Urges President To Appoint His Right's Group

New York—The civil rights bill enacted by Congress on Aug. 29 "can mean much or little depending upon the people President Eisenhower appoints to carry out its provisions and the sincerity with which they devote themselves to the discharge of their responsibilities," asserted a statement issued here on Sept. 1 by the Leadership Conference "on Civil Rights."

The Leadership Conference is composed of 22 organizations, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, signed the joint statement on behalf of the Association.

Cooperation

Urging the President to appoint immediately an Assistant Attorney General and six Commissioners "genuinely devoted to the advancement of civil rights," the statement predicted that if the President does so the bill "can become an important turning point in the struggle toward

Reelect Dr. Jackson Head; Faces Legal Fight; Arrest Four at Baptist Convention

Louisville, Ky.—Dr. J. H. Jackson, reelected to the presidency of the National Baptist Convention, USA, Inc., here last week, faces a legal fight with anti-Jackson forces to hold his seat.

Retained by the anti-Jackson forces was James M. Nabrit, Jr., of Washington, D. C., a noted civil rights attorney, whose immediate job according to his retainers, will be to file for an injunction in Federal court, enjoining President Jackson from holding office until the legality of his election is determined.

Expects Legal Battle

The brewing legal battle which is expected to take place in a Washington, D. C. court, will revolve around the validity of a Constitutional amendment adopted in 1952, limiting Ground Cherries, which are plentiful over the Capital Grounds. Someone on the radio asked this week where to find ground cherries.

Dr. Jackson, now serving his fifth term, personally ruled that the amendment was unconstitutional because it was adopted on the third day of the convention.

The convention Constitution states that no amendment may be considered after the second day of a convention.

These were the latest developments in a noisy, fighting convention which set off demonstrations described as the "wildest in Baptist history."

Louisville police were called in to quell the disturbance of these religious leaders as they took the "sinners way out" in solving their difficulties by fist-fighting and clubbing each other with chairs.

Arrest Four

Four of the chosen delegates were arrested. They included the Rev. Charles C. Wheeler, 43, Chicago; the Rev. William A. Baily, 58, Los Angeles; the Rev. Roy W. Norsworthy, 42, Memphis and Cleveland Jordan, 53, Miss., a farmer.

Others among the shouting spiritual leaders were rushed outside the Jefferson County Armory where Christ-like policemen offer them the choice between the alternatives of Christian conduct of a paddy-wagon ride to the "pokey."

Kasper Arrested

Nashville, Tenn.—At press time, a total of 28 persons had been arrested by Tuesday evening, among them, segregationist John Kasper, who was taken into custody in city court as he sought to make bonds for some of his followers.

Kasper was charged with disorderly and offensive conduct, vagrancy and loitering. G. H. Aikens, whom police identified as Kasper's bodyguard, also was charged with vagrancy and loitering.

Early Wednesday, Kasper had been arrested for the third time in 12 hours and charged with inciting to riot.

Nashville, Tenn.—Police arrested five men for questioning early Tuesday, a few hours after a massive dynamite blast wrecked a newly integrated half-million dollar elementary school here.

Three of the men were seized by Assistant Police Chief F. W. Muller when they refused to move from the vicinity of another grammar school. That school, like the dynamited one, was among six where white and Negro first-graders went to classes for the first time Monday, Sept. 9.

50 Feet of Wire

The other two men, including a brother of the first three, were taken into custody by Sgt. H. B. Cobb and Patrolman Robert Searcy. The officers said they found at the pairs homes, 50 feet of wire of a type used with the explosives that wrecked the Hattie Cotton Grammar School.

The first three arrested were charged with unlawful possession of weapons and ordered held under bonds of $25,000 each. They were booked as Vernon Albert Crimmons, 32; James R. Harris, 47, and J. B. Blackwell, 42.

The other two arrested, identified as Carol Crimmons, brother of Vernon, and W. C. Hodge, were charged with vagrancy and held under $250 bonds each.

Dynamite Device

Muller said that in the car of the first three men arrested he found a dynamite detonating device, a heavily weighted billy club with "KKK" carved on the handle, two heavy wooden mallets and a length of wire of the type used in setting off explosives.

The car, Muller said, was plastered with numerous "KKK" signs. Muller said the three men had been seen Monday at all grammar schools where there were violent anti-integration demonstrations.

Muller said they also had been seen at rallies held here by John Kasper, New Jersey-born segregationist.

A dynamite blast rocked the Hattie Cotton Grammar School shortly after midnight Tuesday morning, Sept. 10.

The blast rocked the entire neighborhood.

20 Leaders of American Industry Agree on Equal Job Opportunity Emblem

Washington, D. C.—Twenty leaders of American industry who employ a total of more than 350,000 people, have agreed to use an Equal Job Opportunity emblem in their help-wanted newspaper advertising this autumn, according to the President's Committee on Government Contracts.

Committee designed the emblem—which proclaims "Equal Job Opportunity for All Qualified Applicants"—as a part of its program to eliminate discrimination because of race, religion, color or national origin in work done under Government contract.

In the Press Sunday

The emblem is first scheduled for use in newspaper advertising on Sunday, September 15. It will appear in magazine recruitment advertising in September and in October.

In proposing the use of the emblem the Committee pointed out that although opportunities for skilled employment are increasing for qualified members of minority groups, this fact is not sufficiently well known among them and not enough of them are applying for the position open to them. The lack of knowledge about expanding job opportunities also restricts the training objectives of the youth of minority groups, the Committee said.

Potential Candidate

The use of the emblem "will notify all potential candidates of a company."

President of Des Moines YMCA Signs Contracts for Building of New Structure

James W. Wallace, President of the Des Moines Young Men's Christian Association, announced this week that he had signed contracts for the construction of a new Central YMCA. The eight story structure will be built on the river front between Locust Street and Grand Avenue. In his statement Mr. Wallace had this to say:

The city of Des Moines has long needed the facilities of a new, adequate Central YMCA. The present structure, built in 1912 when Des Moines was a town of 86,000, has long been obsolete. The new building is planned to serve the needs of greater Des Moines.

"In 1955 a citywide Capital Fund Campaign for the new YMCA was concluded with the very gratifying results of $2,387,000 being pledged. A number of committees were appointed, and the work of planning the building proceeded promptly.

Plans Released

"The plans and specifications were released to contractors in April, 1957, and the bids were opened on June 5th. We found that we needed

Keokuk, Ia.—Miss Gloria Lee Parsons, 1626 Fulton, president of North Missouri Baptist Youth tell of her trip to Hollister, Mo.

"I spent an enjoyable week (August 19 to 23) at the Missouri State Youth Convention in Hollister, Mo. It was held on the Baptist Assembly ground above Lake Toneycome in the Ozarks. My district paid my transportation and boarding.

"The location is very beautiful especially in the morning and evening. The mist rising from the lake in the morning with the streaks of sunlight peeping through, cannot be rivaled except by the sunset, and looked like a beautiful picture. Those attending from my district were state camp pastor, Rev. H. L. Johnson and his wife president of the State; junior matron, Mrs. G. E. Sanders; district director, Arletha Howard and Joyce Johnson of Palmyra, Mo.

140 Registered

"We went by car stopping in Jefferson City, Mo., accompanying for the rest of the trip, Rev. B. D. Clatter and Nigerian Missionary Emanuel Banyai.

"We arrived at 3:30 a.m. Monday. There were 140 registered by Monday noon including Theophilus Admajivi and E. Banyai both of Nigeria. Talks by these two men were greatly appreciated. I took part in program every evening except Wednesday.

"I was crowned 'Princess' in our coronation service Tuesday evening. This is the third in our Girls Auxiliary. Recreation was a trip to Marvel Caves and Ping Pong. All districts dress up night consisted of girls in formal and boys in dress suits. This night was highlight of the Encampment. Simple Meal for Saturdays!

WE'RE FOR WORKING WIVES who, when Saturday rolls around, like to forget about work . . . and have fun! However, we like good food, and we don't choose to deny ourselves that pleasure . . . so we plan ahead to make Saturday's meals EASY and QUICK. Here's one menu we'd like to share: Meat loaf . . . mix it the night before and refrigerate; bake it on Saturday while you play! Poppy seed rolls . . . wrap in foil and pop into the oven during the last few minutes of baking the meat. A big green salad . . . wash greens and leave them in crisper during day; add dressing at the last minute. And for a delectable dessert—these maple peaches, that can be baked with the meat loaf, too, and served warm. If you like, pass a pitcher of thick cream to top the fruit.

MAPLE PEACHES
(using fresh peaches)
5 whole fresh peaches, peeled
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup Log Cabin Syrup
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon mace

Place peaches in greased baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over peaches. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 15 minutes. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer, basting occasionally. Serve warm. Makes 5 servings.

'Sometimes What A Child Has to Say is More Important Than Our Own Casual Chat'

BY LLOYD LOVELL, SUI ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

Five-year-old Jimmy Smither was breathlessly explaining to his mother that he had just figured out how to make a trailer hitch so that he could tow his new wagon behind his tricycle. Just then Mr. Smither came home from work. "Hi," he said. "Wait till you hear what Jack said to the boss this afternoon."

Mrs. Smither smiled. "Jimmy's just invented a trailer hitch for his tricycle. Can your news wait a minute?" she asked. Mr. Smither grinned and sat down to listen.

A few days later, Jimmy was prattling when Mr. Smither came home with some interesting news.

S.E. Fifth Street, mother of Miss Knox, and another daughter, Mario Calderon, 17, and Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Maretha Singleton, were fined Aug. 23 by Judge Grund. All appealed to district court.

By stipulation between McKnight and City Attorney I. Joel Pasternak, the testimony given at the hearing of the other three women was allowed to apply to Miss Knox. No other testimony was given.

Miss Knox was in Mercy Hospital for surgery at the time of the first trial.

When Jimmy continued talking, his mother asked him to wait until his father had finished his story. Jimmy protested, "But Wednesday Daddy had to wait for me to finish."

No Reason

Jimmy's perplexity was understandable, but his mother's decision was probably a reasonable one. Not everything we adults say is highly valuable, and neither is all of the conversation a child makes. While few parents really feel that children's place is to be seen and never heard, there seems no reason to feel that they should be heard before everyone else, either.

We are able to defer our more trivial conversation until more important topics are ended, and sometimes what a child has to say is more important than our own casual chat. But fathers and mothers have a right to speak first when what they say is important, and children can be helped to learn this fact. Jimmy's mother was helping him learn that much of what he had to say was interesting and important, but that sometimes other people had interesting things to say, too.

Listening to children's endless questions and rambling conversations can be tiring. Certainly every other person need not wait always for the child to finish talking. The peace of the family and the child's learning the requirements of polite conversation are probably best served when the child is helped to have his share of conversational time and to understand what share of it is fair for him to have.

Says Defiance by Faubus 'Endangers Wide Variety Of Rights and Privileges'

New York—The defiance of Federal authority at Little Rock, Ark., by Gov. Orval Faubus "threatens the entire concept of a Federal union and endangers a wide category of rights and privileges of citizens of the United States wherever they may live," President Eisenhower was told in a telegram Sept. 5.

The wire, sent by Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said the use of state troops by Gov. Faubus to prevent Negro students from attending Central high school pursuant to a Federal court order stemmed from an idea that "states and regions are free to decide whether to abide by the Constitution and the Federal court rulings or not, as they see fit."

Asserting that such an idea must not be allowed to stand "unchallenged and unclarified," the President was urged by the NAACP leader to take steps "to preserve the authority of our national government in the Little Rock and any other similar situation."

President Urged

The Chief Executive was reminded that on July 2 Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia had made a "bayonet" speech in the Senate expressing his horror at the thought of

Squirrel, Rabbit Seasons Get Underway Saturday

Iowa's 1957 hunting season swings into action throughout the state Saturday with the start of the open seasons for squirrels and rabbits.

Hunting for squirrels will continue through November 15 with a daily bag limit of six (6) fox or gray squirrels per day. Possession limit after the first day is twelve (12).

Cottontail and jackrabbit hunting will continue through January 31, 1958. Shooting hours are from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, with a bag limit of ten (10) per day. There is no possession limit.

Conversation are probably best served when the child is helped to have his share of conversational time and to understand what share of it is fair for him to have.

Federal troops being sent into the South, but that today "state troops carrying arms and equipment purchased and furnished them by the United States are defying the government of their country."

The NAACP wire declared Negro citizens were proud of the "brave and dignified deportment of their youngsters in the face of provocative and degrading mob action" and, while particularly interested in the immediate situation, were "deeply concerned" over the effect of general defiance of Federal authority.

Baptist Heads Hopes For President From the South

Louisville, Ky.—The leader of the world's largest Negro religious group has expressed hope for a president from the south.

Dr. Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the National Baptist Convention, U. S. A., made the statement Friday when he introduced Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma to the convention.

Dr. Jackson later was asked why Negroes would support a presidential candidate from an area leading the fight to maintain racial segregation.

Great Leaders

He replied, "There are great leaders in the south. The only thing that stands between them and great victory (as presidential candidate) is the little tradition of segregation, which will be overcome."

He said Gary and Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky are "broad-minded citizens" who possess some of the qualities a presidential candidate needs. Both Gary and Chandler spoke out against segregation before the convention.

$1,200,000 more to complete the project. The problem was presented to many of the substantial contributors and outstanding business leaders of Des Moines. They advised that we must go ahead because further delay would in all probability mean added costs. These business men in recent weeks have made additional pledges of nearly $600,000. This is concrete evidence that many outstanding citizens in Des Moines feel that the YMCA contributes a real service to the community. Erection of this building will add a great deal to the beauty of the downtown area and river front.

"I am signing contracts on behalf of the YMCA with the low bidders with full knowledge that approximately $600,000 is still needed. We believe the good will and generosity of the citizens of Des Moines will bring success to this project. I have presented the facts to the Appeals Board of Review of the Chamber of Commerce and they have unanimously granted approval for a city-wide effort for approximately $600,000 to be conducted late next spring.

"Speaking for the Board of Directors and the Staff of the YMCA, I wish to express thanks for the wonderful support given the YMCA over the past many years by the citizens and business organizations of Des Moines. Your continued support will enable the YMCA to better serve this growing community."

Personal Touch
By MARIE ROSS

A travel note arrived last week from a Des Moines resident, Mrs. Bearie Bailey, 825 Tenth Street, who was attending the National Convention in Louisville, Ky. She sent greetings from Kentucky on a picture postcard and added that Louisville is a "beautiful city to see," with hot weather.

During the week end Mrs. Bailey returned home from Louisville, along with several other residents who went there to attend the convention.

Talking with several of the delegates and visitors who attended the convention, it is amazing the strange stories that one gets about some of the activities that took place in sessions of the Baptist Convention in Kentucky. With all of the integration battles raging, one would think that the churchmen would have spent their extra time on their knees—praying.

One person in Des Moines who likes to talk about her homeland, Kentucky, the blue grass state, is Mrs. John Guess, 1157 Twelfth street. Though she has lived here many years, the Iowan was unaware that some of the same plants that she remembers picking in her native state, also grow in Iowa.

Mrs. Guess and I got to talking one cold and chilly day about "Boneset Tea"—and how she used to have to take it when she was growing up.

"You know I haven't seen any Boneset since I left Kentucky," Mrs. Guess informed.

"Well, you don't have to go back to Kentucky to find Boneset growing," I informed.

"Why the Iowa Statehouse grounds—on the far south side—near the railroad tracks have hills of the tall white, flower-headed plants growing.

Some people, especially Missouri natives call the plant Indian Sage—and other know it as Boneset—an old household remedy that many of our grandparents and early Americans stood up for winter and spring teas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Anderson, 1357 DeWolf Street, returned recently from Canada where they spent their vacation.

"The old books say of Boneset that it saved many a doctor's bill, and there's still many a bagful hung from the rafters in the garrets of old country homes."

Instead of making teas, Boneset taffy was often substituted for the tea and was easier to take.

If you like to roam the countryside—you don't have to go miles outside of the city to find many of nature's beautiful wildplants.

For your winter bouquets of dried flowers—to be painted, silvered or gilded—the tall plants of fragrant thistle, the tall shafts of the velvety Mullen; the bursting pods of the Milkweed, the feathery deep purple of the tall Ironweeds can be seen over the hill, near the railroad tracks beyond the cultivated section of the State Capital grounds.

I included in a bouquet I picked Saturday, a branch, loaded with Ground Cherries, which are plentiful over the Capital Grounds.

'Few People Know How Sugar Ray Robinson Stuck by Althea Gibson When She Was Roaming (N. Y.) Teenager'

WITH DOLORES CALVIN
New York City—(Calvin News Service)—Dorothy Dandridge's press people certainly ought to take advantage of all the front page headlines and get the newspapers some glamorous pictures of the star to run with it . . . One New York daily ran the same photo of Dot in a different size each day to break the monotony.

The Steve Allen-Pearl Bailey routines are so adorable they keep repeating—the idea of a musical duet . . . What Johnny Mathis needs is a big buildup a la Sinatra and Presley—and he'd be one of the biggest stars in the country.

It did our hearts good to see and hear one of our favorite actors, Frank Sinatra, take the lead on "Studio One" TV and turn in one of the most appealing performances we've seen on that summer series . . . As a concert guitarist who, poor but proud, defies the vogue of modern flamingo guitar playing, to stick by the classics, even in face of losing his job and security for his family—

Silvera does credit to his profession and his race . . . Playing the part of a Spanish-speaking American living in Greenwich Village, Silvera was a little darker than the rest—but that didn't bother anyone . . . They caressed him and treated him as a real father and friend . . . Silvera, with his thinning hair at the top, and his sensitive, creative fingers, made a most impressive artist.

Never had we seen such a heart-warming, sensitive story with a Negro in the lead of an all-white cast . . . a story about poor people yet without any racial angle . . .

The story is a simple one . . . A poor guitarist with a wife, son, babe-in-arms and another on the way, refuses to teach guitar lesson to a neighborhood youth who shows no love for the instrument . . . The wife then tells her husband in few words, he is too poor to be so proud and the children must eat . . . The guitarist passes a pawn shop in pouring rain, holds on to his beloved instrument and joins his pals, who all suffer from the same disease, poverty . . . Next the guitarist tries in earnest to convince a cheap chiseler looking agent that he is a good soloist but soon gets discouraged at the lack of interest and seemingly gives up . . . Then, at the right moment, a job comes to light: his wife's cousin is leaving for Hollywood and needs a replacement at the small cafe. The pay is fair but there is one catch: he must play "flamingo" guitar—a form of

Mrs. Manuel Returns From Louisville

MRS. DOROTHY MANUEL
Mrs. Dorothy Manuel, 1425 Maryland Avenue, returned Sunday from Louisville, Ky., where she spent a ten-day vacation. She also attended the National Baptist Convention which was in session.

Mrs. Manuel was house guest of Mrs. Agnes Montgomery. She was taken on sight-seeing trips to Churchill Downs the home of the Kentucky Derby, to the new veterans hospital, the largest in the country; and the Kentucky State Fair. She is a member of Corinthian Baptist Church.

rock and roll . . . The poor guitarist is a lover of the classic and refuses to change . . . But to feed his family he must . . .

The second half shows his great determination to please the public, but his soul tears at him and he stops in the middle of a fast number to announce he will play classics . . . A pin could be heard falling . . . At first the public is rebellious, but soon they get used to the idea . . . The old crowd remembers the days: the young ones find the love themes haunting and beautiful . . . The poor guitarist is now a hit . . . No drinks are served as he plays . . . Soon the crowds take him to their hearts and hoist him in triumphant fashion . . . When a top critic tries to describe his great artistry into words, our guitarist breaks down . . .

His friends are so many, and all there to share in his joy . . . His wife is so proud—his son tells him he's the best . . . No one notices his pants are too short and he cannot afford a new pair . . . At the end of his work—at the cafe, the cousin returns, and jealously fires him . . . To a sensitive, creative man, this is a frightful blow which hurts him to his heart . . . But he cannot tell his family—their hopes are so high . . . All ends happily when a big concert manager is eager to sign him . . . We know that from there on, the little guitarist with a heart big enough for everyone will make the grade . . . And we hope that Silvera enjoys more roles on this order: as he does them supreme justice. . . .

Few people know how Sugar Robinson stuck by Althea Gibson all the days when she was a roaming teenager, uncertain of her career and knocking around New York streets.

Now it comes, out how he gave her $125 to buy a saxophone many years ago as she's very interested in music and loves to sing . . . Althea bought the sax—paid the $125 for it in a pawnshop but later a friend took her back and told the shop owner he had cheated her . . . She got $25 back . . . Another time, Althea wrote letters to all her "friends" asking for some or all of $15 for her class ring for the high school graduation. Many of those who didn't answer are trailing her now as big boosters . . . But it was Sugar Ray only who wrote and sent her the whole $15. Which all proves, publicity about Sugar Ray being generous and throwing his money away can be clarified with the fact that the champ helps young people get ahead without thought of payment or gain.

MANY A YOUNGSTER
NEEDS GUIDANCE

Now that the school year has begun, it is a good time to make some suggestions pertaining to the youngsters. Of course, most people are prone to venture advice as to just what might be done to help them get started right.

As much as the school officials like to help youngsters with their problems, there is a limit to which they may go. Often they are called upon to do a job which ordinarily belongs to the home. Home youngsters come from homes that cannot help them and must be helped by some other source.

All of our smart youngsters don't come from the well-to-do. Often promising youngsters, come from down behind the tracks and need only a chance to prove their worth.

It is not always easy to find youngsters who need guidance nor those whose situation warrant special consideration. There is much talk in the schools today of pushing students through as fast as they are able to go. This, no doubt, has merit but its operation is in the primary stage.

On more than one occasion, the Bystander has suggested that character building organizations such as the Y.M.C.A. and Willkie House could do much to help some of these youngsters find themselves. These organizations are headed by men who have training which could serve well to point out the value of an education, of making best grades possible, or conducting themselves so as to cultivate the habit of being good citizens. They can organize laymen who could help.

They could learn the source of scholarships available which could be had if the youngsters worked for them; that athletics are important but are incidental to their education and that they must keep their studies up in order to be eligible to compete.

This proposal at least merits a try. The Bystander would do its share to help.

NO EFFORT MADE TO PREVENT TROUBLE

Before Louisville, Ky., opened their integrated schools, officials took every precaution to prepare the public for a peaceful change from the old system and it worked very well.

Gov. Faubus of Arkansas did just the opposite. He claims as an excuse for calling out the national guard that he had evidence of pending violence. But he took no action to prevent this "impending violence" which he claims to have known about.

It is evident that the Arkansas governor has concocted a new scheme to violate the law of the land; that he has placed the state above the federal government in matters over which the latter has jurisdiction.

Now that Judge Davis has ordered the governor into court to show cause why an injunction should not be issued against the latter's interference with school integration, the issues are drawn and if the attorney general stands his ground, a clear cut program will be carved out as to the rights of each branch of our government.

On the other hand, if the attorney general backs down or in any way pulls the rug from under Justice Davis' feet, a sorry mess will develop which will make integration more difficult in each community.

The program of Gov. Faubus, John Kasper and other leaders of hate has placed a terrible mental attitude in many people. In fact, this is true where racial disturbance occurs.

This may well be illustrated by a glance at the faces of men, women and children who make up the angry mobs. They have hate written all over them—an attitude which spells trouble for any community.

Gov. Faubus' conduct in Arkansas has made it doubly embarrassing for our state department to deal with Russia in the effort of both countries to woo the friendship of darker races. And if the state department thinks these tactics don't hurt, then it is blind to what it takes to make men love and respect each other.

The blast demolished the entire west wall of the west wing of the school and knocked out lights in many parts of the city.

Fifteen Negroes were admitted to first grades at six Nashville schools Monday, Sept. 9.

In Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala. A Negro pro-integration leader, said his 12-year-old daughter was injured by a score of white men here Monday when he sought to enter Negro students in all-white Phillips High School.

The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth was cut and bruised when he was knocked down several times. His daughter Ruby suffered a leg injury.

Three white men were taken into custody by police. Shuttlesworth was attacked as he got out of his car.

"Large Chains"

Nathaniel Lee, 17-year-old Negro who was seeking to enter the school, said the men attacked Shuttlesworth with "brass knuckles and large link chains. The men gathered around the car and knocked out the windows."

After Shuttlesworth was attacked, he made his way back to the car and drove away. There was no immediate explanation as to how his daughter was hurt.

Police identified the white men held for questioning, as W. H. Cash, 50; I. F. Gaudin, 42, and J. E. Breckinridge, 26, all of Birmingham.

In Little Rock

Little Rock, Ark.—The U. S. Government Tuesday, Sept. 10, ordered Gov. Orval E. Faubus to appear in federal court Sept. 20 and the governor, standing on the lawn in front of his heavily guarded mansion, accepted the summons.

This was the federal government's critical legal move to open the doors of Central High School in Little Rock to Negro students.

The Sept. 20 hearing will be on the government's petition for a preliminary injunction against Faubus and two subordinates. It calls on them to stop interfering with a federal court order to enroll the Negroes in the high school.

First Violence

White students threw back six Negro youths who tried Monday, Sept. 9, to enter North Little Rock High School. It was the first actual violence of Arkansas's turbulent racial crises.

North Little Rock, a separate city, is across the Arkansas River from week's federal court order directing Little Rock schools to desegregate immediately does not apply to North Little Rock schools.

In a nationwide television interview, Governor Faubus directly challenged and contradicted President Eisenhower's denial that FBI agents have tapped the telephone line into the Governor's mansion.

The Governor said that he did not consider himself in contempt of the federal court order for immediate desegregation of the high school.

About 10 white students met the six Negroes at the top of the steps leading into the North Little Rock school.

They grabbed the six and hustled and shoved them down the steps and across the campus almost to the street before police broke up the trouble. None of the Negroes was injured.

No national guardsmen were on duty, but six patrolmen guarded the school which opened Monday for the fall term.

The Negroes then made another attempt to enter.

School Supt. F. B. Wright walked out of the building and gestured for the Negroes to follow him into the school.

Once again they climbed the steps. Reinforcements flocked to the white students. Five adults joined them.

One adult, identifying himself as L. S. Stroud and father of a girl student, shouted, "They shall not pass."

"When Wright sought to escort the the United States will move steadily forward to secure to every citizen of the United States the rights guaranteed by the Constitution and the Supreme Court," the statement declared.

HEALTH FOR ALL

AWAY TO SCHOOL

It's a milestone in your life—the day you send the first bird out of the nest the day he goes away to college. Fortunately, he'll never know how much you're worrying and wondering how he'll get along.

Worry, of course, will get you nowhere. You won't be there to get him up in time to eat breakfast before his first class. You can't remind him to drink his milk or eat his vegetables or brush his teeth or get eight hours of sleep. In the first burst of freedom, he may break some of the rules of health you've helped him follow for years. Consider yourself with the fact that it probably won't do a healthy boy permanent damage. Before long he'll return to the good health habits you have instilled.

For your own peace of mind, as well as for his health, be sure he gets a complete physical check-up before he leaves home. Some colleges will give him a physical after he reaches campus. Most will ask for a report from the family doctor, but they vary considerably in the amount of information required. It's up to you to see that the boy has a head-to-toe examination, including a tuberculin test. If the test shows that he has tuberculosis germs in his system, the doctor may advise a chest x-ray. You'll want to be sure that TB isn't hiding beneath that healthy summer tan. TB has wrecked too many promising college careers.

As the parent of a college student, you'll want to know more about college health problems and programs. Your local tuberculosis association can get for you a copy of THE COLLEGE AND STUDENT HEALTH by Ethel L. Ginsburg. This little volume will help you understand what's needed to protect your boy's health in the important years ahead.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

We watched the little league football setup for the first time last week end. The kids run, block and tackle like high school boys. "The only weak point in their play is kicking."

The Northeast Rams, we think, the guys in dark blue shirts, look like the best-organized team. They had about a half dozen Negroes in their roster and a couple of them were real big league runners. Dennis Jackson was just about the best of the lot. Then there was another young fellow named Chapp, who played on a losing team, who was a good runner. Kid named Holmes made some fine tackles as did a young line-backer.

We don't think the parents need to worry too much about the kids getting hurt. They have as much protection as any team, one could think of, and they are well drilled in fundamentals. We can recall when boys of that age from even to fourteen played football without any uniforms or supervision and it wasn't always on a grass field. And no

Negroes into the building, a burly youth shoved himself in front of the oncoming group.

"If you want to stay in this school, you'd better get out of the way," Wright told the youth sharply.

An estimated 250 persons surged around the Negroes.

Wright gave up the attempt and told the Negro youths: "Nothing can be gained at this time by you boys presenting yourselves again."

One of the students asked: "Is this an official denial?"

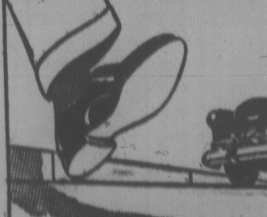

Wright said: "This is an official denial."

Then he read an order from the school board saying integration would not begin at this time. Wright suggested that the boys return to the all-Negro Jones High School.

A SMALL EXPERIMENT

The proton and the neutron
We know, are minuscule:
They are dependent always
On each other all the way.
But envy being very small
As every christian knows:
Can travel almost everywhere

And where it lands, it grows!
That being true, it must then be
That if there's fertile ground,
Each atom's an entity
And there it could be found.
The proton and the neutron
Could go from bad to worse,
And be consumed by envy:
Like this "balled-up" universe!

Perhaps this pattern that we see
Is not the ultimate: the course
Of human destiny, is charted in the infinite. The flying aeons passing by, are as a twinkle in God's eye: so man is not omnipotent
But just one small experiment!

Chicago NAACP Suggests Program
To End City's Racial Clashes

Chicago—A program to end this city's racial disturbances was proposed by the president of the Chicago NAACP branch at a public meeting here last week.

The Sept. 1 meeting was called by the Coordinating Council for Civil Rights. A statement of William Abner, Chicago NAACP president, read for him in his absence, dealt with NAACP policy and action regarding racial violence such as that which occurred recently at Calumet Park.

Calumet Park was the scene of a racial clash on July 28 when some 75 Negro picnickers were stoned by whites and the windows of some of the Negroes' automobiles smashed.

Mr. Abner's statement held the "fundamental problem" of racial disturbances here to be that Chicago is "a segregated city—segregated housing and de facto segregated schools are the rule, not the exception." With this situation, the statement continued, "how can there be racial friendships and amity without racial understanding? And how can there be racial understanding without association?"
