timbers.

Scattered Lumber

Mrs. Payne was walking on a temporary sidewalk under the scaffolding, along with about 12 other women pedestrians, who narrowly missed injury from the flying lumber.

"It was a miracle that no one else was injured," said Patrolman Thompson. "There were two-by-fours scattered all around and it seemed like there was a woman's head in just about every spot where there weren't any two-by-fours."

Mrs. Payne suffered a bump on her forehead, a black eye, a cut lip and a cut wrist. She was treated by her own physician.

The accident occurred at 5:29 p. m. and west-bound traffic on Walnut street was snarled for about 15 minutes.

Fires Janitor who
World Series

Chester Jones, a janitor at the Polk County courthouse for 18 years, lost his job because he left work to watch world series on television.

Courthouse Custodian Jack Maloy, is confirming Jones' dismissal Friday, October 1, said Jones came to him Thursday noon and asked to get off work to watch the series.

"I told him I wasn't letting the janitors off and he said he was going anyway," Maloy said. "Then, I advised him that he wouldn't have a job when he came back."

Jones said Friday he planned to appeal his dismissal under the soldier's preference law.

Maloy returned to work last week after being absent from his duties since June 28 because of illness.

Say Thousands of
D. C. Children
Ask for Transfers

Washington, D. C.—(CNS)—While Washington is claiming that it's moving along strongly in its effort to serve as model for the rest of the country on school integration, there are thousands of Negro children for whom the process is not fast enough.

2,361 Negro children have applied for immediate transfers to schools they are entitled to attend under racial integration. School Supt. Hobart M. Corning made these figures public. At the same time he cited that 4ths of the city's schools already have pupils of both races now. And the figures on those children who have already been transferred: 355 Negro junior high school pupils to formerly all-white schools on this Monday and 511 senior high school transfers approved making the total number nearly 900 so far.

Firemen Rescue
Girl in Bathroom

Firemen went up a ladder and removed a screen from a second-story window at 1227 Tenth street, about 8 p. m. Sunday. They were met by a fearful 4-year-old girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones. The youngster explained it hadn't been any trouble at all to get the bathroom door locked, but then she found the built-in lock "turned to hard" and her to get out.

NAACP Attorneys Will Appeal Hillsboro, Ohio,
School Adverse Decision

New York.—NAACP attorneys announced here Sept. 30 that they will appeal the ruling of a federal judge to hold over a school segregation case in Hillsboro, Ohio, until after the Supreme Court hands down its final decrees in the decision banning segregated schools.

On Sept. 29 Federal District Judge John H. Druffel said in Cincinnati that he would withhold his decision in regard to the case brought by the NAACP.

The Association's case sought a preliminary injunction against the Hillsboro board of education to restrain the board from requiring Negro students to withdraw from two previously all-white elementary schools, pending the final determination of an action brought by five Negro mothers on behalf of their children.

Judge Druffel ruled that the case be continued until two weeks after the Supreme Court hands down its final decrees.

The Negro children were allowed to enroll in the white schools on registration day, Sept. 7, and were assigned to seats in regular classrooms on Sept. 8. They attended classes each day until Sept. 15, when the board of education advised their parents that schools zones had been established and that the streets on which they lived were in the Negro elementary school zone.

No white children under the board's zoning order were assigned to Negro school.

The Negro children have been kept home from school by their parents since Sept. 15. Their parents refused to send them back to the Negro elementary school.

Roosevelt Democratic Club Meets Oct. 12

The Roosevelt Democratic club will meet at Willkie House Tuesday, Oct. 12, 8 p. m. The meeting is open to the public. All members are urged to attend.

Willa Ashford, home run hitting outfielder of the New York Giants, shows servicemen and USO volunteer how he catches fly balls from "enemy" bats. Out of town servicemen like this boy find New York not a strange city because of USO information services which keep them posted on the places and things to see while there. All USO services are financed by United Defense Fund through Community Chest or United Fund drives.

Baltimore Situation Eases
After Strikes, Picketing;
Demonstrations in D. C.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Vice-President Richard Nixon said Tuesday in opening a day of campaigning in allowing Negro students into formerly all-white schools at Baltimore, Md., and Washington "will not affect in the least the attitude of the president and the people in the administration."

Calling President Eisenhower's leadership the "best the country has had in many years," Vice-President Nixon said he is sure that "men of good will" will join to end the story of controversy over the abolition of racial segregation in schools.

In the meantime, he said, his two daughters will continue to attend desegregated schools in Washington, D. C., where demonstration against the supreme court anti-segregation edict have broken out.

He conceded it is difficult for persons who have "lined with something" for generations to change their attitudes about racial segregation.

The Vice-President came to Council Bluffs to prepare for campaigning speeches for Republican office-seekers, at Waterloo, and Mason City and other parts of the midwest.

Iowa Republicans
Hold Campaign
Strategy Meeting

Iowa Republicans gathered at the Roosevelt Hotel in Cedar Rapids Wednesday, Sept. 29, for a campaign strategy meeting. The day was spent in conferences by national and state chairmen with auxiliaries of the State Central Committee.

Leonard Hall, national chairman, was guest speaker at the evening banquet.

William W. Parker of Waterloo, Iva Hayes, Gilbert Randle, W. Lawrence Oliver, Calvin Pruitt and James B. Morris of Des Moines attended the meetings.

Report on Civil Rights Under Republican Control Shows
'Substantial Steps' Made

New York.—While the legislative roadblock to civil rights remained unchanged during two years of Republican control in Washington, "substantial steps in the direction of full democracy for all" were made by the executive branch of the government, according to a report on Civil Rights Under the Eisenhower Administration, 1953-54 issued this week by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The report, prepared by Clarence Mitchell, director of the Association's Washington Bureau, lists important gains made through executive action and charges that "the failure to pass any civil rights legislation during this session of Congress must be shared by the Administration, its congressional leaders, and the leadership of the minority party."

Anti-Bias Action Landed

President Eisenhower is praised in the report for action against segregation in Naval shore establishments, in schools on military posts, and in armed services generally. Attorney General Herbert Brownell is credited for participation in the public school segregation cases and for his refusal to appoint anti-civil rights officials on two occasions.

Veterans Administrator Harvey Highley is praised for his action ending segregation in Veterans Hospitals but Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, is mentioned as one of the persons who sought to block the ending of segregation in schools on military posts.

Commissioners Cited

Commissioners of the District of Columbia are cited for their prompt action to enforce laws forbidding segregation in restaurants after the Supreme Court held that such laws are valid. The Commissioners also are lauded for ending racial segregation in the District of Columbia Fire Department.

Remaining trouble spots in the executive branch are listed.

Found Innocent of Disturbing Quiet

Ralph John Bruce on Sept. 28 was found innocent of disturbing the quiet of a person by Municipal Judge Howard W. Brooks.

The charge was filed by Mrs. Marie Kiser, 1106 School street, who testified Bruce interfered with a television program she was viewing by rapping on her living room window.

Bruce claimed he rapped on the window to signal Mrs. Kiser's niece—with whom he was keeping company over the aunt's objection—that "I was on hand to take her out."

The niece—Loretha Oliver, who lives with Mrs. Kiser—told Judge Brooks she had been "going steady" with Bruce for sometime.

Seize 55 Lots of Food Unfit for Human Consumption

Washington, D. C.—Fifty-five lots of food unfit for human consumption were seized in August, according to the monthly report of the Food and Drug Administration, U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. A large portion of the 343,568 pounds of food involved was contaminated with filth or was decomposed.

One carload of barley contained a poisonous mercurial compound added as a seed treatment, and a consignment of a soft drink base was seized because it contained coumarin, a deleterious food flavor. Two other food seizures involved dietary products which were deficient in the vitamins they were claimed to contain.

Drug Preparations

The 14 drug preparations seized included 8 glandular products. One consisted of therapeutically active hormones but was only half the strength claimed on the label. The other 7 were combinations of inert ingredients that would be worthless for any purpose. Six of these were not labeled with their intended use and one bore false and misleading claims.

Two dehydrated alfalfa preparations were seized for unwarranted curative claims. One had an accompanying booklet which stated that alfalfa is beneficial in cases of diabetes, rheumatism, Bright's disease, venereal diseases, and many other conditions requiring prompt medical treatment. The second was promoted by counter display cards for the treatment of arthritis and rheumatism.

Costa Rican Maya leaves were also seized because the importer misbranded them with false claims of efficacy in the treatment of arthritis and rheumatism. He placed in each small bag of leaves a pamphlet describing medicinal uses of these herbs by Central American Indians.

Nobody... But Nobody... Should Skip Breakfast

YOUNG AND OLD, EVERYBODY NEEDS A GOOD BREAKFAST each day. And the nice thing about breakfast is that one menu does for the whole family. Especially when you base the morning meal on this Quick 'K' breakfast pattern of fruit, or fruit juice, crisp ready-to-eat cereal served with milk or cream, bread, butter and a beverage. It's hearty enough for the man in the house and yet has lots of appeal for children's fickle appetites.

If you have a problem getting your children to eat in the morning, try decorating the table with colorful, attractive dishes. Choose a cereal, such as Kellogg's Raisin Bran Flakes with plenty of plump sweet-tasting raisins included in every package. Or, perhaps one of the presweetened cereals, such as Sugar Frosted Flakes, is more popular in your house. Round out the menu with orange slices, or other fruit in season, bread, butter and milk. And feel sure that your children are getting the energy and nutrients they need to romp and play these sunny summer days. (ANS)

Everybody's Favorite Chicken and Gravy and Biscuits

You can't beat a good chicken dinner for popularity, especially an old-fashioned chicken fricassee. Choose the plumpiest stewing chicken you can find, so you'll have plenty of rich gravy. Be sure you get all the chicken goodness by adding generous sprinklings of Accent* to both meat and broth. Accent brings out all the natural, full flavors, not only of chicken, but in the vegetables and gravy as well. For the final perfect touch, surround the fricassee with your special hot biscuits or dumplings, bathed in that luscious gravy. A sprinkling of Accent added to the dry ingredients before making biscuits or dumplings works wonders, too! An ideal vegetable accompaniment of course is golden corn-on-the-cob... be sure to have all three shakers handy... salt, pepper and Accent... when you serve it, and don't spare the butter.

Old-Fashioned Chicken Fricassee

Cut fowl in serving size pieces; wash thoroughly; place in heavy kettle. Add 6 cups boiling water, 2 teaspoons Accent, 1 onion, quartered, celery leaves, a few peppercorns and 1 small bayleaf. Cover; simmer 2 to 3 hours or until fowl is tender, adding 1½ teaspoons salt during last hour. Remove chicken to hot platter; strain broth and use to make gravy.

Corn-on-the-Cob

Add Accent to cooking water, using 1 teaspoon per 4 ears of corn. *Accent is pure monosodium glutamate.

Waterloo-Dodgers 19-6

The rain last Friday evening had no go with the local high school youngsters who were determined to celebrate homecoming with a big hour-long parade. A float in the colorful and gala parade entered by the Rooms and 210 was selected the most humorous. A huge sign read: "We can't wait to beat Waterloo." But the slogan did not mean a thing for later on at the homecoming game—between the Fort Dodge Dodgers and the host team from Waterloo, the Waterloo High School Football club's explosive might downed the Dodgers 19-6. Dave Meyers, number 16 player in the game is a Fort Dodger.

United Campaign

THE UNITED WAY

A truly gifted speaker—Dr. Israel Chodos—gave this year's United Campaign a wonderful shove in the right direction last Thursday night. He spoke to about 400 Community Chest conscious individuals at the Labor-Management Rally.

He told a number of humorous stories—the kind you always plan to remember but seldom do. Once, he said, there was a woman of class. She was proper. She was right. She was better than everyone else. She was a real American, more real than those whose ancestors arrived on the Mayflower. Hers were there to greet the first settlers as they debarked.

She was put at the speakers' table at a banquet and lo and behold who was next to her but a "Chinaman." After much milling it over in her narrow mind, she brought herself to speak to the foreigner.

Main Speaker

Leaning over, she said, "You likee soupee?" The visitor said nothing, only smiled. A short time later he was introduced as the main speaker. He was the well-known Dr. Wellington Koo.

He delivered a brilliant address. Then he turned to the haughty lady with her mind full of prejudices and quietly said "You likee soupee?"

(You likee United Campaignee?) You see, Dr. Chodos—author of a soon-to-be-published book called "Count Your Blessings" knows that for the average grown-up laughter is wonderful medicine. Someone who can make you laugh is a kind of amateur psychiatrist.

But Dr. Chodos was more than a high class Red Skelton or Bob Hope. He spoke of those not so self-evident truths in new and colorful ways.

He spoke out in particular against selfishness and self-centeredness. Too many of us suffer from I-stain was his remark. Then he reminded his audience that you can see people through a plain piece of glass. But gild one side of it with silver and all you can see is a reflection of yourself.

As I write about his talk, I remember how convincingly he spoke of the need to give to community chests and united campaigns. I am convinced what he said would have convinced Judas to give 19 of those

TOP KNOT TURBAN... A TOP NOTCH GIFT

What could be nicer for that nice young girl on your gift list than a smartly-styled, hand-made turban — with roomy pouch bag to match. The set is crocheted of handsome Kentucky Soft Spun "decorative" rayon and cotton yarn. In winter white, shot through with a shining gold or silver thread, it is a perfect accessory to "spark up" dark winter clothes. Homemade Peach Conserve is Ideal Gift

Each time you make a batch of this rich-flavored, quick-cooking peach and pineapple conserve, pack part of it in some interesting way for gift use.

For a bridal shower, for example, fill a measuring cup with the conserve and tie the recipe onto the handle. Or fill a couple of tall drinking glasses and give them, complete, with straw jackets or coasters.

For a hostess gift any time, or for Christmas giving (yes, Christmas is coming sooner than you think) pack a cute breakfast jam jar with the delectable spread.

Peach Conserve Tropical
Dice coarsely enough ripe peaches to make 6 cups (It will take about 4 lbs., or 8 to 10 medium-size peaches.) Mix with $\frac{3}{4}$ cup canned crushed pineapple (not drained) in large kettle and cook 3 or 4 minutes, to soften the peaches slightly. Then add 4 cups C and H Pure Cane Granulated Sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. And also, if you like, 1 or 2 tablespoons finely chopped candied ginger. Boil hard, stirring about 20 minutes, or until as thick as you like it. (Test by cooling a spoonful quickly on a cold saucer.) Let conserve cool in kettle, or pour into a shallow bowl. Stir occasionally while cooling, so fruit will absorb syrup, and won't float. Pack cold in small jars or glasses. Cover with thin coat of melted paraffin. Put on lids; label and date jars. Store in cool, dry, dark place. Makes 5 or 6 glasses.

20 pieces of silver to the United which begins its drive for funds on Campaign of Greater Des Moines, Monday, October 11th.

FOR midnight cramming or talk-fests with the girls you'll want to be comfy-cozy. To be just that make this $\frac{3}{4}$ length corduroy housecoat. Large quilted collar and turn back cuffs add real smartness to this full-swinging robe. Can be worn with or without matching belt. You can have free directions for making this by writing to the Home Sewing Department of this newspaper requesting pattern No. E 2396X.

Child Will Obey in Better Spirit If We Show Good Reason for Obedience?

BY AFTON SMITH, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

A girl of 12 asked her mother whether she could go to the picture show that night. Her mother said, "No!" and the girl asked, "Why not?" The mother replied "Because I said so, my dear. Now don't ask me why again."

Daughter lapsed into sudden silence for the remainder of the evening and mother thought she had solved the problem of obedience. Do you think she had secured wholehearted obedience or had daughter gone on the movie in spirit, though not in person?

If we can show the child that there is a good reason back of what we wish her to do, she will obey in a better spirit. But it does not convince a child to tell her she should obey only because it is wrong to disobey one's parents. That isn't a good enough reason. We must have better reasons to offer and we must have clear in our own minds as to just what is a good reason.

For example, we want children to obey at times because their behavior is morally right or wrong. Alice, aged 10, must not jump rope on the neighbor's newly planted lawn because it is wrong to injure the property of another person.

We may want children to obey because it is the custom for people to behave in that way. So we ask Alice to say "please" and "thank you" because people will not think well of her unless she speaks politely. We may want children to obey because it suits our own convenience. So we ask them to play their games in the other room while we talk with callers.

It pays to be clear in our own minds whether we want obedience for reasons of moral significance or social custom, or personal convenience, or for some other good reason. They can be honest with ourselves and with the child. Children respect honest reason.

UPRIGHT BINDWEED
© 1953 National Wildlife Federation

Even the most lowly things on earth can be upright. This is true of the Upright Bindweed which is frequently and correctly also known as the Low Bindweed. Just as a cougar is a mountain lion, a falcon a duck-hawk and a punkie a no-see-un, so is the Upright Bindweed a Low Bindweed. Both of course bear the scientific name Convolvulus Spithameus. They both, since they are the same thing, resemble the common bindweeds, but do not twine around neighboring plants as do most bindweeds. Instead they rest against or lean against neighboring plants. In spite of the name Low Bindweed this plant can grow to a height of 20 inches so here we have a plant that is low but to 20 inches high, is called a bindweed but does not bind and is both low and upright. If that confusion does not make you cuss, just remember that most bindweeds make farmers and gardeners cuss because of the difficulty experienced in keeping them in control.

Underground Parts

Some of the worst bindweeds have underground parts which are easily broken into pieces during plowing or cultivation. Instead of leading to destruction this merely leads to multiplication since each fragment may grow into a new plant that disturbs the farmer even more.

In spite of this villainous record the white, funnel-shaped flowers are nearly 2 inches long and have a most innocent appearance. They flower from June through August.

There are some 200 species of bindweeds in the world. This species ranges from Nova Scotia to Florida and west to Manitoba and Kentucky. It is not such a bad weed at its close relatives, the small bindweed C. arvensis or the great bindweed C. sepium. In some agricultural areas these species offer serious competition to valuable farm crops. While all of these bindweeds resemble morning glories superficially, they are not considered to be morning glories by the botanists.

Insects Assist

Grasshoppers, bees, butterflies, wasps and beetles are known to assist in the pollination of this species. Some kinds of bindweed are able to effect this process without the assistance of insects at all.

The fleshy underground portions of many bindweeds may be most extensive. Some may reach as much as 15 feet underground making it practically impossible for one to dig them out. Chemical weed killers may be the most effective controls. Some use heavy paper or straw mulches to kill the plants by cutting them off from light.

The National Wildlife Federation, committed to a rational understanding of all forms of wild plants and animals by all, presents this plant for your consideration assuring you that it has historic, economic and aesthetic importance.—E. Laurence Palmer.

Personal Touch
By MARIE ROSS

After a recent rest trip down to Kansas where I sat under the backyard trees at home and ate, along with the blujays, my fill of sugar pears, then helped my mother get what was left, into a few jars, I returned to Des Moines feeling revived until I began reading the mail heaped on my office desk.

In the pile of papers, news letters, releases and weekly reports were a couple of postcards. One was sent from Los Angeles, Calif., and it read: "You should be here"—and, the card was signed—"Willie and Luther Glanton."

I picked up the next card, a "Tarjeta postal," with the colorful picture of a torador and a bull, sent from Mexico—and the message was: "Plenty hot and picturesqu. You'd really enjoy it." It was signed "Willie and Luther Glanton."

This week I caught up with the attorneys, The Glantons, at their home at 818 Fifteenth street, where returned last week from a three-week vacation motor tour with Mrs. Glanton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stevenson of Hot Springs, Ark., and her nephew, Mr. Junius Stevenson of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Iowans motored to Hot Springs, left their car, joined the Stevenson party, and headed for the West Coast, where most of their vacation time was spent in Los Angeles with and uncle of Mrs. Glanton's Mr. E. W. Stevenson and family.

One of their main interests in Los Angeles, after visiting the regular places of interest including the Movie Colony, the Glantons were interested in the courts of law. They were much impressed with Judiciary Square with its new law library building and ten other buildings located around a court.

Mr. Glanton, who is one of the Polk County assistant county attorneys here, remarked that the district attorney's office is Los Angeles had eighty-five prosecuting attorneys fifty-three investigators, twenty-three secretaries.

"I was impressed by the way they

Many Exciting and Practical Fashions Presented by Iva Cherry Models of St. Louis

The Mary B. Talbert, Modernistic and Parliamentary clubs brought to Des Moines an array of fall fashions created by a distinguished St. Louis, Mo., dress designer, Miss Iva Cherry.

Miss Cherry's creations, displayed by six attractive St. Louis models, were presented last Saturday night at St. Paul's AME church before an enthusiastic audience which applauded heartily "An Autumn Mood," the title of the evening's performance.

Commentator of the "visits with Vogue" was a former Des Moines resident, Mrs. Atrell Jett Smith, wife of Mr. Lamar Smith of St. Louis, Mo., and mother of two of the teenage models, Barbara and Sandra Smith.

Get Applause

Displaying, also, Miss Cherry's fashions were, professionally trained, Models Alma Beaton, Patricia Raze, Mary Wharton and Josephine Herman, who kept the audience applauding the exciting, the practical and the fashionable features of the women's wear.

Miss Cherry's morning wear, featured pajama suits and coffee coats that returned as street attire with the addition of cummerbund and accessories.

Her street and sports wear creations were highlighted by Bermuda shorts, Scotch plaid wrap around skirt for teen-agers; 32-inch conducted their courts. Each court has its own clerk who keeps records in the courtroom, and two court reporters," Mr. Glanton stated.

Mrs. Glanton visited one of the women lawyers offices, lavishly furnished in one of the fine old remodeled homes, she described. The Glantons said they met one Negro judge, one Negro district attorney; and sat in on a murder trial.

The Iowans visited the Griffith planetarium, the Hal Roach Studios. They were guests of Rev. H. D. Charles, Pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church; entertained by Atty. and Mrs. Everett Porter; visited the celebrated Watkins Hotel.

Leaving California at San Diego, they went into Mexico, stopped at Tia Juana, Rosita, Ensenada, Tecate and Mexicali.

Mrs. Glanton informed that they arrived in Mexico a few days after one of the celebrations of independence and signs of the festivities were still being displayed. Groups of Mexicans serenaded them and pinned flowers on them.

"On the rocks in Mexico you could see the names of their political leaders," Mrs. Glanton talked. She said they travelled around a winding road, through a canyon from Tecate to Mexicali.

The travelers returned to the States through the Southern route, entering El Paso, Texas, where they visited friends; then to Dallas where Mr. Glanton met one of his army buddies. Back in Hot Springs, the Iowans transferred to their car and left for a trip to Tennessee to visit Mr. Glanton's relatives.

In Murfreesboro, Tenn., the Glantons stopped first with his brother, Simon, who operates a large self-service grocery store and is constructing a ranch style home.

They were entertained by Attorney Glanton's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Lord; and Mr. Glanton's father, Mr. Luther Glanton.

In Nashville, Tenn., the Glantons visited Mrs. Ella McKnight, mother of Atty. H. T. McKnight of Des Moines; and then they stopped at Tennessee A. & T. university, their Alma Mater.

"We had no trouble of any kind on our trip," Mrs. Glanton praised.

In the week end mail arrived a fine slick paper special edition of the Virgin Islands magazine with an invitation from the Virgin Island Tourist Development Board to enjoy a perfect-weather vacation summer, fall, winter, or spring in the Tropics."

The 84-page edition featured interesting articles on all phases of life in the Virgin Islands, beautiful color pictures, a scene showing the famed Des Moines-Washington, D. C. contractor, Gov. A. A. Alexander representing a key of the Bluebeard Castle Hotel to the new owners.

And, to make vacation dreams during the winter more miserable came a letter from Mrs. Irene R. Bedard, director of public relations of National Federation of Press Women, announcing an invitation from the Tourist Bureau of the Republic of Mexico for the press women to make sports packets, wool jumpers.

Afternoon Fashions

Tweed was the main fabric of the afternoon fashions. One exciting creation was a two-piece blue tweed fashioned with a straight narrow coat with low belt; a straight skirt with fan pleats at the lower back.

For lounging the order of the evening was "pants". There were dots, stripes, crazy-patch, paisley and moirés—all there were in the popular torador (bull-fighter) pants.

In the After-Five parade of fashions was a tweed coat and dress ensemble for town wear which became a cocktail dress when the coat was removed. Then followed a "great occasion dress" of green iridescent taffeta. It was strapless and fashioned with a full skirt with irregular hemline which fell into an unusual drape in the front where a matching petticoat peeked.

For evening wear, fur pieces covered British lace gowns. Bare shoulders, swirl skirts, sparkling sequins and jewels, taffetas under yards of nylon ruffles and nets in pastels made the climax of the show an evening beauty.

Planst for the show was Mrs. Lorraine Collins. Soloists were: Mrs. Alberta Bates, Mr. Christopher Moore and Miss Catherine Green, violinist.

Rev. Luther H. Smith Takes Vacation 3,000 Miles or More in Eastern States

By LUTHER H. SMITH

I shall attempt to sketch briefly a visit back to the land from which I came. On Friday, June 4, I started on a trip accompanying my daughter, Mrs. Jeannette Bethel and family to Winston-Salem, N. C.

Our first stop was Washington, D. C. arriving there at 4 a.m. Sunday. I missed going to church since it was noon when I awoke. Some of you may have read in Marie Ross' interesting and chatty column of the sons of Des Moines of whom I reported. So I will not repeat at this time, only to comment that too often we are led to believe the grass in the adjoining pasture is greenest.

I went no further with the Bethels. My purpose was to visit my son, Guy and his charming companion. Across the street at 9th and Westminster, N.W., was McGuire's really big funeral home and my young friend, Horace Brown, was a mortician in this establishment. Horace, whom some of you remember had licenses for three or four states in his billfold and the firm averages a funeral daily each year. Horace is not married now but lives with his mother and brother who is one of the leading colored attorneys in Washington.

The following Sunday Horace drove his mother and me to Asbury Methodist Church which is one of the city's show places. Mrs. Brown is the widow of the late Dr. C. K. Brown who pastored Burns some years ago.

The pastor is Dr. Robert M. Williams. They have four full choirs; their membership is 3,000 and 1,402 persons participated in the taking the Holy Communion the Sunday previous. This church was established 117 years ago. I was introduced after the service and a relative of the late Rev. George Robinson made himself known and I had a pleasant visit with the widow of the late Bishop Mathew W. Clair.

Other officers are: Beth Howard, Imogene, secretary; Mary Jane Baker, Iowa City, treasurer; and other members, David Foster, Sheffield, and George Heiring, Marshalltown.

Miss Baker and Miss Howard were elected last March in the all-campus elections; Heiring and Foster represent last year's staff; and Miss Oliver is delegate from the student council. Miss Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs, is adviser.

Miss Oliver is a daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Lawrence Oliver of Des Moines.

The grand ball will honor Lincoln Post and Lincoln auxiliary Hawkeye Boy and Girl Staters.

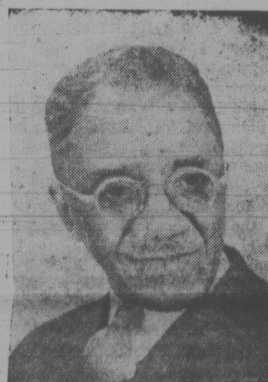

Mrs. Jessie May Edmund, president, Mrs. Mary Frye and Mrs. Mable Mason who attended the Des Moines Council of Units, September 27, at the Highland Park Club Room, gave reports of the meeting.

M. C. Club To Meet With Mrs. Cannon

The M. C. club will meet Oct. 14 with Mrs. Julia Cannon, 1220 Laurel. The last meeting was with Mrs. Vonciel Cropp.

L. H. SMITH

The following Sunday my daughter-in-law escorted me to the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church, Rev. C. T. Murray, pastor. It was the congregation's 88th anniversary and the Rev. M. W. Wilkerson of Baltimore, Md. was the speaker. They have a junior church and also four choirs. Some of the organizations I saw listed was the Ready Club, Red Circle Girls, Boy and Girl Scouts, Young Ladies Usher Board, B.T.U. Sunday School, Mary Sewel, Jr., Girls Nursery Nurses, Earnest Workers and Flower Clubs. Their average attendance is 3,000.

One young man took me on a trip to Petersburg, Va., the home of my parents. We passed through Richmond and I paid a brief visit to the Bank of the St. Luke's order established by Mrs. Maggie Walker. I had a very fine letter from her daughter-in-law who took her place. We worked together in the same real estate office in New York about 43 years ago.

A few of the young people I met included a 16 year old niece of Mrs. Brown, a Miss Thelma Davis, Mrs. Fanny Hall, daughter of H. E. Jennifer, treasurer of Asbury Methodist Church, and a friend of Bishop Clair, Jr., Harold Robinson and family. Young C. C. Johnson came to see me but I was out. Sherman Wilcoits, Theydon Brown and I regretted not getting over to Baltimore to see Clifford Mackey. Guy is manager of a very nice and commodious theatre in Washington. He took me to the Congressional Library and other places of interest.

Our Congressman, Paul Cunningham though busy at the time of my visit took time out to show me around and explained many of the historical paintings and showed me the spots in the walls and ceilings where the bullets were fired by the fanatics some months ago.

I called on our Senator Guy Gillette but missed seeing him. He wrote a letter of regret. I saw the

Omegas to Present Maud Russell in Far East Talk

Maud Russell, who spent a quarter of a century living and working in China during the years of momentous social ferment, will be the guest speaker Sunday evening, Oct. 17, 8 o'clock, at the Des Moines YWCA, Ninth and High Streets.

Miss Russell is being presented by the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

Connected with the Young Women's Christian Association of China for 26 years from 1917 to 1943, Miss Russell worked in many of the major cities of China, and was actively related to the student, labor, women's and other popular movement which have created The People's Republic of China.

Her speaking and reading knowledge of the Chinese language gave particular help in understanding the meaning of social developments, nationalist feeling and reactions on international issues.

Her itinerary has taken her to over half of the States. Her work as publisher of "Far East Reporter," and on the Far East, is peculiarly timely as Asian developments and the U. S. government's Far Eastern policy increasingly affect the well being of the American people.

'Big Brother Night' Thursday, Oct. 21, At Willkie House

"Big Brother Night", one of the top interracial affairs for men and boys of this city, will be held Thursday, October 21, at the Willkie House.

The Olympian Club sponsors of this annual event are again planning an interesting and entertaining program for that evening starting at 7:30 p. m.

Attorney Ted Sloan, veteran athletic official and former All-American football player of Drake University will be the principal speaker for this fellowship meeting.

"Don't send a boy but bring one" to "Big brother Night" is the theme of this year's meeting which is expected to attract a capacity crowd. Tickets are now on sale and reservations can be made by contacting George Robinson Jr. general chairman.

New Leather Can Be Washed with Soap and Water

Were you ever drenched by a sudden downpour while wearing a new suede leather jacket?

Did a waiter ever spill soup all over your new leather coat? You needn't worry about such mishaps any more. Modern science has put an end to these hazards.

U. S. tanners are now producing suede leather that is crock-proof (the color won't come off) and resistant to water and stains. Other newly developed leather finishes make it easy to clean smooth leather garments with a moist rag and a mild soap, no matter how light in color or delicate in texture.

Fine Suedes

New technological developments, including Quilon, a DuPont product, make it possible to dry-clean suede leather garments by conventional methods and at approximately the same price as fabric garments while maintaining the velvety sheen and lustre of fine suedes.

This is all part of the technological revolution in the leather garment field which has made leather popular on Fifth Avenue as well as on Main Street.

These new leather finishes and treatments are good news, indeed since this is the biggest season in history for leather fashions. For sports, utility and fashion, the entire family is going for leather garments, suits and coats as never before.

And leathers are versatile. They range from the rugged leathers in the warm, scuff-resistant jacket which junior wears to school, to soft and clinging leathers preferred by the Paris high couture for their creations.

A BLOT ON DEMOCRACY IN THE UNITED STATES

The most embarrassing single thing happening on the American scene today is the wave of disregard for law and order by students and grown ups in such places as Washington, Baltimore, Delaware and West Virginia who oppose the U. S. Supreme Court decision against segregation in the public schools. And the word embarrassing is used advisedly for no country can prosper or progress in a society where citizens have no control over their emotions and repudiate the laws which the people, through their elected representatives, have made.

Certainly, those people who have hesitated to embrace democracy doubt that it is a good way of life while the communists can point their fingers of scorn at our high sounding declaration of principles but low brow conduct toward each other. And don't think the photographs of these mobs are not being sent over the world.

Disrespect for one law creates disrespect for others. Most communities have long winked at the violation of some of the fundamental civil and political rights laws simply because minority groups were involved. And at the same time, crimes in America have gone higher and higher each year led by the same category—juveniles—who are on parade against law and order generally.

These mobs are reminders of the proslavery disturbances against the abolitionists which occurred in northern communities prior to the Civil War. Officially, even the President, Congress and the Supreme Court leaned toward and/or favored the cause of slavery but the principle was wrong morally and was bound to lose.

It is unfortunate that the churches and kindred organizations did not begin prior to the trouble to prepare the people for the change. True, every Sunday "love thy neighbor as thyself" is an admonition of most ministers to their congregation but altogether too few deal with that great truth as a practical way of life.

But while disturbing, these mob threats will not prevent thoughtful law abiding citizens from continuing their relentless press toward a "more perfect" democracy. Negroes have had more to contend with for years; in their effort to vote, to live in decent homes of their choice, to enjoy their civil rights in other instances. Some have been killed by these mobs. But mob violence, like any other blot on society, cannot stand the forces of right and justice indefinitely.

ADULT EDUCATION CLASSES OFFER MUCH

Adult Education in the Des Moines Public schools begins another session this month offering courses in just about anything a person desires. Classes are held during the evenings; thus offering those who are employed during the day the opportunity to arrange schedules which fit easily into their daily program.

Many people pursue courses which fit them better to live at home; many who left school without finishing a course or feel the need of preparing for or furthering their knowledge of the work in which they are engaged find Adult Education courses a source of great help.

In these days of specialties it is highly necessary that young people receive a good basic education in order to move into particular fields. And then too many youngsters find themselves with an opportunity to go ahead only to discover that he is not prepared to do so.

Adult Education classes attempt to meet these needs, have been popular with the people and successful. People never need quit learning and these classes are helpful in pointing this up.

THE WEST FINALLY GETS AN AGREEMENT

It appears that Secretary of State Dulles has finally secured an agreement among Western European Nations to re-arm West Germany which seems to satisfy France. With this the democracies should be proud.

The Western powers realized that West Germany could be a strong buffer between them and Russia and that if they did not re-arm West Germany, they might lean toward Russia. France has been jittery over the rearmament of Germany fearing that their country might be over run a fourth time by a German army.

Mr. Dulles fought desperately to get the job done. At times his efforts seemed futile but intelligent pursuit of a righteous cause generally produces results.

Two-Year GOP Rule

Executive branch, the report points out, include the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, where employment discrimination still exists, and the Naval Base at Bainbridge, Md., where officials have violated President Eisenhower's non-discrimination orders by barring colored children from a school on the post. The housing policies of government are listed as a force in promoting racial segregation.

Congress Ducks Issue
Congressional committees ducked the issue of segregation in housing, the report states, but the question was raised in reverse when the late Senator Maybank (D., S. C.) tried to strike public housing from the 1954 housing act because the United States Supreme Court refused to review a California Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public housing.

The Maybank move was defeated by an overwhelming voice vote with Senator William Knowland (R., Calif.), majority leader, and Senator Herbert Lehman (D., N. Y.), listed as the only two persons who recorded their opposition to the Maybank proposal for the record.

According to the report, the President not only failed to request Congress to act on any civil rights bill, but also repudiated the action of Secretary of Labor James Mitchell when the latter endorsed an FEPC bill at a Congressional hearing.

In discussing FEPC, the report points out that a Senate bill on this subject was approved by the Labor Committee with only Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) dissenting. However, five of the Republican members expressed reservations about enforcement powers.

Representatives John Heselton (R., Mass.) is described as waging a gallant fight to obtain approval of a bill to end segregation in interstate travel. Those named as blocking the bill were Representative Leo Allen (R., Ill.), chairman of the House Rules Committee, and Minority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas, who halted a move to suspend the rules in order that a vote might be taken on the bill.

The report condemns the passage of legislation giving aid to the states without safeguards against segregation.

Leon Miller Named U. S. Attorney for Virgin Islands

He was married 27 years ago to the former Miss Mildred Foster. They are the parents of three daughters: Artelle Hazel Miller, a New York Chemist who received her Master's degree from Columbia University; Willa Jane Miller Johnson, who has received degrees from Flak and Atlanta Universities and was formerly employed as a medical social worker at Tuskegee; Lydia Patricia Miller, a junior at Boston University where she is majoring in physical therapy.

Active G. O. P.
Mr. Miller is a former member of the Welch City Council. The Welch daily news editorialized on this outstanding citizen—"In the naming of Mr. Miller to this important post, President Eisenhower is showing the same excellent judgement and keen perception as to the candidate's qualities, that has characterized nearly all his appointments to date. He is a gentleman in every respect as well as a fine lawyer."

Mr. Miller has been active in Republican activities since 1923, when he became President of the Mingo County Republican Organization. He was a member of the State Executive Committee for 16 years; served as Assistant to National Committeeman Hallanan, who was Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements in the 1948 National Convention. HEALTH FOR ALL

CHECK-UP

One of these days Junior will bring home from school a notice that it's time for his physical check-up. You'll take him over to the family doctor for a complete examination that will certify him as hale and hearty, able to take part in every school activity.

But how about the rest of the family? Is every member ready for the fall and winter seasons? Mother, father, grandma may not be trying to make the football team, but they, too, need to know they are in the best of health meet the increased demands of the coming months. Let the school's reminder give notice to the whole family that it's time for a check-up.

A complete physical examination now for every member of the family is your best start on a healthy winter. It's easy to say you feel just fine and don't need anyone to tell you you're healthy. But can you be sure?

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY
If you were at the Iowa-Montana game last week you probably didn't see too much because the Westerns didn't offer too much competition. We will all be watching the Michigan game to see just where the Hawks come out.

We watcher Illinois and Stanford have it out. That J. C. Caroline and Bates are still stars even if the Illinois tackles and really drilled what few holes they found in the rugged Stanford defense.

Baseball
Well the Giants wrapped up the World's Series a lot faster than we thought they would. It was interesting in that at one time six of the eighteen players were Negroes.

Couldn't feel sorry for Bob Feller who didn't get to pitch. He was one leading "experts" who argued that Negroes would never hit major league pitching. Then he sounded off on Willie Mays after this series when the less he said the better he would have appeared.

Thompson and Irvin for the Giants did all right as Willie Mays really lived up to advance notices.

High School
We will have to come in with North's Irvin Franklin. We said that all North needed was a field leader and it looks as if they have one in Franklin. The guy can run and literally tear out of the hands of tacklers. If he continues his present pace they will have to dust off an all-state bench for the young man.

East High staged the game of the week when they dusted a powerful East Waterloo team in the latter's tobacco and auto fuel manufacturers carry the date as originally scheduled and were printed and released prior to the date change.

Tuberculosis has no symptoms in its early stages. A person can feel and look perfectly healthy and yet have TB. As long as the disease goes undiscovered, it gets progressively worse. TB can be cured, but it is most easily cured in the early stages. Delay can be fatal.

Not only will a physical check-up uncover any disease or condition which needs treatment but the doctor can also advise you how to get through the fall and winter without the usual "one cold after another."

While winter holds sway, millions of Americans fight the common cold. Others suffer from more serious respiratory conditions ranging from laryngitis to pneumonia. Your doctor will suggest the best measures to build up resistance to infection, to help you maintain good health "whatever the weather."

backyard. Jim Clark helped wrap this one up. The field was so muddy you couldn't tell who the players were.

While we are on East High subject, we received a letter from Mrs. Virginia McQuerry, mother of Chuck McQuerry. She resented the statement that someone made about a player not training. Told us we didn't know what we were talking about. Well, we couldn't argue that point. But we did send the Mrs. a letter explaining our side of the story and hope she accepted it as we meant it. We have known the McQuerrys for sometime and would hate to fall out with them now.

Pro Football

In case you are wondering what happened to Buddy Young you found out if you read the sports pages Monday morning. The guy got back in shape and scored a flock of touchdowns for his team.

The San Francisco's team with its nearly all-Negro set of backs literally ran over the Los Angeles Rams last week, but the dual ended in a tie. Those two big fellows in the backfield, Fowler and Jones are really tough.

A STRANGER COMES

From the vast somewhere—out in space and time—
whence spawns creation—music—
rhyme,
with a muted roll of the stellar drums—
the heavens glow, and a stranger comes.
When the mind believes, and the heart receives,
then the rich concept of the soul achieves;
for its thought transcends all the earthly grime,
seeks the peaceful vales of a star-strewn climate.

trouble."

In Delaware, nine of 11 Negro pupils were awaiting the result of a argument next Tuesday on an injunction filed to allow the pupils to return to the Milford school.

The state board of education transferred the pupils from Milford to Dover after a week-long boycott by Milford white pupils while the Negroes attended classes there.

In Savannah, Ga., the Savannah Protestant Ministerial Union adopted a resolution urging citizens of both races to recognize the supreme court decision as "the supreme law of the land" and to "guard themselves against hasty . . . criticism, uncharitable attitudes and bitterness."

Fire Prevention Week Oct. 3-9

New York—October 3-9 will mark the 35th annual observance of Fire

When the pale moons glow brings the dreams of love and the psyche longs for the realms above, let theb ody rest and the soul roam free
may it soar to the shore of mairtain sea.
Should the inmost thoughts like to dwell awhile,
on a Grecian hill—or the banks of the Nile,
the wish in the heart, lets the soul go on—to the years ahead, or an age long gone.
The gifts you gave from a hard-won hoard

Prevention Week throughout the nation. During that week public attention will be directed to the ever-increasing need for greater fire safety and protection. President's Message

A letter from Thomas E. Stephens, secretary to the President said: "The President has read with interest and appreciation the recent letter you sent him regarding two of his addresses. He is glad to know that they met with your approval and he is especially grateful for your prayers."

"Inasmuch as you have just celebrated your eight-eighth birthday, the President has pleasure in extending congratulations and best wishes to you."

Rev. Wm. H. Wheeler, 1026 Sixteenth street, retired Methodist minister, who wrote President Eisenhower recently a letter of commendation, received a reply from the President, written Sept. 17 from Denver, Colo.

The Rev. Mr. Wheeler expressed in his letter that he was "pleased with the address you gave to the Council of Churches and also one on the review of the 83rd Congress."

The Iowan informed that "I have just reached my 88th birthday, Sept. 1. I have voted the Republican ticket every time with the exception of one at which time I voted the prohibition ticket."

"My prayers are for you and for as you shared your shelter, bed, and board;

all the self-less acts of a loving heart,
have marked you now as a soul apart.
When the spirit grows to a spatial scope—
the keys are known, and the doors they ope, then the One who came—He shall be thy sword, pointing out beyond, where thy deeds are scored.
