Capital Close-up From Washington

By CONSTANCE DANIEL

Four Senators and The Flibuster
Once-upon-a-time, a brand-new Senator named Lodge, (Boston) told a weekly reporter named Daniel, that Republicans wouldn't fight a filibuster (Bilbo was on the floor and going strong) because, "We might want to use it, sometime, ourselves."

Once-upon-another-time, a West Coast Senator—Independent named Morse—won top honors in a talkathon that tied up Senate business for 22 hours.

Now comes Democrat Senator Lehman, from the Cradle of Presidential Hopefuls, saying he's opposed to filibuster but promising to run a strictly qualified inference, only if a filibuster should break on civil rights.

Finally, comes Democrat Senator Paul Douglas from the Midwest, to say that the Morse filibuster was no filibuster at all—just "extended debate."

Well, as Gertrude Stein would say: "A filibuster is a filibuster is a filibuster." Which leaves us where?

Leo A. Hoegh, First World War II Veteran To Become Iowa Governor

Leo A. Hoegh, 46, first World War II veteran to become governor of Iowa, was sworn in by Charles F. Wennerstrum, chief justice of Iowa Supreme court, in a ceremony held Thursday afternoon, Jan. 13, at the Statehouse.

Present at the inaugural ceremony ies which took place in the house chamber were members of the 1953 legislature, elective and appointive state officials, supreme court judges and hundreds of non-official guests.

In his inaugural address Governor Hoegh outlined ways for the state government to gain about $25,000,000 a year in tax revenue and through improved governmental efficiency.

Approximately 5,000 persons attended the reception, which featured for the first time at state inaugural

Protest Navy Plan To Segregate Negro Crew At South Africa

Washington, D. C.—(CNS)—Two liberal Senators, Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota rushed strongly worded protests to Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas on learning that the Navy planned to segregate the 400 Negro crewmen of the carrier Midway when it docks at Capetown, South Africa.

Lehman said the Navy's reported agreement seems to "constitute official acquiescence and willingness to submit our own citizens to the infamous Apartheid laws of the Union of South Africa."

The Navy, through its acting Secretary of the Navy, James H. Smith, Jr., is defending its segregation plan with these points: "First the visit of the Midway to Capetown is being made to satisfy an operation logistic requirement. Second: It is customary to observe local laws and regulations while visiting a foreign point. Third: we have been advised that the American Consul General in Capetown and the commanding officer of the ship understand the problem and are making mutually acceptable agreements."

Congress Urged to Enact Civil Rights Proposals

Washington—Support of civil rights measures pays off at the polls, Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told members of Congress in a letter seeking to enlist their aid for Association-sponsored bills.

The letter, made public Jan. 14, cited the election of Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) and Theodore McKeldin, Republican governor of Maryland, as an indication that "where pro-civil rights voters have a clear cut choice between proponents and opponents of a civil rights and humanitarian program . . . they invariably cast their votes for the proponent, without regard to his political affiliation."

Provide Model

The senators and representatives are urged to support "a legislative program to eliminate second-class citizenship from the American scene and provide a model for those nations of the world that are orienting themselves toward the democratic ideal."

Specifically, Mr. Mitchell called upon the congressmen to revise the Senate and House rules "to prevent filibusters and other tactics of obstruction," and to enact laws prohibiting discrimination in employment, banning Jim Crow in interstate travel, eliminating the poll tax as a requirement for voting, establishing a new Federal civil rights code, and withholding federal funds from any state or locality which would use such funds for the purpose of setting up or maintaining racial segregation or other racial discrimination.

Fiery Bustamante Loses Control of Jamaica

Kingston, Jamaica.—(CNS)—The colorful W. A. Bustamante, chief minister and veteran leader in Jamaica politics, lost control of his country when his party failed to win in the island's House of Representatives election.

Probably considered not "radical" enough, Bustamante's victor was none other than his first cousin and bitter enemy, Norman Washington Manley, who as leader of the People's Party pledged to work for complete Jamaican self-government and the economic development of the country with the aid of capital from abroad. To this statement, Bustamante replied: "Nationalism is not the answer to our problem."

NAACP to Rescue Negro Victims of Unfair and Vicious 'Credit Squeeze'

New York—A total of $40,000 in the first week has been deposited in the Tri-State Bank of Memphis as the result of a special effort spearheaded by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to help rescue Mississippi Negroes from the "credit squeeze" imposed upon them by white financial institutions in the state.

Administrator Roy Wilkins announced that the NAACP itself had deposited $20,000 of its reserve funds in the Memphis bank, and that the Detroit Metropolitan Mutual Assurance Company and Edward Kivie Kaplan of Boston, Mass., had each deposited $10,000. Checks should be made payable to the Tri-State Bank of Memphis. The address is 386 Beal Avenue. Dr. J. E. Walker is president.

loans from Mississippians. A minimum of $500,000 is being sought.

Mississippi homeowners, businessmen and farmers are being denied credit by white banks in an effort to force them to accept segregated schools and to cease trying to register and vote. They are being turned down if they belong to the NAACP or sympathize with its program.

Small businessmen are being asked for cash on delivery of goods. Banks are refusing to re-finance farm mortgages or to advance money needed to start a new crop. Negro professional men are on a C.O.D. basis for supplies and some are having their insurance cancelled. Big white plantation owners are forbidding their Negro tenants to go to Negro doctors and dentists.

Challenge

"This is a challenge to Negro individuals and institutions that have millions of dollars lying in banks all over the nation," Mr. Wilkins said. "If they will send only part of their funds to the Tri-State Bank the vicious and unfair Mississippi squeeze will be licked and our people in the Pres. Maglorie to Spend 5 Days in U. S.

PRESIDENT MAGLORIE

New York, N. Y.—New York City officials roll out the welcome mat for His Excellency Paul Maglorie, President of Haiti, when he arrives in the big city on Saturday, Jan. 29, for a five-day whirlwind visit and reception.

The Haitian official, who begins a formal three-day reception in Washington, beginning on Jan. 26, will arrive in New York City on late Saturday afternoon, Jan. 29, in a motorcade from West Point. That evening, he will be presented at a dinner at the Essex House, given by the Haitian Consul General.

To Lunch With Cardinal

Sunday, Jan. 30, President Maglorie will receive mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral, followed by a noon luncheon with Cardinal Spellman. In the afternoon, he is scheduled to be the guest of Rev. Adam C. Powell in a tour and visit to Harlem.

The official city celebration is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 31, with a tickertape parade up Broadway to City Hall, where he will receive the city's scroll and medal of honor. A stag luncheon will be held for leading dignitaries at the Empire State Building, while the ladies will dine at Gracie Mansion as guests of Mrs. Wagner.

President Maglorie will be in New York for two more days of visits and parties before flying to Nashville and a return stop to New York before returning home after three weeks in the United States.

Long Awaited Suit Against Levitt's, Private Home Builders, to High Court

Philadelphia — The long-awaited discrimination suit against Levitt & Sons, Inc., the world's largest builders of private homes, reached the Federal District Court Jan. 13.

The legal action against the builders and developers of Levittown, Pa., and Levittown, Long Island, was brought in a complaint filed with the U. S. District Court of Eastern Pennsylvania by attorneys for NAACP Legal Defense in behalf of six Negro veterans who were denied the right to buy homes in the new Bucks County, Pa., community developed by Levitt.

Seeks Injunction

The legal action seeks an injunction restraining the firm of Levitt & Sons, Inc., from discriminating against Negroes in the sales of homes in the Pennsylvania community as long as he uses the credit, guarantee, insurance, approval and assistance of the Federal Government.

Levitt, throughout the years, has consistently refused to sell to Negro families in any of his projects. He has resisted pressure from every source and once indicated that he would never allow a Negro to buy a home in the newly developed Bucks County community.

Three of the Negro veterans in whose behalf the suit is brought tried to purchase homes in the Levitt's Bucks County development as early as 1951 when he opened his first model home and the others as late as June of 1954.

When the Levitt's Bucks County community is completed, it will consist of 16,000 small homes which will be sold in individual purchases. The mortgages on these homes are either insured by the FHA or guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration.

Hold Rites for Widow of Dean William Pickens

New York City—Funeral services were held Jan. 12, at the Delaney Funeral Home, for Mrs. Minnie Cooper McAlpine Pickens, widow of the late Dean William Pickens. She died in Mount Morris Park Hospital Jan. 9, following a long illness.

Death came to the 74-year-old widow less than nine months after her husband, former NAACP director of branches and noted author and lecturer, had suffered a heart attack and died last April while the couple was on a cruise off South America.

Friends said Mrs. Pickens, who lived at 260 W. 139th St., had been suffering since returning from the cruise.

Active Worker

A native of York Station, Ala., Mrs. Pickens was a graduate of Toogaloo College, Miss., and taught school for several years. In New York she has been active with the Harlem YWCA and the Committee of 100 Women of the NAACP.

She is survived by a son, William Pickens, Jr.; two daughters, Miss Harriet I. Pickens, and two grandsons, William Pickens, 3rd, and Richard W. Pickens.

Sent Messages

Top officers of the NAACP sent messages of sympathy to the family. Telegrams were sent by Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman, NAACP Board of directors, Walter White, executive secretary and Roy Wilkins, administrator.

With segregation deeply imbedded in tradition, most Southern dailies have opposed trying to end it by "judicial fiat." Even liberal Editor Hodding Carter of Greenville (Miss.) Delta Democrat-Times, who opposes

Time Magazine Reports on Survey of South's 'Number 1 Story', High Court Ruling

New York, N. Y.—To newspaper readers in the South, the No. 1 story is the result of the Supreme Court's decision banning segregation in the public school, Time Magazine reports in its Jan. 17 issue.

How are Southern newspapers covering the story? In the opinion of many a southern newsmen, the papers have done a mediocre job to date. With few exceptions, they confined coverage largely to wire-service stories and the printing of official announcements and speeches on the subject.

In Nashville, for example, where the city's two dailies reported that Catholic schools were desegregating completely, neither paper followed up the news to see how well desegregation was working.

One reason for the lack of enterprise; feeling about segregation runs so high in the South that no matter what stand a paper takes, it is certain to antagonize large groups of its readers. As a result, some dailies, say Atlanta Constitution Editor Ralph McGill, "have taken the position that the less said about desegregation the better—on the theory that if you don't talk about something you dislike, you'll wake up one morning and find that it's done away."

segregation on "moral grounds," feels that the Supreme Court decision has hurt the gradual progress of desegregation in the South by forcing both segregationists and desegregationists to "extremes."

But now that the Supreme Court has struck segregation down, Tuskegee Institute reports that less than one-quarter of Southern dailies surveyed still flatly oppose the court's verdict.

"Most papers," say one Louisiana newsmen, "take the position that the court's decision is the law and the

Johnny Ace Rites Largest in Memphis City of Song

Memphis, Tenn.—Almost five thousand persons, one of the largest crowds in the history of city of song, crowded every nook of Clayborn Temple AME church and flowed into the streets, for the funeral of John M. (Johnny Ace) Alexander, pop-band leader.

Ace, who lost his life during the holiday season to "Russian Roulette" in the dressing room of Houston's City Auditorium, was one of the most spectacular young band leaders in the country.

Ace, a favorite with juke box fans all over the country, was known as an outstanding exponent of rhythm and blues music. His song, "Yes Baby," was one of the best. His rendition of "My Song" had sold 53,000 copies before it was released.

Reservations Mount as Moulin Rouge Nears Completion; To Be World's First Interracial Resort Hotel

Las Vegas, Nev.—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion and now part owner of the multi-million dollar Moulin Rouge, Las Vegas resort hotel, announced that reservations for accommodations continued to mount as the hotel neared completion.

"Construction on the hotel has been going according to plan," Louis said, "and it will be finished sometime in mid-March."

"Since construction began in July," continued the former champ, "reservations have been pouring in from all over the country. We also answering the many requests for information about the facilities at the hotel. To avoid disappointment, I'd suggest that those who want to attend the opening make their reservations as soon as possible. At our present rate we'll soon have to refer reservations to later dates."

Resort Hotel

The Moulin Rouge, first interracial resort hotel in the world, will cost an estimated three million dollars when completed. Present plans call for 250 rooms, with provisions for additional 250 rooms to be constructed after the hotel is opened. Other accommodations will include a giant swimming pool, a golf course, a casino, several exclusive shops and a yacht to be placed at the disposal of the guests.

One of the top attractions, a theatre-restaurant, will accommodate approximately 450 guests. It will be one of the largest in the country and will feature such popular entertainers as Lena Horne, Billy Eckstine, Sammy Davis, Jr. and many others.

Clarence Robinson, top-ranking Negro producer, has been contracted to stage shows at the Moulin Rouge. Now on a nation-wide tour for talent, Robinson hoped to have the most beautiful chorus line in the country for the March opening.

Lids on Cabinet Door
ROUND-KNOBBED lids of cooking utensils may be neatly stored inside a cabinet door where they will be both accessible and occupying otherwise waste space. Here are directions for making this handy storage unit:
Measure the door and obtain a piece of Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood which covers the interior excepting for one-half inch on all sides. If the door is paneled, there will be room between the cabinet door and the Presdwood for the knobs to fit into openings the shape of large keyholes. If the interior is one plane from one side to another, it will be necessary to install a strip of lumber about one inch thick as a perimeter.

Lay out the round-knobbed lids on the Presdwood so that their positions may be marked. With a bit and brace, bore holes about one-quarter inch larger than the knobs. Underneath each, with a keyhole saw, complete the oversized keyhole, forming a slot into which the neck of the knob will fit. The final step is to fasten the panel to the interior of the door with finishing nails. The panel may be left unfinished or painted.

Cake of the Month

Happily for the modern homemaker, party cakes are speedily made with modern cake mixes. Speaking for itself is this special birthday cake accompanied by party cupcakes—all made with two packages of cake mix: one yellow and one devil's food. Top each frosted cupcake with a colorful candle to light the way to many, many more Happy Birthdays.

Marble Cake with Candle Cupcakes
1 package Swans Down Yellow Cake Mix
1 package Swans Down Devil's Food Mix
Chocolate Frosting
Butter Almond Frosting

Prepare cake mixes as directed on packages. Spoon half of the yellow batter into paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Use half of the devil's food batter in the same way.

Put large spoonfuls of the remaining yellow and chocolate batters alternately into two round 9-inch layer pans, which have been lined on bottoms with paper. With a knife, cut through batter in a wide zigzag course to marble. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes for cupcakes and 25 to 30 minutes for layers. Cool cakes.

Spread Chocolate Frosting between layers, over top and sides of cake, and over tops of yellow cupcakes. Prepare Butter Almond Frosting. Put a little of this in a paper cornucopia to write "Happy Birthday" across top of cake. (If frosting is too soft to use in tube, add a little confectioners' sugar.) Spread rest of Butter Almond Frosting on chocolate cupcakes. Insert a candle in each cupcake. Chocolate Frosting. Measure 6 cups sifted confectioners' sugar.

Number One Story

South will have to make the best of it."

Last week in North Carolina, the biggest paper in the state showed how Southern dailies are making the best of it. The Charlotte Observer (circ. 136,302) opposed a proposal for the state legislature to adopt a "declaration of policy" favoring segregation, saying that debate on such a measure would only "offer a forum . . . for the more important voices—a stage and a place in the headlines for opportunists."

Most newsmen agree that the biggest newspaper problem is to fight hotheaded extremists on both sides. Such rabble-rousers as Race Agitator Bryant Bowles and Florida Sheriff Willis McCall (Time, Dec. 13) have been vigorously opposed in the Southern press.

Freedom to Protest

On the other side, newspapers have staunchly defend the right of desegregationists to say what they please. In Jackson, (Miss.), a self-styled "Negro emancipator" named Arrington High attacked state officials so savagely in his mineographed weekly Eagle Eye that he was arrested and fined three times on the charge of "distributing handbills without a permit." The press defend his right to print the weekly, and the county court overturned his last conviction, ruling: "No matter how great the provocation, governmental agencies cannot indulge in indignation . . . The situation (cannot) be helped by an unlawful arrest and conviction."

Admit Privately

Actually, many editors admit privately that they favor ending segregation, but do not say so in their papers for fear of stirring up diehards and robbing their papers of all editorial influence.

For example, in South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi, where the state governments have been empowered to get around the court's decision by making public schools "private," few newspapers have strongly opposed the plan.

In Louisiana, where the legislature decided that measures to enforce desegregation would violate the state police power to maintain "peace and good order," hardly a daily attacked the decision. "It would have been like trying to put out a fire by spitting on it," explained one editor. "There wasn't any need to waste ammunition. Everybody knows, even the sponsors, that the amendment never can stand up in court and is just a delaying action." But in Virginia, many papers have sharply criticized rabid segregationists and even blasted Gov. Thomas B. Stanley for appointing a desegregation study commission with no Negroes on it.

While most of the papers caution their readers to remain calm in the face of desegregation, many of their readers have been hard to convince.

Racial Line

Wrote one letter-writer to the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser: "Put the little blacks and whites in the same schools, they associate freely in the classroom. Then, in the course of time, the racial line disappears. What then? This: 'Will you give me a date.' 'Yes.' And then, 'Will you marry me?' 'Yes.'"

The minority of papers that have campaigned actively against desegregation are equally outspoken. The Jackson (Miss.) News flatly said in an editorial that "Mississippi will never consent to mixing the races in our public schools."

One big failure of the Southern press in covering desegregation is that most of the news is "crisis news." A riot, strike or attack on a school building makes Page One, as do statements by such extreme segregationists as South Carolina's Governor James Byrnes and Georgia's Herman Talmadge. Thus the roaring voices and dramatic news often drown out the even bigger and more dramatic story of the steady, quiet progress that desegregation is making in the South. One remedy for such spotty coverage is the Southern Education Reporting Service, set up by working newsmen, the service publishes a monthly factual bulletin that reports state by state the progress of desegregation. The bulletin goes to some 25,000 newsmen, educators and public officials. Recently many private citizens have started subscribing also, to fill in the gap in newspaper coverage.

Million-Dollar Ambassadors

New York, N. Y.—"The 60 Negro members of the U. S. company of 'Porgy and Bess' here in Cairo have served as 60 ambassadors of good will, worth perhaps a million dollars as pro-American propagandists," reported correspondent Frank Kearns from Egypt on CBS Radio's "News

New Social Science Unit Set Up by NAACP to Aid Desegregation Programs

New York — In effort to assist Southern states in the change over from segregated to non-segregated schools, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund has established a new Social Science Department, Thurgood Marshall, Director-Counsel of Legal Defense announced Jan. 17.

New Departments

The new Department is made possible by an $8,000.00 grant from the Prince Hall Masons, Mr. Marshall disclosed. The Masons, during the past three years, have contributed more than $64,000.00 to underwrite legal research which was an important factor in the preparation of the cases presented before the Supreme Court, he said.

The work of the Social Science Department will be guided by a Committee of Consultants consisting of many of the nation's leading social scientists, and headed by Dr. Alfred McClung Lee, Chairman, Sociology Department, Brooklyn College, Mr. Marshall added.

On Committee

Serving with Prof. Lee on the Committee on Consultants which will direct the Department, are 43 sociologists, anthropologists, economists, historians, theologians, and educators on the faculties and staffs of 28 universities, colleges, research institutions and governmental commissions. Located in 18 states and the District of Columbia, the social scientists' panel includes men and women working in such southern states as Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, as well as border states like Delaware, Maryland, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania where in some areas segregated public school still persists.

Mr. Marshall stated that Legal Defense's former field secretary, June Shagaloff, has been appointed executive secretary of the Social Science Department.

Findings Cited

The findings of some of the social of America."

"They've captivated the Egyptians with their bubbling energy, friendliness and honesty. To people in the streets and in the shops, to guests at parties and even to students in university forums, they've been a revelation. They've answered direct questions with direct answers. They've talked about America as no diplomat ever could. And they have, 'caused a revolution in music.'"

scientists on the panel were cited by

Chief Justice Earl Warren in reading the Court's unanimous opinion outlawing segregation in public and elementary schools, the Director-Counsel of Legal Defense asserted. "Many of these social scientists have also assisted NAACP attorneys in recent years by testifying to the effects of segregation on the development of Negro and white children, in court arguments and the preparation of the briefs for the Supreme Court arguments."

"During the initial period of school desegregation last fall, members of the social scientists committee served as observers in areas where disturbances developed including White Sulphur Spring, West Virginia; Milford, Delaware; Baltimore and Washington," Mr. Marshall said.

Gains Can Be Made

"It is our hope that long-standing prejudices, misconceptions and fears can be overcome," Mr. Marshall and Professor Lee in a joint statement said. "Through understanding work with the positive elements to be found among the Negro and white populations of every community, North and South, great gains can be made."

"A great victory for human rights has been won in the court," they declared. "We hope that the board implications of the Supreme Court's ruling can be realized throughout outland through mutual understanding among people, and without recourse to the courts. When necessary, legal action will continue to be taken, but the new Department of Social Science, under the direction of the Committee of Consultants, will provide us with tools to assure the rights of Negro children through cooperative efforts."

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Gwendolyn Fowler, Des Moines technician, is scheduled for a new assignment to an overseas job, officials of the foreign operations administration (FOA) said Jan. 11th.

Mrs. Fowler, a pharmaceutical specialist, was denied a job as adviser to the Ethiopian government last week. Mrs. Fowler thought the Ethiopian government might have objected to her appointment.

Mrs. Dorothy Houghton of Red Oak, Ia., assistant FOA administrator, interviewed after Iowa Republican leaders expressed their displeasure that Mrs. Fowler was not appointed.

Raymond Odom, administrative officer in FOA, said an FOA official will leave Washington for a survey of the agency's operations in the Far East and that he expected a new position would open up for Mrs. Fowler soon.

No Promises

"The job is Ethiopia," Odom said. "was as a medical supply adviser. Although Mrs. Fowler has a good technical background, it was not felt that her experience was broad enough to qualify her. No promises were made, either verbally or in writing, that Mrs. Fowler would receive this appointment."

Asked what the qualifications were for the Ethiopian job, Odom said that a medical doctor's degree or a doctor of philosophy degree might be necessary, but that in any event an applicant should have "considerable experience" with the top pharmaceutical companies of this country.

Mrs. Fowler had been "oriented," Odom said, in a 6-week course in Washington along with other women for possible assignment to overseas jobs.

Yunker's Staff of Elevator Operators in New Uniforms

Sunlight and Snow Make Dramatic Pictures Easy

FLOWING brooks bordered by snowy banks have won an endless array of ribbons and prizes in photographic contests. Snow pictures, whether taken for artistic effect, or to show people having fun with winter sports . . . on vacation trips or in your own backyard . . . are pictures you shouldn't overlook. The subject material can make any of us an artist with the simplest camera if we treat it right.

Snow comes to life under bright sunlight. It isn't photogenic in the usual sense on dull days. But when the sun sets it aspartle—that is certainly time for picture taking. On days like that, snowy landscapes are filled with contrasts, offering ideal picture-taking conditions for either black-and-white or color film.

Sunlight and shadows bring out the texture of the snow and add appeal to your pictures. Don't just snap a picture and let it go at that. Look over your snowy landscape in the viewfinder of your camera . . . look at it from various angles, to see what forms the best picture.

Concentrating on what is framed in the viewfinder is important—just as in any type of scenic shot. If you shoot too fast, you may be disappointed. You may expect the camera to see everything that you saw with your eyes—and it can't, not all in one picture. Your eyes move, sweep the scene. The camera's eye doesn't. It sees just exactly what you can see in the viewfinder. Keep that in mind and make beautiful snow pictures this year.

A Scarf Wardrobe from Leftovers!

HERE'S a timely fashion tip for the budgetwise from the Tintex Home Economics Bureau. At little cost, you can easily create your own vivid-colored wardrobe of scarves from white or pastel left-over material—or from some inexpensive yard goods bought for the purpose. Just cut the fabric into standard 18-inch or 21-inch squares, handroll the edges and you'll have finished scarves that need but quick trips to the tint-bath to give you an assortment in gay, smart colors.

Better select all-fabric dyes for the tinting operations so that you can make the scarves from any kind of material—silk, rayon, acetate, nylon, cotton, chiffon, crepe or what-have-you. Your color choice is infinite since these dyes come in 54 colors and they can be mixed endlessly to produce new and different tones. The all-fabric dyes require no boiling. Hot tap water will do the trick, says the Tintex bureau. And for extra economy and costume smartness, create a matching glove-scarf combination by dipping a pair of white cotton gloves into the same tint solution as the scarf.

A few observations as the new year moves in: One of the most prominent calendars going about the country is the one entitled "Negro History Calendar" put out by one of the big liquor corporations, Schenley's.

Four several reasons, I cannot appreciate the liquor companies using picture stories of the great men of American history to advertise their wares. That alone is enough to make some of the honored dead turn over in their graves—especially, if they did not go in for strong drinks.

In the Schenley's calendar is one fiery, thirsty looking pose of Frederick Douglass, one of the great Negro leaders during the fight for the freedom of the slaves and emancipation period. Douglass made, along with his many speeches for the ending of slavery in the United states, talks for the Temperance Movement which was then gaining a foothold in this country.

He even addressed one of the World Temperance Societies, and in one of his lectures in Boston, Mass., on Sept. 11, 1886, he made the following observation—which will make one wonder why any company selling anything like strong drinks or tobaccos, would select the photo of Frederick Douglass.

Douglas observed: (excerpts from his writings revealed)

"I have been grieved at one thing, and I think we should set our faces against it. We are imitating the extravagancies of the white people among whom we are: and it is going over taffeta with a matching net stole. She carried a nosegay of blue carnations.

Bridesmaids dressed in blue nylon net over taffeta gowns with matching stoles, were Mrs. Allen Thomas, sister of the bride, and Miss Sue Smart. They carried nosegays of gold carnations.

Little flower girl, Anita Calloway, a cousin of the bride, wore white taffeta, and a wreath of white flowers about her head. She carried a bouquet of gold and blue carnations. Raymond D. Smith, nephew of the bride was ring-bearer.

Mr. Allen Thomas was best man; and ushers were: Messrs. Richard Anderson, brother of the bridegroom; James, Jr., and Eugene Brown, brothers of the bride.

Reception

A reception followed immediately in the dining hall of the church where three hundred guests were entertained.

In the receiving line with the bride party were Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, parents of the couple. Mrs. Brown wore a rose-colored dress with a corsage of yellow carnations; and Mrs. Anderson was attired in blue with a corsage of blue carnations.

Hostesses were: the Misses Darlene Butts, Clara Jean Tywyter, Ernestine Johnson, Beverly McGregor, Altra Keys, Edith Redd, Eloise McElory, Clea Cooper; and, Mesdames Everett Daniels, Marshall Smith, Jr., Harry Calloway, Joseph Scott, O. L. Howard, Edward Frazier, Fred Williams and Wallace Gibson.

The bride's table was decorated with white and yellow carnations and a three-tier wedding cake, with on a fearful rate.

"I meet with colored men on all sides—smoking, and sometimes drinking. That is not the way to rise in the world.

"For my own part, I neither smoke, nor chew tobacco, nor take snuff, nor drink whiskey; and I should be delighted if I could make the same statement with regard to my whole people."

I ask again—how could the Schenley Whiskey Company make such a grave mistake?

If a man doesn't drink or smoke during his lifetime, then after death, I'm sure his spirit is not at rest, as his pictures appear in calendars and in newspapers advertising the stuff he did not use.

The same could be true of other of the leading historians whose pictures appear in the calendar.

Some of the move-goers who saw the show, "Carmen Jones," which opened last week in Des Moines, have expressed their displeasure for having "spent their good money to witness such trash on the screen."

Some of the movie fans remarked that "Dorothy Dandridge may be a good actor, but her talents are wasted on a no-good story."

Several persons have said that they were "embarrassed" over what went on in the picture.

I didn't see the movie. Already, I had seen Bizet's opera "Carmen," who did not live according to the conventions of the village-bred folk; and her gambler, smuggler and out-

Mr. Anderson, who has been in the United States Marine Corps for a year and a half, is stationed at Santa Ana, Calif. He spent a short honeymoon here and returned to his post.

Among the social courtesies for the bride was a personal shower given by an aunt, Mrs. Nathaniel Calloway.

law friends who played wildly with life, liberty and death.

When some producer decided to annex "Carmen" to the "Jones" folk and stage the ill-bred about the country under the title of "Carmen Jones," I still remember the gorgeously colorful costumes and Bizet's fine music—but—oh the story, I can still smell the stench.

The same can be said of the much talked about show, "Porgy and Bess."

Until some better stories are written for fine Negro actors, entertainers and artists, their talents will be wasted on no-good stories, mediocre parts, and none-too-pleasing roles like the one of the witch, for the internationally famous artist, Marian Anderson.

That's a start, yes. When Giuseppe Verdi wrote "The Masked Ball" he designated "Ulrica," as a Negro woman. The opera was first produced at the Apollo Theater in Rome, Italy, on Feb. 17, 1859; and the first performance in the United States was Feb. 11, 1861, the winter before the first battles of the Civil War for the freedom of Negro slaves began. But, since emancipation in 1863, it has taken ninety-two years for a Negro to be officially accepted as a member of a permanent opera house in the United States. And, Marian Anderson began, the first Negro in the Metropolitan Opera Company—as a witch.

BE CONGRATULATED

Even though Iowa has made considerable progress in race relations, particularly with reference to employment in the lower job echelon, the higher brackets have been almost untouched. At the state house only two places requiring professional or business skill have been held by Negroes—a record not to boast about.

This lack of consideration has not been wholesome for youngsters graduating from schools and colleges for they have been forced, to a great extent, to go elsewhere to utilize their training.

Unfortunately, too many state officials have not had the courage to "try anything new" and thus Iowa has lagged considerably in this respect.

The Bystander noted with a great deal of satisfaction that Gov. Leo Hoegh named Atty. W. Lawrence Oliver a colonel on his military staff. Mr. Oliver appeared as such at the inaugural and was among the officials at the ceremony.

While purely an honorary position, it marked the first recognition any Iowa governor has given a Negro on his official staff. And it shows the progressive thinking of the governor in recognition that Negroes are entitled to more than just the run of the mill.

For years Negroes have taken important assignments in the election of candidates for office. They have contributed funds to help finance the campaigns; they are qualified to take their places in the conduct of the affairs of state and should be so considered.

Governor Hoegh is to be congratulated on his initial step to change this old pattern which has prevailed over the years.

HAMMARSKJOLD MISSION
NOT A FAILURE AT ALL

Recently Secretary General Hammarskjold returned from a trip to Red China where he went upon instruction from UN to secure the release of the eleven American flyers held by the Reds as convicted spies.

Admittedly, the secretary had a tough assignment for he was required to deal with Premier Chou En-lai who has gained great power, influence and confidence because of the success of his armies in the field. It was no job where Hammarskjold could walk in, make his demands and come away with a completely successful mission accomplished.

This was the first time a representative of the free world has sat down and talked over any of the knotty problems involved in its relation with the Reds. In fact about all either side has done is toss bricks over the fence at each other without knowing what, if any, damage was being done.

The Reds have gained their ends by force. They have shot their way into what has been accomplished. And although this is not the way the free nations would have things it must be recognized that the Reds have power and without a shooting war to stop their ascendancy, peaceful negotiations must be resorted to in order to put a stop to the continued annexation of territory.

The very fact that the opposing forces sat down and talked face to face about their problems was progress. It no doubt formed a basis of future negotiations which may lead to the settlement of many problems which have seemed unsolvable.

Of course, some feel the mission was a failure. They are those who refuse to recognize or underestimate the large problems involved. They are those who do not wish well for UN and refuse to accept the changes which are coming day by day.

Speaking of Negroes in organized baseball, Jackie Robinson said:

"There are people who still think that having Negroes in organized baseball won't work. But it's here to stay and there's nothing they can do about it any more than they can do anything about desegregation . . . People are going to live together and learn to understand each other as individuals not as Negroes or Jewish People or Japanese."

The same doctrine holds true with nations in their relation with each other.

Late Minister
Lauded For Role

New York—The late Rev. George H. Sims was "one of the stalwarts in support of unqualified freedom for American Negroes through the medium of the NAACP from its founding," Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, said in a message of condolence to the clergyman's son

Levitt Case
Barring a Person

The suit against Levitt also seeks an injunction restraining Levitt from refusing to sell to Negroes on the ground that Levittown, Pa., is, in reality, a town and Levitt's policy of barring a person because of race or color is a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment and the statutes of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In the complaint, the attorneys state further that since Levitt has a monopoly on all new construction in Levittown, he is serving the public in the same manner as a public utility and should not be allowed to continue his anti-Negro policy and practices.

Filed at the same time and with the complaint against Levitt, is another suit which asks the court to restrain the agents of FHA mortgage insured housing developments in Philadelphia from discriminating against Negroes.

Bring Action

This action was brought by Legal Defense attorneys in behalf of J. Ralph Pearson, his wife and other Negroes who have been refused developments. The Pearsons were apartments in FHA mortgage insured refused an apartment in the Olney Gardens project at Chew and Wister Streets by the renting agents.

In the complaint, the attorneys ask that all mortgage insured housing developments in the City of Philadelphia be restrained from barring a person because of race or color.

Named in the suit with the agents of the Olney Gardens are Norman P. Mason, commissioner of the FHA and William A. Kelly, director of the Philadelphia Insuring Office of the FHA.

2 Years of Negotiations

The action against Levitt followed two years of negotiations with FHA Finance Agency officials in Washington in an attempt to get the FHA to establish a non-discrimination requirement in FHA developments of this kind.

Named in the suit with Levitt are the commissioner of the FHA; the director of the Philadelphia Insuring Office of FHA; Harvey V. Higley, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, and Charles E. Engard, Director of the Loan Guarantee Section, of the Philadelphia Regional Office of the VA.

The two-cases represent the first court action in the East to open to Negro occupancy in FHA mortgage insured sales housing developments and FHA rental developments, which comprise 90% of all new construction in the Philadelphia area.

Attorneys for the Negroes in both cases are Thurgood Marshall, director-counsel of Legal Defense, Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, Legal Defense associate counsel, Walter A. Gay, Jr., member of the Legal Redress Committee of the Philadelphia NAACP Branch, and David E. Pinsky of Philadelphia.

Deposits are insured up to $10,000 and loans will be made on a strictly business basis to those who satisfy the bank's requirements. We are asking that depositors mention the NAACP in writing to Memphis so we can know how rapidly we are reaching our goal. Prompt action is needed since farmers are now seeking funds to finance their 1955 crops."

the Rev. George H. Sims, Jr.

Mr. White, now on leave recuperating from an illness, said that the Rev. Mr. Sims, who died on Jan. 6, was associated with Miss Mary White Ovington and others in the early years of the NAACP and always loyally supported the organization. "We shall miss his sage advice and warm personality even as you will," he told the son.

Costa Rican Air
Fighting

"The local airline, Lacs, has had its DC-3's instantly fitted with machine guns," said correspondent Mac Bannell on CBS Radio's "World News Roundup" in the first direct report on the Costa Rican revolution from the country's capital, San Jose.

"The work of doing this is quite an operation," he said. "Mechanics take off the regular cabin door and bolt a 50-calibre machine gun to the floor of the doorway. The plane takes off with a soldier strapped behind the gun. Then as the plane comes over the target, it has to maneuver so that the gun can be trained and fired."

HEALTH FOR ALL

USE WITH CAUTION

Modern drugs have saved thousands of lives, have saved more thousands from crippling and long-drawn-out illness. But doctors warn that they must be used with the greatest caution.

Science has made us valuable gifts in these drugs which fight infections of many kinds, but we must recognize that there can be uncomfortable and sometimes very serious side effects. About four or five per cent of people who are given antibiotics have allergic skin reactions such as hives, rash, or other outbreaks. Taken by mouth in the form of lozenges, some of the drugs cause unpleasant conditions inside the mouth. Other occasional reactions are itching, burning sensations, failure of muscular coordination, deafness, nausea, vomiting, cramps, diarrhea, and even severe shock.

Prevented

Most of these reactions can be prevented by proper use of the drugs. Different ones require different methods. It is of the utmost importance to follow the doctor's orders exactly. Instructions which may sound unimportant to you—such as taking a drug before instead of after meals, taking it with milk or orange juice or sodium bicarbonate, drinking lots of fluid—these are carefully planned to protect you. If unexpected symptoms develop, the doctor will want to know immediately so that he can check them before they become serious.

Another important precaution is to destroy any drugs left over after an illness. Those lozenges the doctor prescribed last fall for Jimmy's sore throat might be wrong for your throat. The doctor decides what drug or combination of drugs you need on the basis of a careful diagnosis of your condition.

You drive your car cautiously because you know that the powerful engine is potentially dangerous. Drugs which can kill or check infection in the human body are, in their way, just as powerful. They can do wonderful work for us, if we use them cautiously.

Wonder when those post season games played in the South are going to be put on an equal basis? We mean the Blue-Gray game, the North-South game and the Senior Bowl game.

The Southern Teams win most of the time and they shared. They get the pick of the best players in the South while the North has to limit its teams to white boys. Just about any Northern team could have really used Bolden of Michigan State, Watkins of Ohio State, Hall of Iowa and Walker of Michigan. With these guys around the North might have forced the South to really pull one out of a big five if they won. Those game committees ought to make the games fair tests or drop them.

Basketball

Iowa may make the grade and cop the Big Ten cage title but brother it will be a rough road. It is our guess that the winning team will lose at least four games. Almost every team has at least one Negro.

They say there are a flock of good all-Negro High school basketball teams in Chicago. Add that to the few with all other teams and you have a host of Negroes playing in the Windy City.

Seems like we ought to have a good crop of Negro cagers here in the city. Don't know who teaches the kids the fundamentals of the game now. In the old days of the hut on the hill, there were a bunch of older fellows who would teach the kids the fundamentals of the various games and when they got to high school they were ready. Now we don't seem to have those kids. They have to learn in school with the other kids and are just that far behind. Maybe there are too many other distractions and maybe there isn't anyone around with enough free time to do the teaching.

Ray to go but down. He may look like the Sugar Ray of old against some made-to-order opponent, but against a high class tough adversary, the rust will show up and the guy will get clobbered.

We can't help but feel sorry for a former champ who loses to some guy he ought to belt out in one round when he was champ. Hate to think of the greatest fighting machine of the times looking bad against second rate opponents.

We still insist that Rocky Marciano is waiting for Father Time to take care of Archie Moore. Don't know about Nino Valdez. He is rugged, tough and strong. Might give the champ more than he wants.

Rabbit Season Closes
January 31 In Iowa

The 1954-55 Iowa rabbit season is slated to close on January 31, with hunters and conservation officers reporting good supplies of rabbits but no snow to hunt them in. Snow, generally considered a necessity for a rabbit hunt, has been lacking in most parts of the state.

With the rabbit season ended, outdoor sports will be headed by ice fishing and fox hunting. Ice fishing for most species of fish will end February 15, but there is a continuous open season on red and gray fox throughout Iowa.

Late January and February marks the season when many hunters organize circle hunts for foxes, often contributing bounty and pelt fees to the March of Dimes or other charitable causes.
