Says South Must Realize That Scuttling of Teachers Is to Wreck Its Schools

Chicago, Ill. — The South must realize that to scuttle Negro teachers is to wreck its schools, says the November EBONY. In the South an estimated 100,000 Negroes teach school, and they comprise the world's largest group of Negro professionals. This fall, as school integration went into effect in some states, many of the educators' careers were jeopardized.

The question arose whether Negro teachers should be allowed to teach in mixed schools. The answer would appear to be a simple one, says EBONY. If students are to be integrated, teachers should also be. Yet the South, having no charts to follow except a not-always dependable conscience, came up with a variety of replies, some heartening, other disillusioning.

In Missouri

In Missouri Negro teachers, with few exceptions, were employed in mixed schools. In sharp contrast, Oklahoma fired 125 county teachers when the schools were integrated and 300 others face dismissal.

EBONY learned that while each year the number of white teachers dwindles because of low pay, long hours, Negro teachers are increasing in number and are becoming better prepared. This reservoir of Negro educators could help replenish the rapidly disappearing supply of teachers.

When school integration comes, as it surely will, says EBONY, Negro teachers will be needed to help make it work. Communities in the so-called "border states" have already found this to be true. The deep South will some day agree.

'Most Segregated Institutions in America,' Churches

New York City—The churches—"the most segregated institutions in America"—are working hard today at the difficult task of bringing about interracial worship, says the October issue of Harper's Magazine.

Louis Cassels and Lee Nichols, two Washington press association reporters, write that segregation in the churches is "one of the sorest spots in America's Christian conscience."

Bringing Up Rear

They continue: "The churches are bringing up the rear in a battle they should have led. While racial barriers have been crumbling in sports, in the theater, in trade unions, in schools and in the military services, the worship of God is still being conducted—in almost any community you can name—on a predominantly Jim Crow basis.

"Before we condemn the churches for hypocrisy, however, we must in fairness cite two facts in their defense—

Interracial Hotel, Moulin Rouge, in Las Vegas Closes

Las Vegas, Nev.—Six months after it opened, the three-million-dollar interracial Moulin Rouge Hotel is padlocked Tuesday after financial failures.

It was the third plush hostelry here, where hotels bank on their gambling casinos, to be hit by money difficulties, in recent months. All opened this year. The Moulin Rouge opened last April 22.

Alexander Bisno, principal stockholder of the 100-room Moulin Rouge, said legal ads published last week for two corporations in California served notice to sell hotel assets to recover $371,928 in defaulted notes. There was speculation however, that new interests may take over control of the hotel.

Bisno said there are also $100,000 in court liens against the hotel for unpaid bills, and a suit has been filed by a union to recover $21,500 in wages due Oct. 5.

Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion, was a 2 per cent stockholder in the venture and served as unofficial host until leaving about a month ago.

Recently the Sands Hotel Corporation took over a lease on the Dunes Hotel after the state gaming control board reported the Dunes encountered losses due to a "persistent losing streak at its casino."

Last month the state gaming commission granted Gus Greenbaum and seven associates a gambling license and they took over operations of the Riviera Hotel which had run into difficulties.

Diggs Protest on Airport Segregation Gets Results

Detroit, Mich.—Following an official protest by Congressman Charles C. Diggs, Jr. (D-Mich.), the Civil Aeronautics Administration has launched a study to identify public airports that practice racial segregation in their service facilities.

This action by the CAA came as a result of a letter to the Secretary of Commerce in which Diggs asked for strict enforcement of a provision of

Arrested in Houston

ELLA FITZGERALD

Houston, Tex.—Ella Fitzgerald, three other members of "Jazz at the Philharmonic," and the producer, Norman Granz, were free Saturday on $10 bond each after having been charged last Friday night with shooting dice backstage during a performance.

After Granz posted $10 bond each for the performers, arresting officers drove them back to the music hall for the second show.

Others booked were John B. (Dizzy) Gillespie, trumpet player; Illinois Jacquet, who blows a saxophone, and Georgiana Henry, singer.

The officers said Miss Fitzgerald was not actually shooting dice when they entered, but the game was going on in her dressing room. Granz was walking out as they arrived, police said.

At the police station, Miss Fitzgerald dabbed tears from her eyes.

Asked by reporters if she was actually taking part in the dice game, she shook her head.

Sgt. W. A. Cotton said Jacquet had the dice in his hand as officers walked in. Officers confiscated the dice and $185.

Police said Miss Fitzgerald who was wearing a taffeta gown and a mink stole, was the best-dressed woman they ever booked.

Jacquet was the most nonchalant of those arrested. He told reporters his name was Louis Armstrong.

The Federal Airport Act which stipulates that airports "... will be available for public use on fair and reasonable terms and without unjust discrimination.

The Michigan Representative had suggested that airports discriminating against Negroes be denied funds made available to them under the Federal Aid Airport Program.

Diggs also received assurance from Louis S. Rothchild, Acting Secretary of Commerce, that the Congressman's charges against the Raleigh-Durham (N. C.) Airport "are being considered in the official study."

Says Pressures Amount to 'A Gigantic Program of Brainwashing, Vengeance'

Charlottesville, Va.—Delegates attending the 20th annual convention of the Virginia State Conference of NAACP Branches here last week end heard national leaders of the Association brand southern defiance of the United States Supreme Court ruling against public school segregation as a "war" against the United States Government.

Speaking at the opening session Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, charged in an address Friday night, Oct. 7, "that a war has been declared and is being fought against the United States of America."

Similarly, Thurgood Marshall, the Association's special counsel, said in his speech, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 9, that "defiance of the Supreme Court of the United States in regard to school desegregation is not defiance of Negroes or the NAACP. It is defiance of our Government; and our Government is either strong enough to deal with this defiance or is weak enough to be unable to survive as a world power."

'Peaceful Relations'

Mr. Wilkins compared the reaction to the Court's decision in Oklahoma, that in Mississippi and Virginia. In Oklahoma, he pointed out, 100 communities had gone ahead with desegregation. "What our white friends are fond of calling the 'peaceful relations between the races' have not been upset," he said. "Apparently no one is worried to death about his bloodstream. Oklahoma just decided to remain a part of the United States and to let God and good sense help it in solving a problem in the American way.

The contrast between Mississippi on the one hand, and Oklahoma on the other, is important because it points up what is actually underway in a number of states in the South today. The unpleasant but plainly discernible fact is that a war has been declared and is being fought against the United States of America. It is a war against the right of petition, against legal redress of grievances, against the exercise of the franchise, and against equality under the law."

Brainwashing Program

The pressure being exerted on Negroes who ask for school desegregation and otherwise demand their constitutional rights amounts to "a gigantic program of brainwashing with a vengeance," Mr. Marshall told the delegates.

"This brainwashing, if successful," he asserted, "will not only remove from our thinking the need for protection of the rights of the Negro

Heart Is the 'Toughest Old Organ', Educator Tells SUP's Fourth Annual Institute of Gerontology

Iowa City, Iowa.—Man's heart is "the toughest old organ" in his body, a medical educator at the State University of Iowa said Monday during the fourth annual conference of the university's Institute of Gerontology.

Among persons attending the conference from Des Moines was Atty. James B. Morris, editor of the Iowa Bystander.

Dr. Lewis E. January, professor of internal medicine at SUI, said the heart can be operated upon by the surgeon, bruised by the steering wheel in an automobile accident, shot at in war, sustain most of the heart diseases and still continue to pump blood—its only known function.

The majority of people with heart disease, whatever their age, are capable of productive activity, the physician stated. They need medical supervision, but they also need a means by which their physical capacity can be matched to a job, he said.

Dr. January was a member of a panel on "Getting Younger With Age." The gerontology conferences are held yearly to bring together experts in the various fields concerned with the problems created by the steadily rising number of older people in the population.

Mitchell Says Murderers Of Till Could Have Been Tried in a Real Court

Hartford, Conn.—If the two major political parties faced their "responsibilities," racial violence, such as the Till murder, and discrimination could be ended "within six months", an NAACP official asserted here.

Addressing a CIO-sponsored civil rights conference, on Oct. 5, Clarence Mitchell, NAACP Washington bureau director, told his audience that a "march on the local politicians and members of Congress in your own home district and your own home state who are strangling efforts to get basic civil rights bills enacted into law" would be more effective than a march on Mississippi to protest the lynching of 14-year-old Emmett Louis Till.

"If Congress had passed civil rights bill," he maintained, "the murderers of 14-year-old Emmett Till would have been tried in a real court instead of a circus-tent, as was the case in Summer, Miss. The evidence against them would have been assembled by the capable and scientific law enforcement officers of the FBI rather than an over-stuffed sheriff and his bungling assistants. There would be the legal possibility of hitting the State of Mississippi where it hurts most — namely, the pocket-books, by bringing suit against the county in which the outrage occurred."

Refused to Push

"The Democrats have refused to push for civil rights legislation in Congress in order to preserve what they call party harmony," Mr. Mitchell recalled.

He said "civilized people recoil at the kind of harmony that links honest men and women elected to Congress by the ballots of free people with individuals from Mississippi and Georgia, who hold office solely because potential voters are kept from the ballot box with shotguns, economic pressure and Nazi-like election regulations."

Expressing disgust also with Representative

Award Winning Negro County Agent To Serve as Specialist in Liberia

Washington, D. C. — Charles H. Burton, outstanding Mississippi county agent who was headquartered in Greenville, Miss., left with his family last week for Liberia, West Africa, where he will serve as a farm specialist for the International Cooperation Administration.

Mr. Burton is one of two colored county agents who have received the Superior Service Award from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He received the citation last May from Secretary Ezra Taft Benson for his work in helping the colored farmers of the Mississippi Delta to make greater use of research results of the Delta Experiment Station.

A native of Yazoo City, Miss., Mr. Burton is a graduate of Alcorn A. & M. College, Alcorn, Miss., and has done further work at the University of Illinois. He was a county agent in Washington County, Miss., for 16 years. He and Mrs. Burton have three children who flew with them to Liberia.

to do so, but also the leadership to carry with him the laymen who, through vestries, presbyteries, boards of deacons or congregational meetings, have the final word on church policy.

The sticking point for many congregations is the social intermingling, the article reports. "Some white Christians who would gladly share a pew with Negroes have a deep-seated dread of social intermingling—at church suppers, in youth groups, at the Ladies' Guild meetings," it says.

More Personal
Defending the churches in their difficult task, a Negro theologian, Dr. Frank T. Wilson of Howard University School of Religion, is quoted as saying: "The churches will take longer to achieve integration because they are undertaking a much greater accomplishment. Worshipping together is a more personal thing than riding trains or attending movies to gether. Tolerance is not enough here; it must be real brotherhood or nothing."

Cheese Crusted Hamburger Pie

Here is a flavorful, colorful, meal-in-a-dish—just the thing to please the end of the month food budget.

Tempt family appetites with this Cheese Crusted Hamburger Pie early this spring. You may even be surprised yourself at how your family will accept a new dish so quickly—and demand repeats in the future.

This pie can be your economy dish for the week. The hamburger pie picks up a delicious new flavor with the "meat in your mouth" cheese crusted topping. Luckily too, it not only tastes good, but is good for you! When the cheese crust is made with enriched flour, you get extra shares of B-Vitamins and food iron along with food energy and protein.

Along with this Cheese Crusted Hamburger pie you will like to include a fresh green tossed salad with some of the new spring vegetables. This in itself would make a complete luncheon but for a dinner perhaps you'll want to include a dish of fresh new asparagus. Nothing more will be needed to get the "You're the best cook, mom" reward. Clip this recipe not only for this week's menu but also for future demands.

United Brethren Church to Work For Integration

Dayton, Ohio.—A committee of the Evangelical United Brethren Church called upon congregations and agencies of the denomination to "abolish all forms of discrimination."

The plea was made in a statement issued by the Church's new Commission on Christian Social Action at its first annual meeting here. "As Christians we believe that all forms of racial discrimination are denials of human worth and contrary to the will of God," it said. "The action of the Supreme Court with reference to racial segregation in public schools reminds the church of its obligation to achieve true fellowship within its own life."

The Church must act now to abolish. The commission also asked church members to work for desegregation in business, public schools, housing, unions and other fields. Members were urged to seek the passage of fair employment practice laws with enforcement provisions in states that do not have such legislation.

Founder of United Negro College Fund Is Honored

Atlanta, Ga.—The Board of the United Negro College Fund honored Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, founder and president of the Fund, at a dinner here Oct. 4.

DR. F. D. PATTERSON

The presidents of the 31 member colleges presented Dr. Patterson with a citation which read in part "To Frederick Douglas Patterson whose breadth of vision and courageous spirit inspired us in time of crisis to unite in common cause to build for the future of higher education for Negro youth, and whose pioneering zeal brought forth in the United Negro College Fund a dynamic new concept for financing privately endowed higher education in the United States, and whose years of wise leadership and devoted service as founder and president of the United Negro College Fund have contributed so significantly to the strengthening of the Fund's member colleges, we give this expression of everlasting gratitude."

Initiates Fund

Dr. Patterson initiated the Fund in 1943, when he wrote an open letter to other presidents of Negro colleges which appeared in the Pittsburgh Courier on January 30 of that year. In his letter, Dr. Patterson urged the presidents to "pool their small monies" and make one united appeal to the "national conscience."

The Fund, which was incorporated in 1944, was established for the purpose of securing greater educational opportunities for Negro youth. It has conducted 12 annual nation-wide campaigns in support of the yearly operating expenses of its member colleges. A total of 29 million dollars has been raised to date for building and operating.

and her husband had moved here four years ago. Previously she had been vice-president of the group in Rahway, N. J., their former home.

YWCA Work

Mrs. Olphin also is intensely interested in the work of the YWCA and has attended three of its national assemblies. She is on the board of trustees of the local branch.

Church work consumes most of the best of her time. Being a minister's wife, Mrs. Olphin is expected to attend a great many meetings.

As chairman of the children's department, she is on the board of Christian education, and she also teaches in the Sunday School.

Aside from this, she prefers to remain in the background. She said she felt most of the jobs in the church should be left to members rather than to the pastor's wife—that the laymen should have a chance to show their skills.

Mrs. Olphin is the mother of two children, both married, and has three grandchildren. She is a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority and of the Des Moines minister's wives group. (Photo courtesy of D. M. Sunday Register.)

"Our telephone service is the cheapest service we buy"

I look at it this way: Our telephone makes life a lot happier for me and my family. There are times when it's been a real lifesaver, too—like the day Jimmy fell down the basement stairs.

I can call anyone in town, and call as often as I want—24 hours a day, every day of the year.

All I do is reach out and lift the receiver—and equipment worth thousands, maybe millions of dollars is ready to go to work for me. I don't have to buy any equipment myself, nor do I pay extra for repairs.

Sure, we pay a little more for our telephone than we used to—though the price has gone up a lot less than most other things. But Bob, my husband, figured out that even today our telephone actually costs us less than one cent an hour. Imagine—for all that service!

That's why we think our telephone service is the cheapest service we buy.

Bennett Students Told to Seek God

Greensboro, N. C.—The question: "What can I do about me?" faces every modern man and woman, Dr. Harry V. Richardson told Bennett College students, here Sunday.

Dr. Richardson, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., said: "It is religion's purpose to help us in our efforts to do something purposeful with our lives. This is also the essence of a college education. It is in college that we reach a maturity that lets us see our strengths and our weaknesses and urges us to do something about them."

"If you seek God earnestly and pray, there is no limit to what you can do," the speaker counseled, "but keep in mind that the kingdom of God is not a sudden transformation. It is a matter of patient growth from day to day."

Personal Touch

By MARIE ROSS

The former governor of the Virgin Islands whose health forced him to resign his post the early part of last month, penned:

"On our way back now. Will stop in Martinique, then Virgin Islands, Chicago, and home by the 15th of October, I hope. Feeling rested and cheerful. Arch and Audra Alexander."

Just back from a vacation in her native home, Kentucky, is Mrs. Earl Williams of 934 Fourteenth place, who spent two weeks with relatives in Louisville.

Looking rested and wearing an Italian hair style, Mrs. Williams eyes sparkled as she talked of Louisville where she would gladly live if she could sell her husband the idea of moving.

"A lot of people don't like the idea of living in the south, but in Kentucky I don't see much difference; and, after looking around I saw a lot of things that Iowa doesn't have."

"My people lived in some of the new housing projects, which had three-room modern apartments with bath, hot and cold water running all the time, and all of your utilities included in the rent—and the rent, what do you suppose it was? Only $23 per month. All around town there are many of the fine housing projects in which Negroes were living."

"Then I went to the big post office and as I stood at the parcel post window and looked back at the men working with the parcel post, I counted 39 Negro men. I saw two Negro clerks at the parcel post windows and two Negro clerks at the stamp windows."

"Do you see them here?" she asked. I shook my head.

"Then, continued the native Kentuckian, 'people will look at you funny when you say that you would rather live in some parts of the south, than up this way.'"

Talk to any of Iowa's former southerners who have lived in areas where Negroes have made gains in education, employment, housing and social culture, and they will shake their heads and lament that "we, up here, haven't scratched the surface."

Every year, a native of Iowa, where the public school education is free, easy to get and integrated—goes down south for a vacation. She

United Campaign In Action

BY BILL HECKMAN
I hope it will be a fourth. Not fourth of July but a big fourth United Campaign of Greater Des Moines. Here's a quick run-down of the 33 agencies that need your help.

Twenty-one of the 33 United Campaign member agencies work with children—some providing love to the unwanted; some wholesome assistance to the ill; some, wholesome recreation and leadership training; some, a home. Fourteen benefit the ill, both the physically ill and the mentally ill. Nine provide family service, giving counseling and information to those whose home life isn't happy and satisfying. Nine others are places where adults, teen-agers, servicemen can go for recreation and companionship.

Three have the difficult and touching job of helping the unwed mother. Three others give help to the wandering. Three more to the aged. One cares for the blind. One helps the hard of hearing.

If you are interested in the names of the agencies, here they are: Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Catholic Charities-Christ Child Home, Child Guidance Center, Community Chest, Convalescent Home for Children, Co-Operative Thrift Shop, Council of Social Agencies, Day Care Service, Des Moines Hearing & Speech Center, Family Service-Travelers Aid, Girl Scouts, Health Center, Iowa Children's Home Society, Iowa Home for Sightless Women, Jewish Community Center, Jewish Social Center, Legal Aid Society, Lutheran Welfare Agency, Public Health Nursing Ass'n., Roadside Settlement, St. Monica's School, Salvation Army, including Booth Memorial Hospital and Community Center, Willkie House, Inc., YMCA, YWCA, American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Polk County Ass'n. for Mental Health, Sister Kenny Polio Foundation, USO-United Fund of Iowa.

"What kind of an idea do you think your fine southern friends have of Iowa schools when they listen to you smash the King's English?" I asked my friend.

She gasped and shook her head. "I never thought of that."

The last time I heard from my friend who travels south each year, she had an Adult Education folder looking up some of the many courses that are taught this fall in the Des Moines High school night classes. She has vowed to do some "brushing-up" before her next trip.

The Adult Education fall Classes which started last week are offering many valuable courses for persons seeking new fields of learning or wanting to brush-up or review former studies.

THE CHURCH FEARS TO LEAD

When Hitler and Mussolini were flying high with their dangerous program, many Germans and Italians were opposed to their methods but feared to speak out because they were in the minority. They dared not oppose the system.

During Civil War days, great religious denominations split because church leaders stood by their convictions. They had the courage to refuse to be connected with a geographical section of their church which supported slavery. It was the courageous thing to do.

Last week, the general board of the National Council of Churches was in session. The un-Christian, inhuman Mississippi murder and kidnapping case was before that body in the form of a resolution condemning the mistreatment of Negroes in that state. It would have been interesting to have heard the debate.

So, they came up with a resolution expressing "deep regret" over the "tragic events in Mississippi" which says absolutely nothing and which displays a perfect job of tight rope walking unexcelled by anything scheming politicians or diplomats might have concocted. The board voted down a proposal to single out the slaying of 14-year-old Emmett Till of Chicago, Ill., in its resolution. Likewise it defeated a motion specifically asking condemnation of efforts to maintain segregation in southern schools.

The board, in a resolution, placed responsibility for "violation of human personality on racial grounds" on the entire nation. Admittedly the Mississippi affair is a tragedy and strikes at the very foundation of this country-law enforcement.

If the church cannot be depended upon to lead the people in right thinking, then this thing we call Christianity is in a bad way.

Any right thinking person who read the article must have felt that the board delivered a blow to Christian leadership; that it made many people feel that the church is failing in its mission, serving only as a sanctuary not for the righteous but for those who fear to die.

OH, HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Up until twenty years ago, practically every Negro who played in big time college football was a line-man. And the program admitted just a few at a time due, in part, to the rather small number of Negroes attending the big schools.

Anyone who attended the Iowa-Indiana game at Iowa City last Saturday and could recall the personnel of these teams prior to the early twenties must have marveled at the number of Negroes on each squad; that they played in just about every position.

And to cap the climax, Indiana used a Negro quarterback. Times have changed and so have people. The fans want to see a good game and it makes no difference whether the player is black or white. Then, too, the success and tenure of service of a coach depend upon his ability to win games. So, as a matter of self preservation, when a good player shows up he gets an opportunity to demonstrate what he can do.

Of course, sports have led the way far out in front of any other line of endeavor. And as players are competing in the various sports, it continues to do so.

A CALL EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD ANSWER

This week, the United Campaign begins its annual solicitation for funds to maintain 31 agencies. The goal is $1,386,181 and of course the people of Des Moines will meet it.

The Community Chest is a big well run organization with an excellent staff and the services of many of the leading businesses and professional men and women in the city; of labor, the housewife—in fact it touches every group in the city given on a voluntary basis.

There is less criticism of the chest now than in years gone by. Fortunately, the 31 agencies it maintains reach the young and old, church and lay people, mental health, health, character building organizations and recreational facilities.

There are large and small donors. The program is so well organized that most families are reached. When solicitors come around don't turn them down. They represent this community and 31 good agencies.

CARELESSNESS IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The traffic death toll on the highways continue to rise. Most of the emphasis laid on preventative measures is directed toward speeding. It does make a large contribution.

However, carelessness in one form or another contributes most. A driver who is careful won't drive fast when it is dangerous, won't pass on hills, stops for and/or observes signs, is alert and attentive to his job. Most lives lost are chargeable to carelessness.

The whole purpose of brainwashing is to reverse one's way of thinking by unlawful and reprehensible means. This is done by simple misstatements of facts and by deliberate lies. Congress Could Stop publican tactics in the civil rights area, the NAACP spokesman noted that "again and again, Republican spokesmen have harped on the theme that there are enough laws and regulations already on the books."

Three-Point Program
Mr. Mitchell called for a three-point government program to guarantee civil rights and to end "outrages" that have occurred in Mississippi:

- 1. Passage of the civil rights bills now pending in the 84th Congress;
2. Full support for anti-discrimination provisions in federal bills that provide funds for schools, hospitals, recreation programs and other public activities;
3. The ousting from Congress and from the Executive branch of government all who are elected or appointed to office on the basis of political power that they have gained through racial restrictions on the right to vote.

Much of Blame
"Much of the blame for events in Mississippi rests in Washington because our government has failed to use even the existing machinery for adequate protection of colored citizens in that state," the NAACP spokesman asserted.

Sharply criticizing the U. S. Justice Department, Mr. Mitchell contended that there has been "a shameful breakdown in the civil rights activity" of that department.

The justice agency, he charged, "is following the pattern of telling the public it has no authority to act" in civil rights violations "and at the same time, refusing to explain to Congress what authority is needed for necessary corrective action."

Earl Bowman Now Assistant Coach In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn.—Sports Writer Stu Baird of the Minneapolis Tribune, recently featured in an article, Earl Bowman, assistant football coach at Central high school, where he was an outstanding athlete in 1943 and 1944.

Bowman went to Macalester from Central, earned the varsity left half position as a freshman and held it for three years after returning from service.

All-state honors came Bowman's way during his last three years of football.

He was captain of the football and track teams his senior year and won MIAC track championships in the pole vault and broad jump.

But despite this high powered background, Bowman's major hope was to return to Central as a coach.

"I really was surprised when I was assigned to Central my first year in the city system," said Bowman. "I was almost certain they would send me someplace else, thinking I might be too soft, or too hard on the kids from my own neighborhood."

Best Suited
Bowman thinks he actually is best suited to coach at Central because of his feeling for the school and his understanding of the "neighborhood psychology."

Only 28, Bowman knows brothers and sisters of several players now at Central.

"Sometimes it helps the fellows feel that I'm not a stranger to them. And when they get a little more confidence they play better ball."

Bowman teaches five hours of history at Central—"everybody thinks I majored in football,"—and has already started his work for a masters degree. He coached at Phyllis

HEALTH FOR ALL

"THE BURNT CHILD"

"The burnt child avoids the fire"—so goes the old saw. You may even have heard of Spartan mothers who taught their children to avoid fire by letting them burn their fingers on a hot stove.

It has been estimated that about forty to seventy thousand burns occur every year. Because of vast improvements in treating the initial shock of a severe burn, 50 to 60 per cent of badly burned children now survive, but many survive to face months of pain and perhaps even a lifetime of disability. Wonders are being done with skin grafting, but at best it's only a poor substitute for normal skin.

A thirty-year survey made in one hospital showed that ignited clothing was the most frequent cause of severe burns of children. The open fireplace was the usual source of trouble, less often a trash fire or playing with matches. Most of these children were three to six years old and had to spend over seven months in the hospital. Other important causes of children's burns were direct contact with hot stoves, hot ashes, or flames, gasoline or kerosene, and hot liquids. Inquisitive two and three year olds accounted for most of the scald cases by overturning pots of boiling water from the stove or falling into tubs of hot water. Early adolescents seemed to have the most trouble with careless handling of inflammable liquids.

Perhaps the darkest side of this picture is the fact that almost every one of these "accidents" was unnecessary. We all know that open fireplaces should have firescreens; that children should never be alone in a room where there is a fire; that handles of pots on the stove should be turned so that children cannot reach them; that gasoline and kerosene must be handled with caution. We know—yet in our hurry to get through the day's work, we sometimes say, "Just this once it won't matter."

"Just this once" can mean a tragedy. We can't wait for a small child to learn the danger of fire by bitter experience. It is our responsibility to take proper precautions for our children and, as early as possible, teach them how to avoid burns.

BY ALLEN ASHBY
Looks like the Hawkeyes have started on the road back from that Wisconsin thing. If you saw the Indiana game you saw the offense grind out just enough scores to insure victory.

The little guy Mike Hagler is just about the hottest thing since Ozzie Simmons was turned loose in the unsuspecting conference. We went into a little restaurant outside Maringo and had to wait about a half hour for service. So we listened to the comment about the game and all we could hear was Mike Hagler. The people got excited just about every time Hagler got the ball. Wonder what his dad thought in the second half when Mike was lifted about six feet in the air and slammed to the ground with three big Hoosiers on top of him.

Indiana's Milt Campbell is a big rough fellow who isn't afraid of contact. His run for a touchdown was at least sixty yards. It looked as if the Iowa pass defender didn't believe the man could throw a ball that far and were they surprised.

Purdue this week end. The Boiler Makers are rough and could step on the Hawks. Everybody in the Big Ten is tough.

High School
They finally stopped Chuck McQuerry. East finally rolled to a convincing win over Mason City with Jim Thomas doing the directing.

The main trouble with North seems to be that the guys have lost their desire to play football. Several big guys who could help the team are just walking around saying Falk can't coach. But they won't try to help.

Wheatley last year before entering the city system and his teams won the city junior and midget football titles. Bowman still helps out at Wheatley, but regards teaching as a far better vocation than social work.

Felt Like Kid
Bowman returned to Central "feeling pretty much like a kid," and was a bit concerned over how he should act when meeting some of his former teachers.

But he "grew up" fast at the school's first "football assembly."

"I had a little speech prepared... was going to say how nice it felt to be back... but when I was introduced there wasn't a sound... I forgot that the kids in the auditorium were under eight years old when I was playing ball."

Bowman said: "It's an ambition come true."

Bowman is well known in Des Moines, where his grandmother, Mrs. Allie Bowman of 1120 Eighteenth street and other relatives reside.

It's Hunting Season; Ask the Farmer First!

These are the days when thousands of Iowans are thinking of pheasants, geese, ducks and rabbits. It's hunting season, but many hunters are stymied. Most of the state, they say, is posted against hunting.

But even in a state where 97% of the land is privately owned, there are still thousands of acres of hunting grounds, the "No Hunting" signs notwithstanding. The majority of Iowa farmers will permit hunters to enter their lands, but more and more are insisting that the gunner ask permission first.

In a poll conducted over the state last year, it was found that only 5% of the farmers queried said "Absolutely no hunting on my place." Seventy-six per cent said "It's O.K. to hunt, but ask me first."

Since everything a farmer owns may be tied up in his land, buildings and livestock, he has a perfect right to control public access to that land. Many farmers are hostile to intruders, and justifiably so. However, these same farmers will often grant permission to hunt if the sportsman asks that permission in a courteous and considerate manner.

The future of Iowa hunting lies with the farmer, who controls the access to most of our game birds and animals. Even more, it lies with the hunter who must recognize his sport as a privilege, not a right. For better hunting, both this season and in years to come, ASK THE FARMER FIRST!

POST EXCHANGE Letters from Our Readers A bit of prose... a line or two of poetry... a letter now and then to express thoughts in the minds of our many readers. Send Yours Today OCTOBER October greetings: corn is ripe The golden grain is flowing. Pumpkins are ready, opossum's fat, And to the woods we're going... There are hickory, hazel and butternuts And the walnuts are brown and tasty, sweet ones too, And soon there is trapping, good folks do We don't know just how some When the harvest time is over, Here it is eats, and fun, and hoedowns, too! That is how we greet October... —Glenn A. Gallagher (First American Serial Rights Only)

The Brooklyn Dodgers' only 20 game winner this season and a guy who really was the whole pitching staff there when the rest of the pitchers had sore arms.

The Brooks are sore in Newk for not being able to win his Series' game and for furthermore claiming to be too ill to start the sixth game. With the front office anxious to have a first line leftfielder as added protection behind Sandy Amoros, Newcombe's being mentioned as "bait" for such a deal. Said one spokesman for the front office: "Our young pitchers have come along so surprisingly well that no one is indispensable. It was the young pitchers —Roger Craig and Johnny Podres who won the championship for us with Clem Labine—a veteran of four years."
