First Negro Coed Guarded As She Seeks Educational Rights Under Constitution

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The progress of integration in education at the University of Alabama was temporarily halted on Monday night when the university's board of trustees ordered its first Negro student barred from classes until further notice as a safety measure.

Tuesday, Senator Kilgore (Dem. W. Va.) said he has asked Attorney General Brownell to investigate the "deplorable incident" in which the Negro coed was spattered with eggs at the University of Alabama.

Kilgore enclosed in a letter to Brownell a news account of how rioting students and others threw eggs, rocks and mud at Autherine J. Lucy, 26-year-old secretary from Birmingham, Ala. who had attended her first classes last Friday after being admitted as a student in obedience to a federal court order.

Demonstrations which began Friday night reached a peak of violence Monday morning, when university officials escorting here were struck with eggs, rocks, mudballs, and cursed.

A brief evening announcement by the trustees said they were acting "for the safety of other students, and of faculty members of the University of Alabama, and only for power of the University of Alabama."

for the safety of those on the campus."

Tuscaloosa Police Chief W. C. Thompson was spattered with egg as he directed officers in breaking up hundreds of students who gathered that reason, and exercising the police

Dismiss Belief That Girl In Marshalltown Attacked

Marshalltown, Ia. — Police Chief Delos A. Dooley made public Thursday, Feb. 2, an official report which stated that intensive investigation failed to confirm early indications of a criminal attack on Vicki Davis, 2, Marshalltown's "frozen girl."

County Attorney Charles King, to whom Dooley's investigation report was transmitted, said he now sees no basis for filing of any charges in the case.

Vicki and her grandmother, Mrs. Fred Davis, 48, are recovering after being found in a semi-frozen state in the Davis home at 8:40 a.m. Jan. 21.

suspect from the case.

Results also have been negative, Dooley said, on the question of whether any crime actually occurred in connection with the exposure and injury involving the child and her grandmother.

"Truth Serum"

Two interrogations of the grandmother, after administration of "truth serum," the police chief said, enabled the grandmother to recall that she had removed a safety pin from Vicki's diaper, that she fell with the child, and that she remembered lying on the floor and becoming very cold.

"Mrs. Davis admitted, and laboratory tests confirmed, that she had been drinking," Chief Dooley's report said.

Ask Alabama Governor to Halt Bus Boy Violence

NEW YORK — Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, has called upon Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama to halt violence against Negroes in Montgomery, Ala.

The homes of two Negro leaders in the current protest movement against bus segregation in Montgomery were bombed this week.

Meanwhile, NAACP attorneys filed suit in the U. S. District Court in Montgomery on behalf of Negro plaintiffs seeking a decree declaring the Alabama statute requiring racial segregation in public buses unconstitutional.

Suit Filed

The suit, filed on Feb. 1, also asked the court to enjoin Mayor W. A. Gayle, Frank Park and other city commissioners, Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers and Chief of Police Goodwin J. Ruppenthal from interfering with the plaintiffs in the exercise of their constitutional right to ride public buses without state-imposed racial segregation.

Representing the plaintiffs were NAACP attorneys Fred D. Gray of Montgomery and Robert L. Carter of New York City.

In his message to Gov. Folsom, dispatched on Feb. 2, Mr. Wilkins specifically called upon the state official to "take appropriate investigative and police action to restore law and order in Montgomery, to protect Negro citizens there from further intimidation and violence, and to see that those responsible for the bombings are brought to justice."

The persons whose homes were bombed are the Rev. M. L. King and

Capital Close-Up From Washington

BY CONSTANCE DANIEL

Washington, D. C. — President Eisenhower has made it clear, we think, that he favors the content of the Powell Amendment re refusal of Federal funds for education to non-conforming areas, and is for it, provided that it does not block passage of an Education Bill that would put schools where they are critically needed by educationally-starved Americans. By way of comment we offer this bit of personal research re the recent South Carolina Speech of the

Senator From Sunflower

Senator James O. Eastland, of Ruleville, Mississippi — population 15 hundred — recently attacked the President of the United States and desegregation in the public schools of the District of Columbia, on the basis of lowered average scholastic performance in the District schools, resulting from the integration of Negro and white pupils.

The fact or lower performance by Negro pupils in or from segregated areas is not debatable, and members of the teaching profession who are a part of this unhappy situation, should face the fact, forthrightly. But we are in disagreement with the Negro principal quoted by Senator Eastland as saying that sharing the experience of living together is more important to American cultural progress than scholastic standing, because educational integration is not a matter of "either, or," and there should be no assumption that integration of educationally disadvantaged Negroes will mean continuing "sacrifice of scholastic standing." The lower performance will disappear along with the disadvantage, since

Revenue Office May Enter Joe Louis' Trust Funds

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The internal revenue service has informed congress it may dip into some of Joe Louis' trust funds in an effort to recover some of the Brown Bomber's delinquent taxes.

There has been no definite decision on procedure in the Louis case, the committee was told last week by O. Gordon Delk, deputy commissioner of the internal revenue service, but "if the funds to establish these trusts came from money that should have gone to the government for taxes, it is possible we could reach" into them.

No Decision

Delk's testimony, along with that of Russell C. Harrington, head of the revenue service, was made public Thursday. The testimony did not describe the trust funds. Louis has said he created some for his two children.

Louis' tax troubles were the subject of a long non-decision discussion between tax officials and committee members, many of whom wanted to know why the ex-heavyweight champion was allowed to get so deeply into debt with Uncle Sam.

Made Millions

"Here is a man who made millions of dollars," remarked Rep. I. Vaughan Gary (Dem., Va.), chairman of the subcommittee handling the treasury department's budget.

A $11,351 income tax lien was filed against Louis at Chicago Tuesday. It brought total liens against Louis for the years 1946 through 1951 to $1,210,789.

Rep. Alfred D. Sieminski (Dem., N. J.) came to Louis defense by asserting there was no claim that the boxer intended to defraud the government.

Monroe Gets Lecture and 9 Years in Prison

Raymond Clyde Monroe, 28, Monday was sentenced to serve 9 years in prison and was tongue-lashed by Federal District Judge Roy W. Harper here.

Monroe, who gave his address as 903 Sixteenth street, was one of six persons arrested in a Dec. 6 raid by federal and state narcotics agents and police. One has been released and the other four have been indicted in federal or state courts.

'Nothing Any Worse'

Judge Harper, assigned temporarily to this district from St. Louis, Mo., told Monroe:

"I know of nothing you could do that is any worse than peddling narcotics. The only thing you are doing by that is trying to drag people into the gutter and keep them there."

"Of course, the case of the addict (Monroe had told the judge he was one) is a medical problem. The case of the peddler—there is absolutely no excuse for in this world."

'More Harm'

"There is nothing more he can do, or that any criminal can do for that matter, in this court's opinion, that does any more harm to society than peddling narcotics."

Monroe pleaded guilty to a six-count indictment involving three sales of heroin, an opium derivative, in Des Moines.

22 Grains

On Aug. 5, said Robert J. Spayde, assistant U. S. district attorney, Monroe sold nine capsules of heroin for $27. On Aug. 31 he sold two capsules for $9 and nine capsules for $27.

Altogether, Spayde said, they contained 22 grains of the narcotic.

Judge Harper sentenced Monroe to three years on each of the six counts. He ordered that three of the terms run consecutively and the others concurrently with the first three.

2 Ft. Dodge Men Wounded By One on Shooting Spree

Fort Dodge, Ia. — William Roby, 29, of 615 Tenth avenue southwest, was held to the Webster county grand jury Monday morning, Jan. 30, after pleading not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily injury. He was bound over by Justice of the Peace Herbert Bennett in Fort Dodge police court.

Roby, held in the city jail since a Saturday night shooting spree in which two men were wounded, was released on a $1,000 bond Monday morning.

He is charged with shooting Major Creer, 27, of 824 Ninth avenue southwest and Cleveland Gowdy, 23, of Kalo at about 11:15 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 28.

Both Creer and Gowdy suffered leg wounds and were hospitalized. They were released after treatment for their wounds.

Roby, arrested shortly after the shootings, admitted to police that he shot both men, one by mistake and the other because Roby thought "he was after me."

Police said Roby told them he was a friend's house at 453 Tenth avenue late Saturday night waiting for Gowdy. He said Gowdy had threatened him.

Fires Through Door

Roby was seated in the living room near the front door, which was closed, and was holding a loaded .22 caliber automatic rifle when he heard "someone trying the door."

Roby said he fired through the door without bothering to see who was there and was surprised to hear Creer shouting, "I've been shot."

Police said that Roby went to assist Creer and spotted Gowdy outside. They added that instead of helping Creer he started after Gowdy, chased him around the house, into a neighbor's backyard and downed him with one shot.

Roby then apparently went back to Creer, helped him into a car and drove him to Mercy hospital. En route to the hospital he stopped on Twelfth avenue southwest near Ninth street and hid the rifle in some weeds, Roby told police.

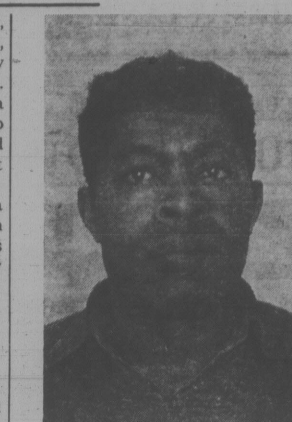

Meanwhile Gowdy was taken to Lutheran hospital by neighbors who heard the shooting.

Roby was arrested at Mercy hospital by police officers who were told by neighbors of the shooting.

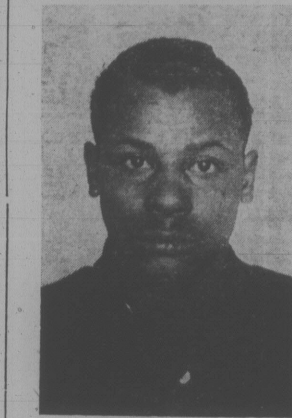

Gowdy Struck

The bullet that hit Creer went through the front door, into his right leg and out again. The bullet that hit Gowdy entered his right leg and lodged in his hip. It was later removed by a doctor at the hospital.

Roby told police that he "heard Gowdy was after me and I was going to be ready for him if he tried anything. Later I heard someone trying the front door so I just shot through the door."

Roby's past criminal record includes three assault and battery charges.

Boycott Brand of Tennessee Pop

JACKSON, TENN. — A bottled soft drink was being boycotted by Negroes here Wednesday because the bottling plant's operator joined in a suit aimed at killing the state's gradual desegregation plan for colleges.

M. C. Jolly, operator of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. plant, said "12 or 13" Negro merchants had cancelled accounts with his firm.

He said the actions were taken because he is among 16 leaders of the Tennessee Federation for Constitutional Government who filed the suit Tuesday in a Nashville court.

"Spontaneous"

Jolly said his firm has "felt the squeeze somewhat," but that he thinks it sometimes is necessary to "sacrifice business for principles."

Isiah Savage, a Negro merchant and a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the refusal to buy Dr. Pepper was spontaneous.

"The N. A. A. C. P. has not taken part in it officially," he said.

Money

The suit asks that state officials be restrained from administering state money to desegregated colleges. Under the Tennessee plan, graduate classes in state-supported colleges were opened to qualified Negro students this year.

As it now stands, colleges will open senior classes to Negro students next year, junior classes the next, and so on to the freshman level.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We are met to dedicate a portion of it as the final resting place of those who gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate — cannot consecrate — we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be rededicated here to the unfinished work that they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion, that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain;

That this nation shall, under God have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

The banquet table was appropriately decorated with flowers, candles and favors in the sorority colors of crimson and cream. The program centered around the "Launching of the Good Ship Delta." years.

"At what point, then, is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer, if it ever reaches us, it must spring up among us. It cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of freemen, we must live through all time, or die by suicide."

'Ill Omen Among Us'

"There is even now something of ill omen among us. I mean the increasing disregard for law which pervades the country; the growing disposition to substitute wild and furious passions in lieu of the sober judgment of justice. This disposition is awfully fearful in any community; and that it now exists in ours, though grating to our feelings to admit it would be a violation of truth and an insult to our intelligence to deny."

All of America and the world can ponder over Lincoln's warning, while we read the current news of the most recent rioting by the Alabama University students—all because one lone Negro young woman tried to get unsegregated education.

We celebrate, also this month of Brotherhood, the birthday of a great American Negro, Frederick Douglass, who also fought and campaigned for the abolition of slavery before and during the days of the Civil war.

Less than a century ago, like the young Negro woman of Alabama today who is seeking her right under the Constitution, Douglass was speaking his thoughts of the guarantees in the Constitution. He campaigned:

"Its language is, 'We the people; not we the white people, not even we the citizens, not we the privileged class, not we the high, not we the low, but we the people; not we the horses, sheep, and swine, and wheelbarrows, but we the people, we the human inhabitants; and, if Negroes are people, they are included in the benefits for which the Constitution of America was ordained and established.'"

In many places where Douglass travelled throughout this country, riots broke out, attempts were made on his life, eggs were thrown at him and militias were called out. But,

As the country pauses Sunday to observe the birthday of a great president, Abraham Lincoln, who was at the helm of this nation when the rugged battles to end slavery were being fought, we wonder how Lincoln would feel, if he were to witness the rioting and fighting in this land against civil rights for all citizens?

What would Lincoln say to the university students of Alabama? He would have to repeat that:

"... years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

What would Lincoln tell the councils of Mississippi? Certainly, some of them should be able to understand the meaning of these words:

"... that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

What if Lincoln could address the Congress? Would the governing bodies heed Lincoln's warning to a nation, in these words he uttered over a century ago:

"At what point shall we expect the approach of danger? By what means shall we fortify against it? Shall we expect some Transatlantic military giant to step across the ocean and crush us at a blow? Never!"

"All the armies of Europe, Asia and Africa combined, with all the treasures of the earth (our own excepted) in their military chest, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not, by force, take a drink from the Ohio, or make a track on the Blue Ridge, in a trial of a thousand years. ... that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Mr. Sudduth, a graduate of North High School, Minneapolis, Minn., is employed by the Greyhound Bus Company. He is a member of Zion Baptist Church.

Des Moines relatives of the bride attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Weathers; Mr. Norman Weathers, brother; Mrs. Murray Wolder, aunt of the bride, and Mr. Donald Burrell, cousin.

concept of brotherhood been more beautifully, and simply told."

Commenting on the fact that Amos Fortune came to this country as a slave and was able to purchase his freedom and to prosper in the New England town, Mr. Thomas wrote:

"There must surely have been kindness and compassion in the nature of that tanner in Woburn who purchased Amos Fortune. Had it been otherwise, bitterness must surely have killed the courtesy and willingness to work and learn which eventually made it possible for him to stand free and upright and kind and useful among the people of Jaffrey, New Hampshire. Not only is there still a house built by his hands with the help of his neighbors. There is the eloquent monument, 'Sacred to the memory of Amos Fortune,' which was erected with love and respect in the name of brotherhood of all men everywhere."

Mr. Fassett will repeat his tribute, "Sacred to the Memory of Amos Fortune," on the CBS Radio New York Philharmonic-Symphony broadcast Sunday, Feb. 12 at 2:30-4:00, EST.

LINCOLN ROSE TO THE OCCASION

The time has come where special days, weeks, and months have been set aside to emphasize and/or honor or observe events and names in such large numbers that it is easy to let some go by either unnoticed or with slight recognition.

For many years, the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, February 12, has been observed. Besides the unusual characteristics of the man himself, the times in which we now live and he lived have certain parallels which are well worth thought.

Lincoln found it necessary to deal with a group of rebellious states. They threatened to and did ceded from the union. They wanted to have their way about slavery. They were able to wring from the Supreme Court a decision (Dred Scott) which was contrary to morals and decency. It conflicted with the announced principles upon which this government was founded.

Mindful that every effort should be made to settle this controversy peacefully, Lincoln offered ample opportunity for the south to conform to orderly government but they refused. It was their way or none.

When it came to a showdown, even though war was necessary, the matter was settled in line with constitutional government and the rebellious states, recognizing their folly, came back into the union. But the people have never fully repented. Many are fighting the Civil War all over again.

Today, many of those same states are in rebellion against the federal government openly. Some communities, even enlightened ones, are conducting themselves just as a pack of heathens with reckless disregard for the lives of human beings.

Just as Lincoln arose to the occasion and brought peace out of a very chaotic condition, so must, it appears, that President Eisenhower would do well to take some action likewise.

In his state of the union message President Eisenhower suggested that Congress work out the problem on a bipartisan basis. And while the suggestion is a good one, Congress does not have the courage to stand up and deal with the matter. The southerners are too vicious and the northerners too timid.

But if, Lincoln could, President Eisenhower can too. His personal popularity makes it logical that he try.

THE "KNOW-HOW" IS IN THE OPEN

Southerners complain that outsiders don't know the race problem in the south; that they know how to treat the Negro. And a lot of people have believed it not realizing that such inhuman crimes could be committed against a group of citizens.

But thanks to the modern press, radio, and television the public is learning that this "know-how" is far beyond anything that could be expected of civilized people.

First, the Till case. It placed Mississippi in a most uncomfortable position.

Second, the bombing of homes, shooting and killing innocent men simply because they insisted on their rights as citizens.

Third, the mobs at Alabama University which have gone almost unchallenged in an effort to keep a Negro girl from attending classes. And the governor refuses to call out the national guard to put down the disturbance. Of course, it appears that he approves of mob action.

Naturally newspapers must print facts. And that why Editor Waring of Charleston, S. C. squirms and calls the northern press biased against the south.

All such conduct makes a mockery of our plea for the liberation of oppressed satellite nations and provides Russia with an excellent weapon with which to knife America as they seek to turn Asians and Africans against us.

ed around the flagpole in the heart of downtown Tuscaloosa Monday night.

Miss Lucy Struck
Miss Lucy was struck by eggs while being escorted across the campus Monday morning, and windows of the car in which she rode were smashed.

Kilgore said in a statement: "This is a nation of laws. If the public does not approve a law it can through the proper course amend or repeal that law.

"But, if the government stands by and permits individuals to take the law into their own hands it can only lead to national disrespect for the basic concepts of our nation."

"If our nation is to uphold the banner of democracy, it can not under any circumstances permit, such despicable incidents," Kilgore declared.

Dr. Carmichael, university president, told faculty members at an emergency afternoon meeting that "if we cannot operate under law and order it may be necessary to close up shop."

The president said that a 175-man national guard company which drills on Monday nights had been alerted.

But Gov. James Folsom said at Montgomery that the guard would not be called into action if the 30 state police patrolmen assigned to the campus could keep order.

University officials and Tuscaloosa police said that leadership for the mob came from off the campus and they particularly blamed workers from a rubber plant and members of the white "Citizens' Councils."

3 Arrested
Three non-students were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct following Monday's violent demonstrations.

Students and outsiders, making up a crowd estimated at 3,000 or more at its peak, had jeered and cursed university authorities accompanying Miss Lucy and pelted them with eggs, rocks and mudballs as they escorted her from her first class.

Miss Lucy was flanked by Dean Sarah Healy and Assistant to the President Jeff Bennett, and accompanied by Highway patrolmen in plain clothes.

Windows Broken
Stones broke windows of Dean Healy's car as they drove across the campus. Members of the mob tried vainly to jerk open the doors.

Bennett returned to the car after Miss Lucy and Dean Healy entered Graves Hall for her second class. He again was pelted by rocks and eggs, and some rioters yelled, "Let's turn the car over."

Door Locked
During the second class, students said, some of the mob broke into the corridor of Graves Hall and tried to force their way into the classroom.

The instructor kept the door locked. Afterward Miss Lucy was driven away from Graves Hall under heavy police escort while members of the mob around the building were distracted by a daring Negro decoy.

An elderly man who had driven Miss Lucy from Birmingham, he attracted the attention of the crowd by standing in front of Union Hall across the street from Graves.

He then strolled away, along University avenue. As those nearest to him began closing in, police hustled him into a car before he was harmed, although some men struck at him.

Hit by Eggs
Peter Kihss, New York Times newsman, who had been talking with the man was struck by eggs.

While attention of the mob was drawn elsewhere, Miss Lucy was hurried into a waiting car and driven off by a highway patrolman. Six other officers followed in another car.

The crowd began thinning out as word spread that the woman had left. A few remaining threw eggs and tomatoes at passing cars and buses in which Negroes were riding.

Further Legal Action
At Birmingham, Ala., Arthur D. Shores, attorney for Miss Lucy, wired the school Tuesday that he would "take further legal action" unless she is reinstated within 48 hours.

Shores represented Miss Lucy in her legal battle to gain admittance to the previously all-white school. She was in Shores' office as he gave this statement to newsmen:

"It is regrettable that the University of Alabama would submit to mob rule in excluding Miss Lucy."

The "truth serum" interrogations of Mrs. Davis were conducted by Dr. H. C. Merrill of Des Moines and were tape-recorded. Chief Dooley said the grandmother had cooperated "to the best of her ability" in the investigation.

Hazy and Sketchy
"We find that under normal questioning she was unable to recall events after 10:30 p.m. Jan. 20 and had only a hazy and sketchy recollection of events within several hours prior thereto."

The report said that when Capt. Wayne Beasley answered the call to the Davis home at 8:40 a.m. Jan. 21 he found the pair lying just inside the front door and "first thought they were dead."

THE RIGHT TO WORK

If you were asked to list the various "rights" which are most important, you would include the "right to work." Many of us know the terrible fear and insecurity that come when we lose our jobs or when we are unable to find work. And few moments in life give as much satisfaction and pride as the moment when we can announce that we have a job, whether it is our first job after leaving school, or a new job ending a period of uncertainty.

We all know that loss of a job through illness gives the sick person tremendous financial worry, worry which often hinders his recovery. The longer the period of illness, the greater the worry, for bills pile up and savings dwindle. Tuberculosis is a particularly severe economic disaster for the victim, for it often means long treatment, and it may require curtailed activity or even a new kind of job after the patient is

E. D. Nixon. Mr. King's wife and baby and Mr. Nixon's wife were all at home when the bombings occurred but were not harmed.

No arrests have been made in the attempted murders.

Mr. Wilkins pointed out in his telegram to Gov. Folsom that "these bombings follow a 'get tough' policy announced by Mayor Gayle last week as a means of ending the protest movement against city bus segregation."

Mayor Gayle, Mr. Wilkins noted, "is reported to be a member of the notorious Citizens' Councils."

"It would appear," the NAAACP leader continued, "that the 'get tough' policy of the Montgomery city administration has created an atmosphere inciting to violence and riotous disorder which is a threat to the lives of all Negro citizens in the community."

"Further, all this indicates the existence of a conspiracy to injure Negro citizens who are protesting peacefully against municipal bus segregation. We are confident your office appreciates the danger..."

The bombing of the King home took place on Jan. 30 and that of the Nixon home on Feb. 1.

Dynamiting

MONTGOMERY, ALA. — A second explosion within a week has been set off at Montgomery, where a bus segregation row has raised tensions increasingly since last November.

Police say the blast, apparently dynamite, was touched off during the night in the yard of C. D. Nixon, a Pullman porter and former state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Not At Home

Nixon was not at home. His wife and a neighbor's child were in the house, but no one was hurt. A fence in front of the home was damaged.

An orderly crowd of about 200 Negroes gathered while police investigated.

Earlier this week, an explosion rocked the home of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro Baptist minister who has led a boycott of city buses by Negroes protesting "Jim Crow" seating regulations.

In Boycott

Nixon also has been prominent in the boycott. He appeared in court when Rosa Parks was charged with violating segregation laws pertaining to bus seating. It was that case which touched off the boycott.

Wednesday five Negroes brought suit in federal district court asking that Montgomery city laws and Alabama state laws concerning racial segregation in public transportation be declared unconstitutional.

The room had been knocked over, torn newspapers were scattered about a glass-littered floor, and a window shade had been yanked off, the report said.

The child had been bleeding in the pelvic region and medical examination confirmed the possibility of criminal assault, the report said. It added, however, that medical examination failed to establish conclusively that such an attack had occurred and subsequent investigation and tests failed to clear up the question.

Extra Handicap

Surely, a man who has recovered from TB has the "right to work," certainly he does not want to remain a burden on his family and on the community any longer than necessary. But he often faces an extra handicap — a large measure of public misinformation about tuberculosis. A former patient who has his doctor's approval to return to work is not a danger to his co-workers. Doctors do not approve a return to work when the disease is in a contagious stage. If there is someone where you work who has had tuberculosis and who has gone to work with medical approval, you have nothing to fear. On the contrary, you have much to admire — courage and determination to regain a place in the world after a tragic misfortune.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

The basketball ratings puzzle your illustrious Scribbler. We have Ohio State voted above Iowa. The Hawkeyes recently beat the pants off the Buckeyes and yet they are about four places behind the crowd from Ohio.

Iowa State knocked off third-ranked Vanderbilt and hasn't lost over a couple of games all season. Yet the Cyclones have one whale of a time getting into the first twenty.

You figure it out and argue about it.

The Drake-Iowa State basketball game was a bamboosier. The Cyclones didn't stop Willie Cerr this time but had too much all around strength for Drake. Was surprised when Iowa State's Crawford and the guy from Drake got into a slugging match. Just a case of tangled tempers.

It reflects not "the intelligence level of the Negroes," as stated by Senator Eastland, himself a product of Mississippi, Alabama and Vanderbilt Universities, but the Delta-plantation pattern of the Senator's Sunflower County, which is, by and large, the pattern of the segregated Deep South — a pattern which helps to drag down the national average of educational performance.

Sunflower County, Mississippi

Sunflower County is in the heart of the Delta country along the Mississippi. It has a population of 56,031, of which 31,159, or 68 per cent, are Negro and 17,872, or 32 per cent, are white. Roughly, 19,000 Negroes and 10,000 whites are of voting age. The school-age census shows 17,035 Negro children, and 4,244 white children. The school enrollment shows that 8,256 Negro children (slightly under one-half of those of

LINCOLN

As Lincoln's birthday dawns for me
This prayer comes to mind—

"I pray that he will never see,
The shame that plagues mankind."

There's slavery—on land and sea
Man's cruelty to man,
The blot upon all liberty:
That follows Satan's plan!
God grant that Abe shall never know
—In quiet may he rest,
And never see this mess below:

Oppression and unrest.
Remember—that from common sod,
Abe Lincoln rose; to do his best.
In memory of this man of God:
All freedoms' heroes shall be blest.

Crocker 'Y' Table
Tennis Team Defeats
Central Branch

Saturday, February 4, six representatives of the Crocker YMCA table tennis team defeated the Central 'Y', 22 to 17, in round-robin match play to capture the first leg of a traveling team trophy.

Members of the victorious Crocker team were: older boys—Harold Holt, Lonel Barrow, Donald Wells; and younger boys—Walter Carter, Jr., Edward Holt and Michael Knox.

Individual trophies were awarded to Harold Holt and Walter Carter, Jr., for placing first and second respectively in each division.

school-age) and 1,584 white children (just over one-third of those of school-age), attend the county schools. But expenditures for instruction, only, are 197,665 dollars a year, or $23 per child, for Negroes, and 146,905 dollars, or $93 per child, for whites. This is the pattern of education in the Senator's "neck of the woods." It is the background from which he speaks.

We All Pay

Selective Service had to deal with the results of this pattern — which has, of course, no bearing on intelligence potentials. The whole country, including the District of Columbia, has suffered from it, with the migration of the disadvantaged into areas of relative economic and educational advantage. The overcrowded and under-staffed schools of the Federal City's old Division Two (Negro), were simply an extension and refinement of the Deep South pattern. Wherever we live, we all pay while the levelling-off is in process. There is no point in Pollyanna-ing the issue. So now, "as might have been expected," we have the "intelligence level" of Senator Eastland, demanding "stern resistance" to the Supreme Court decision, in terms of the "legal and moral right" of the South to perpetuate the pattern of Sunflower County.

Liberian Ambassador Appointed to London

Liberian Ambassador Clarence L. Simpson, who has represented his country, here, since 1952, has been appointed Ambassador to Great Britain — oldest Liberian Embassy. He will report to London some time following the return of Queen Elizabeth II, from Nigeria.

Mr. Brightman said that the Chairman had conferred with Senator Humphrey, labor leaders and other liberals, "who were of the opinion that unless enough votes were assured to pass civil rights legislation, now, that it would be better to wait until the next Congress before making the attempt. The spokesman scoffed at what he termed "President Eisenhower's ridiculous proposal for a bi-partisan commission" to investigate reported violations of civil rights — as he put it, "to decide that Emmett Till is dead."

"Any time the Republicans want to keep their campaign pledges, they can," he asserted. The point that Chairman Butler was trying to make, he said, was that legislation is lacking for schools, hospitals, housing, and other needs particularly affecting minorities, but that civil rights violations could be handled under existing laws.

Boy Scout Week marks the 46th anniversary of the organization. Since 1910 more than 24,500,000 American boys and adult leaders have been identified with Scouting. Membership now stands above the 4,100,000 mark with a total of 104,000 Scout units.

The new program will provide for an increasing number of the boys of the nation experiences and values that will help them to meet their future more adequately prepared.

"As Scouting influences the lives of three million boys today," says Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive, "we must help them to the realization and acceptance of God as the guiding power of the universe. We must interpret and find additional methods to help a Scout in his own religious life to fulfill his obligation to God as stated in the Scout Oath and Law."

New Brunswick, N. J. — National officials in Washington, D.
