'MAN IN THE RIVER' IN COURT:

Tell How Officers Fought Knox

C. P. Howard Asks State Supreme Court to Let Him Practice Law Again Here

Charles P. Howard, 62, former Des Moines attorney, asked the state supreme court Wednesday to let him practice law again in Iowa.

Howard surrendered his license to practice law in Iowa Feb. 16, 1951, three days before a scheduled hearing on disbarment charges filed by the Polk County Bar Association.

The bar association wanted Howard's license taken away from him on ground that he failed to account to some of his clients for money due them as the result of law cases. Howard claimed the disbarment action was the result of a "hostile atmosphere" which developed after he made a trip to Russia and other Communist countries in 1950.

Peace Congress

As a delegate to the Communist-sponsored World Peace Congress in Warsaw, Poland, in 1950, Howard was critical of U. S. policies, especially toward Negroes. In 1948, Howard had been the keynote speaker of the Progressive party convention that nominated Henry A. Wallace for president.

At the time he surrendered his license, Howard maintained the bar association's charges were unfounded. He blamed "persons who are critical of my trip to Russia and are determined to destroy everyone in this movement."

Howard asked the supreme court in September, 1952, to reinstate his license to practice law. The court refused his request at that time.

5 Attorneys

The former attorney's application included a recommendation for reinstatement signed by five Des Moines attorneys. The recommendation said, in part:

"We further feel that there was a bit of misunderstanding generally among members of the bar at the time Mr. Howard surrendered his license and that we now know that much of the criticism was not justified."

Grant Shade Pleads Innocent to Charge

General Grant (Happy) Shade, 55, of 302 Raccoon Street, pleaded innocent Thursday night when arraigned before Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund on a charge of being a bootlegger. He was released on $500 bond, pending a hearing Sept. 4.

Shade is accused of selling wine Wednesday to Theodore A. Garrison, Jr., 18, who gave his address as 4400 E. Fourteenth st., and a 17-year-old youth. Garrison pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and paid a $10 fine Thursday.

Shade's arrest came as the result of a wine-drinking incident Wednesday in Margo Frankel Woods. Three other youths and four girls were turned over to juvenile court authorities as a result of the incident.

Efforts Fail

A last-minute effort to delay house passage was made by Representative Smith (Dem., Va.), leader of the southerners. However, his move to keep the debate going beyond the hour allotted to it was voted down 274 to 101.

Northern representatives who preferred a sterner measure conceded it was this bill or nothing.

Southern senators have indicated they would not filibuster but would have considerable to say about it.

But Senate Democratic Leader Johnson (Tex.) appealed to his colleagues for action without delay.

Anti-Government Rioting in Ghana

Accra, Ghana—Anti-government rioting erupted Wednesday Aug. 21, in the capital of this newly independent African nation.

It was the second day of disorders by opponents of Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah who accuse him of totalitarian methods.

Police dispersed the rioters with clubs and tear gas. Two policemen were injured.

The rioting broke out after Nkrumah announced in the national assembly that a special bill would be introduced today to deal with what he termed a "deplorable situation" of violence and hooliganism.

Knox Confers With Attorneys During City Court Trial

Raymond Knox (second from right) calmly listened this week to witnesses testify for and against him in Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund's courtroom. Here he and his wife confer with his attorneys, Henry T. McKnight (right) and James B. Morris, Jr. Knox is charged with resisting arrest and disturbing the peace.

The case has drawn to the courtroom, crowded to capacity each day,

Find Three Women Guilty Of Disturbing the Peace And Resisting an Officer

The Des Moines branch of the NAACP has not entered the case involving four women charged with resisting an officer and disturbing the peace.

According to Mrs. Clara Bayles, president of the Des Moines Branch, "The NAACP has not been asked to enter this case," as was incorrectly published in another paper, "and would not do so until it had made a complete investigation."

Three of the four women were found guilty of the charges Friday, Aug. 23, by Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund.

Fined a total of $35, both charges were Mrs. Odessa Brown, 43, of 601 S.E. Fifth, and her sister, Mrs. Margetta Singleton, 44, of 611 S.E. Fourth Street.

Mrs. Brown's daughter, Marie G. Calderon, 17, was fined $10 on the charge of disturbing the peace.

Charles against Florine Knox, 19, also daughter of Mrs. Brown, were continued until Sept. 5 because she is in Mercy hospital for surgery.

Arrest of Women

The arrest of the women Aug. 6, brought complaints from citizens,

Says NAACP Not In Real Estate Or Loan Business

New York—The rumor that the NAACP "put up $18,000" to enable William E. Myers to purchase a home in Levittown, Pa., was branded as "false and ridiculous" by Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary.

Wilkins also ridiculed another rumor that the NAACP "owns four more houses in Levittown which it will sell to Negroes."

The rumors were started by questions which a newspaper reporter whose purchase of a home in the development has caused a disturbance necessitating the assignment of state police to keep order. Myers, a veteran and father of three children, denied that the NAACP had given or loaned him any money, but since the questions were asked in the presence of a small gathering, the rumors started at once.

False and Ridiculous

"The story is false and ridiculous," Mr. Wilkins said. "The NAACP is not in the real estate business, is not in the loan business, and does not have any funds with which to purchase homes in Levittown or anywhere else."

"This is just another attempt to

City's Witnesses Testify Defendant 'Loud' After Search for Body of Boy

Raymond Knox — "the man in the river" who was seen by thousands of spectators as he aided in the recent search for the body of a drowned boy—sat silently this week in Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund's courtroom listening to a parade of witnesses testify against and for him.

Knox, 41, of 223 Raccoon Street was being tried on charges of resisting arrest and disturbing the peace by loud and profane language on the evening of August 12 on the Scott Street Bridge, after the body of 16-year-old Fred D. Hoover had been recovered in the Des Moines River.

Knox wore no bandages about his head and face. Dark spots and scars could be seen about his face. He has said that he was "beaten up" by three policemen after his arrest and that 41 stitches were taken in his head and face to close the wounds. His wife accompanied him.

Many Spectators

The courtroom was crowded to capacity each day with representatives of the Des Moines Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, ministers of the Des Moines Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, persons who had seen Knox in the river and had wondered why he had been arrested, friends, witnesses and spectators.

The hearing began Monday afternoon with attorneys Henry T. McKnight and James Brad Morris, representing Knox; and, I. Joel Pasternak, city prosecutor.

Two policemen, Patrolman William Pennington and Bruce Dyer, and a doctor testified Monday afternoon.

Washed Blood

Pennington testified he returned to the police station about 7:30 o'clock that evening, when he saw Knox "in the washroom, prior to taking him to Broadlawn Hospital." He said he

European Editorials Flay U. S. Senate's Action on Amending Right's Measure

New York—A number of European newspapers have given detailed editorial attention to the U. S. Senate's action amending the Administration's civil rights bill.

International implications of the Senate's act were mentioned by at least two newspapers on the continent: the Journal de Geneve and the French L'Aurore. The former implied that the United States will continue to be embarrassed at defending liberty and equality in foreign nations while it does not respect them at home, while L'Aurore called the Senate action "Colonialist."

Following are excerpts from editorial comment in these two newspapers and others on the continent and in England:

Grave Setback

Journal de Geneve: "For more than a month stirring debates have taken place in the American Senate about the civil rights bill, whose purpose is to guarantee in fact to the Negro population exercise of its right to vote. The Constitution accords it to him in principle, but racial inequality continues to manifest itself in daily life, for the southern states maintain the privileges of the white man by every means.

"(The Senate action) constitutes a grave setback for President Eisenhower and the Republican Party . . . (President Eisenhower) has applied himself—unhappily with a diminished authority—to wipe out racial differences, for he has realized that the United States is embarrassed in defending the great principles of equality and liberty throughout

New MIA Secretary in Montgomery to Direct the Efforts of Negro Citizens

Montgomery, Ala.—The Montgomery Improvement Association, through its president, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., made formal announcement of the appointment, effective July 15, of the Rev. Mose Pleasure, Jr., as Executive Secretary. The MIA, whose successful protest against the indignities of discrimination on buses in Montgomery has won nationwide acclaim, has embarked on a positive program of economic and social betterment for the citizens of the Alabama capital city.

"Rev. Pleasure will spend full time in implementing and directing the efforts of Montgomarians to make our community a better place in which to live," Rev. King said. "The new plan will put in motion

Levittown Streets Quiet After Jeering Crowds End Protests of Negro Family

Levittown, Penn.—The streets of Levittown were quiet Wednesday night. For the first time in nine nights, no noisy, jeering crowds milled about to voice their protest over the first Negro residents in the community.

State and local police enforced an edict by State Police Maj. William Ruch Tuesday night that no gatherings of three or more persons would be permitted.

The order followed the stoning of a Bristol township police sergeant by one of a crowd of some 400 persons that had been jeering and hurling catcalls at the police brought in last weekend to restrain such gatherings.

Few Stragglers

Only a few stragglers were seen in the section where the Negro family—William E. Myers, Jr., his wife and one of their three children—moved in recently. Myers said he had been offered $3,000 above the $12,150 he paid for his ranch-style home if he would sell and move out. He refused to say who made the offer.

"I don't want to accept it," he added. "I intend to stay in my home."

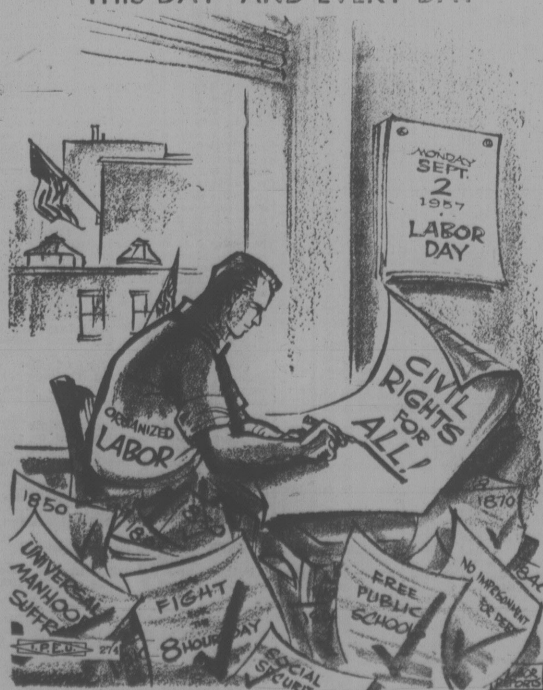

Bristol township commissioners met to discuss a request by Police Chief John R. Stewart that a 9 a.m. curfew be declared for all children 16 years of age and under.

Magic Lemon Petal Tarts For Teen-Ager Treats

WITH THE OPENING OF SCHOOL even the resourceful mother is sometimes put to it to provide refreshments for the youngsters' treats and parties. Bite-size lemon meringue tarts with sweetened condensed milk filling are sure to win the approval of even the most critical teen-ager and from the mother's point of view, they are a real treat, too. The sweetened condensed milk filling needs no cooking and is always magically smooth and creamy.

To add eye appeal to the tarts, make the shells in your small muffin or cup cake pans like little cups of petals. Top with meringue or whipped cream.

MAGIC LEMON MERINGUE TARTS
1 package pastry mix made into petal shells
1 1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind or 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
2 egg yolks

Stir sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, lemon rind or lemon extract and egg yolks until mixture thickens. Pour filling into chilled baked tart shells. Top each with a fluff of meringue or whipped cream.

For petal shells, roll pastry out 1/4 inch thick. Cut pastry circle for bottom of each muffin or cup-cake pan and put in pans. For petals, cut circle pattern of stiff paper the depth of muffin pan, plus 1/2 inch, and cut five rounds of pastry for each tart. If you have a round cookie cutter approximately the right size, use it instead of the paper pattern. Place circles around sides of each muffin pan, overlapping for petal effect. To hold together, brush with unbeaten egg white where surfaces touch. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool and remove from pans.

Special Tolerance Is Needed When a New Attractive Toy Is Added for Group of Children; They Need to Know That They All Own It

BL. LLOYD LOVELL,
SUI Assistant Professor

The back yard suddenly exploded into angry shouts and cries of pain. Mother ran out the back door, wiping her hands on her apron. The children were fighting over a toy roadgrader in the sandbox. As Mother approached, their voices subsided into mutters and sniffs. "If you children can't learn to share your toys, I'll have to take them away until you do," Mother said. "If I hear one more fight out here, I'll take the toys away. You have got to learn to take turns." She dashed back to move a pan on the stove.

Children do have a hard time learning to share. They need a lot of experience in order to understand what taking turns means, and to balance concepts like owning and lending. This mother, however, was not helping her children learn about such matters. Depriving children of an opportunity to experiment with sharing hardly helps them learn to do it.

Accept Rules

Younger children can often accept rules that tell when a turn comes to an end. They can count ten swings on the swing, or accept the fact that the clock says five minutes are up, and now it's someone else's turn. Sometimes just a reminder that one's turn is up will suffice. But the learning to share does take guidance, and the learning goes more easily when children can be given cues to show when one person's turn is over.

The very young child often seems unable to relinquish something he thinks is his. Giving him an attractive substitute sometimes helps. When a child tires of a toy and wants one another child is using, the children can sometimes be encouraged to "trade." When a given toy is provided for all the children, special explanation can help them understand that they all own it, not just the oldest or strongest child. And special tolerance is needed when a new, attractive toy is added; all the children will want it at once, and it will be an especially hard toy to share at first.

Knox Case

took Knox to the washroom where Knox washed blood from his face. Officer Pennington said Knox was repeating "It's my own fault. It was my big mouth that got me into trouble."

Patrolman Dyer said he was out in a boat searching for the body of the drowned boy when he saw Knox and another man swimming in the river. He said he told Knox to "get out of the water" adding that he was "afraid Knox might drown." The officer said Knox refused to get out.

Dyer said the next time he saw Knox was in the squad car. He said he entered the rear seat beside Knox and that Manny and Baker were in the front seat.

Dyer testified Manny was driving the car away when Knox began cursing Manny and told him he was "going to whip him." Knox then swung at Manny, Dyer said.

"Manny stuck up his right hand and warned off the blow but Knox grabbed his thumb and tried to pull him backward."

Asked what he did, Dyer, who was seated in the back seat with Knox, testified that he "turned around sideways and grabbed the defendant, Mr. Knox, by the head and pushed him back in the corner."

"Did Knox do anything?" Dyer was asked.

Shoved in Corner

"After I shoved him back in the corner, he hit me."

Dyer said he "got on his knees in the back seat and attempted to cover Knox," and then the officer demonstrated to the court how he "covered Knox."

Asked if Knox "ceased resistance," the patrolman said Knox kept swinging.

"What was it—a flurry?" Dyer was asked, to which he replied "yes," adding that "I was striking him."

"Were you able to contain the defendant in the position you had him?" Dyer testified "no," that Knox "grabbed hold of my neck."

"Was it a strangle hold?"

"Yes," Dyer replied.

Dyer said Baker then reached over and struck Knox with a pocket sap to get him to release him.

Continued to Swing

Dyer said Knox continued to swing at him as they drove to the police station and that he hit Knox with his fist repeatedly. When they reached the station, Dyer said Knox swung at Manny.

Dyer stated, that after the squad car pulled into the police station, that there was a scuffle, "trying to get Knox under control."

"What happened after the door was opened?" City Counsel Pasternak, continued questioning his witness.

Dyer said "Sergeant Manny reached in, grabbed hold of the defendant and proceeded to pull on him to get him out of the car."

"Were you assisting?" Dyer was asked.

"I was," the officer replied, describing that Knox "resisted getting out of the car." He revealed that it took a "few minutes" to get Knox out of the car and that after he was out, "he continued to fight."

"He was directing his efforts to Sergeant Manny—swinging at Sergeant Manny."

Hit in Head

"Manny hit him on the head with a pocket sap," Dyer testified adding that "Knox became as meek as a lamb."

During cross-examination, attorney McKnight, defense counsel, queried Dyer:

"You had your guns, you had handcuffs? You were seated there and let this man grab Sergeant Manny?"

"Of course you weigh 200 pounds and couldn't succeed," McKnight remarked and asked: "You know about what Sergeant Manny weighs?"

Dyer estimated about 235 pounds; and added that Baker weighed about 200 pounds to which McKnight had this to say:

"You mean to tell me it took 635 pounds," Knox weight has been given man?"

An objection was raised by City Counsel Pasternak. Judge Grund sustained it and rapped for order in the courtroom, admonishing the crowd. Defense Attorney McKnight rephrased his statement to this:

"Six-hundred-thirty-five pounds of human beings—and you don't think for a moment Mr. Knox weighs 635 pounds," Knox weight has been given as 187 pounds.

Doctor Testifies

Dr. Edgar A. Hanson, an intern at Broadlawn General Hospital, testified he examined Manny's right thumb at the hospital. He said the thumb was badly swollen and sprained, but was not fractured or dislocated.

Dr. Hanson said the thumb required no treatment.

Newsman on Stand

Ray Carney, KIOA newsman, began the testimony Tuesday morning. He testified that he saw Knox in the water, under the Scott Street Bridge, and later in the patrol car.

Carney said a "crowd of people was looking towards the car," that, he walked up to the window of the car, on the driver's side, and "heard Knox talking."

Carney said Knox was "verbally violent—seated in the back seat," and that his language was "loud and profane."

"He was yelling and told the officers they would have to whip him (Knox) before they could take him to jail," Carney testified.

PIMIENTOS-POTATOES A TASTY DISH

By BETTY BARCLAY

Let's face it. Potatoes can be delightful or they can be something to be left on the plate. But with pimientos to pretty them up and add a special delicate flavor, jaded appetites perk up and second helpings are called for. This dish smells good, looks good and tastes good—and can be done with the greatest of ease. What's more, it's gentle on the budget.

Pimiento Potatoes
2 lbs. small potatoes
1 to 2 cloves garlic
1 medium onion
1 bunch parsley, small
2 Tbs. oil or shortening
2 Tbs. margarine or butter
1 4-oz. can or jar pimientos.

Wash and peel potatoes. Boil in salted water until almost tender. Drain. Chop garlic, onion and parsley and add to potatoes. Saute all together in the hot oil and margarine until potatoes are lightly browned. Cut pimientos into large pieces or strips. Add to the potatoes and heat thoroughly, 4 to 6 servings.

New SUI Bulletin Lists Correspondence Courses That Can Benefit Persons Who Never Had Chance to Go To College

Iowa City, Iowa—"I never had a chance to go to college," many people say regretfully. If you are one of these people, you probably could profit by investigating the newly released State University of Iowa Extension Study Through Correspondence, 1957-58.

Twenty-seven new or revised courses have been added to the 145 university courses which are repeated from former years. Such courses as "Personnel Management," "Shakespeare," "Economic Geography of the United States," and "Psychology of Adjustment" are among the new or revised listings.

Courses to be given again this year include "Child Study and Parent Education," "Current Social and Economic Problems," "Small Business," "Reading Methods for the Intermediate Grades," "Analysis of the Individual (Guidance)," "Fiction Writing," "Psychology in Business and Industry," "Juvenile Delinquency" and "General Semantics."

Open to All
Correspondence courses are open to all who are prepared to profit from them, according to J. Leonard Davis, director of correspondence studies at SUI. Students taking SUI correspondence courses fall into three groups—those wishing to earn credit to apply toward a degree at SUI, those earning credit to apply toward a degree at some other college or university and those satisfying special requirements for professional advancement, preparation for special occupation or self-improvement.

A registration fee of $2 is required the first time a student enrolls with the Bureau for Correspondence Study. Course fees are assessed at the rate of $7 per semester-hour for enrollments having a mailing address within Iowa. A course fee of $9 per semester-hour is assessed for out-of-state enrollments. Fees are payable at the time of registration. Fees will be $8 per semester-hour for Iowa enrollments and $10 for out-of-state enrollments after Sept. 1.

30 Semester Hours
Up to 30 semester-hours of credit can be earned by correspondence toward a bachelor's degree, and six semester hours can be earned toward a graduate degree by correspondence. After once having been in residence at SUI, a teacher may complete work through correspondence to fulfill requirements for a renewal or his or her teacher's certificate.

provided the correspondence work does not exceed the amount of work done in residence. In addition, these same course credits may be applied toward a degree by the teacher if he or she has not previously received one.

Veterans who are entitled to educational benefits granted under Public Law 550 (the Korean G. I. Bill) and who are unable to register in residence at a university may retain their eligibility for educational benefits by enrolling in correspondence courses. For further information, veterans should write to the Veterans Service Office, University Hall, the State University of Iowa.

Reduced Rates to Vets

Through cooperation with the United States Armed Forces Institute, SUI offers many of the courses listed in the bulletin at reduced rates to men and women in the armed services. The student pays only $2 enrollment fee and the cost of the text materials. The government will pay the cost of the instruction.

SUI also conducts a correspondence course in citizenship for aliens who are preparing to take naturalization examinations. The fee for this course is three dollars.

All correspondence courses must be completed within two years from the end of the month in which the student enrolls. Examinations for the courses are given at SUI or elsewhere, under supervision approved by the director of correspondence study.

Any person interested in SUI correspondence courses should write to the Bureau of Correspondence Study in the Extension Division at the University.

My voice shalt Thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning I will direct my prayer unto Thee.—(Psalm 5, 3.)

Each morning that God grants us is a new opportunity, new beginning, new life. If we choose to make it so. It should begin with prayer, thanking Him, seeking His presence, His love. His will—and then we will enter into the new day strong, confident, and blessed.

A CIVIL RIGHTS
BILL FINALLY

It has been a long pull as well as a difficult one but the 85th Congress has finally passed a Civil Rights bill, the first since reconstruction days. The job was accomplished because the Eisenhower administration was determined that there should be such a law, because some liberal Democrats joined and stuck with the effort; because the public wanted the federal government to bring into line further its practice of democracy.

While the law is not as strong as hoped for, it is a substantial beginning and this machinery provided will accomplish much including information as to whether the measure does the job intended.

The law sets up a bipartisan commission on Civil Rights; creates a Civil Rights Section in the department of Justice, assigns special attorney general to handle Civil Rights; applies to voting rights; permits federal judges to decide whether violators of injunctions shall be tried by jury or the judge; grants defendants charged with violating injunctions the right to another trial should the punishment given by a judge exceed forty-five days in jail or a three hundred dollar fine.

Whether the sentence is five or three hundred dollars or five or forty-five days in jail, the very fact that violators are tried and sentenced will have a deterrent effect in reducing the willful exclusion of Negroes from the polls.

Naturally, some senators opposed the measure to the last for the purpose of making a record for their constituents back home.

With the Supreme Court leading the way our government come closer to practicing what it preaches about democracy.

UNFORTUNATE BUT,
NECESSARY DISCIPLINE

A trial committee of the African Methodist Episcopal Church setting in Jacksonville, Fla., has found Bishop D. Ward Nichols guilty of five of the seven charges on which he was tried and suspended him until the 1960 general conference.

Bishop Nichols is a very able man, one of the leading figures in the church and many other worthwhile movements.

He is not the first bishop of the AME church to be tried and convicted of misconduct in recent years. It appears that the almost unlimited power of their office has been misused to their own personal advantage and anyone who dared complain was dealt with in a harsh manner.

It is most unfortunate that top religious leaders should so lose their sense of dignity and honesty as to bring shame upon the church as well as themselves. And it is generally known that such conduct is not new by any means.

Since it had to happen, the conviction of these Bishops is good for the denomination for it demonstrates that there are those in the church who will not tolerate dishonesty and mismanagement among those who have been elected to lead the religious life of their constituents.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church is a large and responsible organization; has done a fine job in both the education and religious fields; has given the country some of its most able men and women. And thus it is to the everlasting credit of those who brought these charges and the committee which convicted him that they do not purpose to allow a few dishonest people to ruin their church.

ORGANIZED LABOR
MUST CLEAN HOUSE

Monday is labor day—a day set apart to honor labor and to recognize its achievements over the years.

Today, organized labor is big business. This has been brought to the attention of the public more forcibly by the McClelland rackets committee of the Senate. Few realized the large sums of money the leaders handle nor the influence they wielded in many activities.

Of course, like all movements, organized labor has its troubles, but the troublesome constitutes a small minority which has taken advantage of their position and misused their authority.

The organized labor movement has done much for the masses and thus for the country. It must take care that a few men do not bring the movement into bad repute.

The world while not requesting them altogether inside its own frontiers. It is regrettable that the Senate majority has not taken into account this same consideration.

Colonialism

L'Aurore: "With the strong majority of 51 to 42 the American Senate has just taken a vote which practically empties of its substance the civil rights bill. . . . If there ever was a legislative act of colonialism (and some will even say racism) inspiration this is it. May we therefore hope that the accusation of colonialism which has been too often and too rashly aimed at France by our American friends will be definitely shelved and particularly so when we shall talk together of North Africa?"

"Does the United States, which is so hostile to the civil rights of the Negroes, know that France's third-ranking political personality, M. Monnerville, President of the Council of the Republic, is a colored man and a very eminent one? Does it know that the Negroes of the French Union have the right to vote and that their representatives, white and colored, sit with their colleagues of metropolitan France in our Assemblies? Let it therefore examine its conscience and tell us on what shore of the Atlantic are living the last colonialists."

Le Monde (French): "Although the capital debate of the last four weeks in Congress on the rights of American Negroes to vote has not yet finished, one can already consider that the Eisenhower administration has undergone a serious setback. The same is true for all groups which struggled for the betterment of the political status of Negroes, second-class American citizens."

Firm Position

"Without doubt, both parties will find reason for comfort in the last votes. The firm position taken by hope that they will gain a large part of the Negro vote. The Democrats can congratulate themselves for having avoided the split-up of their party over a difficult problem. The only victims of the operation are the Negroes, who have never, since the Reconstruction era of 80 years ago, been so close to a sensational step forward which would doubtless have upset the political facts of life in the country. This is not the first time, it is true, that the Democrats assure their unity at the expense of the Negroes. . . .

"Everyone cannot yet assert that Negro citizens will not gain anything from the modified draft law if this is finally accepted. Without doubt, the Senate text even with the co-called 'jury' amendment constitutes progress; everything will depend on how it will be applied. It is to be feared that the federal protection given Negroes to assure them free exercise of their right to vote as recognized by the Constitution will be insufficient, given the many possibilities open to local southern authorities to twist the law. . . .

British Comment

The Times of London: "The second cardinal amendment made within a week to the civil rights bill puts it beyond doubt that the American Senate intends the object of the measure to be pursued gradually, and with as much acquiescence as a conciliatory spirit can win from the southern Democratic opposition. The object is to require the South, by the use of federal authority, to bring its race relations into harmony with what the Constitution requires and what has been emphatically reaffirmed by the Supreme Court in the matter of segregated schools."

"Yesterday's amendment, however, will imperil the object of making the Negro vote effective. . . . The difficulty of persuading a southern jury to return a verdict against a white man on the complaint of a Negro is so notorious that Senator Knowland has described that amendment as a fatal blow to the bill and Vice-President Nixon has spoken of 'one of the saddest days in the history of the Senate, because this was a vote against the right to vote.'"

HEALTH FOR ALL

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Like the good citizen you are, when the chest x-ray bus came to town, you stepped up and had your annual chest picture taken. You felt perfectly well, but you had learned that people can have tuberculosis without knowing it.

You didn't feel so good when you got the report. You were advised to have another larger x-ray. Did that mean you had TB after all? You didn't waste any time getting to your doctor. It was tough waiting to find out what the big x-ray would show. And there was a shadow, all right. The doctor pointed it out on the film. You hit bottom. TB. . . . a hospital. . . . what about the family. . . . the job?

"Now don't rush off," the doctor ordered. "We're a lot more things to find out before we decide. 'I'll tell you frankly it looks like TB, but it could be a case of mistaken identity.'"

New Words

You learned some new words. The doctor explained there are at least ten other conditions that can sometimes be confused with TB: pulmonary fibrosis, bronchiectasis, histodon Johnson, the leader of the Democratic majority in the United States Senate, has achieved his purpose. This is not to advance or retard the day when all Negroes in the South shall have an effective right to vote; it is to keep the Democratic party united. . . . He can look forward to seeing his party take over the Presidency when Mr. Eisenhower retires—provided that its extreme wings, northern liberals and southern conservatives, do not meanwhile fly asunder on the racial issue. The amendments to the civil rights bill which the Senate carried yesterday is a compromise designed to avert such a split. It concedes half of the South's demand for jury trial in all contempt cases arising out of voting rights. . . . At the same time, the amendment offers the northern liberals a bait by extending jury trial to all cases of 'criminal contempt' . . . This, as we may see, is a bi-colored rock-python of an amendment.

"President Eisenhower and other unholders of Negro voting rights need not feel wholly thwarted. The southern senators have kept up their old prophecies of doom; but they have shown themselves aware that it is no longer enough to filibuster and block any sort of advance. They have let in the thin end of the legislative wedge. . . . The vote should be seen as one step in that slow, confused, noisy, but still forward movement—the attainment by southern Americans of better states of mind."

point the Levittown situation and similar ones over the country as an 'organized invasion' of neighborhoods instead of recognizing that Negro families are just exercising their right to buy a decent home in a decent neighborhood according to their ability to pay.

"Negroes have been in America for 338 years and will be here for some time to come. Other citizens will be more comfortable if they accommodate themselves to this fact."

Wilkins said the NAACP, through its regional office in Philadelphia, plasmosis, coccidioidomycosis—a and some more names you couldn't pronounce, much less spell. You learned that skin tests, including a tuberculin test, serologic tests, biopsy, and more x-rays could be taken to find out for sure.

The doctor started by getting a history of places you had lived all your life. Some fungus diseases resembling TB on x-ray are prevalent in certain areas of the country, he explained. He might get a clue. And he did. The tests checked out.

You've since learned how to spell and pronounce histoplasmosis—your legacy from the Middle West. You had a benign case—one that didn't bother you—some time ago. It cleared up, but left its shadow behind to give you a few bad moments of worry.

You learned quite a lot from the experience. . . . a lot about modern scientific diagnosis, about fungus diseases, about how it feels to face tuberculosis, and how good it feels to know for sure that you're healthy. You make a silent but solemn resolution to do everything possible to keep yourself that way.

Boxing takes a lot of abuse and a lot of it is deserved. The fight between Heavyweight Champion Patterson and the Olympic Champ Pete Rademacher certainly deserved a panning if any ever did. Some writer said Rademacher was the first person to become a has been before he ever was anything. Then there is the latest rhubarb between Middleweight Champ Sugar Robinson and the International Boxing Club, over the radio and television rights to his fight with Carmen Basilio. Sugar Ray threatened to walk out on the fight if he can't have this way. We think he has a contract to fulfill and that running out would be asking for trouble. But it looks as if Robinson doesn't mind trouble when he thinks he is right.

Boxing really needs a czar or overseer or someone who can have the final word.

Tennis

The Hilltoppers returned from the American Tennis Association meet at Wilberforce all pepped up and ready for another year's work. Hope they had a good time. They might tell us how they made out. As we recall Esther Myers was to play doubles with Lena Walden of San Diego, Cal. Wonder how they did.

While we are at it we didn't agree too much with the recent criticism of Althea Gibson. Some people just can't talk to reporters or other strangers. We have a fellow here in Des Moines who has two legs on our traveling trophy. Everyone said he was arrogant and stuck up, but the guy plays mixed doubles with a Negro even when he has to take on better partners and do better. He just didn't know how to talk to people and after the ice is broken, is a very likeable chap and gentleman.

Oh yes, our Cedar Rapids friends told me that I neglected to tell about the lively poker sessions I sat in while I was there. The people are very generous. So I evidently did just a bit more than eat and sleep.

THIS THREAD CALLED LIFE

How tenuous this thread called life
Sheer filaments, that stretch so fine:
A gossamer and fragile line
That holds, so tight, through storm
And strife.

Tenaciously they cling to earth
These elements that strive to rise,
To reach above to the skies:
While shackled to the soil of birth.
The Spinner cards the thread to hold
And weaves on His celestial loom:
From embryo, to final doom
Strange patterns of all lives unfold.

YOU DECIDE

(First American Serial Rights Only)
Some men say that all women are fickle
And just as silly as silly can be
I will not approve such statement because anyone can plainly see Some men's minds are cluttered with darkness
And desperately seeking to find
A helpmate that is tender and loving
A helpmate that is loving and kind.
Some day he will march to the altar
And hear a kind old deacon say—

"Will you take her for better or worse
Until your dying day?"
He will stand motionless at the altar
Acting neither brave nor bold
When he hears of his obligations
As he adjusts that band of gold.
Now, I am just a mortal man
At times, I am sour as a pickle
But I always manage to muzzle my mouth
And don't call all women silly and fickle.

Christian Minister

"Rev. Pleasure comes to us with excellent qualifications and a splendid sense of dedication to the task to be done here. First of all, he is a Christian minister whose dedication to Freedom, Justice, and the principles of non-violence is without question. Secondly, he is a young man who is well prepared to undertake the challenge offered by the task which confronts him here." A native of New Orleans, Louisiana, Rev. Pleasure attended Dillard University, of that city, graduating with honors. From there he was awarded Ford Foundation Fellowship for further study at Harvard University where he earned the Masters degree. Prior to this appointment Rev. Pleasure worked for two years as Alumni Secretary at Dillard University.

"We, here in Montgomery, are pleased to welcome such a capable and promising person to join in our struggle for first-class citizenship and the betterment of the Negro people," Rev. King concluded. Danny Thomas
Builds Interracial
Hospital in Memphis

Philadelphia, Pa.—Fourteen years ago Danny Thomas made a promise. That small promise will soon turn into a $2,000,000 hospital.

Danny, a longtime night club comedian who rose to TV heights as a harrassed father of a TV family, reveals in TV Guide that while he was a struggling entertainer he made a vow to St. Jude, the patron saint of the despairing, that should he achieve show-business success he would erect a shrine in the saint's honor.

The small shrine Danny once envisioned has grown into a $2,000,000 St. Jude Hospital which will be erected on a 10-acre site in Memphis, Tennessee. The hospital will be devoted to the care of children, the study of leukemia, and related blood diseases. It will be free to all regardless of race, color or creed.

Paul Williams, a long time friend of Danny's and prominent Negro architect, designed the 128-bed hospital. Williams donated his services.

Calvin Garland
Fined $50

Calvin Garland, 24, of 902 Twenty-fourth st., was fined $50 by Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund Wednesday after pleading guilty to operating a pawnshop without a license.

Garland, who said he was secretary-treasurer of the B K Club, 1203 Center st., was arrested after police found 35 watches, 7 guns and several pairs of binoculars at the club.

Garland testified he loaned money to members of the club—which he said was formed for "social purposes"—on pawned articles. He said he loaned a member $50 on one of the guns but that the other guns were "just checked with me."
