St. Paul's Pastor and Family to Stay Here

Rev. and Mrs. John E. Hunter and daughters, Cindy and Lynn, are all smiles because they will continue to live in Des Moines. The pastor of St. Paul A.M.E. church here had been notified last week that he would be moved to Peoria, Ill., to fill a vacancy. A chain of communications, correspondence and petitions went out of Des Moines to Bishop George W. Baber who changed his plans. "We like Des Moines," the Rev. Mr. Hunter said.

Petitions, Letters, Phone Calls Hold St. Paul A.M.E. Minister in Des Moines

All is quiet at the St. Paul A.M.E. church, at 12th and Crocker streets, this week, and the Rev. John E. Hunter, pastor, and his family, are relaxing their nerves, once again, in the parsonage, at 1079 Sixteenth street, where they have been residing since 1951.

The news reached the St. Paul officers, members and friends in the community that the Rev. Mr. Hunter would be changed to Peoria, Ill., to fill the vacancy made by the tragic death of the Rev. B. N. Moore, and, a great cry was heard and a chain of actions began.

When the Rev. Mr. Hunter, who is beginning his fourth year as pastor at St. Paul, announced in the pulpit during his last Sunday morning services that he would preach his farewell sermon on March 6, there was sobbing and sighing.

Petitions Started

Immediately, petitions were started. Telegrams, letters and long-distance calls found their way to the "They're Changing the Guards at Buckingham Palace" rhymed A. A. Milne. Well-authenticated murmurings point to a change of the Administration's civil rights guards, in the not-too-distant future. Murmurings add up to growing recognition of the need for a strong, full-time civil rights guard, at our "Buckingham Palace."

Gets Into Post

Joseph H. Rainey, former Philadelphia magistrate, and grandson of Joseph H. Rainey of South Carolina, first Negro in the U. S. House of Representatives, is a specialist on Jack Bryan's information staff, at Housing and Home Finance.

Rainey, well-known as a member of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission, and of the Republican National Committee for Minority and Field Contacts, is a veteran newsman, who has served with both daily and weekly press, in Philadelphia.

The first Joseph Rainey, elected to the Forty-first Congress, in December, 1870, served four consecutive terms in the House—the longest service of any Negro in Congress until the advent of William L. Dawson, of Illinois, now serving his seventh term.

Some Newspapermen See 'Few' Problems in Human Relations in Iowa Cities

The two-day session of the first National Institute of Human Relations, a part of the Des Moines' observance of Brotherhood Week, revealed the attitudes of newspapermen in several of the Iowa communities, at the Tuesday noon luncheon session, held at Hotel Savery.

The scheduled speakers were John Kelly, vice president and associate publisher, Sioux City Journal-Tribune; W. Earl Hall, editor, Mason City Globe Gazette; F. D. Simpson, editor, Atlantic News Telegram; Lauren K. Soth, editor of the editorial pages of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, who acted as moderator for the panel.

'Lack of Problems'

Mr. Kelly talked about the "lack of problems" in Sioux City, where "the case of Sergeant (John R.) Rice gave us somewhat of a black eye."

Sergeant Rice, was the Winnebago, Neb., Indian, whose burial, refused by a cemetery association in Sioux City, was buried at Arlington National Cemetery after former President Truman intervened in the case.

In Mason City, where a civil rights dance hall case, arose and was won last year, Mr. Hall said: "We don't have a real problem."

Few Families

About Atlantic, Mr. Simpson said "Our four or five colored families go where they please—to churches, schools and recreational facilities."

Mr. Soth of the Des Moines Register and Tribune praised the way the people in Waverly, Ia., "responded to recent incident there in race relations."

J. B. Morris, publisher, Iowa Bystander, asked that a committee be named by the governor to study race relations in Iowa as approved by the 1953 Iowa legislature. He said similar committees have been named in Illinois, Nebraska and Missouri.

"Can you (editors) take an active stand to get whites and colored people together in inter-racial organizations?" asked Morris.

Hall answered that the 300 to 400 Negroes in Mason City get equal treatment with whites in race coverage.

Difficulties

Soth elaborated on the "difficulty of newspapers to get people involved (in racial discrimination) to speak up." He added: "That happens regularly and the general public must help them (the newspapers) out."

A fourth member of the panel on "My Community's Crucial Human Relations Problem . . . and what should be done about them" was unable to be present. Henry Hook, publisher, Davenport Democrat, was unable to come because of the death of the wife of an editorial writer for the paper.

Davenport Figures

Morris talked at length about what he said were "cases of racial discrimination in Davenport."

He said there were "Negro employees among workers at the Alcoa plant in East Davenport; that there were no Negro workers at Bendix Aviation Corp., pioneer central division; Uchtorff Brewing Co.; or Red Jacket Manufacturing Co."

Morris said Davenport has no Negro clerks in stores; no Negro on the police or fire department; and that the only Negro employees in the Davenport city hall or Scott

Heart Ailment Fatal To Forest Williams

Services for Forest Williams, 59, of 1423 Center street, were held last Saturday at the L. Fowler & Son Funeral Home with burial at Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Williams died of a heart ailment Feb. 22 at Veterans Hospital. Born in Birmingham, Ala., he had lived here 48 years.

Surviving are two foster brothers, Elmer Toran and Lloyd Burrus, and a foster sister, Mrs. Hotense Long, all of Des Moines.

NAACP Warns of Jim Crow Leaks in Federal School Construction Aid Measures

Washington—The administration's bill for federal aid for school construction "lacks a clear statement of the oft-repeated and sometimes implemented policy stated by President Eisenhower that federal funds must not be used to support discrimination based upon race," Clarence Mitchell, director, Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged at a hearing of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare.

The NAACP representative urged the committee to amend the bill to require each state "to certify that school facilities of the state are open to all children without regard to race in conformity with the requirements of the United States Supreme Court decision."

Second Time

Testifying for a second time before this committee on Feb. 21, Mr. Mitchell said that "there is a very serious possibility that the bill in its present form would open the door for numerous attempts to continue racial segregation in the public schools."

Other bills before the committee, Mr. Mitchell asserted, have similar weaknesses. One of the bills (S.686), he pointed out, "actually makes provisions for recognition of separate schools based on race. This is in the bill even though the whole country knows that the United States Supreme Court has declared that separation of the races in the public schools is unconstitutional."

In answer to charges that inclusion of a clause denying federal aid to segregated schools would "kill the bill" and that the NAACP would be responsible, Mr. Mitchell said, "the record should show just who it is that will kill this bill if language such as that proposed by the NAACP is inserted. The record should show who would deprive American children of adequate, safe and sanitary schoolhouses just because the federal government would ask states to obey the law of the land as a condition of getting funds to build more schoolhouses."

At Hearing, Paul Robeson Says 'My Job Was to Sing'

New York, N. Y.—Three organizations on the government's subversive list raised more than 3½ million dollars in public fund appeals from 1940 to the present, a legislative committee was told last Thursday.

Bernard Tompkins, chief counsel of the committee, said these groups frequently tailored their appeals to current worthy causes, and then diverted the money raised to other purposes.

Raised Millions

Tompkins and witnesses said the Civil Rights Congress raised more than a million dollars from 1946 to 1953; the American Committee for the Foreign Born collected more than a million since 1940; and the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee raised 1½ million since 1942.

The joint legislative committee on charitable and philanthropic agencies and committees is trying to find out whether money collected for ostensibly worthy purposes was diverted to Communist causes.

Many Refused

Many of the 10 witnesses during the day refused to testify on the Fifth Amendment grounds that it might incriminate them, but not Paul Robeson.

The singer said he sang at many rallies to raise money for the Civil Rights Congress and allowed his name to be used in Communist literature.

Asked how much was raised by a committee of which he was the chairman, Robeson said: "I have no idea at all—my job was to sing."

Nat King Cole's Mother Dies at 63

North Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Pelina Coles, 63, mother of Singer Nat (King) Coles, died Feb. 23. She was the wife of the Rev. E. J. Coles, pastor of First Baptist Church in North Chicago.

A member of the family said Nat changed his name from Coles to Cole for professional reasons. Survivors also include three other sons.

while plans for the dinner were announced six weeks in advance, Claughton registered objections only three days before it was to be held.

Bert Acker, co-chairman of the dinner and twice candidate for governor of Florida, said he had urged Wesley Garrison, state committee member, to pay heed to Claughton and ask Negroes to stay away.

Cheese Crispies Go With Salads

Cream cheese and watercrust supply the unusual flavor of these crisp wafers, good to munch as appetizers, good to eat with soups and salads.

Neither a pastry nor a cracker but a little of both are the dainty cheese crispies pictured here. These tender, flaky crispies are cut from a cream cheese pastry flavored with watercrust.

Let the children eat crispies by the handful because they will benefit from the food values provided by such nutritious ingredients as enriched flour and cheese.

CRESS CHEESE CRISPIES

1 cup sifted enriched flour, 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup finely chopped watercrust or parsley, 1/4 cup shortening, 2 tablespoons cold water. Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening and cream cheese. Add watercrust. Mix well. Add water. Mix to a dry crumbly dough. Turn out on lightly floured pastry cloth. Press dough together. Roll out about one-eighth inch thick. Cut with two-inch biscuit cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Prick several times with fork. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Makes about three dozen crispies.

Eartha Kitt's Secrets in Her Forthcoming Book

Chicago, Ill.—Some of the secrets Eartha Kitt will tell in her forthcoming book are revealed in the March issue of HUE. Written in her own lightning-style, the book should be of tremendous interest since no youngster has ever been analyzed, probed and psychoanalyzed more by the public than kittenish Eartha, says HUE.

In the book, Eartha for the first time will admit that she is a genius who is easily bored, that she is an adventuress in search of love and a frightened young woman who never had a mother's love.

Chicago, Ill.—Officers of the United Packinghouse Workers of America-CIO Feb. 4 announced a move to force the major meatpackers—Armour, Swift, Wilson and Cudahy—to employ Negro office workers in their General Offices.

In an opening move, UPWA Vice-President Russell R. Lasley and District Director Charles Hayes announced the filing of a formal complaint charging Armour & Co. with violating of Presidential Executive Order 10557 barring government contracts to firms practicing discriminatory employment policies. Armour is a large supplier of meat products to the armed forces.

The complaint was filed with the President's Committee on Government Contracts headed by Vice-President Nixon named in the Executive Order as the enforcement agency. Under Investigation The committee's Executive Secretary, Jacob Seidenberg, has informed the union leaders that the complaint is under investigation. A copy of the complaint was also sent Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

Six Congressmen from the Chicago area, meeting in Washington conferred with the union leaders, declared that the move would have their active support. The Congressmen include Representatives William O. Dawson, Barratt O'Hara, Thomas J. O'Brien, Jhon C. Kluczynski, James E. Murray and Charles A. Boyle.

Check Applicants The complaint notes that no Negroes are or ever have been employed in the huge Armour General Offices in Chicago and lists names of ten Negro applicants for stenographic positions in November and December, 1954, and January, 1955. All were informed that the company was not hiring. The complaint also names three white applicants during the same period who were immediately offered employment.

The action is believed to be the first major test of the Executive Order relating to office personnel. The Order was issued September 3, 1954.

St. Paul's Chancel Choir Making Plans For Summer Concerts

The Chancel Choir of St. Paul AME Church, 12th and Crocker, formerly the St. Paul AME Youth Choir, is in the midst of its concert rehearsals. Well-known in the community, the choir renders an annual concert every summer then leaves on a concert-vacation trip immediately after.

Rehearsals begin in January with concert numbers and continue once a week until approximately a month and a half before performance when two rehearsals a week are instigated.

The members look forward to the concert-vacation trips each year and last year's trip to Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo., was one of the best in performance and fun that the choir has made. Previous concert trips have been to St. Paul, Minn., Detroit, Mich., St. Louis, Mo., Chicago, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo., including small towns around Des Moines and of course concerts here in the community for various organizations.

Male Voices
Since returning from Denver, Colo., the choir has lost the majority of its male section to the armed forces and college so there is now a great need of these particular voices to balance those remaining. The choir has members from various churches and is not confined to any one denomination. Members are accepted from the community. It is important that the choir reach a required number of male voices immediately in the process of learning the new music.

Rehearsals are presently held on Tuesday evening, 7:30 p.m., at the church. Any young man from 16 thru 25 who might be interested may come on rehearsal night or contact Mrs. Lauretta Hughes, Director, or Mrs. Mary Ruth Simmons, supervisor.

The in Mrs. Owens thought of the candy she had received from the friend. She opened a box of chocolates and suggested: "Try one and let me know what is on the inside of the chocolate."

I broke the crescent-shaped candy drops and out oozed the fragrant liquid.

"Tastes sorta like wine," Mrs. Owens thought.

We agreed, but the fragrance was a bit strong—so we weren't sure. I took the candy and the German description to a German girl at one of the downtown shops and her face beamed to see cookies and candies from her homeland. She did the translations and found, other than the sweet substance in the candy, a liquid she identified as "rh-o-o-m."

'Leather Look' for Spring Unveiled at Leather Industry Show

A preview of the Leather Look for Spring was unveiled this week by Leather Industries of America at an informal showing of new styles and leathers in shoes, handbags, garments, belts, gloves, luggage and a variety of other leather items.

Leathers that are printed, woven, crushed, corked and glowing appear in shoes and handbags for the first time.

Woven leather, which is slated to supplant mesh in popularity this Spring, was on view in both men's and women's shoes in solid and two tone styles.

The soft construction in shoes was featured in a variety of casual and leisure flats and pumps, crafted of soft, glove-like leathers with interesting surface detail such as a cork finish, pigskin, and ostrich.

Soft velvety suedes—many of the brand-new "dry-cleanable" leather—and smooth butter-soft capeskins were seen in jackets, suits and great-coats; also in cardigans with knitted wool sleeves and leather bodies.

Handbags ranged from a six-inch flat envelope to suitcase-size squares, pouches and totes. Most of them carry no decoration—the glowing colors and textures of velvety suedes, lustre and palest calfs, smooth kids, llama, elk, glove leathers, reptiles, are their own adornment. Leathers are lightweight and supple.

Colors ranged from the palest pastel yellow to deep, flaming scarlet, including avocado, shell pink, sweet-heart pink, pimento, Ile de France blue, oriental yellow, and a whole family of browns, ranging from honey whiskey.

Catholic Magazine Salutes Xavier U.

Union City, N. J.—The Sign, national Catholic magazine published here, salutes Xavier University of New Orleans, the nation's only Negro Catholic university, as "perhaps the greatest achievement of the Church in America on behalf of the Negro."

In a special five-page picture story photographed by Jacques Lowe, who recently completed a series of nation-wide photo assignments for The Sign, the magazine's February issue depicts in pictures and text the high standards Catholic education for the Negro has reached at Xavier. "It is here," The Sign says, "that more than a thousand Negro students are preparing themselves to take a leading role in the cultural, business, and professional life of the communities from which they have come" under a faculty that "includes some of the best minds in Negro education today."

Personal Touch
By MARIE ROSS

Young people in Des Moines are interested in getting jobs and exposing any problems they run into while answering want-ads or attempting to make application for employment.

A letter reached the column this week from Miss Betty Jones who wrote:

"When I read the letter last week from Alcynteta C. Ballard who wondered whether she got the run-around or was just too late for the job she applied for at the Iowa Farm Mutual Insurance Company, I thought I would tell you my experience with Iowa Farm Mutual Insurance Company.

"Several months ago there was an ad in the daily paper for a file clerk. As I was interested in this type of work, I called right then to see about it. This was the first time the ad was in the paper; and it said to phone 2-8171 and ask for Mr. Jensen for an appointment.

"When I called, Mr. Jensen was in. I knew the job had not yet been filled, I told him about my experiences; that I worked several years in a school library. We all were responsible for keeping the books and cards straight. The last year I worked I was in charge of a book section. The first time I was in charge of the cards. This, with my other qualifications, he was quite impressed.

"Just as he was about to give me an appointment, I said, I am a colored girl. Do you hire colored in your office?" He stammered and stalled for about a minute and then he said: "Well for some jobs, we do; but for this one, I doubt it. I'll tell you what, I will check and see. I will call you back and let you know." I never heard from him again," Miss Jones wrote.

Since last summer Miss Jones has been working in the advertising department of the Iowa Bystander.

While the search for democracy in jobs continues, life goes on in the community. At the office this week Cindy Hunter revealed that she was planning for a birthday cake for March 5.

"I will be four years old Saturday," the little daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John E. Hunter announced.

In other circles, folk are talking dieting and observing the Lenten Season by dropping certain foods and other things. I had almost decided to drop sweets—but found that it would not be expedient, Hardy had I breathed the thought when a parade of sweets headed my direction, and stacked up.

Mrs. George Franklin offered her chocolate cake, on a Monday. Mrs. Rufus Parker insisted that I must try her special cake and ice cream on Tuesday, and when I returned to the office, later, Mrs. Larry Dorsey was waiting with a package from New Orleans, La., that had two rolls of candy, made of sweet potatoes, dates, butter and pecans. Her mother-in-law had sent it just for me to taste, inasmuch, as I had missed a sample of it at the past Christmas season.

Then on Wednesday, when Lent arrived, I went home for lunch and found a box of chocolate ginger, raisin cokies that my mother had sent from Kansas.

On Thursday I was assisting Mrs. Bonnie Herndon with the finishing up of the wedding cake while we got the story for the paper and sipped coffee.

On Friday, at lunch at a Chinese restaurant, my hostess, Mrs. Helen Sharp assured that Jello and butter cookies would not have as many calories as the ice cream and cookies, which I chose.

By Saturday, when I reached Mrs. Rufus Owens' home and looked over all of the many gifts she has been receiving friends in Germany, it was amazing to find such a variety, Beautiful crocheted articles and gift items Mrs. Owens has been getting from her friends in Germany since World War II when her son, Robert, was stationed there and made many some lifelong friends.

Mrs. Owens suggested coffee and then brought out picturesque cans of cookies, which she served.

"See how they are made," Mrs. Owens said as she broke a portion of the large cookies. The German print-

IOWA HAS A FINE BASKETBALL TEAM

Iowa University's basketball team has demonstrated so far that it is a real Big Ten championship contender by having won eight straight games which was climaxed by the fine victory over Minnesota Monday night.

Both teams displayed scientific ball handling, poise and courage. They demonstrated that both aggression had been well coached.

Iowa started the season somewhat hazy but once O'Connor found a combination which clicked, foes fell one after another.

Those youngsters have worked hard, kept their grades up and represented their school with great credit. They deserved to win.

All Iowa is proud of its basketball team.

McKinley (Deacon) Davis, who played his last home game Saturday, got a tremendous ovation from the crowd for his excellent playing and his sportsmanlike conduct he has displayed during all four years he has been on the team.

Last year, he sat on the bench much of the time while sophomores dominated the team. But this did not discourage him. He kept on doing a good job and in the recent games this year did his best playing.

His teammates recognized this on Saturday afternoon by carrying him off the floor on their shoulders. And the Deacon took it in strides as has been his whole undergraduate career. Again, congratulation to the Iowa team.

PETTY BICKERING SHAKES VOTERS CONFIDENCE

Sometimes it becomes a mystery how some people get elected to office. And the antics in which some of our legislators have been engaged add much to the mystery.

For instance, a bill has been introduced in the legislature making it a misdemeanor for one person to wash another's hair without a license. Such a law is ridiculous and about almost impossible of enforcement.

The objections raised to some appointments sent to the Senate by Gov. Hoegh for confirmation is another instance where legislators are acting like children. For while it is the responsibility of senators to look into the qualifications and character of nominees upon whom they are to pass, objections based on rumors and petty charges should not block an appointment.

Undoubtedly we shall have a lot of road construction in Iowa within the near future and millions of dollars will be spent. This may have much influence over how and for whom some of the senators vote.

Gov. Hoegh is an able, progressive and experienced official. He should have the support of the legislature particularly those of the Republicans who by their constant bickering shake the faith of the voters in the party.

IOWA SHOULD HAVE SOME FEP LEGISLATION

Senator O'Malley from Polk County has introduced a fair employment practices bill in the legislature. It is the fourth time such a measure has been introduced.

Patterned after the Minneapolis, Minnesota law it provides for a commission charged with discovering discrimination in employment and dealing with it to the point of prosecution.

Violation would subject offenders to a fine of $100.00 or 30 days in jail or both.

Judging from the report on employment of minorities in Davenport, published in the Bystander last week, (and the same conditions exist in most Iowa towns,) Iowa needs such a law. The trouble is that the powers that be take the position that we have no problem and such a measure is unnecessary. And unfortunately no preparatory work has been done to get support for the measure.

Either they don't know the facts or are silly enough to refuse to believe what they see.

The Bystander has long insisted that the state of Iowa should set up some type of arm of the government to deal with the problem. Without it, we shall lag behind for many years to come.

It is hoped that the measure could have reached the floor for discussion where many otherwise luke warm legislators could find out something about the problem and maybe take a more favorable attitude toward it.

Unfortunately at this point in the session all legislation must pass the muster of the powerful sifting committee which is the group where each of the former bills has met sudden death.

In Illinois

"Ninety per cent of the Negroes in Davenport with decent jobs work in Illinois," said Morris.

Morris also claimed mistreatment of Negroes by Davenport police; said a newspaper there referred to Singer Marian Anderson as a "Negress," and said letters critical of the treatment of Negroes are not published.

"No effective individual organization in Davenport seems to be doing or trying to do anything about it," said Morris.

The institute closed Tuesday night with a banquet at which Senator Homer E. Capehart (Rep., Ind.) spoke.

He said "The American system of government is the first real success in human relation and our greatest asset."

"While not perfect as a human relations instrument, it would be so if worked properly. I'm one who believes that the thing which has given us more of everything has been the American system. It's the most beautiful thing in the world, next to the Bible."

Among the conferring deans were: L. A. Potts of Tuskegee, S. A. Haley of Arkansas State, Dr. C. E. Walker, Florida A and M, C. L. Ellison of Fort Valley (Georgia), T. Missed at the gathering were Dr. Jones of Langston University, Okla., Walter Flowers of Tennessee State, and Frank M. Staley of South Carolina State.

"Ag" Merger Ahead

It is understood that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson, who broke the unholy alliance between the Farm Bureau Federation and U. S. Extension Service, in a November directive, is leaning toward consolidation of Soil Conservation and the wobbly Farmers Home Administration, with a more responsible Extension Service—which makes sense.

Bid in Washington

L. Winter McKissick is in town, recently, to bid on Nannie Burroughs' new dormitory, at her Lincoln Heights school. The three-generation McKissick and McKissick construction firm, of Nashville, has landmarks all over the South, isn't looking for government business, but wants to identify itself, here, with a worthwhile cause.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Four Walls

Suppose you were spending today in bed. You think you'd like that? But suppose you had spent yesterday in bed, and knew you'll be in the same place tomorrow, and many tomorrows?

Look around you at the four walls of your bedroom and try to imagine how you would get through weeks and months of it.

There are hundreds of thousands of your fellow Americans facing this problem. They are the victims of chronic diseases such as tuberculosis. With modern drug and, in some instances, surgical treatment of tuberculosis, many patients can leave the hospital after a certain point in their treatment has been reached and finish their convalescence at home. These new developments in TB treatment are a great boon to TB patients and their families. Not only have they saved thousands of lives, but they have shortened the heartbreaking long separation of families that had to happen when rest in a TB hospital was practically the only successful way to treat TB.

Even when patients can leave the hospital early, there are special problems. The TB patient at home is still a patient. The new drugs have lessened the possibility that he may pass his disease on to other members of his family, but precautions against infection must still be taken. He may still need lots of rest, for the drugs can do no more than give his diseased lung a chance to heal itself.

There must be a restful atmosphere in the home. The patient must be protected from anxiety, because worry can seriously hinder his recovery. Well-meaning efforts of friends and relatives to "cheer him up" may do more harm than good. With all these problems, the family needs expert help in organizing the home so that the advantages of being at home can play their full part in speeding recovery. Help is available. The doctor, the public health nurse, social agencies in the community, and, of course, the local tuberculosis association stand ready to help TB patients and their families.

MY BROTHER

My brother do I know him and does he get his share?
Do I ask about him?
or do I really care?
Every man's a brother
and I should tell him so.
No one should harm a brother everybody ought to know.

If the world became aware of this true age-old fact, there would be a lot of changes; and we'd know how to act.
Two thousand years or so ago a brand-new age began,
the greatest sacrifice was made,

that ransomed every man.
And then he said," hearken to me and love ye one another, no matter whom, or whence he came,
each man be like thy brother".

Harlem Globetrotters 'Varieties of '55' At KRNT Mar. 8: to Feature Earl Hines

A nationally syndicated columnist out of New York once called Abe Saperstein, the fabulous owner and producer of the "Harlem Globetrotter Varieties of 1955" theatrical presentation coming to KRNT Theatre, Tuesday, March 8, a combination of P. T. Barnum, Flo Ziegfeld and Tex Rickard as a promoter and impresario. Another labeled the dynamic young man the outstanding showman of the era. Chances are that both of them are right.

The exciting "Harlem Globetrotter Varieties of 1955", a fast-moving two and one half hour of entertainment replete with sock talent, is the latest of Saperstein's many successful ventures.

Earl ("Fatha") Hines and his celebrated recording orchestra will be seen in person.

That Education Bill

The Administration's unpopular education bill—which pleases no one but "Mis' Hobby"—still has so many organizations up in arms that the list looks like the roll-call for a riot scene. Now languishing in the Education Committee, it will likely be stuck, thereafter, in the Rules Committee—graveyard of unwanted legislation, good and bad.

business. He has been around for a long time delivering just what the public clamors for with his magical fingers at the piano, backed up by a solid organization of top musicians. He has always thrilled the fans with his enormous amount of personality, showmanship and exciting talent.

Hines records for Nocturne Records and his new release of "Don't Hear Sweet Music Anymore" is destined to be a smash hit. He calls his current band the greatest of his musical career. It's an all-around unit, able to play anything. The most important feature is "The New Subdued Sound", different from anything he has ever done before. Showmen call his unit the most phenomenal in the business today both musically and entertainment-wise.

The Saperstein variety presentation comprises the fine talent he has assembled from all parts of the globe, discovered by he and his scouts while on far-flung travels with the renowned Harlem Globetrotters basketball team. The acts include Tony Ponce, Romano Brothers, Tong Brothers, Jacques Cordon, King & Zerita, Cissie Rose, Coates & Doloers, and Mason & Anderson, all headliners in their own right.
