Urge Opening of National Guard

Burlington Speakers Participate in Ottumwa Panel

the Iowa Conference Branches of the NAACP; the Rev. R. G. Beck, pastor of the Burlington Reformed Evangelical church; Mrs. D. Edwin White, member of the Burlington mayor's committee for civic unity; Mrs. J.

C. Schramm, chairman of the Iowa United Nations Commission from Burlington. Seated are the Rev. and Mrs. G. Paul Jones of the AME church here.

Delegates to Offset Any Program Set to Frighten Teachers and Principals

Atlanta, Ga.—Two hundred delegates to an NAACP Southwide conference here last week declared in a joint statement that they will continue to press for school integration throughout the South by the NAACP's "target date" of September, 1955.

"Boards and school officials will be continually pressured by NAACP units to complete integration by that date," the statement said. It added that the local units "seek to work with school boards and state governments which are acting in good faith to change their educational systems in compliance with the Supreme Court's decision."

Steady Progress
"We feel that the steady progress being made demonstrates the fact that integration will work even in the Deep South."

The statement commended Catholic dioceses in the South which have integrated their parochial schools and called upon "other denomination-albodies" to "integrate their facilities and end practices of segregation which are inharmonious with their stated creeds and pronouncements."

Commenting on action contemplated or taken by some Southern states to evade the Court's rule banning segregated public schools, the message said: "We are not alarmed by those state governments . . . seeking to circumvent the Supreme Court's decision. These undemocratic and unconstitutional methods will fail."

Negro Teachers

The future of Negro teachers in the transition from school segregation to integration in the South also was dealt with in the document. The delegates pledged themselves to "pro-

Community Can Rid Itself of Biases

Ottumwa, Ia.—A community can rid itself of differences and prejudices if it will study its own problems.

Speakers from Burlington emphasized that point last Thursday night during the Lincoln-Douglas dinner program at the Gage Moore youth center in the AME church here.

The Burlington plan was initiated five years ago. The Rev. R. G. Beck, pastor of the Evangelical Reformed church in Burlington, said it is a citizenship game called, "Let's look at ourselves."

800 Conduct Survey

It began with a city-wide survey which was conducted by more than 800 persons. All Burlingtonians were asked to answer a questionnaire listing all their prejudices. No names were to be signed. Dr. Beck said people will really "let their hair down" if they don't have to sign their names.

The basic result of the survey, Mrs. J. C. Schramm said, is "We have the answer. We found a lot of facts, and they were not gained secondhand. We found that only menial employment was open to Negroes, they were denied services, they might contribute blood only at a separate blood bank even though there is no scientific reason."

Mrs. Schramm said the problem requires eternal vigilance. "We are in the process of improvement and our progress is good."

Robbery Charges Filed Against Two

Arrested early last Sunday morning in connection with the holdup of R. S. Oil Co., 800 University avenue, a few minutes after the crime was reported were two Perry, Ia., men, Mathew Marcell Spive, 32, and James Ernest Vaughn, 45.

Charges of robbery with aggravation were filed against them Monday. Patrolmen Robert Warren and John Swan said they found $136 the amount taken in the holdup, tucked under the sun visor of Spive's car when they arrested the pair at E. Thirteenth street and University avenue.

Police found two .25 caliber guns in their car. Erwin Fenrich, the attendant who was robbed, identified Spive and Vaughn as the men who robbed him.

100 Yrs. Ago SUI Tuition Was $4; Weekly Board $2

Iowa City, Iowa—The second week of March holds a special significance in the history of higher education in Iowa, for it was during this week in 1855 that instruction got under way at the State University of Iowa.

Eight years after the legislative act which created the university, a 16 weeks term began—with two instructors and "about 40" students—in Mechanics Academy, leased from the Iowa City Mechanics Aid Association and built on land donated to the pioneer labor group for "literary" purposes by the Iowa territorial legislature in 1842.

Tuition Four Dollars

Faculty salaries totaled $630 for that March through June term and each student paid $4 tuition. "Good board can be obtained in respectable families at from $2 to $2.50 a week, the university's "First Circular" explained.

There was no university president in March, 1855. But in the following July, the board of trustees prevailed upon Amos Dean, chancellor of the Albany, N.Y. law school to serve as SUI's first president while retaining his New York post.

He visited the Iowa campus only three times during his three and one-half years of service, but his "long distance" presiding cost the infant university a total of only $500 plus travel expense.

Liberal Education

President Dean is credited with organizing a board sweep of "liberal" and "practical" education for SUI's first students, most of whom came from log cabin homes.

Nine departments were offered in the university's "First Circular": Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Intellectual Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, History, Natural History, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

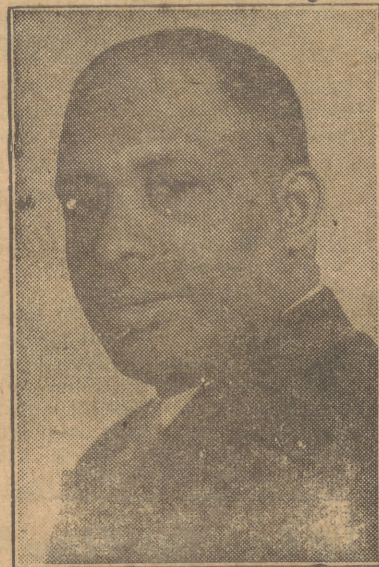

In comparison to the "about 40" students 100 years ago this week, the State University of Iowa enrollment presently stands at 8,664. Now under the administration of its 13th president, Virgil M. Hancher, the university comprises ten colleges, four schools and nearly 100 departments.

Government to Maintain BTW National Monument

Booker Washington Birthplace, VA.—Sidney J. Phillips, Chairman of Booker T. Washington National Monument Committee, announced last week that plans for a national monument honoring Booker T. Washington at his birthplace here contemplate 207 acres now comprising the birthplace properties shall constitute a public National Monument in recognition of Booker T. Washington, to be "maintained, supervised and preserved by the United States for the benefit and enjoyment of all the people."

According to Phillips, a Bill introduced too late for Committee report by the 83rd Congress and to be submitted in the present Congress, provides that the "entire area, including historic spots, buildings, woodlands, streams, and other natural landscapes, be further developed as a public park, and for recreational purposes."

Preservation

The improvement, said Phillips, would provide for "perpetual preservation of the birthplace land, of the slave cabin in which Booker T.

Washington was born, and for the erection of a museum for relics, records and other efforts pertaining to Booker T. Washington, as well as for other tangibles of national, historical and patriotic interest."

Chairman Phillips states, "Many such mementoes are already available by or to the Booker T. Washington National Monument Committee, and others would be obtained by gifts of individuals, organizations, states, and also from foreign nations."

Protected

"As a national monument it would be administered and protected in an enduring manner by the federal government," Phillips says, "in like manner as other national public parks, reservations, monuments, and other historic sites which commemorate significant events and famous American citizens." He referred specifically to the George Washington Carver National Monument constituting 210 acres of grounds, buildings and other interests at the birthplace of the eminent Negro scientist near Diamond, Mo.

Six States Fully Exclude All Colored People from Units; Several Segregate

Washington—America will find herself in the position of training armies in the style of Civil War period although she is in "the age of the H-Bomb conflict" if a proposed bill to strengthen reserve forces is passed without provision for racial integration in National Guard units, Clarence Mitchell, director of the NAACP Washington bureau, charged March 3, at a hearing of the subcommittee of the House Committee on Armed Services.

Testifying on a bill to provide for strengthening of the U. S. reserve forces, Mr. Mitchell pointed out that six southern states "have a policy of total exclusion for colored people who seek admission to the National Guard."

Six State

He named as the six states which exclude Negroes from the National Guard, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina.

In a total of "at least 27 states," Mr. Mitchell said, "units of the National Guard deny colored persons admission solely because of race or require that they serve in segregated units."

"This part of the program is fraudulent so far as colored citizens are concerned," he asserted.

It is "fraudulent," he explained, because "the Department of Defense knows that the National Guard program will not be available to colored people in a great many states, and especially will this opportunity be lacking in the states where the colored population is heaviest."

Guard Units Open

The NAACP official urged subcommittee members to incorporate a provision in the bill specifying that all National Guard units, including those of the Air National Guard, "shall be open to qualified persons without regard to race."

He warned that segregated National Guard units in southern states places "a greater strain" on northern states which have integrated units.

For this reason, Mr. Mitchell maintained, his proposed amendment

Truck Driver Tell Off to Husband, Wife's Plot to Murder Him for Insurance

Jacksonville, Fla.—(CNS)—A Negro truck driver, whose name police have withheld, has revealed how an attractive young housewife and her mother were conspiring with him to bump off the young wife's husband for his heavy insurance and valuable property.

The woman, Mrs. Ruth Blattner, 32, and mother of two children, and her mother Mrs. Sadie Teitelbaum, 52, had hoped to get the $75,000 home and $68,000 insurance of grocer Jack Blattner. They in turn offered the driver only $200, if he would commit the crime.

The driver instead warned the husband stating: "You're danger of being bumped off. Keep your gun in your pocket." He also told the husband how the first time he had been approached Mrs. Teitelbaum told him to meet her again and bring along a friend to help him in the plot. The next time, he brought along a policeman as a friend.

Both women have been charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Mrs. Fowler On Way to Viet Nam

Mrs. Gwendolyn Fowler, Des Moines, chemist, spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. Olin Cooper, 1112 Eleventh street, before leaving Sunday for her new post in Viet Nam, where she was scheduled to arrive Thursday.

She will serve as an FOA assistant program analyst. In that capacity, she said she will help recommend and carry out new agricultural, housing, and community development services. Her work will be more in an advisory capacity than as a chemist, she added, although her knowledge of chemistry will be an important asset.

Mr. Fowler, 46, was refused final clearance for her earlier appointment to a position as a health and hospital technician in Ethiopia.

Before leaving Washington, D. C., she chatted with Mrs. Dorothy Houghton (right), deputy director of the foreign operations administration.

Mrs. Houghton, of Red Oak, said Mrs. Fowler will receive a base salary of $7,095. (Photo Courtesy of Des Moines Register).

Total of $173,500 To Aid Victims In Mississippi

New York—A deposit of $5,000 by the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity last week brought to a total of $173,500 the sum deposited in the Tri-State Bank of Memphis in an effort to expand the bank's resources for making business loans to Negro farmers, businessmen and homeowners who, because of their anti-segregation stand, have been denied credit by certain white lending institutions in Mississippi.

Meanwhile, Bishop D. Ward Nichols of the AME Church attending a session of the committee on policy and strategy of the National Council of Churches of Christ, in Chicago, succeeded in getting the committee to pass a resolution calling upon the 30 denominations in the council to "explore the advisability and the possibility of recommending the use of available reserve funds" to aid in "winning this battle against economic strangulation."

Bishop Nichols is vice chairman of the general board of the National Council. His own denomination has already deposited $10,000 of its pension fund in the Tri-State Bank in response to an NAACP appeal for such deposits.

The resolution adopted in Chicago cited the activities of the White Citizens Councils "in getting banks and other lending agencies in their localities to foreclose mortgages, to deny credit and to refuse jobs to Negroes if they oppose segregation." Further the resolution said: "This application of economic pressure to silence Negroes is a means of impairing both civil liberties and civil rights."

Suspect off Hook as Painter Confesses To Co-Ed Killing

New York—(CNS)—Ernest Jackson, the 30 year old Negro student friend of blonde Ann Yarrow, who was slain and raped in a brutal fashion three weeks ago—breathed a sigh of relief this week. Police had found a third suspect in William Patrick Farrell and he confessed he did the crime.

The third man to be questioned in the affair that had all believing in the first few days it was Jackson. Farrell is a father of two youngsters is 25 years old and a rather handsome youth. He claimed it was in one of his periodic, overwhelming "urges" to beat and rape when he stabbed the young co-ed 37 times. His attorney called him a "very sick man" and noted that he had served a long hitch in Korea.

Farrell was picked up following a report that he was raping his sister-in-law. Thereupon he confessed to the Yarrow murder that had all New York talking about for weeks.

Bennett College's First Fullbright Scholar Tells of 18 Months Experiences During Scientific Study in Germany

Greensboro, N.C.—Bennett College's first Fullbright scholar—Miss Lovye Davis, a member of the class of 1953—returned to the campus last week after 18 months of scientific study in Germany.

there any incident or situation which could be termed unpleasant. "I lived at the Student House," she explained, and during the time there I had two different roommates. The first was Waltraut Kleen and the second was Elsie Berg, who had been an exchange student at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., during the school year of 1952-53.

German Spoken

German was spoken at all times, said Miss Davis, who laughingly added that since her return to the U. S. she sometimes found herself saying something in German when she really meant to use English.

Her work in Germany was done in paper chromatography under two foremost specialists in that field. She said that the German methods of treating cancer are the same as those used in the U. S. and German scientists like the American's, are studiously seeking a cure.

Worked Hard

While she worked hard, the Carolina-born miss found some time for recreation and social activity. "I went to the opera and to the movies," she declared, and enjoyed many of the Italian, French and German films that were shown.

"One of the things that I will always remember was the Christmas party given by the science fraternity. They had never before had a Negro guest, and I understand that the parents of some of the students discussed he matter beforehand. I couldn't have had a better time anywhere."

Sometimes, I fear, we are not always as considerate of them as they would be of us were we to visit in their country."

"We, as a country," Miss Davis continued, "have made many mistakes. If we are to remain a great power, we must accord to all citizens equal rights. It is wise for you as students to prepare yourselves as thoroughly as possible so that when the time comes for you to inherit that which is rightfully yours, you will receive your indebtedness, not as a Negro, but as an American."

Miss Davis, who gives Bennett due credit for her success thus far, enrolled this week in the graduate school at the University of California at Berkeley where she will pursue a master of science degree in general chemistry, after which she expects to devote her time to cancer research.

CONVALESCING AT HOME

Mrs. George Franklin, 927 12th street, is convalescing at her home following a recent illness.

Personal Touch By MARIE ROSS

When the early March weather gets as beautiful and balmy with temperature shooting towards the 70's, as it did on Tuesday this week, Iowa folk get an itch—and go out to enjoy the day, because only the Real Weather Man knows how near is the next blizzard.

Out doing a bit of inspection around her home while she enjoyed the beautiful day Tuesday was Mrs. B. L. Dant, 924 Fifteenth street, "I was just lining up some work for my son, Ben, who came home recently from Indiana. I'd like to sow some grass seed and put up a fence and try to have a lawn," she talked.

"Then I crave to clean house, and I have got to do something about it right away because I just got a card from my oldest sister who said she will be here Thursday from Honeywell, Mo.," Mrs. Dant informed.

At 1710 Carpenter street, out enjoying the balmy day was Mrs. Woodrow Lewis who began to think about running rose bushes she hopes to get planted in her garden this spring.

During the winter months, Mrs. Lewis revealed that she has been attending Good Grooming class at Central YWCA, learning how to stay on her diet and exercise the inches away.

She was proud to reveal that "I have lost weight, too." She said that with "determination" she now can bake her favorite, chiffon cakes and pies for her family, and not even want a taste of them.

Mrs. Lewis sews, quite a lot, and takes time for her Parent-Teachers Association work at Nash School. She belongs to the PTA Council, and when she can't attend, her mail carrier husband, goes to the meetings. They have three children, the oldest now a student at Nash.

"On a beautiful day like this I would like to go for a long walk," Mrs. Maude Pickett, 1004 Sixteenth street, said.

Although she suffers from arthritis, and is unable to do much walking, Mrs. Pickett is planning to raise flowers in her garden this year.

Regardless of the weather she goes to church every Sunday at Corinthian Baptist, and she as one of her prized possessions a certificate for perfect attendance for so many years.

"Isn't this a beautiful day," said Mrs. Roy Todd of 1051 Seventeenth street, just after returning home from a trip to town.

Though the weather makes her think of housecleaning, Mrs. Todd said she was busy at her first attempt at sewing. She joined a sewing class last fall at Willkie House and is thrilled because she has learned to like the art of sewing. She is making a shorty coat for spring-time wear.

Taking advantage of the evening sun, just before the shadows began to fall was Mrs. Lorraine Collins who wanted to walk and talk through town. She was snatching a few moments after a busy day on income tax office machines, before going to pick up her little tots at a nursery school.

"Let's have some coffee and talk," she suggested and confessed: "I just like to talk."

"Nobody likes to talk anymore," she lamented.

I reminded her that this is the age of television and how can one talk and watch television? How can one do anything and watch television?

We talked of prejudices of people to problems in Asia; and, Mrs. Col-

Attending the golden wedding anniversary event was one of the attendants of the couple when they married in Des Moines fifty years ago, December 14, 1904. She was Mrs. Bernice Richmond of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves were married at the old St Paul AME church by the late Rev. Horace Graves.

Both Virginians

Mrs. Reeves a native of Stanton, Va., came to Iowa when a child with her parents the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carey. Mr. Reeves, a retired coal miner, born in Franklin County, Va., arrived in Iowa in 1902 to work in the coal mines.

The couple met in the old coal mining town of Buxton, Ia., courted and were married here and then went back to Buxton, West Va., where he worked for three years as railroad freight brakeman.

They returned to Des Moines and went to housekeeping in Highland Park, at the above address where they have lived and reared their family. By a former marriage, Mrs. Reeves had three children when she and Mr. Reeves were married. They became the parents of six children, two of whom died, the couple revealed in an interview.

Busy Lines

During their half-century together, the couple informed that they both have enjoyed good health and have led busy lives about their home, while bringing up their children, and in the community.

When their family was growing up, Mrs. Reeves had more than the housekeeping duties. There were the annual garden, then the canning and the chickens.

Mr. Reeves said he retired from the coal mines in 1941, then went to the Ordance plant during World War II, and after that went to Mercy hospital where he is employed now as a janitor.

"Exercise is one of the greatest things for a person," Mr. Reeves said as he told of his outdoor activities. His favorite sport is hunting raccoon when the season is open. He goes to the farm of his brother, George Reeves at Dallas County, Ia., several times a month. During the summer-time, he gardens, raises flowers and goes fishing.

Both members of St. Paul AME church, and the NAACP Mrs. Reeves is active in the Monogram club, was a founder of the S. L. Birt club, worked on the Stewardess board for years and is a member of the Golden Age Club of Willkie House. Her hobby is collecting miniature horses and dogs.

Mr. Reeves served as a trustee at St. Paul Church when it moved to its present location. His name is on the cornerstone of the church.

Other activities for the couple are entertaining their eleven grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

SPORTS CONTINUE TO LEAD THE WAY

There was a time when Negroes did not play basketball in big schools. Among other things, it was argued that the contact was such as to make success improbable, that the Negro was an individual but not a team performer.

But that has all been changed. Many of the large schools numbered one or more Negro players on their basketball teams this season; the all American team picked by Collier's Magazine included two Negroes; the UP sports writers three.

This represents a distinct turn about and a recognition of an athlete's ability only as the price of a place on the team.

Again sports led the way in offering an opportunity for the fellow who qualifies.

Incidentally, many of the top flight games, both college and professional, have been televised. And this offers a chance for the ritz coach to realize that it is more important to build a good team than to hold the color line.

COWLES AND MURPHY INTERESTS COMPROMISE

After a long drawn out legal battle over their application for television channel 8 in Des Moines by the KRNT, Cowles interest and the KSO the Murphy interest, a compromise has been worked out whereby they have joined forces and we shall have a new station in Des Moines shortly.

Both groups are represented by very fine people who mean much to this area. The Bystander is pleased that the program will go on as one big unit. Both sides deserve a pat on the back.

MORE RECOGNITION COMES TO IOWA CITIZENS

For more than thirty years, no Iowa Negro has had a federal appointment from Washington. It had begun to look as if a fellow must go east to get any consideration.

However, the present administration has reversed that trend and thus A. A. Alexander was appointed governor of the Virgin Islands and Mrs. Gwendolyn Fowler has been sent to Viet Nam by the Foreign Operations Administration to do special program work.

Both appointees worked diligently in civic and political affairs of the state. Their training and experience led to an elevation to high posts.

Besides personal accomplishments, they serve as an example to youngsters coming along that it pays to be prepared; that opportunities are available and that they themselves can be recognized if they measure up. Congratulations and good luck to Gwyn.

VETERANS AUDITORIUM GETS BAPTISM

The newly constructed Veterans Auditorium has housed its first big event when more than 15 thousand people witnessed the state girls high school basketball finals last week.

It brought to Des Moines a lot of people who had no idea of the magnitude of the structure and provided the youngsters with a thrill they will never forget.

The auditorium fills a long felt need in Des Moines and will further enhance its reputation as a convention city.

POOR LABOR POLITICS AND PUBLIC RELATIONS

Iowa labor leaders, most of whom opposed the Republican ticket last fall, are trying to dictate to Gov. Hoegh who is to be the new labor commissioner. In fact, some have gone so far as to demand that those men who worked in the interest of the Republican ticket last fall be excluded from consideration.

Now another group starts a campaign to place stickers on letters sent out from the state with the inscription "Iowa Scab Law State."

This type of campaign is most unfair, just as a sticker "Mississippi the Jim Crow State" would be on a sticker and embarrasses friends of their cause.

Neither is inductive to gaining any support for their cause and undoubtedly some one in the legislature will have a word on the subject.

Integrated Guard Units

NCNW's Big Event

The National Council of Negro Women's Brotherhood Luncheon at the Willard—the year's big event for that organization—must have been a financial success, with upwards of 800 guests sitting down to listen to "inspirational" talks from the guest of honor, Founder Mary McLeod Bethune, her old friend, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, TV's Ed Sullivan and others.

Mrs. Bethune was thankful and grateful for Negro progress through the years. Mrs. Roosevelt, commenting on the removal of the designation "Negro" from the organization's name, was glad that she had become a life member some years ago.

We remember the day she joined. Mrs. Bethune at the head of the conference table, telling Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Francis Biddle, whose husband was then Attorney General, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, and others, "You are all my women. I want all of you to take out life memberships!" And Mrs. Roosevelt expressing her willingness, but asking, worriedly, as she wrote out her check, "Mrs. Bethune, what are all your women doing to support the Council?"

Citations

Citations were made by NCNW, to Mrs. Jane Morrow Spaulding, "for valiant and courageous adherence to ideals," to Dr. Auguste Hoffman for her leadership of the German Federation of University Women, and to Ed Sullivan "for imaginative skill in creating 'Toast of the Town,' to help all Americans recognize the dignity and worth of each human being."

(That was nice and tangible.) A City of Los Angeles citation for humanitarian service was made to Mrs. Vivian Carter Mason, Council President.

And speaking of NCNW did you know that singer Matiwilda Dobbs' first music teacher was none other than Naomah Williams Maise, Executive Director of the Council, and long-time music instructor at Spelman College, Atlanta. Naomah, now known as social worker and organization leader, studied music at the Julliard School and at Bennington College, Vermont.

The Long Arm of the Dead

Capital culture suffers seriously from "the long arm of the dead." While the work of Negro artists is occasionally accepted for hanging at Corcoran Gallery exhibits, Negro students are, by charter, excluded from the Corcoran's Art School, and the Gallery, contrary to custom, buys no work of Negro artists, however meritorious, for its permanent collection.

Rosenwald Did Better

The late Julius Rosenwald, determined not to bind the future with the views of the past, limited the life of the famed and enormously useful Rosenwald Fund, to one generation. Morrow Found Florida on Its Toes

Fred Morrow back from Florida A and M at Tallahassee, very enthusiastic and full of praise for Florida high school principals' recognition of the need "to start gearing those kids to take their places in society under new conditions." He also found great stress placed on "one specialty" development of schools facing the competitive demands of present or forthcoming integration.

We spent an intensely interesting morning listening to the Land-Grant prexies discussing integration problems, in Washington, not too long ago. The "one specialty" school was the big idea developed—Florida A and M's President Gore was one of the developers.

But they prefaced their remarks with a polite, but pointed, "If there are any newsmen present"—looking casually in our direction. Even when the gender's wrong, we can always take a hint!

Don Newcombe to Be 'Serious' This Year Vero Beach, Fla.—(CNS)—Don Newcombe promises that he's going to be a different pitcher this year. With a reputation of being serious only at times, Newk was asked if he intended to bear down and stay serious this year.

To this the big fellow answered: "Sure you got to be serious when you get your salary cut. You can't ride around in those big cars and wear those fine clothes if you don't get that money back."

HEALTH FOR ALL

SNIFLE SEASON

"If you have a nose for news, here's some about your nose, throat, ears, sinuses and lungs that may help you during the snifle season," said Dr. Abraham Gelperin, Director, Des Moines-Polk County Department of Public Health.

The respiratory diseases affect the organs of breathing. They are caused by bacteria or viruses that get into the body through the mouth and nose.

The group includes colds, sinusitis, ear infection, influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia, streptococcal nose and throat infection.

These diseases are spread mainly by germ-laden droplets and moisture sprayed into the air when an infected person coughs or sneezes.

Dr. Gelperin stated that the respiratory diseases are one of the most common causes of illness. They are responsible for more than half of all absences from work and school due to sickness.

According to health department estimates in Iowa this year, 2,370,000 days will be lost from work with $15,800,000 lost in wages.

"You can help avoid catching and spreading these diseases," said Dr. Gelperin, "by keeping away from people who cough and sneeze carelessly." Keep your fingers away from your mouth and wash your hands before eating and after using the toilet. Guard against chilling. Suit your clothing to the weather. Most important, consult your family doctor, especially if your infection hangs on.

"Last of all," concluded Dr. Gelperin, "don't try to give your respiratory infection away by exposing a friend. This won't hasten recovery and you should lose that friend."

The All America, selected from the ballots of 632 leading sportswriters and sportscasters, is led by San Francisco's defensive ace, Bill Russell. According to the new issue of Look Magazine, the rangy Russell "is one of the greatest defensive specialists in the history of the college game."

Ottumwans Hear How

SEE FRONT PAGE As a direct result of the survey, a mayor's committee for civic unity was appointed. That committee's function is educational, and it also reports any acts of discrimination.

Cities Similarity

Edwin White, a Burlington mail carrier, called attention to the similarity of Burlington and Ottumwa, about the same size and with about the same Negro population.

"As a member of a minority race," White said, "it is easy for one to be supersensitive. We may imagine that an injustice has been done."

White explained that the change in Burlington didn't happen overnight. "But the change has been constant. Now, people are not just tolerant, they are consciously concerned. It has made Burlington a better place in which to live."

Miss Betty Holsteen, Burlington high school teacher who is president of the Iowa division of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also told of the progress in human relations in Burlington.

The Rev. G. Paul Jones, pastor of the AME church, said he hopes to interest the people of Ottumwa in a program similar to the Burlington survey and committee work. "We need to take a candid look at ourselves," the Rev. Mr. Jones said, "and while I am not a crusader, I think the Burlington program could be used to advantage here."
