Interracial Group in Fort Dodge Ends Year

Fort Dodge, Ia.—The Fort Dodge Interracial Commission brought a successful year to a close on Sunday, April 28, with a recital by two Des Moines musicians, Arthur P. Black Jr., and Mrs. Wadna McClain. The program was held in the First Presbyterian Church and an appreciative audience enjoyed the exceptional talents shown by the young musicians.

Mr. Black, a Drake University piano student, delighted the audience with his interpretation of selections by Debussy, Liszt and other composers.

Between his groups of numbers Mrs. McClain sang four numbers, "The City Called Heaven" especially

PARTY IDEA: Sparkling Pineapple Punch

Pretty enough for a wedding. Spring and summer are great party months—for brides, for graduates and for visitors. The problem of what to serve at any festive gathering is simple today, thanks to fruit juices in handy tins. These are ready to be mixed into refreshing punch and long, tall ice cold drinks in a jiffy.

A bowl of sparkling punch is an invitation to your guests to help themselves while you relax, instead of tripping back and forth to the kitchen to fill glasses.

TROPICAL PUNCH
NOTE: To prevent dilution and to keep excellent flavor down to the last cupful, it's a good trick to freeze "pineapple cubes." Just fill a refrigerator ice cube tray with pineapple juice and freeze until firm.
For a colorful punch cup garnish, spear two pineapple chunks on a toothpick with a maraschino cherry between. Cut a little slit in the cherry and fit it over the rim of punch cup.

3 cups sugar
3 cups hot water
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 (46-oz.) can pineapple juice
3 pints sparkling water
Dissolve sugar in hot water. Cool. Add lemon juice and pineapple juice. Chill. At serving time, add 3 pints of sparkling water. Serve in punch bowl with ice block. Decorate with fruit slices and fresh or frozen strawberries. Yield: One gallon or 30 to 40 small servings.

Find One-Fourth Of Resort Hotels In U. S. Bias

Almost a fourth of the resort hotels in America practice racial discrimination in non-admission of guests, but none in Iowa do.

That is shown in a survey made by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, New York, N. Y., involving 3,014 resort hotels in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, Alaska and the Caribbean.

In the U. S., the survey said discrimination was less than in Canada, but more than in Mexico or Hawaii. Of resort hotels surveyed in continental U. S., almost 23 per cent "clearly discriminate against Jews," the survey stated.

States with strong anti-discrimination laws generally had less discrimination.

In Iowa, six resort hotels were surveyed and none practices discrimination, said Sp. Littman, Omaha, Neb., a league regional director.

Time of the Twister

Springtime is tornado time. In the unstable transition from winter cold to summer heat, great masses of cold and warm air collide. When the heavier cold air is forced above the lighter warm air, funnels sometimes form to relieve the topsy-turvy situation. This is the twister.

SOME 900 TORNADOES boil up each year in the United States. When they strike, local civil defense and the Red Cross speed to the rescue.

Spring is the time for a special weather eye to the tornado-spawning southwest. Last year, for instance, every major tornado occurred between February and May. On one day—April 3—four giant twisters killed 30 persons, injured 415 and caused an estimated $13,700,000 damage. There is no way to prevent a tornado. But early warning, proper precautions and speedy rescue of victims can save lives. In addition, disaster funds administered by the Federal Civil Defense Administration can provide emergency repairs and restoration of vital community facilities when Federal assistance is authorized by the President to augment State and local efforts.

TYPICAL TORNADO funnel sweeps across the plains near Manhattan, Kan., located in the worst tornado belt in the world, according to Weather Bureau records. Twisters such as this have figured prominently in the total of 75 major natural disasters in which the Federal Civil Defense Administration has directed relief since FCDA got the job of coordinating Federal assistance in January 1953. Other People Outside the Home Have Some Responsibility for Managing Activities of the Child

By Lloyd Lovell, SUI Associate Professor

Recently at P.T.A. meetings two mothers told me of a problem their children were having in their first year at school. Each mother said that the child could not seem to learn that he had to obey the teacher. This difficulty is not uncommon. A child who is used to the authority of his parents often finds it hard to learn that other people outside the home—like the teacher, neighbor and policeman—do have same responsibility for managing the child's activities.

Sometimes this difficulty is aggravated by attitudes the parents themselves express. They may say, of a neighbor, "You don't have to listen to her; she's not your mother." wait till you get to school; the teacher will make you mind!"

Legitimate Right

These kinds of attitudes distort the real degree of authority that outsiders have a legitimate right to exert over the child. They either deny and right, or give too much authority, to the outsiders. Such attitudes make it difficult for the child to learn to get along in comfortable ways with such non-family members.

Probably much more often, the child has trouble just because the new relationships are not made clear to him. He can often be helped to understand that the school and other situations require different kinds of rules than the ones that govern the home. The purposes of the home and school are different in some ways, of course, so that differences; Highland Park, Mrs. Darlene Clancey; Lincoln, Mrs. Bessie Greene, and Argonne, Miss Edith M. McBeth. All four will have volunteers on the streets on Saturday, May 25.

ferent kinds of rules are necessary. Just the traffic problems of the school environment, for example, require regulations that aren't always necessary in the home.

Most parents do help their children understand the reasons for the differing kinds of requirement. It helps us to do this when we ourselves are clear about the responsibilities which we place in the school, and when we recognize the responsibilities which the school can rightfully expect us to assume as parents.

Angry Southerners Active Banning Belafonte's Film

Mexico City (CNS)—"To penalize a film before it is even seen is the worst kind of censorship," declared fighting Darryl F. Zanuck, who intends to strike back at censors of his new motion picture "Island In The Sun."

"If this sort of thinking prevails, it will destroy not only our theatres, but our American institution of freedom. This reminds me of the burning of books by Hitler in Germany."

The film stars Harry Belafonte, Joan Fontaine and James Mason. It will be released next month. Already groups of angry southerners have protested its showing and threatened movie houses not to show it. North and South Carolina particularly have been active in the ban. A bill is being drawn up in the legislature of South Carolina to levy a $5,000 fine on the picture. Zanuck has announced he will personally pay any fines imposed on theatres showing this film.

The story deals with a romantic affair between a white woman (Joan Fontaine) and a Negro (Belafonte) in the West Indies.

'Ellington's Fantasy Should Have Been Interracial,' 'Revealed 'Weak Plot,' Eartha Kitt Doing Well on Radio-TV

with DOLORES CALVIN

New York City — (Calvin News Service)—Ellington's Fantasy Should Have Been Interracial . . . After all the praises of Duke Ellington's jazz fantasy "A Drum Is A Woman" are in—we'd like to add our bit—which we find is quite similar to thoughts of many Negro listeners of the U. S. Steel Hour's 60 minute portrayal of Duke Ellington's music . . . First—let us state that we have the utmost respect for the great Ellington and have considered him for years as the greatest jazz exponent this country has to offer—regardless of race . . . We also feel he has not enjoyed the extreme popularity of some of the lesser artists—and have wished in some way he could be "top dog" in the field, not just to his own people . . .

Therefore, with such a high opinion of his efforts and a sincere interest in his endeavors, we were disappointed at the outcome of "A Drum Is A Woman" . . . To begin with—the fantasy, to us, appeared to be some sort of a nightclub review put together with the idea of educating the public on just what the Negro has to offer . . . And, to us, it was the same basic deal as we as a race have tried to convince the public not to stereotype us as such—for 'Ellington's Fantasy was filled with loudly-dressed, zoot-suited characters, Cadillac lovers—the high livers from Lenox Ave. and he might have just gone a step further and put in crap games and the like . . .

At moments, it was toned down with an air of elegance—for instance, a chorus line of checkered-coated men, doing mostly wiggles for dances, was broken by the star (Carmen de LaValle) appearing in beautiful attire and looking most sedate. But these moments were brief . . . The majority of the show was a mass of confusion which became more boring when about half over . . . If it wasn't for familiar faces appearing now and then, it would not have been interesting to many Negroes. Besides Joya Sherrill and Margaret Tynes, terrific singers, Ozzie Bailey did a replica of Sammy Davis Jr.'s style . . . We noted Royce Wallace, the Negro girl who went to Bermuda last year and married one of the richest men, Stuart Outerbridge. Their romance and marriage caused quite a stir on that quiet little island—but Royce is back here now—working as head of dramatics at the Harlem YWCA . . . She was one of the "good-time" dancers in Ellington's skit . . .

Ellington's story, which he narrated in person, was so weak there was hardly any plot at all . . . Perhaps if it had been stronger it could have held up the weak spots . . . As it was, the plot dealt with the origins of jazz—with the drum as a woman (Madam Zaji) . . . She leaves the islands for New Orleans, Mississippi and Chicago . . . At each spot she receives greater popularity—but never forgets Caribee Joe, who

Ellington's 'A Drum Is A Woman' Seen Nationally

Duke Ellington's musical fantasy "A Drum Is A Woman" danced across the country's television screens May 8, as "The United States Steel Hour" presented a sixty minute version of the musical creation which parallels the history of the origin of jazz.

Ellington served as narrator for the "live" presentation of his work, which marked the Steel Hour's first production in compatible color and the second time the dramatic series No Constitutional Guarantee

Vocal Artistry

In addition to the musical support has presented a musical play, rendered by the Ellington orchestra, the telecast was highlighted by the vocal artistry of Margaret Tynes, Joya Sherrill, and Ozzie Bailey, as the dancing efforts of the well-known Carmen Delavallade. The production was effectively translated in "spectacular" fashion by a large cast of supporting dancers and sinners.

"A Drum Is A Woman" is Ellington's effort to tell the story of jazz and its origination. It is based on his definition of jazz and told through the ill-fated romance between "Madam Zaji," a drum symbolizing jazz and Caribee Joe, her lover, who prefers to remain in the jungle while the sophisticated "Zaji" travels through the islands to New Orleans and then throughout the world to experience appreciation.

Paul Godkin, choreographer for the Academy Award winning film "Around the World in 80 Days," created the dances for the Theatre Guild production.

READ THE BYSTANDER EVERY WEEK

loves her back in the islands. This plot, even when stretched, cannot hold the imagination for 1 hour . . . and certainly when there is no dialogue, just dances and more dances of expression . . . They soon began to look all alike and that's when confusion stepped in . . .

We'd like to say that Ellington, who most definitely composed all the music, would have a real hit if this was 10 years ago—but times are different and we live in a modern world and the story is an old one . . .

We feel that if a bit of interracial casting had been done, it would have added tremendously to the story—which has had whites to help it on its way in reality . . . In this day, when just about everything is becoming interracial and integrated—any musical or movie or stage play which is all-colored is not the vogue and is usually not successful . . . except with people who wish it to be like that always . . .

Therefore as a Negro listener who is no stranger to the history of jazz—before this age of integration . . . Now if Ellington had taken advantage of that one point, he would undoubtedly have had a real gem on the U. S. Steel Hour . . .

William Grant Still, symphonic composer and conductor, birthingday on the coast . . . Eartha Kitt doing well on her radio and TV interviews—and the show "Shinbone Alley" is sticking it out too . . . We think Abbe Lincoln would look better just being herself instead of trying for a carbon copy of Marilyn Monroe . . .

Mike Wallace doing a creditable job on his race relations project in the form of TV interviews. Langston Hughes was the latest . . . It gives our leaders the chance they need to air their views to listeners who are not familiar with the Negro problem and struggle—and wins over many thousand of viewers each time . . .

We cannot appreciate Mike Wallace enough for his going to bat many times to get across the stupidity of prejudice . . . Most worthy was his interview with the Ku Klux Klan head recently at which time, Mike through questions, made the Klan leader appear completely foolish . . . And to thoroughly make a stand, Mike announced that neither the TV station, nor himself and certainly not the sponsor shared the thinking of the Klan leader . . .

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help . . . My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. —(Psalm 121:1, 2.)

What a glorious, uplifting feeling it is to look out upon another new day and realize that Almighty God, who made the shining sun to rise and stay true on its course, also is Our Father—merciful, loving each of us, His children, ever willing to forgive us our sins, to help and sustain us.

Many Visit Iowa's Parks For Spring Show

The best showing in recent years of red buds at Waubesa and Lacey-Keosauqua state parks has brought good crowds to these two recreation areas the last two weeks, Raymond Mitchell, superintendent of parks for the Commission reports.

Although peak bloom of red buds probably is over, many early blooming trees and wildflowers are yet to put on their "best bid and tucker."

"This week should still find the red haws and wild crabapple trees in full bloom in many of the state parks as well as some of the wildflowers including dog-tooth violet, Dutchman's britches, Blue Belles, wild ginger plants and "Jack-in-the Pulpit," the Commission said.

Some of the wildflowers yet to display their blooms are wild geranium, bloodroot, and May apple, and other varieties found in Iowa's parks.

'Mr. Roberts' Opens At Playhouse May 24

The Board of Directors of the Des Moines Community Playhouse, announces its final production of the present year and invites the central Iowa community to enjoy it.

The play is the by now almost legendary "Mr. Roberts," by Robert Hegen and Joshua Logan. It will run for an extended period, from Friday, May 24 through Saturday, June 8. The play has become part of the American scene. The greatest money-maker in the history of world drama, it has been described with every superlative: "brilliant, heart-warming theater," "the greatest war play of our generation," "one of the great ones."

La Belle Societe Club entertained a group of young people at a pre-Easter party held at Willkie House. Shown in the Easter Bunny as he arrived to greet the 28 little guests.

The club is planning a Memorial Day picnic.

Bottom picture are some Parliamentary and Culture Club members entertained by La Belle Societe club at March 30 tea at Willkie House. Mrs. Helen Wimberly, president of the Iowa Association of Colored Women's Clubs talked to the group about the National Convention of Federated Colored Women's Clubs which met last year in Florida.

Dilettante Club

heavy rains and hail beat off the flowers. In bloom were white, lavender and deep purple lilacs, red-flowering quince along side of rows of bridal wreath in their snow-white glory, tall trees of pink flowering crabs, beds of variegated and Parrot tulips, old fashioned bleeding hearts, violets, other wild blooms.

Mr. Alexander paused to cut a surprise birthday cake, in a pre-celebration of his May 14 natal date.

He left Monday morning to return to Washington where the Alexander & Repass Company recently completed the construction of Key Bridge; and, by August the contracting company is scheduled to complete a 30-million-gallon reservoir. He plans to return to Iowa in June for the 45th reunion of his engineering class at the State University of Iowa.

Guest at the Alexander home was a cousin, Mrs. Louise DeVaughn of Chicago, Ill., sister of Mrs. Everett Clay, who was at the Alexander home during their absence. Mr. Clay resides also in Chicago.

Trying to get some rest after a two-month trip through several countries in Asia and Europe is Mrs. Gwendolyn Flower of Saigon, Viet Nam, who returned to the States May 1, met her mother Mrs. Olin Coper, 1112 Eleventh Street, in New York City, and spent ten days visiting there and in Washington, D. C. They attended Mother's Day services last Sunday at St. Paul AME Church where "Gwen" was greeted warmly by members and friends.

Most of her friends ask her first: "How do you like living in Viet Nam?" Well, just as soon as "Gwen" gets a few more hours of undisturbed rest, I'll go by and see what she has to say to the question.

Rev. Luther Smith, 901 Twenty-third street, was chatting this week on the phone about some of the Mother's Day flowers his wife received. Since he has been trying to find out what kind of flower it was.

It had pale green petals and a red center—and it was so delicate it looked like a butterfly. It came from California," I refer him to Mrs. Georgia Goggins, Mrs. Mayme Moore, Mrs. Jessye Bell Davis and some of the other Des Moines residents.

Interested in flowers this time of the year, she saw in Peru, "acres of orchids and geraniums that grow very tall."

Saves Iowa's Tolerance Has Helped U. S. In Earth's Population

Iowa City, Iowa—Iowa has helped the rest of the nation toward favor among the non-white and non-Christian majorities in Earth's population.

For the state has provided some dramatic and convincing examples of racial and religious tolerance, a leader of the National Conference of Christians and Jews pointed out recently at the State University of Iowa.

Addressing the annual Labor Short Course at SUI, Dave Hyatt, national director of public relations for the NCCJ, cited Quag-City solidarity against anti-semitism three years ago, when outside agitators tried to start a campaign against Jewish merchants. Civic, educational and labor groups immediately organized to halt a "rash of hate posters which had appeared overnight," he reported.

Election

Hyatt referred also to the election "without regard for color" of Dora Lee Martin of Houston, Tex., as Miss SUI in 1955 and to the "honest and courageous journalism" of three Des Moines newspapermen in 1956 and 1957.

He noted that the latest Sidney Hillman award went to Robert H.

Spiegel of the Des Moines Tribune for his 1956 stories on housing for Negroes. He praised the current articles by Clark Mollenhoff and Fletcher Knebel of the Des Moines Register on recent activities of the Ku Klux Klan in the South. In this connection Hyatt said the NCCJ was founded in 1928 to combat the influence of the KKK.

Own Situation

But segregationist Southerners can point to many discriminations in employment, housing and social activities above the Mason-Dixon line, he said, adding that "the best way to help the South improve its racial relations is to clean up our own situation in the North."

Besides our democratic and religious principles on equality and brotherhood, there are two urgent and practical reasons for local-level education in human relations—in shop, union hall, and neighborhood, Hyatt said. These reasons are the high cost of prejudice—estimated at $30 billion yearly to American industry alone—and the fact that the world's dark-skinned peoples outnumber the white by two to one, he stressed.

A FITTING DAY OF PRAYER

Friday marks the third anniversary of the United States Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public school education. This momentous pronouncement knocked the legal props from segregationists in America and has been followed by a consistent adherence to the principle laid down in this decision which has given encouragement to those who would make democracy a reality, rather than a sham.

Thousands of people will gather at the Constitution Hall in Washington to give thanks for that decision; for members of the court who have had the courage to interpret the law based on the dignity of man rather than the whims of those men on the bench in 1894 who saw no harm—no stigma—in segregation on the basis of race.

About the time the 1894 decision was handed down and for years thereafter many states passed all kinds of laws restricting Negroes in the exercise of their civil rights, among which were Jim Crow, disfranchisement and numerous embarrassments which nobody should be required to accept.

But the Negro, being law abiding, lived under these nefarious measures, smarting at all the efforts to relegate him to second class citizenship. In the meantime, white supremacists pushed further and further until their position became so intolerable that many of their associates began to rebel.

In the meantime, the NAACP came in the scene and from its inception one legal victory after another has gradually eliminated most restrictions as a matter of law.

But no law can be enforced successfully unless it has the support of the public. In most parts of the country, this Supreme Court decision has the support of a vast majority of the people; in others it continues to meet stiff opposition much in the form of one type of lawlessness after another which unfortunately, has been winked at by some public officials.

However, opposition was expected which to those who don't think and read would indicate that the forces of segregation were winning the battle. But school districts in many border states have either integrated their schools or are moving in that direction. Integration will eventually spill over into hard core areas.

These court cases have cost the Negro a lot of money while the opposition has been financed by the taxpayers which include Negroes. But in spite of all the disadvantages, right will prevail. At least there is faith that in the ultimate good judgment of a majority of the American people.

For all this success, the Negro has a right to be thankful and this is the why of the meeting in Washington Friday.

MUCH PROGRESS IN TEXAS INTEGRATION

Strange things can happen in race relations, often presenting inconsistencies which seem hard to reconcile. And yet as the action of different segments of the population is examined, things clear up and present a pretty even pattern.

Texas is one of the three states which have outlawed the NAACP. This is the result of politicians and rabble rousers who use racial antagonism to further their own private interests. Public officials like Gov. Shivers are examples.

The University of Texas not only admits Negroes but gives them assignments in prominent places as evidenced by Miss Barbara Simpson who, while selected to appear in a play, was replaced because of the complaint of the opposition politician, State Representative Chapman and his followers.

Here we have the liberal young College southerner looking at the ability and not the race of the student.

Baseball teams in the Texas League including Negroes are San Antonio, three; Austin, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Huston, one each.

Here are liberal sports-minded managers who are interested in winning games and play the best athlete available. Prior to the flareup over the teams playing in Louisiana most people did not know this.

These incidents show that interracial cooperation is making a lot of headway, in spite of the advice of some people "don't push too fast".

Committee in Washington in September, 1955, Miss Garrity served as Race Relations Secretary for the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington.

The Committee met with more than 125 leaders of Chicago's business and industrial establishments, labor organizations and social agencies on April 30. Vice President Nixon and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, Vice Chairman of the Committee, attended all meetings.

Chicago Area
On May 1 the Committee's subcommittee responsible for reviewing investigations of complaints charging discrimination by Government contractors met with more than 100 representatives of Government contracting agencies active in the Chicago area.

William P. Rogers, Deputy Attorney General of the United States, told the representatives of Government contracting agencies that their work in reviewing the performance of contractors in their compliance with the nondiscrimination clause of Government contracts is a major part of the Equal Job Opportunity program of the President's Committee. Mr. Rogers is a member of the President's Committee and Chairman of its Compliance and Complaint Review Subcommittee.

Reviews
Periodic reviews of the manner in which Government contractors are complying with the nondiscrimination clause is "even more important" than the investigation of complaints because "the number of complaints is no reliable index to the extent of discrimination," Mr. Rogers said.

He told the Government representatives that the Committee has asked the contracting agencies to make annual compliance reviews of 500 Government contractors. The information these reviews provide will give the Committee knowledge of the employment practices of Government contractors "without waiting for complaints to be filed," he said.

Mr. Nixon's letter to Federal Agency chiefs requesting study of the past nondiscrimination records of contractors before the award of new contracts, cited the progress that has been made in eliminating discrimination in employment in work done under Government contract and declared that the Committee "believes there should be even greater advances in the future." He wrote that where the Committee's methods of "education, conciliation, mediation and persuasion do not bring proper results, a firmer approach should be adopted."

Additional Step
The Committee described the Vice President's letter as an additional step in a program which it launched in August 1953, when President Eisenhower established it by Executive Order, with an educational campaign designed to acquaint contractors with their responsibilities under the nondiscrimination clause.

The award of contracts to businesses and industries which have previous records of discrimination "should be resumed upon receipt of satisfactory evidence (by the agencies) that corrective action has been taken by the contractor," Mr. Nixon wrote.

opened last week at the Astor Theatre on Broadway, Sidney Poitier, 33, has announced that he is "at peace with the world." The statement came as a surprise to his friends and followers as each of his acclaimed roles has been of a hard-fighting nature, lambasting prejudice and fighting to the death for his rights as a citizen.

According to Barry Gray, popular radio interviewer, Poitier said "I have no politics, but I am a Negro. I try to do and say nothing that might be a step backward. I believe in integration, though I call it equality of opportunity. I've learned to accept quite a lot. I'm at peace with the world. Two years ago I had ulcers. I worried about my future, the future of my race. I found I could learn to accept what I had to accept and try and change what I wanted to change."

Cash Box Complaint
In the statement, Mrs. Watkins said she was sitting at a desk "trying to get some bills together" when her husband came into the apartment from the office and complained about the cash box being $10 short.

Mrs. Watkins said in her statement Watkins "got mad and left. He later returned and slapped me." She said she ran into the bedroom "with him following me," got the

HEALTH FOR ALL

AFRAID TO GET WELL

Everyone at the tuberculosis hospital loves old Mr. Brown. The long months that he has been there, he has been a model patient, cheerful, uncomplaining. Many a discouraged younger patient has been helped by his simple kindness and wisdom.

Since he's been up and around he's found plenty to do. He has his round of visits to make to friends who have to stay in bed. He helps with breakfast trays. He likes to tidy up the occupational therapy rooms, and keep the tools and machines in first class shape.

But now he is afraid. The doctor says he will be able to go home soon. The disease in his right lung is healed, and if he takes care, should never break out again. The doctor says he's one of the lucky ones.

In Old Home Town

Lucky? He'd almost rather be sick in the hospital. He has no home to go to, no job. What is he to do? Sit all day in a little room? Sure, he'll get along on his social security benefits, but there'll be no extras.

Maybe enough for a movie once in awhile. Restaurant meals are expensive. Can he manage to cook for himself on a hot plate? But, if he doesn't eat right, he might get sick again. Maybe he'll have to live with relatives who'll take him in because they feel they have to. There's no one left who really cares, back in the old home town.

Are there Mr. Browns and Mrs. Browns in your home town? Too old to get a job, well enough and eager to be useful to someone, but having no one who needs them?

This is a problem that concerns us all, because we will all grow older. What recreation, what activity does your town offer its older citizens? If there's next to nothing but the movies, maybe you can do something about it. Many towns have started clubs and centers where older people can meet and make friends, enjoy old hobbies, develop new skills, and find they can still have a useful place in the community.

The incident was evidently tied to the recent removal of Barbara Smith, a Negro soprano, from the student-opera cast on the request of State Representative Joe Chapman.

Meanwhile, Miss Smith said in a story Thursday in the university's student newspaper, that "I believe they (the school authorities who removed her from the opera) want the same things I do, and are . . . trying to achieve the most harmonious fulfillment of integration at the university."

Deprive No One
"The truth is that the bill would deprive no one of any constitutional right, Mr. Wilkins told local leaders of the Association. "The constitutional right to a jury trial in a criminal action remains. Anyone charged under the criminal code will have, as in the past, the right to a jury trial."

"But there is not and has never been any constitutional guarantee of a jury trial in the type of civil action provided by the bill. One cannot be deprived of something that does not exist. These court orders are issued only after a hearing before a judge in which witnesses are heard and the accused has counsel and the right to cross-examine. If the injunction should be issued and disobeyed the defendant is found in contempt and the punishment is assessed by the judge who issued the order. The defendant would have the right to appeal."

Meanwhile support for the NAACP position came from Mitchell Franklin, professor of law at Tulane University in New Orleans. In a letter to the New York Times published on May 5, Mr. Franklin cited Assistant Attorney General Warren Onley's condemnation of attempts to nullify the bill by providing for trial by jury.

Repressive Conditions

The justification of the injunctive procedure in suits in equity, the law professor pointed out, "may be readily explained and understood in the light of the generally repressive conditions prevailing in most of the South today, the consequences of which are that requirements and presuppositions for the administration of the jury system do not exist. The jury system cannot flourish if the jury is not free from fear and if it cannot make objective determinations."

Further, Mr. Franklin asserted: "The introduction of the jury into

'equity' activity, when it is not constitutionally required, under the social circumstances which obtain in most of the South at present would, as Mr. Onley says, be a 'clever device to nullify' civil rights legislation."

Not New Proposal

Earlier, on April 29, Roscoe Drummond, Washington correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, said that "the Department of Justice has used such proceedings (equity suits) in anti-trust cases since 1890 and has similar powers to enforce the Atomic Energy Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Securities Act and others. Jury trial is not involved."

"It is increasingly clear," the Washington newspaperman continued, "that the foundation stone of all civil rights can better be protected; when this right is violated and neglected, the loss of other civil rights follows easily."

GREATER WEALTH FOR IOWA

Each year the brewing industry is investing more and more money in Iowa, further swelling the rising prosperity of our state. Take the item of miscellaneous business costs . . . in this one field alone the industry spends over $27,500,000.00 per year. Included are everything from paper clips to truck repairs, from rent to insurance, and literally hundreds of other items. All Iowa benefits, because these continuing expenditures spread into every nook and corner of the state.

Of course, this is but a part of the growing wealth the brewing industry creates for Iowa. Over $30,000,000.00 per year goes into payrolls, over $25,000,000.00 in taxes, over $62,000,000.00 in buildings, warehouses, and stores, plus huge expenditures for farm products. Here, truly, is a great constructive force for the continued growth of our state.
